PROPRATION ORDER TO BE ENFORCED

EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION IS ORGANIZED

Educators of Oilbelt Perfect Organization at Cisco Meeting.

An Oil Belt Educational association, the first of its character, was formed last night when 50 superintendents and principals of high schools from Sweetwater to Mineral Wells, gathered in the Laguna hotel at Cisco for a banquet followed by an organizational session. The purpose of the new association is to provide a medium for mutual aid for the consideration of problems of educational procedure and discussions of methods. The meeting, after a motion to put the association on record as bitterly opposing the ten-semester rule as defined in the Interscholastic League year-book was tabled, voted positively against the consideration of controverted athletic questions in its sessions.

W. O. Willingham, superintendent of Albany high school, was elected president of the new association. John F. Bailey, principal of Breckenridge high school was elected vice-president, and O. G. W. Ranger, registrar, was named secretary-treasurer. The association shaped itself according to a plan recommended by an organizational committee which was presented by W. A. Ross, principal of Mineral Wells high school. F. P. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger schools, was chairman of this committee and presided at the meeting last night as temporary chairman. Others of the committee in addition to Mr. Ross were E. Willingham, E. T. Dawson, Rising Star superintendent, and R. D. Green, Abilene superintendent. Mr. Dawson served as temporary secretary.

The plan of organization called for the formation of a general association of superintendents and principals of class A and class B schools in the oil belt, principals of rural schools and all teachers. This general association is to meet once in the spring. Within this general organization will be a number of smaller organizations of principals and superintendents which will hold meetings annually, one in the spring in connection with the general meeting and one in the fall. Upon the suggestion of Supt. N. S. Hilland, of Breckenridge, the meeting will hold another meeting this year.

Chinese Bandits Demand $10,000,000 For 10 Americans

PEIPING, China, Oct. 22—A demand of $10,000,000 was made by bandits today for the release of nine priests and six nuns captured in the provinces of Kiangsu and Szechuan.

It was the highest ransom price yet to be made by the bandit groups, which have been especially active lately. Bert Nelson, an American missionary of the United Lutheran mission, is being held for a ransom of $200,000. A rescue expedition of nationalist troops was reported leaving headquarters of the Communists holding Nelson today. Two British women missionaries were killed in the Pukon area recently, they had been captured aboard a ship. A finger of one of the victims was sent to officials with a demand for ransom before the women were killed. A party of 96 Americans left here for the interior recently, despite the warning of legion officials that the region was unsafe, especially districts where warships would not be sent during the winter.

Wool Crop Brings Texas $15,500,000

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Oct. 22—Wool and mohair produced in Texas, amounting to 59,300,000 pounds, will bring approximately $15,500,000 this year at an average price of 25 cents per pound. Spring shipment was 45,300,000 pounds, of which 38,300,000 pounds were wool. New scale advances of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, announced at a recent meeting are $1 per head on sheep in twelve-month wool, 50 cents on eight-month wool sheep, and 40 cents on goats.

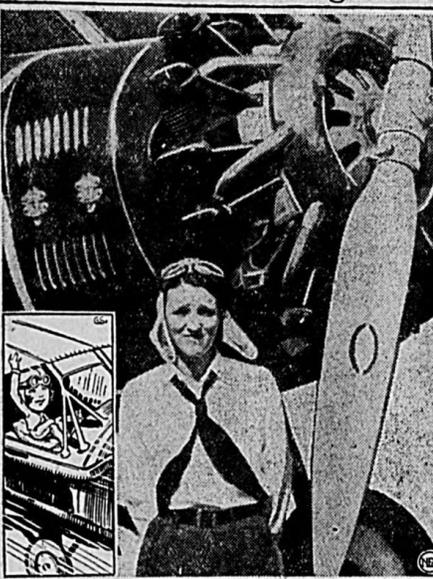

Wins Major Prizes

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22—Three major prizes for the best cotton stalks shown at the Texas State Fair went to Chandler, Texas, Henderson county, when awards were made yesterday. E. C. Workford received first money of $200; Frank Thorford, second, $100; and E. M. Belcher, third, $70.

Tiny Girl Pilot Flies Big Plane

A 91-pound girl who can handle a big airplane with ease and is said to be the smallest pilot in the southwest, if not in the nation, is Maxine Miller, 15, above, daughter of a Tulsa, Okla., oil driller who quit high school to become a flyer. When taking her tests for the limited commercial license she now holds, Miss Miller used seven cushions to enable her to see over the side of the plane, extensions on the rubber bar so her feet could reach it and carried a 100-pound bag of sand in the cockpit so the plane would perform properly.

National Lions Have Plans For Better Business

CHICAGO, Oct. 22—A plan founded on patriotic appeal and intended to end the business depression was advanced on a nationwide scale today with 2,300 Lion Clubs, governors and railroad presidents taking leading parts. The plan, devised at the Chicago headquarters Lions International, resulted from the successful campaign of Muckesson, Mich., lion-club president, to end the "buyer's strike" by a "spend a million a week" campaign in which almost the entire city joined. In adopting the plan for use throughout the nation, Melvin Jones, secretary of Lions International, said that the organization's 85,000 members have promised to spend $100 in one week and get five of their friends to do likewise, just as Muskegon citizens did last week. Officials of the Lions estimated that the plan would put into circulation approximately $200,000,000 before the end of the week, enough money to swing the depression from its rut.

Colonel Talbot Wages Campaign

WACO, Tex., Oct. 22—Carrying his campaign deep into central Texas territory, Col. William E. Talbot repeated his appeal to Texas farmers that they use Texas-made products to stimulate and insure prosperity. He spoke before a goodly crowd in behalf of his Republican candidacy for Governor of Texas.

Noted Speakers At Methodist Church Tonight

Splendid Program To Be Presented. Public Cordially Invited.

Alfonso Johnson of Dallas, formerly for a number of years in Japan; and Mrs. Joe J. Mickle, who has spent many years in Japan where her husband is a missionary, will be the principal speakers on a program to be presented at the First Methodist church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Johnson will speak on the subject "Women of Japan," and Mrs. Mickle's subject will be "Children of Japan." Mrs. C. C. Robey will deliver the address of welcome and Dr. G. W. Shearer, pastor of the church will introduce the speakers. The following program has been arranged for the evening. There will be no charges and the public is cordially invited. Song—"I Praise My Maker." Duet—"It Pays to Serve Jesus." Mrs. Grady Pipkin and M. B. Collier. Address of welcome—Mrs. Charles C. Robey. "Children of Japan"—Mrs. Mickle. "Women of Japan"—Alfonso Johnson.

Modern Methods Of Merchandising To Be Discussed

Alfonso Johnson, director of the Extension Department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, will address a meeting of Eastland merchants, salesmen and saleswomen and others interested in modern methods of merchandising at the city hall at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Mr. Johnson was in Eastland about two months ago and delivered an address to Eastland merchants. At that time he was asked to re-deliver another address along similar lines and it is in response to this request that he is to be here Thursday night.

