THE COUNTY SEAT NEWSPAPER

Bank Robbed Tuesday Afternoon

Holdup Within Six Months Bandits Slain by Hemphill County Officers

The second time within six months the First State bank of Allison was the victim of holdup Tuesday afternoon, when two men from Oklahoma obtained approximately $130 from the institution. According to best advices available, there had been in Allison only one time before committing the crime. It is said they told the proprietor of a cafe where they had refreshments, that they "were robbing the bank and would like to spend some more money."

About 1:30 o'clock, one of the masked, entered the bank armed with a gun, demanding of McMillin, assistant cashier, McMillin declared he did that amount handy, whereupon the bandit told him to hand out the money. Approximately $130 was taken.

The bank with McMillin was Martin, an oil dealer. The two were ordered to lie down on the floor and keep quiet, after which the bandit quietly out to a waiting automobile occupied by another bandit in a 1928 model Tudor, and drove eastward out of town.

The farm was quickly given and the nearby counties notified. Hemphill county officers were in sight of the fleeing car for some distance, during which time seven shots were fired at the robbers' car. A bullet proof vest saved the party from injury, as the pursuers were unable to crowd their car into the glancing missile struck Funerary temple, inflicting a slight injury. Officers' party immediately fired, mortally wounding both robbers, who were rushed to a hospital, on the way. One of the bandits was identified as Ortag, 38, a farmer residing in Sweetwater, who is said to have returned from California. The other man was believed to be named Orr, who Ortag is said to have met while in the west. Revolvers and a rifle were found in the car. The car, but two or three bullet holes, was brought to Wheeler Wednesday afternoon at the Fred Farmer garage was first thought to be a Ford, but has been found to be a Buick from Oklahoma.

ER SEEKS ROADSIDE PARK SITES IN COUNTY

Gaston of Amarillo, special agent of the highway department, is in Wheeler and vicinity today to look for possible sites for roadside parks. Two or three tracts in the north part of the county met with approval, it is understood. An effort will be made to obtain easement or purchase of lands with a view to making improvements according to the highway department's land program. This work is in no way to afford employment for CCC camps, principally here, Gaston in company with R. Weatherly, inspected a tract near Wheeler with a view to making a state park. The engineer was very favorably impressed with the belief that some of the enterprise might result in a state park.

ITS TO HOLD REVIVAL

Series of revival meetings will be held at the First Baptist church in Wheeler on Sunday, July 22. Further meetings will appear in this city next week.

FIND ENCOURAGEMENT ON EAST-WEST ROAD PROJECT

Preparatory to attendance at a Panhandle good roads meeting in Amarillo Saturday, at which one or both expected to be present, Dr. F. N. Reynolds and C. R. Weatherly made a trip today to Elk City, Okla., where they met and discussed the new east-west highway project with chamber of commerce members.

They met with much encouragement concerning the proposition and the Oklahoma men were enthusiastic about the possibility of success, promising to make every effort to get the road, beginning at a point three miles west of their town westward to the state line, graveled and made an all-weather road at the earliest possible date. It is not known just how soon this may be accomplished. Later it is hoped to pave the Oklahoma portion.

Now it is up to interested parties along the route in this state to work for the necessary improvements to bring the road up to a standard highway, which would better serve the traveling public from the east who are going to Colorado and northwestern points.

If and when completed, the proposed route will shorten the distance appreciably between Wheeler and Elk City. This road would also serve local travel to good advantage.

New Physician Locates Here

Dr. D. W. ReMine, recently associated with Drs. Broyles & Black, is making arrangements to open a practice in Wheeler. Office space for the doctor is being arranged in the Royal Drug store, and will be ready for occupancy by next week.

Dr. ReMine comes highly recommended. He is a graduate of and has a B. S. degree from the University of Chattanooga, Tenn., and an M. D. degree from the Tennessee School of Medicine at Memphis. He holds licenses to practice in Tennessee, New Mexico and Texas.

His experience includes two years general practice with the Broyles & Black office at Amarillo, and internships at the Baptist Memorial hospital, Memphis, and North Texas hospital, Amarillo.

Dr. ReMine has taken special training in treatment of diseases of the kidneys and bladder.

LOAN ASSOCIATION MAKES FIVE LOANS PER DAY

For the past week, the Wheeler Loan association reports an average of five loans made per day. It is thought that all loans now pending will be concluded by Aug. 1. This week a year ago, applications were first made for commissioner and federal land bank loans under the new administration were made in this office. Since that date, over 150 loans have been completed, refinancing Wheeler and Roberts county farmers.

It is expected that many more will take advantage of the 4 1/2 and 5 percent loans. Although applications have slowed up during the past three months, applications are again beginning to come in.

The Wheeler association invites prospective borrowers to call at the office and discuss the proposition, with the new hope of making application before August 1.

James Bass, federal land bank appraiser, was a caller at the local office Thursday in connection with his official duties. He stated that he has recently visited eight Panhandle counties and that he found Wheeler county much better off than any other county in his territory.

