Ferguson Again Hits Sterling's Road Bond Plan

COLORADO, Tex., Aug. 15.—Posing as the "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Texas politics, the candidate of the common people, James E. Ferguson renewed his fusillade of verbal shots at Ross Sterling's bond issue in shortest address of the campaign here last night.

Referring to the Oklahoma nominations of William H. Murray as governor and Thomas P. Gore as senator, Ferguson declared that they were opposed by multimillionaire oil men like Ross Sterling. They were trying to buy the senatorship and governorship, but they were put in discard as you will do August 23 for you are still honest and you can't be bought.

Sterling was branded as a moral and political coward unless he came out clearly and strongly on the bond issue by Friday night.

"Every man on the stump defending the bond issue is a political coward," Ferguson charged. "Among the Baptists" and other Christians who believe in the forgiveness of sins have been insulted by Dan Moody's refusal to grant paroles to convicts who deserved them, the speaker said. Once again Ferguson doves his denunciations of the penitentiary problems of the state, promising a businesslike solution of them.

Ferguson opposes the suggested location of the penitentiary near Austin because "I object to placing the poor convicts near the legislature."

Among the speakers who preceded Ferguson were county judge Horace Holley of Snyder and H. H. Barron of Lamesa. Holley attacked Dan Moody's plan of making all offices appointive save those of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, and attorney general. Barron, referring to Moody as "a simple-headed boy," lambasted the "rule or ruin" policies of Moody, Sterling and Tom Love.

"Texas Jim, of and for Texas" was the introduction accorded Ferguson by C. E. Way, Colorado farmer, who characterized him as the champion of Texas rights for 25 years, a defender of the common people, and the best friend the rural schools ever had.

Ferguson predicts 75 per cent of the votes as his wife's share of the political pie that is West Texas.

Patsy Tells Patrick She Will Wait Outside The Pen

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 16.—A girl named Patsy has abundant faith in the future. She, it was, who begged Patrick Dugan to confess he helped two other men holdup a drug store here, Patrick told police. He said she asked him to confess and serve his term of 9 to 14 years in prison so they could get married. "She promised she'd wait for me," Patrick added.

Sterling Winds Up Campaign In Plains Country

LAMESA, Tex., Aug. 15.—Winding up his campaign through the plains country, Ross Sterling made his final speech here this morning before dropping from the cap rock to carry his "Honesty in Government" battlecry east.

Enlistment rolls of the Sterling camp were considerably larger today as Sterling left the western plains. Potter and Lubbock counties, the most populous district of the plains were conceded to Sterling by Mayor E. O. Thompson of Amarillo and former state senator W. H. Bledsoe.

Speaking five and six times a day, Sterling was beginning to show signs of fatigue Thursday night, and although his address at Lubbock was short, shouts of approval were common in his audience of more than 3,000. Heckling only served to make the program spicier when Senator Walter Woodward employed Ferguson's biting sarcasm to ensure the silence of a Lubbock disturber.

Jim Ferguson is not only hiding behind his wife's skirts but behind the libel laws of Texas as well, Woodward charged in branding Ferguson's refusal to meet Sterling in the opened columns of Texas newspapers as "cowardly."

Woodward's charge follows a statement two days ago by Ross Sterling giving newspaper permission to publish in full Ferguson's claims about him without fear of libel law action.

"He dared of Jim to do the same, but he has been running around over the state ever since as silent as a tomb," Woodward declared. "He hasn't the nerve to accept the challenge." Woodward's words were bitter and caustic as he urged Sterling to accept the challenge and set the hell out of the Ferguson's.

Reading from an article which gave the prison pardon record of "Ma," Woodward declared that during Mrs. Ferguson's last 29 days in office she granted full, unconditional pardons to 124 robbers, 127 liquor law violators, 133 murderers and 39 rapists. During her last three days in office she granted clemency in 160 cases, Woodward charged.

CLEBURNE, Tex., Aug. 15.—Bitter and biting was the call to arms against a "return to Fergusonism" issued to Texas voters by Gov. Dan Moody in his two addresses Thursday. Ears of political-minded citizens in Cleburne and area were straining to hear and address which Moody's hearers said were the severest in the campaign history of the young governor.

Forgetting for the moment the phraseology of the courthouse and statutes, Moody tore page after page from history new and old of Jim Ferguson, and held them up to his audience.

"Amen's" were frequent at his speeches yesterday, which occasionally bore the semblance of a religious revival. "Don't forget to tell them about Ferguson denouncing the preachers," suggested a voice from his audience.

