WASHINGTON BY GEORGE DURNO

Suspicious
Senate Republicans can't quite put their fingers on the situation but they have a very healthy hunch President Roosevelt and his foreign advisers have been making some secret debt refunding agreements.

That is why the resolution of Senator Arthur Robinson, of Indiana, was introduced calling on the White House for any and all information concerning debt negotiations to date.

The majority leaders succeeded in tossing the resolution back to the foreign relations committee for "consideration." You can look for the Indiana Robinson and Senator Borah to at least force a record committee vote.

Suspicious first were aroused on the minority side when administration spokesmen put up such a fight against Senator Hiram Johnson's resolution which would prevent future private loans or bond flotations for countries still owing us. The Democrats made quite a stand when this was first broached. Then they quit suddenly and let it pass. Now it is smothered for the time being in the House.

When the Indiana Robinson demanded full information on debts, such Democratic Senate stalwarts as Robinson of Arkansas, Pittman of Nevada and Lewis of Illinois leaped to their feet to denounce the idea. They said this was no time to embarrass the president of the United States.

The Republicans may be a mile wrong. But they think they smell a suspicious odor. If the administration doesn't want the resolution passed it will never see the light of day.

Air Mail
The fact that the president's remarks were kept off the air lends color to the belief he is holding his fire for a much more burning issue.

Those who care to guess are betting the executive's next move on the air will be in connection with unscrambling the peppery air mail onet.

You will want to listen in on the chance that the whole story may then be told.

Hooper
Certain members of the Democratic congressional campaign committee are pushing for a special election in Michigan to pick a successor to Rep. Joseph L. Hooper who dropped dead recently.

This stalwart Republican won his district by about 60,000 votes in 1928. In 1930 his majority slumped to 22,000, and in 1932 he skinned it by a bare 8,000.

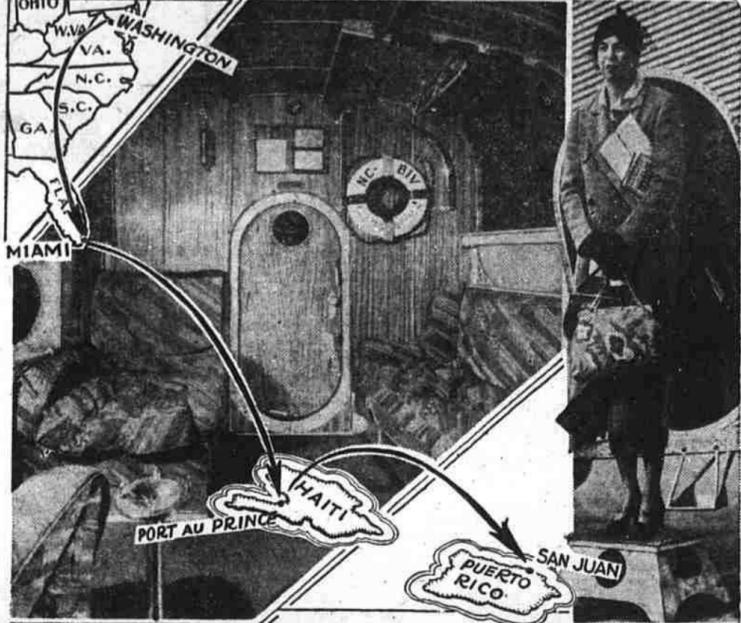

It's all up to Governor Comstock of Michigan, a Democrat. The Democratic leaders want to fill this seat to the end of the year at the April elections. The capture of a Republican seat in a by-election would have its publicity uses.

Borah
Senator William E. Borah is a great figure in the upper body of congress but curiously enough he has virtually never had his name attached to a piece of important legislation.

Through his caress, Borah the Grunow electric refrigerators, C. & P. Drugs—adv.

Also police disclosed Dillinger had been sighted here and was pursued Saturday, but was lost in the traffic.

While Dillinger hid from the law, Harry Piopont, his pal, was called to trial in Lima, Ohio, Tuesday for murdering a sheriff in the jail delivery of Dillinger last October.

Asks Working Hour Cut With Pay Increase

Overhauling Of NRA Program Now In Progress, Says Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hugh Johnson seeks an immediate re-employment of at least one million more men in private industry.

This is his minimum and immediate goal for the overhauling of NRA, which is now in progress.

It was learned on high authority Tuesday this objective is based on a survey just completed by Johnson's economic staff. The survey showed fully 30 per cent of more than 600 code authorities are now able and probably willing to make a further cut in working hours without reducing pay.

Such reduction would absorb a million men.

Meanwhile, the civil works administration announced it will disband remnants of its four million man-work army by March 30.

