Churches Hold... ... Union Services

The First Christian Church and the First Methodist Church have started a series of union services each Sunday night.

The two congregations will meet in one of the church buildings one Sunday and the other the next. Last Sunday they held services in the Methodist Church and Rev. Ray Heckenborn, pastor of the Christian Church, delivered the sermon. This Sunday the union service will be held in the Christian Church and the Methodist minister, Rev. James Campbell, will preach.

Good Rainfall Brings Hope

After looking at rainclouds for several days without getting any moisture, Eastland citizens enjoyed a good rain early Wednesday morning. The moisture, which totaled .47 inches in Eastland, was the first reported here since June 15, when a shower teased the area with .10 of an inch.

The rainfall was the first in July, which has been very hot, and helped some. Most agriculturalists agreed, however, that more moisture is needed.

The rain brought Eastland's moisture count for the year up to 12.03 inches which is still slightly behind normal. During the first part of the year good rainfall fell. Normal for the first seven months of the year is 16.33 inches.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

The so-called smart, sophisticated humor of the New York City night clubs isn't difficult to produce. For example, if you see a sign proclaiming, "Our Bread Un-touched by Human Hands," you can quip, "Baked by apes, I suppose."

Or if a restaurant announces, "We make our own pies," you could remark brightly to the proprietor, "That makes it easy for the customer to fix the responsibility, doesn't it?"

Or if you have just finished making a speech, the club president can say, "This was the largest crowd since I've been president—three weeks."

The night club brand of humor is fundamentally cruel.

Like all newspapermen, I dislike writing letters but have exchanged them with Carl Sandburg, Rex Beach, Dr. Frederick Cook and W. J. Bryan. There's a foursome! Sandburg is, in my opinion, the foremost living American author; Beach wrote exciting novels of Alaska; Bryan was the greatest orator of his generation and Cook claimed to have discovered the North Pole and to have been the first to climb Mount McKinley.

It was at night in a leading hotel. Two men were carrying on an animated conversation with the door open into the hall. Their voices penetrated through the closed door of the opposite room where the occupant was paying a neat sum for tonight's rest tossed sleeplessly. He had left a call for 6 a.m. and it was past midnight before the talking two quit.

A little incident, you say and not worth setting down. And you are correct except for this—it shows what's the matter with the world. There are too many people who never think of the other man, his comfort, his rights or, if they do, they just don't give a darn.

This-and-that: Dr. H. E. Robinson of the Texas Education Agency is an orator—and you can't hardly find that kind any more.

In San Antonio, there's a place of business with a sign, "Our motto is caveat emptor." Well, you got to admit, they told you.

Pat Bullock of Colorado City has one of the most difficult offices there is. The former Senator, as a member of the State Pardon and Parole Board, hears many pathetic pleas.

Was San Antonio the last city in the county with a town-crier? As recently as the 1920's a man rode around the business district on a horse, calling out about the baseball game that afternoon or a sale in progress at a store—or so I was told by a long-time resident of the Alamo City.

Allotments Are Mailed for 1961 Wheat Crop

College Station, July—Official notices of farm allotments for the 1961 wheat crop are being mailed to farmers this week, according to Baldwin P. Davenport, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Most of the allotments differ only slightly from those for 1960, since the national average allotment remains at the minimum of 55 million acres, Davenport said.

He pointed out that all growers who will produce more than 15 acres of wheat as grain in 1961 will be eligible to cast ballots in the July 21 referendum on marketing quotas for the '61 wheat crop. Growers with smaller acreage and those in the feed wheat program are not eligible to vote since their wheat would not be subject to marketing quota penalties.

Davenport said the referendum would decide important questions for wheat producers and he urged all eligible growers to cast a ballot. Marketing quotas will be in effect for the 1961 wheat crop if two-thirds of the growers casting ballots favor their continuance. Too, marketing penalties will apply to the excess wheat of growers not complying with their farm allotments, and price support at not less than 75 percent of parity will be available.

If more than one-third of the voters oppose the quotas, no quotas or penalties will be in effect on the 1961 wheat crop and price support at 50 percent of parity will be available to producers who plant within their farm allotments.