"Why should I just tell about old Jim cussing the preachers," rejoined Moody, "when he's abusing about all the there is of good in the world at one time or another? He said the democratic party didn't have the decency of a polecat. He's cussed out the women and preachers lots of time and everything else that was worth while and wholesome."

"He's carrying the banner of righteousness and victory. Old Jim was strutting around high and handsome, a regular cock of the walk, until a day or so ago, but he wilted and is on the defensive again. We've got to put the bubbles on him by just refreshing the memory of the people."

Aged Man Is Put To Death In Ark.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 15.—William H. Howell, 63-year-old triple slayer, was electrocuted at the state penitentiary here today, the first white man the state had put to death in six years.

Youthful Flier Hops Off Again

Plane Crashes Through Gas Tank

Chicago firemen are shown here as they searched for the bodies of Orville Suchy, airplane pilot, and two girl passengers who were killed when their plane became unmanageable in a storm and plunged into a storage tank at a gas plant. The plane tore this big hole in the top of the tank.

R-100 Is Making Good Headway On Homeward Trip

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The air ministry received a message late today that the steamer Cameron, reported the R-100 seventy miles south southwest of 53-58-north, 27-07-west, at 8:11 o'clock (G.M.T.) 10:11 a. m. (E.S.T.)

This position would put the airship almost 700 miles southwest of Eris Head, Ireland. Atmospherics were very bad, the ministry announced.

ABOARD THE DIRIGIBLE R-100 Aug. 15.—The dirigible R-100 encountering less favorable weather conditions than on the early stages of the return flight to England, made steady progress today over the rain-spattered Atlantic ocean.

Holding steadily to its course along the 53rd parallel, the trans-Atlantic ship was handicapped by clouds and rain in its effort to set a new speed mark across the ocean and was forced to cut its fast pace to about 50 miles an hour.

Any tension that might have developed on board the ship was broken by newspapermen who were anxious to show the crews that they had found their "air legs."

They volunteered to pump petrol and were hard at work when an angry officer appeared and demanded to know why they were pumping the precious fuel into the Atlantic ocean. Fortunately, only a few gallons of the petrol were lost before the mistake was discovered.

Hope was still held, that the dirigible would be able to speed up to around 90 miles an hour and reach Cardington late Friday night or early Saturday.

The flight has been filled with interesting events for guests aboard the ship. While newspapermen were hard at work at their typewriters late yesterday afternoon the R-100 passed near a number of large icebergs.

An experiment in obtaining the ship's water supply from clouds proved successful during the early part of the flight over the Atlantic. The clouds condense on the envelope by the airship and the water is collected at the rear end by means of a trough.

Sterling Forces To Hold Rally Sat. At Ranger

ROSS Sterling of Houston, candidate for governor, and senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, who is to speak in the interest of the pardon plan, will be the principal speakers at a county-wide rally for Sterling at Ranger Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock.

Loudspeakers will be installed on the outdoor platform and seats will be arranged for everyone desiring them. Also arrangements are to be made so that many people may sit in their automobiles and hear the speaking.

Three bands will furnish music for the occasion, giving a free concert preceding the speaking.

Women Organize Sterling Club

An enthusiastic group of women—about fifty in number—gathered in the 91st district courtroom on Thursday afternoon for the purpose of organizing an Eastland Sterling-for-Governor Club among the ladies.

Mrs. W. E. Staller and Mrs. Earle Johnson, as co-chairmen, called the meeting to order and briefly outlined its purposes. Mrs. Carl Springer was elected secretary for the club.

The following program was then given: Mr. Sterling's platform—John Turner.

Why the Women Should Organize for Sterling—Mrs. M. H. Hagaman, Ranger.

A Business Man's Viewpoint of This Campaign—George Brogden, Moral Phases of This Campaign—Mr. Pierson of Ranger.

The ladies decided to meet again at 4:00 p. m. next Tuesday, at the same place.

Mexican Chokes His Wife To Death

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 15.—"She threatened to go away with another man, so I choked her to death."

At police headquarters today, Tom Pascoe, 28, Mexican, told how during the night he killed his 23-year-old wife as their two children slept in the same room in their home.

Police learned of the killing shortly before midnight when Pascoe called them on the telephone. "Come out here and get me," he said, "I've killed my wife."

A murder charge was filed against him today.

