A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

What's he running from?

Robert Garside, a 33-year-old British citizen who has vowed to run across every continent, has reached Hollywood.

Garside, known as The Runningman, entered the United States from Mexico in September. He expects to complete his five-year, 42,000-mile journey next year.

The former police officer left London in December 1996, and has jogged about 30,000 miles, covering Europe, Asia, Australia and Latin America.

He has outrun thieves in Mexico and Panama, dodge bullets in Russia and faced jail in China for running in restricted areas.

Man's best pal gets his due

A retired tool and die maker from Chilton, Wis., has bequeathed more than $500,000 for a new animal shelter and $5,000 to his schnauzer, Bozo.

Robert Hansen's bequest comes as the Eastshore Humane Association prepares to break ground on a 4,500-square-foot building to replace its current home in the basement of a veterinary clinic.

Hansen, who earned a Purple Heart as a tail gunner in World War II, apparently told no one about the gift before he died Nov. 15 at age 78, sister-in-law Leora Hansen said.

He left another part of his estate to nieces and nephews, one of whom keeps Bozo.

Dummy contamination?

A woman who took a CPR class is suing the American Red Cross, saying she caught herpes from practicing mouth-to-mouth techniques on a dirty dummy.

Brenda Nelson said that shortly after completing a two-day course, during which she tried out CPR techniques on a mannequin, she noticed a tingling in her mouth.

Her doctor diagnosed oral herpes. The American Social Health Association says the chance of contracting herpes from an inanimate object "is vanishingly small."

Littlefield scares Mules before losing 36-26

By DELTON WILHITE
Journal correspondent

It was a beautiful night for football when the Littlefield Wildcats came to town Friday, and for a short time it looked as if they might ruin everything.

Then the Mules really kicked in, and overcame a Littlefield lead to kick the Cats 36-26 in a game that topped even last week's Lubbock Cooper contest for sheer excitement.

Actually the Mules began the game with a strong first quarter, beginning with D.J. Domínguez's kickoff that carried to the Littlefield 15-yard line. Joey Tucker and Lupe Nuñez were down quickly to stop Littlefield's Matthew Hock on his own 24.

It was three plays and punt for Littlefield on its first series. The Mules took over on their own 32 and sustained their first drive for four first downs, helped along by an interference call on Littlefield.

The Mules could not put the ball in the end zone, though, so they called on Domínguez to kick a 23-yard field goal with 3:47 remaining in the first quarter.

On Littlefield's first down of the next series, Darrell Lewis penetrated the Wildcat line and tackled quarterback Taylor Allen four yards behind the line of scrimmage. The Mules held on this series and forced Littlefield to punt again. The kicker shanked the ball, which went out of bounds on the Littlefield 48.

After picking up two first downs, Danny Ramírez took a pitch around his right end and headed into the end zone to make the score 9-0. The Mules famous "Swinging Gate" failed to produce the extra points.

The Wildcats picked up a first down on their next series, but then the Mules began to apply the pressure. Nuñez and Cade Hooten combined on a defensive stop five yards deep in the Wildcat backfield.

On third down, Allen broke free for an eight-yard gain before Kyle Atwood and Bradley Thomason put a classic Hi-Lo hit on him. Allen was shaken up, and replaced by Mike Vaught.

With fourth down and seven yards to go,

Vaught handed the ball to Theo Watson — who made the first down and almost went the distance.

