July 4 Plans Completed Pony Express Adds Color to Celebration

July 4 is Thursday. It will be a special day of celebration in Bailey County as it not only will mark Independence Day, but the observance of the Golden Anniversary of the establishment of this as a county.

The marking of the half-century as a county will have an all-new, yet old style beginning . . . A Wells Fargo Pony Express mail run.

Joining in the county celebration are a group of horsemen who will make the Pony Express ride from Needmore to Muleshoe. It will be ridden in relays, according to the style and keeping of the old days and the mail which will come into Muleshoe from Beebe's Grocery at Needmore, the point of origin.

Planners of this event, something new for celebrations here, said the ride would begin at 5:30 a.m. at Needmore, and all riders will be on hand for the 7 a.m. breakfast to be served by the Muleshoe Jaycees at the south end of Benny Douglas football stadium.

This breakfast is called a "Ride-In Breakfast" with all the pancakes you can eat for $1. The Jaycees urge those with horses to ride them to the celebration breakfast and help start the day-long observance with their participation.

A historical marker has been erected on the east side of the courthouse square and a dedication ceremony has been set for 10:30 a.m. Relatives of the first county officials will be recognized at the ceremony.

Old settlers are to gather at Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church at 2 p.m. for a reunion. In the past, pioneers of the county have attended, some coming from many miles around, to visit with old friends and relatives. Entertainment, aside from visiting, and refreshments will be provided.

A parade will start at 4 p.m. at the Boy Scout grounds on south Main Street, several area riding clubs will be featured Night fires light up the countryside, indicating that the 1968 wheat crop harvest is drawing to a close and farmers are burning off the crop remains . . . the stubble.

The harvest is expected to be in the final stages this weekend with the exception of a few isolated fields.

County agent J. K. Adams said: "There was not an enormous amount of wheat acreage within the Bailey County lines, however Farmer had more."

"Wheat grown within the county is making more per acre than had been anticipated with some fields showing per acre yield of 60 bushels and some dryland dropping to 40 bushels per acre."

One farmer north of Muleshoe about six miles reported making 60 bushels per acre on a 60 acre field.

Conrad Williams who farms in the Goodland area is believed to have had the largest acreage of dryland wheat within the county, running near the 1,500 acre mark. The Williams crop yield was between 12 to 15 bushels on some of the farms and others yielded some eight to 10 bushels per acre.

The Williams farm extends to the New Mexico line and the report that harvest yields around that part of New Mexico ran about in line with theirs.

In that vicinity, there are scattered fields of wheat and harvest was concluded there last week.

For the most part, combine crews have begun to move northward in increased numbers.

Favorable weather conditions allowed the farmers and custom harvesters to finish cutting operation on schedule this season and a few days ahead of last year in some portions of the county.

In the area, the same picture of harvest completion is presented.

Randall County reports they are about one-half through the harvest season and the northward harvest is beginning to move with increased momentum.

Farmer, Lamb and Castro Counties are parallel to Bailey in progress of harvesting. The counties are also running in yield average about the same as Bailey County with 40 to 50 bushels per acre on irrigated land on the average and dryland ranging from 20 bushels per acre to around the 11 to eight yield mark. Some of the crops yielding only eight bushels per acre is in the belts damaged by storms earlier this year.

While most elevators locally are paying $1.25 and up for wheat, Charles Daniels, with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office said loan rate on wheat in Bailey County was $1.26 per bushel. One elevator operator said that

The wheat, in general, over the county was exceptionally heavy with the top figure for the year standing at one elevator at 63.3 pounds per bushel which in a check seems to be about top.

The elevator operator added that protein of the wheat was better than in years past and production - wise, the farmer had a better quality of wheat, yet there was less production.

Elevators and farmers report that the 1968 wheat harvest is virtually over. Only a few isolated fields of wheat are yet to ripen for the harvest. Most of the crop was rated at a higher quality this year than in past years.

Poems presented to the coaches are as follows:

My Coach
 Lewis Wayne Shafer
 You look so mean;
 You yell like your Mad,
 If I miss a Ball,
 I should have had.
 I try to steal home,
 I don't play it safe;
 I get caught in-between Catcher and third Base.

But all this doesn't bother me,
 For I know you really like me;
 And someday a better player
 I'll be.
 You can't fool me,
 When you try to look stern;
 Because there is always a smile,
 Behind that frown, I've learned.