Shoots Self

PALESTINE, Tex., Aug. 15.—Placing the end of a shotgun barrel in his mouth, Willie Gambrell, 38, blew off the top of his head at his farm home 18 miles north of here yesterday.

Ferguson Rally Speakers Reply To Opponents

Eastland county supporters of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's candidacy for the democratic nomination as governor listened attentively for more than three hours here last night to speakers answer the accusations made against Mrs. Ferguson and her husband, former governor James E. Ferguson, at a Sterling rally at the same place just one week ago. The crowd, which was equally as large if not larger than the one that heard the Sterling campaigners, was more enthusiastic and more frequently applauded the speakers than did the Sterling audience.

Judge R. N. Grisham, an ardent prohibitionist and a man who has never before supported the Ferguson's, was master of ceremonies and the first speaker. The meeting was of the nature of a county-wide rally. Fully 750 people were in attendance. The speakers included Gen. Sanderford, Eastland; J. D. Barker, Cisco; Jake Aford, Rising Star; Joe Parker, Gorman; Judge Powell, Eastland; and Frank Judkins, Eastland.

Judge Grisham in the course of his short address said that there were too many personalities in this campaign. He recalled that the same character of fight that is being made against the Ferguson's was made against Hubbard, Coke and Hogg, when they were campaigning for the Texas governorship. In discussing Sterling's road bond plans Grisham said that the $350,000,000 bond issue Sterling advocated was more than the national debt should be. At times like these when graft is prevalent and taxes hard to pay, the people should be very careful about adding anything to their tax burdens," Grisham said. The speaker also recalled that the Woodrow Wilson administration was charged with some of the same administration by proxy. "As to Moodyism or Fergusonism, give us Fergusonism," the speaker said.

Sanderford, who was private secretary for Mrs. Ferguson during her term as governor, defended Mrs. Ferguson's pardon record, paying special attention to the Marshall Rattiff pardon and other pardons discussed by speakers at the Sterling rally here. Sanderford produced records, including a certificate from the secretary of state, Ferguson's pardon record, and a list of names, which included those of B. W. Patterson, one of the Sterling rally speakers, and E. E. Jettford, Cisco policeman killed by Rattiff and his

Band Concert To Open Community Night Program

The Eastland Booster Band will give a concert this evening, beginning at 7:45, on the north side of the county courthouse preceding the Community Night program.

Director Campbell of the band stated today that a number of southern melodies and war time tunes rendered last week would be given again tonight by request.

The program for Community night, it is stated, is a good one, having many splendid new features.

Proration Order For Various Oil Fields Of Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 15.—The assignment of oil production to various sections of the state under a proration order issued by the State Railroad Commission, effective Aug. 27, will be:

Panhandle, including Gray, Hutchinson, Moore, Carson, Potter, and Wheeler counties, 80,000 barrels.

North Central Texas, including Archer, Baylor, Clay, Cook, Foard, Montague, Wichita and Wilbarger counties, 69,000 barrels.

West Central Texas, including Brown, Callahan, Comanche, Coleman, Eastland, Jack, Palo Pinto, Erath, Shackelford, Stephens, Throckmorton, Young, Haskell and Runtels counties, 52,000 barrels.

West Texas, including Crane, Upton, Crockett, Ector, Mitchell, Garza, Howard, Willsacoc, Jones, Reagan, Winkler, Pecos, Ward, and Fisher counties, 276,350 barrels.

Dr. George Butte May Make Race For Governorship

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 15.—Dr. George C. Butte, who received almost 300,000 votes in 1924 against Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, will make the race as the Republican nominee for governor again, it was practically decided at Brownsville by the state Republican executive committee Monday, according to Heber Page, Dallas member of the Republican committee.

Butte won the Republican nomination by a majority over three candidates in the primary July 23, when less than 10,000 votes were cast. Donbt was expressed at that time, however, as to whether Butte would accept and whether he would be willing to make the race again.

Little Hope For Trapped Miners

PRINCETON, B. C., Aug. 15.—Crews of exhausted, determined miners were still fighting after damp and hacking away at tons of debris in the wrecked Coalmont mine today in a dogged but apparently hopeless effort to rescue their 47 fellow workmen who were entombed by the explosion Wednesday night.

Not for a minute, since the disaster, has the rescue work ceased, although all officials have given up hope for the trapped men.

Second Party May Die From Gunshot Wounds

SLAYER Turns Gun On Self and Is Seriously Wounded. Is Not Expected to Recover.

SPRINGTOWN, Tex., Aug. 15.—One man was dead today and a second seriously wounded as the result of an affray growing out of a quarrel at a party near here last night.

