1,584 BALES OF COTTON GINNED IN THE COUNTY

Total Compares With 2,883 Bales Ginned In 1929

Mass of Cotton Handed Said to Be Good Considering Drouth. There were 1,584 bales of cotton, ginning round bales as half bales, ginned in Eastland county prior to October 1, from the crop of 1930, according to a tabulation of the state bureau of the federal government. This total compares with 3,883 bales ginned in the same period a year from the crop of 1929. Of the 1930 total 136 bales were ginned in Cisco to October 1, according to a report of the Banked feed mill. To date the local has handled 189 bales. The crop is practically all gathered, manager Thornton of the Banked stated, estimating that the county will probably receive about 50 per cent bales. The quality of the cotton hand thus far is said to be good considering the drouth.

Committee Says West Texas Is Misrepresented

Wants Geographies Changed to Show Many of Resources of Lone Star State.

By United Press AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 13.—An effort to have at least five books in each course, instead of three, submitted to the State Board of Education was made when the board met here today to award contracts on free school text books, estimated to be worth $1,250,000. The text book committee had intended to report on the feasibility of three books in each course; letting the board then select one of the three. Early discussion showed a divided opinion among board members and an executive session was ordered to thrash out the matter. Indications now are that the book contract awards will not be made before tomorrow. A committee from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and one from Diamond Hill, Fort Worth, were waiting to get before the board. The West Texas committee, consisting of C. E. Coombes, D. A. Bantzen and Max Bentley, was assigned a hearing at 2 p. m. The Diamond Hill committee, consisting of C. E. Farmer and S. F. Houtchens was notified to appear at 2:30 this afternoon. New fuel was added to the West Texas complaint against geographies in use in public schools when it was reported that some of the school readers being submitted this year have statements considered inimical to West Texas. Members of the committee were endeavoring to get a view of these books today. Withdrawal of the objectionable geographies until they have been revised, will be asked by the committee, Max Bentley said. This will take about a year. Should the withdrawal be refused the committee is authorized to resort to mandamus. The objection does not extend to all the geographies. Of one, it is complained, that a child may answer all its questions without once mentioning Texas. There is no inquiry about the largest state, the committee says, nor inquiry about production of agricultural products, cattle, oil and sulphur. Failure to mention sulphur though Texas produces 85 per cent of the world supply is mentioned as a fault that should be corrected. President J. W. Horn of Texas Technological College has offered to supply the necessary information for changes. Diamond Hill's committee will ask the board to overrule the decision of State School Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs in which he sustained the action of the Fort Worth school board in transferring Diamond Hill high school pupils to North Fort Worth high school. This committee, too, has authority to resort to court if the board action is unsatisfactory.

Oil Tariff To Be Discussed At Cisco Meet

A mass meeting will be held in the city hall at Cisco Thursday evening, October 16th at 8:00 o'clock to listen to an address by Captain J. F. Lucey. The subject of the address will be "Tariff" with special emphasis on the much needed tariff on crude oil. Everyone is cordially invited, more especially the oil men. Captain Lucey is the Texas representative in the American Petroleum Institute. He is also president Hoover's personal representative in Texas as he was associated with President Hoover in the Belgian relief work during the great war. He is a warm friend of the president. He will discuss the practical oil man himself and knows the attitude of the republican party on this most important question. His standing in the profession who call him to Washington last winter to represent the oil interest when all of the great industrial leaders were called by the president in conference to discuss ways and means to revise business.

Grading Work On Airport Will Be Started Soon

C. W. Leverett, who was awarded the contract by the government to do the grading and drainage work on the American Legion airport just north of the city, is here and making arrangements to put a number of teams and about twenty men to work on the project just as soon as the weather will permit. He estimates that it will require about 40 days to complete the job. While he has his own teams and drivers, Mr. Leverett expects to employ locally such other labor as is needed and has already lined up a number of employees.

