Ranger Puts On Splendid Program Here

Officials Are Well Pleased With Attendance On Four Nights of Exhibition.

Pronounced by far the best exhibition yet held, the Eastland county fair, which opened here Wednesday morning, closed at 11:00 o'clock last night with the conclusion of a splendid program put on by the Ranger chamber of commerce.

While the crowds during the day were never large, those on the grounds for the night program, increased with each night. It was estimated that an average of 4,000 people attended each night.

The fair committee members expressed themselves as well pleased with the fair and with the attendance. The merchants of the city, many of whom donated the use of their windows for display booths, also are well pleased with the fair. Those in charge of the fair just closed have already begun discussing plans for next fall's fair.

In Maryland "Triangle" Shooting

The mother of ten children, Mrs. Lulu Mae Gamble (right), 45, has admitted in court at La Plata, Md., that she fired the bullet which critically wounded 22-year-old Mrs. Elsie Davis (left) of Washington. Mrs. Gamble told authorities that she trailed her husband, Joe Gamble, (center), a farmer, and Mrs. Davis, and shot the younger woman as she sat with Gamble in an automobile. Mrs. Davis was reported to be in a serious condition at the Providence Hospital of Washington.

COLEMAN, Tex., Sept. 27.—In an effort to ascertain its exact production, the newest wildcat oil well in this county, the Taylor Small, Willmont No. 1, west of the city limits, has been placed on pump.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 26.—The Bate Petroleum Company's No. 2 Burnett well has encountered a new and deeper oil-bearing sand at 3,805 feet. The new strata is hailed as the most significant development for many months in the Pettus district. If the new sand proves production, deeper drilling is expected to become general in this section of the country.

TAYLOR, Tex., Sept. 26.—Despite the lack of water which had held drilling to a minimum this week, two new wells registered in at Chapman field. The Patton Production Company's No. 1 well blew in for an estimated daily production of 600 barrels. The E. L. Chapman well on the middle of the J. C. Abbott strip came in making 20 barrels of 27 gravity oil a day, by heads.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Sept. 26.—Seltz Comery's Seltz No. 1 Will McKeelham southwest of Throckmorton, opened up a new field here this week when the wildcat made 45 barrels from a sand of only 725 feet.

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Sept. 27.—Only five wells were completed in three counties good for 1,812 barrels last week in the Permian basin, as compared with eleven well rating 2,275 barrels the week before.

Loving county added two wells good for 1,152 barrels, Crane county one for 554 barrels, and Howard county two for 106 barrels. Pecos, Taylor, Ward and Winkler counties abandoned one dry hole each.

tacular offensive played for the Mavericks but George Stathis ran him a close second for ground gaining honors. On defensive play Allen, captain and fullback, showed up to advantage, breaking up play after play for the Lobos. The game was featured by many penalties, most of which went in favor of the Mavericks. Massengale of Cisco and Foster of Eastland were put out of the game by the officials during the encounter. The Mavericks seemed to lose much of their fighting spirit after Foster was taken from the game and from that time on to the end of the game they did not show up as well as they did earlier in the encounter. The starting lineup for the two teams were: Eastland: Taylor, le; McGee, lt; Manck, lg; Pentecost, c; B. Smith, rg; Daniel, rh; Foster, re; Clark, q; Stathis, lh; Reaser, rh; Allen, f. Cisco: Massengale, le; Wagner, lt; Steen, lg; Ray, c; Black, rg; Cole, rt; Van Horn, re; Trickett, q; Joeter, lh; Yeager, rh; Connell, f.

Cardinals Win Pennant In The National League

By LELAND J. CHESLEY United Press Staff Correspondent ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27.—The St. Louis Cardinals were National League champions today as a result of the greatest pennant dash since that of the Boston Braves in 1914. By defeating Pittsburgh here yesterday, 10 to 5, the Cardinals clinched their third pennant in five seasons and culminated a drive for the flag which only got under way on August first, and did not assume spectacular power until 20 days later.