A man known as "Little Dick" Hinkle died early today from the loss of blood incurred by a gunshot wound in the leg.

Officers went to the home of Jop Woody this morning to arrest him in connection with the affair. He resisted and offered to shoot it out with them. On their approach he turned his revolver on himself and inflicted a critical wound in his chest. He was not expected to recover.

The man had been drinking, officers were informed.

Cotton Crop Is Losing Ground Survey Shows

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 15.—Excessive temperatures with highs of 108 to 112 degrees in places and negligible rainfall during the past week caused the Texas cotton crop to enter a critical stage, the Dallas News said today in its weekly crop survey.

Shedding is increasing rapidly on the lighter upland soils, many bolls cracking open and plants on the whole not making new fruit, the report continued. The better black lands, however, were said to be not suffering appreciably.

"A general frosty and well-depreciation was indicated as increasing by the News, which said: 'Leafworms are becoming general throughout the state and doing appreciable damage in the eastern counties favored by local light showers, which have been of no benefit to the crop.'

Bollworms also are appearing, but weevils are stopped largely but still present over sufficiently wide areas to constitute a menace if rains set in.

"A general frosty and well-depreciation was indicated as increasing by the News, which said: 'Leafworms are becoming general throughout the state and doing appreciable damage in the eastern counties favored by local light showers, which have been of no benefit to the crop.'

Picking is about half finished in South Texas, fairly general in Central Texas and started in the upper third of the state, with few counties in Northwest Texas starting picking where the fierce heat is opening the bolls prematurely."

Deaf Mute Is Shot And Killed By Bandit

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 15.—A deaf mute gave his life frustrating an attempted holdup here today. Vincent Weber, 30, employee of a bottling company routed two bandits and saved the company $3,500. He was shot through the heart by one of the bandits with which he grappled.

The bandits fled to a motor car and were driven away by a third member of the band.

Walking past the entrance to the office of the company early today, Weber saw a short fat man with a revolver guarding the door. The bandit ordered the deaf mute to put up his hands. Instead, Weber hurled himself on the bandit.

While Weber grappled with the robber, women clerks locked the safe in the office, thus securing the money.

Silver Lining for Economic Clouds

Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri is touring the continent of Europe. He was invited by high officials in the city of Berlin to speak over the German radio. He accepted and said that neither the American nor European political or economic situation was "as black as it seems." As for the economic depression in the United States, he described it as a "passing phase, much exaggerated in the press, and bound to return to normal soon."

He said it was true that speculators lost money in the decline of stock prices but insisted that American stocks today are priced at their probable true value. As for America's industrial condition, he asserted it was on the way to recovery but suffering from artificial barriers erected by the government in the channels of trade.

Reed of Missouri isn't a pacifist. He isn't an alarmist. He is a very brainy man. He realizes there is a period of reconstruction and that the silver linings to the economic clouds are visible everywhere to the naked eye.

Texas Ranks Second among the 48 states in the number of airports and landing fields, having a total of 115. Forty-six are municipal, 15 commercial, 35 auxiliary, 15 army and four intermediate or emergency landing fields. Texas leads all states in the number of auxiliary fields with 35, and also in the number of army airfields, having 15 of them. Texas also stands second in the number of municipal airports, with 46. Yes, "why not make Texas first?"

TEXAS REPUBLICANS READY FOR BATTLE

Dr. George C. Butte is on the Texas firing line. He is the gentleman who ran a remarkable political race in 1924. He is the gentleman who made Texas a two-party state. He is the gentleman who has held high positions under two republican presidents. He is the gentleman who is the republican nominee for governor of Texas.

He came all the way from Washington to Brownsville to attend the meeting of the state committee of his party. He made a speech. This is an excerpt: "The republican party in Texas always stood for honesty and decency and for the best interests of the people."

Harry H. Haines, republican candidate for governor in 1926, said "Texas is a two-party state in emergencies, and this emergency has arisen now and we are going to step into the breach."

Leaders built up Haines voiced the prediction that the Texas democrats would "do some fool things between now and the election which will elect a republican governor." Unless all the political signs are misleading, there is reason to be merry about it.

In 1928 Texas republicans cast and had counted 120,000 votes for the state nominees of their party headed by T. M. Kennedy of Houston, their candidate for United States senator. According to the estimates made at the time, 237,000 democrats voted for the Hoover and Curtis electors.

