FIRE DESTROYS J. HENDERSON HOME SUNDAY

The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Henderson which is located near Kelton was destroyed by fire Sunday morning between 10:00 o'clock and noon. Origin of the fire was not definitely determined but it was thought that it was caused by defective wiring.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson had just left the house and drove to the church at Kelton when a neighbor drove in behind them to tell them their home was on fire and by the time the Hendersons could return home the house was on fire all over and there was no chance of saving any of its contents.

Shamrock and Wheeler fire departments answered a call to the scene of the fire but there was nothing either of them could do by the time they arrived.

The place did not belong to Mr. Henderson, but he stated that he didn't believe the house was covered by insurance and he knew that the contents of the house was not covered.

As it happened, the wind had not gotten up too high at the time of the fire and none of the other buildings on the place were damaged by it.

NEARLY EVERY BUYER, SELLER IS UNDER OPS

In bringing West Texas business men up to date concerning the pricing program of the Office of Price Stabilization, C. J. Taylor, District price executive, said that every buyer and seller of goods or services, with "very few exceptions," is covered by regulations issued by OPS. Taylor heads the price division of the Lubbock district which includes merchants of Wheeler County.

Contrary to the belief by many merchants that they are exempt, Taylor emphasized that practically every one of them falls under the

PRICE SPECIALIST TO BE IN SHAMROCK

Price Specialist L. R. Shaddix of the district OPS Office will be in Shamrock, Tuesday afternoon, May 8, 1951 to assist business men of this area in complying with the federal pricing program, according to the local chamber of commerce. He may be contacted at Chamber of Commerce Office on that day.

Mr. Shaddix is a specialist in the Consumer Durable Goods branch of the Office of Price Stabilization, but he will be able to give information concerning other regulations, particularly the General Ceiling Price Regulation.

"Practically all business men, excepting those specifically removed by 'tailored' regulations, are covered by the general ceiling price regulation," he said. The OPS Office plans to have a price specialist in Shamrock every Tuesday afternoon to assist businessmen of this area. Specialists from different branches will rotate in order to cover completely the regulations within the shortest time possible.

All businessmen are invited and urged to consult with the OPS representatives regarding specific problems.

General Ceiling Price Regulation or the "tailored" ceiling price regulations which have removed them from the general freeze.

WHITELEY NOW HEADS JAYCEES

A former Wheeler County boy, L. D. Whiteley, who is now a resident of Lubbock, was recently elected president of the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce at the state convention of that organization which was held in Houston.

L. D. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Whiteley of the Kelton community. Whiteley, who is 32 years old, is in the wholesale nursery and real estate business in Lubbock.

"I can't thank you enough," Whiteley said at a dinner which closed the Jaycees' twenty-fourth annual state convention.

Then he faltered with emotion. "I am being supported by the greatest bunch of people in the world—the Lubbock Jaycees.

"You will have to accept my apologies—I just have to sit down," he said.

Dr. C. C. Merritt will leave Monday to go to Oklahoma City to take special work, returning home on Thursday.

There are six classes of garments in the contest, Best dresses, tailored, school, and play dresses, blouses, and blouses and skirts. To be eligible for the State Dress Revue a girl must have passed her 14th birthday before January 1st, 1951 and have completed 3 years as a 4-H member. The winner in this group will be given a free trip to the State 4-H Round-Up where she will represent Wheeler County in the State Dress Revue.

The merchants of Shamrock, Wheeler, and Mobettie have donated prizes for all the other entrants in the county contest. A committee composed of 4-H adult leaders: Mesdames Ernest Blake, A. D. Speck, and J. M. Finsterwald secured the prizes and prepared them for distribution among the different entrants. Ribbons will also be awarded 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners.

Wheeler Whisperings

By J. C. Howell

Mr. Ed (Ole Ed, that is) Watson told us the other day that he would sure like to get his name in the paper. We ask him what he had done to get his name in the paper and he said he hadn't done anything, hadn't gone anywhere, wasn't going anywhere, or hadn't had any company but would just like to see his name in print to see what it looked like. Well here it is, Mr. Ed, just look at it—ED WATSON. . . .

Jack Garrison, local dispenser of Magnolia products at the Garrison Service, has announced through the columns of the Times this week that he is going to show a FREE show at the Grade School Auditorium here in Wheeler next Tuesday evening beginning at 8:00 o'clock and invites the general public to come out and see this show. There will be some door prizes, too, and we can vouch for the fact that the picture show will be interesting and entertaining since we have already previewed same.