Growers who like to make their own decisions should cast a ballot on July 21, Davenport said. Local announcements will soon be made regarding polling places and opening and closing times for the balloting. Local ASC offices can supply additional information on the referendum or it may also be obtained from community and county ASC committeemen, Davenport said.

Peanut Producers Urged to Attend Farm Bureau Meet

The Texas Farm Bureau has been cooperating with the Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association and several other farm organizations in Texas and Oklahoma in an effort to develop a voluntary check-off program to finance expanded research and promotion for peanuts.

After several preliminary explorational meetings a suggested program has been developed for consideration by the various organizations involved.

The State Board of the Texas Farm Bureau will consider this matter at their board meeting July 12-14. In an effort to go over this suggested program and to get the thinking of the peanut producers themselves a meeting will be held Friday July 8, 3 p.m. in the Orchid Room, Baker Hotel, Mineral Wells.

All peanut producers are urged to attend this meeting.

Six New Laws Are Important To Vets

Sumner G. Whittier, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, today called the attention of veterans and their dependents to the following six laws enacted recently by Congress and approved by President Eisenhower:

1. P. L. 86-490 provides that if a veteran submits proof of dependents within 60 days of notice that the evaluation of his service-connected disability is increased to 50 percent or more, the additional compensation for the dependents will be paid from the date of evaluation instead of the date proof was received by the VA, as the previous law required.

2. P. L. 86-491 makes uniform the marriage requirements for widows entitled to death benefits under either death compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation. For death compensation it extends from 10 to 15 years the time limit within which the widow must have married a veteran who later died from a service-connected cause following the termination of the period of service in which he sustained his service-connected disability. This law does not affect a widow who qualifies because she was married to the veteran for five or more years or where a child was born of the marriage.

3. P. L. 86-492 allows a widow eligible to receive dependency and indemnity compensation, which is based on the rank of the deceased veteran at the time he was separated from the service, to have the benefit of a higher rank than that at time of separation from the service provided he held it for six months at least and was holding it within 120 days of the date of his separation or death.

4. P. L. 86-494 provides that survivors of certain Navy enlisted men, who died as a result of aviation accidents between Oct. 8, 1940, and Aug. 3, 1942, while training to become aviation cadets may apply for $10,000 gratuity National Service Life Insurance less the amount of Government insurance in force. Payment will be made to survivors but not to estates.

5. P. L. 86-495 prohibits payment to any child on account of the death of more than one parent in the same parental line following the date of the law (June 8, 1960). The prior law would allow a combination of payments from a parent's death and a step-parent's death in some cases.

6. P. L. 86-497 authorizes waiver of premium payment to be granted, upon application, to totally disabled in line of duty after making application for insurance and prior to the date their insurance became effective. The waiver of premiums renders the insurance non-participating while the waiver is in effect.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

This was a quite Fourth of July we spent on the front porch this year, which, by the way, is one of the best on earth to be spending a holiday in the hot summer time. The days there are so many people on the highways each holiday that a fellow is literally taking his life into his own hands to get out on the road. About all he has to worry about spending a holiday on the front porch is the danger of falling out of the porch swing.

This year the Fourth passed in its usual manner, hot and dry. But there have been some exceptions to this rule in the past.

I remember a Fourth we had a long time ago when I was in grammar school that was a real cold day. It got so cold that we had to light the fires in our homes here in Eastland, but that sort of things doesn't happen once in a coon's age, or perhaps I should say once in a man's age.

That was in the long ago when the most popular thing to do here was to go to Abilene to the automobile races.

At that time Abilene held some of the best dirt-track racing in all America each Fourth of July out at the race track in Fair Park. That was the old West Texas Fairgrounds that used to be located just to the west of the city auditorium. We'd all get over to Abilene and park our cars downtown to avoid the parking jam and ride the street car to the fairgrounds. Yes, that's what I said, ride the streetcar to the grandstand. Abilene used to have two or three cars running on regular schedules about town, and was the only town between Fort Worth and El Paso large enough to support an electrical streetcar system on its city streets. This was back in the early twenties and Abilene at that time was all of 10,000 or 11,000 people. It didn't come anywhere near hitting the 80,000 people recorded in the 1960 census, as recently reported in the early reports of population of Texas cities and towns.