In 1928 Texas was a republican state. It was counted in the republican column of states. They say the fool democrats will do something to make possible the election of a republican governor in November.

THE COME BACK

Ferguson Rally

gang at the Cisco bank robbery, as among those citizens of Cisco who were active in the move to get Mrs. Ferguson to pardon Marshall and Lee Ratliff.

Sanderford read a letter, which he stated was written and signed by W. C. Bedford of Desdemona, a brother of the late (Bit) Bedford in which Bedford stated that he was voting for Mrs. Ferguson and that he did not hold the Ferguson in any way responsible for the death of his brother since he knew of his own knowledge that his brother was active in the movement to get the Ratliffs pardoned. Sanderford also stated that when Governor Moody came into office he looked over the pardons Mrs. Ferguson had granted, which included conditional pardons for Lee and Marshall Ratliff; that Moody revoked the pardon of Lee Ratliff, but did not revoke the pardon of Marshall and that his actions in so doing could be nothing but an approval of the pardon.

Judge Barker said that when the voters at the first primary showed Sterling just how unpopular his $350,000,000 bond plank was the old line politicians of the state, who were supporting Sterling, became alarmed and called a meeting at Dallas to consider what to do. Then it was, the speaker said, that Dan Moody came forward with the suggestion that they make the issue Fergusonism.

Jake Alford told his hearers that, in his opinion, the big oil companies were opposed to the Fergusonism and said that he had evidence to support his opinion. Judge Powell reviewed the records of both Ferguson and Moody and said there was no comparison between the two; that Ferguson and his wife were responsible for much good legislation that is now the law of the land and Moody was not.

Joe Parker, in a short talk, urged the voters to support Mrs. Ferguson as the best qualified of the two candidates for the position of governor.

Frank Jenkins, in the longest speech of the evening, reviewed Ferguson's record and said that when they said they opposed Fergusonism they were opposing the things that meant much to the common people of Texas. Referring to the speakers at the Sterling rally here a week ago, the speaker said they were all rich men and that many, if not all of them, were not in sympathy with the common people who toiled with their hands for a living. "They holler about what you shall drink. That crowd that is backing Ross Sterling's campaign don't care what you drink, or whether you drink at all or not, they only want you to fuss and fight among yourselves about such things so they can get what they want. I want to tell you that the question of whether you are going to drink is not near so important now as what we are going to eat," Jenkins said.

WOODMEN CIRCLE MEMBERS ENTERTAIN

Members of the Woodmen Circle entertained last evening at 8:00 o'clock in the Woodmen Hall with a "42" party. Mrs. Elsie Stokes was awarded first prize, which was six iced tea glasses. Miss Viola Kimbrough of Ranger was awarded second prize, a crystal vase.

At close of game delicious refreshments of sandwiches and iced tea were served. Twelve guests were present from Ranger. About 25 were present from Eastland.

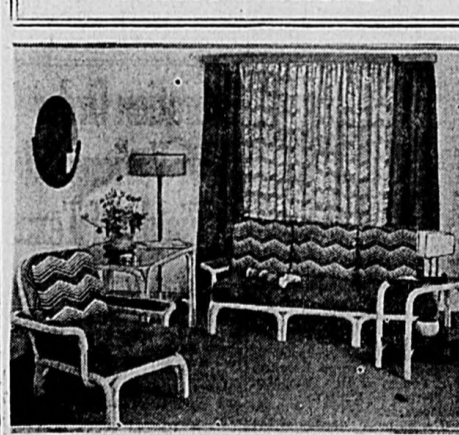

Wife, Thought Dead, Reappears After Husband's Wedding

SPRINGFIELD, Vt., Aug. 15.—George J. Packard arrived here today with his bride of a month, prepared to help solve the puzzle of the reappearance of his first wife a year after she was believed to have committed suicide.

Meantime authorities were informed that Robert A. (Romeo) King of Manchester, N. H., wanted for questioning in connection with the mystery had been arrested in Concord, N. H., today. Investigators had expressed belief that King, described as an admirer of Mrs. Packard, might be able to aid in solving the puzzle of her reappearance.