Water Is Within Two Feet Of Top Of Lake Spillway

Reports current around town about noon today were that the water at Lake Eastland, the city's water supply, was running over the spillway at that time. At 2:15 this afternoon, however, when the telegram talked to the pumper at the lake pump station, he reported that at 12:00 o'clock the water was some two feet below the spillway, but that every indication was that it would be running over the spillway before night. Cross Plains—Callahan county bankers held quarterly convention in this town.

COL. ROBT. D. GORDON HAS BIG PRODUCER

Hunt Well In Merriman District Making Oil and Gas.

Col. Robt. D. Gordon, veteran operator in the central Texas oil fields and the discoverer of the Lake Eastland sand near Eastland, has again made a big strike, having just brought in a well, eight miles east of Eastland for an estimated production of 500 barrels and one and one-half cubic feet of gas. The well is located on the Sam Hunt farm in the Merriman district made famous during the oil boom days in this county by its numerous big oil pushes, some of which are still producing. The pay was reached at a depth of 3,195 feet and this morning the well made three heads between 6:00 a. m. and 10:00 a. m., each time flowing over the top of the derrick. Col. Gordon, who was forced to shut down operations on the well for a few weeks recently on account of serious illness, is in Eastland today from Fort Worth and is personally supervising the bringing in of the well.

Seek Cause Of Train Wreck Near Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 13.—Efforts to establish the cause of a train wreck on the outskirts of Dallas in which one person was killed and three injured were under way today. Fireman R. A. Short, 31, of Big Spring, was instantly killed when an eastbound Texas & Pacific fast express crashed, the engine and four of seven cars leaving the rails at twilight Sunday near the Eagle Ford stop. Engineer T. B. Petty, 52, of Fort Worth, sustained severe bruises and deep lacerations. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crockett of Irving received abrasions when their car was struck by a portion of the railroad engine as it swung sideways from the track. All three of the injured were brought to hospitals here. The crew was unable to explain why the train left the rails. Theories of rail break and curvature of the tracks were offered. The engine and tender turned over. Four cars were dragged after them, and the three rear cars in which a score of passengers were riding stayed on the rails. The train left Abilene at 11:15 a. m. and was due here at 5 p. m. The crash occurred at 5:01 p. m.

91st Jury Is Transferred To The 88th Court

Judge Geo. L. Davenport of the 91st district court this morning called the list of civil cases that had previously been set for trial in his court but this week. It was found that those set for the first part of the week had been settled or were in process of settlement since the assignments and there were no cases ready for trial before Wednesday morning, and the 91st district court jury was transferred to the 88th court until Wednesday morning. Judge Davenport, who has been confined to the hospital and his room for the past few days because of serious illness, apparently is on the road to complete recovery.

Drouth Relief Plans Will Be Discussed Here

Bankers and legislators from over the area roughly described by the cities of Spur, Stamford, Throckmorton, Breckenridge, Ranger, De Leon, Brownwood, Coleman, Winters and Sweetwater, has been called to take place in Eastland next Wednesday afternoon in the district courtroom at 3 o'clock to consider a workable plan for the relief of drouth stricken farmers in the section. The meeting was called by the Eastland County Bankers association of which Guy Dabney, of the Cisco Banking company, is president. Some concrete and original ideas of providing this relief have been advanced and were discussed in a preliminary meeting held here Friday night. Out of this discussion a plan has been evolved which will be presented to the general meeting next Wednesday. Mr. Dabney said that the details of the plan are being withheld from publication until it is presented to the bankers and legislators and definitely acted upon. He indicated, however, that it represents a departure from the idea of the state making appropriations directly to the farmers and assuming full responsibility for the distribution and supervision of the relief. Governor Moody, Boss Sterling, democratic nominee for governor, the legislators from the counties included in the section and the county commissioners court of this county are invited to attend the meeting Wednesday. Victor B. Gilbert, state representative from Eastland and Callahan counties was delegated to issue invitations to the governor, Mr. Sterling and the legislators. Mr. Dabney is sending invitations to the bankers of the section. In view of the fact that the plan is a novel one, and one commended by the bankers who have heard it, the meeting is expected to occasion considerable interest and to draw a large representation for the district. Farmers over the afflicted district are in need of immediate relief, properly supervised, it was stated, and the plan now under consideration should take care of the emergency in good shape. Wife Of Man Who Did Shooting Was With The Victim

Was Standing At Desk Paying Bill When Husband Entered and Shot Him.