DIAMOND DUST

A baseball game here Sunday afternoon, between the Magic City club and the local nine, resulted in a 3-3 tie when called because of a sudden thunder shower.

Tonight the Wheeler team goes to Erick, to play under the floodlights. Next Sunday the locals play a return match at Magic City, and on July 22 they go to Canadian for a contest.

Successful gardening depends upon shallow cultivation after every rain, according to Mrs. Monroe Reynolds of the Hastings home demonstration club in Shackleford county. Mrs. Reynolds has raised a garden every year for 25 years and this year has 37 varieties of vegetables, five of which are new to her experience.

Civic Organization Headed by Reynolds

Brazil Resigns Presidency of Board of City Development— Dentist Appointed

This week a change of president of the Wheeler Board of City Development occurred, when R. E. Brazil resigned that office and Dr. F. N. Reynolds accepted the place. The board of directors, by uniform action, approved the change.

Brazil has headed the civic body since its organization some weeks ago, and has filled the office of president in a highly satisfactory manner. So reluctant were the directors to accept his resignation that only after Brazil had repeatedly urged that his private business affairs required so much of his time that he could not do justice to the leadership of the BCD, were they willing to take action in the matter.

However, the retiring president has expressed the utmost willingness to assist the organization in any capacity or undertaking attempted, limited only by the time he may be able to spare for such work.

Dr. Reynolds, dentist, has resided in Wheeler for the past several months and during that time has made a large circle of acquaintances throughout the county. Having lived at Pampa and elsewhere in the Panhandle, he is well known in the entire area.

With his pep and energy, a happy faculty for meeting the public and deep interest in affairs affecting Wheeler and Wheeler county, Reynolds is well fitted for the office. It is confidently believed that the body will move forward under the new leadership along the lines of progressive town building and community boosting contemplated, and perhaps set new and larger goals.

No change has been made in the office of secretary or the directors' personnel.

Clint Small to Visit Wheeler Next Tuesday

Panhandle Candidate for Governor In Final Drive Throughout this Region

The "big push" in the final drive to secure votes for Senator Clint C. Small, Panhandle gubernatorial candidate, started in the Panhandle this week. An intensive campaign to cover the entire 31st senatorial district is being inaugurated.

Motor caravans of Small supporters will visit every city, town and hamlet in the district between now and the date of the election, July 28.

The first motorcade of Small forces, composed of citizens from several Panhandle towns will leave Amarillo, Thursday morning, July 12, for a trip to the North Plains, carrying the message of Senator Small's increasing strength in East Texas, South Texas and Central Texas. In addition an appeal will be made to voters to cast their ballots for Small as he deserves at least a vote of gratitude for his past services to this section.

The second in a series of motor caravans, organized under the direction of Mason King of the News-Globe will leave Amarillo at 7 a. m., Tuesday, July 17, and will arrive in Wheeler at 2:40 p. m., for a stay of 40 minutes.

Cities to be included in the second itinerary will be Panhandle White Deer, Pampa, Miami, Canadian, Mobeetie, Wheeler, Shamrock, McLean, Allenreed and Groom.

A. C. Johnson of Dalhart this week assumed active management of the Small campaign in the Panhandle. He is in charge of the local headquarters office.

"Our man is no longer a sectional candidate," Johnson declared. "He has attained his state-wide stature because of the magnificent service he has rendered his own people and the entire state. His ability, his courage, his integrity, his mature judgment, his profound knowledge of the practical phases of state and local government, make him the best qualified of all the gubernatorial candidates. He will furnish a sane, progressive leadership during the difficult times immediately ahead. His long record of public service is a better guide than a long list of promises."

Legion Barbecue at Mobeetie July 23rd

Erick, Okla., and Wheeler Posts to Sponsor All-Day Meeting at Seedig Farm

Announcement was made Tuesday by Jim Risner, adjutant of West Post No. 138, American Legion body of Wheeler, that an all-day barbecue and get-together meeting will be sponsored by the Erick, Okla., and Wheeler posts on Monday, July 23. The gathering place selected is the Gus Seedig farm, about a mile southwest of old Mobeetie.

The event will include a big barbecue dinner at noon. Later in the day addresses will be made by members of the Legion and a purely informal program of good fellowship will be carried out.

All war veterans, stated Risner, are welcome to attend and enjoy the day's activities.

Young Wheeler County Man for Representative

Eugene Worley Shows Great Promise of Election from the 122nd District

What promises to be one of the biggest political upsets in the Panhandle this year is the race for state representative from the 122nd district, in which Eugene Worley, young Wheeler county man, is now credited with an excellent chance to win if he can pile up a sizeable majority in his home county.