Airplane Crashes Into Cemetery

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 22—Amid the tombstones of Rose Hill burial park stood a memorial today to the ancient adage that discretion is the better part of valor. Denied the use of the municipal landing field, Tyler youths today hurled their ship out into a cow pasture, coaxed a series of put-backs out of their motor, and glided away to higher regions. Seventy-five feet aloft the motor died, and the plane crashed into the burial park. The sky pilots luckily escaped with bruises and scratches. Today Glenn Walters and his companions declined to discuss the future of aviation.

Methodists Meet In Greenville

GREENVILLE, Tex., Oct. 22—The annual North Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, opened here today with some 500 ministers and laymen attending. Bishop H. A. Boaz will preside throughout the four-day meeting. Several outstanding changes were expected to be introduced as a result of the 1930 general conference at Dallas. The most important was the formation of the new board of Christian education, made up of three former boards. Another new body to be chosen was the conference commission on benevolence. Appointment of ministers, all subject to change every four years will be the chief activity from the standpoint of general interest. Bishop Boaz and the nine presiding elders will make the appointments.

Rio Grande River Is Now Controlled

HARLINGEN, Tex.—While streams in West Texas were raging madly down to the gulf during heavy rains last week, the Rio Grande remained a large placid stream. Formerly heavy rains along the upper reaches of the river would have caused great alarm to growers and residents because of a flood protection system now kept the river well under control.

Flyers Lead R-101 Cortege

London was stilled, and more than half a million of its people stood silently in the streets while the longcortege bearing the bodies of the R-101 victims passed from St. Paul's Cathedral toward Cardington, home port of the giant dirigible where those who died in its destruction were buried in a single grave. In the foreground of this picture, heading the procession, are members of the Royal Air Force. Among their number were a dozen men of the R-101's third watch, who but for a turn of fate would have perished like their comrades when the air liner came down in flames in Picardy.

Administration Machinery Deals With Unemployed

By LYLE C. WILSON, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—The need of a thorough-going inquiry into the effects of time-saving industrial machines upon unemployment was emphasized today by Secretary of Labor Davis at the opening sessions of the advisory committee on employment statistics. Davis described the march of the machines into the strongholds of labor at a meeting attended by labor leaders, economists and manufacturers assembled with the labor secretary in accordance with President Hoover's call of August 1929.

Russian, American Laborers Fight

MOSCOW, Oct. 22—The arrest and expulsion of "American hoiligans and fascists" was demanded today at a meeting of workers at Baku and Batum, where American workers were attacked for using their fists to settle arguments. The meeting was the result of wide expression of indignation in connection with reports that in Batum an American member of the center of the road, retraced her steps and ran into the path of the car.

Children Eat "Mud Pies," Are Poisoned

Two little children living near Frankel in Stephens county were near death today from the effects of poisoning. They were the four year old son and three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon. The children were playing "cooking" in the yard of the home and found some Paris green which they mixed into some mud pies they were baking in the sun. The pies were so appetizing to them that they ate some of them, or at least took some of them into their mouth, with the result that they were soon deathly sick. Physicians were summoned and treatment given the children. At last reports their conditions were some improved.

Mexico And Bull Fights Allure Them

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22—Sunday there will be a bull fight down in Mexico. Skies will be blue and warm. Senoritas will smile. So today, in the police hold-over here, 28 Mexicans smile and sing, as they await deportation to their native land. The men have been in a chauffeur and that an American oil engineer named Baling beat a laborer and a policeman who intervened at Baku. Batum is on the Black Sea and Baku on the Caspian Sea.

Campaign Funds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Republicans have spent $575,000 in their national campaign this year and democrats have expended $19,000 in senatorial campaigns since September 1, according to figures reported to the clerk of the house.

El Pasoian May Get Board Of Control Place

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 22—Announcement of the appointment of Adrian Pool of El Paso as member of the State Board of Control was expected momentarily today from the governor's office.

This will necessitate Pool's withdrawal from his race for election to the state legislature. His place on the democratic ticket will be taken by Joseph Mecht, member of the present legislature who did not seek re-election in the democratic primary. This substitution is said to be satisfactory to the incoming Sterling administration. Announcement of Pool's appointment is believed to have been delayed only while satisfactory arrangements were made for his successor in the legislature. Pool returned to El Paso for that purpose after a visit in Austin.

Reports current here today indicated that former mayor H. P. Jackson of El Paso will also withdraw from the race for the legislature and will again be a candidate for mayor. Major Clark Wright, El Paso attorney and farm owner is said to have consented to run in Jackson's place. This will avoid forfeiting the two seats in the legislature to the republicans, who have out an El Paso county ticket.

Pool's appointment, according to understanding here, is to be made by Governor Dan Moody. It probably will not take effect until December as the Governor has said he will not make a change until the state budget is completed. The term of R. B. Walthall of Nacogdoches has expired on the board, nine months ago. The appointment of Pool will be taken to indicate that Claude Teer, now chairman of the State Board of Control, is to become secretary.

Jury Returns A Verdict In Damage Suit

In the case of Mrs. Thelma L. Thompson and husband vs. the Times Publishing Company of Ranger and Eastland in which the plaintiffs were asking damages in the sum of $8,500 for personal injuries Mrs. Thompson was alleged to have sustained when she was struck by a light truck being driven by an employee of the defendant on the Bankhead highway near Olden in June of this year, the jury found for the publishing company. The case, which was tried in Judge Geo. L. Davenport's 1st district court, was submitted on general issues and in answering the questions the jury found that Mrs. Thompson was injured and that the extent of her injury was $3,500, but it also found that she was guilty of contributory negligence.

The plaintiff's theory of the case was that Mrs. Thompson was crossing the highway and the driver of the defendant's truck came along, at a high rate of speed and carelessly and negligently ran over her. The defendant's theory of the case was that the driver was not driving at a high or unlawful rate of speed; that Mrs. Thompson started across the highway and the driver turned his car so as to go behind her. The jury found that the driver was not driving at a high or unlawful rate of speed; that Mrs. Thompson started across the highway and the driver turned his car so as to go behind her. King George Can Now Open A Junk Business

LONDON, Oct. 22—The city solicitor, on behalf of the city of London, today gave the king's remembrancer two bundles of twigs, a hatchet, a billhook, off-horeshoes and off-horseshoe nails. These represented the city's annual payments of "quit-rents" to the king. This picturesque ceremony, held at the Paw courts, has been carried out annually for the past several centuries. The payments entitle the city to use for another year two pieces of property which no longer exist.

Workman Injured

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22—When the car he was driving was struck by the city emergency ambulance, J. E. Piles, 27, a paperhanger, was seriously injured in the downtown section today. The ambulance ricocheted off Piles' automobile, hit a parked oil truck and turned over. The driver and a physician answering an emergency call in it were not injured.

Neff Says Little And Big Must Obey The Order

Charge Is Made That Some Pipe Line Companies Show Partiality In Buying Oil.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 22—Notice that the State Railroad Commission will attempt to enforce its oil prorotation orders and the law requiring pipe lines to purchase ratably from all producers was given this afternoon by Chairman Pat M. Neff at the conclusion of a conference here on alleged discriminations in taking oil.