WACO, Tex., Oct. 12.—J. M. (Jack) Pruitt, Dallas, was shot four times, twice through the chest, once through the abdomen and once in the hip, as he stood at the counter of the Raleigh hotel here shortly before noon today paying his bill. H. S. Cunningham of Dallas surrendered to police. Pruitt registered at the hotel yesterday, and alongside his name on the registry was "Mrs. Pruitt." A woman whom Cunningham said was his wife was with Pruitt as the latter was paying his bill. Witnesses said Cunningham walked into the hotel with his 10-year old daughter and started shooting with a small calibre revolver. Pruitt fell. The woman crouched over Pruitt as if to protect him, spectators said, and Cunningham pulled her away. He was taken to a hospital, where his condition was pronounced serious.

Rotarians Hear Mrs. Scott Key At Meet Today

Mrs. Scott W. Key, who recently returned from a tour of Japan and China as well as a number of other foreign countries, delivered a brief but very interesting talk dealing with the habits, customs, etc., of Japan and China. The address was given in response to an invitation from the club and was greatly enjoyed by those present. The following members of the program committee for next Monday's meeting: Earl Bender, J. A. Beard and J. B. Johnson. F. A. Jones of the Eastland Telegram was elected to membership in the club at today's meeting. Forest Wright, Rotarian of Cisco, was the only out of town visitor at today's meeting. Mrs. Joe Gibson favored the club again today with several piano numbers. The singing, which is being featured by President Brelsford who is a splendid singer, was especially good today and is improving with every meeting of the club. A report on the Roy Scout membership campaign brought out the fact that approximately $700 had been pledged and paid in to date. John Mouser, as chairman of the committee in charge of the drive, was complimented for the splendid results his committee had shown to date. DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 13.—Psalm of praise and hymns of joy will be sung tonight in the flickering light of lanterns as "Hoshanah," Babb, holy holiday of the Jewish church, is observed in synagogues here.

SPLENDID PUBLICITY FOR A CIRCUS.
Rangers were ordered to Shamrock to prevent the holding of a circus on Sunday. The circus manager bowed to the law and public opinion. He had received the nearest volume of advertising in the southwest that his "greatest on earth" had been given since the initial performance in early spring-time. Every circus cloud has a golden lining. Publicity is the thing. Advertising sells the goods too on the counter. Printer's ink is a world beater.

A BUSINESS TRAGEDY.
It has been a long time since the world of business has bred a tragedy as dark as the one that came to a climax in that eastern railroad president's office the other day, where a railway vice president shot and killed the president of his road and then took his own life.

Investigation following the shooting indicated that the trouble really began when the president, 10 years younger than the other man, was promoted over the other man's head. Years of brooding, years of thinly-veiled antagonism, years of sharply clashing wills—and then the explosion. It is not pleasant to think about.

Yet the same set of circumstances exists, probably, in almost any business organization you would care to name. Older men are constantly being forced to see their juniors go above them, and are constantly having to swallow their pride and beat down their resentment. This does not, ordinarily, lead to a violent outbreak; but it is a safe bet that there are a good many business executives in this country who can at least understand how the murderer in this case felt.

FRIENDS OF THE PARTY.
Representative Garner's list of contributors to the republican campaign chest who have received tax refunds from the federal treasury reads like a "Who's Who" of finance and industry.

The republicans may reply that a democrat is again "misrepresenting" the pious republican party which never stoops to any wrong—in Nebraska, or anywhere else. But politicians being what they are, defenders of the republican party will find some difficulty in showing that there is nothing more than a co-incidence in the fact that large contributors to republican campaign funds are treated with great solicitude in the matter of taxes.