Arrangements have been made for all CWA employes in communities of 5000 population or more to be transferred April 1 to work in divisions set up by state and local relief organizations.

This involves some million and a half persons.

Teachers To Begin Census Taking Today

Task Of Enumeration To Be Made By Staff Of Eight Members

Tuesday afternoon eight city school teachers began the task of enumerating more than 2,500 scholastics in the Big Spring independent school district.

An accurate, complete census is now one of the most important businesses of the present day financial aid growing out of the state apportionment based on the census. Big Spring schools would not be able to operate but a few months each year.

During the school year 1933 state apportionment on 2,559 scholastics netted this district more than $40,000, according to Superintendent W. C. Blankenship.

Children born after September 1, 1916 and on or before September 1, 1928 should be enumerated. Each one not listed will cost the school district $16 in revenues from state apportionment.

Children with physical handicaps should be enumerated the same as others.

Blankenship urged that parents, whose children have not been enumerated by March 12, telephone 415 and a census enumerator will call to collect the information.

TO THE MAN WHO PUT HONOR ABOVE LIFE! Among the army pilots to die on the air routes was Lieut. Durwood O. Lowry of Ann Arbor, Mich.

The story of this young officer's death is something that all Americans profitably might read. It is a tragic tale, but it has the uplifting, heartening quality that only great stories possess.

Lieut. Lowry was flying the mail from Chicago to Cleveland when he ran into a blinding snowstorm near the town of Deiler, O. Lowry and unable to find a landing place, he crashed and was killed.

But what a newspaper reporter wrote about the way in which he died: "Lieut. Lowry, flying alone in the snowstorm on an unfamiliar route, knew that a crash was inevitable according to the most testimony of sack after sack of mail which he has tossed from the cockpit to prevent its destruction in case of fire.

"He kept at this task too long and in death had lived up to the best traditions of the air mail service, which demand that the mail be saved. The bags were found intact along the countryside."

That's all there is to it—but somehow those two paragraphs speak volumes about the kind of man that this young army aviator was.

One's imagination can fill in the picture easily enough... an airplane, flying through a white, swirling ling emptiness, with death drawing nearer every second; a tight-lipped young man in the cockpit, resolutely putting out of his mind the thought that he could save himself, if he chose, by using those last few minutes to gain altitude and bail out, and devoting himself instead to tossing overboard those sacks of mail which had been put in his charge.

That, if you please, was truly great heroism. The man was all alone up there in the blinding storm. He could have saved himself and no one would have blamed him.

The mail? Well, what after all, are a few bags of letters, compared with a young man's life? A sensible person would say that they are a small thing to die for.

But there are men to whom nothing is too small to die for, if a little private matter of honor is involved; and it is precisely such men who persuade us, in the end, that the human race is worth preserving in this world and the next one. This young aviator, it seems, was one of them.

And tonight, when you sit at your dinner table, all snug and safe, you might drink a little toast to a very allgent gentleman—Lieut. Durwood O. Lowry, U. S. A.

EVEN A NATION AT WAR MUST NOT GO TOO FAR The execution by the Germans of 1915 of Nurse Edith Cavell was entirely justified by all rules of war.

So says Capt. Alfred Duff Cooper, financial secretary to the British war office, and holder of a distinguished war record, in a recent speech to British army officers.

Miss Cavell, Captain Cooper pointed out, was a courageous woman who engaged in activities specifically forbidden by the German authorities in Belgium, helping upward of 100 persons to escape from the occupied territory, knowing full well what the penalty would be if she were caught.

When the Germans put her in front of a firing squad on the morning of October 12, 1915, they did no more than they clearly were entitled to do by rules of "civilized" warfare.

But Captain Cooper hastens to point out that that, after all, is only half of the story.

"Any politician," he adds, "could have told them that the execution was really to arm 100,000 men against Germany."

Anyone interested in digging back into those dreary and tragic war days can see that it was precisely that error which, in the last analysis, did more than anything else to defeat the German war machine: the error of failing to assess the impoderables in deciding on their martial policies.

You can find the same sort of justification for almost everything the Germans did. The invasion of Belgium had ample precedent in Britain's treatment of Copenhagen during the Napoleonic wars.

Unrestricted submarine warfare, the use of poison gas, the bombing of undefended towns by airplanes and Zeppelins—those things, after all, stemmed logically from the obvious fact that war is a brutal and bloody business at best, and that any weapon you can use is a good one.

The one thing the German high command forgot was that these things were impolitic. They did the German cause more harm than good, because they helped to soil

Eight Teams Taper Off For State Tourney

Victorious in regional competition eight high school basketball quintets will prime the next three days to compete in the 14th annual Texas Interscholastic league championship tournament scheduled at Austin Friday and Saturday.

