

MUSTANGS LOSE DISTRICT PLAYOFF GAME TO SAMNORWOOD

From a spectator's point of view, the game was one of the most exciting played this year. In the first quarter, the mustangs got the tip and scored first. Samnorwood came out with a not hand and built up an 8 point lead mid-way through the quarter. The Mustangs then gained their composure and came charging back with a full court press which surprised the Eagles causing them to throw the ball away several times. An when the quarter ended Samnorwood was ahead 20-19. The second quarter was a constant see-saw battle with both teams pressing and both teams hitting about 60% of their shots. When the quarter ended the game found Wheeler scoring 20 points and Samnorwood 19 which ended the half tied at 39 all. In the third quarter the Eagles and the Mustangs cooled off a bit with Wheeler hitting 31% from the floor and Samnorwood hit about the same and managed to out score Wheeler by three points and took a 55-52 third quarter lead. The fourth quarter, which is the most important quarter, was the most exciting with each team taking the lead and then losing it. Each side built up a 5 point lead only to lose it within a matter of minutes. The Mustangs looked as though they were going to take the game leading by 4 points with less than 2 minutes to go in the game.

Here & There

Laura Guthrie

Well, now. Don't we live in a hurry. Why Thursday is George Washington's birthday, and a lot of people celebrated it on Monday. I've just lived too long to get used to this kind of timing. I suppose it's all right though—I seldom get a holiday anyway.

Last week in the McLean News was an editorial that, in my thinking, went right to the core of a lot of our problems. The Editorial was entitled EPIDEMIC SPREADING. The article stated that the debilitating disease called "loss of respect for authority," and that it's most flagrant symptom is "loud and long criticism of teachers and coaches," and that it is spread presence of their children." This has been a pet peeve with me all my adult life. If you parents do not agree with the teachers, discuss it with them. Flaunting it before the children only makes bad matters worse. A child should be taught to respect authority—whether it be the teacher, the United States government, or You—the parent! We should make an effort to put a copy of this editorial into the hands of every parent. It is straight from the shoulder talking-in my opinion very true.

I've noticed a few of our "home-town-girls coming back home. Gynn Barnes Cornett with her two children is here, I believe that she is doing substitute teaching. Sibyl Richerson Eliason with her two children have moved back to Wheeler. Sibyl has a job at the Library. Sherry Richardson Hawkes with her husband Pete, is now living on the Stiles Ranch. It's nice to see these people around again.

Kay Kennedy and her children were weekend guests of the Richard Hamptons. These two families were friends when they lived at happy.

David Clemens and family of Amarillo spent Sunday and Monday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Clemens.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Thompson of Sacramento, Calif., were last week guests of his sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Killingsworth. The Killingsworth took them to Amarillo to take a plane to their home.

Glen and Janet Farmer and family have moved to Canyon, because of a company transfer. Last Saturday Glen came for his mother, Ida Farmer, so that she could spend some time with them in their new home.

In addition to the installation of officers, recognition will be given the Outstanding Man, Woman, Teenager, Employee and Farmer and or Rancher. The recipients of these awards are selected by secret Chamber committees.

Elected to serve as president of the Chamber for a second year is Jay Thompson, manager of the Southwestern Public Office in Wheeler. Jay has been manager of the local office for the past 2½ years.

Filling the position of Vice President for 1979 will be Sharon Wright. Mrs. Wright, a registered nurse, serves as school nurse, and helps her husband with Wright Flower Shop and Wright Funeral Home.

At the banquet, directors will be installed to replace retiring directors, Lyndon Loyd and Lowell Lasley. The two new directors have not been elected; a director serves a 4 year term.

Tickets for the banquet will be $5.00.

3 Places Open On Wheeler Council

Time has arrived again to elect City officials. Are you satisfied with the way the City business is carried out? Are you satisfied with the way your tax money is spent? If not apply for a place on City election ballot. Filing deadline March 7, 1979.