Believe we are going to get the other tennis court built at the Methodist Church Park right away, since R. J. Holt, Jr. got out and contacted some of the people who had been promising to help this morning and collected up something over $600.00. We are indeed happy to see this being done because it will afford a great many more of our grown-ups a chance to get a little much-needed exercise and the teenagers a chance to learn to play tennis well enough to compete in the interscholastic league program with students from neighboring schools.

We have been having some wonderful rains around here the last couple of weeks, in fact, the city of Wheeler proper has enjoyed. (Continued on Last Page)

Club Announces Plans For Music Week Observance

FACTS ABOUT MUSIC WEEK

The first mention of the idea of a "National Music Week" was in an article in the Music Trade Review in February of 1917. It stated that the National Bureau For The Advancement Of Music was planning to inaugurate a "National Music Week."

The source of the idea was the series of "wartime drives" of the Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., Knights of Columbus and other groups which collected funds to carry on their work. However the Director of the National Bureau had in mind one important distinction from this proposal . . . namely, the absence of any appeal for money. He realized the value of music in maintaining the morale of soldiers on "the other side" and the spirit of men over here in factories rushed with war work. There was also eloquent testimony to its relaxing effects in shell shock cases and to its calming and normalizing influences on people worried by the tension of those times and the threat of the U. S. being drawn into the world conflict. Thus, we

Accident Wed. Night Kills Holstein Cow

Sheriff Bus Dorman reported an accident involving a 1940 model Ford and a large Holstein cow on the Sweetwater bridge between Wheeler and Mobettie Wednesday night about 10:00 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson and baby, Kenneth Simpson, Utah Byrum and George Duncan all of Sunray were riding in the automobile when it struck the animal. The group was on their way from Sunray to Antlers, Oklahoma, when the accident occurred.

None of the passengers in the car were seriously hurt according to reports, but the impact killed the cow and severely damaged the automobile. The cow was dragged about 50 feet by the car, Sheriff Dorman reported.

It was reported that the cow belonged to Mr. Clement who lives in that vicinity.

BECAUSE OF OUR SECURITY DEMANDS

In warning Congress that prolonging delay in affirming the dispatch of American troops to Europe would be, "in our mortal peril," Senator Tom Connally, of Texas, points out that the argument of those who seek to restrict such military assistance is based upon the assumption that our efforts are for the purpose of "helping other people and not for helping ourselves."

Mr. Connally points out that "we do not seek to defend Western Europe for moral reasons primarily" but "because American security demands that Western Europe remains free of Communist control."

This is an idea that should be understood by every American in connection with the discussion of our commitments to Europe. Certainly, the United States should not send men, ships or planes to any nation unless the dispatch of the fighting force is vital to the safety and security of the United States.

Following the second World War, this country has, by treaties properly ratified, endorsed the idea that the fate of the United States is bound up, to a large extent, with the freedom and economic strength of Western Europe. Under the Marshall Plan, we have extended billions of dollars to assist the free peoples to recuperate from the devastation of the last struggle. The main idea, as nearly as we can judge, was to make them able to defend themselves and thus to prevent the Russians from overrunning the continent and acquiring vast productive resources and economic strength.

In regard to the question of sending troops to Europe, we will have to rely upon the judgment of military experts as to how this can be accomplished. Recently, the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force agreed that the defense of Europe is essential to the defense of the United States and that it cannot be accomplished without American ground forces. As Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, of the Air Forces, said: "When you defend a land area, the brunt of the battle has to be carried by the ground forces."

NATION RUNS SHORT OF NURSES

The United States needs at least 63,- 000 additional nurses, declares Miss Ruth Freeman, of Johns-Hopkins University School of Nursing. She points out that the Army Nurse Corps is having difficulty in recruiting a 3,000 quota.

According to the lady, one of every ten girls graduating from high school must be recruited for nursing service if the nation's needs are to be met. These cannot be filled by using the 205,000 nurses now inactive because eighty-seven percent are married, fifty-seven percent have dependents under eighteen and 10.6 percent are over fifty years of age.

There's Plenty for You and Industry, Too

Yes, in the Gulf South there's plenty of NATURAL GAS FOR YOU and INDUSTRY, TOO

In each of the past 21 years, much more gas was found than was used in all of the United States. For years now the amount of known gas reserves has climbed higher and higher. The consumption of gas is increasing, to be sure, but annual discoveries have met the current requirements and added trillions of cubic feet more to the known supply.

