Pilate's Report

(Editor's note: This is part 2 in a four part series.)
 Being too weak to suppress an insurrection, I resolved upon adopting a measure to restore the tranquility of the city without subjecting the praetorium to humiliating concession. I wrote to Jesus requesting an interview with him at the praetorium. He came. You know that in my veins flows the Spanish mixed with Roman blood—as incapable of fear as it is of weak emotion. When the Nazarene made his appearance, I was walking in my basilic, and my feet seemed fastened with an iron band to the marble pavement, and I trembled in every limb as does a guilty culprit,—though the Nazarene was as calm as innocence itself. When he came up to me he stopped, and by a signal sign he seemed to say to me,—“I am here,” though he spoke not a word. For some time I contemplated with admiration and awe this extraordinary type of man unknown to our numerous painters, who have given form and figure to all the gods and the heroes. There was nothing about him that was repelling in its character, yet I felt too awed and tremulous to approach him.

“Jesus,” said I unto him at last—and my tongue faltered—“Jesus of Nazareth,—for the last three years I have granted you ample freedom of speech; nor do I regret it. Your words are those of a sage. I know not whether you have read Socrates or Plato, but this I know, there is in your discourse a majestic simplicity that elevates you far above those philosophers. The Emperors are informed of it, and I his humble representative in this country, am glad of having allowed you that liberty of which you are so worthy. However, I must not conceal from you that your discourses have raised up against you powerful and inveterate enemies. Nor is this surprising. Socrates had his enemies, and he fell a victim to their hatred. Yours, are doubly incensed against you,—on account of your discourses being so severe upon their conduct; against me,—on account of the liberty I have afforded you. They even accuse me of being indirectly leagueed with you for the purpose of depriving the Hebrews of the little power which Rome has left them. My request I do not say my order—is that you be more circumspect and moderate in your discourses in the future, and more considerate of them, lest you arouse the pride of your enemies, and they raise against you the stupid populace, and compel me to employ the instruments of law.”

The Nazarene calmly replied: “Prince of the earth, your words proceed not from true wisdom. Say to the torrent to stop in the midst of them mountain gorge; it will uproot the trees of the valley. The torrent will answer you that it obeys the laws of nature and the creator. God alone knows whether flow the waters of the torrent. Verily I say unto you, before the rose of Sharon blossoms the blood of the just shall be spilt.”

“Your blood shall not be spilt,” said I with deep emotion; “you are more precious in my estimation on account of your wisdom than all the turbulent and proud Pharisees who abuse the freedom granted them by the Romans. They conspire against Caesar, and convert his bounty into fear, impressing the unlearned that Caesar is a tyrant and seeks their ruin. Insolent wretches! They are not aware that the wolf of the Tiber sometimes clothes himself with the skin of the sheep to accomplish his wicked designs. I will protect you against them. My praetorium shall be an asylum, sacred both day and night.”

Jesus carelessly shook his head, and said with a grave and divine smile: “When the day shall have come there will be no asylums for the son of man neither in the earth nor under the earth. The asylum of the just is there,” pointing to the heavens. “That which is written in the books of the prophets must be accomplished.”

“Young man,” I answered mildly, “you will oblige me to convert my request into an order. The safety of the province which has been confided to my care requires it. You must observe more moderation in your discourses. Do not infringe my order. You know the consequences. May happiness attend you; farewell.”

“Prince of the earth,” replied Jesus, “I come not to bring war into the world, but peace, love and charity. I was born the same day on which Augustus Caesar gave peace to the Roman world. Persecutions proceed not from me. I expect it from others, and will meet it in obedience to the will of my Father, who has shown me the way. Restrain, therefore, your worldly prudence. It is not in your power to arrest the victim at the foot of the tabernacle of expiation.”

So saying, he disappeared like a bright shadow behind the curtains of the basilic to my great relief, for I felt a heavy burden on me, of which I could not relieve myself while in his presence.