Competition will be in the Gregory gymnasium at the University of Texas, and the Athens high school Hornets, coached by Bobo Nelson, will be defending champion.

The eight teams who survived regional competition and are eligible for the state tournament include Lamesa, Denton, Brownwood, Athens, Jefferson Davis of Houston, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, Harlingen and Austin high of El Paso. The state tournament will be in charge of Roy Henderson, Texas interscholastic league official, who will announce first round pairings at a later date. The championship battle will be Saturday night. In last year's final game, Athens trimmed Jefferson Davis, 36 to 20.

Lamesa overwhelmed the Amarillo Golden Sandies Saturday, 37 to 21, to win in region No. 1. In a bitterly-contested game, Brownwood emerged with a 28 to 26 decision over the Colorado Wolves for the championship of region No. 2.

Denton, always a strong state championship contender, experienced no trouble beating McKinney, 34 to 15, to take honors in region 3. The region No. 4 title went to Athens when the Hornets smothered Emory, 31 to 15.

Jefferson Davis survived in region No. 5 by taking a 25 to 16 game from Huntsville. In a rough and tumble game, Thomas Jefferson eliminated the Temple Wildcats, 31 to 19, to win in region No. 6.

The 7th region crown went to Harlingen by virtue of an 18 to 16 win over Taft in a game played at Kingsville.

Austin high of El Paso will journey a long way to compete in the state tournament after winning in a round-robin tournament. At the conclusion the champions for the season 1934 will be crowned, and the all-state high school team will be announced.

The slight survivors will compete in a round-robin tournament. At the conclusion the champions for the season 1934 will be crowned, and the all-state high school team will be announced.

Local golfers are working enthusiastically in an effort to have Big Spring named as the site for the annual championship tournament of the West Texas Golf association. Big Spring is the ideal spot for the meet, and it will mean much to the town if it is held here.

The Country Club course is an excellent 18-hole layout with fine grass greens, and meets every requirement of the West Texas Golf association. Transportation and accommodations of the best kind are available here.

The Steer football team is matched to play Bowie high school Bears of El Paso on enemy soil October 6. The Bears won their district last season and if reports are correct, they won't be a push-over when the next race starts. They have eleven lettermen back that pack plenty of power and know the ropes to boot.

Within the next few weeks Coach Francis A. Schmidt will bid farewell to the Lone Star State and take up his new duties with Ohio State, where the Big Ten group lays some of the toughest football in the nation. Schmidt has a big job ahead of him and knows it. Apparently he won't change his tactics a bit. His first statement was to the effect that he would gauge his material and then model his team to fit what he had. For the first year or two his unorthodox methods may draw the wrath of the Buckeye patriots, for it will take time to build up his style to the satisfaction of the Ohio boys. Schmidt will work under numerous handicaps his first season, and his team will be watched with a critical eye.

Tennis seems to be more popular here this year for quite a while. The high school courts are occupied each day from early to late.

Best as a CEREAL

Best for COOKING

It's so convenient to keep a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a healthful ingredient in your cooking. For muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

ALL-BRAN brings your family the "bulk" that is so helpful in correcting common constipation.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. In severe cases, with each meal. How much better than risking patent medicines!

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. This "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

Special processes of cooking and flavoring make Kellogg's ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable than ordinary raw bran.

And because it is all bran—with only flavoring added—it brings you more "bulk" than part-bran products.

Cards Point For Winning New Yorkers

Frank Frisch Takes Helm In Effort To Put St. Louis Across

By HANK HART

With the lucky Frank Frisch at their helm, the St. Louis Cardinals start this season ready to give battle to all the National leaguers and especially the New York Giants.

Frisch has a tailor made club set before him, and it is rumored that if he doesn't deliver the goods, Rickey and Breton will be seeking new managerial material next year.

The Fordham Flash has a sparkling infield waiting to march out on the diamond when the umpire yells, "play ball." Jim Collins, former outfielder, will gather them in at first base. Collins succeeded in passing the 300 mark last year, collecting .310 as a batting average. Among his collections were twenty six doubles, seven triples, and ten circuit smashes.

At second, the manager himself will perform. Frisch also surpassed 300, garnering a .302 average. At short, the light hitting Durocher will take 'em out of the dirt. Although the former Red is not well known at swinging the hickory, he is probably the best infielder in the league. The average was three points above the 250 mark. At and Schumacher should be better. Then, of course, there's Hubbell, Fitzsimmons, Clark and a couple of young fellows I don't want to boast about now."

Yanks Adopt Policy Of Banishing Hold-Outs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Thanks to Babe Ruth's early capitulation the New York Yankees have adopted a policy this season of permitting none of their hold-outs to train with the team until they come to terms.