Nearly two-thirds of all the deposits of natural gas known to exist in the country are in gas fields in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi—and more than 200 of those fields are connected to the great integrated pipe line system of United Gas. Each year more fields are tied in to the United Gas system . . . to the end that we can assure our customers, now and in the future, there's plenty of gas for you and industry, too.

Industries seeking locations in the area served by United Gas can rely on an adequate supply of natural gas at fair and reasonable rates.

CAMERA TOPICS

By T. T. Holden

To catch exciting action shots like these, you must have the mechanics of picture-making down pat so you can concentrate on the right split-second to shoot. A prizewinner in the Gaffex Photo Contest by Fred Must.

KNOW YOUR CAMERA WELL FOR GOOD PICTURES

Many readers who received new cameras for Christmas have had time to experience twinges of disappointment by now. Perhaps they can't remember to pull the slide before shooting. Or maybe the results just don't live up to their expectations.

Chances are very good that there is nothing wrong with the camera. The trouble lies with the photographer who just won't take time to learn how to use his new equipment properly. And it is about ten times as hard to take good pictures when you don't know what you are doing.

Did you read the instruction book carefully that came with your camera? And did you take time to familiarize yourself with all the controls and practice the routine of making a picture with no film in the camera? If not, you'd better sit right down and do it now. You just won't make consistently good pictures until you have learned to operate your camera automatically, any more than you could paint a masterpiece before learning how to draw a straight or curved line without concentrating on it.

As a group, press photographers have a remarkable ability to turn out fine pictures under conditions that would completely baffle most people. Their secret is such complete familiarity with their equipment that they can concentrate their full attention on the subject, lighting, background, camera angles without giving the mechanics of operating the camera a second thought.

That is the only road to prize pictures. You won't get any more out of any camera than you put into it. And knowing how to operate it automatically and effectively is the first step. Then you must learn the depth of field obtainable at various apertures, the action-stopping capabilities of the shutter and the use of all the refinements that differentiate between a fine piece of photographic equipment and a box camera. Until you have mastered control of the camera, you can't hope for the pictures or pleasure you should get from it.

COTTON YIELDS ARE INCREASED

Water appears to be the limiting factor in the production of cotton on the Rolling Plains.

Cotton yields were increased 24 percent by contouring and 57 percent by using closed level terraces at the Spur Experiment Station, while the use of commercial fertilizer, barnyard manure and sorghum litter on small test plots failed to increase the yield.

Three-fields—with straight rows, contour rows, and contour rows and closed level terraces—have been planted to cotton continuously since 1927. The soil on the fields are largely Abilene clay loam, and the slope averages five-tenths percent (0.5%).

An average annual yield of 122 pounds of lint per acre for straight row farming was increased to 151 pounds by contouring. Where closed level terraces were used with contour rows, the yield was increased to 192 pounds, an average of 70 pounds more lint per acre annually than from straight rows.

Average annual runoff was reduced from 2.75 inches to 1.95 inches by using contour rows. There was no runoff from the area with closed level terraces.

Progress Report 1340, which gives a summary of 24 years of water conservation tests at Spur, is available from the Publications Office, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station, Texas.

MUSTANG BAND NEWS

Student Director-Manager — John Dan Bowman

We sincerely want to thank everyone for making our 2nd annual Wheeler Mustang Band Concert a success, also, Mr. Russ, Mr. Owen and Mr. Laflin for the usage of their trucks and public address system for our programs at Madoeete, Briscoe and Allison where we played for the entertainment of all in our trade area "Boost Wheeler". We will have summer band again this year beginning with a concert on the Courthouse Square on May 19th at 7:30 p.m. and will continue for a period of 6 weeks.

Burley, who did you escort homeward Sunday eve?
Billie, "what's all this trouble about? . . . The drum section now have something to practice on with their new drumming pad, saves beating your brains out . . . and what fun.
Tony, we like your new hair do on you it looks good.
Janice, where did you and Maurine H. and Martha Lou get those stickers.
La June is it really chigger bites?
John Dan, who was the girl Sunday? One of the Andrews sisters?
Bobby M. "come on cool off.
Wanda, do you mosey off toward the south about 17 miles very often?
Waunetta, they have now finally caught up with you, why are you cutting band?