At the time the article ran in the February 15 edition of the "Times", only one citizen had filed at the City office for the placing of his name on the ballot for the April 7 City Council election. With the terms of three council members expiring, Kirven Roper is the only citizen who has filed with the city secretary.

Roper, District Attorney Investigator, has placed his name on the ballot for place 1 on the council.

The Ladies Prayer and Share Group met Thursday, Feb. 15, at 10:00, in the basement of the Nazarene Church. There were eleven ladies attending, and the study and discussion were excellent.

The Bible study was on Hebrews, Chapter 11, "Hall of Faith." Everyone contributed, and each received a blessing! afterward, all joined in a salad luncheon, which was very tasty! Those who come were: Willie Burks, Sharon Horton, Lanita Arganbright, Jackie Cummings, Mrs. Elgie Dearing, Fanny Calloway, Wendy Cole, Irene Rogers, Mary Lea Cole, Debbie Hunter, and Roxie Hanks.

Anyone who is interested in Christian fellowship and Bible Study is welcome to come to the meetings. Women of all denominations are in the group and meetings are open to the public. If any lady is interested and needs a ride, call 826-5952, or 826-5842. The group meets every Thursday morning from 10:00-11:30 or 12:00 at the Church of the Nazarene. The salad luncheon is planned for the third Thursday of each month — each lady brings her favorite salad. Ya'll come!

SELECTING PAINTS, FINISHES, STAINS

Consumers can choose from a wide variety of paints, finishes and stains for woodwork, walls and ceilings.

Paints

Latex is the most widely used paint—tools, spills and hands clean with soap and water while the latex is wet.

In addition, latex paint is almost free of odor and harmful fumes, and a coat is usually dry in little more than an hour.

Alkyd is the most durable of the common finishing paints it is almost odorless and will dry within four to six hours.

Finishes

Paints come in flat, semi-gloss and high-gloss finishes.

Flat paints provide a low glare surface for walls and ceilings that do not need frequent washing.

Semi-gloss paints afford moderate durability with a less obtrusive shine for most woodwork.

Semi-gloss paints afford moderate durability with a less obtrusive shine for most woodwork.

The high resin film of gloss paints make them ideal for areas subject to heavy use and frequent washing such as kitchen and bathrooms.

Stains

Stain enhances the grain of wood of altering the color. After staining, oil, wax or leave the surface bare. Or, apply varnish to protect the wood and make cleaning easier. Stains consist of varying amounts of pigment in oil, water or alcohol. Oil-base stains are most common. Stains with water base penetrate more deeply than oil stains and advantage if the surface is likely to get scratched but the water raises the wood grain so extra sanding is needed.

Alcohol stains dry faster than any other type but fast drying can produce streaky finish.

Combined stain and varnish change wood color and also provide a protective coating, yet these mixtures also streak easily.

Check Roof Before Problems Occur

Plaster flaking? Wallpaper splotching? Shingles flapping? Don't wait for these drastic signs to appear before checking condition of the roof.

Although modern roofing materials have an "expected lifetime" of about 20 years, roofs can be damaged or wear out faster, and inspecting the roof annually can help avoid expensive repairs.

First check the underlayment. This is the covering of asphalt saturated felt laid over the sheeting to protect it and the roof structure from moisture. Be sure there are no obvious holes beneath the shingles.

Another trouble spot may be in the flashing, those metal or tar-like strips located where roof planes intersect such as where a dormer meets the main roof, along the eaves, or at vent stacks or chimneys. Flashing strips should be anchored securely to help keep the roof watertight.

Also, routine maintenance procedures should include making any immediate repairs replace damaged shingles, for example. Clean fallen leaves, twigs and other debris from gutters, downspouts and roof surfaces so water can drain freely. Trim nearby trees to prevent the branches from rubbing against the roof. Prune climbing roses and vines well below the eaves.