Commissioner Lon A. Smith, who was present, announced he stood with Neff. These two make a majority of the commission. Commissioner C. V. Terrell was absent. Neff said that the chairman of the state prorotation committee, charged that one large company was buying no oil it does not produce and had threatened to attack the prorotation if required to do otherwise.

Neff answered that he was ready to "go down the middle of the road and enforce the law against every company big or little. "If we have not a valid law, now is the time to find out," said the former governor. "The commission should not fear to go into the courts. I am sure that attorney general's department, which has a representative present, will cooperate with us."

A number of companies announced a willingness to "get around the tables" in an effort to work out alleged discriminations. J. E. Kilgore of Wichita Falls, representing the North Texas Oil and Gas association agreed to hold up specifications of discrimination pending such a conference. He insists however, that the charges remain on the docket of the railroad commission and not be postponed. He agreed to wait two days before pressing them.

Penn Discusses State Supply

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 22—Penn asserted that without drilling another well, but merely releasing present oil flow Texas can produce 881,000 barrels a day more than the 778,000 now allowed under various prorotation orders. The 778,000, he said, is above the actual market. If all the United States production should be turned loose, he said, all storage facilities in the United States would be filled in 120 days. Consumption, he said, cannot be increased by reduced gasoline prices—that it failed to increase consumption during California's gasoline war.

He formally requested the commission to call on the purchasing companies to nominate the amount of oil they will take for the next 90 day prorotation period as a step toward the second prorotation order. The present one extends until Nov. 27.

To Install Two Beacons At Local Airport At Once

Arthur Robertson, of Dallas, representative of Southern Air Transport Corporation, was in Eastland Tuesday and with a representative of the local American Legion went over the new airport which is being constructed just one mile north of the city limits here, for the purpose of locating sites for the two beacons which the airport company is to erect at once.

It was pointed out that while the federal government is to install beacons on the local field, it possibly can not get to it for a few months, and as the Air Transport company is now operating a mail line through here it needs the beacons at once hence will install them itself.

HELPING OURSELVES.

Governor Dan Moody has announced that he will see a delegation from the drouth area of this section of west Texas next Tuesday. But at the same time he announced that members of his state drouth relief committee had told him that west Texas has a better chance of securing relief from congressional action in December than from state legislative action.

There seems to be little enthusiasm down at Austin where west Texas is concerned. Except in political campaigns. There seems to be a tendency to discount whatever comes out of the west, to look upon its programs and its requests with an air, not of sympathy, but of toleration. The obvious result of this attitude is to strengthen a sentiment of sectionalism, where a closer, mutual union would result from a sympathetic and responsive reception.

The plan which the committee named at the meeting in Eastland last week will lay before Governor Moody is characteristic of the spirit of west Texas. What west Texas has accomplished thus far has not been done by outsiders but by its own people. In their present agricultural difficulties they are not looking toward a providential congress, or any other agency which, although entirely out of touch either in experience or sentiment, with the conditions which obtain here, may be prevailed upon to afford them relief. Relief from congressional action is a dim and distant prospect so far as west Texas is concerned, so far as any other of the newer and less populous areas of the nation are concerned. But the evident intention at Austin to shirk the task of providing local relief and to pass the responsibility on to national agencies is the same old human habit of looking elsewhere.

This section is simply asking a chance to help itself. It is not asking the state to give it a penny. The plan which will be laid before Governor Moody Tuesday, if the conference materializes as planned, provides that the state legislature appropriate funds for the purchase of county warrants issued for agricultural rehabilitation in each of the counties. In each county the funds derived would be administered by capable business men in cooperation with the commissioners courts and the loans secured by superior mortgages. The state would receive back its money with interest the warrants liquidated and the farmers provided with the means of making a crop and getting back on their feet. That is a program of helping oneself, certainly the only sort of a program that can be depended upon to meet a situation that now exists because of the drouth.

APPRECIATION.

The third annual meeting of the Texas Trail Blazers association was held Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Shults, at Rising Star. The organization's rules require that to be eligible for membership one must be at least 50 years of age. Originally the limit was set at 60 years.

But among the more prominent members of the association are men and women who have passed the age of four-score years, men and women who were trail-blazers for this great section of Texas in fact as well as name. The panorama of progress they have witnessed since first they set foot upon the virgin soil of central Texas is an absorbing drama. What has been accomplished, the development that has taken place, the civilization we enjoy was made possible by the toils and hardships that they underwent in preparing the land for habitation, in wresting prosperity from stubborn acres, opening roads, building homes and in facing and overcoming the innumerable hardships that beset the pioneer in the wilderness.

We are prone to forget these things, taking for granted the heritage that is ours at birth. But a word of appreciation for the accomplishments of these old pioneers, who are content to review their years of toil and hardships at these annual meetings, would be worth to them far more than any other gift within our power.

12. The committee will advise the labor department's statistical bureau on way of adding to the government's knowledge of unemployment work.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Work of setting up the administration machinery to deal with unemployment began today with the arrival of Col. Arthur Woods, former New York police commissioner, selected by President Hoover for this task. After a conference with President Hoover, Col. Woods and secretary of commerce Lamont, chairman of the cabinet committee on unemployment, were prepared to turn immediately to organization work.

The Board of Control position is a six year office paying $5,000 a year. The successor to Wathall will have only a year term as election early in November there will be a reappointment after his term expired. It is expected he will become an official of the State Railroad Commission. He was secretary to Governor Pat Neff who placed him on the Board of Control. Neff now is chairman of the Railroad Commission.

In an interview today, Scott W. Key, an attorney of Eastland, stated that in the coming general election early in November there will be submitted to the vote of the people a constitutional amendment, the purpose of which is to have the legislature to enact laws giving the boards of regents of A. & M. College and the University of Texas more liberal power and scope in making investments of the endowment funds of these two institutions. Mr. Key urges the adoption of this amendment and we quote the following argument from him:

"When an amendment to the Constitution does not cost taxpayers a cent yet allows The University of Texas and Texas A. & M. College an adequate instead of a woefully limited return on their investment of endowment, I am glad to advocate liberal power and scope in making investments of the endowment funds of these two institutions. Mr. Key urges the adoption of this amendment and we quote the following argument from him: 'Suppose the constitution limited the investment of the average man's money to Government bonds paying about 4 per cent and designed to pay, in the present trend, no more than the 2 1/2 per cent in 1932 when $12,000,000 of the University's permanent fund is to be reinvested. This is the situation of the two schools which hold the permanent fund. Unless the constitution is amended, their building programs, since buildings can be erected only with income from the land endowment. This condition of possible loss is the result of constitutional restrictions established fifty years ago when there was no thought of having a large endowment to invest. The proposed amendment provides only for a wider field of investment for the endowment, in specific securities judged safe, but paying more than Federal securities; such as school bonds, city bonds, county bonds, obligations issued by the University Regents for buildings, or in bonds under the Federal Farm Loan Act. I sincerely hope every voter will support this amendment. It will cost taxpayers nothing, yet allow the two principal state schools to carry on their building programs as scheduled.'"