Mr. Garner thinks it "significant" that every one of 17 contributors of $10,000 or more to the republican party has been granted tax refunds, credits or abatements by the treasury. Mr. Garner might have used a stronger word, but was content to let the record speak for itself.

The coalition between the republican party and "big business" is a very old and well established one. It is a pleasant arrangement for both sides. The republican party is always assured of all the money it needs to conduct its campaigns, and the heavy contributors receive favors in return from the government.

These favors may be in the form of tariff rates, tax refunds, legislation passed by congress and work done by other departments of the federal government for the benefit of a little group of American citizens who virtually rule the country. It was not an oversight that former Ambassador Gerard excluded Pres. Hoover from his list of men whom he regards as the actual rulers of this nation.

What is to be done about it? Nothing, so long as more Americans vote the republican ticket than the democratic ticket. Reform could be brought about if the influence of the two major parties were more evenly balanced. But with the republican party in power, the privileged interests will continue to get what they want in Washington.

LIMITING LOADS ON THE HIGHWAYS.
The politicians are pot-shooting the state highway patrol because 50 men cannot regulate the size of loads all trucks running on the highways are carrying. This forecasts more pot-shooting when the legislature meets in January, and the patrol officials ask that its personnel be increased to 250.

The fact that some trucks are running overloaded argues for the increase in the force. But right now, meeting a truck with too many bales piled high and wide on its bed is a bit uncomfortable.

"Love Racketeer"
Thought Headed Toward Texas

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 12.—The search for George W. E. Perry, "love racketeer," wanted in connection with the slaying of his bigamous wife, Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, near Lac Du Flambeau, Wis., today penetrated further into the southwest as the fugitive continued to evade capture.

Perry, whose "love racket" led him into several bigamous marriages, was believed to have made his way here from St. Louis after he narrowly escaped capture there last Wednesday. His picture was identified by a garage man 20 miles south of here Friday, and today police expressed the opinion that he was making his way toward Texas.

After leaving St. Louis, police believe Perry made his way into Arkansas after being put off of a train at Anna, Ill., for failure to produce a pass. Perry was searched for, then, in Blytheville, Ark., where previously he had vainly attempted to induce two women to marry him.

From Blytheville, the police transferred their attentions here, after he was reported to have been seen in the community.

Brady Is Again Under Water As Creek Overflows
BRADY, Tex., Oct. 12.—Flood-waters from Brady creek were on a rampage through the streets of this little town again today, as business doors were closed and many citizens retreated to higher ground. On the plaza water was standing 18 inches deep at 10 o'clock, and rising rapidly.

A heavy rise, caused by an 11 inch rain this morning at the head of the creek, was reported surging down the narrow stream bed by towns west of Brady.

A week ago the town was inundated when the quiet stream became an uncontrollable flood that caused considerable damage.

DALHART, Tex., Oct. 12.—Heavy rains in the watershed ten miles above the reservoir in the Rita Blanca Canyon, three miles southwest of here, have led to a demand for a new and heavier dam to create a larger reservoir. The old dam, crushed under the heavy weight of water before a throng of people who had gathered to watch the lake fill.

SWEETWATER, Tex., Oct. 12.—Three inches of rain fell here over the week-end, assuring a superior small grain crop. Lowlands in several adjacent counties were flooded, and much late feed was destroyed. Two of Sweetwater's numerous small lakes were filled.

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Oct. 12.—The South Concho river overflowed at Christoval early today, flooding the Santa Fe station under four feet of water. Four hundred sheep were drowned in the sudden rise. The water was within 100 feet of the business section before it started receding. Two tourist parks were inundated and several cabins washed away. San Angelo received two inches of rain over the week-end.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Oct. 12.—Driving rains swept Wichita county Sunday afternoon and night, flooding lowlands along the Little Wichita river and menacing crops which had been irrigated previously from canals. Henrietta, 18 miles north of here, likewise received heavy rains totalling two and three fourths inches. Heavy clouds indicated more rain today.