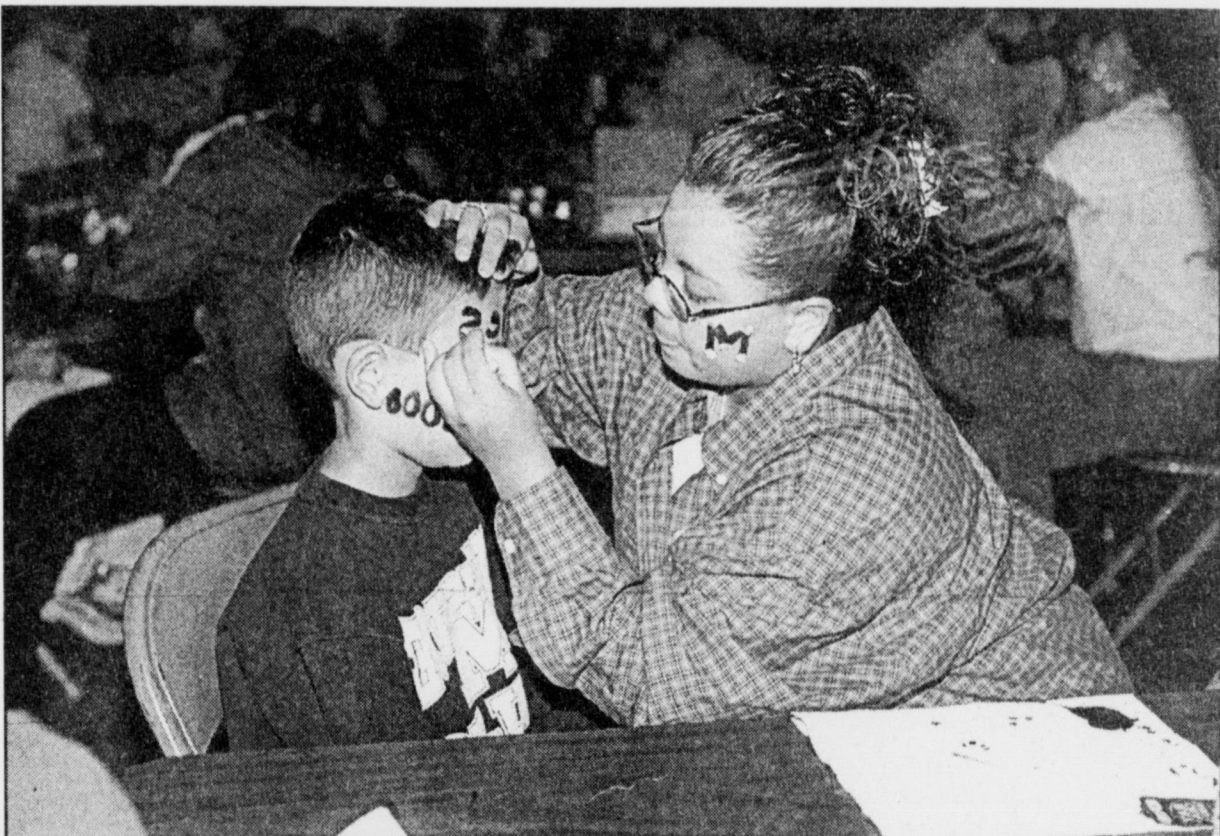

Atwood saved the touchdown once, but Watson scored on second and goal from the two-yard line. Watson then kicked the extra point and narrowed the score to 9-7 with 5:36 left in the half.

With Watson then kicking again, the ball went all the way to the Mules' five, where Chris Vela picked it up and followed his blockers out to the 48.

Lincoln Riley checked in as the Mule quarterback at that point. Quick disaster was avoided when he recovered his own fumble, but it was back at the Mule 41-yard line. Muleshoe was forced to punt.

Littlefield then gained a first down on a pass

Early voting in person begins Monday at courthouse

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

Bailey County election officials reminded citizens Friday that early voting in person begins Monday for the November general election.

Voting can be done at the county clerk's office.

The only contested local race is for county commissioner in Precinct 1, where incumbent Democrat Floyd J. "Butch" Vandiver is being challenged by Republican Jack Dunham.

Incumbent Commissioner Joey R. Kindle of Precinct 3 is unopposed for re-election, as are County Attorney Carissa A. Cleavinger and Precinct 3 Constable Gary Don-Gartin, all Democrats.

Sheriff Chance Coberley, a Republican, is seeking his first full term after being appointed to fill the remainder of former Sheriff Coy Plott's term when Plott resigned.

Berta Combs also is seeking her first time as county tax assessor-collector to replace the retiring Kathleen Hayes.

Voters can still request ballots to vote by mail. Voting regulations require that those ballots be requested by mail and returned by mail to the county clerk's office.

A large vote turnout is expected because of the presidential race.

City leases ball field to schools

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

The Muleshoe City Council approved a five-year lease giving control of the city's baseball field to the Muleshoe Independent School District.

