Thirteen Die Twenty-Three Are Rescued

Two Of Injured Are Not Expected To Live, Cause of Explosion Is Unknown.

WILBURTON, Okla., Nov. 29.—A gas explosion killed 13 miners and seriously injured four others this afternoon in the Hallioloa Coal company's No. 5 slope mine at La...

The cause of the explosion is unknown, Dan McAlfine, general manager of the mine, who supervised the rescue work, said there was a blinding flash followed by a terrific blast.

The blast was on the 11 level where rescue workers found the bodies in heaps against the blacked wall. The entry to the 11th level is 1800 feet below the surface of the ground.

WILBURTON, Okla., Nov. 29.—A gas explosion in the Hallioloa coal mine, four miles east of here, entombed seventeen miners this afternoon.

Rescue crews reached the 10 1/2 level where the blast occurred shortly after 2 p. m. They found a miner named Boyd and brought him to the surface.

Names of the entombed men were not available as officials refused to refer to the company records in their frantic efforts to save lives.

Expert rescue crews came here from McAlester and Pittsburg to aid in the work.

The man who was taken from the mine was not suffering from gas, but was stunned by the explosion.

Later reports from rescue workers said 17 men were entombed, but that they probably would be rescued.

EVERY LOYAL CITIZEN, A BOOSTER

Every citizen of Eastland, who is loyal to the town, should be a consistent booster for the town and should be willing to do what he could to place Eastland and Eastland institutions before the public in the most favorable light possible.

There are many ways in which this may be done. One to which the Telegram's attention has been called is that of co-operating with the city officials in making a record of all new buildings, improvements on old buildings, etc.

If all of the new buildings, improvements on old buildings, etc., were reported and placed on records there is never a month in the year that Eastland does not make a splendid showing along this line.

It might be said by some that it is the city's business to get this information and place it on file. There is a city ordinance which makes it a fine of from $5 to $200 chargeable against the property owner, contractor, lumberman or hardware man who handles the job if he does not take out a city permit for both new buildings and repairs on old ones.

AUTOS AND THE CITY "FIRE WAGON"

Eastland firemen answering fire alarms are often hindered in their work by citizens of the town who, the moment they hear the fire alarm, jump into their cars and race to the scene of the fire.

Of course it may be unthoughtfulness on the part of many, but many times it is not. Any way if the practice is not stopped a city ordinance prohibiting cars from rushing to the scene of the fire may have to be passed and enforced.

STOP SIGNS NEEDED

Again we wish to call attention to the fact that a stop sign is badly needed at the intersection of West Plummer and South Daugherty streets. The blind corners there and the further fact that Plummer street is used by many school children and is near a church where often large numbers of cars are parked, makes it an even more hazardous crossing than it otherwise would be.

CARELESS PARKING

The Telegram has repeatedly called attention to the fact that too many people in Eastland are careless about parking their cars. Cars parked at curbs are supposed to be parked at an angle of 45 degrees.

It is a repeated complaint that people who drive to church in Eastland park their cars in such careless manner that many others cannot get parking space near the church.

Also cars improperly parked along both sides of a street might interfere with the passage of fire trucks along that street in case of a fire.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—There are 47,847,296 young Americans under 18 years of age. As the next generation, civilization is to be literally in their hands.

One-fourteenth to one-twelfth of their total time is spent in school. A third is spent at home in sleep. Varying small amounts beyond that are spent daily in the home.

So says the Committee on Youth Outside the Home and School of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, a committee headed by James E. West, chief executive of the Boy Scouts.

The committee selected 14 organized agencies and influences which boys and girls met in that 40 per cent of their time. It gives some interesting figures in naming them.

Many Church Contacts

The churches "deal with probably 25,000,000 persons." The girl agencies touch 1,500,000 girls during their leisure time.

Other commercial amusements lure 2,000,000 persons daily. Radio, with its 15,478,000 sets, probably has more than 60,000,000 listeners.

Playground facilities serve 2,250,000 children every day. Most children read, but 20,000,000 have no public library facilities.

Camping is indulged in by probably 3,000,000 persons, including 3,000,000 young ones.

Other conditions and factors encountered by youth: Industry, with its 4,000,000 youth employed full time and 2,000,000 part time. Rural life, with 55 per cent of youth living in rural territory.

Four Million Work Of the approximately 43,000,000 persons under 18, 28,000,000 are in schools and 4,000,000 have "gone to work." There are 23,760,000 such girls, 14,600,000 at school and 1,400,000 employed. Of 27,087,000 boys, some 14,900,000 are in school, a little more than 2,600,000 work regularly and another 1,000,000 part time.

The church shows a tendency to relate itself to young people, "not only in matters of worship, but in various ways, aiding in adjustment to the actual every-day experience of younger folk."

The committee says the possible effects of movies on children is a matter of concern. Unfortunately, it finds, the finer types of pictures are not as a rule the most profitable.

Sixth graders want heroism and "spurs" cheap moderns and hard dangers. High school youngsters demand a plot with action, girls leaning toward romance and boys toward comedy.

Need More Libraries The influence of commercial amusements under business auspices are in the main unwholesome, the committee declares.

It recommends adequate educational radio broadcasting as a youth influence, elimination of any pernicious programs by active expression of public opinion and good taste and more consideration of younger listeners.

More public libraries, it says, are needed for the 29,000,000 children and 34,000,000 adults who grow up without.

"We hear considerable criticism of youth," the committee says finally. "We are unanimously convinced that, in spite of the conditions and difficulties, they face, youth today are cleaner, finer, sturdier of purpose, and sturdier of character than any generation we have known."