SNYDER, Tex., Oct. 13.—Roads were impassable in many parts of Severy county today, after the heaviest rain that has come to this section in many months. Precipitation in all parts of Severy county varied from three to five inches for

Legs Diamond Near Death From Gangster Bullets
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Jack "Legs" Diamond of the New York underworld, lay near death today from bullet wounds inflicted by the gangster from which he tried futilely to escape six weeks ago.

Caught without his bodyguard in a room at the Monticello hotel Sunday morning, he was shot four times by two unknown gunmen. He had admitted unsuspectingly to his room. The assailants escaped.

"Any one of a hundred reasons" to quote Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney—might have been the motive for the attempt to kill Diamond, who recently was escorted back from Germany after seeking refuge abroad from the many enemies he had made in his career as a powerful racketeer.

A phone call, received as he sat eating a late breakfast in the room of 28-year-old Marian Koltz, red-haired Ziegfeld beauty, lured him into the trap that had been set for him many months ago.

She heard him pleading for big life just before the burst of shots, she said. She dressed quickly and fled. Later she was found hiding under some clothes in a closet in the apartment of Agnes O'Laughlin, another showgirl, who recently sued Rudy Vallee charging breach of promise.

The story the showgirl told Mulrooney today conflicted in several details with previous statements attributed to her.

One placed suspicion on New Jersey racketeers whose attempts to supply thirsty Brooklynites had met with severe repulses from Diamond and his gang.

A second was that he was shot in revenge for the Hotsy-Totsy night club murders. Police conducted a wide search for "Legs" but two men had been ridiculed with bullets in the Harlem night club, but he did not turn up until eight months later, after his co-defendant had been acquitted and three state witnesses had been "taken for a ride." Lacking the necessary witnesses, authorities dismissed the indictment.

A third theory was that the shooting was connected with the disappearance of Harry Western, upstate roadhouse proprietor, who disappeared shortly before Diamond sailed for Europe on a trip that resulted in his being returned to this country as an undesirable alien.

A fourth theory mentioned Searface Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, who was reported recently to be preparing to "muscle in" on the slot machine racket here.

Paddock Urges Abolishing "Bat" In Texas Prisons

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 12.—The bat, a heavy leather strap used to lash convicts, should be thrown out of the Texas prison system, chairman W. A. Paddock of the prison board said today.

"This mode of punishment is repugnant," he said.

His reference to the bat was contained in a statement setting out the inability of the prison system to exercise proper control over convicts, to keep them busy at work or to improve them mentally or physically.

"The first responsibility of a prison management is to keep convicts under control," he said. "Next to keep them busy and as near as possible self-supporting. In addition every effort should be made to make those sentenced better men, mentally, normally and physically."

"The Texas prison system, as it is, makes it impossible to accomplish any of these things."

Paddock pointed out the necessity of housing four-fifths of the inmates in wooden shacks on the prison farms, in old shacks that are impossible to keep clean. He cited the necessity of throwing all types of criminals together, of not having the right kind of employment to offer the men.

"We need a system where other forms of punishment for victims and mutinous criminals can be provided instead of the lash, which is repugnant to everybody but the only thing available to farm managers," he said.

Paddock closed his statement with a plea for an entirely new modern and adequate prison. "Until such a prison is provided, we always will have such tragedies as men being shot while trying to escape, or others unfit for farm work, collapsing in the field from exhaustion, and the menace of escaped convicts slinking about among our people."

Buck And Ingalls Held At Amarillo By Heavy Fogs
AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 12.—Heavy fog and poor visibility held two aviators—Robert Buck, 16, and Laura Ingalls—attempting to establish west-east transcontinental flight records in their respective classes here today.

"The ceiling's too low. Unless the skies clear I won't take off this morning, but I expect to get away as soon as possible," Buck told the United Press.

Miss Ingalls, seeking to lower the women's record, was expected to follow the example of Buck, after the junior mark. Their next stop will be Wichita, Kan.

Cannon's Son Is Believed On Way To Washington
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 13.—Authorities here said they believed Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James R. Cannon of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, went to Washington, D. C., to confer with his father concerning bad checks charges pending against him in Los Angeles.