The lease will be automatically renewed for two-year intervals unless one party or the other gives written notice at least 180 days prior to expiration that they do not intend to renew the agreement.

The city will charge the district $1 per year for the lease, with the money payable each November.

The school district already had spent considerable money on upgrading the facility, according to school district officials.

The lease states that the district must get permission from the city before using the field for anything other than baseball or "associated activities."

The district agrees to provide maintenance, security, insurance and utilities for the field. The lease also states that if buildings or other improvements at the site are damaged by fire or other casualty, the district will begin repairs or reconstruction within 90 days.

The field lies on Avenue F adjacent to the City Park.

Also during the council's Tuesday meeting, City Manager Rick Hanna said city officials had looked at various ordinances governing itinerant vendors and didn't like any of them. Some were too weak and some were too assertive, he said.

He asked council members for input about whether they wanted to exempt residents of Muleshoe or residents of all of Bailey County and how long a term the council wanted to place on the licenses to be issued.

Mayor Victor Leal suggested that since members of the Muleshoe Chamber of Commerce suggested the vendor-licensing ordinance, the council might meet with chamber representatives for input on the issue.

City Attorney Rick Langenegger said that constitutionally and under the rules of interstate commerce, the city cannot completely exempt its own residents from the ordinance.

"Charitable groups" or any specified group — such as those selling farm products — can be exempted "as long as you exempt everybody" selling that type of product, he added.

Among other issues addressed, the council approved the appointment of Richard Ronek as chief of the Muleshoe Fire Department.

Drought losses top $1 billion

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

COLLEGE STATION — Agricultural losses in Texas caused by drought have exceeded $1 billion, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reported Wednesday.

The new estimate came after factoring in losses to the state's fall-harvested crops of cotton, corn and sorghum, plus added expenses incurred by ranchers to feed and water livestock earlier than usual.

For the year, direct drought losses have cost Texas agricultural producers $1.096 billion, Extension economists said, with the cotton the hardest-hit commodity.

Estimated cotton losses have reached $485 million as extreme heat and dry conditions devastated dryland cotton and cut the potential of irrigated cotton through August and September.

In mid-August, cotton losses had been estimated at $285 million, but another $200 million was added Wednesday, according to Carl Anderson, Extension cotton-marketing specialist.

Dryland cotton throughout the state could not withstand another round of record-breaking temperatures and lack of rainfall through both August and September.

Other estimated agricultural losses this year include:

- Grain sorghum, $62 million;
- Corn, $34 million;
- Wheat, $153 million;
- Added irrigation costs, $47 million;
- Wheat grazing, $30 million;
- Forage crops, $124 million;
- Other crops, $56 million; and
- Added feed and water costs, $105 million.

Lubbock County received 27 percent of normal rainfall from July to September.

Delayed puberty's stress can be curbed with therapy

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
TEMPLE, Texas — During his pee-wee years, "Paul" was active in whatever sport was in season: football, basketball, soccer and baseball.

Once he entered junior high his desire to participate in athletics completely dissolved. It wasn't until questioning from his father that the reason came out: Paul had not yet begun puberty and he was uncomfortable undressing with other boys.

"He is smaller than most of the boys his age and he was intimidated that other boys already had body hair," Paul's father said.

"Paul, like thousands of boys his age, suffers from constitutional delay. It is not a disease; it is a normal variant of growth," said Dr. Don Wilson, chairman of the department of pediatrics at Scott and White Hospital in Temple.

Wilson said there are many reasons for delayed growth, such as chromosome deficiencies, but constitutional delay is the most common.

"No one really is sure how the body controls the timing of sexual development. Paul is a typical example where their clock is set a little bit slower for some boys than others," Wilson said.

Girls are not immune to constitutional delay, either. "Catherine," an eighth-grader, grows tired of questions about what grade she's "really supposed to be in."

Wilson says Scott and White sees about 30 cases of constitutional delay a year and usually 10 boys for every girl, probably a reflection of our society's expectation for boys regarding height attainment.

For some boys, the psychological stress of being delayed in growth and development can be overwhelming. Usually, the issue is too embarrassing for boys to bring up to their parents or their doctor.

