Eastland Memorial Hospital Is Nearing 10th Birthday

Eastland Memorial Hospital will celebrate its Tenth Birthday this summer. Ten years isn't a long time as ages go — but it can be a long time when you're dealing in health, help and healing.

And that's the case with Eastland Memorial. Conceived in faith, it came into existence through sweat and hard work.

As any youngster, growing pains are sure to come. The city-loved institution on Hospital Hill has just recently gone through its latest development.

In a feature article in the June, 1956 issue of Town Journal, it was called the "hospital that coffee and doughnuts built" — a $150,000 asset built by volunteer labor, and only $38,000 cash raised from donations.

It was, the Abilene Reporter-News said in a feature on the day it was opened (June 8, 1952). "The hospital that Faith Built".

With donations, hard work and an "illegal" water meter tax, the 25-bed hospital was completed after months of "pulling together."

A later growing pain added a new wing, bringing the capacity up to 40 beds.

With the completion and opening of the second "new" wing last month, the hospital now has a 61-bed capacity with 11 private rooms.

This last surge in growth was similar to the beginning and other developments. The spirit of goodwill prevailed—in the guise of donations, volunteered help, assistance above and beyond the call of expected service. Almost on every quarter this was true, hospital will tell you today.

Devising a list of people to be "thanked" is serious business, for fear that some, just as deserving a those remembered, might be forgotten.

And there's a "circle of congratulations" too. You talk with one group and you'll be told that such and so were "so very responsible". You talk with that group and find that these are just as modest, and insist that the ones with whom you've just talked are the most deserving of praise.

The best consensus is that a lot of people deserve the community's and the area's "thanks for a job well done."

Guiding lights for the wing just completed were Hospital Board President Jim Parks, Milton Fullen and Bill Frost, who made up the building committee. They'll refer you to two other men, Curtis Koen and Henry Van Geem, who were on the board, and on the original building committee that helped devise the new wing.

You'll be directed too, to Maurice Copeland, general contractor, who went far beyond what was expected of him in seeing that all phases of the construction were completed on time, the committee says.

You'll be referred, too, to several Eastland firms which sold material to the hospital at cost, plus transportation. These include Smith Plumbing, Basham Electric, Crowell Lumber Co., Hanna Hardware and Higginbotham Bartless Lumber Co.

Southern Television Systems Corp. furnished material and labor to connect each of the hospital television sets to the cable.

Appliances, including an ice machine, water heater, dishwasher, refrigerator, freezer, bed-pan sterilizer were sold at cost to the hospital by dealer, Fullen Appliance.

W. L. Armstrong did signs for the hospital at a "special rate."

Romco-Eastland donated tile for the new patio-entrance as well as ash trays and other ceramics for decorating.

Due credit for assistance with lighting are Texas Electric Service Co. and its employees.

And you can't overlook the people who "lived" closest to the building project — the staff, doctors and patients. The administrator, business manager and supervisor of nursing are all due credit for suggestions and valuable recommendations, you'll learn. And of course, the physicians had a hand too, in helping devise the most modern of facilities and services.

The patients, ill though they were, must have been very patient — not a complaint was registered during the entire project.

Individuals come in their share too of deserved credit. Mrs. Samuel Butler for landscaping and design of the exterior, assisted by R. P. (Buddy) Haun, Mrs. Roger Sosebee, and many others.

Special donations of note include a much-needed patient chair, given by the Rudolph Little; a valuable clock, given by Ben Hamner; and a new, 50-star flag, given by Mrs. Marene Johnson.

Assistance from other firms beyond the expected included Noble Squires Roofing Co., Texas Lightweight Aggregate, National Cylinder Gas Co. of Dallas and Eastland Venetian Blind Co.

Survivors besides Mrs. Stephens include two other daughters, Mrs. F. M. Jones of Dallas and Mrs. A. V. Womack of Anson; two sons, Joe Bull of New Orleans, and Edwin Bull of Tamoca, Wash.; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral for Mrs. Mary Hill, 77, mother of Mrs. Joe Stephens of Eastland, was held Friday at 1 p.m. at Elliott's Funeral Home in Abilene. Graveside services were in Carbon.