To Herod, who then reigned in Galilee, the enemies of Jesus addressed themselves, to wreak their vengeance on the Nazarene. Had Herod consulted his own inclinations, he would have ordered Jesus immediately to be put death; but, though proud of his royal dignity, yet he hesitated to commit an act that might lessen his influence with the Senate or,—like me,—was afraid of Jesus. But it would never do for a Roman officer to be scared by a Jew. Previously to this, Herod called on me at the praetorium and, on rising to leave, after some trifling conversation, asked me what was my opinion concerning the Nazarene. I replied that Jesus appeared to me to be one of those great philosophers that great nations sometimes produced; that his doctrines were by no means sacrilegious, and that the intentions of Rome were to leave him to that freedom of speech which was justified by his actions. Herod smiled maliciously, and, saluting me with ironical

NEXT YEAR ADA May Earn One Teacher

A stomach-ache could cost the Eastland schools an extra teacher next year.

If the average daily attendance stays up from now until school is out, the school will be eligible for another teacher next year.

But it's going to be close, and a half-day's absence by one student could ruin the average.

The state determines the number of teachers whom they will assist with state funds, by the average daily attendance of the previous year.

Last year the average attendance was 692.4 which entitled us to 28 teachers this year.

It requires an average of 713 to be eligible for that 29th teacher—and right now we're carrying a 716.2.

There is an actual enrollment of 750 students in the system, but each day's absence by a single student brings down the average.

Last year we had an attendance of 96 per cent, but that's down some this year, Supt. Wendell Siebert reports, due to an increased number of absences caused by minor ailments—stomach-aches, etc.

There are several places where an extra teacher could be used next year, so it might be well to evaluate the aches and pains.

And a half day doesn't count a whole either. A student must be in classes at least two hours in the morning and two hours after lunch, to get credit for a day's attendance.

So if the attendance stays good, we might have another subject offering in our schools next year.

Schools to Integrate in September

Douglas School will be closed and students there will be integrated into the entire school system, in September as the result of school board action Monday night.

Voters of the Eastland Independent School District overwhelmingly approved the integration of the Eastland schools by a vote of 344 to 66 (5 to 1) last November.

The vote gave the board authority to do what they deemed best with the dual system that Eastland had had for many years.

PERRY HEADS BOARD Two New Trustees Sworn In During Familiarization Meet

Two new Eastland school trustees were sworn in Monday night following a canvass of votes in last Saturday's election.

Willard Griffin and Dr. Bob Alexander took the oath as board members, as well as M. N. Perry, who was re-elected in Saturday's voting.

Perry was also re-elected president of the board during the re-organizational meeting Monday night.

Truitt Gregory was named vice president and Dr. F. H. Lund was elected secretary.

Mrs. Ina Ruth Taylor administered the oaths.

The board canvassed the votes and certified the election.

There were 556 votes cast in the school election with Perry receiving the biggest vote, with 329.

Dr. Alexander had 319; Griffin, 282; Hood King, 268; Herb Weaver, 238; and Mike George, 199.

George was seeking his first term and King and Weaver were both incumbents.

Several topics were reviewed for the members during their first meeting, including integration of the schools, and bond retirement plans.

The board voted to send letters of appreciation to King and Weaver for their years of service to the school.

The board will advertise for bonds again in order to retire them with funds that are now available. Approximately $5,000 worth were bought recently and there is still approximately $36,000 available for purchases.

If the bonds do not "come in" after two successive advertisements, the law requires that the bonds be "called" and bought at par.

Re-hiring of teachers in the Eastland schools will be main topic of business at the next board meeting.

As a first term member of the Texas House, Bailey holds membership and seniority on five highly important House Committees. He is now serving on the following Committees: Agriculture, Banks and Banking, Education, Game and Fisheries, Municipal and Private Corporations, and The Interim Committee to Study School Finance. Bailey has been the Author and Sponsor of Legislation of State-wide importance and the sponsor and co-sponsor of local legislation affecting this area of West Central Texas, he said.

Bailey was the Co-Author of HB 24, the Water Pollution Control Bill and took an active part in the fight to get it enacted into law. Bailey voted for tax measures that he deemed to be the least punitive and discriminatory. He was on the losing side, however, and Texas now has one of the most burdensome and confusing tax laws in the United States. Bailey voted against final passage of House Bill 20 in the first Called Session. The Abilene Reporter News carried this vote and printed Bailey's objection to the bill. You will recall that HB 20 as finally passed is the Present sales tax law. It also raised the fee on our drivers license and a number of other things that are to long to mention.

I will continue to see the people and invite their support. I seek your support as a Plain Democrat and if you nominate me to run on the Democratic Ticket this fall, I will remain Democratic and try to carry your Banner to Victory in the General Election. I will not Switch over to the side of the Opposition. I am bold enough to ask for your support, Humble enough to appreciate it.

