

Numerous Contested Races Facing Voters

Sheriff's Race Is Top County Contest

Eastland County's political spotlight will be on several races during the coming year if a check of the Democratic filing list proves anything.

Most contested county-wide race will be for county sheriff. Four candidates, including the incumbent, are seeking that post. Sheriff J. B. Williams will face Lee Horn of Cisco, W. E. (Bill) Reid of Ranger and O. M. White of Cisco.

The two county commissioners who are seeking re-election have also drawn opposition. J. B. (Tip) Arther, commissioner of Precinct 1 (Eastland, Ranger and Olden) will face E. W. Griffin of Olden and O. R. Ervin of Ranger.

Seven candidates have filed in Precinct 3 (Rising Star) commissioner's race. R. L. (Bob) Carter is seeking a second term, and his opponents are L. J. Collins, Darrell W. White, Dennis Clark, Mark Clark, Ervin Hull and C. F. Hubbard.

There are three candidates in the 76th District state representative's race, too. Paul Brushear, the incumbent, faces two other Cisco men, Don Kincaid and Scott Bailey.

Omar Burleson, United States congressman from the 17th District, will be opposed by Roy Skaggs and R. M. Wagstaff, both of Abilene.

The 22nd District state senator's race will be a two man affair. Floyd Bradshaw is seeking re-election and is opposed by Tom Creighton. Bradshaw is from Weatherford and Creighton is from Mineral Wells.

Three county candidates have not drawn opposition: Earl Conner Jr. is unopposed as county attorney, J. C. Allison has no opposition in his bid for re-election as tax assessor-collector and T. M. Collie is not opposed for judge of the 91st District Court.

Cecil C. Collings, seeking re-election as associate justice of the 11th District Court of Civil Appeals, also is without an opponent.

Porter Woods, constable of Precinct 1 (Eastland) is opposed by J. H. Pittman and Ralph Veal, Precinct 2 (Ranger) constable, will be opposed by J. W. Vinson.

E. L. Dennis is opposed by Bill Paten in the Precinct 5 (Gorman) constable's race and J. M. Wilcoxson will have his name on the ballot all by itself in the Precinct 8 (Desdemona) race.

In the Precinct 6 (Cisco) constable's race, J. J. Honea will face S. H. Bell and R. B. Forehand and George Carter are both seeking the Precinct 7 (Rising Star) constable's post.

Mrs. Perkins Nominated Federation Officer

The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs officially announced today the nomination of Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins for third vice of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Texas Federation's nominating announcement follows: Emily Gleason Perkins, born in Gleasondale, Massachusetts, studied at New England Conservatory of Music and graduated from Boston University. She married Joseph Manning Perkins, University of Wisconsin, geological and mining engineer, and accompanied him on field assignments in Canada, Mexico and South America. They have a son, two daughters, and five granddaughters.

Her interest in education is evidenced by her graduate studies, by participation in collegiate work on the Advisory Council, University of Texas Extension Library, as a member of National Board of Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, as table leader at White House Conference on Education, and for five years the only woman on Texas State Board of Education. Appropriately, her office is a replica of the "Little Red Schoolhouse," its walls lined with textbooks she has evaluated. Music textbooks were adopted for Texas schools largely through her activity. She is the only woman in Texas who has been president of both Federation of Women's Clubs and Federation of Music Clubs. She organized Women's Field Army, Texas, served as vice president of the State Division, American Cancer Society and as a member of the American Cancer Society and as a member of the National Service Committee. She has held appointments from several governors in fields of health, education and safety. As chairman of the Budget and Statistical Committee the colleges and universities were reviewed.

Her career in organizational work includes training as a Y.W.C.A. secretary, four years as Red Cross executive, secretary-treasurer Camp Bowditch Council, and eight years grand secretary, Alpha Gamma Delta.

A Methodist, she has served her church as teacher, organist and Future Homemakers and Life Memberships in National Federation of Music Clubs and Chautauqu Woman's Club, past regent, Daughters American Revolution, member Stow, Massachusetts, Women's Association, Eastland Thursday Afternoon Club and Music Club.

In General Federation, she has been president of Past State Presidents Club, chairman of Music Division, chairman of two Departments, Fine Arts and Education. She attended the Manila Conference.

Mrs. Perkins is treasurer of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Gray Matter

By JOE GRAY

We Texans can experience some of the oddest weather of any people anywhere. This spring-like weather we've had the past two days or three days indicate that to all of us who might be interested in the weather.

