100 ATTEND GRASSHOPPER CONTROL MEET

D. H. Russell of the Plant Pest Control Branch, U. S. D. S. advised about 100 farmers of Wheeler County, Thursday night, that the federal government has a program to assist ranchers and farmers of Wheeler County in grasshopper control.

The program was outlined as follows: Russell's office will furnish memoranda of understanding to be signed by a responsible county official - County Judge, Commissioner's Court - whereby the court may be reimbursed in the amount of one-third actual cost up to twenty-five cents per acre for control measures on rights-of-ways, County, State or R. R. fence rows, soil bank land which has been seeded to grass, small ranches, etc. - No Crop Land. The State will pay one third of the expense on all state highways. The control operations may be by ground equipment or airplane, preferably airplane, provided the agreement is signed prior to beginning operations and at least three bids received and the low bid accepted.

Collections from landowners and payment to low bidder will be made by the county. The agreements must be cleared before spraying starts.

Bryan Swaim, county agent, said there was little interest in the program, as outlined at the present time. However, the group agreed to check on the price of Aldrin and its availability to county farmers and ranchers. A survey revealed that the "Hopper Killer" can be purchased through local dealers at $3.70 per gallon in 5 gallon lots, or $4.00 per gallon in one gallon containers.

Farmers should apply 3 to 4 ounces of Aldrin per acre, which will be about one pint per acre when including the fence rows and bar ditches Swaim said.

Farmers and ranchers must unite together in order to eliminate the pests Swaim said.

Swimming Pool Drive Has Reached $6,000

Committee Making Final Drive For Funds

The financial campaign to raise money to build a swimming pool in Wheeler is almost complete according to Dr. Harold Nicholson, chairman of the drive.

Nicholson said the total contributions now total $6,000 which along with the $20,000 furnished by the city is enough to begin construction.

Those who have not contributed are asked to contact Dr. Harold Nicholson or leave the donation at the Southwestern Public Service office.

Mayor Thomas Daughtry gave Hassie and Green, an engineering firm of Lubbock, the "green light" to begin drawing the plans and specifications for the pool. After the plans are complete and the warrants for the $20,000 have been issued, the contract for the actual construction of the pool can be let, Daughtry said.

Several construction firms have been contacted and are ready to make bids as soon as blue prints are completed.

Tentative plans call for a 75 by 50 ft. pool, ranging in depth from 3 to 10 feet, to be constructed north of the Kiwanis ball park.

The completed project will include bath houses, wading pool, filtering plant and, of course, the pool. The entire project will be fenced.

Those who have contributed thus far in the campaign are:

- H. E. Nicholson $200.00
- D & E Publishing Co. $50.00
- Garrison Service Sta. $25.00
- R. J. Holt $100.00
- Fred Farmer $25.00
- Daughtry's 5 & 10 $100.00
- Jewell Rimmer $5.00

Parsley gives us this one . . .

An 8-lb. jump, and a 10-lb. fight;
A 12-lb. bend . . . but alas!
When you get him aboard,
He's a half-pound bass.

We see where Douglas Meador in the Matador Tribune says, One thing for which I am thankful is that it will never be necessary for me to study the history of France and remember the names of the republic's premiers.

"People" says Ben Ezzell in the Canadian Record will pay almost any price to get something for nothing."

Here's something that came out of a report from Washington relative to the economic recession that many people will not agree with, and that might make some downright mad. Though controversial, it is thought-provoking, and we're going to reprint a part of it. It was contained in a speech to the national sales convention by Charles Brower, president of an advertising agency. He said he was skeptical about a depression in which prices keep going up, and in which people have money but just won't let go of it. In fact, he questioned whether the doldrums are economic at all.

We quote from the talk: "I think people are just bored with us - with you and me - with the things we sell, and the way we sell them."

"For this, in America, is the great era of the goof-off, the age of the half-done job. The land from coast to coast is populated with laundrymen who won't iron shirts, with waiters who won't serve, with carpenters who will come around some day, maybe, with executives whose mind is on the golf course, with students who take crotch courses because the hard ones make them think. And the salesman who won't sell is only a part of this overall mess.

"I think, and I hope to God it's true, that our people are becoming sick of this goofing-off. Maybe we are gradually beginning to realize that history is repeating itself. The Russians are doing a wonderful job as the Barbarians in our modern historical drama, but we are outdoing them in our superlative imitation of Rome. We may lack a few of the refinements of Rome's final decadence, but we do have the two-hour lunch, the three day week, and the all-day coffee break. And if you want to, you can buy for $275 a jewelled pill-box with a built in musical alarm that reminds you (but not too harshly) that it's time to take your tranquilizer."

And he ended with this rather strong statement: "We have got to work, or a stronger nation will put us to work."