Schools

It is felt that by moving the Negro students into the white system, the school will be taken off the warning list, possibly by this summer and at least by next year.

Board members discussed various avenues including whether to move just the high school and leaving the elementary grades at Douglas.

It was their feeling that this would continue to be an undue cost burden on tax payers. It will be cheaper to close the schools and operate only one system.

In order to have brought Douglas school up to standards it would have been necessary to build a new building and hire several additional teachers. These teachers would have to be paid directly by the system, because no additional state funds are available to Eastland at this time.

By moving the Negro children, the system will be eligible for two more teachers in the system to replace those who have been teaching at Douglas.

Average daily attendance (ADA) in the present system will possibly qualify the system for another teacher next year. So the system will have three more teachers next year.

TELEPHONE TALK

by Archer H. Marx, Jr., Manager

SPEDIER SERVICE

In talking with some of your Eastland operators who handle your long distance calls, they asked me to pass on to you a suggestion that will be helpful to you and to them.

The suggestion is this: When placing a long distance call, first give the operator the town and then the number of the party you desire. WAIT until she asks you for your telephone number. It seems a small thing, I know, but if it will give you faster service on your calls I know you will be glad to give it a try. Your Eastland operators are constantly striving to give you the very best service possible. Let's help them give you the service you deserve.

SPRING'S-A-RINGIN'

This year, spring's-a-ringin' with more home telephone conveniences than ever before. Here are three:

HOME INTERPHONE—a home communications system that lets you talk throughout your home... and even answer the door... by telephone!

EXTENSION TELEPHONES—in a wide choice of spring-like colors to brighten your home. And extension phones save time, steps and effort.

BELL CHIME—calls you to your phone in one of three ways: a loud bell or a soft bell or a melodic chime.

There are lots of others, too, and they're easy to order. Just call the Telephone Business Office or ask any telephone serviceman.

JUST IN CASE

To keep your telephone operating 'round the clock, we use special oversize batteries, much like the one in your car, to furnish the electricity. We keep them charged with generators which operate on commercial power.

Should Eastland's commercial power fail, these batteries can provide enough electricity to keep your phone operating for several hours.

In addition, we have stand-by generators which can provide service indefinitely, if necessary. Planning for emergencies is one way we assure you of dependable, uninterrupted telephone service.

Call by number. It's faster on land.

whose organization together with the Agricultural Extension Service is sponsoring the affair in an attempt to help develop the pecan industry in the county and area.

County Agricultural Agent, J. M. Cooper will conduct lectures and demonstrations on budding, grafting, forcing the bud into growth, types and kinds of budwood and other features during the morning session.

There is no charge for attending the school.

After lunch in the college cafeteria those attending will practice their skill on pecan trees in the Kent Word Orchard, three miles south of Cisco in the Leon River Bottom.

Cold storage pecan budwood of several of the new varieties such as the Choctaw, Wichita, Comanche and T-110 will be available for those desiring it.

An entry of the T-110 variety from Eastland County took grand championship honors at the state pecan show held at Texas A&M College in January according to Cooper.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD HEN?

Commercial egg producers demand a bird that will produce a dozen quality eggs at the lowest possible cost, says Bill Cawley, assistant extension poultry husbandman. To meet this requirement, a line or strain of birds must have certain qualifications.

One of the most important of these qualifications is a high rate of lay, says Cawley. The strain should average 65 percent or more production for at least twelve months. Along with this, the strain should maintain high feed efficiency and produce a dozen eggs on four pounds of feed.

Another important factor is minimum body weight consistent with viability and egg size. At 50 percent production, the average body weight of the strain should average 3.25 to 3.50 pounds.

The strain should also attain satisfactory egg size quickly without producing too large an average egg, explains Cawley. By the end of the second month, the eggs should be averaging 24 ounces per dozen, but should not exceed an average of 25 1/2 ounces for the year. The strain should produce eggs with good exterior and interior quality, with no more than 3 percent loss.

High livability is also important. For the first year of production, the strain should have an average laying house livability of 90 percent or better.

There are many good strains that will meet or exceed these standards, points out the specialist. After obtaining good stock, the producer has the responsibility of developing their maximum potential. Good management, a sound vaccination program, adequate equipment and housing and good feeding practices are the producer's responsibility, emphasizes Cawley.