So this is HOUSEKEEPING

I'm confused.
On one hand, I read in the news columns that the nation's defense manpower shortage can only be solved by attracting women back to the production lines.
And then, often in the same issue, I read of the imposition of new restrictions on the uses of metals which go into the production of such household appliances as washing machines.
It's here that I get thoroughly confused.
It seems contradictory to say "women, come join the defense production effort," and then, in the next breath, take away from the homemakers one of the very tools which would make it possible for her to put in those hours on the assembly line.
A homemaker's first responsibility is to her family. Not only must she feed it, but she must see that its clothing and housing is clean. For most of us that means using the washing machine, an appliance which long ago left the luxury class and became one of the home's absolute necessities.
Severely limit the output of washing machines and what happens?
For one, many thousands of washers which annually become obsolete could not be replaced, for lack of new machines, or could not be repaired, for lack of replacement parts.
I believe you'll agree the result then would be that many of us would have to revert to washing clothing by hand. A time as well as an energy consumer, this job would right away put a big damper on any woman's ideas of putting in some time on a factory assembly line.
If the government wants female help to return to the job of making guns, ammunition and aircraft engines, it had better wake up and see to it that these women have a ready supply of the appliances needed to reduce to a minimum the time and energy spent in keeping her house.
Either that or devise some way to stretch the woman's day from 24 hours to 48 hours!

John Dan missed Monday morning with giving himself a hot-foot by about 3 feet, the matches in his jeans became not red but inflamed; so, he danced with a hole in his pocket the rest of the day.

TEXACO HAVOLINE

A HEAVY DUTY MOTOR OIL

In Our Experience In The Oil Business, We Have Never Seen So Much Interest, So Much Incorrect Advice And So Much Confusion About Motor Oils As Exists Today.

Here Are Some Facts:

1. In Late 1950, For Better Operation Of Their Hydraulic Valve Lifters, General Motors Requested All Owners Of Such Cars To Use A Heavy Duty Oil That Would Meet The Old U. S. Army Specification 2-104B. Far More Exacting Is The New Government Specification MIL-0-2104 For A Heavy Duty Motor Oil. There Are Hundreds of Heavy Duty Oils For Sale — But There Are VERY FEW THAT Meet Either Of These Government Specifications. HAVOLINE EXCEEDS BOTH!
2. Look At The Front Of The Havoline Can. It States Without Reservation "Exceeds Heavy Duty Requirements". Custom Made Havoline Oil Will Do A Better Job For Any Engine — It Flows Freely In Cold Weather And Resists Thinning Under Hot Operating Temperatures. Facts About

(Continued from Page 1) have music, not just as an art for the musically cultured person, but as an asset for its reaction on human mechanism. The purpose of "Music Week" as it was designed, was for that art to be given the center of the stage in public consciousness for a seven-day period each year to demonstrate widely diversified individual and group enjoyment through listening, personal participation and with the aim of broadening the contribution of music to public welfare.

Texas held honors here, for in September 1919 Dallas had a "Music Day." A few weeks later St. Louis held a "Music Week" thus starting the National Bureau on their inauguration of local "Music Weeks." Within four years with pamphlets, letters, etc., being sent to various cities, 150 different cities and towns had organized local music week. Through individual efforts, letters and inquiries they were able to synchronize the individual performances into a national scope and the first week in May most nearly reflected the popular choice. The 150 observances jumped to 840 in 1924 and had more than tripled this number by 1941.

There are National Committees, Central committees and our Honorary Committee, headed by the President of the U. S. including every Governor of each State and Territory in the Union. Through this medium, forty-five of the Governors issued formal Music Week proclamations in 1939, or gave out public statements to the press asking their citizens to participate. A different keynote is submitted each year, if we desire to use it. One year it may be "Foster Local Music Talent" . . . Another might be "Better support for School Music" . . . Each committee, in our towns, is assured freedom of choice as to how much they will do and how they will do it. . . It is a cooperative project in the fullest sense of the word. Emphasis has been laid on the free performances to increase opportunity for all. However, the usage of the Professional musician, as well as the amateur, is encouraged. This then is destined to let our Music Week continue to grow as the expression of public desire and has its roots in the premises of Democracy, of the people, for the people, and by the people.