Nothing is quite so irritating when driving an automobile as to have some kid come barging down the road driving like an adult.

WHEELER COUNTY SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Pastures in the Wheeler District have had a big boost from the recent rains. Practically all pastures were suffering for moisture. The annual winter grasses hurt the better native grasses by using the early moisture before the good grasses began to grow.

The only way to give the good native grass fair chance is to go easy on it now and let it make a little growth and some seed. Where sudan, Johnson grass or sorghum alnum pasture is available, it can be used for the remainder of the growing season. The native grasses will make good grazing this fall after the seed has matured.

Pastures sprayed for brush control this year are beginning to be quite noticeable. Several thousand acres were sprayed with a chemical new to the Wheeler District. It is Silvex. It is still too early to make final judgement but pastures sprayed with Silvex look much better than those sprayed with other types of material.

Some of the district cooperators have expressed an interest in the Great Plains Conservation Program. We have been asked about the deadline for signing up for next year. There is no deadline, but funds are limited. When the money is all obligated, the program will be closed for the remainder of the year.

A Tribute

FROM SODA JERK TO COUNTY CLERK

Serving Wheeler
County Since 1940

Harry Wofford, county clerk of Wheeler County for the past 18 years made a long step to county office via the soda fountain.

In one year Wofford stepped out from behind the phosphate faucet and into the Wheeler County Tax Collector's office as an assistant. Around 1920, after a stab at college life in Oklahoma University, Wofford was employed for a while as a soda jerk in Shamrock.

The next year Wofford came to Wheeler and took a position in the county tax collector's office which was managed by his father, W. B. "Uncle Ben" Wofford, who was also Wheeler County Sheriff.

In those days the offices of sheriff and county tax collector were combined.

Two years later he got his "apprenticeship" for the position he now holds by becoming a deputy county clerk under R. H. Forrest.

Since that time he has been in the real estate, abstracting and insurance business and has become a full-fledged politician since his election to the office of county clerk in 1940.

Born at Hartman in Johnson County, Ark., May 23, 1901, Harry moved to Shamrock in November of 1909. He graduated from Shamrock High School in 1919 and spent part of the next school year in Oklahoma University.

During his school years, Wofford worked on a farm in Wheeler County. He also drove a delivery wagon for a grocery store, worked as a soda jerk in a confectionery and in a cafe, drug store, and dry goods store.

In 1921 he came to Wheeler to work in the tax collector's office and in 1923 he was employed as deputy county clerk, working also for an abstract firm.

He moved back to Shamrock the following year, however, and formed a partnership with W. H. Walker in the insurance, real estate, loan and abstract business under the firm name, Walker and Wofford.

In 1929 he came back to Wheeler again, purchasing the Wheeler Abstract Company which he operated until 1953 when he sold the firm to Harold S. Kenady.

Elected In 1940

Elected Wheeler County Clerk in 1940, Harry has in addition to carrying out the usual duties of the position, re-indexed all of the birth and marriage records. He prepared a typed index of all the deeds, deeds of trusts and other records.

He married Mary Eunice Noah at Wheeler on Christmas Day in 1945. The two live in a modest home in Wheeler and also have a farm 4 1/2 miles northwest of Wheeler. Harry's father, "Uncle Ben," who is a veteran of the Spanish-American War, lives with his son and daughter-in-law.

Harry is very interested in farming and practices proven soil conservation practices on his farm. He has sown fields which could no longer be cultivated, profitably with sand and love grass, meeting with a large degree of success.

A joiner, who gladly contributes his time to many a worthwhile cause, Harry serves the people of his community and county in several ways.

As to his experiences in working with and for the citizens of Wheeler County in so many civic ways, Harry says, "I have found in my experiences that people are good and most of them are anxious to do something worthwhile."

He is an ardent church worker, belonging to the First Baptist Church in Wheeler and serving as a deacon and Men's Bible Class teacher.

He is also a past president of the Baptist Brotherhood of the North Fork Association and past president of the District 10 convention of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

He is a 32nd degree Mason, a Shriner, belonging to the Khiva Temple in Amarillo. Harry is also a past president of the Wheeler Kiwanis Club and is a past Lt. Governor of division 6, Texas - Oklahoma district, Kiwanis International. He is now serving as chairman of the agriculture and conservation committee of the district.

The 12 Kiwanis Clubs which comprise division 6 of Kiwanis International recently asked Harry to offer himself as a candidate for Governor of the Texas - Oklahoma district of Kiwanis International. However, he declined the offer.

He was president of the County and District Clerks' Association of Texas in 1951.

Harry, who knows nearly everyone in Wheeler County by their first name, served as Home Service

Chairman for the Wheeler Red Cross chapter from 1941 to 1946, putting in a lot of extra work and service for the people of the county. He also was a reemployment committee member for the Wheeler County Selective Service Board during the war.