Court of our country and the State of Texas. It is his duty to issue all process in connection with these cases, whether civil or criminal, and to record and keep all the records of and for the District Court, and to issue abstracts of judgment, to consider the solvency of various bonds and to approve or reject them. He is responsible for all moneys paid into the registry of the Court as Trust Funds and Child Support Funds, as well as moneys deposited as Court Costs, Fines, etc. There are many other duties that could be mentioned, but space will not permit.

When I first asked you for this important office, I told you that if elected I would render you the most efficient service possible. I have tried to make that promise good, and I welcome an investigation of my record, and when you have done this and considered the experience I have had, I hope you will help me again in this campaign.

During my tenure in office, we have filed and processed over six thousand cases, which exceeds by far, the number of cases filed and processed for the same length of time by my predecessors. I am proud of the fact that I have been able to handle these cases with one regular deputy to help me, and I am sure that you will agree, and appreciate the fact that we have saved the citizens of this county money by the manner in which we have handled this important work.

I am, indeed, thankful that in all the cases we have processed, the records will show that there has never been a single instance where a case had to be continued, or that resulted in a mis-trial due to an error on the part of your District Clerk's office, and I feel that this has been a tremendous savings in costs to the people.

The help and co-operation I have had from the attorneys has been wonderful, and since the most of our work in processing and handling cases is with the attorneys, I urge you to talk with them, not just one, but all of them, and determine for yourselves whether your District Clerk's office has been handled in an efficient manner and in accordance with the laws of our State. When you have done this, I believe that my record will speak for itself; that it will show that I am not only qualified to render you the kind of service that you are entitled to have, but have done so in a courteous and efficient manner.

I am sure that you have often heard it said, "Expect nothing from him who promises a great deal", therefore, I make you the one and only promise that I have ever made, and that is, to render the same economical, efficient and courteous service that I have in the past, if you see fit to reelect me.

This is your office. It belongs to you, the citizens of Eastland County. I am your hired hand with a job to do, and I have tried to keep this in mind at all times. If the manner in which I have cared for this important office, meets with your approval, I shall greatly appreciate another term, and I earnestly solicit your help during the remaining days of this campaign.

Again, I wish to thank each of you for the many courtesies, favors, the wonderful help that you have given me, and most of all the confidence you have placed in me. I hope that I may have your continued support and vote of confidence on May the 5th, and I trust that I shall ever merit the same.

'Thanks', Parents and Teachers

Eastland is playing host to a host of people today, and the city is honored to have the visitors in its midst.

People are here from a 16 county area in connection with the annual conference, First District, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The city is fortunate to have been selected for this important meeting of P-TA officials.

We know that our own association officers and members have been working awfully hard to make this event a success from every standpoint.

Mrs. Marcus O'Dell, local president, has been coordinating the work of more than a dozen busy committees, making plans down to the last detail.

Such an occasion gives us all the opportunity to tell the Parent-Teacher Assoc. how much we really appreciate its work.

The P-TA, which is too often taken lightly in jest, is an organization that has done worlds of good for education on all levels.

Its good members work diligently together to provide better education experiences, through the cooperation and understanding of parents and teachers—with the best interests of students as their goal.

Who better could we have concerned with public school education than the two groups of people who are most closely related to the students—their parents and teachers.

Our hats are off to you, P-TA members!

W. M. Coppock Dies Suddenly Monday Morning

M. M. (Bill) Coppock of 307 S. Neblett died Monday morning after apparently suffering a heart attack.

Services were held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Hanner Funeral Chapel with Rev. Hester Brewer, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiating. Interment was in the Eastland Cemetery under the direction of Hanner Funeral Home.

Born Nov. 18, 1894 in Bryant, Ark., Mr. Coppock was married to Bernice Irene Eastland on Oct. 27, 1928 in Haskell. They had lived in Eastland since 1921.

Mr. Coppock served as water superintendent here for 25 years, from March 1, 1935 to August 1, 1960, after which he retired.

He became a kind of tradition here in his 1930 pick-up truck which he preferred over the new models belonging to the city. He referred to his pick-up as "old faithful."

Following his retirement, Mr. Coppock had to draw maps of the city's water and sewer lines because the only ones in existence were those in his head.

Survivors include his wife and one brother, Walter of Alexander, Ark.

Pilate's Report

respect, departed.