Packard, under preliminary questioning by state attorney Lawrence C. Edgerston and state detective Edwin C. Brown, declared there had been no doubt in his mind that the body of the young woman buried at Chester, eight miles from here was that of his wife, Catherine, 22.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Matching Curtains and Upholstery

A CHARMING modern living room shown in a recent interior decoration exhibit is characteristic of one of the newest styles for home furnishing in that it stresses the ensemble idea and does it very delightfully. Just as women's styles have developed the idea of planning the whole costume in harmony, so the carefully planned room, particularly one in the modern taste, is now showing a tendency to have its walls, furniture and curtains considered as part of one artistic whole. In the picture is shown a room designed by Donald Deskey complete as to furniture, upholstery and curtains, in the ensemble manner. The printed linen back cushions of the furniture are done in elegant and natural and possess the same tone and design as the printed sheer rayon tulle inner curtains. And the seat cushions of elegant linen ensemble perfectly with the crinkled rayon re over-drapes in a darker and contrasting hue. The walls in this case are neu-

Family Menu

BY SISTER MARY NEA Service Writer

DURING the summer months, the cook will find it much easier to serve her "main dish" as a salad than in any other form.

She can keep her kitchen cool during the heat of the day, since no fire is needed for prolonged cooking. The salad materials must all be prepared ready for mixing some time before they will be needed so the salad can be finally served at a minute's notice.

Hearty salads are particularly welcome for hot weather luncheons. On a hot noon we are decidedly grateful for the cooling freshness of both the looks and taste of a dish that furnishes our needed calories as well as our mineral salts and vitamins.

If luncheon must be a "movable" meal to suit different members of a family, individual salads can be prepared and wanted with very little trouble and there's no cause for worry over dishes "spilling" from standing.

Carrots Janes Veal Potatoes, tomatoes and cucumbers are old salad favorites, but green beans are one of the best vegetables for salads. They combine excellently with meat, for they are mild in flavor and of contrasting texture. Cold boiled or baked ham, cold cooked tongue or corned beef all are good with beans.

Carrots are good with veal. The vegetable can be used cooked or raw.

Peas and lamb are delicious together in a salad. A generous sprinkling of minced mint is a worth-while addition.

Daily Menu LUNCHEON—Hearty summer salad, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, apple tapioca pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Roast duck, baked celery and onions, mashed potatoes, orange and grape fruit salad, peach pie, milk, coffee.

Any of these combinations can be served in a tomato soup or plain on a bed of lettuce.

The secret of successful meat and vegetable salad lies in marinating each salad material separately. A bit of onion added to the seasonings in the marinade, mustard and celery seeds, parsley or dill give zest to the finished dish.

Red or purple cabbage makes an attractive and unusual garnish for these salads. The cabbage can be shredded and made into nests for the salad combination or small tender leaves can be used whole.

It is always good in combination with celery and green beans. Canned or fresh. It is suitable for hearty salads in all parts of the country.

United Press Staff Correspondent LAMBERT ST. LOUIS FIELD, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 15.—Five days short of a month in the air, the endurance monoplane, the Greater St. Louis circled monotonously overhead today.

As new hours were added to the retelling endurance record of Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, the prediction of the fliers that they would remain aloft for 1,000 hours became accepted as the real belief of some experienced aviators, rather than a wild hope.

The monoplane had been in continuous flight for 605 hours at 12:11 CST.

As long as the six cylinder Challenger motor continues to drone with its present regularity, Jackson and O'Brien saw contracts that mean money, and a chance to set up a record that should be unbeatable for a long while.

Messages from the endurance plane continued to indicate the motor was functioning well, although eating more gas and oil than earlier in the flight. Jackson and O'Brien remain in good spirits, although undoubtedly weary from remaining in the cramped quarters of their cabin, with only the catwalk about the motor available for a stretch of their legs.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 15.—Joseph Blase, who styles himself a sculptor and artist, may find a job today because he broke an arm off the figure of a saint in St. Michael's Catholic church.

The young man's act of vandalism was halted by the caretaker, who sought to wrench the entire statue down.

"At the police station Blase ran his fingers through his long flowing hair and wept.

"I'm just desperate," he said. "There is no work in my line and I have been unemployed for months. My wife and two small children are without food.

"I planned to damage the figure and then apply for the job of repairing it."

A meeting of the church officers was held. They decided instead of prosecuting Blase they would help him find a job—it may include the task of restoring the figure of the saint.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16.—Traffic officers were happy when the official permission came that they would work without coats—but not for long. The order added that coats and suspenders must go together.

"We aren't used to not wearing suspenders," said one perspiring, squirming policeman. "The revolting and holster is heavy and keeps pulling our pants down. And every time we raise a hand to stop traffic the pants slip a little more.

Bandits Trapped FARMER HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 15.—Farmer vigilantes, trapping four filling station bandits near here early today, shot one to death and captured his three companions.