Worley, reared in Wheeler county and now a student at University of Texas, Austin, was unable to start campaigning until less than a month ago, on account of having to remain in college for examinations. All doubt of whether he could muster enough support in the limited time to go into the runoff has been dispelled, by the diversified support that has been forthcoming from the four counties

"SON" JONES TAKEN TO PAMPA FOR SAFEKEEPING

As a precautionary measure to prevent his escape, or a possible delivery, Sheriff John Porter took "Son" Jones to Pampa Tuesday for safekeeping. At the spring term of district court, Jones was convicted of complicity in a robbery of the First State bank of Allison last January.

Jones was given a sentence of 15 years for the crime and had since been confined in the county jail while awaiting transportation to the penitentiary. Porter feels relieved to have the responsibility off his hands and the man, who has proven unruly at times, placed where better facilities are available for the safekeeping of prisoners.

PARTY FOR YOUNG FOLKS CHOIR ON FRIDAY NIGHT

At the regular practice session of the young peoples choir, held in the Methodist church basement Tuesday evening, plans were made for a party to be held tomorrow (Friday) night, for the group.

Tuesday evening's meeting, at which Rev. J. Edmund Kirby directed the singing, with Miss Florence Merriman at the piano, convened at 7:30 so the members might see the picture, "Jesus of Nazareth," shown in the church auditorium beginning at 8:30.

It was learned today that the Title Abstract Co., of which C. J. Meek is manager will soon be housed in its new home, the brick store building recently purchased by Meek from W. E. Pennington & Son. Work on the room is expected to start this week, when fixtures will be installed and complete redecorating done. The company hopes to be located in the new quarters by August 1, and possibly sooner.

Waiting for Can- nery Equipment

Under direction of Mrs. C. B. Witt, county supervisor, preparation of quarters and other arrangements for the cannery project in Wheeler have been pushed rapidly this week to completion. Practically all has been done that it possible until the remainder of the equipment arrives. A portion of the fixtures are here now.

The room has been painted and fixed ready for installation of the equipment, which is expected any day, but nothing definite was known today as to when it might arrive.

Preliminary steps have been taken on the Shamrock cannery, which will be housed in the basement of the First Baptist church, which has been offered for the purpose. However, confirmation of the offer will not be forthcoming until Monday, following congregational action Sunday.

Below will be found the toll schedule under which the cannery will operate.

ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH TO HAVE REVIVAL SOON

Rev. Alvin Walls, pastor, announced this week that a revival meeting will start within the next few days at the Assembly of God church in Wheeler. Efforts are being made to get the 9-year-old girl evangelist, Charlene Puett of Overton, Texas, to conduct the revival.

RALPH DUKE HONORED

Word has been received here that Ralph Duke, who is enlisted in an Arizona CCC camp from this county, has received a promotion on grounds of good conduct, non-use of liquor and tobacco, and all-around ability. Duke has served seven months in the camp and this is his third promotion during that time.

Wheeler Dollar Day Here Next Saturday

Merchants Offer Many Specials for Thrifty Shoppers—Feature Event at 5 o'Clock

As mentioned in this paper last week, the monthly Dollar Day or "trades day" in Wheeler, originally planned for Wednesday of this week, has been changed to next Saturday, July 14, at which time visitors to this city will find many attractive bargains awaiting them in the various stores.

A united effort is being made by Wheeler merchants and business interests to provide a shopping day of real merit for their customers and friends. Reference to other pages of The Times will reveal a listing of prices on many commodities, ranging through grocery, dry goods, hardware and other lines.

Wheeler business men and the citizenship generally extends a cordial invitation to the public of this county to take advantage of the opportunities provided in merchandising values; also to come to Wheeler and meet their friends and neighbors. Wheeler is bidding for more than mere financial patronage for its merchants—it wants to win and hold the confidence of its constituency; to be known as a friendly city, offering favors and conveniences as well as asking them.

At 5 o'clock Saturday evening an event of great interest to every Wheeler visitor will take place. The plan has been made known heretofore, but those who are unfamiliar with it, may obtain full information from any merchant or business man in Wheeler. Only one condition is necessary in order to participate, and that is every person is asked to register, if they have not done so already. Registration books will be found in all stores. No obligation attaches to registration and there is nothing to buy in order to register. Be sure to visit Wheeler, Saturday, and to ask about the big event at 5 o'clock.

GETS PUBLICATION ISSUED BY BOYHOOD SCHOOLMATE

J. D. Merriman, Wheeler county surveyor, is quite proud of a copy of the "Hoosier Editor," by Frederick Landis, a boyhood schoolmate back in Huntington county, Ind., many, many years ago. Landis now lives in Logansport, Ind. Merriman recalls that his boyhood friend was born and reared in a log house not far from the city of Huntington. Later he served as a missionary in China under auspices of the Christian church.

The little brochure, issued monthly by Landis, is well written and contains good clean humor, a bit of philosophy, and a seasoning of spicy sarcasm.

Merriman received the copy through the courtesy of an old friend, Dr. B. F. Slusher, who lives in Kansas City, Mo.

CONTRACT LET TUESDAY FOR MAGIC CITY SCHOOL

A contract was let Tuesday for a new school building to be erected in Magic City, in the western part of Wheeler county. Ellis, Nicholson & Milner of Oklahoma City, were awarded the contract on their bid of $16,320.00.