You can act so mad at me,
 But I don't mind;
 For a coach like you,
 is just my kind.

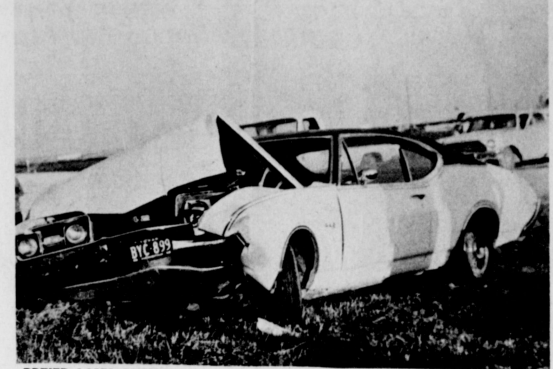

My Coach
 Elmer Davis
 You line us up in order,
 You keep the score;
 When we act ugly,
 You say, "Let's have no more,
 You take us out to practice,
 YES! WE CAN FILL YOUR BEEF ORDERS."

Seaton, MacWhorter Married in Lazbuddie

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Craig MacWhorter

Miss Jacquelyn (Jackie) Sue Seaton became the bride of Gary Craig MacWhorter in an impressive double ring ceremony, June 21, in the Lazbuddie Methodist Church, Rev. Harold Morris, Anson, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Seaton, Lazbuddie. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George MacWhorter of El Paso. Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church amid lighted candles and greenery highlighted with two large baskets of yellow gladioli and white carnations. Centering the archway of greenery, were three large wedding bells with long white streamers, accented with a white velvet kneeling bench, in front of an archway.

The bride wore an empire A-line wedding gown of angelmist taffeta and Alencon lace with full back, accented by a large bow at waistline. The flared elbow-length sleeves were accented with applied rose motifs and also rose motifs down the front of the dress, featuring a bateau neckline. Her veil of white Tulle was attached to a headpiece of lace petals, highlighted with daisies and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow rose buds atop a white Bible. Iridescent sequins adorned the gown and train.

Completing her ensemble of tradition, something old was the white Bible, given to the bride at the age of three by officiating clergyman. Her wedding gown was something new, something borrowed was coins worn in her shoes, minted in the year of the bride and groom's birthdays and for something blue she wore a blue garter.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Darrell Stevens, Lazbuddie and maid of honor was Joneece Seaton, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Susie Tanner, close friend of the bride, Olens Ann Seaton, sister of the bride and Sheryl MacWhorter, niece of the bridegroom. They wore floor-length gowns of yellow lace over taffeta and sequins of yellow Tulle attached to taffeta roses. Each carried a single long stem yellow carnation. Flower girls were Debbie MacWhorter, niece of the groom. She was dressed similar to the bridesmaids. She carried a white lace basket filled with yellow rose petals.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom and punch were served by Neta Marsh of Texline, Mrs. Tom Lambert of Hereford and Mrs. Kay Dixon of Amarillo; all cousins of the bride. Members of the wedding party and their attendants formed the receiving line.

For their wedding trip, the couple went to points of interest in New Mexico. They will be at home in Lubbock following a short trip. For traveling, the bride chose a lime green lace shift with lime green hat and white accessories. She wore a corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride attended school at Lazbuddie and plans to enter beauty school. The bridegroom is a graduate of Austin High School in El Paso, attended the University at El Paso and is attending Texas Tech. He is presently employed by Big State Mercantile Company of Lubbock.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phelps, great aunt and uncle of the bride, Ponca City, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. John M. Anderson, grandparents of the groom, El Paso; Mrs. H. J. McBride, Alpine; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Scariero, and Eddie Ford, Scottsdale, Ariz.; Mrs. R. O. Smalley, Scottsdale, Ariz.; Mrs. F. Franz Geyer, Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. 'OLD-FASHIONED' GOSPEL SINGERS---This group meets each Thursday night at the Needmore community building for an 'Old-Fashioned' gospel singing session. Starting as a small group, they have increased with time as more and more people join in. They will be entertaining at the 'Old-Settler Reunion' at Methodist Fellowship Hall at 2 p.m. on July 4.