Wallace recently withdrew from the race for the legislature without explaining the withdrawal. Like Pool he could not accept a place on the Board of Control if he were elected to the legislature Nov. 4. No member of the legislature is eligible to the board placed during the entire time of the term for which he is elected to the legislature. Resignation does not remove the bar. Some believe Wallace will not be appointed until the term of Roy Tennant expires on the board in 1932. Pool's appointment is understood to have the OK of Ross Sterling. Governor Moody has declared that he will consult Sterling in such matters.

Key, an attorney of Eastland, stated that in the coming general election early in November there will be submitted to the vote of the people a constitutional amendment, the purpose of which is to have the legislature to enact laws giving the boards of regents of A. & M. College and the University of Texas more liberal power and scope in making investments of the endowment funds of these two institutions. Mr. Key urges the adoption of this amendment and we quote the following argument from him: 'When an amendment to the Constitution does not cost taxpayers a cent yet allows The University of Texas and Texas A. & M. College an adequate instead of a woefully limited return on their investment of endowment, I am glad to advocate liberal power and scope in making investments of the endowment funds of these two institutions. Mr. Key urges the adoption of this amendment and we quote the following argument from him: 'Suppose the constitution limited the investment of the average man's money to Government bonds paying about 4 per cent and designed to pay, in the present trend, no more than the 2 1/2 per cent in 1932 when $12,000,000 of the University's permanent fund is to be reinvested. This is the situation of the two schools which hold the permanent fund. Unless the constitution is amended, their building programs, since buildings can be erected only with income from the land endowment. This condition of possible loss is the result of constitutional restrictions established fifty years ago when there was no thought of having a large endowment to invest. The proposed amendment provides only for a wider field of investment for the endowment, in specific securities judged safe, but paying more than Federal securities; such as school bonds, city bonds, county bonds, obligations issued by the University Regents for buildings, or in bonds under the Federal Farm Loan Act. I sincerely hope every voter will support this amendment. It will cost taxpayers nothing, yet allow the two principal state schools to carry on their building programs as scheduled.'"

Smith Makes Record SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 22.—Commander Charles E. Kingsford-Smith arrived here at 3 p. m. today completing a record breaking flight from England which will probably be his last 'except one which is a case of dual control.' The famous flyer was greeted here by his fiancée, Miss Mary Powell, who rushed forward to embrace him as he climbed from his light airplane, Southern Cross Jr. Referring to his approaching marriage in Brisbane, Kingsford-Smith

Federal Plan On Active Campaign

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 22.—A federal offensive on land and sea soon will be under way in north Brazil, an official communique said today. The cruiser Sao Paulo is enroute northward to become the flagship of the northern naval units. The cruiser carries cannons for land operations in addition to its regular fighting equipment. It is fully manned.

Wallace recently withdrew from the race for the legislature without explaining the withdrawal. Like Pool he could not accept a place on the Board of Control if he were elected to the legislature Nov. 4. No member of the legislature is eligible to the board placed during the entire time of the term for which he is elected to the legislature. Resignation had said that the "dual control" flight was the only one in which he was interested. Kingsford-Smith flew from Crofton to Port Darwin in nine days, 21 hours, 40 minutes, bettering Bert Hinkler's record by more than five and a half days.

Scientists Get Pictures Of Sun In Total Eclipse

BY UNITED PRESS NIAFOU ISLAND, Oct. 22.—Scientists, after weeks of patient labor and high expectations, were jubilant today over their abundant rewards—42 seemingly perfect pictures of the sun's total eclipse. Men of science from all parts of the world gathered here on the little spot of land known throughout the South Seas as "Tin Can Island" to take pictures of the celestial phenomenon, which, it is hoped, will lead to new discoveries concerning the sun's substance. The weather, up until today, was regarded as unsuitable for the snapping of photographs, but at the last moment it cleared leaving a perfect medium for observation of the eclipse. The giant cameras, placed in the most advantageous places, clicked rapidly as the moon's body passed between the sun and the earth. The duration of the total eclipse was 93 1/2 seconds.

Weekly Weather

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The weekly weather report issued by the United States Department of Agriculture today said: "High winds blew down considerable corn in Iowa and there was some delay in making by unfavourable weather in much of the western corn belt, but the freezes were beneficial. The first general freeze of the season occurred over the corn belt states, but did practically no damage as the crop had matured. Husking made good progress in the Ohio valley. "Cotton picking was delayed somewhat by further frequent rains in the western portion of the belt, especially in Texas and western Oklahoma. Otherwise the week was most favorable and picking and ginning made good progress. Late bolls are reported as opening fast in the northern portion of the eastern belt with conditions better than expected in northern Georgia. "Seeding of late grains was somewhat delayed in Texas but growth of those already sown is very good. Sowing continues in Oklahoma with progress and condition of the early crop good to excellent."

Higher Courts

Court of Criminal Appeals Precedents of the court were: Affirmed—J. B. Farnley from Haskell; Truman Dellberry from Archer; John Pace from Walker; Ella Mae Moore from Harris; Charlie Bohler from Collingsworth; Oscar Leming from Bee; S. J. Hodie from Jones; Hillis Allen from Morris; Helen Kincheon from Travis; Mrs. T. J. Kell from Swisher; Cleavon Balous from Harrison; Edgar L. Smith from Dallas; Jack Young from Bexar; Ed MeCoslin from Tarrant; Henry Armstrong from Harris. Appeals dismissed at request of appellant—T. N. Gies from Walker and Bailey Fowler from Mills. Judgment reformed and affirmed—Claude Nivins from Hall. Appeal reinstated; reversed and dismissed—Jerome Strong from Haylor. State's motion for rehearing overruled—Loys Wilson from Smith. Appellant's motion for rehearing overruled—J. W. Meyers from Dallas; E. L. Walker from Gregg; Moise Cudry from Jefferson; W. J. Carter from Shackelford and C. E. Wilson from Dallam. Appellant's motion for rehearing overruled without written opinion—Clifford Miller from Potter; Sherman Bird from Tarrant; Will Rosborough from Harrison. AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 22.—A rehearing was refused by the Court of Criminal Appeals here today for J. W. Meyers, who was given a 99 year sentence on conviction of robbing the W. T. Grant store in Dallas on Christmas eve 1928, taking $2470. The verdict had previously been affirmed. The state's motion for rehearing was overruled in the case of Loys Wilson who received a three year sentence in Smith county on a charge of killing Rev. Fount Wallace, pastor of the Baptist church at Troupe, April 16, 1928. Wilson claimed the shooting was caused by Wallace's conduct toward Mrs. Wilson. A new trial was recently ordered because the district court admitted hearsay testimony. This testimony was to the effect that Mrs. Wilson had said she was not the cause of the killing. The state claimed this did not prejudice the jury but the Court of Criminal Appeals again held it reversible error. Reinstating a case and reversing it the court laid down the rule that a charge of violation of the game laws must charge the game was wild in order to sustain the complaint.

