The Old Philosopher Looks at Consolidation

"You know our population today is the same as it was when I was a boy in 1905. We have all fought each other so hard that we have succeeded in almost killing each other. We had better work together so the kids will have something to work for. This school consolidation thing will save all of us money and will give the kids an education that none of us alone can ever give them."

Teachers' Week Is Observed By West Ward

West Ward fifth grade classes observed teacher appreciation week Monday through Thursday. Under the direction Monday of J. W. Turner, pupils assumed the playground duties for the teachers at the morning and afternoon recesses and the noon period.

Two boys were assigned to och made to direct the boys in play while two girls were rect the girls' play period. Teachers were very appreciative of the courtesy shown During the morning recess on Tuesday, some pupils serv-ed coffee and cake to the hon-