'Old Fashioned' Singing Each Thursday Night

Several months ago, a few local people began meeting in first one home and then the other in the area. Their purpose? Nothing more than "Old Fashioned" singing sessions. The original group, which included Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Beavers and Chester Clay; Mr. and Mrs. Buck Creamer and Jan and Cieta; Mr. and Mrs. Willford Boren and Kathy and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Moraw, began to outgrow their 'home' sessions as more and more people heard about the singing and came to hear and then to join in. For the past month, on Thursday night, if you should pass the community building at Needmore, you will hear voices, singing out, coming from inside the building. This has become the place for a weekly session of singing and harmonizing.

The group, which is non-denominational and non-dues paying, is open to anyone of any age each Thursday night. It usually gets underway at 8:30 p.m. and when the final song for the evening has been sung, refreshments are served to those present. Included in the Thursday evening session at Needmore this week, were Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Moraw, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Garth, Mrs. Dorothy Kincannon, Woods (Woody) Goforth, all from Needmore and the surrounding area; Mrs. Barbara Allen, Dallas; Mrs. Dottie Fultz, Irving; Mr. and Mrs. Mon Taylor, Maple and Mr. and Mrs. Buck Creamer and Cieta, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Beavers, Mrs. Willford Boren, Kathy and Timmy, Mr. and Mrs. Zed Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie L. Smith, all of Muleshoe.

Girl Scout Day Camp Ends

Girl Scout Day Camp ended with an impressive flag ceremony Friday afternoon after five days of activities. Average attendance for the camp was 54. Some highlights of the camp included a speech by Mrs. Cieta Williams on the early settlers of Bailey County; each unit spent one day at the Muleshoe Game Reserve; some 12 girls received swimming badges, while other works on cooking, camping, and tracking badges. At least one unit visited ranch headquarters, as each unit chose an early day ranch to represent. Brands and flags displaying brands were prominent in the camp. Also of interest in the camp was a weather station, complete with wind sock. The directors and camp staff members wish to express their thanks to the many people who cooperated to make this camp a success.

CAMP FIRE IRISH STEW --- The Girl Scout Day Camp ends with a real camp fire dinner. Vicki Griffin and Susan Cardwell are shown stirring the camp fire Irish stew. The girls are of Troop 288.

Green Thumb Tips

When weeds are tiny, cultivation is sufficient to kill them. If they're large, it's best to weed. Calendulas can be sown twice during the garden season -- in spring for flowers during summer and in summer for fall bloom. Where climate is mild, calendulas are considered winter flowers. It's easier to cultivate between rows of vegetables than it is to weed. What's the difference? When weeding you remove an offending plant, roots and all. When cultivating you just cut off the tops with the hoe or cultivator and the roots are left in the soil.

THE PLAN IS BRIEF

The object of the big distribution is two-fold. Primarily to increase the already large subscription list of The Journal and advance subscription payments from present, to gain new subscribers and at the same time afford our friends an unparalleled opportunity to profit in a big way through their spare time during the next few weeks, so it is a plan that works both ways and to the ultimate good of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, one of the most valuable and attractive lists of prizes ever offered by a local newspaper in this section of the country has been made ready for distribution among those participating most heartily. Ambition and energy are the only requisites for success. The plan adopted is straight forward and simple and is fully outlined in the announcement.

Let it be understood at the very outset that it is not a "beauty" or "popularity" contest, but strictly a legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women, and one in which no element of chance enters. One feature of this competition is the fact that there will be no losers in this race.

John Tower

There are many services which our federal government must provide its citizens, but the greatest service of all is to keep its people free.

I believe it is particularly significant that we examine America's strategic strength carefully during this week when we celebrate our Independence Day.

There can be no question but that our nation must maintain its moral and material strength to deter aggression, in our position of free world leadership we are naturally the target of those who seek to destroy the prevailing principles and the foundation of Western society.

In view of the unsettled nature of the world in which we live, it is absolutely essential that the United States maintain a sound financial foundation and a military posture superior to that of our potential enemies. Americans must understand that technological superiority is essential to our continued ability to deter war or to defeat an aggressor, should deterrence fail. And, I very much fear this Independence Day week that our present defense policies are depriving America of that critical superiority.

There is today a lack of effort to achieve and maintain American technical dominance. There has been a failure to acquire and deploy new weapons on a timely basis.

We imperatively require decisions on new weapons -- weapons which will maintain for America in the 1970's the military superiority we have enjoyed in the 1960's as a result of vigorous research, development and procurement in the 1950's.