Wheeler is to be commended on its enthusiasm and stimulating activity and development. Music Week with its full program, the building of the Band, Radio programs throughout the year, programs taken to smaller towns around that do not have a music department . . . our Churches and their work with the children choirs . . . group singing and our Concert Association. Wheeler has definitely crystallized public in-

WCTU Gives Prizes For Themes On Temperance

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Published below is the first of three themes on the subject of temperance which were written by members of Wheeler High School English classes which are instructed by Mrs. Gladys Mobley.

The themes were written as entries in a contest which was sponsored by the local WCTU organization which is headed at the present by Mrs. Gordon Whitener. The three prize winning themes were read at the school assembly last Monday morning and the cash awards were presented to the winners. The first place winner, Molly Berry, whose theme appears below, received $5.00; the second place winner, Neil McQueen, whose theme will appear next week, received $2.50; and the third place winner, Ester Rogers, whose theme will appear next week after next, received $1.00.

THE FINISHED PRODUCT
(By Molly Berry)
The high school assembly hall was crowded this morning as usual.

The students were thinking of the past weekend and dreading the weekly lecture to which they were going to have to listen this morning.

It was the usual high school crowd. The girl in the third row, second seat was thinking of the dreamy date she had over the weekend. The boy in the ninth row, first seat was thinking how cute the new girl seated in front of him was. Soon the door in back of the auditorium was opened and an orange colored tangled hair woman with blood-shot eyes walked slowly up the aisle, followed by a stout, plain clothes woman. The latter took her place in the front row while the orange haired woman with head held high slowly mounted the stairs of the stage.

She raised her head even higher and began her practiced speech. "Good morning, high school students, and teachers. Your superintendent asked me to come this

SUITED FOR TRAVEL

Pretty Jeannine Holland, the 1951 Maid of Cotton, is suited for travel in a smart wrinkle-resistant cotton suit designed by Dorothy Cox. The rich red and brown plaid classic is a three-piece, perfect for sunning or dancing with a strapless canisole top. On her 61,000 mile international tour for King Cotton, Maid Jeannine wears a collection of smart cotton fashions designed by 30 outstanding U. S. fashionists.

For the first time, I realized I had on too much makeup. I was ashamed of all my cheap jewelry. I realized I was old before my time to be old and the well-kept hair of the girls here made me realize how my hair looked. I used to have pretty brown and silky hair.

I was going to be a great pianist at one time, but look at my hands (as she held up her trembling, jeweled and wrinkled hands.) They could not even play one true chord now.

Alcohol has done this to me.

I see now that when they asked me to come and make this speech they only want to show what alcohol can do so let's just discard the statistics. How many people pay attention to statistics anyway?

I know that you're going to think to yourself that this is just another weak-willed person who is trying to find an "escape goat." I thought this myself when I was your age. Why can't youth let other people's mistakes show them the right way, but they have to make the very same mistakes over and over again down through the generations.

When I was in high school, I was just Lucy Brown, you know, the little girl next door in an average small town. As some of you, I was so tired of the small town stuff playing piano for P-T.A. sissy school proms where punch was served, and the drug store sodas.

I wanted sophistication. Sophistication is all right if you define it as a bit different hair do and good taste in dress but one word can have so many definitions. You can take the word "smart" and apply it to a person who really studies or apply it to a person who can get by with cheating.

I could play the piano and all the people in our town said that I would be great some day.

When I went away to college I thought finally I would be able to be sophisticated, but to my anguish, I only saw the same sodas between classes. I didn't know how to meet the sophisticated people.

Oh! What a day when I had my first concert. The critics all said I was wonderful and a born genius. I finally got to meet some really sophisticated people. I met one man (he was old but oh! so sophisticated). A Cocktail Party! Imagine!

I splurged and bought an all black outfit. I was finally chic, sophisticated and well-dressed.

The cocktails didn't taste as good as I thought they would but if this is what it takes to make all these sophisticated people, why not drink them?

I was becoming great. I had lots of money; I could give parties myself now. I was no longer Lucy Brown, the little girl next door but the Miss Lucinda De Brownier.

When I had gone to a particularly late party and had drunk a bit too much, my maid would say "Miss De Brownier is resting and can not be disturbed this morning" instead of simply stating "Lucy Brown is drunk."

My fingers began to falter, but I didn't pay too much attention. I was great already and had plenty of money. What was the use?