When asked about the hard work and long hours he spends serving the people, Harry replies, "I don't figure a man should hire out unless he intends to work."

A lifetime member of the Oklahoma Alumni Association, Harry is also a past vice president of the Shamrock Ex-Student Association.

Harry has been a member of the Adobe Walls Council, Boy Scouts of America, and is now chairman of the Wheeler County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc.

He is treasurer of the Wheeler County Farm Bureau, secretary of the Wheeler County Tuberculosis Association and is chairman of civic affairs for the Wheeler Chamber of Commerce.

Harry is also listed in Who's Who of the Southwest.

In speaking to Harry of the civic work he has done, he answers, "I am happy to have had the privilege to do these things. I only hope that I can always be of service to the people of Wheeler County."

Firemen Called To Everett Smith Farm

The Wheeler Volunteer fire department answered two fire alarms early last Thursday morning on the Everett Smith farm located Northeast of Wheeler.

The old deserted Everett Smith home and barn was destroyed by the blaze. Neither the house or barn has been occupied for several years.

The cause of the fire was unknown.

Following graduation in 1941 Joe enlisted in the Air Corps and entered flight training school. He became a pilot in 1942.

He spent two years overseas in Sicily, Italy, England and France. While overseas he received the air medal with 12 oak leaf clusters. Three times his squadron received the presidential unit citation for outstanding performance in combat.

Joe was discharged from the service in 1945 with the rank of captain.

He was married to Vera McNeill in December of 1942. They have 4 children, Neil, Dean, Dale and Jo Rita. They are all members of the Methodist Church.

Following his discharge from the Air Corps in 1945 Joe was associated with Braniff Airways and the Prudential Insurance Co. in Amarillo until 1949.

He has lived in Wheeler since 1949. He was employed by the Nash Appliance and Supply Company for 5 years and has been associated with the First National Bank of Wheeler for the past three years.

Joe is a member of the Wheeler Volunteer Fire Department and is a Major in the Air Force Reserve Squadron in Pampa.

He enjoys hunting, fishing and art.

When asked his opinion of Wheeler he replied, "Of all the 'greats' of the world, my family, and Wheeler are the 'greatest' to me."

EDITORS NOTE: Joe it's my opinion that Wheeler is fortunate to have a friendly, hardworking community minded man like you.

OUTFIELD

By  Ty Cobb

From the book "How to Play"

published by The Sporting News

Chapter 26

Outfielder More Than a Flychaser

If I had it to do over again, knowing as much about baseball as I have learned through the years, I would again want to become an outfielder. The advantages and remunerations are many. One is longevity. Outfielders last longer. They do not have to take the body-contact beating of an infielder and their chances of injury, limited mostly to collision with a fence or another outfielder, are less than any position on a club.

To be an outfielder you must be a player who delivers at the plate. You must be a good hitter, consistently in the 300 class; but you should not try to enter the door of modern, streamlined baseball through offense alone. You should be capable of doing something besides hit and catch a fly ball.

The term "flychaser," often applied to outfielders, is one of baseball's most glaring misnomers. Outfielding should be as much a specialty as playing shortstop or second base. An outfielder is called upon to field as many ground balls as he is flies, and the improper fielding of them causes more errors and allows more runs than missed fly balls.

You must be gifted with a good arm because you are called upon to make long throws. Also, speed of foot is essential, particularly if you are going to be a center fielder. If you have speed you can learn to run.

The fellow with a nervous disposition should be an infielder or catcher. A player who has to be "doing something every minute" will wear himself to a frazzle trying to play the outfield. The ideal outfielder must be endowed with a stoical nature or acquire the knack of being a "good walter" in a relaxed, though poised sort of way. Be nonchalant yet set. Be alert yet not tense. Ideal outfielding temperament demands this.

If you have the build, the stoicism to fight off nerves, a strong arm, speed, and can hit, then the outfield is where you belong. First, you should form the right outfield habits and learn the fundamentals early. Once acquired, those habits stick with you the longest.

One of the habits is your practice routine. Infielders, necessarily, waste a lot of energy in infield practice. I made it a practice that when I was going well, and in my stride not to use up too much energy in pre-game work. In my case it paid off.

But don't go to the other extreme. There is plenty of work to be done before a game. Do plenty of throwing in practice but don't be a Fancy Dan. Many outfielders like to consider themselves great pitchers who missed their calling. Take advice from me, who, in this respect, was a dumbbell. I spoiled a very good arm by throwing knuckle balls and spitters. I succeeded in injuring a good outfielder's arm by this unnecessary skylarking. Save that arm. Use it as an outfielder's arm, not a pitcher's. Pitchers can come to the same grief trying to emulate an outfielder. Remember the distance and trajectory of the two throws are vastly different.