Although a homeowner can make simple repairs and maintenance, major jobs require a professional roofer. When hiring a roofer, get at least three estimates of the total cost for comparable materials and installation. Ask for references and check them. Beware of the roofing salesman who will restore the roof with a 'special magical coating,' because coatings can be used successfully in some small areas, but they often damage roof materials. Damage roof materials.

LEARN NOT TO BURN

By Ken Daughtry—Fire Marshall

HOW WE CAN MAKE OUR HOMES SAFE FROM FIRE

The Living Room

1. Everyone in the home should avoid the careless handling of cigarettes and matches. Matches and smoking are the major causes of fire.
2. We should see that window curtains never blow over ash trays, light bulbs, lamps, or candles.
3. Since fires are often caused by flying sparks or embers, we should keep a metal screen in front of a woodburning fireplace.
4. If chimneys in use should be cleaned and inspected periodically.
5. Lamps and extension cords should be checked frequently. If they appear worn or broken, they should be immediately replaced with new ones.
6. Care should be taken that electric circuits are never overloaded. Danger signs: if fuses blow frequently, an electrician should be employed to inspect the wiring.

The Basement

1. Stacks of magazines and papers, discarded furniture, oil rags, and other combustibles should be kept out of the basement. A clean basement-free of such clutter—is much safer from fire.
2. The furnace is dangerous when it is dirty. It should be cleaned regularly and necessary repairs should be made promptly.
3. Qualified mechanics should be employed to repair automatic heating units.
4. If the ceiling and walls near the furnace feel hot, an exper-

Reminder About Your Television Set:

1. You shouldn't try to repair your television set. It's much to complex for amateur "tinkering". You could receive a severe shock. Call a re-pairman if your set needs fixing.
2. Be careful you don't cover up the ventilating holes. For instance, don't cut legs off a table model set, or place the set on a table too small for the legs to rest. The air space underneath is necessary, and don't install your set in a tight cubicle, unless it was especially manufactured for such installation.
3. Have a UL-listed lightning arrester installed. The television aerial may increase the danger of lightning striking your house. An arrester, properly installed, is the form of protection specified in the National Electrical Code.
4. When buying a television set, check to make sure that it has been listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., a non-profit organization which tests thousands of products for safety.

The Dining Room

1. If real candles are ever used for lighting, extreme caution should be observed. It is far wiser to use electric candles.
2. Care should be taken not to use too many appliances on one circuit; for example, the toaster, the waffle iron, and the coffee percolator.

enced repairman should be employed to make an examination. 5. Rubbish of kindling should never be near the furnace. They might easily ignite from radiated heat. 6. Metal cans should be provided for ashes. They should never be placed in wooden or paper-board boxes. 7. Paints, turpentine, or other materials of this nature should never be left near the furnace. 8. If you think there is a gas leak in your basement or anywhere in the house, don't use a lighted match to help find it! If a gas leak is suspected, everyone should get out of the house. The windows should be opened and the gas company notified. Nex weeks' column will be a continuation of this article and will be "How We Can Make Our Homes Safe From Fire in The Kitchen." I'm so glad the snow has melted away! It's off how we really look for that sun during the winter and really enjoy it when we do see it, but it's another story completely during the summer. We wish for the clouds to hide it so we can enjoy the cool.

I have some of this weeks and last weeks news. They say confession is good for the soul, but I believe there are times that that definitely isn't true. So won't confess about last weeks news. I did have good legal reasons though.

Bruce and Pearl Harrison returned last week from Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, where they spent 2 weeks getting water logged. Not really but these mineral bath's sure help some that has arthritis. Vivian Wallace went with them. Saturday night Willis Harrison and daughter Julie visited and spent the night. Pearl said Rev. and Mrs. Cornwell ate dinner with them Sunday.

Last week LaQuinta Hulse from Houston flew in to visit with Clifton and Louise Boydston on Saturday. Sue Montgomery came home from Lubbock Sunday to visit awhile. Forrest, myself and kids visited awhile Friday with them. Thursia Poin-dexter from Cheyenne spent the night Sunday night.