Until the 1960's we sought clear-cut American military superiority. Today we appear to accept -- even to seek -- parity with the Soviet Union. As an Armed Services Committee member this troubles me deeply.

In recent years Defense Department policy has caused our nation's military research to slow down drastically. At the moment, we are coasting along on past achievement and momentum while the Soviets' military research and development program accelerates each year.

In the last seven years there has been not one new start on an advanced strategic or nuclear weapons system. The MINUTEMAN and the POLARIS Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles and our strategic bombers -- B-52s and B-58s -- were all developed in the 1950's.

Our nation has been living for too long off the strategic inheritance of the 1950's. By restricting weapon research and development, civilian defense managers have taken a reckless gamble with American security.

In fact, our research and technology effort in Fiscal Year 1968 was about 70 percent of that of 1964 -- a critical 30 percent reduction in just four years.

This trend must not be continued in the face of a dynamic Soviet weapon research program that has grown five-fold in size since 1950 and continues to expand by close to 10 percent each year.

We all know that a major technological breakthrough could shift the balance of world power irrevocably -- yet while the Soviet Union is forging ahead, the U. S. has been leveling off.

The growing Soviet investment in research and development already is paying off for them in blue chips of strategic power.

They will very soon achieve -- for the first time in the Missile Age -- numerical equality with us in ICBMs. In 1967 the number of operational, long-range Soviet missiles doubled. They have developed and deployed the world's first missile defense. They have tested and are developing a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System. They have made enormous strides in catching up to the United States in submarine and aircraft technology. They are reportedly working on multiple-warheads for their giant rockets.

Thus, while the United States seems to have settled for nuclear and strategic equality, the dynamic Soviet research program is clearly geared to Communist superiority -- American subordination.

Just this week Armed Services Committee Chairman Richard Russell said that for the first time in his long career he could no longer assure the Senate that the U. S. is superior in the field of strategic missiles.

"I think there is grave doubt about it," Senator Russell said. It is clear to me that if we are to guarantee the security of the United States, then American must have clear-cut, strategic superiority over any combination of potential adversaries.

If we are to help keep global peace and to keep our own nation free from Communist pressure and tyranny, then we must maintain a posture of superior defensive power.

It is clear from history that the Cuban Missile Crisis was resolved because the U. S. had superior strategic power. It is equally clear to me that we are challenged today in Southeast Asia, in the PUEBLO incident, and in the continuing Berlin harassment because the Soviet Union feels safe in challenging us.

We require new defense efforts to restore credible strategic superiority. Only when we have and preserve that superiority will Red challenges to world order cease.

The growing Soviet investment in research and development already is paying off for them in blue chips of strategic power.

Future of Sun Planetarium Topic

For centuries men have been curious about the substance and history of stars, and at the same time convinced that man would never know. Techniques of modern astronomy, however, have stolen a wealth of information about the stars, including life histories of stars.

Of course, since a star lives so long that no one could possibly hope to observe first-hand the life and death of a single star, it is by studying thousands of stars in the universe, at various stages of growth and development, that astronomers have been able to tell the world how stars are born, how they change with age, and finally how they die.

The sun is one star whose life man might be very interested in learning more about. Studying the sun today at close range tells how we can learn a great deal about its past history, and by comparing it with older stars much can be learned about its future development.

In the next several billion years our star, the sun, will grow much larger, at the same time turning a great deal cooler. It will also change color from yellow to red as it cools off.

Just how the sun will progress through the remainder of its life, and how it will probably end, is the subject of July's program in the "Theatre of the Skies" at the Planetarium at West Texas Museum each Sunday at 3 p.m.

The public is invited to the Planetarium shows. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students. Parking is available in the Museum parking area.

Serious Truck Shortage Costs Melon Growers

The most serious truck shortage in history for the truck transportation of Texas watermelons continues to cost Texas watermelon growers untold sums through crop losses, according to Willis R. Deines, Executive Vice President of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers of Harlingen. He stated the scarcity of trucks for marketing Texas watermelons was resulting in loss of portions of crops to many growers in the watermelon districts extending northward from Falfurrias. Texas has an estimated 74,000 acres of watermelons with the season progressing from south to north. Deines said in Texas on up into the entire state for harvest this summer and there are no prospects for an increased supply of trucks. Railroad rates are too high to enable Texas to compete and a result 100 percent of the Texas watermelon crop depends upon truck transportation.