40,000 members of this race, 32,000 never saw a snow house. Sup't. J. C. Conant of the Mexican schools was announced president of the association at its closing session today.

He was selected in the annual election Friday. Official announcement was made by H. D. Fillers, of Corsicana, retiring president.

The vote was: Cochran 93; J. P. Buck, Sour Lake, 55; W. A. Suggler, El Paso, 25.

W. C. Blankenship of Big Spring was chosen executive committee man from district 16.

Fort Worth and Amarillo placed their bids for the state convention in 1931. The association executive committee will select the meeting place when it convenes Jan. 10, at Fort Worth.

Court Procedure May Be Changed By Legislature

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 29—New rules of procedure are likely to be laid before the 42nd Texas legislature in January as the result of the open deliberations of the court of criminal appeals that Dave Goodwin, Bowie county farm youth must legally go to the electric chair, though practically he should have a new trial.

First the court thinks Goodwin should not have been tried in Bowie county but a change of place was not asked at the trial. The trial judge did not order one of his own volition and the appellate court says it cannot review his judgment that the trial should be held there.

The court finds possible fault in a part of the judge's charge to the jury. No objection was made at the trial, so the appellate courts cannot go into it now.

The district attorney and county attorney assert that a fair trial was held in Bowie county. The defendant's attorneys assert that feeling was so strong that it permeated the trial.

Speaker Explodes Myths About The Arctic Regions

By UNITED PRESS HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 29—A plea for teachers abandoned the myths of the Arctic Circle, and present the true story of the northland was made by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted Arctic explorer, in an address before the Texas State Teachers' association convention here last night.

Stefansson criticized publishers of school text books, whom he blamed for many mistaken ideas of the Arctic area.

"While text books tell you that in the Arctic it is always cold, the temperature may be as high as 97 degrees in the shade," he said.

"Southern Canada is many degrees colder than the North Pole. The Arctic Circle abounds with mosquitoes," and while the text books state that only moss and lichens grow there, it really has 750 different species of flowers, 250 more than Texas boasts.

The text books say that Eskimos live in snow houses. Of the less some unforeseen need for it should arise.

Support from Democrats will minimize the threat of an extra session from dissatisfied western Republicans in the senate, though it does not entirely remove it, since there are a number of controversial issues that might produce protracted debate.

Garner declined to discuss party policy until he had had an opportunity to confer with other Democratic leaders, but he made it plain he will make no move for an extra session.

"We will do what business we can," he said, "then if there is any unfinished, it will be the patriotic duty of the president to call an extra session."

Garner, healthy and rosy-faced, was much less worried by coming legislative tasks than at other matters, as was his warm friend, Longworth. Garner's trouble was several prickly pear sticklers in his leg, relics of a season of duck hunting. Longworth arrived yesterday to find himself locked out of his home, and consequently he had to deposit his valise in his capital office.

The Democratic floor leader said there was no hope of continuing the one per cent tax reduction; advocated a compromise of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill which would enable a private company to produce fertilizer there, with the government producing power; opposed any further tariff revision until the tariff commission shows "whether it is for the folks or not," announced his support of the Norris constitutional amendment to abolish "state duck" sessions of congress, and advocated the Wagner unemployment bills so far as they will speed up public construction.

Christmas Lights Around Square Are Installed

R. W. Fairbairn, who has the contract to install the special lighting system on the public square, which the merchants will use during the Christmas holidays, has just about completed his work. These lights which will be in numerous colors, will form a canopy over the courthouse square. Special lights are also being installed by many of the merchants in their show windows.

The floodlights on the courthouse are to be changed so as to make the upper portion of the building appear red.

Will File $45,000 Suit to Collect Prison Money

By UNITED PRESS AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 29—First Assistant Attorney General Rice M. Tilley today left for Huntsville to file suit on behalf of the State and the State Prison Board against Sugarland industries claiming $43,000 for sugar cane furnished from State prison farms.

Sugarland industries succeeded to a contract for furnishing of sugar cane. Payment has been refused on the ground that the prison management did not work the full amount of land specified in the contract and that damage resulted to the company land through the state permitting Johnson grass to spread.

The company claims more than $100,000 due it. Prison officials contend that they worked the required amount of land and that settlements made yearly preclude the company from now contesting that. If there has been damage, the assertion is made that the company's recourse is not an offset but filing a claim with the legislature.

Bandits Rob an Express Train of Two Payrolls

By UNITED PRESS BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 29—Two bandits robbed the express car of the Southern passenger train No. 10 in the yards here today and escaped with payrolls of two coal companies.

G. C. Finley, express messenger of the car, said the men obtained $7,427 in cash. Finley and other members of the express crew were forced to lie on the floor while the bandits made a thorough search of the mail.

The robbers, Finley said, apparently knew the payrolls were in the car and it was not believed they took anything else.

Two Steamers Lost In Storm Back In Port

By UNITED PRESS SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 29—The Canadian grain steamer, Maple Bay, which had been reported missing and believed down with all hands in Lake Superior, passed safely through the locks here today.

Ship's officers said they had taken shelter from the storm off Keweenaw Point and weathered the gale, one of the worst on Lake Superior in years.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29—The freighter Lake Simcoe came into Cleveland harbor under its own power today after it had been reported in distress in Lake Erie off Fairport, O.

Captain John Daly of the coast guards said the skipper of the Lake

Simcoe reported the freighter had been held up by high winds at Rondeau, Ont., but left there last night for Cleveland.

The ship was never in distress, despite the high seas, Daly said.