The actual population of Abilene at that time might not have been much more than Thurber, but was a company town while Abilene was a typical county-seat town owing its support to ranching, farming, and education. It had two colleges and perhaps three at that time. It just depends on the date McMurry was established, but I think it was established in the early twenties. ACC and Simmons, as Hardin Simmons was known then, were already going concerns. However, I think it is interesting to note that Abilene Christian College then was on the west side of town, just about as far west as the present Sears, Roebuck store, but on the north side of the Texas and Pacific Railway tracks.

Being so close in to town, the fathers of that school used their heads and when they had an opportunity to get much-needed land on the eastern side of town, picked up the school and bodily moved it to a more roomier location.

Those old auto races used to fascinate me, although they time to give me a headache every time I went to one of them. Racing cars there always burned castor oil, or a blend of castor oil, and the fumes exhausted about the track were something awful. They gave me a headache smelling them. Although the Abilene track was not the largest nor the best in the nation, I think it rated among the best because some of America's best racers raced there. I remember in particular a fellow by the name of Frank Lockhart who used to make the Abilene race almost every year. He later won the Indianapolis Memorial Day race in that city and was trying for a world's record, which I think he also held at some time or other, at Daytona Beach, Florida, when he lost control of his car and lost his life when he drove it into the sea at too fast a speed to keep control of it.

Most of the cars racing in Abilene used to be four-cylinder jobs, hopped up for racing cars. Most of them were small, much smaller than racing cars today are and most of them didn't have starters or very little, if any, braking systems on them. If one of them got out of control, it usually wrecked itself in the shuffle, but I don't remember anyone getting killed at Abilene races any of the years I used to attend.

Getting to the race was something of a day's work too. The highway wasn't paved all the way to Abilene then and we usually had to detour all the way from Putnam to Baird. The detour went somewhat north of the present highway and was one of the roughest pieces of road I think I ever saw. Right after a rain it was almost impossible but we seemed to always manage to make it, although it was quiet and ordeal. If we didn't have a flat or something like that we thought we were doing good.

I suppose the early-day auto races did serve a useful purpose. The automobile and tire manufacturers learned things about their products at these races that they probably never would have found out otherwise, and there was a lot of things they needed to know too.

In those days of the twenties automobiles only had brakes on the rear wheels. Many people thought if they had four-wheel brakes there would be a danger of them somersaulting if the front brakes accidentally grabbed too soon. Tires too have improved a lot since those days. Some of the things the tire manufacturers needed to know about tires came about as a result of the early sport of auto racing. Tires in those days were higher than the hide in the middle of an aroused cat. The British at that time had control of the world's rubber market, synthetic rubber had not been invented, and they bled the American public for every cent they could get in the world's rubber market. A standard tire for the time cost the motorist about $50 or $60 and it was sometimes guaranteed for a full 3,000 or 4,000 miles.

Just think what would happen today if we could only get 4,000 miles out of a tire? We'd naturally think we were robbed, but that used to be standard practice.

The first time I ever made a trip to California in the late twenties we left here with a brand new set of tires. At that time we referred to five tires as a set and some of us carried two spares, instead of the usual one tire, to be extra safe. One of the standard things carried in every car was a hot-patching kit so he could patch his tubes on the road and of

Clyde Evatt Is Named On Sul Ross Honor Roll

Clyde Evatt, Eastland High School graduate, has been named on the Spring Honor List at Sul Ross State College by Dean of the College, Beverton Reed.

Evatt, a former E.H.S. football star and a Sul Ross standout on the gridiron, will serve as assistant coach next season at Ranger College.

The Dean's List is the mark of distinction of the academic world and is achieved by not more than 15 percent of the student body. Seventy-five students were named for the last semester, of whom eleven received a "straight A" average.

