A SALUTE TO 4-H FARM SAFETY

National Farm Safety Week is being observed throughout rural America, July 23-29. Therefore we feel that now is the time to salute another nation-wide safety activity in progress 365 days a year.

It is the 4-H and Home Safety program carried on by nearly half a million 4-H Club members between the ages of 10 and 21. We are told that these youth—who conduct safety surveys of their home farms and neighboring farmsteads—have the best organized safety program in the rural field. They not only ferret out hazards, but follow through and correct thousands of unsafe conditions relating to farm machinery, livestock, homemaking, recreation, motoring, and scores of other things.

Since the project was launched on a national basis eight years ago, enrollment has increased five times. This would indicate that our farm boys and girls have steadily become more safety minded. It means, also, that in addition to the 4-Hers themselves, safety education has reached parents, residents of the local community, club leaders, and extension personnel.

So it seems a foregone conclusion that many times the half-million young folks taking part in the 4-H program are influenced and benefited. Perhaps this widespread flux of safety knowledge will prove to be a direct route to decreasing the 17,500 fatal accidents to farm people each year; or save some of the 35,000 farm buildings destroyed by fire; or put to constructive use the $1,000,000,000 in losses annually represented by these disasters.

For furthering 4-H farm safety education, we take off our hats to General Motors for its interest in rural youth and its public spirited action in providing $10,000 in awards annually; to the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work for arranging the program; and to the Cooperative Extension Service for directing the activity.

MANANA!

Well, start saving your money. And get on the social security rolls! A Mexico City dispatch says that for only $116 a month, the pensioner can live in a colonial house overlooking the sea, have a maid, two gardeners and a troubadour to sing during dinner. Even in fashionable Acapulco you can get room and board for $45 a month. There are no Mexican taxes on foreign-derived pensions. Food is cheap. Maids, cooks and laundresses can be employed for less than $10 a month.

Here in America we are security-retirement crazy. The government is responsible. The irony of it is that the government which preaches security in old age makes it impossible to live here on what is granted. It has inflated prices so that a $90-a-month pension won't last fifteen days. It would be amusing if a general exodus of Americans over sixty-five headed for Mexico. If that happens—to add more irony—the government will doubtless cut off their social security, after driving them there in the first place.

Since pork is a good meat buy these days, consider these tips. Cook it slowly for a minimum of shrinkage. Cook till well-done and there's no trace of "pinkish" color. Thyme "does something" to pork. Add a generous pinch of casseroles or to stuffings for chops or roasts. Wonderful flavor!

Plastic rain boots that tie on over women's shoes are headed for the market. They'll sell for about $2 and are small enough to tuck into your purse.

Have you tried the vitaminized margarine which comes in the handy Measure-Pak? Each pound is divided into four bars, with each bar a unit of measurement. Inside of carton contains a simple chart showing how to eliminate most messy spoon and cup measuring.

Apple juice, we hear, is next to join dehydrated beverages.

While broccoli is enjoying its annual heyday, serve this delicious dish at least once. Arrange individual servings of cooked broccoli over slices of broiled or broiled ham. Top with sauce made by adding 1/4 cup milk slowly to 1/2 cup real mayonnaise in double boiler. Salt to taste. Lastly, stir in 1 tablespoon lemon juice and a bit of grated lemon rind. Serve hot. M M M M M - good!

Fashion tips for the women: Long dangling earrings are "in" for evening, of course; long gloves crushed below the sleeves are new; scarlet, yellow and navy are Spring favorites; tortoise will have Spring importance in bags, both as a trim and in its entirety. And bags are smaller.

Children Should See Dentist Before School

"Now is an excellent time for school children of all ages to make a trip to their dentists' offices," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer reminds Texas parents. Since school progress is influenced by the pupil's health, which is in turn affected by mouth conditions, it is wise to visit the dentist during the summer vacation and obtain any needed treatment before school starts.

"It is dangerous to assume that there is no need for dental attention simply because a child does not complain of a tooth ache or the parent does not notice any cavities. Only careful examination by a dentist can justify such a conclusion."