But there is a treatment.

"This is a sensitive but simple situation that can be resolved with testosterone injections," Wilson said.

The testosterone is given as an injection into a muscle once a month for up to six months. The injection raises the body's testosterone level and, in a way, puts the body on notice that it is time for puberty to begin.

"It is important to know that testosterone shots are not necessary for the majority of constitutionally delayed children, but it helps the psychological health of boys and girls by speeding up the delayed timing.

Without treatment, children will catch up and develop just fine. It will just take them longer, that's all," Wilson said.

The girls can be treated for a limited time with oral estrogen instead of injections.

After treatment, Paul was back on the playing field. "Paul's attitude and disposition completely changed. He's back to his old self," his father said.

Band rates 'superior' at Plainview

Muleshoe High School's Mighty 'M' Band members demonstrate one of the formations from the marching show that they performed Oct. 14 in Plainview. All three judges rated the band 'superior,' and it placed second among the Class 3A bands at the Plainview Marching Band Festival. Directors praised the band members for their performance in a driving rain with some hail. The band also was scheduled to perform in the UIL marching contest at Texas Tech on Saturday.

Muleshoe JV tops Littlefield by 40-27

JOURNAL STAFF REPORT

A.J. Flores went for the gold in every quarter Thursday as the Mule junior varsity downed Littlefield 40-27.

Flores opened the scoring with a seven-yard touchdown in the first quarter. The attempted run for two points was no good.

Littlefield answered with a score of its own, and a kick gave the Wildcats a 7-6 lead.

But, before the first quarter was over, Flores broke loose for a 65-yard touchdown romp to return the lead to the Mules, 12-7. Once again, the extra-point attempt failed.

Littlefield was far from ready to give up, pushing over the goal line from six yards out to seesaw the lead back to Wildcats 13, Mules 12. The kick again failed.

That made it Flores' turn again, and he obliged with a seven-yard run to return the lead to Muleshoe, 18-13. Another extra-point try fizzled.

Flores repeated in the third quarter: His three-yard plunge gave the Mules their first small cushion of the game at 24-13, but the Mules still couldn't manage the extra-point attempt.

In the final quarter, the Mules decided to put the game completely out of Littlefield's reach.

Fabian Fabela scored his first six of the game and then caught a Brennan Broyles pass for two. Flores then broke free for a 60-yard punt return and Broyles ran the two-pointer.

Despite the Wildcats making the final points of the game, they could not overtake the Mules again.

Flores had a banner night, with 211 yards rushing (on 22 carries) and 74 yards receiving (on three catches).

Broyles completed four of six passes for 81 yards and had one interception.

Joel Cowart was again the Mules' top tackler with nine—six solos and three assists.

Three other Mules turned in good performances, though: Chance Turney and Jordan Dale each had seven tackles, with Dale having six solos and Turney four. Turney also made a fumble recovery.

Michael Durben was credited with five tackles (two solo) and caused a fumble.

to J.D. Walls, but he laid the ball on the ground and Hooten covered it at the Wildcat 30.

The Mules' first play in this series was one that coach David Wood has said came from his father. It is called "Wide Delay, Left," and in this case was a delay pass to tight end Jeff Shelburne.

Shelburne was wide open and rumbled into the end zone on a 30-yard run. Domínguez's kick was good this time to make it Mules 16, Wildcats 7.

Littlefield's first play of the series, from the Wildcats' 32, was a pass from Allen to Tyler Kirby, who never had to miss a step as he pulled in the pass and scurried 68 yards for a touchdown.

Watson's kick was good, and with 1:10 to go in the half, the Mules' lead was back to two points, 16-14.

On their next possession, the Mules made good yardage before Shelburne had the ball ripped from him at Littlefield's 39-yard line, after he caught a pass from Travis Tunnell. The half ended.

Opening the second half, Muleshoe's Chris Barrera ran Watson's kick out to the Muleshoe 20. A face-mask penalty gave the Mules a first down on the 38, then Tunnell hit Lewis in the right flat for a seven-yard gain.