Before a game make a few throws to the plate from varied distances. In making throws to the plate I found, as a general rule, it was better to aim just beyond the pitcher's box from center field. A bounding ball, one that skips in, is generally easier for the catcher to handle with a base runner attempting to come home. I have always thought a bounding ball increased speed after it hit the ground once. This has been argued pro and con. Most catchers think it does and prefer a ball that skips in.

Don't end your throwing exercise with a toss or two at the plate. Try yourself for accuracy at second and third and make the ball come in on a straight air line.

With the lively ball of today, outfielders have to play out farther back and the defense is more concerned with keeping a base runner from taking that extra bag. You can rarely throw a runner out at the plate anymore, but you want to keep him from going from first to third on a single. Remember, the relay is the thing today. In my time we rarely relayed. Get your infielders to team with you in practice. Make throws, short and long, from various parts of your field.

SPORTS

By Carroll Killingsworth

The runaway Marshalls surged three full games ahead in the Little League standing the past week by toppling the Giants 17-4, shading the Texas Rangers 14-10 and one forfeit from the Rangers. Page has been the big man for the Marshalls having won six pitching jobs, batting .789, and leading the league in runs scored with fifteen. He has had outstanding infield support from Gaines, Porter, Miller, Callan, and Hefley. Four of the five infielders are hitting at 500 or over. In the 17-4 romp over the helpless Giants, Page allowed only four hits compared to eleven given up by Giant hurler Waters.

The Marshalls unloaded a thirteen hit attack against Jolly working on the mound for the cellar dwelling Rangers and scored eight runs in the fifth inning to stop the Rangers' bid for their second victory of the season 14-10. Page gave up six scattered hits and had a shut out going until the fourth when the Rangers scored four times and then in the fifth Page weakened and issued seven bases on balls, a single to Jamison, double to Owen, and a round tripper to Jolly which all accounted for six big runs.

The girls' series leveled off at two games each as the Yankees crushed the Cardinals 26-6 with Douthit going the distance for the win and Gandy being tagged for the loss. Douthit, Riley, Chapman, Hamilton, and Mickie Gunter all scored four runs each for the Yanks. The stunned Cards got two in the second, two in the third, and two in the fourth.

Still looking for a win, the Sheriffs dropped games to the Sox 20-15 and to the league leading Thunderbirds 16-8. Vanpool worked both games for the Sheriffs while Moffit won for the Sox and Hardcastle won for the Thunderbirds. Hardcastle had three singles for three time at bat and scored three runs in helping his own cause.

TEXT: God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Psalms 146:1.

Sooner or later troubles overtake one that he is completely unable to control and conquer alone. Happy is the man who discovers this from his reading of history, observation and the experiences of others. We learn only from experience. If we will not learn from the experiences related in history, or observed on the stage of the world's action, or seen exhibited in the lives of others, then there is nothing left for us but to be scourged and disciplined in the fires of personal experience. "The University of Hard Knocks" is a difficult and expensive school. But some times people seem unable or unwilling to learn in any other.

Is there actually an alternative to what has just been asked? Perhaps no complete alternative. For life in the kind of world we have is a rigorous school for discipline at the best. But our text affirms an amazing amelioration for times of severe trial, for times of trouble. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."

Consider further the fact that this mighty Christian affirmation is one that has been tested over a long, long period of time, by all kinds of peoples living in all kinds of circumstances and conditions. The statements contained in the Bible are affirmations plus. The plus consists primarily in the manifold testimonies of history, and in the lives of multitudes of individuals. The author of the 116 Psalms says "I love the Lord because He has heard my voice and my supplications." And again "I was brought low and He helped me." Our text says "God is a refuge and strength, a present help in trouble." The Apostle Paul declares God said to him personally "My grace is sufficient for you." Again: "I will suffer no temptation to come upon but that I will make a way for your escape." This is not fiction. It is not romance. It is testimony, personal testimony backed up by one of the most amazing, radiant, successful, triumphant lives that was ever lived.

We have all heard the song "What God has done for others He will gladly do for you." True, but it does not exhaust the truth. The Bible declares that God will supply your every need according to His riches in glory, through Jesus Christ. What I need, what you need, may not be identical with what God "has done for others." But it is included in God's Book of Promise to you. Believe the words of the text. Act upon them. Rest in them.

Germany. Jesse came home to his wife, Sue, whom he'd married in Glenrose, Texas, after he'd enlisted in Uncle Sam's Army.

"It took me a little while to adjust," says Mr. Dyer. "The first job I had was temporary. I helped my father-in-law build his new house. When fall came, my wife who had taught school during the time I was away in the Army, wanted me to teach with her."