Markets

Final Stocks NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—A drive against General Electric unsettled the stock market near the close today after the list had rallied from a break in the morning. General Electric dropped to a new low for the present shares and in its descent took with it other leaders, the latter losing nearly all their gains from early lows. Trading picked up in volume. Westinghouse Electric followed General Electric down. Westinghouse was sold on the earning report for the last quarter which showed a return inadequate for dividend payment. Both issues have been targets of sellers in recent market on the theory that they were selling too high in comparison with earnings. The close losses ranged to nearly 5 points in the leaders. Oils, rails, motors and special issues retreated. Utilities lost fractions to more than a point. The market opened lower and then dropped. Before the close of the first hour U. S. Steel was at 143 1/2, against previous close of 145 1/2. Leading issues followed U. S. Steel down. New lows for the year or longer were made by such representative shares as General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, Nickel Plate, Radio, Good Year, Standard of New Jersey, Texas Corporation, Auburn Auto and a long list of lesser lights.

Gasoline Dealers Use Anti-Trust Law In Battle

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN, Tex.—Independent gasoline dealers are besieging the attorney general to proceed against the "big companies" under the state anti-trust statutes. It will be a surprise to most Texans to learn that the anti-trust law is not a hard and fast statute like the law against liquor. The anti-trust law calls for charter forfeiture only when the attorney general or a judge believes it best for the public interest to use of public interest the attorney general may institute quo warranto proceedings to forfeit the charter of a company doing any of numerous things that define it as a trust. If the judge thinks it is for the public interest he can order the forfeiture.

In the early days of trusts, both attorneys general and the courts seemed to think combinations much against public interest. More recently there have been fewer forfeitures. The U. S. supreme court limited enforcement of the federal anti-trust law to "unreasonable" combinations. A federal trade commission has put its stamp of approval on others. In Texas agreements to pro ration oil production have been officially approved. Whether Attorney General E. L. Bobbitt thinks it "to the public interest" to use of public interest the attorney general may institute quo warranto proceedings to forfeit the charter of a company doing any of numerous things that define it as a trust. If the judge thinks it is for the public interest he can order the forfeiture.

Then too, there is considerable doubt about the validity of the state's anti-trust law. Combinations of farmers and workers have been specifically excepted. Some good lawyers think this is a discrimination that will knock out the whole law in case of a hard test. That would leave the state with no law instead of a possible weapon to use as a threat to keep combinations in reason.

It is not only the oil and gasoline business that has its complaints of trusts. The cotton seed industry has been subject of much recent investigation. Nearly every line of business has charges of big groups eliminating small ones or individuals. Whatever is done in Texas there is still the loophole offered by an act of several legislatures ago. It specifically acknowledges the right of outside corporations to hold stock in two or more competing companies within the state. The outcome no one at Austin will officially predict.

Appropriations Made WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Appropriations totaling $2,600,000 for naval aviation including $1,500,000 for beginning work on ZRS-5, the second of the navy's two new super dirigibles, have been requested in the navy department budget for the 1932 fiscal year, it was learned today. Total amount of the budget was not disclosed by navy officers.

Beginns Flight ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 22.—Mrs. Edith Miller, British aviator planned to leave today enroute New York on a flight seeking to establish a new west-east transcontinental record for women. Her next stop will be at Wichita, Kan. Mrs. Miller recently broke the east-west flight record for women established by Laura Ingalls of St. Louis. Miss Ingalls now holds the Los Angeles to New York mark.

Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell, 17, when she learns that her father she has supposed dead and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore to live in New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her eccentric grandmother, Margaret Rogers, Celia, who is now a widow, having divorced Mitchell and later remarried, Jessy Shields, young newspaper magnate, who enters with the girl before leaving Baltimore as she promised to be loyal to his father. Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, a beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Celia, who has won Mitchell's affections, who she is jealous of and at once she is scheming to get rid of the girl. She introduces Celia to Tod Jordan, a fascinating but of dubious character, and does all she can to arrange the match. Lisi Dunson, a fully prominent, becomes Celia's loyal friend. Mitchell learns Jordan is paying her daughter attentions and bids her to see him. Celia of course, who is in love with the girl, Mrs. Mitchell feigns illness and departs for a rest. The girl goes to a supper club to dance and there encounters Eve Brooks, whose marriage does not interfere with her flirtations. Eve shows Celia a diamond bracelet which she says Jordan gave her. The man who this. After taking Celia home he calls on Mrs. Brooks.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIV
Eve Brooks stood with her back to the living room table, both hands braced against it. She faced Celia directly. Eve was pale as usual and her eyes flashed angrily.

"Well, what if I do tell tales?" she demanded. Her voice was sharp. "What right have you to flaunt that little brat in my face? Your darling Celia—simpering fool! Do you think I'm going to stand for a thing like that?" She stopped for breath. Jordan approached to within a yard where Eve stood. He waited until she had finished. He was smiling, but it was not a pleasant smile.

last spring. After he'd lost so much at the races, I found out, and he knew I'd be furious. That's the way he always gives me presents—when he's done something he's ashamed of!"

"Must be profitable! But what made you think I really cared where you got the thing?" The woman eyed him entreatingly.

"Tod—darling—say you're not angry with me?"

"Angry? I suppose you think I enjoy such a fracas as you started tonight. Oh, yes! It's so pleasant when two women begin bawling. Very considerate, you were. I appreciate that! Allow me to tell you frankly, Eve, that I am quite capable of taking care of my private affairs and that I intend to do so. That being settled, may I bid you good evening?"

Throughout Jordan had spoken in a cool, detached manner. He seemed to take a malicious delight in the situation. Now Eve Brooks threw herself forward.

"Don't go!" she begged. "Oh, Tod, please—I'm sorry!"

She had taken hold of both of his arms. Eve was a tragic figure. Her black and scarlet gown emphasized the pallor of her distorted face. Her painted, crimson mouth was grotesque. Her two eyes were wells of emotion.

"Please, Tod," she murmured. "Say with me!"

The man looked down at her, unmoved.

"Do you expect me to listen to you after what you've done tonight?" he asked coldly.

Now the woman was clinging to him.

"Oh, but don't you see, dear-est," she begged, "I love you so terribly! I couldn't help it, Tod. For two whole days I haven't seen you. You didn't even call. And child! What if she has got money? You couldn't be happy with her, dear. You know you couldn't! I'm sorry I lied—I swear I'll never do it again. Before God I won't! You can play with your pretty doll as much as you like, only please don't leave me alone again!"

She was half sobbing, one arm about his shoulder, her head pressed close to his breast.

Jordan reached for her arms, drew them away. His jaw was set. "Stop it, Eve!" he said harshly. "Don't be so melodramatic. My God, but you're a sight!"

"What do I care?" the woman began wildly. "What do I care about anything if you don't love me? Oh, I know what I'll do. I'll—"

"You'll do nothing of the sort. Haven't I told you hysterical females bore me to distraction? Go into the bedroom and clean your face up. That black stuff you put on your eyelashes is running down on your cheeks. Lord!" He grimaced.

"Then you'll wait?" Eve asked, smiling and dabbing at her eyes. "Go get your face clean!"

Jordan was the authoritative male now, issuing orders and demanding obedience. The woman hurried out of the room.