Warrants issued for young Cannon charged he passed $1600 in worthless checks for labor and supplies at El Monte Military Academy, which he founded. Keith Bennett, said to be an aunt of the missing school man, also was sought.

The younger Cannon was in similar difficulties last year. His father made a trip to Los Angeles to straighten out the son's affairs.

Cotton Men Meet To Boost Price
NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 12.—Government officials and cotton men from the south gathered in New Orleans today for a conference which it was hoped would build up the price of the south's chief commodity.

There were rumors of impending conflict between shippers and Federal farm board members in reports that the shippers believed their functions were being usurped by the board, but D. E. McCann of Greenville, S. C., president of the American Cotton Shippers' Association, hoped to preserve amity.

Among those scheduled to attend were secretary of commerce Robert P. Lamont, chairman Alexander Legze of the federal farm board, Carl Williams.

A similar meeting in 1926 was followed by 100 per cent increase in the price of cotton.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA
Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germ.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is especially fine for building up the system after cold or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Adventure enters the life of Celia Mitchell, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, John Mitchell, and her aristocratic grandmother.

Margaret Rogers, her mother, divorced Mitchell and re-married an it new widow. Barney Shields, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl. Mitchell asks Evelyn Parsons, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia a means to win Mitchell's affections and agrees. She invites the girl to her Long Island home for a week-end. Tod Jordan, fascinating but with a dubious reputation is attentive to Celia and Mrs. Parsons encourages the match.

When the other guests leave Celia continues her visit. Lisi Duncan, socially prominent, invites her to a winning party. Celia narrowly escapes drowning and is rescued by Jordan. Her father hears of the affair and insists the girl must return home. The same evening Jordan calls and in a romantic scene tells Celia he loves her. She returns to New York and two days later attends a charity fair with her grandmother. A gypsy fortune teller reads Celia's palm and warns her of impending danger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI
"Dance?" Celia Mitchell asked. "What do you mean?" The gypsy was bending over the girl's hand again. "Two men," she repeated. "One man is dark, handsome. They make love to you. Both of them! Oh, Miss," she raised her eyes imploringly, "I see trouble!"

The old woman looked distressed. Celia stirred uncomfortably as the black eyes continued to stare at her. "But what is it?" she insisted. The gypsy put the girl's hand down on the table between them. "I am sorry," she said. "I cannot do it. I cannot read your future!"

"Why—what's the matter? I don't understand. The old woman was shaking her head. The heavy gold hoops in her ears bobbed grotesquely. Then the gypsy's expression changed.

"I tell you no more fortunes. Sorry," she said. Celia was both amused and annoyed. She wondered what trickery of the fortune teller's was behind this odd occurrence. Of course, the idea that the gypsy really had foreseen disaster in her palm was preposterous. The girl arose and, with a shrug of her shoulders, left the tent. Mrs. Mitchell was waiting. "What did she tell you?" she asked. "Nothing! Grandmother, she's just a fraud. She tried to frighten me by saying she saw danger in my palm and then when I asked what she meant she gave up and said she couldn't tell my fortune. Isn't that nonsense?"

"Outrageous! I wouldn't have paid her."

"I'd already done that, but she handed the money back."

Mrs. Mitchell eyed her granddaughter. "That's strange," she said. "Wait—I'm going in and see what she'll tell me. If there's anything fraudulent going on here it's my duty to report it."

"Don't go now," Celia cautioned. "Wait a bit. She'd know you were with me because she saw us together. Let's go somewhere else and you can come back later."

Mrs. Mitchell agreed. The girls made a gay scene. The grounds were beautiful and the bright tents and awnings under which toys, balloons and refreshments were sold added color. There were huge orange and green parasols shading tables and chairs. Pretty girls in peasant costumes carried trays of food. Men, women and children thronged about in light-colored attire.