Deines stated the principal cause of the truck shortage was the antiquated Texas law that makes it difficult for truckers to obtain operating authority from the Railroad Commission of Texas, and until the Texas legislature enacts new legislation that exempts the trucking of agricultural products on both intrastate and interstate shipments' Deines said, "Texas growers will continue to suffer from an inadequate supply of truck transportation. In a recent months there has been a crack-down by the Department of Public Safety on truckers operating without Railroad Commission permits and severe fines have been levied against both truckers and shippers who hired the truckers. Word of this crack-down has reached out-of-state truckers and as a result a great many of them are not coming into the state now to transport Texas products."

"The Texas laws are much more restrictive than those in other states on regulating 'for-hire' trucking of agricultural products and it is therefore much more difficult for Texas farmers to market their products by truck, particularly on an intrastate shipment to a Texas market," Deines said. "and we appraised Governor Connally of this situation by a detailed brief on the problem. In April 1967 remedial legislation could be enacted at the special session of the state legislature but prospects appear dim for any action prior to the regular session next January."

The Railroad Commission of Texas regulates the trucking industry and issues operating permits but, as required under the law, they must conduct public hearings before granting permits for intrastate hauling. Permits have been issued to only about 75 trucking firms for intrastate hauling of fruit and vegetables in Texas, and because of opposition at the hearings by the few who already have the permits, great expense is entailed by truckers who seek these permits and this has discouraged most truckers from trying to legalize their hauling. Deines said in contrast to the 75 permits issued in Texas, the Public Utilities Commission in California has issued approximately 14,000 permits to fruit and vegetable truckers, but "the California Commission, under their law, has authority to issue these permits without the hearing procedure required of the Texas Railroad Commission under Texas law," he said.

"We have investigated the procedure in other states such as Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Florida and found that each of these states makes it very easy and inexpensive for truckers to obtain authority for intrastate hauling of agricultural products. In Texas the state for the hearing run the truckers' cost up to thousands of dollars. These truck permits are transferable by sale in Texas and we have heard reports that the sale price of these permits range into thousands of dollars because they are so difficult to obtain through the hearing process."

Deines forecast a serious shortage of trucks will face the produce growers in the Hereford area where volume shipment of potatoes and onions will soon start, and unless the legislature acts promptly this trucking problem will be damaging to all of south Texas when the citrus and vegetable crops are ready for harvest in the fall.

Local Group To Attend Training Meet

Area Jehovah's Witnesses have been advised that they will comprise a congressional delegation to their "Good News for All Nations" District Assembly set for San Angelo, July 11-14.

A local spokesman remarked that the San Angelo convention will be only one of some 46 to be held throughout the United States and Canada during the summer of 1968.

The local delegation will be a part of more than 5,000 ministers attending the four-day training session at the San Angelo Coliseum.

Numerous ministers will present a series of training programs, talks, dramatizations and discussions during the Convention with Watchtower officials from New York City officiating over the proceedings.

THINGS TO REMEMBER IN WATERING GREGG 25V

25V holds up longer than any other cotton after the last water-on most soils from 2 to 3 weeks longer.

The important thing to watch is the take-off date, which we recommend generally between July 15th and August 1st.

Start watering as early as you wish, but the first irrigation should be finished before the first bloom.

43% of our cotton this year is May cotton, the remainder was replanted June 5, of which we lost 13 acres, and this was again replanted June 15. We will start watering our 25V about July 5, considering the year with its set-backs and replants we will irrigate only once, and will finish our 25V by July 25.

It is a known fact that with all crops, whether grain sorghum, soybeans, small grains, or others, that the early maturing varieties need irrigation in the growing season sooner than the long-season varieties. Gregg 25V is a very early maturing variety, hence the need for irrigation before the first bloom. Gregg Seed Farms, Plainville, Texas.

Save Money With Wise Purchases

Habitual credit-buying, TV guided, hasty shopping American consumer wastes about $920 a year, or 12 percent of the typical family income.

The largest money waste is in food buying, according to Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist. Potential savings here are estimated at $416 per year for a family of four.

Finance charges, medicines and toiletries, car operation, insurance, home furnishings and clothing all offer possible savings. The waste of family money over a 20-year period is estimated to be enough to pay all college expenses for the family's two children, says the Texas A&M University specialist.