The dead bandit was identified as Roy Long, son of Charles F. Long, former country road superintendent.

Floyd Frye, of Terre Haute, one of the bandits, was wounded in the leg when Long's companions returned the vigilante fire.

Long's death caused the bandit motor car to careen into a ditch, but the bandits took a stand behind it and fought for several minutes before surrendering.

All were identified as Terre Haute youths. They had just held up the Rawley filling station.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Reiner, Hollywood producer and former New York man, meets Anne Winter, who has come from Tulsa, to seek extra work. Dan is Continental Pictures, and not satisfied with what he is doing.

He gets extra work at Grand Studios, and goes to live with other extras, Mona, Moran and Eva Harley.

Gary Sloan, famous director, called Anne Winter. He gives her a picture. Dan, not Sloan, although he has not yet met her, is quite appreciative. The casting director at United calls Anne up and offers her a chance to be in a musical comedy picture and director Fred Hurst has to dance and sing for her. Hurst promises her a contract with Continental Pictures, who is more disappointed than ever at Continental Pictures, who is living with Collier, who writes a daily column for a string of newspapers. Collier tells her that he is contract with Continental Pictures, and she tells him about her forthcoming screen test. Collier has news about Gary Sloan.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

That about Gary Sloan?" he asked.

understand his wife got her. Collier lit a cigarette, blew toward the ceiling. "I just got today."

reclining in his chair with his eyes half closed and his hands folded and he wanted to know, without looking at Collier, what Sloan was doing to do now. "Marry Sylvia Sloan?"

shuffled. "Search me." Collier said, thoughtfully: "What of a bird is this Sloan, anyway. You know him, don't you?"

sure, I know him. He's a swell guy, all right; he also has a way of keeping his name in the papers."

Shanny Riddle said he had a head."

Collier said, hesitatingly, he supposed that was true. "He's not a snob, Dan. It's that he's got a great opinion of himself. The man's an artist—getting away from it. And he's got all the temperaments that with it Sloan thinks that but a doubt he's the greatest actor in the business, and I'm sure that he isn't."

Collier spoke with a Narcissus and Collier laughed. "Well, you admire yourself plenty," said, "but why so sour? You know him, do you?"

me, but I've seen him, and he is a pain."

But the women go for my boy."

suppose so," Dan said, getting to his feet. "I'm going to Collier watched him go to his office. He said he was for a minute, smoking thoughtfully, until Dan's voice demanded now if he was going to sit up night. And then Paul went to the next few days Dan and Adamson only once. Then it was in the hallway outside of her office, and Adamson, head of the scenario department, nodded shortly and unsmilingly, and went on. The studio was dark and heavy and Dan had never seen him without a cigar in his mouth, save at luncheon.

Rorimer felt a little foolish, remembering his tempestuous outbreak in Adamson's office. Adamson and Gregg, he thought resentfully, probably were discussing him now. Well, Gregg would be an ally. Gregg was all right.

That afternoon Gregg came to see him in his office. He said without preliminary: "I understand you flew off the handle the other day. What's the matter?"

Plenty, Dan assured him, and Gregg gave him a patient smile. Dan wondered how often Gregg's patience "narrowed." He said without preliminary, having Adamson forever to contend with.

"You don't want to act like that, Rorimer. Take it easy. Your stuff's good. I'm not kicking; am I?"

Dan shook his head, and Gregg, sitting down on the edge of his desk, gave him a friendly lecture. At the end of it he put his hand on Dan's shoulder and told him he would do what he could to make things more pleasant.

"By the way, you weren't thinking of trying to go over to some other outfit, were you?"

Rorimer thought: "Adamson's trying to find that out." He said, "As long as I'm under contract here it's entirely up to Continental how long I stay."

Gregg smiled a little sheepishly and departed.

Sometime later there was a telephone call from Martin Collins. The director told Dan he was giving a housewarming in his new home in Beverly Hills. "And you're invited. Bring your own girl, or try to grab one off at the gone, and with whom? Mona knew, of course, but Mona would not tell him—not unless he came out pointblank and asked her. He thought: "Why in thunder are girls like that, anyhow?"

There was nothing more that he cared to say over the telephone, and yet he felt a curious reluctance to hang up and cut himself off from possible further information about Anne Winter. He heard Paul Collier whistling in his shower bath, heard him gasp and cry out as he turned on the cold water.