DANCING COTTON

For her dancing hours the 1951 Maid of Cotton, brown-eyed Jeannine Holland of Houston, Texas, twirls in a sheer, delicate formal of pale blue point d'esprit. This is one of the glamorous costumes in the around-the-clock wardrobe created for the cotton fashion ambassador to wear on her tour of the United States, England, France, and Latin America. The Maid's fabulous wardrobe contains beautiful cottons for every occasion and every season.

One day I awoke to the fact that the Miss Lucinda De Brownier was no longer mentioned by the critics. No longer did anyone attend my concerts. In other words Lucy Brown is a "has been."

Something has happened to all the money I thought I had. I lost all my pride and made the rounds of all the bars begging for drinks. Something had happened to all my very good friends.

I was arrested more and more on charges of disturbing the peace. I am now in prison on the charges of vagrancy because I had no money to pay the fine. I will be out soon, but what will be for me except to beg for drinks at this bar and that bar. Alcohol is my only master now. I have no career and as to sophistication I lost that long ago. You can't be sophisticated and drunk at the same time.

I wonder how many of you would take that first drink if instead of showing beautiful, well-dressed people in the liquor ad advertisements, they would show people like me?

She turned toward the stout plain clothes woman in the front row saying "Officer, I am ready to go."

As the old tired woman, wrapped in old moth-eaten furs with the dyed hair and the tow of the police officer imagine that making chucking and saying done your work well. What you see this woman, you see more. This is the face morning to talk to you on "Temperance." Since Temperance is usually associated with alcohol, I am going to enlarge upon that.

Alcohol is used in very many good ways. It is used to mix medicines, to preserve flavorings and perfumes. It is used to make many things of value to science and industry, but we are concerned with alcohol, ordinarily found in such beverages as beer, wine, and whiskey.

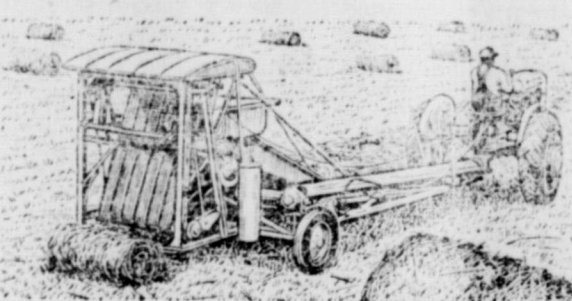

Alcohol interferes with the control and smooth actions of every muscle in the body. Because of this, you become fatigued more quickly than if you were not affected by alcohol.

Alcohol dulls the memory, just as it does the muscles. The person who drinks alcohol can't remember what has happened as well as he could before.

In the world every week, enough grain is used in the making of liquor that would make bread enough to feed all the starving people for a month in Europe.

Alcohol is a danger to our civilization. Alcohol presents to the American people an enormous bill for delinquency, deficiency and... All of a sudden she paused and then continued: "What I am about to say may seem off the subject but it is really even moreso on the subject."

When they asked me to come down and make a speech and even gave me a lot of statistics, so as not to make the speech too much a burden to me, I thought "Why I'm still an important person. They can tell a well-educated person when they see one." As I stepped into this auditorium and heard the snickering of the boys in the last row, I realized this was not so.

ROLLED BALE

Safe Deposit For Leaves

Reports from ROTO-BALER owners say that weather-resistant rolled bales contain more leaves. Livestock eat rolled hay better because it is soft, sweet and retains its natural color.

Here are some of the things farmers wanted to know:

Would rolled bales really shed showers? Would they handle and transport easily? Would livestock eat them without waste, fed whole or unrolled? Could straw for bedding be rolled out without shaking?

The ROTO-BALER has answered "yes" to each of these questions, satisfying farmers everywhere. Stop in and ask us for a free booklet on rolled bales and the ROTO-BALER.

Health Service Not Believe In Red Medicine

Public health has no place in the health of the private medicine, State Health Commissioner George Cox has said in a statement aligning himself with the profession against red medicine.

Cox said that public health is a separate field from private medicine. Both professions have their separate objectives, and distinctive methods of accomplishing them.

He declared public health's objectives to be:

1. Public education as to how to avoid disease by such means as vaccination against smallpox and typhoid fever and immunization against diphtheria.
2. Investigation of disease outbreaks.
3. Quarantine and isolation of communicable disease cases, thus preventing its spread.
4. Inspection of water supplies, and control over the safe production and sale of milk, drugs, and food products.