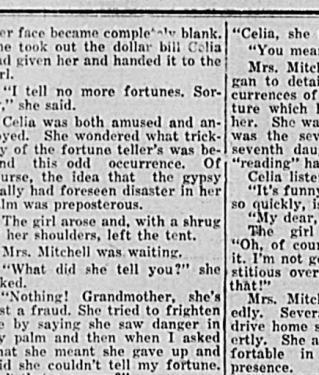

On a lake nearby young people were taking boat rides. It was all festive, but Celia felt lonely. She knew no one, and it was not very entertaining to stroll about chatting with her grandmother's friends. Since the affair was being held to make money, a part of the crowd, Mrs. Mitchell explained, were "outsiders." To Celia it seemed these were the ones who were enjoying themselves.

Here and there they met an elderly woman or man with whom her grandmother paused to talk. Mrs. Mitchell promptly presented Celia but, before these elders, the girl was quiet. She eyed the "outsiders" boating on the lake and riding on the merry-go-round enviously. The pastimes might be juvenile, but they were having fun.

Presently Mrs. Mitchell remembered the fortune teller. "You stay here, Celia," she said, "I'm going to find out about that gypsy!"

The girl sank into one of the orange and green chairs beneath a parasol and said she would wait until her grandmother's return. A waiter stopped at the table and Celia ordered a frosted chocolate. She sipped the beverage slowly, thinking how pleasant the afternoon might have been if Lisi and her gay crowd had been there. The Duncan family's social standing was satisfactory, Mrs. Parsons had said. It was queer about society. It was not long before she saw Mrs. Mitchell coming toward her. There was a triumphant briskness in the elderly woman's manner. "Why, she's wonderful!" she exclaimed as she reached the girl.

MOM'N POP

By Cowan

She searched the model frocks and came back with something of white tulle and silver over her arm. She held the gown up. "Try this," she urged. Celia stood still while the dress was adjusted. Then she stepped before the mirror, perfect.

The white silk clung about her closely, widening as it reached the floor. Silver threads spun a glittering cobweb across one side of the skirt. There were touches of silver on the bodice, cut with classic simplicity.

"It's lovely!" the girl exclaimed. The dress was youthfulness itself. It defied Celia's flawless coloring and could boast no victory. Charlotte was busy with pins explaining alterations here and there would make the gown perfect.

The purchase was settled upon immediately. Charlotte was to send slippers and underthings as well. She brought out a white velvet wrap that made Celia look like a Parisian on fashion plate.

"Humph! That's enough for one day!" Mrs. Mitchell announced, and the shopping trip was over. The next two days were busy. Evelyn Parsons telephoned, came to see Mrs. Mitchell, and gave Celia lists of errands. The birthday celebration was to be a dinner party, followed by dancing. It was to take place on a fashionable hotel roof.

The packages arrived from Charlotte. Everything fitted perfectly. Wednesday afternoon Celia took a long nap so that she would be fresh for the evening. Martha was to help her dress. It had been arranged that Mrs. Parsons and Mitchell and Celia should go to the hotel together. Mrs. Mitchell had declined to attend such a youthful affair.

It was nearly 7 o'clock when Celia came downstairs wearing the beautiful white gown. Evelyn, stunning in turquoise, was in the drawing room with John Mitchell. "Father," the girl said slowly. "I was asked to give you this."

She handed him an envelope addressed to "John Mitchell." It was an enclosure from the long birthday letter Celia had received from her mother. "I want you to give the enclosed note to your father," Margaret Rogers had written. "Please don't mention it to anyone else."

Mitchell took the missive glanced at it, then laid it on the table. "We're ready," he told the girl. "Do you have your wrap?" Celia disappeared. Thus it happened that when a call came for Mitchell a moment afterward Evelyn Parsons was left alone. She looked quickly over her shoulder, then picked up the envelope. Five minutes later Mitchell was back. He had forgotten the message. All that remained of Margaret Rogers' letter was a tiny pile of fresh ashes on the grate.

Col. McRae, Veteran Newspaperman, Dies After Long Illness

BY UNITED PRESS
LA JOLLA, Calif., Oct. 11.—Col. Milton A. McRae, one of the founders of the old Scripps-McRae newspaper league and for years a leader in American journalism, died suddenly today in the Scripps Memorial Hospital here.