"But, to go back - when War broke out I had been working on a B. A. Degree at Dr. Mayo's College, now East Texas State at Commerce. Dr. Mayo died while waiting anxiously to learn if his school would be taken over by the state, died without learning. I helped bury him. At that time his college was furnishing one-fifth of the teachers' certificates in Texas.

"Dr. Mayo was one of my heroes. After that, things were unsettled for me. I gave up college to join the Army and did not get back to take that degree until 1937, after the War, and after the Depression. Mrs. Dyer and I taught school. And, in one way, or another, we've been teaching ever since."

Mr. Dyer has been Superintendent of County Schools in Wheeler County for about thirteen years. He has also been Superintendent of Schools at Allison and Wheeler, Principal of Ward Schools at Joshua, Plainview, and Twitty, and history teacher at Shamrock.

Mr. Dyer's office is located in the Wheeler County Court House, the boundary of which is Federal Highway 83, north, and state highway 152, east, intersecting. His office is lined with bookshelves which are filled with textbooks for Wheeler County's five rural schools: Briscoe, Allison, Kelton, Lela and Kellerville.

"I got my teacher's certificate in 1918. And I taught first at a little rural school called Prairie Springs for $85 per month in Johnson County. My wife made $65, and taught there with me for five years. We both liked teaching and felt it was a worthy career, but for many years we had a hard time financially. It was work, save, go to school, and do without! We had to forego luxuries."

"There were other jobs I could have had, but my major field was history. I was interested in it, all ways it ties up with the present. I've told my students many times that they couldn't find their ways home without knowing a little history. I've seen a good bit of history in the making. My family left Tennessee and came to Texas in 1900. That was right after Teddy Roosevelt and his Rough Riders waded into the Spanish American War in Cuba. My first teacher resigned to become one of Teddy's Rough Riders."

"My family picked cotton to pay our way to Texas. When we were $250 ahead, my parents sent me to school to keep my sister company they said. I was in the fourth grade. I walked about three miles to school and saw my first store-bought desks at Painter's Branch School in Hood County. George McLemore was the teacher. Pupils received no report cards and no grades."

"Many people think that our Texas School System started in 1854 because Governor Elisha M. Pease got an appropriation of $2,000,000 for it at that time, but it didn't. Civil War and later Reconstruction intervened. Texas fought on the side of the South with her men in Hood's Texas Brigade, and Terry's Texas Rangers while at home she was almost without defense, let alone a school system."

"After the War, Republican Carpet-baggers, and Texas Democrats struggled for the Lone Star State's control. For awhile Texas was under the military rule of General Philip H. Sheridan. She was re-admitted to the Union in 1870. And Governor Richard Coke was sanctioned by President Grant over Carpetbagger elect Edmund Davis."

"Our present State Constitution was re-written Feb. 15, 1876, and our present School System began functioning in 1884. It was just sweet sixteen when I came to Texas. I have observed Texas Schools in operation for the past fifty-eight years. And, there has been much improvement in that time."

"I remember an advertisement that I saw in a newspaper in the early days that read: Wanted, a job teaching. I can teach reading writing, and arithmetic to low division. The requirement of a B. A. Degree was almost unknown fifty years ago."

"Another improvement is the shift of strong teachers to the primary grades. This is the reverse of what it used to be, and even now there is still not enough emphasis on teaching in the lower grades. Much of the knowledge and skills learned there cannot be learned so easily, or so well at a later time. These include languages, our own and foreign."

"Most of my work has been in rural communities. We're not as crowded as are the over-populated cities. We have not had their many problems of juvenile delinquency. We have had problems that are peculiarly our own."

"The first of these is a steadily diminishing enrollment. On the day that the Gilmer Aiken Law went into effect in Texas, sixteen school districts were abolished in Wheeler County. As people leave the farm, rural schools are passing out of existence. It is a sad passing, for schools with rural backgrounds have contributed their own peculiar gifts to education. These are: School locality, the identification of a student with a region, school spirit, certain basic qualities in character which make for initiative and leadership. Many of our best teachers, statesmen and soldiers have come from farming communities."

"Teacher shortage, coupled with a housing shortage, has hurt the rural schools too. Many communities in Texas have built houses for their teachers, where they can live rent-free, or pay only enough to cover cost of utilities. Rural schools have accepted older teachers. The crop of young teachers has been taken over by towns and big cities where better pay and living conditions have attracted them. However, the advantage of older teachers is that they have experience and stability."