Action Awaited In Poisoning Of Woman By Liquor

By UNITED PRESS AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 29—University of Texas action was awaited today in connection with the death of a young San Antonio widow, at the Lambi Chi Alpha Fraternity house from acute alcoholic poison after the Thanksgiving day football game. The fraternity is one of the most prominent at the university. It occupies the former home of E. M. House.

County Judge George Matthews last night entered his findings of the cause of death.

"There is nothing to indicate any attempt to kill her," Sheriff Colby White said after the investigation. She was overcome while a few couples were dancing in the basement of the fraternity house. Officers of the fraternity became alarmed took her to St. David's Hospital. She was dead upon arrival.

Efforts to trace the source of the liquor furnished to members of the party were at once put under way by the sheriff's department. A white man operating a small stand in the university neighborhood and a negro were charged with liquor selling.

The charges were filed in a state justice court. At the opening of the fall college term, Governor

Dan Moody announced a reward of $100 for information leading to the arrest of a state court convict charged with selling liquor to students.

Governor Dan Moody, after discussing the fraternity house deaths, said that he will offer a special reward for conviction of the liquor seller. "My reward," he said, "will be the conviction of a person charged with sale of liquor to a student." "I stand," said the governor.

Joe Golightly, cafe operator, made $750 bond on a charge of legal liquor sale.

Dean V. I. Moore of the University of Texas said today that meetings of the disciplinary committee of the university will be called. He indicated that no immediate action will likely be taken, the session being preliminary to an investigation. This committee is composed of faculty members. It has two student members. The student members have no vote. National headquarters of Lambda Chi Alpha are in Indianapolis with offices in Circle Tower building.

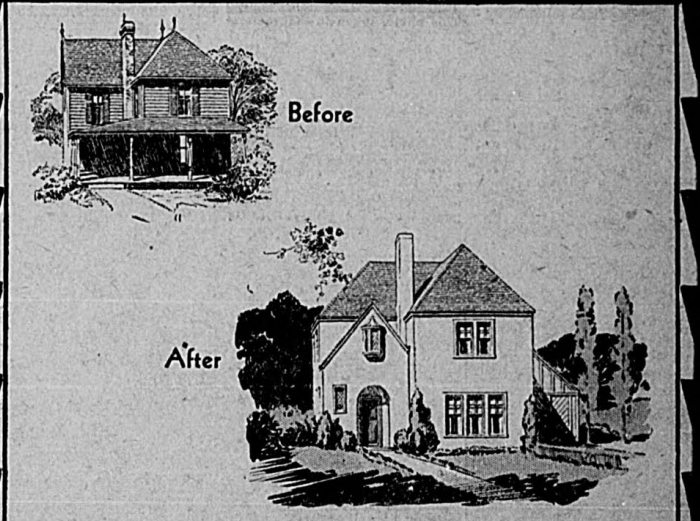

Couple Recover From Injuries In Car Accident

George C. Wright and wife of Tulsa, Okla., were preparing to leave Eastland today for their home after having been detained here since late Friday evening on a count of a car accident on a highway near Olden. The couple were badly bruised and Mr. Wright's left ear was almost severed from his head when the car overturned, after colliding with a truck on the Bankhead highway just east of Olden.

A Barrow-Hammer Undertaking Company ambulance answered the call and brought Mr. and Mrs. Wright to the Payne hospital here where they were given treatment.

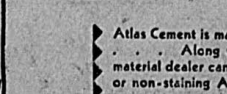

Tex Lloyd No. 1 and Strube at Strube No. 1 are expected to leave Eastland today for their home at a new Jolmer field early next week. Both have gotten showings of 6 sand around 3,550 feet. The Rock well blew in at a depth of 3,615 feet.

Murder at a Bridge

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Juanita Selim is murdered at her dressing table during a bridge party. After learning what happened in the early afternoon, Bonnie Dundee orders everyone present to take the places they held from the dealing of the "death hand" until the discovery of the body. Penny Grain, the district attorney's secretary; Karen Marshall, who found the body, and Carolyn Drake are the bridge players. Lois Dunlap, Nita's only woman friend, stands beside their table. Flora Miles, who left the room before the "death hand," goes out to the telephone in the foyer outside Nita's bedroom. Polly Beale goes out to the solarium, meeting her fiancé, Clive Hammond.

They start to play the hand, with Karen as declarer, and Penny acting as Nita. Mrs. Drake, who gets the bid for six spades, and after Penny, as Nita, finishes laying down her cards, Tracey Miles, Flora's husband, comes in. Penny jumps up, asks Tracey to make cocktails, and goes to the bedroom. Judge Marshall notes of the time. Judge Marshall comes in and gives his wife advice, John Drake, Carolyn's husband, comes in angrily, protesting this grisly farce.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER I Before Drake had reached his side, his purpose plain upon his stern, rather ascetic features, Dundee had taken a hasty glance at the watch cupped in his palm, noted the exact minute and second of the interruption. "Time out!" "One second, Mr. Drake," he said calmly. "I quite agree with you from your viewpoint. What mine is, you can't be expected to know. But believe me when I say that I consider it of vital importance to the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Selim that this particular bridge hand, with all its attending remarks, the usual bickering, and its interruptions of arriving male guests for cocktails, be played out, exactly as it was this afternoon. I thought I had made myself clear before. If you don't wish me to believe that you have something to conceal by refusing to take part in a rather grisly game—conceal!" John C. Drake, banker, snorted angrily.

"Then please bow as gracefully as possible to necessity," Dundee urged without rancor. "And may ask, before we go on, if you made your entrance at this time, and the facts of your arrival?"

Drake considered a moment, gnawing a thin upper lip. Beads of sweat stood on his high, narrow forehead.