As though he were thoroughly at home, Tod Jordan strode to a small table on which there was a bright lacquer box, opened it and helped himself to a cigarette. He drew a metal lighter from his pocket, snapped the disc and applied it to the cigarette.

Cities Move To Aid Jobless In Several States

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Appeals went out to the 31-2 millions of Chicago today to give food, shelter, clothing, money or work to thousands of unemployed, many of them hungry and ill of exposure.

Two newspapers turned their resources toward providing employment. "A job a minute" was a slogan of the Chicago Daily News, which donated free advertisements in its "help wanted" columns for prospective employers.

The Chicago Tribune speeded up its free employment bureau.

Hundreds of men were turned away from the shelter houses opened by charitable organizations and philanthropic business men. Many of the down-and-outers walked the streets last night or slept in doorways, with the temperature near freezing when charitable agencies proved inadequate to meet

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Once upon a time there was a president of the United States who thought that the prohibition issue could be sidetracked and soft-pedaled and that if the government pretended that there was no serious enforcement problem the people doubtless would forget about it.

Somewhat things didn't work out that way and today the same president's administration is more than willing to let it be known that prohibition enforcement is a very tough problem indeed and it seems to make the inference that people shouldn't expect too much in view of what the enforcers are up against.

The seeming change of policy, observable in an expansion of frank publicity, not only is an abandonment of the shush-shush idea, but it stands in marked contrast to the past practice of claiming that the Volstead act was being enforced, that the American people were rapidly going dry and that all critics were wicked rumbounds.

Wickersham Changeable

There are those, of course, who say that the way is being prepared for the Wickersham commission on law observance and enforcement to recommend modification. All of which may be true, but this writer has been unable to get anyone in authority to admit it, even privately and confidentially. The occasional utterances of Chairman George W. Wickersham himself might be taken to indicate that sometimes Wickersham thinks one thing and sometimes he thinks another. It seems doubtful whether the commission itself knows what it will recommend, if anything.

Meanwhile, Colonel Amos Walter Wright Woodcock, the prohibition director, appears to court rather than to shun publicity for his organization and its methods. In one way or another, the new administration's realistic attitude toward the job has been indicated two or three times a week.

An official estimate has been advanced that there will be 876-320,718 gallons of spirits, wine and beer available to the people of the United States during the present fiscal year.

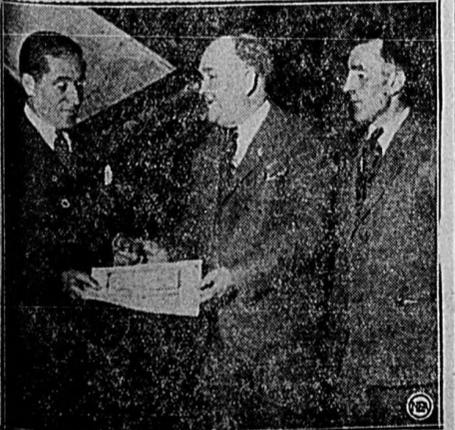

Find Liquor Plentiful

That is something like 12 gallons for every adult person, and even the most pronounced wets doubtless will admit that it seems like more than enough. The illegal beverage liquor anticipated is stated as 73,336,000 gallons of spirits, 118,476,000 gallons of wine and 648,447,000 gallons of beer.

The figures were cited to show that America was guzzling only about 35 per cent as much alcohol as before the war, but official frankness in admitting the presence of such a tremendous supply after 10 years of enforcement was absolutely unprecedented.

Even more frank was Woodcock's assurance that his men wouldn't molest persons who made wine at home unless they took to selling it.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—Boston needs $3,000,000 for unemployment relief, the city council has decided.

Today the council was to ask Mayor James M. Curley to provide one-third of that sum in his 1931 municipal budget and to appoint a citizens committee to raise the other $2,000,000 by soliciting public subscriptions.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 21.—A $1,000,000 program to provide work for at least 12,000 unemployed was started in Minneapolis today.

Municipal registration for all men out of jobs was expected to start as soon as questionnaires may be printed to gather data which will be used as a basis in rotating winter work in the city.

The movement started at a meeting of the welfare committee of the city council and moved forward today with the approval of charity and welfare organizations.

Fort Worth Boys Seeking Mother In Los Angeles

BY UNITED PRESS
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—Two boys, George and William Baker, aged 13 and 15, respectively, were picked up by detectives here today and said they had traveled from Fort Worth, Texas, to locate their mother, who was estranged from their father some time ago.

"We got so lonesome for her our father finally told us we could go to Los Angeles and find her," William said.

The boys declared they drove as far as Gila Bend, Ariz., in an old auto and "hitch-hiked" from there when the car broke down.

Detectives started to look for Mrs. Baker. The only information the boys could give them was that "they thought she lived at or near Los Angeles."

Sons of Rubio in Kansas College

Guillermo and Fernando Ortiz Rubio, sons of the president of Mexico, are now enrolled as students in St. Benedict's College, Atchison, Kan. When they reached the college they were a month overdue, but they explained that they had tarried in Hollywood to enjoy the society of movie actresses. In front are Guillermo (left) and Fernando; in the rear are Salvador Cortez Rubio (left), a cousin, and the Rev. Father Martin Veth, abbot of the college.

The only ones left undefeated in the district and two magnificent games are predicted. The outcome of the Ranger-Abilene battle is just as important as the Cisco-Breckelash and hundreds of fans are planning to "take off" both days and see two of the greatest games of the year.

60,000 Massacred By Chinese In Attack On Town

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22.—Reports received from apparently reliable sources here today estimated that 60,000 persons were massacred when the fourth and fifth red armies captured Kiang, Kiangsi Province on Oct. 6.

The reports said that the Kiang-Kiang river was red with the blood of the victims. Corpses, it was said, were stacked in huge piles.

The attack occurred in the province where bandits and communists recently have been making exorbitant demands for the release of foreigners captured by them.

The latest demand, and the highest received so far, is for $10,000,000. Missionary officers were advised today that such a sum would be necessary for the release of four nuns and six priests kidnaped in the provinces of Kiangsi and Kianfu.

An American, Bert Nelson of Minneapolis, is another being held for a ransom—$300,000 in this case. He is a member of the United Lutheran Mission.

Hopeful to suppress the bandit armies, the government announced at Hankow today that it had negotiated a loan of $1,500,000 to finance an expedition starting out on November 1.

Red flags have been hoisted at points taken over by the communists, while handbills and pamphlets denouncing "capitalism" and "imperialism" are freely broadcast.

Anti-foreignism is apparently a feature of the uprising, but reports as to the motives for this are conflicting. The provinces of Hunan and Hupeh have been chiefly affected thus far with Kiangsi receiving the overflow.

While many prefer to reserve judgment on the political-economic aspects of the new movement, stressing its bandit aspects, the communistic feature appears to be coming increasingly to the fore in all reports from the affected districts.

It seems clear that in the new organization there is some genuine effort toward communism, although of a crude and undeveloped variety.