The new structure will contain six rooms and an auditorium, of brick construction, and will be located close to the business section of the town. The old school building was situated at the west edge of the town.

It is understood that work will start on the new building immediately, or as soon as the land title can be cleared up and proved.

TOMORROW

"It is not a question of getting back to yesterday, but of taking care that we make tomorrow what it should be, that confronts the people of our great nation now," says William G. Everson, D. D., of Portland, Ore.

"During times of unrest, subversive movements of all kinds tend to thrive. That is to be expected. What should not be expected is that schools and churches use their influence to stimulate them—a thing that has occurred time and again during the past few years.

"Using religion and education as a cloak, some teachers and ministers have consistently attacked American principles. They have sought, directly or indirectly, to destroy our traditions, and to change our fundamental democratic system of government. They have contributed nothing to the work of recovery—nothing to making the future a happier time for the great masses of the people. Their schemes, if followed, must inevitably bring us to disorder and chaos.

"Change in this country comes through rationalized, orderly progress. We must not lose sight of the great achievements of the past, and the principles which made those achievements possible."

TAXES! TAXES! TAXES!

Congress has adjourned. But the eyes of the public are still turned on Washington. And most of them, figuratively speaking, are fixed on the treasury building.

The last congress, like its predecessor, was extraordinarily expensive. It appropriated billions, and the budget, which has contained a wide gap between income and outgo for some time, is still further out of joint. In brief, legislative activities of recent months have done nothing to mitigate the tax problem—they have made it considerably more imposing than it was.

It may be taken for granted that much of the money appropriated will serve one good purpose or another. Perhaps none of it will be wasted. That, at this time, is beside the point. We are reaching the stage where business and individuals can no longer pay heavier tax levies—and where many relief activities, because of their cost, are hampering, not forwarding, recovery.

Government is precisely like an individual. Every citizen knows of useful things he would like to buy. He can't buy them because he hasn't the money. It isn't a case of what he wants to do—it is a case of what he can do with the means at his disposal. We have lost sight of that individualized idea of government spending—and states, counties and cities have been even worse offenders than the federal government itself. It is an unquestioned fact that investors are putting money into tax-free bonds, where it does nothing for the sake of industry, because of the fear that taxation will continue to take most of the profit out of private business. Jobs are lost, factories are closed, homes and farms are foreclosed, industrial development is brought abruptly to a halt—because of high taxes.

These are facts, not hot air. Cost of government is our greatest and fastest growing problem.

GETTING STATES TOGETHER

Uniform traffic laws and ordinances in all states are vital to any movement designed to reduce the number of deaths and injuries as well as the economic loss chargeable annually to automobile accidents—a fact that was emphasized by the recent Fourth National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

With Secretary of Commerce Roper presiding, the conference approved a model uniform vehicle code which all states are asked to copy or adapt. First in importance in this code is a model operators' and chauffeurs' license Act which requires examination or test before awarding certificates. Twenty-one states now have such a law. Four states give the license to private operators on application, and the other states have no license at all. All but six states have a minimum age requirement, ranging from thirteen to eighteen; seemingly, the six will permit anybody to grasp a wheel to run a car. Other laws in the uniform code are:

Model motor vehicle administration; registration and certification of title and anti-theft act; model civil liability act; model financial responsibility act; uniform act regulating traffic on highways; model municipal traffic ordinance.

Albert W. Whitney, associate general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, who was a member of the committee which arranged for the conference, said, in explaining purposes of the uniform code:

"As anyone can realize it is vital for a state to control those it permits to use its highways. It should have the right to say who shall drive in the first place, and then to penalize those whose driving practices are dangerous to the lives and limbs of others.

"The other acts of the code are so reasonable as to recommend them to every driver."

REGULAR KINGFISH

A traveling salesman visited a small town, and sold the proprietor of its general store an order of jewelry. When the jewelry arrived it was not as represented, and the merchant returned it. But the wholesaler, nevertheless, attempted to collect the bill, and drew a sight draft on the merchant through the local bank, which returned the draft unhonored.

The wholesaler then wrote to the postmaster inquiring about the financial standing of the merchant, and the postmaster replied laconically that it was "O. K." By return mail the wholesaler requested him to "hand the enclosed account to the leading lawyer" of the place for collection.

This is the reply they received: "The undersigned is the merchant on whom you attempted to palm off your worthless goods.

"The undersigned is president and owner of the bank to which you sent your sight draft.

"The undersigned is the postmaster to whom you wrote, and also the lawyer whose services you sought to obtain for your nefarious business.

"If the undersigned were not also the pastor of the church at this place, he would tell you to go to Hell."—Exchange.