"I walked over from the Country Club, after 15 holes of golf with your superior, the district attorney," Drake answered, with nasty emphasis. "I left the clubhouse at 5:10, calculating that it would take me about 20 minutes for the walk of—of about a mile."

Dundee made a mental note to find out exactly how far from this lonely house in Primrose Meadows the Country Club actually was, but his next question was along another line:

"You walked, Mr. Drake?" after 15 holes of golf on a warm day?"

Drake's pale, narrow face flushed. "My wife had the car. I had driven out with Mr. Sanderson, but he was called away by a long distance message. I lingered at the club for a while, chatting and—er—having a cool drink or two, then I set out afoot."

"I see," said Dundee thoughtfully. "Now as to your arrival here—"

"I walked in. The door had been left on the latch, as it usually is, when a party is on," Drake explained coldly. "And I was just entering the room when I heard my wife make the remark about covering an honor with an honor, and then her question of Penny as to whether she should have played second hand low."

"So you entered this time at the correct moment," said Dundee. "Now Mr. Drake, I am going to ask you to re-enter the room and to exactly you laid upon your arrival at approximately 5:33."

Ex-Dry Urges Legal Beer

C. C. Crabbe, above, former attorney general of Ohio, and author of Ohio's state prohibition enforcement act, has branded the statute which bears his name a failure and is advocating modification to permit the sale of light wines and beer. He says he will go before the next Ohio Legislature to urge the enactment of a law "which the people of Ohio will respect."

"You asked no questions, Mr. Drake?" Dundee interpolated.

The banker flushed again. "I—yes, I believe I did. Carolyn—Mrs. Drake—explained that Karen was playing for a little slam in spades, and that she had doubled—on principle," he added acidly.

"And when I told you that Karen had redoubled and it looked as if she was going to make it," Carolyn Drake whimpered and shifted her short, stout body in the little bridge chair, "you said—why not tell the truth?—you said it was just like me and I might as well talk to tattling at bridge parties."

"That was said jokingly, my dear," Drake retorted with a coldness that tried to be warmth.

"Play bridge!" Dundee commanded, sure that the approximate length of the previous dispute had not been taken up, whatever re-tort Carolyn Drake had made. Then he checked himself, again looking at his watch: "And just what did you answer to your husband's little joke, Mrs. Drake?"

"I—"

"Yes, I—I—just cried a little, but I kept on playing. And Johnny—Mr. Drake—went away, walking up and down the room, waiting for Nita to come back, I suppose."

"Then go on with the game," Dundee ordered curtly.

Silently now, as silently as the real game must have been played, because of the embarrassing scene between husband and wife, the sinister game was carried to its conclusion. Karen led the king of hearts from the dummy, Penny played her seven, Karen contributed her own deuce, and Mrs. Drake followed suit with the five.

Again Karen led from the dummy, with the four of hearts, followed by Penny's nine, the 10 from the declarer's hand, and the five of clubs from Mrs. Drake. Having taken the trick with her 10 of hearts, Karen then led the six of hearts, Carolyn Drake discarded the six of clubs, dummy the three of clubs.

With a faint show of the triumph with which she had played the hand the first time, Karen threw down her remaining three trumps, making her slam. Then she threw an appealing upward glance at Dundee, who nodded for her to go on, exactly as she and the other two players had done that afternoon.

"I made it!" Karen tried to sound very triumphant. "A little slam, doubled and redoubled! . . . How much did I—I mean—Nita and I make, Penny?"

Penny's pencil was already busy at a pretense of figuring. "Fifty. I'd like to know, Carolyn, if it isn't one of your most cherished secrets, WHAT you thought you had to double on?"

Carolyn Drake bridled and protested feebly. "I thought of course I could take two club tricks, with my ace and king—"

"Oh, well!" Penny figuratively flung up her hands, though she continued to make a pretense of looking at the score, while Karen, who had risen, stood over her like a bird poised for flight.

At that instant Dexter Sprague began to advance into the room, Janet Raymond at his side, her face flaming.

"Behave exactly as you did before!" Dundee commanded in a harsh whisper. No time for coddling these people now!

Dexter Sprague's face took on a yellow tinge, but he obeyed.

"Greetings!" he called out in the jaunty, over-cordial tones of a man who knows himself not too welcome. "Where's Nita?—and every body? Isn't that the cocktail shaker I hear?"

Having received no answer from anyone present, Sprague stroled through the living room and on into the dining room. Janet following. Judge Marshall had nodded stiffly, and John C. Drake had muttered the semblance of a greeting. "Were they all overdoing it a bit—this reacting of the hostility to the sole remaining outsider of their compact little group? . . . Dundee stroked his chin thoughtfully.

"No, no! I—can't—go in there—again!"

Doak Rises To Cabinet From a $1.30 a Day Clerk

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—From railroad yard clerk to $130 a day to a cabinet post at $15,000 a year will be the story of William Nuckles Deak if the senate confirms his appointment as secretary of labor.

Thirty years mark the span of that unopposed career, but the start in the dinky yard offices of the Norfolk & Western railroad at Bluefield, W. Va., with coal cars rattling by all night long, is a fresh memory.

The old lunch basket Deak used then is now a relic on the mantelpiece of his study at his home in Washington. The basket is small because not many sandwiches can be purchased out of $1.30 a day. Its original cost was 10 cents.

The old basket took on a new significance late yesterday when President Hoover defied the advice of the American Federation of Labor and named Deak to his cabinet, succeeding secretary of labor James J. Davis.