Ramírez next raced to the left corner of the end zone to make the score 22-14 with 9:21 in the third quarter. But Littlefield turned around and strung together three first down before Allen passed to Tyler Kirby, who ran a curl pattern down the sideline and suddenly Muleshoe's lead was two points again, 22-20.

On the next series, the Mules fumbled and the Wildcats recovered on their own 46. The Wildcats capitalized on the Mules' miscue when Watson carried the ball to give Littlefield its first lead of the game, 26-22.

The Mules then picked up a first down just before the third quarter ended, and began the final quarter on the Wildcat 48.

Muleshoe was picking up good yardage when Lewis fumbled and the Cats recovered on their 21.

Littlefield quickly moved the ball to the Mule 28, but a pass interference call and a sack by Hooten force a punt — to the Mule nine-yard line.

On the ensuing series, Ramírez blows through for a 73-yard touchdown run and Domínguez kicks the extra point. Mules lead again, 29-26.

Riley scored the final touchdown on a quarterback sneak and Domínguez's toe again adds a point.

The Mules are now 2-0 in district and 6-0 on the season while Littlefield falls to 0-2 in district play and 3-4 on the year.

White team: Future of the Mules

Not many Mule football fans may have had an opportunity to watch the Watson Junior High White team.

These "Mules in the Making" are seventh- and eighth-grade boys who want to play football but because of lack of experience or slow physical development might not get to play much on the seventh- and eighth-grade Black teams.

Coaches Brad Stegall, Chad King and Nick Dickson have turned this group of young men into a team that whipped Littlefield 20-0 Thursday night.

Unfortunately, it is difficult for the team to schedule games because many districts do not necessarily feel it is important for groups like this to hone their skills under game conditions.

The White team has a 5-0 record at this point — indicating that the future of the Mules remains bright for years to come.

The White players have responded well to the coaching and the playing time they get. Improvement has been easy to see.

One has only to remember that Michael Jordan never made his high school basketball team to realize that not all young men grow and mature at the same rate. That does not mean that their desire and work ethic are diminished — they just need an opportunity to play.

Thursday night's win over Littlefield's Wildcats is a good example of the White team's abilities.

With the mixture of passing and running that the coaches have put together for this team, the offense was able to put 14 points on the scoreboard.

With Tomas Buenrostro at quarterback, Jordan Bonds at running back and Ricky Treviño and Jason Hartline as receivers, these young Mules have a well-balanced and potent offense.

The offensive line dominates the competition, giving Buenrostro time to operate at quarterback.

Bonds was able to gain five to six yards per carry, and Buenrostro connected with Treviño for a good gain.

Hartline is a good example of the team play this group utilizes. He knows that a good downfield block for a teammate is just as important as catching the ball.

Leadership by linebacker Erwin Lewis and defensive linemen Brandon Simmacher and Dal Grumbles set the tone for the stout Mule defense.

It was Grumbles who covered a fumble generated by this squad for the other six points on the board in Thursday's game.

Stegall, King and Dickson are to be commended for their efforts with this team and their unique contribution to the future of Mule football.

The White team plays the opening game on Thursday nights — ahead of the Black teams — and can be depended on to provide a good game.

Pride is the Bait
On All Sorts of Hooks

I received a letter last week inviting me to shell out $35 for a volume entitled, The World Book of Shelburnes. According to the letter, "extensive work has been done throughout the world on a project relating to the distinguished Shelburne name." This work will focus on Shelburnes "who immi-

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

grated to the New World between the 16th and early 20th centuries." Wow! That made me feel privileged. Absolutely unique. One of a kind. Wonder why they sent the letter bulk rate?

I read on. "The first Shelburne we found came to Charles Town, South Carolina, in 1767. Her name was Margaret." Hmm.

"Shelburne" is plastered all over the letter. Twenty times in one page. Coupled more than once with the adjective "distinguished."

Makes me wonder why they wrote in bold print on the order form: No direct genealogical connection to your family or to your ancestry is implied or intended. So they could just as easily have peddled The World Book of Shelburnes to Joneses, Smiths, or McGradys?

I hadn't read a full paragraph into the letter before I recognized that old "The circus is in town! Hang on to your wallet!" feeling.