GETTING HELP

We have often wondered why it is when a person gets into trouble, his house burns down or he loses everything he has by some great calamity, that he will run to the home town merchant for help. Perhaps he has never traded with local business men, but ordered or gone to some other point or trade. Does such a one deserve the help of the home town merchant? We are not saying that he doesn't, but in the face of these conditions, it does look hard for the home merchant to turn him down. Think about this when you are trading in some other town or city or supporting the mail order concerns. They wouldn't help you for one penny. What they want is your money. —Wolfe City Sun.

Did you ever hear the one about Arkansas that goes like this?

A footsore and weary stranger from back east was trudging along a rural road in Arkansas, one evening when all of a sudden something landed right in front of him. After the dust, raised by the commotion had settled, the easterner saw a man picking himself up out of the road.

"What's the matter mister," the traveler asked.

"Well, stranger," he answered, "I must not be as sure-footed as I used to be. That's the third time I've fell out of that cornfield since I started plowing early this morning." —Clarendon News.

Following the arrival of a notice from C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section at Washington to the effect that Collingsworth county would not receive additional cotton allotment, John O. Stovall, county agent, today said that the official allotment for this county was 26,270 bales, 487 pounds, net weight has been received for this county—Wellington Leader.

A total of $333.50 was the amount of fines collected by the city police department during the past month, according to the report submitted recently. There were 86 arrests, of which 48 were for intoxication. Other causes of arrest were for affray, speeding, gaming, theft, and investigation.—Pampa Advocate.

Application blanks for allotment of cotton will be forwarded to the farmers of Roberts county who are growing cotton within the next few days. Each farmer will be required to make application for a given number of bales to be grown and ginned tax free. Roberts county has been allotted 50 bales under the Bankhead Act. The total amount allotted to the various farmers cannot exceed this quota. Any farmer growing cotton this year should see County Agent Jett McMurtry, within the next few days.—Miami Chief.

The go-getters evidently get the money. The other day the Amarillo News said that more than $1,040,000 had been spent under the relief program in Potter county. The Herald the same week printed a statement that about $46,000 had been expended on the same program in Car-

Briscoe Club Notes

Soap making was the lesson for our club on Tuesday, July 3, at the home of Mrs. Alvin Richerson, in Briscoe. We were very glad to have Miss Viola Jones with us again. Miss Jones and Miss Leona Crossland demonstrated the making of toilet soap and the different ways of making toilet and laundry soaps.

At the business session it was decided to buy and equip a club house for the use of the club and the Girls and Boys 4-H clubs, and a committee appointed to see after the business.

Roll call was answered by the "Way I Make Soap." It was learned that some of the ladies made their soap "in the moon" as well as the pot, but Miss Jones tells us that the materials and care in making are much more essential to good soap than the moon. Two of the ladies said they did not make soap and gave corn bread recipes in place of soap.

Those answering roll call were: Mesdames W. B. Douthit, Perry, Riley, Weaver Barnett, Henry Lee, Alvin Richerson, J. B. McNeil, W. McNeil, Sam Standlee, Louis Smith, Jack Vise and Miss Tamsey Riley. One visitor was present, Mrs. James Funston.

Refreshments of lemonade and cake were served by the hostess. Club adjourned to meet again Tuesday, July 17, at the home of Mrs. Louis Smith.

Briscoe 4-H Club Report

The Briscoe 4-H club met Tuesday, July 3, at the Methodist church. The house was called to order at 10:15 a. m. Miss Jones called the roll and members responded with a description of the work they had done.

Since the meeting was delayed, there was no time for a demonstration. However, Leona Crossland told how to can different foods and mentioned the containers to put them in. The trip to the Dallas fair was also discussed.

Upon motion and second, the meeting adjourned at 11:30.

Those present were Joy Bill Riley, Mary Margaret McCarroll, Willene Douthit, Geneva McNeil, Fay Wilson, and the sponsor, Mrs. Jack Vise.—FAY WILSON, Reporter.

Busy Bee Club Meets

Soap making was the topic of the lesson at a meeting of the Busy Bee club Thursday afternoon, July 5, at the home of Mrs. H. H. Herd.

With the assistance of Miss Leona Crossland, Miss Jones gave an interesting demonstration on making toilet soap. She also gave some very helpful suggestions we will remember when we start making soap.

Roll call was answered with "My Favorite Way of Making Soap," which was also interesting.

Members present were Mesdames C. B. Johnson, E. W. Carter, Roy Esslinger, Cleo Gaines, C. M. Hampton, R. D. Underwood, C. C. Crowder, J. E. Willard, Rufus Watts, C. C. Robinson, J. B. Crowder; guests, Mrs. L. L. Brewer, Misses Jones and Leona Crossland and the hostess.

Movie Chatter

By a Rogue

Hips, Hips, Hooray!

Boys! What a title. What a picture! What a cast! Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the ace comedians of the silver screen. The stars of "Cuckoos" and "Rio Rita" together with Dorothy Lee, Thelma Todd and Ruth Etting all rolled together into one great laugh riot. It's nutty, but it's nice. Gorgeous settings, dancing girls, moonlight and splendor against a background of nonsense and hilarity. If you do not enjoy this one to the fullest extent, then you had better see a doctor, because there is something seriously wrong with your sense of humor. Also, Betty Boop comedy for good measure.