Administration Building To Be Dedicated

Definite plans have been made for the dedication of the new administration building of Warner Memorial University. The building is to be dedicated on Dec. 5th.

The Rev. E. A. Reardon, pastor of the First Church of God of Denver, Colorado, is to be the main speaker on the program. The pastors of the churches of Eastland and the business men will assist. There will be special music.

In the evening there will be a basket ball game in the new gymnasium.

Social Held

The members of the local Church of God young people's organization met with the university students Saturday night in the university auditorium for a social hour. The hour was spent in playing party games.

Later in the evening all those present gathered in the dining hall, where refreshments were served.

"Old Fashioned Mother" to Be Given On December 4th

The play "An Old Fashioned Mother" is to be given in the new university auditorium on the evening of Dec. 4th. The play is being directed by Miss Thelma Riddle, professor of public speaking of Warner Memorial University.

An excellent cast has been chosen and the members have been practicing for several weeks. The cast is composed entirely of university students and faculty members.

University Students Have Turkey Dinner

The boys of the university were lucky enough to catch one turkey and two hens at the turkey scramble sponsored by the merchants of Eastland. So the university students had a real turkey dinner on Thanksgiving day.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Wilson received a large turkey as a Thanksgiving gift from J. T. Griffith, of Bristow, Okla.

Campus Notes

Another piano was moved to the music room of W.M.U. last week. This makes three pianos, one in the assembly room, one in the practice room, and the grand in the music studio.

Miss Lela Morgan spent Sunday in the J. T. Wilson home.

Word was received recently that Professor Louis J. Smith had one of his lower limbs crushed while working with a horse on his father's farm. He is in a serious condition. Mr. Smith was professor of chemistry in W.M.U. last year.

Most of the students of W.M.U. are remaining in Eastland during Thanksgiving vacation, in order to attend the State Young People's Convention.

This is the end of another six weeks. The exams were given the first of the week.

Absence makes the marks grow fonder.

Miss J. T. Wilson entertained the Ladies Auxiliary of the Church of God, Tuesday. They had a missionary lesson.

Chapel Notes

"Why We Need a School Paper" was the subject of a talk given in chapel Friday, November 21. Three names were submitted to the assembly to choose a name for the school paper.

"The League of Nations" was the subject of an interesting discussion given by Wray Gibson in chapel Monday, November 24. His talk greatly enlightened our knowledge of the league, and it was enjoyed very much.

The public speaking class gave a very interesting program about Thanksgiving in chapel Wednesday, November 25. Floy Coffey told a Thanksgiving story. The history of Thanksgiving was given by J. W. Greathouse. Wray Gibson dissected the work Thanksgiving and the assembly named what they thought they had to be thankful for.

Sports

Friday, November 21 the Stags won a close game from Morton Valley in their new gymnasium. As this was the first game on their own floor, they fought from the start to the end of the game. The score was 25-15. Parker of the Stags was high point man caging baskets for a total of sixteen points. The starting team for Warner was: Parker, (rf); Morton, (lf); Crose (c); Gibson (rg); and Greathouse (lg). Substitutions were: Miller for Parker and Parker for Miller.

November 25 the Stage easily played their best game of the season, when they clashed with the Colony team at the new gymnasium. The game was hotly contested on both sides. Parker again was the high point man of the game. The final score, after the smoke had cleared away was 27-23 in favor of Colony. The score was tied at the end of the game, and two extra periods had to be played before the game was won by Colony. The starting team for Warner was: Parker, rf; White, lf; Crose c; Forrest, lg; and Gibson, rg. Substitutions were: Greathouse for Forrest, Morton for White, and Miller for Crose. Referees were Bennet and Harber.

to the sprinkling filters. This would very perceptibly lessen the volume of obnoxious odors arising from the plant.

There are evidences that oil from filling stations and garages drawn from crank cases of cars, and other waste oils and greases are going into the sanitary sewers in considerable quantities. This should be stopped, voluntarily, by the garage and filling station owners, for there is no greater obstruction to the proper working of a disposal plant, such as this, than petroleum and its greases in large quantities. Also there is quite a lot of sand and waste coming from automobile wash racks. The owners of wash racks should see to it that they have effective sand traps under all their platforms and that the sand box is emptied, before it gets full, somewhere where it can't get into the sewers.

There is also quite an inflow of surface water, when it rains, caused by the overflow of manholes where street intersections are not properly guttered. Street washings will put any septic tank in bad order, for, in addition to the sand, gravel and refuse carried in, the sudden great inflow of water disturbs the tank, hastens the flow temporarily and carries out to the filters a large amount of sewage that should be allowed to settle in the sludge chamber. This feature can only be corrected by either scaling the manhole or rebuilding the intersection, where the pavement is not provided with valley gutters or storm sewer connections.

A chlorinator should be installed at this plant, to purify the sewage after it leaves the tank and before it reaches the filter bed. This would practically do away with any odors arising from the creek around and below the outlet. The last quotation I had on chlorinating apparatus of this type was $250.00, two or three years ago. That price contained the installation by the city, which is a simple matter and can be done by two men in one day.

The skimmings from the top of this tank should be hauled immediately to the incinerator and burned instead of being deposited on the sludge drying beds, as is being done. The distance is very little greater and there is plenty of dry garbage, such as boxes, crates etc., to burn all this refuse.

Six hundred dollars, in addition to the cost of the gas consuming appliances, will put this plant in a very satisfactory condition, as regards features complained about.

The plant is being kept in excellent condition and the only faults to be found with its operation are those mentioned above: Drawing off sludge before it is digested and spreading tank skimmings on drying beds rather than burning them. This, however, is the difference between very little odor and a whole lot of very offensive odor.

