June! Time for visiting friends and relatives. Way back in the early part of this century I can remember when the relatives began to come to our country home in early summer and it would last until cool weather and beginning of school. But there was an attraction at our house. Hams from the winter butchering, spring gysters, lots of milk and cream, fruit from the orchard, acres of vegetables, watermelons and cantalopes. Seemed like nobody had to work except our family. The wheat harvest, sheepshearing, fruit canning, plowing, hoeing, filling the silo—all these things had to be done no matter how many aunts, uncles and cousins showed up. But those were good days. Just a few hours of play in the evenings was an awful lot of fun. We romped about the spacious yard, sometimes, a freezer of ice cream in the evening, went to bed by ten and was up and at it the next morning. (You know what is said about people who begin to live in the past. May be it is so.)

John and Clara Holcomb are all smiles. Their small granddaughter, the daughter of their son Buck, is with them at the present. Her home is in Landers, Wyoming. She is a long way from home, but I bet she is having fun.

The other day I heard Mr. Cooper (machine repairman) at Shamrock give a new emphasis to the word grandchildren. He said, rightly, that they are GRANDchildren.

David Clemens and his family from Amarillo spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Clemens.

Marie & Art Fisher of Helena, Montana, are spending a short time with her sister, Tressie and Cecil Clark, her brothers, Puny, Ben, and Bogin and Emma Griffin. They will also make a short stop-over in Pampa to visit with her brothers, Joe and Tony. Mamie and Tressie took Monday afternoon to visit with some of their close friends, Ollie Jaco, the Lem Gaines and others.

Mrs. Jerry Hogan and girls spent last week with her relatives in Fort Worth. Bro. Jerry Hogan thought it was a terribly long week.

Susan Badgley and Terry Pain Sherman are visiting Susan's aunt, Mary Finsterwald and other relatives this week. They will see the musical production, Texas while they are here, and spend the night in Amarillo.

Our town continues to grow and improve, broadening out all over. The Lasley's new house isn't easy to locate. It is in a grove of trees two blocks south of the hospital. Further on south, the house where the Lasleys formerly lived is occupied by a new family who are making it over to their liking. Further south is the new home of the Jimmy Hills. They are working hard to get things growing. Bobby picked up a few of my seedling maples the other day. Somehow I think they will soon be making a lovely shade. On Main Street, the Kenneth Nelsons have improved their house, plowed up their lawn, and removed trees to make their place more to their liking. The Clemens have installed an underground room and a circle driveway. I can't wait for the lovely flower garden he plans. The Harold Hills are getting the brick on their house. They plan a circle drive, a fence, and then will come the planting of lawn, trees and shrubs. The Virgil Helton grounds are new this year. Their lawn is getting a good start. Earlier their tulips were gorgeous and now their petunias in their varied colors are a pleasant sight. The Paul Shumate place is not new. But if you have never seen anything but hot house hydrangia, you should see them at the Shumates. Big clumps of them are displaying hundreds of mammoth bunches of bloom. It is wonderful to see such things in what some people think is only sand and sagebrush. I know there is a lot more Okra—a popular garden crop—makes a delightful gourmet item—pickled okra.

The first recipe is the longer fermented method and is the favorite of Ernestine Edmundson, Ellis County Extension agent.

The second recipe, a quick method, is the standby of Mrs. Lyndon Baines Johnson.

PICKLED OKRA

Wash okra, leaving small amounts of stem on the pids, and drain. Make brine:

- 1/2 cup plain salt
- 2 quarts water
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 tablespoon sugar

This amount covers one gallon of okra.

Place—in bottom of appropriate size jar—a layer of dill and two tablespoons mixed pickling spices.

Add okra, then another layer of dill and a like amount of spices.

If desired, add a few cloves of garlic.

Pour brine to top of jar. Keep okra under brine at all times. A etables may be pickled by some method.

PICKLED OKRA

Fresh okra
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon dill seeds for each pint jar
1 hot red pepper
1 hot green pepper
2 cloves garlic

Place one-half teaspoon dill seeds in bottom of each sterilized jar. Wash okra and pack as tightly as possible in jars being careful not to bruise. Add one-half teaspoon dill seed, red and green peppers and garlic. Bring vinegar, water and salt to a boil and pour this hot mixture over the okra. Seal the jars and allow to stand two weeks. Serve icy cold. Makes approximately four pints.

PROCESSING

Process sealed jars of okra from either recipe for five minutes in boiling water bath while hot—immediately after putting it in the jar.

Processing destroys any bacteria, yeast or molds which occur in the air and, therefore, can easily contaminate food in transfer from the kettle to the jar and cause spoilage.

Teens To Attend 4-H Leadership Lab

Three Wheeler County girls, Cinday Harrison and Donna and Shonda Quarles, are making plans along with nearly 200 young leaders from 4-H clubs in 20 Panhandle counties to participate in a district teen leadership lab in Amarillo June 15-17.
The site of the three-day summer workshop will be the Episcopal Conference Center, said Paul Gross and Mrs. Sue Farris, district Extension agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.
A team of 10 older teen-agers will assist in conducting sessions throughout the training workshop. They will arrive at the conference center June 14 to map plans and develop discussion topics.
Participants, supervised by 4-H adult leaders and agents, will take part in a variety of activities ranging from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Emphasis will be on the local 4-H club.
Activities will be geared toward helping the young leaders learn to assess themselves and their ideas, and to develop solutions to problems through group processes. Time for relaxation and fun will provide the teens with opportunities to make new friends.
The annual teen leadership lab helps 4-H youth to develop skills for working with younger club members and provides opportunity for them to broaden their friendships and develop leadership qualities.
Young people interested in joining a 4-H club in Wheeler County may contact the local Extension office at Box 505 or 826-5243, Wheeler. 4-H Clubs instructions on how to get in touch with the fire department, parents, doctor and policy.

Keep young children—age two and under—in constant sight and mind.
Teach children how to use and respect fire. Remember that children learn best by their parents' good example.
Keep the house free of fire hazards. The fire department will cooperate by making a fire hazard inspection on request.
Teach children of all ages alternate ways to get out of the house safely in case of fire. Have them learn at least two escape routes from every room, rehearse the routes until everyone knows them by heart, and emphasize that once they are out of a burning building they must never go back inside for any reason.