In other years, the Babe was a holdout and the club did not see fit to enforce the rule against lesser members of the cast while permitting the Babe to train.

Common School Districts Get Sizeable Sum

Current Payment Good In Some Sections, Poor In Others

January current and delinquent taxes will net 22 common and one independent school district in the county a total of $19,992.65.

Assistant County School Superintendent Helen Hayden was engaged Monday in apportioning the money to the various districts.

Current payments for January amounted to $1,996 and delinquents totaled $913.68.

Green Valley and Vealmoor districts were left in a pitiful financial condition by small payments. The former got only $40.44 for maintenance and $35.48 for interest and sinking fund. Delinquent payments, however, hoped quite a bit. From this source came $42.80 for maintenance and $37.42 for interest and sinking fund. All Vealmoor got was current taxes aggregating $25.28, devided evenly between interest and sinking fund and maintenance.

Knott Independent district, which has its own roll, was to be recipient of about $12 as a result of a roll mix-up.

Hymus, a Mitchell county district which draws also from Howard county, will receive $73.20 for maintenance and $24.41 for interest and sinking funds.

Foran, Elbow and Chalk will receive the largest amounts. Foran gets $6,444.89 current for maintenance. It has no bonded indebtedness. Elbow receives $2,200.13 current and $30.16 delinquent for maintenance and $733.38 current and $10.05 delinquent for interest and sinking fund. Chalk is due $1,724.94 current $1.17 delinquent for maintenance. Like Foran, it has no bonded indebtedness.

To a large measure, payments in various districts reflected the condition of that part of the county. Vincent, with a good year, had fair current and best delinquent payments.

Cards Point For Winning New Yorkers

Frank Frisch Takes Helm In Effort To Put St. Louis Across

By HANK HART

With the lucky Frank Frisch at their helm, the St. Louis Cardinals start this season ready to give battle to all the National leaguers and especially the New York Giants.

Frisch has a tailor made club set before him, and it is rumored that if he doesn't deliver the goods, Rickey and Breton will be seeking new managerial material next year.

The Fordham Flash has a sparkling infield waiting to march out on the diamond when the umpire yells, "play ball." Jim Collins, former outfielder, will gather them in at first base. Collins succeeded in passing the 300 mark last year, collecting .310 as a batting average. Among his collections were twenty six doubles, seven triples, and ten circuit smashes.

At second, the manager himself will perform. Frisch also surpassed 300, garnering a .302 average. At short, the light hitting Durocher will take 'em out of the dirt. Although the former Red is not well known at swinging the hickory, he is probably the best infielder in the league. The average was three points above the 250 mark. At

and Schumacher should be better. Then, of course, there's Hubbell, Fitzsimmons, Clark and a couple of young fellows I don't want to boast about now."

Local golfers are working enthusiastically in an effort to have Big Spring named as the site for the annual championship tournament of the West Texas Golf association. Big Spring is the ideal spot for the meet, and it will mean much to the town if it is held here.

The Country Club course is an excellent 18-hole layout with fine grass greens, and meets every requirement of the West Texas Golf association. Transportation and accommodations of the best kind are available here.

The Steer football team is matched to play Bowie high school Bears of El Paso on enemy soil October 6. The Bears won their district last season and if reports are correct, they won't be a push-over when the next race starts. They have eleven lettermen back that pack plenty of power and know the ropes to boot.

Within the next few weeks Coach Francis A. Schmidt will bid farewell to the Lone Star State and take up his new duties with Ohio State, where the Big Ten group lays some of the toughest football in the nation. Schmidt has a big job ahead of him and knows it. Apparently he won't change his tactics a bit. His first statement was to the effect that he would gauge his material and then model his team to fit what he had. For the first year or two his unorthodox methods may draw the wrath of the Buckeye patriots, for it will take time to build up his style to the satisfaction of the Ohio boys. Schmidt will work under numerous handicaps his first season, and his team will be watched with a critical eye.

Tennis seems to be more popular here this year for quite a while. The high school courts are occupied each day from early to late.

THEN . . . the raconteur

Not so long ago, people depended on tales of returned travelers for their information about distant lands—and such tales they were! Horses with wings . . . men with hoofs . . . animals that grew on plants. No tale was too tall for those raconteurs in ancient public houses. And their audiences could take it or leave it. . . There was no way to check up on these stories, no agency devoted to the accurate reporting of what really happened across the world.

TODAY, we know as much about what is happening in distant lands as we know about our home city.

President Roosevelt also would like to bid the politico-lawyers an eternal farewell. Borah's bill would sock congressional members $10,000 and 5 years imprisonment—plus the loss of their right to hold federal office—if they turned up as lawyers for the more important interests.