I would prefer to discuss plant No. 2 in a separate letter since it is a different proposition entirely and it is possible that the city will want to, eventually, work out a plan by which it can be entirely abandoned.

Yours very truly,
J. A. WRIGHT

The Problem of Justification Is Sermon Subject

How is one to be justified? Is the question asked by Dr. Franklin in the outset of his discourse upon his subject. He said there are three ways by which the penalty of punishment for crimes may be enacted: First, by the guilty one receiving the punishment of his crime himself. Second, that punishment for sin be shared by the law-giver. Third, that some innocent one pay the penalty for sin committed by another person.

Every demand of justice is that man be punished for sin; that sin has been in existence every since the transgression in the garden of Eden; that man was under the law. The law was that man should offer sacrifices of blood of animals upon the altar to God, thus rolling his sins forward once a year, but the blood of animals sacrificed would not take away sin; therefore God interceded that man should not pay the penalty for sin alone. God shared the atonement by taking from His bosom the greatest sacrifice heaven could bestow. His son paid the penalty for sin with his own blood, the innocent lamb of God; thus solving the problem of justification by Faith in Christ. We owe a debt to God

Baylor Guard Named Ou Sun All-American

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—The New York Sun named today its All-American eleven, an alternative eleven and one hundred players with all American ranking.

Notre Dame and Southern California each placed two men on the first team. The Sun reported a lack of star backfield men which prevailed in the past few seasons and found the greatest competition for line positions, especially at center.

Marchmont Schwartz of Notre Dame was called the "most polished back in the country." The Sun says he is the chief reason why this year's Notre Dame team is rated above the great one of 1929.

Ranger High Is Winner 12 to 7 Over Breckenridge Team

BY UNITED PRESS
RANGER, Nov. 29—Ranger High School gridmen swept through the defense of Breckenridge here Friday to win 12 to 7. "Dangerous Dan" McCarty for Ranger intercepted Bogge Magness' pass and ratted 70 yards for the first score of the game. Ranger's second marker came when the same Dan took King's lateral and raced around left end for a touchdown. The loser's score came late in the fray on an intercepted pass.

The Ranger victory will probably result in a playoff between Breckenridge and Cisco for the district championship.

Art Shires Sold By Washington

BY UNITED PRESS
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 29—The purchase of C. Arthur Shires, colorful and noisy first baseman, from the Washington Senators was announced here today by Lou Nahn, vice-president of the Milwaukee Brewers American Association baseball club. The purchase price was $10,000.

Shires will become the property of Milwaukee immediately and will probably be the Brewers' regular first baseman, Nahn said.

"It's a great break for Milwaukee," Nahn said, "as Shires is saying in an informed deal."

The 24 year old ball player and erstwhile prize fighter is working on a movie in Hollywood where he recently was married to an 18 year old University of Wisconsin coed.

HOKY AND SLIDES

News? Oh, Yeah?

WHEN James Joseph Tunney filed a report on his 1927 earnings during the recent $500,000 suit brought by Tim Mara, there was found this item: "News—$32,809."

It is very confusing. If you were to hop right up and ask me what one of Colonel Tunney's "news" stories was about, I believe I'd have to blush and leave the room. Maybe my memory has played me false.

Surely it has. There were other great contemporaneous news reporters—such as that American Shakespeare, George Herman Ruth—and for the life of me I cannot tell you what a single one of his "news" stories was about. The same goes for those other literary lights, Bennah Leonard and Jack Dempsey.

Has the Engine Stalled?

I CAN recall sports news stories that broke quite a while back, too. There are circumstances and phases of conduct of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno in 1910 that readily respond to the summons of memory. Jim Thorpe's deeds are still fresh in this rusty old brain pan.

But I must have slipped a cog somewhere. I ought to remember news that our great American editors thought enough of to buy for $32,809 per annum. Really now, that is almost as much as a sports writer makes, even without experience in the ring.

There comes to me dimly some recollection of having seen "By Gene Tunney, Heavyweight Champion of the World," at the top of a newspaper column. But the important kernels of truth and wisdom that he dispensed at the rate of $32,809 per annum have escaped my humble memory somehow.

Guess I'll have to quit those hamburger sandwiches with onion after 10 p. m. Eventually they'll get you, I have been told, and this is probably the proof.

SPORT SHOTS

DALLAS, Nov. 29—Corsicana high school athletic officials will meet here Sunday morning with Dallas athletes to decide a definite date for the bi-district championship game with Oak Cliff.

The session will be held at the bedside of Athletic Director P. C. Cobb, convalescing from an appendicitis operation at Baylor University hospital. The contest will be played in Corsicana, and next Saturday is generally considered the most favorable date.

Markets

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—Merchandise shares led the stock market out of another decline today and prices were carried up from more than two points above the previous close.

Advent of colder weather and approach of the holiday season were factors making for increased sales in the mercantile list.

The mail order shares joined the rise which spread to all mercantile issues. Safeway Stores rallied sharply from an early decline of 3 points.

Copper shares moved up with American Smelting, Kennecott and Anaconda up more than a point each. The immediate news for this group was a sale of Copper Metal by a custom smelter at 11 cents, 1/2 cent above the previous sale. Producers still hold for 12 cents.

DALLAS, Nov. 29—Terrill School's baseball club temporarily settled an ancient football feud here Friday by defeating the Southern Methodist freshmen 19 to 0 at Ownby Stadium.

DALLAS, Nov. 29—Jim Zinn, former twin for the Waco baseball club in 1915, 1916 and 1917, visited here Friday enroute to his home in Little Rock, Ark.