Crosses Pacific In Tiny Boat

From the United States to the Marquesas Islands, 3000 miles in a 26-foot boat, is the feat of E. Garland Swain (above) of Whittier, Calif., and his navigator, Fred B. Hume. They went 43 days without sighting land, battled storms and lived for days on sugar and coconuts after the burning tropic sun had spoiled their other provisions. Swain is pictured here as he arrived back in Los Angeles; Hume remained in Hawaii, whence the pair sailed from the Marquesas. The map shows the location.

Olden Team Plays First Grid Game

The Olden football team made a very promising first appearance Thursday when it met Cisco West Ward. Uniforms had just been received by Olden and the team immediately matched a game and put up a strong fight but lost, 13 to 0. The game was very interesting and was the first time any of the Olden lads had ever played football. Olden fans turned out in large numbers and were enthusiastic. The band played and the pep squad did good work with cheers throughout the game and excellent formations on the field between halves. Tommie Dickens is the coach. Other games will be scheduled.

"I Only Wish I Had Taken Konjola Sooner"

Galveston Contractor Soon Relieved of Rheumatism And Kidney Trouble—Eager In Praise.

"Rheumatism and kidney trouble kept me in constant misery for two years," said Mr. Joe Gonzalez, 90 Eighteenth street, Galveston. "The rheumatism centered in my arms and legs and the pains in my arms and hands were frightful. I could not close my hands at times and my hips and lower limbs were in such condition that I could not walk. My kidneys were terribly weak and frequent bladder actions rubbed me of sleep at night. I always had a dull pain across the small of my back. A friend suggested this new medicine and I only wish I had taken Konjola sooner. The results have been wonderful and I feel like a new person. The pains in my shoulders and arms have disappeared and I can walk about without discomfort. I get about as I formerly did and my kidneys are again in normal condition. My appetite has increased and my general health has vastly improved. Konjola is recommended for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

To Make Third Try At Endurance Hop

GLENDALE, Calif., Sept. 27.—Loren Mendell and R. B. Reinhart prepared today for their third attempt to recapture the world air endurance record formerly held by them. The monoplane "Pride of Hollywood" was forced down last night after 27 hours and 15 minutes in the air when fabric on the right wing blew off, ending their second attempt. The first flight ended after nine hours through failure of the refueling plane to leave the ground.

memory Returns springtime in Bradenton. The Athletics were playing the finals. On the slab for the day was a young left-hander named Bill Hallahan. I sat on the bench with Gaby Street, who was having his first experience as manager of the Cards. The conversation was something like this: "How is this Hallahan?" "Good pitcher, lot of stuff, and he gets better as he goes on." "Pretty wild, though, isn't he?" "I'd around and watch him a while and you'll see how wild he is. He's fast ball!" "He's fast ball!" Yes, and nice getting else. All he needs is a confidence. He'll get that as he goes along. I told him the other day he was a good pitcher. And he was going to do plenty for Cards and for himself this year. I told him he was going to stay in the nine innings and pitch his ball game. And he'll do it.

DID YOU KNOW THAT— PROFESSOR WALTER B. PITKIN of Columbia University has written a book, "The Psychology of Achievement," in which he declares Babe Ruth's baseball achievements are due to "an amazing basal metabolism." In explanation, the professor says, "The Babe, for many years, has eaten about 10 meals a day, and his radiant heat is so intense that he cannot wear even the lightest underwear on the coldest day in winter." . . . and we had been thinking all this time that Babe never ate more than nine meals per diem! . . . if the Babe gets his home runs by eating 10 meals a day, I wonder how they ever manage to keep Hack Wilson fed up . . . and Hack must be so hot that his baseball uniform is likely to burst into flames any day now.

held by Madison Square Garden as a result of the abandonment of his scheduled heavyweight bout with Vittorio Campolo. Guaranteed $100,000 to meet Campolo, Sharkey was forced to accept $5,000 to cover his training expenses, but has obtained a release from his contract with the Garden and is now free to sign with any promoter. The Sharkey-Campolo bout was scheduled for Yankee Stadium Thursday night, but postponed to October 3 in the Garden because of rain. Campolo, however, refused to accept a week's postponement unless his guarantee was raised from $7,500 to $20,000. The Garden's refusal resulted in Campolo withdrawing from the match, and announcing he would return to Argentina next month, perhaps never to return to this country.