Sul Ross State College opened its doors to its first students in June 1920, and according to a recent tabulation, the August graduating class will mark more than five thousand graduates in the 40 year history of the institution. Summer Convocation has been announced for August 21.

course a pump, it was a hand pump too, to pump up his tires if he should need it. And he usually needed it some time or other. I think we had a flat every two or three hundred miles or so on this trip to California, and before we got back to Eastland we had to buy two tires, which means that we had seven tires in making a trip that normally makes day in and day out without as much as having to change a tire for the entire trip.

Much of the advancement in the manufacturing has come about because of the knowledge of their product that came about because of early pioneers who made auto racing a part of their lives and tested the products that went into the automobile.

Another thing people used to do in making trips by auto was to inquire of the condition of the roads in almost all the important road junctions along the way as the motorist didn't know which route he would take until he'd inquired of the roads from local authorities, as conditions of the roads changed from month to month, depending on the weather. Very little paving had been laid then and most roads outside of the populous counties was dirt or gravel. For example, I don't think there was over 100 miles or so of paving between here and Los Angeles the first time we ever made that trip. There was a little paving around El Paso, some around Tucson, some around Phoenix, and there was a little just west of Yuma replacing the board road that had been used to cross the desert sand of California the year before.

Incidentally, the remnants of that old board road can still be seen just beyond Yuma, although the road itself hasn't been used since about 1926. Before the board road was laid I don't have the slightest idea now automobiles got across the blow sand of California. I think the answer to the question of what did they do in those days is that not many of them made it and anyone with a lick of sense didn't even try. He rode the train.

the motorist didn't know which route he would take until he'd inquired of the roads from local authorities, as conditions of the roads changed from month to month, depending on the weather. Very little paving had been laid then and most roads outside of the populous counties was dirt or gravel. For example, I don't think there was over 100 miles or so of paving between here and Los Angeles the first time we ever made that trip. There was a little paving around El Paso, some around Tucson, some around Phoenix, and there was a little just west of Yuma replacing the board road that had been used to cross the desert sand of California the year before.

Incidentally, the remnants of that old board road can still be seen just beyond Yuma, although the road itself hasn't been used since about 1926. Before the board road was laid I don't have the slightest idea now automobiles got across the blow sand of California. I think the answer to the question of what did they do in those days is that not many of them made it and anyone with a lick of sense didn't even try. He rode the train.

WORKING WITH WOOD

TEXAS FOREST SERVICE

Several kinds of finishes may be applied to floors and interior woodwork so as to preserve their natural appearance. These are wood sealers, shellac, varnish or lacquer. Each type of finish has properties peculiar to itself. Shellac is made from a resin secreted by a tropical insect. The resin is refined and dissolved in alcohol. Shellac dries very rapidly and forms a hard, glossy surface. Shellac will water-stain and turn whitish when exposed to too much moisture.

Varnish is a finish composed of natural or synthetic resins in some type of drying oil. After drying, the film is reasonably hard and tough, and impervious to moisture. Varnish coatings take longer to dry and tend to darken with age. Lacquer coatings consist of cellulose nitrate or derivatives dissolved in a rapidly evaporating solvent. Resin is frequently added to the mixture. Lacquer dries quickly and is resistant to moisture. However, it is difficult to apply and is generally more expensive than other finishes. Wood sealers usually consist of waxes, resins and drying oils together with a water repellent. Essentially, they do not coat the wood but shallowly penetrate into the material. When applied, the excess sealer is removed and the wood buffed to provide a pleasing appearance. Although floors may be beautified and protected with any of these finishes, care must be exercised to select products made specifically for wooden floors and applied as directed. The grain appearance of a piece of wood is largely determined by the way in which the log was cut. Cross cutting exposes the end grain. This is the surface seen on meat blocks used by butchers. Lumber is never manufactured by sawing across the grain. It is always sawn parallel to the grain or lengthwise of the log. However, sawing in this manner can produce two distinctly different types of wood grain. When sawing the outer portion of the log, the cut parallels the annual growth rings of the tree. Lumber of this origin is called plain-sawn or flat-grained. As the sawing approaches the center of the log, the cut crosses the annual growth rings. This type of lumber is called quarter-sawn, edge-grained, or vertical grained. Only a small amount of lumber is purposely quarter-sawn. For most purposes, lumber with either