And no advance in admission. Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee at the Rogue.

Fugitive Lovers

Robert Montgomery and Madge Evans come to the Rogue Monday and Tuesday in their latest success, "Fugitive Lovers." This is considered one of the better class pictures. It is made expressly for the followers of these two popular stars and will please any movie audience. It is a story of youth amid the torrid movement of modern society. It is gay and exciting and thoroughly entertaining.

The Last Round-Up

Get ready all you Zane Greys, for Friday and Saturday of next week comes the greatest and most recent from the pen of that master writer. The title is "The Last Round-Up." More later.

Miss Ann Ford returned Friday from a week's visit with friends in Amarillo.

Derwood Lewis came home Monday from a weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Strentz and family at Eden.

FLAME OF THE BORDER

By VINGIE E. ROE...

THE STORY

CHAPTER I—Seeking death by throwing herself from the summit of Lone Mesa, to escape dishonor, at the hands of a drunken desperado, Sonya Savarin allows herself to be rescued by her suddenly sobered and repentant attacker. The girl is a self-appointed physician to the Navajo Indians, living on an Arizona sheep ranch with her brother Serge, his wife Lila, and their small daughter, Baba. For a year she has been engaged to Rodney Blake, wealthy New Yorker, but her heart is with the friendless Navajos and she evades a wedding.

CHAPTER II—Sonya pulls Little Moon, wife of Two Fingers, a Navajo, through the crisis of an illness. Two Fingers is deeply grateful.

CHAPTER III—In the desert village, shopping, Sonya again meets the man whose advances she had repulsed on Lone Mesa. He tells her he bitterly regrets his action and has never had a minute's peace since that day. Sonya is affected, but unforgiving. She hears rumors of a Border bandit "El Capitán Diablo," who crucifies his "double-crossers" and has a dire reputation as a despoiler and murderer, vaguely connecting him with her attacker.

CHAPTER IV—Sonya pays a visit to Little Moon and finds her well on her way to recovery. On her return she rides to the top of Lone Mesa. There she again comes upon the strange young man, but she no longer fears him. When he reiterates his sorrow over his misconduct she indicates forgiveness and assures him a man can always change for the better.

CHAPTER V—Be-friending the wife of Hosteen Net, a Navajo, she adds him to her circle of devoted friends. At a neighborhood dance she meets the mysterious stranger of the Mesa and demands that he tell her his name. Finally he confides to her that his right name is Starr Stone, that his mother believes him dead, and that he goes by a different name in this region. He departs with a tall, fierce Mexican, with whom he is mysteriously associated.

Sonya Savarin loved the dances of the region.

Although liquid contraband flowed freely, and the cowboys from the upper country sometimes raised the rafters with their noise, there was something elemental and very young about these gatherings of the folk of the lonely land. The sheep men brought their wives and daughters, the whole family, in fact, down to the littlest ones, who slept in ranks on the wall benches as the night wore on, and everybody danced.

Serge Savarin and his womenfolk came a little late, having to drive 23 miles over roads that left a lot to be desired, and entered in the midst of a number.

Sonya, in a new dress, her dark face sparkling already, laid her wrap on Lila's shoulder and swung out on the floor in the arms of a perspiring cowboy.

She met these people only at the dances, but she remembered everyone and danced with all who asked her, providing they were not too far gone in the common hilarity. If so, she would merely laugh and shake her adorable black head with its shining curls and say gently, "No, Billy, I'm too tired to hold you up. Come around earlier next time"; or, "You're silly, Bob, just plumb silly, I think you're lit."

And young Bob, weaving on his booted feet, would tell her anxiously that he wasn't near drunk, but he knew how she felt about it and didn't blame her a bit, not a shingle bit. Neither did he, nor anyone whom she refused a dance. It was enough that she was there to look at, the most beautiful woman in all the country, the highest-up, yet the sweetest to everyone that a man could ask for. Everyone knew of her and her work among the lowly. Her little fame was sweet in the land.

So Sonya danced and laughed and listened to the music of the violins, the gay accordions, with her arm on this lean shoulder and that, and was extremely happy. She forgot the sorrows of the world and lived her youth to its full extent. Forgot Rod Blake and New York city and the man of Lone Mesa, all of which had troubled her of late.

Lila was dancing, and so was Serge, and Baba was already dead to the world on a bench in the corner, covered with Lila's cape. The music was waxing more "hot" and furious. And by the door a man came suddenly into her range of vision, a tall man, slim-hipped and graceful. He was in store clothes, and the eternal cigarette hung in his fingers, its spiral of smoke ascending in a tiny stream, but she knew him instantly. As instantly the almost terrible thrill shot through her from head to toe, blurring her eyes a bit, catching her throat with a little pain.