WHEELER PUBLIC LIBRARY BOOK REVIEW

"Ice!" was written by Tristen Jones. Accompanied by Nelson, a one-eyed, three-legged Labrador, Tristan Jones sets out from Iceland in Cresswell in the summer of 1959 to try to sail a boat farther north than anybody else. Trapped by a violent snowstorm in a Greenland Fiord, without adequate food or cover he spends a week trying to dig himself out before being rescued. While moored to an iceberg, his boat is attached by a ravenous polar bear. The second winter Tristan, Nelson, and Cresswell are trapped in the middle of an ice pack in the Arctic Ocean. Under the dazzling lights of the Aurora Borealis, Tristan grapples with loneliness and despair, and finally, with death itself!

"The Far Pavillions" was written by M. M. Kaye. From the foothills of the towering Himalayas, through the palaces of old India, across the bone strewn passes of the Khyber, to the final cataclysmic scene in the ancient "Land of Cain." M. M. Kaye weaves a vast, rich and vibrant tapestry of love and war that raptures with the great panoramic sagas of modern fiction. It is the story of Ash, and Englishman who is raised as a Hindu in the shadow of the Himalayas, of Juli, and Indian princess who must choose between the heritage of her people and the man she loves. But always, it tells of a love transcending time and place and dominating the sweep of events.

LIVING HISTORY

The Eleventh Grade American History class has recently written a series of living history essays as an assignment in a "Living History Contest," sponsored by CURRENT EVENTS magazine. The essays are based on interviews with persons in Wheeler or the surrounding area who have actually experienced a historic event. It might have been anything as history is everywhere, lying quietly, waiting for people to bring it to life. This series of "Living History" will run for the next several weeks so that you may enjoy some of the history of Wheeler and Wheeler county.

Otherwise Kay's been laid up with the flu. Some better tho. Rev. Ronnie and Ruth Chadwick had their daughter, Joe and Patty Hughes and Shellye from Arlington to visit Tuesday thru Friday. They all went to Dyers at Pampa to eat Bar-B-Q. Rhonda Puryear went along.

Interview with Tommy Hennard

By Jeff Christner
Tommy A. Hennard was seventeen years old when he served his first hitch in the United States Navy. He was just out of high school. A hitch is four years long. He enlisted in nineteen hundred and forty six. He did not see any combat as the was over with Germany and Japan.

He took his boot camp training in San Diego, California. Then he went to electronic school for forty two weeks at Casure Island, California, which is in the bay between San Francisco and Oakland. After electronics school he went to submarine school in New London, Connecticut.

He was assigned to a submarine and a submarine tender. He specialized in electronic sonar equipment. He was never a ship's tender, he served on everything from a guided missile submarine to a troop carrying submarine. After the first four years he joined the reserves and was called back to active duty during the Korean conflict. The second hitch he served on the USS Boxer, an air craft carrier.

On the USS Boxer he would spend shifts of thirty days steaming up and down the coast of Korea, launching our air crafts. The planes would conduct bombing runs on Korea. The ship was never bombed but there was a bad fire on board. It was caused by aviation fuel spilling on bombs and ammunition, producing a huge fire.

At the time of the fire several men were either blown over board from the force of the explosion or they jumped, because they were on fire. Over twenty men were killed. The bodies of the dead were taken back to the states for burial. However until they could send them back, they would hang the bodies on meat hooks in the freezer.

There were never any real sea rescues. They picked up their own fliers. When launching the air craft there were two helicopters for every plane. They would fly along side the carrier and when there was trouble they could usually pick up the pilots immediately. The ship rescued several Japanese and Korean fishermen. They would be out at night in their small fishing boats and the huge carrier being unable to see them, would run over their boats.