MRS. DONALD SAVERANCE

Miss Sybie McDaniel and Donald Saverance Repeat Vows Saturday

Miss Sybie Louise McDaniel, Abilene, became the bride of Donald Eugene Saverance, Andrews, in a double ring ceremony Saturday at 6 p.m. in the Griswold Chapel of St. Paul's Methodist Church in Abilene.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coda A. McDaniel, Route 2, Gorman. The groom is the son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Felton Saverance, Abilene.

Rev. Roy Schilling of McMurray College was officiating, clergyman with Mrs. Caffey, organist, presenting the musical program.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length, bridal gown of chantilly lace and silk organza. The lace bodice was accented by long pointed lace sleeves and a pearl trimmed Sabrina neckline. The billowing skirt featured wide lace panels. Her fingertip veil was of pure imported silk illusion. She carried a white orchid atop a white Bible.

Miss Kay McDaniel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink dress of cotton satin styled in the same pattern as that of the bride. Her headdress was a pink hand accented by pearls and veil of pink pure silk illusion. Her flowers were pink carnations.

Sidney Saverance of Abilene served the couple as best man and Norman Drake of Abilene as usher.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McDaniel 1618 Campus Court. Mrs. R. Lee McDaniel, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Dollie Harris, aunt of the groom, served three tiered wedding cake from the lace covered serving table.

For her going-away frock, the bride chose a pink and white houndtooth check tailored sheath with matching feathered hat and patent accessories.

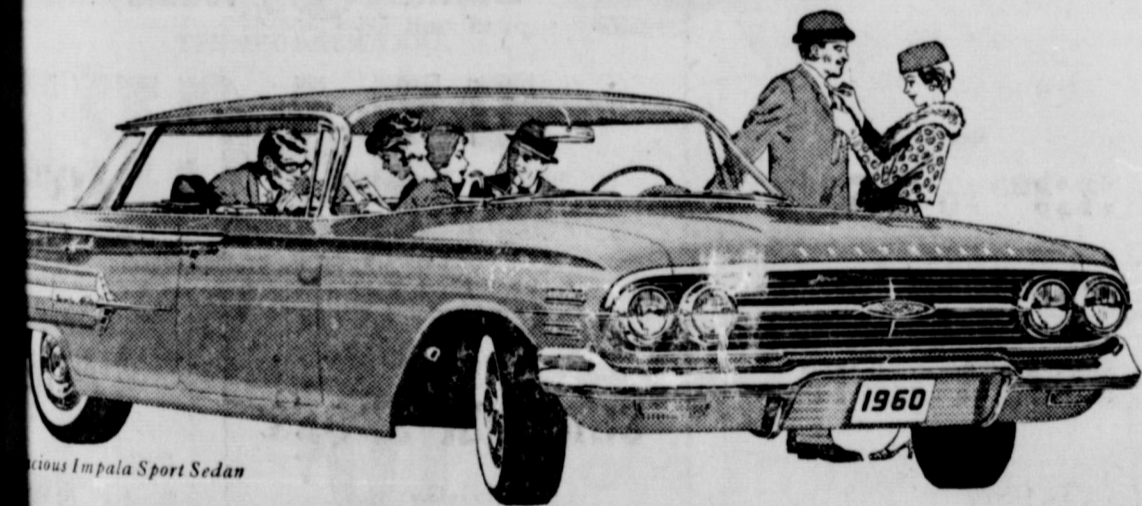

Following a wedding trip to points in New Mexico, the couple will be at home in Andrews.

The groom is the A.S.C. Office Manager in Andrews and Mrs. Saverance was formerly Assistant Home Demonstration Agent in Abilene.

Mrs. Saverance is a graduate of Carbon High School and North Texas State in Denton. The groom is a graduate of Lawn High School and Texas Tech in Lubbock.