Suddenly the music changed, some one yelled "Paul Jones!" and the circling couples broke like the colors in a kaleidoscope. They strung out in a huge oval, all holding hands, and began going to the right in time to the lively tune. A whistle blew, and they broke apart, each man taking the woman immediately facing him at the whistle's blast, and dancing on with her. Whirled from this pair of arms to that, breaking step, catching it again, suiting her step to each new partner's, the girl felt as if a wave of portent was bearing down upon her. Something was going to happen—something terrible and wonderful—she was afraid and exhilarated as she had never been in her life before—and here he was coming toward her in the line. He danced as she might have known he would, like the wind blowing in long grass—she could see him sway as he weaved in and out in "aman-left"—and the whistle blew, and he was here, before her. Her hand was in his, his arm had gone about her, they were drifting away together—and all the lights on the walls were running together in a long blur.

Sonya held her breath and let it out in a long sigh, and felt suddenly the trembling of his arms.

Then the whistle blew again, and some one else had caught her hand, and she was drifting right once more in the long oval.

When the number was over she went dizzily to where Lila sat fanning her flushed cheeks and sat down beside her. She wanted to rest, to gather herself together, to still the shameful tumult of her heart.

Some one claimed her, and Sonya went back into the maze of moving figures, but everywhere she went she was conscious of the brilliant eyes of this man. He stood against the wall a little beyond the main door, and he seemed to be alone. He did not dance again, even though there was another Paul Jones, but watched her in a grave stillness, and Sonya could not gather her faculties for her usual light banter.

What was the matter with her?

Why did her heart hammer in her breast with long slow beats, her blood flow through her veins like molten gold drenched in perfume?

She thought wildly of Rod, tried to bring his face before her, to force herself to feel his presence. She tried to cling to his memory as one clings to a sturdy rock in rising waters, and could not. She could only see the face of the man beside the door, the young face that she had seen in so many lights, drunken and wild and relentless, sober and contrite, washed with regret.

What was happening to her? To her life itself? To her destiny and her hopes?

Tears came in her eyes, and she did not hear what her chance partner was saying. Fear was in her heart, and a certain terrible fire that mounted and grew. Time passed, and she was not conscious of it.

Finally, late in the night, the fiddles struck up the sweet old strains of "Home, Sweet Home," and the dance was over. This was the last number. A cowboy from the K Bar Z with whom she always liked to dance was asking her for it. She had just held out her hand when some one reached forward from the side and took it. Next moment she was gone out along the floor in the dreamy rhythm of the sweet old tune, and this time she was held so close that she could feel the beating of his heart, a thundering reverberation like tides on the shore. Desperately she raised her eyes and looked at him.

"Tell me," she whispered thickly, "what are you? Who are you?"

"Nothing," he said bitterly, "to you. Nothing—ever—and I'd give half my life to kiss one curl on your head—with a decent man's right."

The words came through his set teeth, and even in the tenseness of the moment she noticed that he did not slur his words at the ends.

"Then be decent!" she cried passionately. "Be decent!"

"Too late. I'm only looking in windows—from the outside—and I built the wall between, myself."

"Tell me your name," she said, "tell me."

"No."

"Yes, Tell me now."

"I can't. I haven't a name—any more."

"You have. Your own name. Not what you—you go by—where—where you answer roll call."

"Answer roll call! That's good. What do you know about me? What have you heard?"

"Nothing. I'm guessing, fitting things in places," she said swiftly, "and there's some one across the Border who crucifies—"

"Hush! For God's sake, don't speak of that again, ever, anywhere! Where did you hear of—such?"

"No matter. There is—and some way you're connected! It cuts me like a knife—you've got to tell me. Who are you?"

"If I tell you my name, will you keep it like you would your oath?"

"Yes. You know I will."

"Of course I know. I'm Starr Stone to my mother, who thinks I'm dead and buried. In this—country—I go by something different. Now are you satisfied?"

CLUB NOTES

"I consider that a distinct honor was conferred upon me when my club chose me as wardrobe demonstrator," said Mrs. Frank Westmoreland of the Twitty Home Demonstration club. As she began the story of her wardrobe, like many of the other demonstrators Mrs. Westmoreland had no organized place in which to keep her clothing, but by building a dust proof closet, out of material on hand and $3.60 worth of material she bought, she soon had an ideal place for every article of clothing.

The closet is covered with ivory colored paper to make it light. There are four shelves across one end of the closet. The bottom shelf is used for bed linens, the next for her son's folded garments and the last for hats. Ivory colored hat racks were made from old painted broom handles and the top covered with brown domestic which matches the pockets on the door.

There is an exterior rod across one side of the closet and near the floor a shoe rack made from the ends of an apple crate. Near the shoe rack is also a place to keep her umbrella. A flash light suspended from the ceiling by an insulated wire substitutes as an electric light. Out of material that was left over from making the wardrobe a shelf for keeping her quilts was built over the chiffon-robe.

Mrs. Westmoreland has made her club 100 cent users of foundation patterns for 21 women who were not club members, making a total of 36 foundation patterns she has made. She cut 17 patterns for children, 27 dresses for adults, 40 sleeves and 39 collars.