Along with his teaching, Mr. Dyer has always been interested in Texas itself. In 1941 he did a thesis in Texas History for an M. A. Degree which he received at West Texas State College in Canyon. In 1860 Texas organized Greer County. The boundaries were the two forks of Red River and the 100th meridian. The right of Texas to Greer County was disputed for many years by a U. S. Commissioner who claimed it belonged to Oklahoma. Mr. Dyer wrote his thesis on "The Jaybuckle Kingdom," the history of a cattle empire inside this disputed area. The Jaybuckle range covered an area of 344,640 acres of land. The last great roundup was made during the summer of 1888 about five miles southwest of the present site of Granite, Oklahoma. Every outfit for miles around took part. "You could see great herds of cattle and cowboys coming from every direction. These herds, brought together, formed a huge herd, possibly two miles across. When the branding was completed thousands of cattle were started up the trail to market."

The final decision against the Texas Claim to these lands was handed down by the U. S. Supreme Court in 1896. By that time the cattle barons had moved out and many little farmers and cowmen had moved in, according to Mr. Dyer.

To sum up, Mr. Dyer says: "I've been through two World Wars, and a Depression. That first War cost us the lives of many of our good American boys! We're inclined to forget about that now. During the Depression of the Thirties teachers fought for the few available jobs. Who remembers that now?"

"During World War II, I held down three jobs. I was superintendent of our local school, superintendent of County Schools, and served on the local draft board."

In 1945 Mr. Dyer received the Selective Service Medal for meritorious service without pay in World War II. He worked with the Department of Investigation.

Mr. Dyer thinks he has earned his retirement. Says he, "I've enjoyed my life as a teacher. It has been an interesting one if at times a bit harried! I want to catch up on my fishing! And I've promised my wife we'd make a few unhurried trips around seeing our country!"

The Dyers will continue to live in Wheeler where they own their home. They have one daughter, Mrs. Royce Dennis who lives in Denton with her husband and little girl. The Dyers are members of the First Baptist Church, and Mr. Dyer is a 32nd Degree Mason, both Scottish and York rites.

C of C Notes

By DICK GUYNES, Sec.

P. A. Martin President of the Wheeler Free Fair to be held September 13 asks that all committee chairmen and other interested parties begin to get the organization shaped up in plenty of time so that everything will move in an orderly manner come Fair time.

The outlook for now is good crops, fruit, and of course the livestock division always comes through with a good show.

Let's all put forth our best effort in preparing to make this year's Fair the best in the area.

and spooky. From the north-side the road curved from a high bank steeply down to the bridge. And this first link of the bridge has washed out, but 75% of the old bridge remains. People who use this crossing now either walk, or ride horses, and there are a good many "dead man" jokes about it.

According to Assistant District Engineer R. L. Nabers, State Senate Bill No. 287, which proposes that a new bridge be built across the North Fork of Red River at this old location to replace the washed out bridge has been approved. The estimated cost of this bridge will be $194,000. Wheeler County will furnish the right-of-way on the road to the bridge. All except about seven or eight miles of this road has already been paved but it is possible that it will be widened.

Clyde Drake will be the engineer on the bridge building. Work has been delayed because the Austin office has been unable to furnish a core drilling machine for exploring the river bridge foundation. The contract has not been let.

Project 5960, Shamrock By-pass
According to Mr. R. L. Nabers plans have been submitted and approved for the re-routing of Highway 83 around Shamrock. From Twitty Highway 83 will go about 9 1/2 miles to the North Fork of Red River, and at a new location a new bridge will be built. The road will skirt the east side of Shamrock, and a new over-pass will eliminate the railroad crossing. And from there it will go to the Collingsworth County line. The city and county will pay 50% of the right-of-way cost. Plans for the project are incomplete, and it is not known when work will begin.

The over-all picture for Wheeler County roads is a favorable one. The roads are needed, and the continuing employment of many workers will help.

FOOLISHNESS:
"My love has flew
Her did me dirt
I never knew her were a flirt
To those in love, let I forbid
Lest they be do-ed
Like I been did!"

Anon

Now here is a poem that violates all the rules of grammar. It has a low-brow humor to it notwithstanding. Will Rogers, the late great humorist, liked to use the language of the vernacular (common folk talk vs academic English) to express his thoughts, and did so with great success. If he were alive now he'd have a lot of fun.

Will loved to dwell in scandals. If I could magically conjure up what he might say about President Eisenhower and the vicuna coat, the cloth for which Ike gave away - it cost only $700 and he couldn't remember to whom he gave it, I'd have a good laugh for you here. He would also have had something funny to say about a man like Sherman Adams who permitted a friend to pay his $2000 hotel bill. About this, I can say that if Mr. Adams had had to pay that bill himself he'd have chosen a cheaper place!

We accepted a ride not long ago from a friend who insisted on paying all our bills. There were three of us and so she had a good many bills to pay! We all but had a fight with her over this, but no, she insisted on paying for everything. She even tipped all the porters and paid for our hamburgers.