Col. McRae underwent an operation last Tuesday for what was thought to have been cancer of the colon, and up to the time of his death, physicians entertained hopes for his recovery.

The publisher spent a restless night Thursday but by noon had retained consciousness. It was known that he had reached the crisis of his illness and hopes that he would rally were held to the last.

Col. McRae died at 12:35 a. m., PST.

The World's Tiniest Train

NEA London Bureau
Here we have the world's tiniest train—and, for its size, one of the world's costliest—made by J. Martin, a watchmaker of Waltham, England, who is shown here. It is constructed entirely of gold and silver, the engine is 1 3/4 inches long, the whole train is only eight inches long and it runs by clockwork on a track four feet six inches in length, taking 2 1/2 hours to cover the distance and traveling at a speed of about three miles a year.

Suffering for months from his fatal malady, Col. McRae did not have sufficient strength to overcome the drain of his system, physicians said.

His two daughters, Mrs. Howard Henderson of New York and Mrs. Richmond Temple of London, were in San Diego at the time Col. McRae passed away. Their father had summoned them here when he learned the seriousness of his condition.

The publisher's illness was diagnosed as cancer of the colon, but the operation revealed he suffered from a severe intestinal obstruction, although not of a malignant type.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—When the republics of South America want to oust a dictator, they go ahead and oust him, but in neighboring Cuba this country virtually underwrites any dictatorship which is kind to American business interests.

The people of no other supposedly sovereign republic in the world appear to be in quite as peculiar a position as the Cubans. For years there have been reports that a revolt was imminent against President Gerardo Machado. Many Cubans obviously would like to have one. There are two ways to get rid of an administration: by the ballot and by force. Machado controls the vote in Cuba and has been able to extend his dictatorship. That leaves revolution. But when they come to plot a revolt, the dissatisfied Cubans find themselves up against the United States, which has an unbroken record of intervention or strong opposition to Cuban rebels.

For 30 years, this government appears to have been interested in about everything Cuban except Cuban liberties. Under this policy, of course, American interests have thrived on the island and we now have investments there amounting to considerably more than a billion dollars.

The Platt Amendment
Cuban-American relations have had as their prime factor the famous Platt amendment. Congress enacted that in 1901 as an amendment to the army appropriation act and Article III of the amendment is the one which always gets talked about when there is talk of trouble in Cuba. It says: "The government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property, and individual liberties, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the Treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the government of Cuba."

This government has often been urged to step into Cuba and supervise a free and fair election on the theory that it is obligated to bodies will be buried in a common grave. The grave had been prepared at a spot over which the giant dirigible passed 30 seconds after leaving its mooring mast on the flight to India. The R-101 originally was launched one year ago today. Christian Science Churches The lesson-sermon subject in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 12th was "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" The golden text was from Psalms 37:27 "Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell forevermore." The following passage from the Bible was included in the service (James 5:15): "The prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him." The following citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were also read: "The prayer of faith shall save the sick," says the Scripture. "What is this healing prayer?" The highest prayer is not one of faith merely; it is demonstration. Such prayer heals sickness, and must destroy sin and death. Only as we rise above all material selfishness and sin, can we reach the heaven-born aspiration and spiritual consciousness, which is indicated in the Lord's Prayer and which instantaneously heals the sick. Sickness, sin and death, being in harmonious, do not originate with God, nor belong to His government.

Not too Big to Advertise

The famous Liberty Bell, carefully guarded from the desecrating hand of the curious, and housed in the building from whose belfry it rang out the tidings of the birth of a new nation, is one of Philadelphia's most prized relics of Colonial days.

Every child who ever went to school long enough to study history knows about these historic possessions, and that they may be seen only by visiting Philadelphia. Yet the city of Philadelphia is buying space in the big papers of the country to advertise them.

Your store may have been in its present location for years—the same name may still appear above the door. Hundreds of thousands may know all these things—BUT if you are not advertising, creating a desire on the part of these hundreds or thousands to come to your store you are losing.