Pardon me, but I'm pretty sure peddlers who pitch to our pride speak with forked tongues. It happened in Eden, remember? The combination of a smooth-talking serpent, Adam & Eve's lack of sales resistance, and an unvarnished appeal to sinful pride ("Eat this, and you'll be like God!") brought cockleburrs to Paradise.

I'm happy to wear the Shelburne name, but I'm pretty sure a little real research would turn up a horse thief or two.

I'm very proud to be an American, a Texan, a citizen of Muleshoe, but I'm not such a mule that I'm blind to weaknesses or unaware that some other fine nations, states, and cities exist.

If I read my Bible correctly, there is, for those who wear the name of Christ, a great deal of room for pride in little and the cross, but precious little room indeed for arrogance regarding. "my" group, "my" sect, "my" righteousness, "my" tradition.

Whenever you suspect a peddler on your porch, at a political rally, in a pulpit, or using a bulk mail permit is baiting you with pride, watch out! Some unscrupulous angler is getting ready to set the hook and reel you in.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Increase in record yields expected with DNA diagnostics

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL COLLEGE STATION — Researchers at Texas A&M University not only believe every year should yield record crops, they believe science can get significantly closer to that goal.

The average crop yields in the United States are 25 percent of record levels — a plant's genetic potential — according to Dr. John Mullet, director of the Norman Borlaug Center for Southern Crop Improvement at Texas A&M.

"There are all kinds of constraints in Texas — environmental stress, temperature extremes, drought, insects and disease — that keep a crop from reaching maximum production," Mullet said. "So there is a significant opportunity to increase plant yields if we can identify the constraints and make Texas crops better adapted to the environment."

Learning to identify the constraints, Mullet said, means developing DNA chip diagnostics that can detect problems long before they are visible to framers scouting the fields. It means thoroughly understanding plant adaptation at the DNA level.

"The reason plants are not more productive is that the environment is so complex and the number of genes required to make a plant adapted to the environment is very large," Mullet explained. "Until now, we haven't had the tools to make significant improvement in the environmental stress tolerance of crops."

Mullet and a team of scientists have been awarded $740,000 in a three-year project aimed at mapping genes on the sorghum genome under the National Science Foundation's plant genome program. That, in turn, will enable the group to devise DNA chip-based diagnostic tools for sorghum.

The effort began three years ago with the team building a complex genetic and physical map of the sorghum genome. As that project nears completion, the team will locate in sorghum individual genes that code for a specific function or trait.

Dr. Patricia Klein, a co-investigator on the project, said the project promises many practical applications for producers.

"With remote sensing and DNA diagnostics, we could pick up problems in the field earlier than a farmer could see them because the genes would be indicating the trouble," she said.

Likewise, plant breeders could do a fly-by, via satellite, of fields during certain weather phenomena such as drought and be able to determine which types of sorghums are responding well under the circumstances. Those could be used to breed new varieties that would be tolerant of the conditions, she said.

Beginning next planting season, Klein noted, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station sorghum breeder Bill Rooney will plant several plots of different sorghum varieties across the state. That will help the research team test the reactions of various genes to the conditions in the field and determine how a gene helps sorghum tolerate drought, for example.

Klein also said that growth chambers at the Borlaug Center can simulate many adverse environments.

"That will help us create a known library of changes in gene expression that signal when crops are limited by environmental conditions," she said.

The researchers said the findings for grain sorghum will no doubt lead to greater understanding of other plants.

"By comparing the genomics of the sorghum with the DNA of other plants, we can take out what we already know and see what's left," Mullet explained. In other words, if a gene found in sorghum is spotted when examining the DNA of another plant, scientists already will know how that gene works.

The more genes that are understood in this way in sorghum, the more likely it is that those genes also will be found in other crops and plants.

"I see a day when farmers will routinely sample their fields and either at a local hardware store or at their homes be able to diagnose genetically what is happening to their crops," Mullet said. "And the same technology will be available to help people with lawns, golf courses and other urban landscapes."

Mullet expects the work to take 10 years before the DNA diagnostics fully developed and gene discovery is complete, but numerous applications will be possible along the way, he said.