The way the planes took off from the Boxer was very interesting. The air craft carrier would actually steam into the wind at a top speed of twenty-two to twenty-five knots. The jet air craft were launched in much, the same matter as a sling shot operates. The prop air craft would use the entire deck of the carrier when they were launched. When they landed, the planes have a tail hoop and the carrier has large cables that stretch all the way across the flight deck. When these hooks catch, the planes come to an abrupt stop. They have a spring arrangement on the cables that soften it a little. However with the carrier steaming into the wind at about twenty knots, and with any wind at all the relative speed of the air craft is twenty to twenty-five miles per hour.

There is a big difference among the branches of the service inside the navy. The Boxer's weight was a little over two hundred thousand tons, with something like three thousand people aboard the ship. There were three different ship stores. There were three different movies each night, you had your choice of which one to view. On a submarine the regular crew was one hundred and twenty men, except on a troop carrying submarine. Then ships company was only sixty. They carried one hundred and twenty men plus their Lieutenant. It was much more interesting on the submarine duty because it was a closer knit bunch of people. There were people on the Boxer that he went through boot camp with and he did not see them for a year and did not even know they were aboard.

An example of typical navy life was when he was called back in from the reserves, he went through the receiving station at San Diego and was being interviewed about his past service and what part he preferred, he said he would like to go back to the submarine duty, they said there would be no problem. Three days later her received his orders, they read: USS Boxer, Japan.

They were suppose to have twenty-two electronic technicians aboard the Boxer, he was the forty-fifth. This was Harry Truman's war. Every decision was like this, far too many men for the jobs. People had to sleep in the hallways and door ways. There was not enough room for them. This was true for every ship in the fifty-seventh task force. Why they called all the reserve back he could not understand. This cost the American people a fortune. Most of the men took advantage of the GI bills and so forth. It was very foolish to have so many men.

Tommy never considered a naval career. The Navy was not that interesting to him, and he was ready to proceed with his life.

However he did not regret his time spent in the service of his country. He feels that any branch of the service is good for any young men. "If you graduate from high school and you don't know what you want to do with your life, I recommend a hitch in the service for anyone, male or female. It gives you sometime to think, you do not have any responsibilities, you are low enough on the ladder that all you have to do is be certain places at certain times. You have a place to sleep, they furnish your clothing, and they feed you. It is like a four year vacation. If gives you time to think about what you want to do with your life."

When Tommy successfully finished his last hitch he returned to civilian life and successfully pursued a career as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine.

ONE GOD

The body is the one church or kingdom founded by Jesus Christ (Ephesians 1:22, 23; Colossians 1:18). Christ is the Saviour of the body or church (Ephesians 5:23), having purchased it with his own blood (Acts 20:28).

The Spirit is the one Holy Spirit of God. Jesus taught that one must be born of the water and the Spirit to enter the kingdom of God (John 3:5).

The hope is the one hope of eternal life after the grave, which is desired by every normal person. Eternal life will be a life of bliss and glory with the Father, the Son, and the Spirit of Heaven.

The Lord is the one Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, the Son of God, the Messiah, the King of kings (1 Timothy 6:15).

The baptism is the one baptism valid in our age. Authorized by Christ and administered in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, the one baptism is for the forgiveness of sins (Acts 2:38). It is described as a burial in water (Romans 6:3-5; Colossians 2:12).

The God is the one God and Father of all, the Designer and Maker of the universe, the Creator of man, the Giver of every good and perfect gift (Ephesians 4:4-6).

the House. Here is where the work is done. A vote in Committee is worth as much as 25 votes on the House Floor. A lot of lawmakers that seldom get on the Floor to debate the merits of a bill quietly bury what they think are bad bills and let those that they think are good ones proceed through the committee system to the House Floor.