Mrs. Bull died Thursday at 7 a.m. She lived at 2310 S. 7th St., Abilene. Born Iola Long Walters, March 5, 1886, in Erath County, she was a lifelong member of the Methodist Church at Carbon, Eastland and Abilene. She was a member of the Bergen Sunday School Class of St. Paul Methodist Church in Abilene, and was a charter member of the Martha Dorcas Class in Eastland.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors voted Thursday to sponsor such an organization, and President A. D. Taylor will assist Joe Webb and Otis Coleman in forming the club.

Affiliation with the National Rifleman's Association is planned, and Taylor, formerly an accredited instructor plans to regain his status as such to assist with the club.

Meeting time and further announcements are to be made later.

HECTIC OIL BOOM IS SUBJECT OF STORY BY COUNTY YOUTH

By EARL CONNER III

(This is a college government course paper written by the grandson of Frank Day, native and well-known Eastland County oilman, who was buried in Eastland Wednesday. Young Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conner Jr., wrote the paper, based on his grandfather's recollections of the oil boom days in this county.)

There never was before and it is doubtful that there ever will be again, an oil boom as gaudy, as extravagant, or wild and untamed as the Ranger oil boom that was set off when the McCleskey well blew in on October 17, 1917, as we were getting well into World War I. Overnight the sleepy little towns of Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Desdemona leaped from less than a 1000 souls each to 30,000 population. Each daily run of the T.P. emptied fortune seekers, adventurers, crooks, and legitimate businessmen into these towns. It is said that men paid $2.00 to sleep in a barber chair. Each town had its tent city. Rains made the towns' main streets so deep with mud that to cross the streets men paid 50 cents to be carried across on a sled drawn by horses.

My grandfather, Frank Day, was a young bank cashier in Eastland when the boom began. As a cashier, he knew most of the farmers, from whom he began to purchase oil leases, acquiring extensive acreage in all parts of the county.

Soon he left the banking job and devoted all of his time to the oil business.

His most fabulous story is how 500 tobacco coupons were parlayed into $55,000.

As a boy of 14, he had finally collected enough Tinsley tobacco coupons to send off for the premium, a 12 gauge shotgun. Strangely enough, it was a good one and coveted by many of his hunter friends. In 1914, Tom Bendy, who had wanted the gun for a long time, came into the bank with a proposition. An installment was due on his 40 acre drought-ridden farm and he did not have the money to meet it. This was his proposal, "Frank, you can have my equity in my farm for your shotgun." Grandad accepted and a deed was drawn up. Four years later he sold an oil and gas lease on the 40 acres for $10,000. Later, when a big well blew in close by, he sold one half of the royalty for $40,000, and later he sold the other one half of the royalty and the land for $5,000. When finally drilled, it was dry.

There were some humorous reactions by some of the old landowners when oil was discovered on their land. When the first big McCleskey well blew in, Mrs. McCleskey complained, "That filthy stuff is getting all over my clean clothes on the line." Uncle Tom Parrock, when asked what he was going to do with the money when his big well came in, said, "I'm going to buy all the Brown Mule chewing tobacco in town." Jess Willard, the world's heavy weight boxing champion was associated with grandfather in drilling wells. One day they were motoring down a rough oil field road, Granddad at the wheel, when a tough teamster refused to pull over so the car could pass. The teamster and his two equally rough looking companions climbed down from a load of pipe; the giant Willard crawled out of the automobile, motioned back Granddad and prepared to fight the trip alone. Suddenly the leader halted and asked, "Ain't you Jess Willard?" "Yes, I am."

thy stuff is getting all over my clean clothes on the line."

The teamster and his two equally rough looking companions climbed down from a load of pipe; the giant Willard crawled out of the automobile, motioned back Granddad and prepared to fight the trip alone. Suddenly the leader halted and asked, "Ain't you Jess Willard?" "Yes, I am."

"Just give me time to get back on and I'll get out of your way."

The three jumped back on the wagon and pulled over into the ditch.

When Willard and Jack Dempsey met under the blazing fourth of July sun at Toledo, Granddad was at the ringside and when Willard wilted under the powerful punches of Dempsey, Granddad lost $15,000.