News Of Southwest Conference Teams

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 22.—Stock in Arkansas' big red grid machine took a skyward turn following the Razorbacks' upset of the Ows, and an optimistic eleven will face the Texas Aggies at Little Rock Saturday.

Today the Porkers were to begin work on their offense for the Aztec clash, Monday and Tuesday Coach Fred Thompson gave his men a rest, requiring only light signal drills.

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 22.—Smarting under the 2-0 defeat administered on Kyle Field last week by the Horned Frogs, the Texas Aggies were pointed with determination today toward the clash with Arkansas in Little Rock. It will be the Aggies' second conference game and the third for Arkansas.

Dates of the training field were locked today, and one could only speculate about what went on within. It was learned, however, that Oran Dawson, 220 pound tackle who revived an old injury in last week's game, will be out of the contest for two weeks.

Figures showing the amount of oil imported and exported were given yesterday by C. B. Mapes, statistician for the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

Mapes said 79,933,000 barrels of crude and 29,770,000 barrels of refined oil were imported during the past year while in the first eight months of this year the imports totaled about 72,000,000 barrels.

Oklahoma Oil Proration Shows Small Progress

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 21.—The oil proration hearing moved slowly before the state corporation commission today as oil cart opponents in Oklahoma continued to place evidence into an already voluminous record.

State oil fields continued under the old proration order today since the corporation commission's last order, issued Oct. 10, specified the present curb should be in effect until Oct. 20 or thereafter until further orders are issued.

The commission will not pass on the application for a new proration schedule until the present hearing is completed which may be late this week.

Mapes said 79,933,000 barrels of crude and 29,770,000 barrels of refined oil were imported during the past year while in the first eight months of this year the imports totaled about 72,000,000 barrels.

Chicago Bandits Seize Jewelry Valued At $64,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Three bandits who resembled and worked like those who recently held up the wife of Mayor William Hale Thompson held up two wealthy Chicago couples early today and escaped with $64,000 worth of jewelry.

The victims of the robbery were George B. Crandell, broker and former vice president of Montgomery Ward and Company, Ralph Gardner, broker, and Mrs. Crandell and Mrs. Gardner.

The two couples had attended a fashion show and went from there to the Drake Tower Hotel, where the Crandells live. As they got out of a taxi on a turnable ramp for entrance at the side of the hotel, the three bandits held them up, Crandell and Gardner were forced to sit inside the cab while the women were searched.

From Mrs. Crandell the bandits took two diamond rings, one of which was valued at $30,000; a bracelet valued at $15,000; and a $3,800 necklace. They took a $10,000 diamond ring from Mrs. Gardner and a $5,000 ring and $50 in cash from Crandell. Mrs. Gardner was allowed to keep her wedding ring and Gardner a ring which he told the bandits his dying father had given him.

All of the jewelry except Mrs. Crandell's $30,000 diamond was insured.

Free Haircuts May Be Result Of War Among Barbers

NEW MILFORD, Conn., Oct. 21.—Free haircuts were in prospect for New Milford residents today as Theodore Skasko, independent barber, continued his war with five union shops.

The conflict began more than a week ago when union barbers announced a price of 65 cents for a haircut. Skasko opened a barber shop charging 50 cents. The union met the price.

Skasko cut the price successively to 35 and 15 cents and the union shops followed.

Paul Cambone of Danbury, union spokesman, said today the union would give free haircuts if necessary to meet Skasko's competition.

"Let 'em," was Skasko's comment. "I'm out to give them a trimming."

Breeders From Out Of State Take All Ribbons At Fair

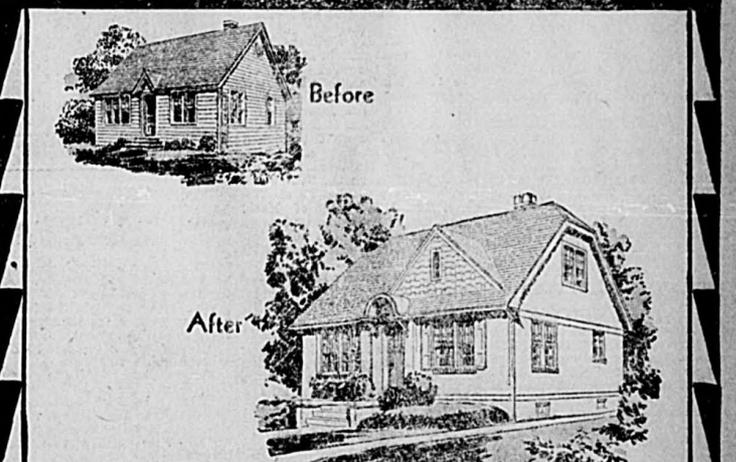

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 22.—Breeders from out of the state exhibiting their live stock at the Texas State Fair yesterday took all championship ribbons in the Holstein and Guernsey dairy cattle division. With one exception—Kansas and Nebraska took highest prize ribbons in the Hampshire and Tamworth hog divisions. Judging of these exhibitions will continue through Thursday.

Run-Down Buildings Are Unprofitable

When a progressive real estate dealer buys a building for resale he redecorates it and adds modern improvements to both the building and the grounds. That is good business. The real estate man or builder knows that the improvements add more to the value of the property than they cost.

Refinishing the exterior of a building with a light-tinted stucco, repairing the roof or re-roofing with a fireproof material, converting unused attic space into sunny rooms, building a sanitary, concrete basement, putting down concrete sidewalks and driveways—these are some of the improvements that will often make a modern home out of an old house.

Now is a good time to bring old buildings up to date at a surprisingly reasonable cost. Ask your building material dealer, architect or contractor for suggestions on modernizing.

Millionaire Hobo's Will Contested By Former Wife

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 21.—Suit was filed here today to determine whether the brother or alleged adopted 13 year old son of James Eades Howe should receive the $200,000 trust estate left the late "Millionaire Hobo" by his mother.

As the trustee of the estate, the St. Louis Union Trust Company filed the suit in an effort to legally settle the present controversy over whether Louis Howe, brother of the eccentric philanthropist, is the sole heir.

"Millionaire Hobo" has demanded the trust property for Holger Howe, 13, whom she claims was adopted by her husband in 1925.

Mrs. O'Loughlin Still Denies She Killed Daughter

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 21.—Sometimes calm to the extent of seeming indifference, at other times almost hysterical, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin repeatedly denied while undergoing grueling questioning today that she knew anything about the killing of her 10-year old stepdaughter of a suspected attempt to kill her detective husband.

Despite the denials, district attorney Earl Wetzengel and Capt. of detectives Albert Clark said they would keep Mrs. O'Loughlin in jail pending the outcome of scientific tests of articles found in the family car in which they warrant is held back, that blocks for a time payment of others issued later.

Once on deficiency, all whom the state owes, including every capital employe and official from the governor down, must take their turn and the chance to get out by borrowing money is then wiped away.

Technically, the banks get a little interest on these voluntary advances to the state; but the action is prompted principally by patriotism and rewarded by the consciousness of a highly beneficial deed to those of whom would suffer an actual injustice—but not at the bankers' hands.