The Idahoan at last has got a poll of the committee sequestering the idea. It should come to a vote before long.

Experience—

Democrats are figuratively sitting back on their haunches and laughing at the Republican move combining the senatorial and congressional campaign committees.

The Democrats once tried it themselves about 20 years or more ago. And found it didn't pay. Here's why:

With the committees combined a senator up for election always considers himself more important than the congressmen likewise standing the gaff in his state. The senator demands—and gets—most of the window dressing from the machinery set up and leaves the rest of the ticket out on a limb and mad as hornets.

But perhaps that won't matter much in a year like this.

$200—

"How is it that the bids of all you fellows are exactly the same figure?" asked a Washington business man who was buying $10,000 worth of paper.

"Oh, that's because of the NRA," replied one of the bidders. "We have to hold down prices."

"Looks like collusion to me," said the buyer.

"I tell you how to get around that," the bidder suggested. "I'll just bet you $200 that I lose."

Notes—

Several Cabinet members are urging President Roosevelt not to use airplanes on his vacation trip—too big a risk for a President who is needed. He's inclined to fly. . . . Somebody has dug up a law which authorizes the Postmaster General to continue contracts pending investigation—Farley said he hadn't noticed this law.

A diary kept by a female clerk in the War Department has furnished so many tips that the Federal grand jury will set for another week. . . . "Contact men" named in the diary have been subpoenaed.

NEW YORK

By James McMillin

Inflation—

Don't get the idea that paper money is useless because they're "single." New York inflationists headquarters—from which several prominent Congressmen get their ideas—is quietly busy as a flock of bees preparing for a summer campaign. They hope it that the effort to have private enterprise government spending will be a flop and that popular sentiment will respond to a demand for more drastic measures in order to dodge another slump.

Their special aim is to have the government quit borrowing money on bond and note issues and substitute greenbacks. They're all in favor of a farm bonus, soldiers' bonus or anything else that will scatter paper money over the country. The inflationist privately admit their only hope of getting anywhere with the President—but not out loud and recognize that he is unlikely to use their pet remedy unless his hand is forced. Their big problem is how to do the forcing and some of them secretly express hopes that the NRA discussions will collapse in confusion.

Conservative New Yorkers add this to the reasons why the Securities Act will be modified. A receptive market for capital funds would go far to eliminate the inflation threat and in this matter the New York majority is confident the President sees eye to eye with them.

Gold—

Wall Street doffs its hat to the administration's skill in bringing the dollar's price abroad practically down to this—not below level. It's been done without fuss or feathers and so gently it's hardly been noticed. Just one month after the dollar was revalued at 5006 the price of gold in Europe rose so high it was no longer profitable for American banks to import it. That's the answer.

Now that this has been achieved local sharps expect a further revaluation move unless the price level soon shows more signs of life. The next step will be a short one when it comes—not below 57 cents and probably not below 58.

Salaries—

Analysis of corporate executives' salary figures made public by the Trade Commission shows up the heavy casualties in the $100,000 class since boom days. 177 executives

(in the corporations that have reported) were getting more than that magic figure in 1929. The number shrank to 90 by 1931 to 49 by 1932 and last year there were only about 30 survivors of the gallant crew. The exact figure isn't available because not all companies have reported for '33.

Corporation heads weren't exactly pleased at the publicity given their remuneration but one group got a quiet chuckle out of their embarrassment. That was the railroad executives. They have already been through the mill and think it's high time industrial salaries were cut to their size.

Local authorities believe that corporations which haven't yet reported executive salaries will be forced to do so soon. The Trade Commission hasn't the actual authority to compel them to produce but it wouldn't take Congress long to confer it.

New York expects that Congress will.

Labor—

Informed circles are increasingly uneasy about labor troubles. In some quarters they are regarded as the most serious threat to recovery. New York is especially concerned with labor's reaction to the government's anticipated kindness to industry at the NRA hearings.

The strikes in the automobile industry are expected to spread—though they have quieted down for the moment. The government is likely to have a stiff mediatorial problem on its hands before summer. Some anti-labor industrialists believe they are emerging top-side but neutral observers say they may get fooled.

Argentina—

Local banks with South American connection look for dizzy fireworks in Argentina before long. A nationalist group—curious coalition between conservatives and extreme radicals—has been making rapid strides lately. It's based on Fascist principles but it hasn't yet picked its Mussolini. When it does—look out above.

Mitchell—

Charles E. Mitchell—who has been in strict seclusion since he resigned from National City—has emerged in the last couple of weeks and taken to frequenting one of his clubs every afternoon for a round of bridge. His fellow-members make it a point to be nice to him. They note that his former arrogance has disappeared and that he never expresses an opinion on a controversial issue. P. S.—Nobody has yet offered him a job.