The story of the Texan who said it didn't pay to pay any attention to the weather in Texas as whatever kind of weather the state was enjoying one minute wouldn't last long but would change in a few minutes isn't all fiction. There's something to be said for that yarn-spinner conception of Texas weather.

A week or so ago there was ice just as sure as the sun comes up in the east. One time a fellow wonders if the trees won't be sprouting their new spring finery when all at once the north wind comes up a fresh norther that would freeze the doorway to St. Lucifer's kingdom.

A fellow never knows what kind of clothes to leave the house with these mornings. Should he take an overcoat or not; if he takes one, he probably won't need it all day long; if he doesn't take one, he may freeze to death before he can get back to the house.

In South Texas one never goes away from home overnight without taking a raincoat. Many of us West Texans, thought don't own a raincoat as we don't think we'll need it enough to justify our making an investment in rainwear. A lot of people in parts of Texas don't own overcoats, or topcoats, for the same reason. I used to know a fellow from Mexico City who had never had an overcoat until he came to Texas to go to college and while he was here he continually complained about the temperature in the middle of the day. I wonder if it was the noontime temperature he objected to or whether he was missing his noontime siesta he had grown so accustomed to.

There is something to be said for the Mexican habit of knocking off at noon and closing shop till about the middle of the afternoon, but right now I can't think what it is. Closing shop in the middle of the day like they do causes them to have to keep store till way into the early evening and by the time they finish up the day it's so late in the evening that most of them don't get their evening meal until around nine o'clock or later.

That's a little late for me. I guess I would like such a system if we had to work out doors in the hot sun in the early afternoon on many of the hot days they have in Mexico each summer.

It sets hot enough for us right here in Texas to make life a little miserable when one is out in the middle of a plowed field on a hot day. Our fathers and grandfathers used to take a nap right after the noon meal before they went back to their work on the farm. A member of the 1st Cavalry Division, the 4th stands battle-ready as a member of our "First Line of Defense—U.S. Army Deployed Forces."

One thing about this method of living is that it's good. We would all be better off if we could find time right in the middle of the day to take a nap. It doesn't have to be a 100-degree-in-the-shade day for a nap to do a person good. But most of us are not in a position where we can take a nap each afternoon. If we could, though, perhaps most of us would live longer than we will, as a nap is refreshing if nothing else.

But whether we get to take a daily nap here in Texas we'll probably have the weather to justify it. When it's too cold to do anything outside, a good nap comes in handy; when it's too hot to plow, a good nap is good for the soul.

I think perhaps one of the things wrong with most of us today is that we don't get enough daylight sleeping. Some of the best minds the world has produced believed in taking a nap during the day for its refreshing qualities. A nap does relax one and relaxation does us good. Thomas Edison used to lie down just about any place handy and take a nap. It was his ability to catch a few winks of sleep here and there that made it possible for him to work such long hours as he did. He could spend hour after hour in his laboratory, spelling himself when he became tired with short naps, then on to more work. That's the method he used when working on some of many experiments that were to make life more enjoyable and comfortable for mankind.

He found the electric light this way. Just think, if he hadn't discovered an element that could be used to furnish the filament in the lightbulb, we'd still be using candles and kerosene lanterns to see by after dark.

The electric light brought on the whole host of products that have helped make life better in the electronic field. And there seems to be no end of the discoveries to be made in electronics. Some people are even talking about someone inventing something that will control the weather. The day might come when we do get controlled weather, but as for me I'd just as soon leave it alone and let the Good Lord take care of it. We've got year-round weather conditioning in our homes and office buildings these days. That ought to be enough of this sort of thing for awhile. Let's let it be and leave the weather up to someone who knows more about it than we do.

Texas weather may need improving. But I don't know of anyone who could improve on it and no matter what it is now it won't be the same for long. We can always expect a change and we usually get one, as it is, so how could we improve on it if some smart fellow were to invent a device that would control the weather for us. Then we'd get is always some fellow who doesn't want it to rain on him. He wants the rain to fall on the other fellow and be piped to him. He doesn't want to have to go to trouble to move his things in out of the rain that should be protected from the weather.

Life is sort of that way. You can't please all of them all of the time, but Texas weather will come just about doing as well as anything. It certainly pleases somebody some of the time, because it's so different from day to day.

If loss occurs in the life of the uninsured his life's savings may be wiped out not so with the insured person. To be thrifty and insured.