Zinn made a splendid record in the Pacific Coast league last summer, winning twenty-six games and losing twelve. J. Monroe Sweeney

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

THE life of a football player is a vacation compared with that of a student manager . . . on the home practice field he sees that helmets, footballs and line chains are handy . . . and on trips he's responsible for each player's equipment being properly marked and packed . . . transportation of baggage, purchase of railroad tickets, assignment of Pullman berths, hotel accommodations, unpacking of equipment and team transportation to the playing field are his next worries . . . he orders meals and sees that each player's pillow is smoothed before tucking him in bed . . . before game time he's supposed to arrange for the team's water supply, chewing gum, cube sugar, coffee or whatever they need . . . And for all this they vote him a monogrammed sweater and put his picture in the annual at the end of the year.

graphs from Kirke Simpson's splendid story of the Unknown Soldier's return to his native heath. Well written, imaginative news stories somehow leave an impression. I can remember a story more than ten years old, written by a $30-a-week reporter, concerning a prosaic subject as a gang war in Chicago.

I feel that I should remember Colonel Tunney's pieces, too. Didn't he lecture at Yale? And marry into the Social Register? If that weren't enough, hasn't he a brother who is a cop in New York? These things, even without the heavyweight championship of the world, add no little to a man's prestige.

I must hurry over to the library and brush up on that $32,809 worth of valuable information dispensed as "news" by Colonel Tunney in 1927. A fellow should try to improve himself every chance he gets.

Sue's Letter to Ann

Dear Ann: You are just overlooking a treat if you are not keeping in touch with the doings of the Eastland merchants.

Here's a little tip—first thing when you pick up the paper naturally I expect you to turn to my letter—but no foolin' you should read the ads. It's an education within itself and too it saves you so much time when you get to the store to say nothing of the money saved by buying advertised merchandise.

I just now began to realize what that "liberal reductions" on china and glassware at Satterwhite Hardware means—they really have a sale on—and it's high grade merchandise. I am afraid you don't understand—drop in the first time you are down town and I'll bet you buy some dishes or at least some of their gift goods. Ask to see one of the Havaland.

Have you eaten any of that home made candy at the Palace of Sweets? I didn't know all about that until I tried it—do you know that Eastland has the only such store near here and that people from neighboring cities drive here for fresh home-made candy? Try the first chance you get. Let's Talk about making your Christmas shopping easy—watch Perry Bros. smoke. Can you beat this? 25c down and 25c a week will hold any gift in the house. The store is piled high with gift goods and they are all set for the crowds. This offer is proof that they wish to make your Christmas shopping most convenient for you.

I was in L. C. Burr's again yesterday. They have received lots of new merchandise within the last few days. 33 departments you know covers most of your needs. Just now they are offering for only 77c most wonderful house dresses with both long and short sleeves in charming patterns of fast colors. They really sold at high as $1.29. One year old and going big—that is just about the best way to describe the big anniversary sale at the United Dry Goods Store on the north side of the square.

Today is the second big day of the event but big days will continue as long as there are dresses, suits and hats being sold as cheaply as they are selling them.

You know they specialize in two things—the newer things and nationally known lines—and when the United says sale—it's just too bad. Everybody just likes to trade there anyway.

Say don't tell anyone but I sure get a thrill when the merchants tell me that their customers tell them of reading my letter—the merchant likes it too.

I believe everyone would mention having read this chatter if they knew that both the merchant and I like to know such things—a little favor—but not too much—huh?

Agriculture And Livestock Show Big Improvement

BY UNITED PRESS
DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 28—Livestock and agriculture showed marked improvement during the past month, in the eleventh federal reserve district, the bank at Dallas reported today in its monthly business review.

Stock and ranges were in a decidedly better condition than a month ago, and the outlook for winter forecasting was optimistic in the survey.

Additional revenue from minor crops above expectations and increased supply of feed will assist farmers in meeting maturing obligations and should reduce the outlay for 1931 crops.

Commodity prices moved downward and retail trade increased above the seasonal expectation. Bank credit showed relatively little change for the four-week period.

Tire Company Head Gives Remedies For Business Depression

"Business would get better much sooner if a lot of people would get over the notion that there is to be some sort of a complete change in methods of merchandising commodities."

This assertion was made by William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company, when he addressed the National Tire Dealer's Association at its annual convention in Chicago.

"Radical changes do not come suddenly in merchandising, although they often do evolve rapidly in the production of manufactured goods and in the invention and perfection of machinery," Mr. O'Neil said.

"While new inventions and new improvements have come rapidly in the development of radio, for instance, yet trading remains one of the oldest of arts."

"When times are easy, production men naturally come to the head of manufacturing concerns, for, at such times, it is easy to sell and the problem is one of more efficient production."

"One of the troubles with business today is that production men, having evolved new production methods successfully have gone into the merchandising field and have not traded."

"This has resulted in the factory-owned tire store and in chain and mail order house merchandising."

"They do not seem to have learned that the most efficient worker is a piece-worker, not a day-worker. The independent tire dealer is a piece-worker; the manager of a chain store, a mail order outlet or a factory-owned store is a day-worker."

"You can get day-workers at low wages, to merchandise articles of value and they can do that satisfactorily. However, when it comes to a matter of retailing an article

Predicts Prosperity

WILLIAM O'NEIL, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company (above), told members of the National Tire Dealer's Association, in annual convention at Chicago, that next spring will see a severe tire shortage, as manufacturers are not making enough tires to meet the demand that is sure to come.

"Within two years," Mr. O'Neil said, "we will forget that there ever had been a panic."

that costs more than $5, a higher type of salesmanship is required.