Mrs. Meyer suggests ways to save on day-to-day expenses:

Round steak, a popular weekend supermarket special, is a good choice when well trimmed. Meat tenderizers, pounding or pressure cooking can give consumers the best of two worlds—economy and flavor.

Expensive canned fruits like Elberta peaches and Bartlett pears can be bought in cans of chunks and pieces for a fourth less than canned halves; mushroom stems and pieces are much less than buttons. A store's own brand of fruits and vegetables are usually several cents a can less than a "name" brand of the same product, with no difference in quality.

Buy towel and bedsheet irregulars since flaws will not affect either use or wear. When requesting a new hook-up of electrical power, gas, lights or water, you usually are charged a deposit. After paying bills for one year, request the deposit back from the utility company which, otherwise, may hold it indefinitely. Soft drink vending plants will sell wholesale by the case to individuals if products are bought in quantity.

Coin-operated dry cleaning machines take much of the load off the dry cleaning budget and are especially useful for blankets, draperies and curtains. Other items should be sent to a regular dry cleaner every four hours for special care. Do not shop for food when hungry. Studies show that a consumer might wind up spending a lot more than necessary.

Bank repossessions as cars, boats and camping equipment often are good buys and nearly new. Another advantage is that banks do not charge odometers or camouflage a car's defects as a dealer might. Check with banks to see what is available. Do not rush into a freezer plan. It is a ripe confidence field although there are reputable ones. Freezers and carrying charges are often overpriced, food is sometimes of uneven quality and every city does not have service.

BEER-DRINKING AT 18?

Clearwater, Fla.—A Florida juvenile court judge has posed that 18-year-olds be allowed to legally drink beer in the state. The judge argued that a 20-year-old, entrusted to fly multimillion dollar airplanes and fight on the battlefields of Vietnam, should be able to order beer.

TRUE ENOUGH—You have heard the old saying "Everybody and their dogs were there." This was true, as this picture shows, at the Friday Sidewalk Sale held in Muleshoe. Crowds of costumed clerks for the 'Gay Nineties' era of attire.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

"Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6

Ask anyone what his most precious possession is, and he will almost invariably say, "My children." The desire for the welfare of our children enables us to "move mountains". We will do anything, give them anything, if we think it will help them.

The most important thing we can do for them, however, is to instill in them a love of God, and a desire to obey him. The church can help you in this endeavor, inspire and strengthen you. We invite you to take your family to church this week. It may make a great difference in the life direction taken by your children.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Happy July 4 Travel Safely

Holiday travel is always extremely hazardous, accident reports reveal and with the upcoming July 4 holiday approaching, the Texas Department of Public Safety again warns motorists to drive carefully, within the speed limit and only when alert. Perhaps the favorite American holiday, it has become the traditional time for travel. Americans take to the beach, visit friends and relatives and go on holiday outings of every kind. Thousands of Texans are expected to become a part of this mass of travelers to increase traffic on Texas highways this July 4. Texas Department of Public Safety issued a bulletin pinpointing construction projects as an additional hazard and notes that one or more may be in your area of travel.

Farm Bureau Asks for More Gun Penalties

WACO—The Texas Farm Bureau has asked Texas Congressmen to support legislation to impose increased penalties on persons convicted of committing crimes with firearms. The state's largest farm organization also urged support of strict law enforcement at every level of government, and said it opposed any legislation which will require further regulations or registration of guns.

In a letter to both Texas Senators and all Texas members of the U. S. House of Representatives, Texas Farm Bureau President Sidney Dean said farmers are deeply concerned about current proposals to register sporting firearms and to license owners of sporting firearms.

Farmers and ranchers are dependent on their guns to protect livestock and crops from predators and pests, and to protect their families in isolated areas where police protection is scarce or non-existent," the farm leader said.

Dean quoted TFB policy dealing with the problem of firearms control which reads, in part:

"Because of the very precepts on which our nation was founded and on which our Constitution was written, we go on record as being opposed to any legislation requiring registration by or removing from the lawful citizen his right to own and use firearms for lawful purposes."

"In support of this policy," Dean wrote the Congressmen, "we respectfully request that you support legislation to impose increased penalties on persons convicted of committing crimes with firearms. We urge you to use your influence in support of strict law enforcement at every level of government. We request that you to oppose any legislation which will require further regulations or registration of firearms, ammunition, etc."

Load:
 She: "Doesn't a still, small voice tell you when you do something wrong?"
 He: "No, a loud, large voice does—I'm married."