"But," the health officer said, "people get sick and accidents happen, and the job of curing and patching up is the business of the private practitioner of medicine—the family doctor and the specialist."

Doctors in private practice advocate public health principles when they urge mothers to have children protected against diphtheria and smallpox, and public health officials "need their help in the vital work of maintaining a high level of well being for all Texans," Dr. Cox asserted.

"We aren't in competition with doctors in private practice. Public health people deplore the idea of socialized medicine as unworkable, cumbersome, and totally inefficient."

"There is no place on earth that has a better system of medical administration than the United States. Private doctors deserve the credit."

"And there is no place on earth with a higher standard of public health. Public health people deserve credit for that," the doctor concluded emphatically.

Texas Wool Suits First Family

Gov. and Mrs. Allan Shivers, photographed in the Governor's Mansion at Austin, display all-Texas additions to their spring wardrobe—the first suits made of cloth woven from worsted yarn spun from Texas-produced wool in the New Braunfels plant of Pioneer Worsted Co. This plant, the only worsted factory south of the Mason and Dixon Line, has a capacity of 7,000,000 pounds of raw wool per year. The suits, of midnight blue gabardine, were made especially for the Governor and his lady.

The eighth grade graduation will probably be May 16 in the High School Auditorium. Valedictorian and salutatorian are respectively, Tommy White with an average of 94.15 and Nelda Glyn Baird with an average of 93.8. There are 17 members in the class.

SENIOR NEWS

The seniors would like to take this opportunity to thank the juniors for the swell banquet they gave us. Thanks, juniors, very much.

Some of us went to Shamrock Thursday morning to tape record our radio program which was played back that afternoon at 5:15.

Our Baccalaureate sermon will be given at the Baptist Church, May 13 beginning at 11 o'clock. The high school choir will do the singing. A special song will be sung by Mrs. Katie Roby and Jack Taylor. Rev. L. E. White, local Baptist pastor, will be the speaker.

Wright got trampled under the mad rush and they will finish with next year's seniors; Bernice Cartier is a married woman now, living near Mobeetie, and last but definitely not least, W. R. Keeton is in service for his country.

Valedictorian will be Edwin Sims who has an average of 93.8 and salutatorian will be Madge Patterson with an average of 91.9. All through high school it has been interesting to watch the friendly rivalry between these two.

The senior girls will sing a special at commencement also. We are eagerly awaiting the arrival of our annuals. Rumor has it they are to arrive around May 5th.

EGOIST

Old Mose, who often did odd jobs for a doctor in a small southern town, had spent the day laboriously waxing the latter's car. When it was time for the workman to call at the house and collect his pay, the doctor said: "Did you do a good job, Mose?" "Good job," snorted the old man. "Little bit ago a sparrow flew out of a tree and tried landing on that automobile—and wham. His poor little feet skidded out from under him and he done went flat as a pancake!"

The annual Junior-Senior Banquet was held in the basement of the Methodist Church Saturday night. The food was excellent, the serving nicely done by the sophomore girls and Shirley McCauley. Bill Leonard gave the welcome address, in such a way as only Bill could give it. It was the first time we ever saw him practically speechless. The speech was definitely short and sweet. Bobby Corcoran made the senior response. Other high lights of the evening were Junior Prophecy by Evelyn Worthington, Senior Prophecy by Frances Totty, song by Katie Roby, and special music by Madge Patterson.

Following the banquet most of those who attended went on to the preview in Wheeler.

Congratulations to Tommye White who represents Mobeetie school in spelling in the Spelling Bee in Amarillo, May 5. She placed first in the county at the contest held in Wheeler this week.

The Lions Club observed Ladies night, Tuesday night with a supper. Ouida Burke, who will represent the local club in the queens contest Monday at Hereford was a guest as was her fiancée Bill Godwin.

The Wheeler Band gave a concert in the Mobeetie gymnasium on Wednesday, April 18, at 1:00 o'clock. It was an enjoyable program and the Mobeetie audience appreciated the program very much. The band was directed by Mr. Patrick Boddy.

The talk is that we received a inch of rain Thursday night. It certainly was needed and we hope for lots more in the near future.