Children entering school for the first time are particularly in need of dental attention. Usually they are at the age when the first four permanent teeth, the sixth year molars, appear. Because these erupt before the shedding of any baby teeth, they are often mistaken for baby teeth. Since these are important teeth they should receive early and regular attention by the family dentist.

Postponement of a visit to the dentist may result in pain and discomfort for the child later on. To avoid such suffering and to prevent the development of conditions that may require more dental services at a later date, parents are strongly urged to have their children's teeth examined now. Prompt attention will allow time to correct needed corrections before school opens.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station has launched "plants" program. Plants from many parts of the state will be tested under Texas conditions to see if they can be produced in this state. Some 2,000 plants have been selected and are being grown.

GOOD EQUIPMENT MAKES SEWING MUCH EASIER

Using the right sewing equipment and keeping it in good condition makes the sewing job easier, saves time and labor and permits the sewer to do more satisfactory work. According to Nena Roberson, associate extension clothing specialist of Texas A. & M. College, the right sewing machine, a work table, full view mirror, an ironing board, a sleeve board and iron. The small items of equipment should include shears, scissors, measuring tape, pins, thread, pin cushion and needles to take care of the different sewing jobs.
Good equipment, she says, doesn't remain useful over long periods of time unless it is properly cared for. Know your sewing machine; study the directions that came with it; learn how to set the new needles; to adjust the tension, the stitch and when and where to oil the machine. A sewing machine should be thoroughly cleaned and oiled at least twice each year, and moving parts will need oil more often.
Here are her suggestions on selecting some of the smaller pieces of equipment. The scissors should be made of good steel, the blades true and should cut all the way to the tip. The better grades of scissors and shears, she says, are held together with a nut and bolt instead of a rivet. This is desirable because they can be easily adjusted after sharpening or in case they need tightening. Scissors and shears should be kept to prevent rusting and the use of a wood pocket for storing is recommended.

should be used for the long stitches, fine needles for sewing fine fabrics and coarse needles for coarse stitching. Size 10 needles are probably best for sewing most dress weight fabrics and for fine hand sewing while a size seven or eight is more desirable for sewing the heavier fabrics.
Miss Roberson says the best pins for use on all sewing jobs are the slender, sharp pointed brass pins. They do not rust and can be used for years if they are kept clean and dry.
Sewing, she concludes, can be a task or a pleasure depending upon the kind and amount of sewing equipment you have and on the manner in which it is maintained.

MANY FARM PEOPLE INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Were you or some member of your family among the more than one million farm people who were injured last year as a result of a farm accident? A friend or relative may have been included among the 17,500 who met death in some kind of farm accident during the same period. A majority of these deaths and injuries could have been prevented, says E. C. Martin, assistant state agent for the Texas Extension Service and chairman of the State Farm Safety Committee, if those involved had only stopped to think.

He says that the latest available statistics reveal that farming has moved up from fourth to third place as the most dangerous way of making a living. In 1948, 55 deaths for each 100,000 workers engaged in agriculture were reported. Only the construction industry and mining and quarrying had higher occupational death rates.

The home is the scene of more accidents than any other part of the farm, and falls lead the list of causes. Animal accidents ranked second in the South and West while machinery accidents held second place in the Northeast and North Central section of the nation.

Martin points out that time lost as a result of accidents to farm people amounts to the time needed to plant, cultivate and harvest about one-half of the average annual wheat crop of the nation. Records show that an average of 20 working days are lost by each person injured. The cost in dollars for medical aid, time lost, and property damage from accidents and fires affecting farm people approximates one billion dollars per year to say nothing of the cost in human misery.

Martin says that something can be done to stop this needless loss. He cites as examples the fine records that have been made by the communities that are participating in community improvement programs. The families in these communities have organized for the purpose of making their communities better places in which to live and almost without exception farm safety has been one of their first considerations.

4-H club members in many counties have conducted farm safety surveys and have tagged with the "cross bone" sign all accident hazards they found on the farm. Refugio county 4-H members last year were presented a plaque for having conducted the most outstanding program in the state.