Service—

Never let it be said that the Federal Trade Commission doesn't give service. When the Securities Act was passed the point was stressed that any investor could protect himself by obtaining a copy of any original registration statement from the Commission at cost. If you're curious about American Waterworks the Commission will be glad to oblige with a photostated and certified copy of its statement—for the modest sum of $288.

Sidelights—

Nobody has ever sued the New York Stock Exchange successfully. . . . Its club-like organization presents a perfect defense. . . . It may be different soon. . . . Part of the Treasury's March 15th financing will be in 5-year bonds. . . . Some New Yorkers like to inquire why lawyers' fees shouldn't have as much publicity as corporate salaries. . . . It's an ill blizzard that blows nobody any good. . . . The anthracite industry is making money for the first time in years.

AT LARGE

By Pleasant Conquest, Jr. Quoth Neighbor Mockford McInyre: "My admiration's mounting higher For Neckties, which I've heretofore Considered just a Christmas bore."

"Those Kidnappers who've lately died Committing Necktie suicide, Each demonstrated in his cell That Neckties have some uses swell."

"But when Kidnappers use their ties To bring about their quick demise, I'm just to a Necktie glorifier." Quoth Neighbor Mockford McInyre. (Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Cleavage—

Wall Street is on the verge of a private civil war between those who are willing to accept Roosevelt leadership as the only way out and the old guard set on battling to the end against new-fangled heresies. The line of cleavage is drawn more sharply every day. You see it in the Stock Exchange. There it may burst into flame any time as an open revolt against Whitney and his governing committee. You see it among investment bankers. There a strong faction would prefer sharp teeth in the IRA code to a protracted struggle with Washington to kill off the Securities Act. You see it in industry among the utilities, even among the commercial banks.

A big-timer associated in the public mind with all things contemptible speaks privately as follows: "We must string along with changed conditions. Any business we do must be in accordance with the President's program. If we govern ourselves accordingly we'll speed up recovery. If we don't, we're simply blocking things without helping ourselves any."

Figal—

Service— Never let it be said that the Federal Trade Commission doesn't give service. When the Securities Act was passed the point was stressed that any investor could protect himself by obtaining a copy of any original registration statement from the Commission at cost. If you're curious about American Waterworks the Commission will be glad to oblige with a photostated and certified copy of its statement—for the modest sum of $288.

Cleavage— Wall Street is on the verge of a private civil war between those who are willing to accept Roosevelt leadership as the only way out and the old guard set on battling to the end against new-fangled heresies. The line of cleavage is drawn more sharply every day. You see it in the Stock Exchange. There it may burst into flame any time as an open revolt against Whitney and his governing committee. You see it among investment bankers. There a strong faction would prefer sharp teeth in the IRA code to a protracted struggle with Washington to kill off the Securities Act. You see it in industry among the utilities, even among the commercial banks.

Texas Behind Most States In Educational Facilities, Says Mrs. Brigham, Home From Meet

Texas is far behind most states in educational facilities, Mrs. Pauline C. Brigham, county superintendent, said here Tuesday after returning from the National Educational Association convention held in Cleveland, Ohio. "When we found out what they were doing over the United States," said Mrs. Brigham, "we were impressed with a fact that Texas is relegated to a position back in the shadows."

Gets Life

"It is going to be our aim," she said, "to put in work shops soon that school children might have industrial training." The state department of education, she revealed, stands ready to aid financially any such program. "There are four schools in this county that might well undertake such a program at this time," said Mrs. Brigham. She added that she hoped the program could be put in effect in many other schools.

Purpose of the vocational training, according to her, is to give the boy or girl a foundation in certain trades in event they find themselves unable to obtain higher education. Farming, house keeping, and various trades would be taught, she said.

The depression has shown up our system of education," declared Mrs. Brigham. "We have been laying too much stress on the three R's and not enough on practical training and culture."

Mrs. Brigham was one of the two county superintendents who attended from Texas. H. Goerner of Dallas county was the other. There were 115 delegates from Texas, two of which came from Howard county. Leland L. Martin, head of the Forsan school also participated in the national meeting.

Dr. E. E. Oberholzer of Houston was unanimously chosen to head the association for this year. He was the second Texan to ascend to the presidency of NEA, Dr. Crozier of Dallas having been elected to that high post in 1930.

Dr. Yates Points Way To Salvation In Revival Talk

Dr. G. L. Yates, leading in a revival meeting at the First Baptist church, told his audience Monday evening of a good man who went to hell. Tuesday 7:45 p. m. he will tell of a bad man who went to heaven, and Wednesday he will speak of a good man who was saved.