"The man who is capable of that type of salesmanship is not long content to be a day-worker. He wants to be in business for himself where he can capitalize on his ability in the largest degree."

"That is why the independent distributor of tires, that is why experience has proved that hardware merchants, wholesale drug and grocery concerns and similar outlets cannot merchandise tires successfully and that is why the tire merchandising through chain stores, mail order houses and factory-owned stores will not succeed."

Membership In 9:49 Class Grows

The membership of the Men's Nine Forty-Nine Bible Class, which meets each Sunday morning in the main auditorium of the First Methodist church, continues to grow, having reached a total of more than 100.

This class is non-denominational and is not a part of the Methodist Sunday school. The only requirements for membership is being a man and not belonging to any other Sunday school class.

The class meets promptly and closes twenty minutes before church time, which allows plenty of time for the members or visitors in the class to go home or to church any where they please.

The membership committee recently changed its name to that of "Scouts." It is very active and is endeavoring to see that every man in town, who is not a member of some other class, gets an invitation to join this class.

Judge J. E. Hickman, teacher of the class, has been delivering some instructive and entertaining lectures, dealing with the subjects covered by the international Sunday school lessons.

It was suggested and legally passed that each member present would bring another member with him next Sunday morning.

Our goal is twenty members or visitors and as we do not have 20 Zacknutt each member is urged to do his bit toward bringing another member with him next Sunday as well as himself.

In the preparation of meats, the housewives of the various countries of Europe have developed innumerable ways of varying the flavor of the same inexpensive cut. Beef has been, and is, a piece de resistance in almost every country in the world, and it is surprising to note how often a bay leaf, a judicious use of sugar, or some other seasoning will lend variety and accent to the richness of its flavor.

Beef Piquante—(French)—Dredge two pounds of bottom round steak with flour and pepper. Sauté in four tablespoons of beef or bacon fat, with a small slice of onion, until well browned on both sides. Add three cups of water or meat stock, one slice of lemon, one slice of orange, one tablespoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt and one-half cup dried apricots. Bring to the boiling point and cook slowly for one hour. Thicken a little, add more salt if necessary, and serve.

Deviled Beef—(English)—Cut two pounds of top or bottom round of beef into convenient sizes for serving. Dredge with flour and pepper. Sauté quickly on both sides. Add one-half cup of diced onions and the following mixture: 1 tsp. mustard 2 cups stock 1 tsp. sugar 1 bay leaf 1/2 cup vinegar Salt to taste

Simmer slowly until tender, and serve with boiled carrots which have been fried in butter.

Pickled Beef—(German)—Soak a six pound piece of top sirloin of beef in the following mixture for one week. Turn the meat once a day, adding vinegar enough to keep it covered.

4 cups vinegar 1/2 tsp. pepper
1 large onion 1 cup corn
cut up 4 tsp. sugar
1 tsp. powdered 1 large bay leaf clove or 4 1 stalk celery whole cloves Pinch of thyme
1/2 tsp. allspice

Allow from two and one-half hours to three hours for roasting. Put or lard generously with salt pork or beef fat. Place in a roasting pan. Pour over one cup of the liquor in which the beef has been soaking. Bake in a hot oven, uncovered, for fifteen minutes. Baste, cover, and roast in medium heat from two to three hours. Baste frequently, adding salt and more liquor if necessary. Thicken the browned liquor for gravy. This is as appetizing cold as it is hot.

ONE of the chief secrets of the best Old World cooking lies in the care which is taken that each dish on the menu shall go well with all the others. Flavors are carefully studied. Particularly in the case of those vegetable dishes which tradition causes the housewife to serve with certain meats, the most meticulous attention is paid to obtaining those nuances of flavor that will accentuate the savor of the meat itself.

Rice with Mint—(Spanish)—Serve with lamb. Boil two cups of rice in salted water until tender. Drain. Mash two tablespoons of fresh mint leaves with one tablespoon of powdered sugar. Add one teaspoon of lemon juice. Stir this into the rice with one tablespoon of melted butter. Pack in a baking dish. Brush with butter and dust with a little powdered sugar. Drain and plunge into boiling salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain. Curtain and Coverlet Ensemble

The quaint charm of this early American bedroom is accentuated by its net curtains and harmonizing coverlet reproducing the sampler figures.

DECORATIVE unity between bedspread and window curtains is this year's style development in bedroom furnishing.

If the spread and overdrapes are flowered chintz or cretonne, a floral motif is an appropriate selection for Millady's glass curtains. On the other hand, for the masculine room, where simplicity is desirable, a plain or small geometric-figured glass curtain will be better.

With the vogue for furnishing in periods such as the Colonial, Georgian, French, and other "schools," new designs in net curtains and harmonizing coverlets are keeping pace, and patterns authentically styled to period rooms are appearing.

For the bedroom in the early American manner, there are Colonial net curtains, reproducing sampler figures typical of the "raunkit" needlework of old, and created especially to companion them are coverlets designed in pastel colorings. Some reproduce sampler figures similar to those in the curtains. The woman clever with her needle can carry her bedroom ensemble still further by copying these designs for dresser-scarf and runners. Other designs are drawn from the hand-blocked patterns or simulate tufted candlewick spreads.

In tune with the more elaborate English-style of furnishing, there are spreads which carry rich embroidery designs on a natural background. These spreads are reminiscent of the embroideries on linen popular in the early 18th century, and harmonize with new Georgian designs in net curtains, which also find their inspiration in needlepoint and embroidery motifs.

The coverlet should harmonize with, rather than match, the curtain according to general preference.