Excel gets new contract with military

The U.S. Defense Commissary Agency recently awarded a contract for more than $75 million to the Excel Corp. of Wichita, Kan.

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest announced the contract Wednesday.

"This funding will be used to provide fresh beef to our nation's commissaries and our armed forces," Combest said. "Because the beef will be processed and supplied by the local Excel plant in Friona, Texas, our West Texas beef industry will benefit greatly from this contract."

Steve Thompson, general manager of the Friona plant, stated: "We are pleased to have been awarded this contract. We have participated in this program for a number of years and look forward to successfully fulfilling our contract."

The beef will be shipped from Friona to commissaries in the northeastern United States through Sept. 30 of next year.

LADIES GOLF ASSOCIATION

The Muleshoe Ladies Golf Association had its last monthly luncheon for the year on Oct. 18. The menu was beef stew, cornbread and banana pudding.

President Darlene Henry called the meeting to order by thanking Sheryl Engelking for the decorations and Tammy Black for coordinating "secret sisters."

There were no members with October birthdays, but those attending wished happy birthdays to Black (whose birthday is in November) and Elinor Yerby (whose birthday is in December).

Officer elected by acclamation were Anita Allgood, president; Deborah Noble, vice president; Pat Kirk, secretary; Linda Elder, treasurer; Claudine Elliott, reporter; Yolonda Philips, play day chairman; Kay Field, tournament chairman; and Linda Elder, High Plains chairman.

Elder reported that City Manager Rick Hanna was supportive of holding The West Texas Lone Star Ladies Senior Tournament the second week of September 2003, and members voted to sponsor it.

The members drew for new secret sisters and revealed the identity of last year's participants.

The Over the Hill Gang asked members of the association to help serve at the group's annual banquet Nov. 2.

Elder congratulated Helen Templeton for winning low putts in her flight during the High Plains Tournament. Templeton was awarded a golf necklace.

Engelking awarded play day balls to Elliott, Noble, Judy Wilbanks and LaVern Winn for best chip on the No. 6 hole on their respective teams during the Sept. 27.

On Oct. 4, the winning scramble team was Wilbanks, Field, Winn and Neets Foster with a score of 73.

On Oct. 11, Noble struggled with the most putts and the infamous Piggy Award ($58.40 this time) went to Analita Haley. All those three-putt penalty quarters really added up.

Henry gave personalized ball markers to the outgoing officers, and the members gave a gift of appreciation to Henry for her service and leadership.

Allgood drew Henry's name for the door prize.

Members divided into three teams to play. The winning team, with a score of 75, included Field, Winn, Elliott and Pamela Miller. Dorothy St. Clair went along as the team's coach.

Those attending the luncheon were Elliott, Templeton, Winn, Engelking, Allgood, Field, Black, Henry, Kirk, Wilbanks, Elder, Foster, Miller, Noble, Dorothy St. Clair, Jo Rempe, Jana St. Clair and Ronda Box.

Big Bend workshop to teach desert survival

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
PRESIDIO, Texas — Anyone meaning to brush up on outdoor adventure skills in the hope of landing a spot on the next season of "Survivor" need look no further than the wilds of West Texas.

Texas Parks and Wildlife has room for 20 people in its Desert Survival Workshop scheduled Nov. 10-12 in Big Bend Ranch State Park's high-desert country.

This is the sixth year that the park's interpretive ranger and naturalist, David Alloway, has hosted the three-day program that teaches individuals to survive in the Chihuahuan Desert using only what nature provides.

Alloway wrote Desert Survival Skills, published recently by the University of Texas Press. The El Paso native is the first non-Australian to complete that country's 120-mile Pilbara Trek, featured recently on television's National Geographic Explorer.

Joining Alloway as a co-instructor again this year will be Aussie Bob Cooper, recognized as one of the leading survival instructors Down Under.

Cooper, who runs an outdoor education business and has worked with the Australian Army's elite Special Air Service, will bring along one of his company's instructors and an interpretive specialist with Australia's national parks to help conduct the Big Bend workshop.

For $350, workshop participants receive meals and lodging at the Saucedo Lodge, a western-style bunkhouse, and instruction in a host of ways to survive in a harsh environment.