We argued with her for awhile but finally we thought it was funny. And if she did not know any better than this we'd just let her pay!

After time has passed by, we think we were wrong. We should have said, "Now look, pal, either we pay our way, or we won't ride with you!"

For now we have a guilty conscience about her. And the next time we see her we'll run. You cannot buy friendship! Mr. Goldfine ought to know that! However, he wasn't trying to buy friendship but favors.

Since the world began people have sought to buy favors by bearing gifts. And it must work for a little while with the not-too-thoughtful Witness all the give-away programs on radio and TV.

Is it wrong to accept gifts while holding a public office?

Yes, we think it is wrong!

The question of gifts has been up to me once or twice before. A school teacher generally does not accept gifts from her students. However, there are always grateful pupils and parents who like to give little gifts as tokens of appreciation. And so I have never turned down these little gifts. For the most part they have been handkerchiefs, ear-bobs, inexpensive perfume, and the like.

But one present I'll never forget. I had a fifteen year old girl from a transient labor type of family. She did not come to school until December, and then she talked and chewed gum in class most of the time instead of paying attention.

A theme was assigned that required original research and observation. I spent fifteen minutes explaining this and told the class that I would give anyone a grade of F who copied it out of the encyclopedia. But this girl was not listening.

She copied her theme out of the encyclopedia. When I gave her a grade of F, she cried and said, "You old fool, you must think you are awfully smart if you know more than is in the encyclopedia!"

But, that wasn't all! At Christmas time a number of students gave me small presents as tokens of their appreciation. The girl also gave me a present, beautifully wrapped. It contained a rock.

I asked her for originality on the first theme. She got the material out of a book. Now if I could have counted this second composition of hers as a theme I would have given her an A. But, I never got to tell her so because her migratory family had moved on!

If gifts expressed true sentiments, some of them would, indeed, be a surprise.

Guests in the Roy Weatherly home over the week end were Mrs. C. J. Collier and Mike and daughter Patsy of Dallas and Mrs. Jess Mullins and girls of Turkey.

Mrs. Ann Tillman and Jan visited Sunday night in Pampa with Mrs. Tillman's sister, Mrs. Myrtle Skelly.

Mrs. Loretta Clay visited over the week end in Shamrock with Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Clay.

E. M. Borden, Minister of the Church of Christ of Wheeler, brings the message of the week in the tenth of a series of commentaries by ministers of the area, and presented on this page through the cooperation of the firms and individuals listed below.

IMPROVING THE PERSONALITY

The individual who becomes a child of God and lives the Christian life will certainly improve his personality. We are commanded to do many things that lead in this direction. Phil. 4:8, "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." We should be willing to improve our personalities that we might use them to the glory of God. With this personality we are to win others to Christ, not to ourselves. Through improving our personalities, we do the things that are necessary to the salvation of our souls.

How are we to improve our personalities?

1. Be an optimist. An optimist is one who looks on the brighter side of life. It has been stated that the difference between an optimist and a pessimist is: The optimist can see an opportunity in a difficulty, while the pessimist will see a difficulty in an opportunity. Paul said to the Phillipians to "think on these things." Read Phil. 4:8 again. Carefully notice the things the Christian is to look on. Better than 80% of the things we are unhappy about would not be problems at all, if we look to the brighter things.

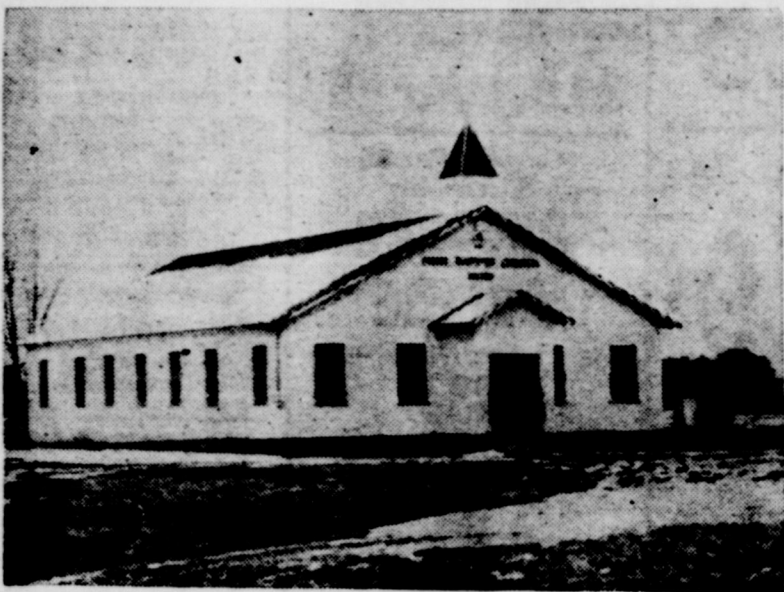

2. Don't look for something to be unhappy about. It seems strange, but there are some who do not seem to be happy unless they are unhappy. Solomon said, "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." If we fill our minds with misery, we are bound to be miserable. We can be sick, both mentally and physically, by thinking about cares, envies, jealousies, and other evils.