Last Thursday night at the I.W.O.A. in Dallas, Miss Nannette Tyson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Tyson, furnished the music for "Open House" in observance of Young Women's Christian Association Week. Nannette is blind as most of our readers know and we are all interested and proud of Nannette's accomplishments. She graduated from the School for the Blind at Austin, then took a course at Gale's Business College at Abilene, graduating with honors. She is an accomplished stenographer, an excellent typist and uses all kinds of knitting. At the present time she is clerk-typist in the State Dept. of Public Welfare, Dallas. She lives at the Y.W.C.A. and goes to and from work with the aid of her faithful seeing-eye dog, "Hope", a beautiful boxer.

Weekend visitors in the J. T. Wallis home were their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Rice of Borger and Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Atwood and Mrs. Viola Atwood of Wheeler.

We are sorry to report that Rev. Sam A. Thomas has not been up to par recently. Rev. Thomas retired from active ministry a year ago on account of a heart condition and moved to their home on Sweetwater Creek. They have remodeled the home and it is indeed not only beautiful but has about it simplicity, yet dignity. This, combined with their sincerity makes it a place one likes to visit. Mrs. Thomas's mother, Mrs. E. L. Sisk, whose deceased husband also was a Methodist minister, makes her home with them. Their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don E. French from Dalhart spent a few days this week visiting with them.

The Mt. Zion Quilting Club met May 1. There were twelve members attended. An emergency quilt was quilted. The club was presented a gift of $5.00 from A. B. Melton. Mrs. C. D. Hill and Wanda Bowing were visitors.

The Home Demonstration Club met in the grade school auditorium Friday. The program was given by Mrs. Emma Hastings, H.D.A., who told about the selection of bedroom furnishings in relations to use and care, and brought a very interesting talk on "Control of Insects". The club served refreshments to the 4-H girls and their mothers who were present for the dress revue and 10 members.

Members of the Order of the Eastern Star attending the School of Instruction at Canadian Monday were: A. K. McBride, Mesdames Pinkie McBride, Gazelle Patterson, Sallie Harris, Mayme Patterson, Marie Howard, Beulah Shelton, Malissa Morton, Ella Johnston, Orville Greenhouse, Mary Kent and Mary Hazel Van Zandt.

On the quiet ill list this past week were Mrs. Stanley Beck and Mrs. J. H. Taylor. We are happy to report they are both improving.

Folk of Mobeetie and surrounding community enjoyed a program sponsored by International Harvester Co. at the high school auditorium Monday night. This is a program that we all look forward to with anticipation. Jack Miller is the local dealer for International Harvester Co.

The eighth grade was entertained with a picnic Friday at the Van Zandt ranch east of town. Hostesses for this delightful occasion were Mesdames Herk Atkins, Vernon Hooker, Kenneth Corse and C. J. Van Zandt.

After church Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Jeffus of South Gate, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Preston Jeffus, Lordsburg, N. M. and Mrs. Arlie Jeffus drove to Miami, where they were joined by Mrs. Mable Arrington for dinner. The afternoon was spent driving over the territory north of Mobeetie and visiting with old friends.

Coleman Walton, vocational agriculture instructor, and his judging teams went to Lubbock Saturday to compete in the Area 11 cattle judging contest. The team is composed of Vernon Willard, Waylon Newman and Monroe (Pete) Seitz. The team for judging live stock is composed of Paul Jones, Edwin Sims and Harold Hooker.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. Thomas and sons spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Giddens, Memphis. Sam attended the Field Day Demonstration at Texas Tech, Lubbock, Monday and they returned home Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dysart and son, Bradley, Wichita, Kansas have been visiting in the parental home, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dysart.

Visitors in the Carlton Murrell home over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Markham of Tulsa. Mrs. Markham is the former Ona Lee Brown who grew up in this community and was the local telephone operator for a number of years.

ed a fall of approximately two inches for which we are very thankful, but we would be even more thankful if the wind didn't get up and blow a gale the next day and take away a good portion of the moisture which fell on the previous night.

We hear that our sheriff, high sheriff, that is, Bus Dorman, was caught stealing salt and pepper shakers and silverware from a cafe in Shamrock.

According to stories we have heard, Dorman went into the Bus Station Cafe at Shamrock to eat and was wearing a big loose fitting coat and while he was eating someone slipped the salt and pepper shakers and silverware in his pockets then when he went next door to the justice of the peace office they sent one of the waitresses in there after the merchandise and she was really letting on like the sheriff had stolen these items. Bus said he wouldn't have minded the trick hardly so bad if the waitress hadn't embarrassed him right in front of a couple of highway patrolmen.