The bankers are entitled to offset credits against any balances or deposits of the state fund they may have on hand. Obviously, when the fund is practically exhausted there can be little reserve deposits on which to base the offset credits of interest on daily balance.

It is no new thing for state employes to hawk their warrants about and discount them five to eight per cent.

But during the past five years, the deficiency status has been avoided through co-operation of perhaps as many as 25 of the banks in the large cities of the state.

The state's system of collecting taxes has been declared just about as bad as it possibly could have been made, had the bankers set out to do the worst job their ingenuity could devise.

The federal government collects its taxes quarterly. Counties, cities and districts levy their taxes for collection at the same time state taxes are paid. Motor registration fees hit a heavy wallop at the same time. The Christmas drain precedes the period for payment of taxes. This a peak load is laid upon the taxpayers just at the time they are least able to pay.

As a result, the state accumulates a surplus of around $11,000,000 in February, March and April. Then this reserve steadily runs down, under present practice, until about Oct. 1, when it is exhausted, and then the state must scramble for extraordinary financing, or must pay its debts in paper that it cannot at the time redeem.

Quarterly payments would ease the burden upon those who pay the cost of government. It would leave the money in the payers' hands until needed by the state, and would put it in the treasury at intervals through the year when it is needed to avoid the present situation, and the condition that recurs every winter.

Migratory Labor Expects Things To Happen Soon

By HARRISON SALISBURY
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 22—Huddled in doorways and crowded around mission stores, the "migratory labor" of government reports was talking of "something" that will happen before the end of winter.

"Something's going to happen" agreed the thousands of unemployed who sought refuge from wintry winds in the flophouses and greasy restaurants of the gateway.

Peter Snyder, 60 and gray-haired, who makes a few cents daily by peddling the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, expounded his own philosophy. Pete is proud of his record.

"Last night I spent my first night in bed since July 11," he said. "I met a friend who gave me two bits. The other nights I've just walked around or slept in some warm corner."

"I ain't so bad for fellows like me, but when men with fives and six kids to feed get thrown out of work—then you see real suffering."

"Something's going to happen. Men can't just starve on the streets. Wait 'till there's snow on the ground and things get really bad, something will happen," he said.

Denny Morris, who beat his way across the continent dozens of times, leaned on the crutches that cut him out of a job, telling of "vagging."

"You walk around all day," he said, "not looking for anything much, just nothing else to do. Then maybe you sit down for a day, it don't make much difference—either way is pretty bad. Nights are cold now, so you can't sleep out. You go down to the mission, get your dinner and sleep. Then the next day—all over again."

"Nothing to do any time but talk with other guys like yourself. Some of the fellows panhandle a little, but there ain't nothing in that," he said.

Joe, a truckster, He hasn't any job but he has enough money saved up so he can afford the luxury of a rooming house.

Another man, a carpenter for years in a little northwest town came to Minneapolis seeking work last spring. He's still here.

"There's nothing in my line, I guess," he said. "I don't even bother to go around to the agencies any more. What's the use. Nobody does. We used to drop in every day. Now the agencies are empty. They don't have any jobs and lots of them won't even let you come in and get a card."

One told the story of a "Louis," a cook.

"I just met him. He went out briskly. "Nothing for me, I suppose?"

Mrs. Parsons looked up smiling. "Oh, good morning, dear! No. I'm separating the pleasant from the unpleasant. These," placing a finger tip on the pile at the left, "are bills. Celia, I believe I'll run into town this morning. It's fairly cool and there's some business I must attend to. Would you like to come along?"

Love to. Do you suppose I'd have time to stop at grandmother's? I packed in such a hurry I left my blue sweater. There are some books, too. I'd like to get."

"You'll have plenty of time. Lawyers are always so slow I expect I'll be tied up for a couple of hours. We'll start at once after breakfast."

The meal was quickly over. Celia was not hungry and Mrs. Parsons, ever watchful of her waist-line, had fasted on juice and coffee. Both hurried away to dress and 40 minutes later they were in the car driving toward the city.

"I think I'll drop you at Grammercy Square first, Celia," the older woman said. "I have to go farther down town. When I've finished at the lawyer's I'll telephone and we can have lunch."

Celia said that was agreeable. She'd find some way to amuse herself.

It was nearly 10:30 when the car halted in front of the Mitchell residence. Celia waved goodby and ran up the steps. She rang the bell and waited.

"That's everything," she said as she straightened up. "Nothing to do, I guess, but go downstairs and wait."

Martha delayed to lock the door and then followed Celia down the stairs. The girl went into the library. The room looked just as she had left it. She sat down before a shelf of books.

At the sound of a step Celia raised her head. Martha had reappeared carrying a tray.

State general revenue was down to little more than $100,000 when the treasurer turned to the banks to advance the government money to stave off a deficiency.

Going for one moment into deficiency would have put the state in the red four to five months, and caused this loss, and endless confusion besides.

By reason of the banks' advancing money, the state is kept on a technically cash basis.

Once on deficiency, payment on warrants is stopped by the treasurer.

Then all outstanding warrants are listed, and are paid in numerical order of issuance. If a single

For a moment Celia stood arrested in the doorway of her lovely coral bedroom. It had been rudely changed. Ugly white slices masked the furniture. The bed was nothing but a rolled up mattress mounted on a frame of wood.

"We kept it this way when nobody's using the room," Martha said. "I've got the whole house like this, except Mr. Mitchell's room and the dining room and library. That's where he sits mostly when he's home—in the library."

"I see," said Celia. She crossed the room to the closet where her clothing had hung. From a dark corner she brought out the blue sweater. Then she raised the cover from the desk and searched through several drawers. From one of them she took a letter.

"That's everything," she said as she straightened up. "Nothing to do, I guess, but go downstairs and wait."

Martha delayed to lock the door and then followed Celia down the stairs. The girl went into the library. The room looked just as she had left it. She sat down before a shelf of books.

At the sound of a step Celia raised her head. Martha had reappeared carrying a tray.

"Thought you might like some cold buttermilk," the woman said. She set the tray down. Beside the tall white tumbler was a plate of cookies.

"Why—this is wonderful!" Celia took a long drink of the buttermilk. Then she set down the glass.

"Martha," the girl said earnestly, "you've been here a long long time, haven't you? Do you remember when my father and mother were married?"

The servant nodded. "Tell me," the girl went on

Louis Engdahl, Communist candidate for Lieutenant Governor of New York State.

For the first time, a Communist demonstration was carried through the doors of New York City Hall. Mayor Walter, presiding over a meeting of the Board of Estimate, was denounced by a Communist as "a grafting Tammany politician and crook" and the Red delegation was brounc unmercimoniously into the plaza, where rioting already had been in progress. There scores were injured by flying clubs and fists, and sixteen were arrested. The above photo shows the arrest of two women Communists and one of the leaders, J. Louis Engdahl, Communist candidate for Lieutenant Governor of New York State.

DOROTHY MACKAILL in "Bright Lights"
 Never such a cast! Never such a story! Never such thrilling action. All in Technicolor. Dorothy Mackaill's greatest role since "The Barker"—and much better. Take you from the low dives of South Africa to the highest of New York's social set.