The great feast of the Jews was approaching, and the intention was to avail themselves of the popular exultations which always manifests itself at the solemnities of a passover. The city was overflowing with a tumultuous populace, clamoring for the death of the Nazarene. My emissaries informed me that the treasurer of the temple had been employed in bribing the people. The danger was pressing. A Roman centurion had been insulted. I wrote to the prefect of Syria for a hundred foot-soldiers and as many cavalry. He declined. I saw myself alone with a handful of veterans in the midst of a rebellious city, too weak to suppress an uprising, and having no choice but to tolerate it. They had sized upon Jesus,—and the seditious rabble, although they had nothing to fear from the praetorium, believing, as their leaders had told them, that I winked at their sedition—continued

120 Persons Attend Autobiography Tea

120 persons including parents, brothers, sisters, aunts and uncles of Eastland High School seniors were their guests the senior's annual Autobiography Tea Sunday. The family of all four seniors were represented at the Tea.

The Tea began early Sunday afternoon, but it was after 10 p.m. before the last guest had left.

Faculty members were also special guests at the event held in the home of junior and senior English teacher, Mrs. Verma Johnson, at 201 S. Oak.

The purpose of the Tea, which was in honor of the Senior mothers, was to display the 40 autobiographies written by the Seniors over the past weeks.

The boys greeted guests, showed the autobiographies and answered questions about them.

The girls were in charge of serving punch, coffee and party cookies to guests from a tea table laid in begie linen accented by an informal centerpiece of spring multicolored flowers.

The autobiographies were put on display in the lower classroom to examine Monday and Tuesday for ideas for their own autobiographies.

Juniors Honor Seniors With Banquet, Prom

The theme of the annual Junior-Senior Banquet Friday night will not be revealed to Seniors until that time.

The Junior class will be host to 40 Eastland High seniors and the faculty of EHS at the banquet tomorrow night at 7:15 in the gymnasium.

Both juniors and seniors will take part in the program. Junior class president, Tommy Beck will serve as master of ceremonies, and he and John Russell, senior class president, will deliver addresses.

Jo Ann Morren, senior, will read the class prophecy, and Carol Walter, a junior, will read the class will.

Special music will consist of a group of junior and senior girls. Juniors will be Judy Seaberry, Julie Frost and Judy Lewis. Sherry Miller, a senior, will also have part as well as Barbara McCullough, senior accompanist.

J. B. and Gracie Tankersley will sing accompanied by Susan Johnston, a senior. J. B. is a Junior and Gracie, a senior.

The "Four Profs" will provide music for the prom following the banquet, a courtesy of the American Federation of Musicians of which Ken Foeler is president. Members of the combo are band directors, Clyde Peterson of Anson; Bill Mays of Stamford; Earl Hesse of Crowell and Phil Jewett of Eastland.

Reading Pleasures

Mrs. A. E. Cushman, librarian "Read and watch your world grow" is the theme of National Library Week which began Monday and runs through the 14.

The Library Committee of the Thursday Club announces the Eastland Public Library will join the 5,000 or more Libraries across the nation in its observance.

National Library Week is the annual climax—as well as the starting point—of many year-round activities designed to develop reading and library resources.

Its purpose is to encourage lifetime reading habits, to increase the use of libraries, and to improve the library resources of the nation.

The need for "a better-read, better informed America" continues to grow. Our rapid growth in population makes our cultural wants and needs grow correspondingly. For the more one reads the richer he and his nation become.

The Eastland Public Library observes National Library Week each year and many tangible results have come from this program.

This year a three-fold program is planned to encourage our young people to read and participate more in library activities.

1. An interesting reading program is being planned for the summer.
2. The Library wishes to acquire the remaining Caldecott and Newberry Award books.
3. To honor each month the "Library Citizen" of the month and an award to be given during next year's National Library Week for the Library Citizen of the year.

What can you do?

The Library Association suggests, "Everyone, take time to read and read still more, rediscovering each time the wonders, the delights, and the brain-stretching power of the printed word."

Henry Carter Re-Elected Singer's Prexy

The next meet of the convention will be July 8th, the second Sunday, in Kokomo, and the October meet will again be held at Mountain Top.

Now, That It's Spring Again...
 ... it's time to rejoice for the season which it is noted. But Spring, all too often, bring hail and windstorms, too, which are neither joyous nor pleasant, and sometimes cause death and much destruction of property without warning.