"No man's life, liberty or property is safe while the Legislature is in session." Surrogates Court, New York, 1966. This is the thought that hit me this week when I saw on the House Daily Report that the 1,000th House bill had been introduced in this session of the Legislature. Representative Lanell Cofer, District 33-0, introduced the 1,000th bill. Miss Cofer is a black legislator from Dallas. The bill dealt with worker's compensation. The total number has now risen to 1,050 bills. It is estimated that 4,000 bills will be introduced before the session ends.

In spite of all the bad bills that are dropped in the hopper there is some good legislation that is introduced. There are a number of bills that deal with the matter of Foreign Investments in our agricultural land. Most of these bills will come before the Agriculture Committee of which I am a member. Our problem will be selecting the bill or bills that will best accomplish the objective of keeping foreign interests from buying up all of our prime land. Our U. S. Deficit trade purchases have run over 125 billion the last two or three years. As these billion build up in foreign countries they create a situation whereby the foreigners are looking for good investments in the U. S. Land has always been the best hedge against inflation. So the result is good land is being bought up as a result of our trade deficit. Few people realize that the Government of Japan buys our wheat for INITIAL cost of around $3.00 per a bushel. After the expense of transporting it to Japan has been added, the Government of Japan sells the wheat to their millers at up to $9.00 per bushel. The farmer that produced the wheat had a loss in the wheat while the Government of Japan made a huge profit. And the U. S. is suffering 7-8 billion dollar trade deficits with Japan. There is an import duty on wheat going into the European Common Market of over $3.50 a bushel. This represents 120% of the INITIAL cost of what the U. S. Farmer received for the bushel of wheat. Yet, we have an import duty on one of their Volkswagens of only three percent of the wholesale cost on the other side of the ocean.

After looking at these figures, it isn't hard to see why they are buying up our prime land. Only the Federal Government has the power to erase these bad trade agreements. Doing so would improve our balance of trade in billions of dollars, improve the farmers' financial status where less Government Aid would be needed or called for. I'm willing to do whatever can be done to help market Texas products in foreign markets but this problem is pretty much in the hands of the Federal Government since it is the one that does the trade negotiation. This country needs to work on getting the price up a great deal more than increasing the volume of trade.

LIVING HISTORY

The Eleventh Grade American History class has recently written a series of living history essays as an assignment. The essays were also entered in a "Living History Contest," sponsored by CURRENT EVENTS magazine. The essays are based on interviews with persons in Wheeler or the surrounding area who have actually experienced a historic event. It might have been anything as history is everywhere, lying quietly, waiting for people to bring it to life. Second Paramedic IV Mod. Completed By 3 Area Men

The Panhandle Emergency Medical Services System, Inc., in cooperation with Amarillo Hospital District, utilizing funds donated by Levi Strauss Foundation, have just completed the second class of paramedic (I. V. Module) training.

Certified EMTs-Special Skills I.V. who graduated in December 1978 include: David Sierra, Wheeler; Louis Stas, Wheeler; Dwight Tipps, Briscoe; Jim Bryant, Sharmock.

Most of these students are currently enrolled in EMT Special Skills - Airway Management. The second class has 21 enrolled.

The third and last module, Coronary Care, will begin March 24, 1979.

Fifty-plus students will graduate in June after having completed 420 hours of paramedic training.

Recent studies indicate that the lack of care in rural areas contributes to the high rate of mortality in medical emergencies four times greater than in the metropolitan setting.

During the past few years, several emergency medical response systems have expanded the concept of on-site care in medical emergencies to include the use of drugs, heart monitoring equipment and defibrillators.

Through radio and telephone links, field medics are able to communicate with a physician who can then legally order the initiation of medical care at the scene.

The President, Sallie Harris, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Austin Caldwell who spent the summer in Colorado and had not been present at a meeting since last May. Secretary, Austin Caldwell read the minutes of the last meeting and Bernice Caldwell gave the treasure report showing a balance of $241.35 on hand. The very cold weather ran the gas and electric bills up very high and there is need for funds to add to our till.