'7th Commandment' At Queen Thursday

How the shifting morals of mankind have shifted in recent years until the greatest danger which youth faces today is not the scarlet woman but a combination of bootleg liquor, ignorance and a mania for new experiences in polyanthly brought out in "The 7th Commandment," the new all talking picture, to be shown at the Queen Theatre beginning Wednesday.

Although the scarlet woman still exists, as she has existed since time began, she is no longer of the type familiar to former generations. Where once she was a type easily picked out, today she is a greater menace to inexperienced youth because she bears no trace of her trade.

Herself ignorant in many cases in regard to sex, she relies more upon the effects of strong drink than upon her wiles to ensnare her victims. In many cases the gin-buffeted youth is unconscious that he is dealing with a scarlet woman at all until he awakens to a dreadful realization that he, his bride, and his children must pay a frightful toll.

Not in any sense a sermon, but a great, powerful drama of modern life, "The 7th Commandment" will nevertheless prove a revelation to many young folks and their parents. It should prove an important factor in the great battle now going on for better morals, and a healthier, saner world.

After a brief discussion of other phases of Red Cross work, the chapter adjourned.

Rev. Burnside Is Called As Pastor Of Fundamentalists

Rev. George Burnside, conducting a revival here at the Fundamentalist Baptist church, was unanimously called to the pastorate of the church Sunday morning. Rev. Burnside has not yet accepted the call but has promised the congregation a definite answer for Wednesday evening.

There will be baptizing after the Sunday evening service.

Rev. Burnside's home is now in Paris. Good audiences have heard him throughout the revival meeting.

During the meeting which he has been leading there have been many conversions and additions to the church.

9 Army Planes Are Destroyed

Fort Leavenworth, Kan., Blaze Sunday Is Under Investigation

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin, destroyed nine army airplanes, damaged four others and caused extensive damage to two hangars at the Fort Leavenworth airport early Sunday.

The loss was expected by army officials to exceed $25,000.

The fire started in No. 2 hangar. Six mechanics and orderlies asleep in the hangar were awakened by an explosion. They were unable to save six twin-motored bombing planes in hangar No. 2, but succeeded in wheeling four biplanes out of hangar No. 1 after they were damaged by flames. Three other planes in hangar No. 1 were destroyed. These planes were Curtiss pursuit ships.

A gasoline motor truck parked in hangar No. 1 also was destroyed. Officers at the post were unable to fix the cause of the fire, but it was believed a 500-gallon gasoline drum stored in hangar No. 2 exploded and started the conflagration.

It was expected an army court of inquiry would investigate the fire. The hangars were of metal construction, with interior framework of wood. The army airport is located on the Fort Leavenworth reservation, a mile and a half north east of the residential district of the fort.

The dome on Jesse Hall, administration building at the University of Missouri, will not be replaced as planned, due to protests of students and alumni.

ADULTS ONLY

The Bitter Truth About The Younger Generation

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

The college influence in major league baseball or, to be more exact, the quantity of talent recruited from the campus, never has been dominant in the big show but we are able to report, after some research, that the quality is such as to give the sandlot brigade a brisk argument.

Naturally the rough-and-ready school of production got a running start on educated ball-tossers. It was not until after the turn of the century and the lifting of the national game to a higher, more lucrative plane that it appeared there was any inducement for a college star to forsake business or the arts for sport.

Pro teams sought such old-time college heroes as "Lionel" Stagg of Yale but their offers were not sufficient back in the 80's to offset the possible stigma then attached to turning professional. Walter Clagson, Harvard pitching coach of 30 years ago, was one of the first of prominence to sign with a big league club but he quit after two years. Nowadays the roster of one team, the Yankees, includes Devens of Harvard and Broaca of Yale, each the recipient of a bonus and fat contract for their twirling prowess.

SANDLOT OUTFIELDERS BEST

Except in the outfield, where the colleges have turned out no trio capable of arguing the matter with Messrs. Ty Cobb, This Speaker and Babe Ruth—not to mention Willie Keeler, Ed Deleahanty, Joe Jackson, Al Simmons and a host of other candidates for the all-star sandlot aggregation—there's better than an ordinary debate between the rival contingents.

At that, the collegians would not be embarrassed on the outer ramps with Harry Hooper, Duffy Lewis, Max Carey or Clarence Beaumont, one-time National league batting champion, to depend upon. Fred Snodgrass, Cy Williams, Riggs Stephenson, Ben Chapman and Earl Averill are other outfield products of college baseball. Averill, who was recently listed here on the word of H. P. Edwards as being of sandlot extraction, turns out to be a product of Washington State university, where he starred in basketball as well as baseball.