An oilfield attracts many characters with "taking ways". One such was notorious for his ability to steal with everybody watching him, no one the wiser. It was said that he could carry a boiler under a full head of steam six leases away without losing a pound of steam and without anybody knowing it. He drove an old case truck until, for the need of new parts, it wouldn't run anymore. He visited a truck agency in Breckenridge and asked to be shown a new truck. He looked it over, drove it some, and brought friends in to pass on it for about two weeks; then decided he wouldn't buy. A short time later another prospective buyer came in and the dealer showed him the truck. When he pushed the starter; nothing happened. He lifted the hood and there was nothing left of the engine but the block.

Finally the larcenist was caught when he took a whole string of six inch pipe from somebody's well and ran it down into his. He beat that rap by dying.

By 1922 the boom bubble had burst. The uncurbed production caused the big wells to drop back to a trickle due to the loss of underground pressure. East Texas crude flooded the market and oil dropped to 10 cents a barrel. Wells all over the county making from 10 to 20 barrels had to be plugged. They couldn't be operated at that price. Finally in the 1930's regulatory and legislative bodies built up a stable conservation program designed to prevent the waste of our irreplaceable energy supply, Texas oil.

New technological improvements made it possible to keep the oilfields producing and increased the recovery. The early day operators did not understand the necessity of gas and water pressures to get oil out of the hold. These pressures, the forces of water pushing against the oil from below, the force of gas pushing down on the oil from above, or the gas within the oil itself, caused the oil to make its way between the grains of sand or limestone to the hole. Oil will not move by itself. If these pressures escape before the oil does, oil is left behind.

Granddad had never lost his faith in Eastland's oil potential. When the new system for repressuring the oil sand called Hydrofracture was discovered, he remembered many wells that had originally been gushers but had played out. In 1950, he set to work, leased up a tremendous block of acreage, around a 15 barrel well he had plugged, and interested the Bankline Oil Company in drilling it. When the oil sand was reached, they hydrofractured it, a process by which the oil sand is fractured and oil and sand put in under pressure. This allows the locked oil to come out. The well came in flowing and blowing for 2000 barrels. The executives of the company, there for the final procedures, got so carried away they danced around the rig and threw their fine hats into the slush pit. Later the roughnecks recovered them had them cleaned, and wore them for Sunday.

Larry's Limericks

The fifth six-weeks has just passed and the students are ready for school to be out.

The senior girls put on a very nice skit to declare Twirp Week. Some may not know what that is. It is a week when the girls ask the boys for dates and the girls furnish all transportation and money.

The senior girls are also sponsoring a dance at the American Legion Hall Saturday night.

Thursday morning the junior high, senior high stage band played for the school. Everyone enjoyed it very much.

The senior class attended a breakfast given by the Methodist Church. All the seniors were talking about it and seemed to enjoy it very much.

A representative from the senior ring company came and measured the juniors for their senior ring. Mr. Marshall announced that the rings would return the first of October.

We understand that a few of our senior boys have enlisted in our local 49th Armored Division. The boys will participate in 8 weeks at Fort Polk then probably attend specialist school.

ADVICE-- On Advertising...

Those who are considering their advertising programs might be interested in advice from the American Bankers Magazine, as follows:

"No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space.

"A stranger picking up a newspaper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own, is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business man."

"SALAD FARE" IS ENJOYED AT CIVIC LEAGUE LUNCHEON

The last spring luncheon for the Civic League and Garden Club was referred to as a "salad fare" Thursday when members brought their favorite salads to the women's club here.

Decorations were made up of different spring flower arrangements. Tables, which seated four, were centered with relish, dishes including grapefruit halves and crackers. Ice tea was served with the salads.

After a popular vote on the numbered salads, Mrs. John Ernest was presented a prize of an assorted cookie platter.

Recipe for Mrs. Ernest's prize-winning salad is as follows:
CROWN JEWEL SALAD

Three packages Jello, Black Cherry, Lime and Strawberry.

Mix each package with one cup boiling water and one-half cup cold water on day before salad is to be served. Each Jello in separate pan.

Next day dissolve one package of Red Raspberry Jello in one cup pineapple juice in which one-fourth cup sugar has been added (boil juice and sugar) and add one-half cup cold water. Let congeal until shaly.