A discussion was held on raising and members are planning to sell chances on something, in the near future to raise funds. If someone interested has a pretty quilt they would like to donate as a raffle subject it would be greatly appreciated and would be a good subject to attract interest in buying chances. The birthday calendars have not all been sold yet and please everyone make a donation by purchasing your calendar. We have just had another supply of those super Cook Books, made and everyone get busy and try to sell those as they have to be paid for in 60 days. There have been many calls for them, while we were sold out, so if you wanted a cook book they are now available at Mobeetie Grocery, Beauty shop, at Caldwell's, the Museum and Sallie Harris, in Wheeler.

We are eager to begin the making of the Diorama of Fort Elliott, and need funds to get that done so if anyone interested in continuing to preserve our local history wish to make a donation just mail a check to Treasurer, Bernice Caldwell, Mobeetie, Texas. Those attending the meeting were: Bob and Bessie Galmor, Grace Bright, Austin Caldwell, Cahrie Bright, Bernice Caldwell and Sallie Harris.

Remember we meet the first Tuesday, March 6th at 6:00 o'clock. Everyone come.

Terrorism at Khartoum An Interview with Clay Walser

Terrorism is a significant cause of international concern. Assassinations, the destruction of property, and many other acts of violence have been used extensively throughout the world. Terrorism has proven to be a major detriment to many political struggles. Black September and the Palestine Liberation Organization are just two of the many groups of terrorists that still plague mankind. The Khartoum Incident is one such example of terrorism.

Two United States diplomats and one Belgian diplomat were kidnapped by members of the Black September terrorist group, in Sudan. The attack had begun around 7 p.m. when eight terrorists in a Land Rover drove to the gates of the embassy. They crashed the gate and burst into the embassy where a party was taking place. The terrorists entered the building firing machine-guns and revolvers although no police guards were on duty.

Most of the guests escaped from the terrorists by leaping over the embassy wall, while others hid and fled. However, some of the guests simply identified themselves and were released. Two of the six hostages were said to have been beaten and kicked severely.

Upon the capture of the hostages by the terrorists, the United States sent an airplane to rescue the diplomats. The following is an interview of Clay Walser of Wheeler, Texas, who was a copilot on the rescue plane.

At the time of the terrorist attack, Lieutenant Walser and his crew which included an aircraft commander, another copilot, two flight engineers, and two leg masters, were at Rhine Maine in Frankfurt, Germany. They were on "Crew rest" in preparation for the trip back to the United States. The crew was expecting flight orders for the United States the next day, but that night the Aircraft Commander talked to the crew and said, "We are going to Sudan - to Khartoum."

"Nobody (on the rest of the crew) even knew where Khartoum was," said Walser. "What had happened, was that the State Department had started trying to negotiate for the American Ambassadors' release. They had picked up this Under-Secretary of State and these Sudanese specialists that the State Department had, and were flying all this crew into the Sudan to negotiate for this release," continued Walser. "We were the first available crew to pick these people up, so we got nominated for the job," chuckled Walser, "so here we went."

Several hours later the terrorists issued an ultimatum that threatened the lives of all six hostages unless demands were met. Some of these demands included the release of Sirhan and release of an Arab woman in Israel.

After the Jordanian government refused the group's demands, the Arabs withdrew their demand for the release of prisoners in Israel, "since Sudan cannot contact the Zionist enemy," President Nixon said that while the United States would "do everything we can to have the hostages released, it would not pay blackmail."

At this time Egypt was very anti-American. However to reach the Sudan quickly, the C-141 had to fly directly over Egypt because it was the shortest route from Germany to the Sudan.

Walser said, "We did not know at the time when we started, whether or not we could fly over Egypt. The State Department had that in the works. They were negotiating with the Egyptian government to see if the plane could get clearance." If the plane had not been able to obtain clearance they would have had to take a longer route around Iran and Saudi Arabia. The plane did obtain clearance and had to land in Cairo.