Gelgrig, Simmons Run Nip And Tuck For Swat Honors

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Lou Gelgrig, New York Yankees' first baseman, and Al Simmons, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, are running a nip and tuck race for the American League batting leadership, according to the United Press averages released today and including games of Thursday, September 25. Gelgrig held the lead through Thursday's games with an average of .381 to Simmons' .379 but lost it on Friday when he went hitless and the Philadelphia player made two hits in four times at bat. Simmons' batting average up to date is .3793 and Gelgrig's .3745. Two games each to play, the competition promises to last through the last game of the season. Bill Terry, New York Giants' first baseman, seems to have a firm grip on the National League batting crown, enjoying an average of .404. Eleven points higher than Babe Herman, Brooklyn outfielder, who has .393. Bob Greve, Athletics' southpaw, leads the American League pitchers with 28 victories and five defeats for an average of .548. Charles Mitchell, veteran New York Giants, southpaw, leads the National League pitchers with 11 victories for a mark of .786. The New York Giants lead the National League in club batting with an average of .318 and are tied with the Cincinnati Reds for the lead in club fielding with an average of .973. The New York Yankees top the American League in club batting with a mark of .309 and the Philadelphia Athletics lead in club fielding with an average of .975.

Great Pitcher GABBY'S words have been borne out to the letter. The other day in New York, Gaby gave writer Bill Corum an interview in which he repeated his words of the springtime. "I told Hallahan," said Gaby, "I couldn't make him a great pitcher because he was already so good. But I told him that he was going to make me a successful manager."

Coach and Cobb BASEBALL managers are of two schools. Some are graduated to the degree of Doctor of Baseball. Others leave school with a Bachelor of Bear Stories diploma. Gaby starts talking about baseball in the same breath with Ty Cobb, you know to which of the schools he belongs.

POE SOLD POEM FOR $10; NOW IT BRINGS FORTUNE NEW YORK.—If some of those long dead authors whose works are now universally honored could come back today, they would conclude either that the world's sense of values have been completely upset or that they have been disgracefully cheated of their dues. A magazine discloses the early history of some of the famous manuscripts which recently have sold for fabulous sums to wealthy collectors, and the result is a startling contrast in literary values. For example, the manuscript of Poe's poem, "The Raven," was recently sold for $200,000. But the poet himself sold it for $10 to the American Whig Review, after other publishers had refused it. In fact the poem was held in so little regard that more than a year passed before its writing and publication. But its appearance made the author the outstanding poet of the day. When Edward Fitzgerald translated "The Rubaiyat" in the 1850s he could not find a publisher, although one magazine held the poem for two years rejecting it. Fitzgerald then published it himself. But instead of the $1.25 a copy which he had hoped to get, the price dropped to 2 cents before it began to sell. A first edition was sold in 1929 for $8,000. Stephen Crane borrowed $1,000 to publish his "Maggie" in 1892 after one publisher after another had rejected it. But the published books remained unsold and it was not until "The Red Badge of Courage" made Crane famous that "Maggie" was given any recognition. Yet one first edition recently sold for $5,700. Samuel Johnson got only living expenses out of the seven years he spent compiling his famous dictionary. But last year a single page of definition in his handwriting brought $11,000 at auction. Not all of the earlier authors, however, were as badly treated as their legends have led the public to believe, the article shows. Shakespeare, for example, may have been profligate but he was not necessarily penniless. He received about 10 pounds—the equivalent of $400 today—for each of his plays, and he produced them at the rate of two a year. He also made $800 a year and more as an actor during most of his active career. Charlotte Bronte wrote "Jane Eyre" under the masculine pen name of Cooper Bell in 1846. The book soon achieved wide popularity and Miss Bronte received 500 pounds for it, probably around $5,000 in today's monetary values. Even back in 1807 John Milton and his family received more than $300 for "Paradise Lost." But a copy of the first edition at a recent sale brought $2,000.