For one side of the infield, we will take George Harold Sisler of Michigan at first and Edward Trowbridge Collins of Columbia on second base and let you have your pick of anyone else who ever held down these jobs regardless of antecedents, education or table manners. The fact is the collegians have an embarrassment of riches at first, with Columbia's Lou Gehrig and Hal Chase, the defensive artist of them all.

"Pop" Anson probably would satisfy the old-time sandlotters, Jimmie Foxx the modern ones, while second base employment for all-star purposes could go to Larry Laglo, Johnny Evers or Rogers Hornsby depending on style, power or viewpoint.

On the other side we will take Joe Cronin at short and Frankie Frisch, the Fordham flash, for third base on behalf of the diploma holders, with Travis Jackson, Buck Herzog, Joe Sewell and, by all means, Bloddy Ryan for emergencies. Sandlotters will tell you old Honus Wagner could do the work of all these fellows alone, but we will concede Jimmy Collins for third base duty alongside the all-time all-American shortstop.

Campaigns Quietly

McDonald, choice of the Ferguson administration, has been campaigning quietly throughout the state for weeks. His plan was to contact the Ferguson partisans in each community. A question often asked is "Can McDonald muster the normal Ferguson vote?" He has a busy campaign headquarters in Austin, with Senator Roy Sanderford of Belton in charge.

Witt soon will open his base office in his home town and pick a manager. He, like the others, promises to make an intensive speaking campaign. He claims that, if elected, he can do much to alleviate factionalism.

Allred has not announced his headquarters site or campaign manager, but has been putting in ticks every time he ran across an opening. He is the only one of the six majors who has come out plainly against repeal of state prohibition in event the question should be submitted.

Know Hardships

Small and Hunter have had previous experience as candidates for the governorship. They know of the hardships. Small almost gained the run-off in 1930. He was edged out by R. S. Sterling of Houston, who defeated the incumbent at this time. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Hunter made a good race in 1932, but the run-off was between Mrs. Ferguson, making her second race since her defeat in 1926, and Sterling, with the results well known to everyone.

Hughes, chairman of the pro-Ferguson state Democratic executive committee, has been active in politics since his majority, but never has made a statewide campaign, except when espousing, as a stump speaker, the cause of some candidate, notably in 1932 that of Mrs. Ferguson. Some think he will get a slice of the Ferguson vote this time.

Advance! Not Retreat!

KEEP THEM THERE!

An amazing advance has been made in commercial production of non-alcoholic beverages. That sickish "pop" of the old days rapidly disappeared under prohibition. Browse in any good shop now and you will find dozens of delicious healthful drinks. It is to be hoped that abstainers from alcohol will keep these refreshing beverages on the market. Poor soft drinks, like poor drinking water, stimulate the sale of beer and wine. — Blanch Pennington.

THE REAL PROBLEM

There is nothing in human nature which inevitably sets men chasing after strong drink. The drink habit has to be learned. The difficulty is that we are dealing with organized forces which have set themselves to create in generation after generation a powerful appetite which can be exploited for financial gain. If we are to consider human nature at all, the difficulty is not primarily with the man's thirst for alcohol, but with the thirst of some men for gold.— Bishop Francis J. McConnell.

Frank Stubbeman, Midland, In District Attorney's Race

Frank Stubbeman of Midland Tuesday announced his candidacy for district attorney of this the 70th district of Texas, subject to the action of the democratic primary.

Stubbeman is state representative and has in his district a larger territory than any other person in the Texas House of Representatives. He represents thirteen counties, including Martin County on the east and Jeff Davis County on the west. He has just returned from a recent session of the legislature at Austin. In that body he was one of the active sponsors of the pink boll worm bill and helped secure the passage of that measure, as a result of which the farmers of this area will eventually be relieved of money spent for fumigation of their cotton and for sterilization of their cotton seed. He also voted for the broad bonds, the moratorium legislation and the bills for the control of hot oil in East Texas.

Stubbeman says that for a long time he has considered entering the race for district attorney, but has not announced sooner for the reason that he has until now been busily engaged in his duties as a legislator.

Stubbeman maintains a law office at Midland and his law practice extends over a wide area in Texas. After receiving his training from the University of Texas law school, he began the practice of law in San Angelo with Judge Charles Gibbs, well known in this area. Stubbeman moved from San Angelo to Midland four years ago to become associated with B. Frank Haag and was still Haag's law partner at the time of Haag's death in an automobile accident last July. Stubbeman has in his law office one of the best law libraries in this section of the state. He is 28 years of age and is married.

In seeking the district attorney's office at the hands of the people of Ector, Glasscock, Howard, Martin and Midland Counties, Stubbeman feels that he is qualified through training and experience to