"We were the first American military plane to land in Cairo in seven years," remarked Lieutenant Walser. There was no American embassy in Cairo, but men from the State Department were there. There was low-level contact and negotiations with the Egyptians even though it was not allowed. "Egypt was not supposed to have any contact with us, but it was there and nobody knew about it at the time," said Walser.

The Sudanese officials caught a Sudanese flight at Cairo and went to start negotiations with the guerrillas. The rest of the crew went on "crew rest" in Cairo. "I remember," said Walser, "that our flight engineer was very excited because he thought he would get to see a belly dancer." However just as the crew was unpacking their bags, the officials changed their minds, and told the crew to fly on to Khartoum.

On the way to Khartoum, it was learned that there was a sandstorm blowing out of the Sahara desert into Khartoum. The crew did not know whether they would be able to land. The plane was given a special radio frequency that enabled the crew to talk to Washington. There was not a bit of static on the radio, unlike the usual radio frequencies which was normally full of static.

"It was very interesting listening to the Under-Secretary of State talk to Washington, I formulate American policy," said Walser. The crew was told they could land but the statement changed back and forth. The White House left the decision entirely to the Aircraft Commander. When the plane reached Khartoum, however, the sandstorm was too strong for the plane to land. "When we did get here it was the middle of the night, and the sandstorm was so bad, that you could look down on Khartoum and barely see a faint glow," remarked Walser.

The airfield was closed, so the plane landed in Asmara, Ethiopia. The crew tried to stay the night in Asmara, but every few hours the commander would wake up the crew and have them fly to Khartoum because a weather forecaster in Washington said the sandstorm had abated, even though the station in Khartoum said it had not. They flew to Khartoum two or three times until the sandstorm did abate enough to permit landing.

"We finally made our landing in Khartoum, but by that time the ambassadors had been killed, said Walser. "This was another thing we heard on the radio on the way over, that they had already been killed. The officials had expected it for some time. The guy from the State Department kept telling us that it looked bad," said Walser.

The terrorists had killed the hostages after their demands were refused. Then they demanded a plane and safe passage to an unspecified Arab capital. However their demands were refused, and they had given over the bodies and surrendered on March 4, 1974.

After landing in Khartoum and finding the hostages dead, the plane took the Belgium body back to Cairo to be buried, because the Belgium was half Egyptian. The American bodies had already been flown back to the United States.

When Walser's crew tried to return to the United States, their C-141 would not start. An air valve was sticking in the engine and the crew needed a hammer to unstuck it, but they did not have one. "The only other airplane there was, was a Russian plane, so our flight engineer goes over to it and makes a hammering motion. The Russian pilot goes out, gets a hammer and hands it to the American. So we use the Russian hammer to start our American engine, give back the hammer and take off," tells Walser.

The eight terrorists were convicted of murder and were given life sentences by a Khartoum court on June 24, 1974, but the Sudanese President Gaafar el-Nimiri immediately commuted the sentences to seven year terms and announced that the convicted men would be released into the custody of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The people in the United States knew that the diplomats had not been saved by the time the American crew returned. Walser did not realize at the time what danger he had been in, but now he still does not regret his service in the Air Force. The Khartoum experience still ranks as one of the "highlights" of Mr. Walser's life.

Mustangs

The Mustangs went into a stall and Samnorwood had no choice but to foul which proved costly for the Mustangs because they couldn't hit a free shot in the closing minutes. Wheeler maintained their lead 64-63 with 6 seconds to go in the game when Samnorwood canned an 8 foot jumper to put Samnorwood ahead and to win the game by one point 65-64.

Wheeler hit 46% making 28 of 61 shots Samnorwood hit 46% making of 60 shots Wheeler hit 8 of 19 free throws for 42% and Samnorwood hit 9 of 14 for 64%. Benny Baker was high point for Wheeler hitting a season high of 27 points, followed by BOYD Waldo with 13.

Fossil mosquitoes from 40 million years ago hardly look any different from their modern counterparts.