Rural fire companies have been organized in several counties and extensive educational programs on fire prevention have been conducted by the extension service in cooperation with fire department officials and other interested groups.

Martin believes that farm people everywhere must become more conscious of the accident hazards that are present on every farm and in many homes. Corrective measures must be taken and every member of the family must be continually on the alert to see that hazards are removed before an accident happens. When safety on the farm and in the home is practiced every day by every member of the family, the accident rate for farm areas will drop, says Martin.

A New York experiment showed that the amount of soil lost on a 20 percent slope seeded to a continuous corn crop was over 300 times greater than on a slope protected by grass.

A modern grassland machine like the field forage harvester can automatically pick up, chop and load a wagon with up to 15 tons of grass an hour.

Aggies Are Trying To Get Seats For Chapel

Twenty-five Texas Aggies on summer vacation take the field this month throughout the state in a campaign to insure themselves a seat in church at AggieLand this fall.

Answering a call from the Rev. Bob Sneed, director of student religious activities, A. & M. Wesley Foundation, these Aggies are seeking $10,000 for pews in the $150,000 Methodist chapel being completed this year at College Station.

Methodist students at A. & M. will furnish 50 pews for the new sanctuary, with each pew costing $200. The 25 Aggie solicitors have been furnished cards identifying them as "authorized representatives of the Texas Methodist Student Movement and the A. & M. Wesley Foundation."

Urges the Rev. Mr. Sneed: "Have you ever thought what a church without pews would be like?"

Baler twine, first developed 10 years ago, has steadily improved. Some twine available today is so strong that it would take 1300 bales piled one on top of the other before the strands on the bottom bale broke from the tremendous pressure.

Baling as a method of "putting up" hay has increased from 14 percent of the crop in 1939 to more than 50 percent in 1949. Most of this is now baled automatically.

The trend toward growing more grass is just beginning to spread across the country. Yet nearly 200 years ago George Washington wrote: "My countrymen have too little knowledge of the profits of grassland."

Cold-resistant grasses are making possible year-round grazing in moderate climates. Heat-tolerant grasses are extending the Spring grazing period and limiting the slump in Summer growing.

NOW IS TIME TO CULL FLOCKS

Hens that are not laying now are likely to be early molters and thus poor layers, and there is no profit in feeding hens that do not produce eggs, says professor E. D. Parnell of the poultry husbandry department of Texas A. & M. College. These non-producing hens should be removed from the flock by culling and now is a good time to do the job, he adds.

Poultrymen who maintain breeding flocks and produce hatching eggs should keep birds that are good representatives of the breed and are free from standard disqualifications. Breeding birds must also be free of diseases, such as Pullorum, that are transmitted through the hatching eggs. For this reason says Parnell, health is more important in the breeding flock than in a flock that is kept solely for egg production.

Another point that should be given consideration at the time of culling, says Parnell is the age of the birds. In some farm flocks the old hens may be finishing a year of production and in the same flock will be pullets that were hatched this past spring. Parnell says to handle this situation just as if you were culling two separate flocks. The old hens should have frayed, worn plumage, and well faded beaks and shanks while the pullets would be expected to have bright, clean new feathers and yellow shanks.

If the entire flock is culled, it is best to do the job during the early morning hours or late in the afternoon or even at night. The job should be done quickly yet carefully, says Parnell. Too much handling during hot weather, he continues may cause a drop in egg production.

While you are checking such production characteristics as red combs, faded beaks and shanks, worn plumage and soft abdomens, look for vitality and health in the birds. Bright, full eyes are a mark of vigor and good fleshing and general activity are signs of good health. The high producing birds will also have big bodies.

Parnell says that after pullets reach six months of age and have developed good bodies, they should start laying and should continue to lay for at least six months. When they quit laying for any reason other than the yearly molt, they should be culled. He suggests culling the pullet flock once each month or else using a catching hook to pick up those birds that appear to be out of condition.

A strict culling program is one way to cut feed costs, maintain high production and increase the net return from your poultry flock.

Today's automatic twine-tying balers can loop two strands of twine around a bale and tie two knots all automatically, in less time than a man can tie one knot.