"Students" will be taught to find locate water sources, find natural shelter and identify edible plants, start a fire and make crude weapons and tools.

Alloway's course emphasizes the importance of psychological outlook in surviving in the desert.

"Survivors" of the Big Bend Ranch workshop may not become television stars, but graduates can purchase a special T-shirt sporting a buzzard perched on an empty canteen, and will join the ranks of Alloway's "buzzard cheaters."

More information is available by contacting the state park at (915) 229-3416, or e-mail (david.alloway@tpwd.state.tx.us).

ELIJAH AND THE PRIESTS OF BAAL

WHEN THE PRIESTS OF BAAL FAILED TO BRING FIRE ON THEIR SACRIFICE, ELIJAH STEPPED FORWARD TO TAKE COMMAND. HE EVEN INSTRUCTED THE PEOPLE TO POUR WATER AGAIN AND AGAIN OVER HIS SACRIFICE...

IF THE LORD DID SEND DOWN FIRE, HOW THEN CAN IT BURN WHEN ELIJAH HAS DRENCHED THE ALTAR WITH WATER?!

LORD, GOD OF ISRAEL, LET IT BE KNOWN THIS DAY THAT THOU ART GOD... O LORD HEAR ME, THAT THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW THAT THOU ART THE LIVING GOD!

AND SUDDENLY, FIRE FILLS THE AIR AND FALLS ON THE ALTAR, CONSUMING THE SACRIFICE, AND THE WOOD AND THE STONES OF THE ALTAR, AND LICKING UP THE VERY WATER IN THE TRENCH ROUND ABOUT THE ALTAR...

Recipe for waterfowl season success: Just add water

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
AUSTIN — At the risk of stating the obvious, Texas wildlife biologists predict excellent waterfowl hunting this fall in areas with water — the outlook is that simple.

"It all depends on what happens with the weather between now and the season opener," said Dave Morrison, Texas Parks and Wildlife waterfowl program leader.

"The fall flight estimate is about 90 million birds, which is down a little from last year but still well above the long-term average. Areas in Canada are starting to freeze up now and these birds will be heading our way, so areas that have water when they get here will have plenty of birds," he said.

Depending which parts of Texas have had extensive rainfall by the end of October, those migrants could face a less-than-friendly welcome.

"Last year, things were pretty spotty along the coast, and you could see a similar situation this fall," Morrison said.

Remaining seasons in the High Plains Mallard Management Unit run through Monday (Oct. 23) and Oct. 28-Jan. 21.

Duck-hunting seasons in the North Zone are Oct. 28-29 and Nov. 11-Jan. 21. South Zone dates are Oct. 28-Nov. 26 and Dec. 9-Jan. 21.

The merganser and coot seasons run concurrently with ducks. Bag limit is five mergansers (only one may be a hooded merganser) and 15 coots.

The duck bag limit remains unchanged from last year at six ducks in the aggregate, which may include no more than five mallards (only two may be hens), three scaup, two wood ducks, two redheads, one mottled duck, one pintail and one canvasback.

According to U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service surveys, this year's breeding duck populations were near an all-time high at 42 million birds, 27 percent more than the long-term average.

Morrison added that some species, including pintail and mallard, experienced slight declines in numbers from last year's counts, but teal populations are at record highs.

"There are plenty of birds," Morrison noted. "The playa lakes that have water are covered up in ducks and those areas along the coast where wetland managers are pumping water or were able to retain some of the water from that early cold front should see a lot of hunting action."

This year, goose-hunting season opens statewide Oct. 28. The light and dark geese seasons will run concurrently statewide this year, closing on Jan. 21 in the Eastern Zone and Feb. 11 in the Western Zone.

Bag limits remain the same as last year at 20 light geese per day and no possession limit.

For dark geese, the bag limit in the Western Zone remains five daily with no more than one specklebelly, and in the Eastern Zone a daily limit of one Canada and two specklebellies.

The special conservation season for light geese in the Eastern Zone starts Jan. 22, with a Feb. 12 opener in the Western Zone. The season closes April 1.

During the special season only, hunters may use electronic game calls, unplugged shotguns and extended hunting hours. There will be no daily bag limit or possession limit on light geese during this special season.