Near the conclusion of her story, Mrs. Westmoreland said, "No one will ever fully know how I have enjoyed being a class I demonstrator, and the real happiness and benefit I have reaped from this year's work."

Last year, when Mrs. Jim Risner, of the Wheeler Home Demonstration club was a wardrobe I demonstrator, she remodeled the clothes closet in her room. She put small shelves in one side and a long shelf overhead. The rod for her clothes was too high, so she took it down and put it about one foot lower, and then painted the entire closet white. She made a shoe rack, pockets for the door, and hat stands. Mrs. Risner helped twelve women and girls with their sewing and made one foundation pattern.

"As class II demonstrator I improved the clothes closet in the boy's bedroom, making plenty of room for both theirs and their fathers clothes," said Mrs. Risner. I mended the boys clothes. I made about six shirts for the youngest, and made about eight dresses for myself, besides blouses and slips."

Hitlerism in America

Hitlerism in America? Do you think it is not one "ism" enough? —Americanism?

In times of depressive conditions at home and abroad, new schemes are born; new remedies are nourished and broadcast. Some are good. Some are bad. While the inactivity of industry is dominating on every soil; and economic problems bedevil the spirit of revolution, the spirit of revolution seems predominant. Conditions seem to be fertile soil for reactionary like these through which passing, too many people are being misled by new doctrines which are not the one which has been tried.

When I speak the consensus of American opinion when Hitlerism belongs in Germany, man people want Hitlerism in their own land, well and good. They need it; have no time or patience; and doubtless will not wait.

American people have lived under the plan of freedom and old-time democracy. Why change now to Hitlerism? Hitlerism has placed its disapproval upon Catholicism, Jewish religion and Protestantism. What do they pin their faith on? The fight is directed at the Jew in this country, and it seems to be the Jew may control the finances of America. If so, who's fault? Wouldn't Hitlerites control the money? If the Gentile through these many years had the wealth of this country in their hands, would they have done as much as Hitlerism have done, and intend to do. They have no more than the original has done and is doing to-

day. Her Catholic nor Hebrew, but that Hitlerism is an un-American quantity in America; that capable of continuing our country as a peaceable people; believe in competitive and gain so long as they come within the confines of our rules of law.

Our president is working day after day to revive our different industries; while he is every effort possible at his to re-establish faith in our economic structure, I see in foreign theories which are being peddled.

American people should consider thought and action as of great good may come from Deal; fair principles in old days. This country is all right by everyone bending a little to live in keeping with the game of American freedom. Democracy, it will eventually be a still firmer foundation.

The American is going to bite the hand that is feeding him. No American is going to tolerate the "isms." No American is going to fail to see in the East which gives us further peace and tranquility than our own.

By gathering all social and religious prejudices, our nation shall prosper as it should. There is only room for one "ism" and that is Americanism. Commercial Feature Syndicate.

of his district, Wheeler, Collingsworth, Donley and Gray.

The same, conservative attitude of the young Wheeler county man, his intelligent grasp of governmental problems and his modest style of campaigning have popularized him with farmers, oil people, and the average run of town and city voters.

Farm leaders of Wheeler and Collingsworth counties were the first to come to young Worley's support. It is the young man's belief that cotton classing experts should be placed in each cotton community of the state to assure cotton growers maximum prices for their cotton, and to pay for this by increasing the tax on horse racing. He believes in as much reduction of state ad valorem tax as is consistent with common sense government but realizes such reduction cannot be made possible overnight. He believes taxes should be based on a man's ability to pay.

The young Wheeler county man is opposed to the present system of state school apportionment. He believes the money should be apportioned on a basis of children who actually attend school rather than on a census basis which he believes is working to the advantage of eastern and southern districts of the state where there are heavy negro and Mexican population, and to the disadvantage of the Panhandle.

Worley says there are 200,000 negro and Mexican children whose parents are utterly indifferent to their education and who do not attend school, yet the state pays for this education. He says the state compulsory school law is a farce and a travesty. To base this state aid on a basis of actual school attendance would make possible larger per capita apportionment to Panhandle counties.

Worley has also received support from the land and royalty owners of Gray and Wheeler counties because he favors a fair market price at the gas well rather than the present system of discrimination in which the local land owners receive less for a superior grade of gas than do other owners over the state for an inferior grade of gas. He favors the placing of master meters to insure accuracy and honesty of both the land owner and the state comptroller as reliable records for the purpose of taxation.

The candor and frankness of Worley appeal to the voters who have been in the habit of hearing candidates tell how they expected to revamp the entire structure of government a few months after they were elected. Worley admits he is not a "Know-It-All," but assures voters he has average intelligence and that if elected, he will do his level best "to make the voters and tax payers a hand."

He has had experience as a committee clerk in the House.

John Puryear, candidate to succeed himself, and Philip Wolfe, Pampa attorney, are the other aspirants for the place as representative.