While congealing, remove three kinds Jello from refrigerator and cut into small cubes. Whip two packages (or one economy size) Dream Whip with one cup cold milk and one teaspoon vanilla until it forms peaks. Fold in shaly Red Raspberry Jello and stir well. Then add the cubes of Jello, one cup of chopped pecans and one cup of miniature marshmallows.

Grease mold with mayonaisse and sprinkle coconut over bottom of mold. (Coconut is optional) Pour mixture into mold and let stand in refrigerator at least six hours. Serve with your favorite dressing.

A business meeting was called by president, Mrs. Frank Sayre, following the luncheon to bring the executive board's recommendation that the club purchase and present city a flowing fountain would be placed on the side of the courthouse. After time had been given for a discussion at an available meeting the fountain, the club to purchase the fountain which will cost in the of $1,000.

Behind many "For Sale" signs there is a sad story: A family borrowed more than they could afford to pay for a home, or payments and interest rates were too high; the home had to be sold, often at a loss. This tragedy could often be avoided if the families would seek help from a home loan specialist, such as our Association.

We work with you to arrange for a loan that's as easy to handle as monthly rent.

BUILDING or BUYING A NEW HOME?

YOU'LL WANT TO KNOW ABOUT THE ADVANTAGES OF A FLAMELESS ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

CLEAN—No by-products of combustion. No unpleasant fumes. No flue to accumulate soot. An electric water heater is as clean as an electric light.

SILENT—No annoying start-up or shut-off sounds. No noise at all while water is being heated. A flameless electric water heater is completely silent and carefree.

INSTALLS ALMOST ANYWHERE—Because a flameless electric water heater needs no flue, it can be installed almost anywhere in the house, close to the point of greatest use. This saves long pipe runs and waste due to water cooling in the pipes.

There's no better time than right now—while you're planning your new home—to discover the wonderful benefits of a flameless quick recovery electric water heater. Besides the dependable hot water supply you'll get, here are other reasons you'll be glad you chose electric:

FAST—High-speed electric heating elements are immersed in the water, heating it and not the tank. The tank is insulated all around—including the bottom—to prevent heat loss.

SAFE—Flameless electric water heating gives you peace of mind. No flame to blow out, no pilot light to worry about.

MRS. C. F. HUFFMAN INSTALLED AS EASTLAND P-TA PRESIDENT

Mrs. C. F. Huffman became president of Eastland Parent-Teachers Association Tuesday in an installation service led by Mrs. A. O. Gilbertson of Dublin, Area 3 vice president of District One.

Others installed were Mrs. M. A. Treadwell, vice president; Mrs. Max Jackson, secretary; and Mrs. Charles Layton, treasurer for South Ward. Mrs. Harold Courtney, West Ward treasurer, was unable to be present.

Mrs. Gilbertson challenged the officers to assume the characteristics of a good straight pin, which has the function of holding things together. She encouraged them to be "Sharp," alert and intelligent; to be straight, honest and upright; to be "clean" in thoughts and words; and to "keep their heads," checking impulses.

The installation followed a talk by Mrs. Gilbertson on physical fitness in which she emphasized its relation to emotional stability. She discussed the roles of nutrition, sleep and rest, and physical exercise. For the latter she suggested walking as a family affair, one which affords a pleasant opportunity for important talks with the children.

Mrs. Marcus O'Dell, who presided during the business session and introduced Mrs. Gilbertson, was given a rising vote of appreciation for her work as president for the past two years.

The rooms having the largest percentage of mothers present were Mrs. Theron McKinzie's fourth grade at West Ward and Mrs. Don Farnsworth's second grade at South Ward.

ons goes for such things as the swimming pool, cemetery watering, winter leaks, etc.

If the proposed water rates go into effect, and people increase the amount of water used, it'll mean an increase in revenue for city, but if the present water use continues under the new rate, there would naturally be a loss in revenue.

A one-month survey showed that 616 people use less than the minimum (3,000) and 830 use over the minimum. Under the new rate, 2,000 more gallons would cost only 15 cents.

If You Own Farm Properties -

... it's a good time of the year to check up on your insurance. For one thing, it's hail and wind-storm season and there are grass fires all about us. Are you adequately insured — the house, furniture, barn, machinery and other valuables? Down on the farm there is no such thing as a partial fire loss. When it's all over everything is gone. Our Farm Department insures everything except the ashes — we pay for them. We might save you some money — let us try!