3. Learn to adjust yourself to be happy under adverse conditions. You might work hard to correct this adverse condition, but unhappiness will not correct it. There is a difference between the terms, satisfied and happy. A man might be happy in trying to obtain a certain object, but satisfaction comes in obtaining this object. Happiness can help you gain satisfaction, by causing others to be willing to help you. This is using your personality. To have a radiant personality, you must be happy. Happiness is largely a habit. Solomon said, "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance". If you are cheerful you radiate cheerfulness. You then have a cheerful surrounding.

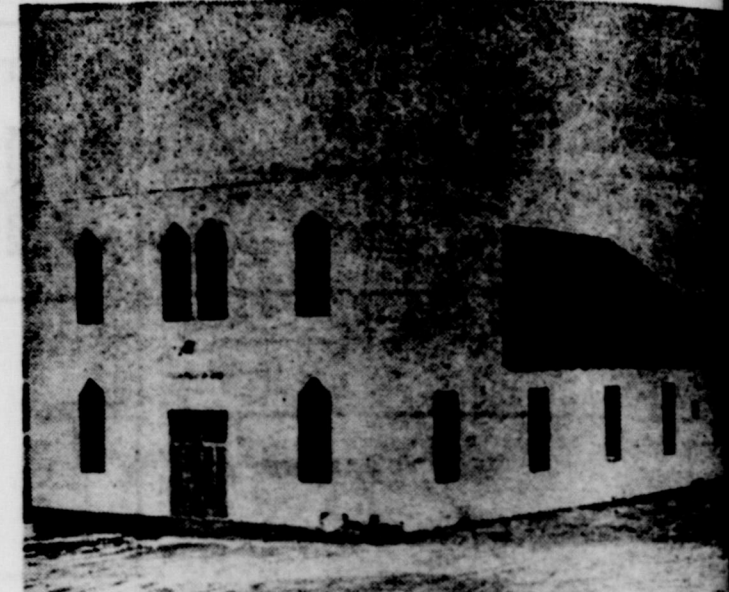

4. Stay away from fault finding and unfavorable criticism. If you continually find fault, people will stay away from you, so you want to stay away from fault finding. A personality is something that will make others desire your company. That something that will make them glad when they see you coming for a visit. Definitely then fault finding will injure a personality.

5. Prov. 15:1; "A soft answer turneth away wrath: But grievous words stir up anger." Here Solomon not only mentions the type of words we use, but the tone of your voice. You might use choice words to show that you are not angry, but your tone can betray you. The other individual may be angry, but if you can control your words and the tone of your voice, you can control the situation and will turn away his wrath. Rom. 12:21; "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good". We cannot return evil for evil and be right in the sight of God. Then regardless of how angry he may be, regardless of his words, we must "Overcome evil with good."

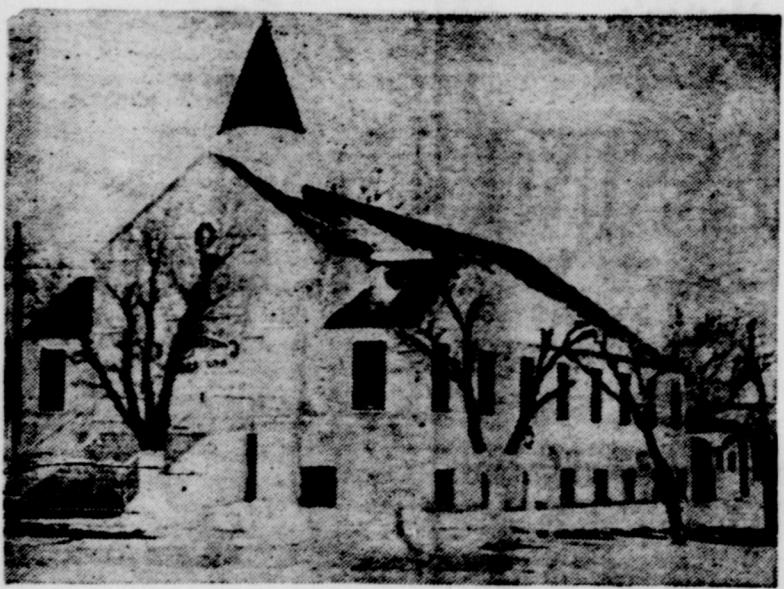

This takes a lot of practice.