Rorimer smiled grimly and asked Mona if she and Eva were busy that evening. Mona said no, and he asked her if they wouldn't like to go out some place. Mona said, "Sure; that's a swell idea."

Dan threw open the bathroom door and Collier, who was busy with a bath towel, gave him an inquiring look. "Ain't there no privacy around this joint?" he demanded, and Dan told him to shut up.

"You've got a date this evening," he announced.

"Oh, yeah? What are you, anyway—my social secretary?"

"We're taking Eva and Mona out. Hurry up and clear out of here."

"What's the matter?" Collier grinned. "Was Anne dated up? Better watch your step, my boy. Competition's pretty stiff in this town."

"That's the way I like it," said Rorimer.

"You do!"

Collier rubbed his chin. "Now I've got to shave again," he complained.

They went that evening for a drive that ended at a little roadhouse where strange-sounding Russian dishes were served by waiters in picturesque Russian costumes, and a balalaika orchestra furnished slow and plaintive music. Only one of their tunes was a dance number, and that was a waltz.

"Who suggested this place, anyhow?" Rorimer wanted to know.

"Was it you, Mona?"

"Don't look at me like that," Mona said. "It wasn't me."

Nobody, it turned out, was willing to take the blame. None of them had been there before; it had looked picturesque as they drove past, and by common consent they had gone in.

Mona said, "Gee whiz! I'd like to dance."

"How about you, Eva?" Collier asked, and Eva smiled and nodded.

"Well, listen," Paul said. "I've got an idea. We'll all go down town and go to one of those public dance halls." He grinned and said he knew a "swell place."

Enjoy meeting Collins, and it wouldn't do her any harm either.

That evening he called her, but Mona, who answered the telephone, told him Anne was not in.

"She's busy this evening," Mona informed him, and she added that Anne had tried to reach him to tell him that her screen test had turned out successfully.

"She's going to start rehearsals right away, Dan. They have to learn a lot of dance steps."

"Gee, that's fine!" Dan murmured.

Mona chattered on, singing Anne Winter's praises, but Dan only half heard. . . . Anne was "busy."

That meant, of course, in the language of these girls, that she had an engagement for the evening. Why didn't Mona tell him what she was doing, where she had remarked her indulgent smile and his mind went back to the day they had eaten luncheon together at the Continental lot and Eva's affection for the red-headed Mona had been revealed.

"She's a grand little person, Eva," he said, and when she nodded he said, "I don't blame you for being crazy about her."

And Eva nodded again. "Mona's father and mother are dead," she said presently. "Did you know that?"

"Why, no. That's pretty tough. . . . Anne told me she had some relatives in California—San Diego, I believe she said."

"An aunt and uncle," Eva informed him. "She was living with another aunt in Chicago before she came out here."

Dan said thoughtfully: "You'd never think she had a trouble in the world."

"Well, she's had plenty," Eva's voice was harsh. Dan thought, as he had often thought before, that Eva Harley reminded him of the tragic heroine of an Ibsen play. Eva had known trouble—real trouble. Of that he was sure.

Philadelphia Host To Spanish War Veterans

Main and Associated Groups of Organizations to Enjoin Full Program.

BY UNITED PRESS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Thirty thousand veterans who, 32 years ago flocked to the colors to the battle-cry of "Remember the Maine" took possession of Philadelphia today. It was a peaceful occupation, however, as the city is host to the United Spanish War Veterans here for their annual National Encampment. The convention will last until August 21.

The U. S. V. V. includes all the men and women who served in the war with Spain. There are a score or so of associations representing the various units in which the veterans served and each of these units will have its own reunion here during the week.

These include the United Spanish War Veterans National Auxiliary; the National Commandery, Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American War; Spanish-American War Nurses; Military Order of the Serpent; the National Society; Army of the Philippines; Dewey Congressional Medal Men; Imperial Order of the Dragon; Grand Yamen; Twenty-Seventh U. S. Volunteer Infantry Regimental Association; Survivors Association of the Eleventh Regiment; U. S. Volunteer Cavalry-1901-04 Association; Eighth Army Corps Veteran Association; Military Order of the Lizards; Veterans of the Twelfth Regiment; U. S. Infantry; Sixth Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers Infantry, and the United States Veteran Signal Corps Association.

The government, in recognition of the veterans national encampment, has sent the cruiser Pensacola to take part in the exercises. The dirigible Los Angeles and a fleet of army and navy airplanes also will visit here during the encampment to lend color to the affair. The Philadelphia Navy Yard appropriately bedecked for the encampment, will be open to all veterans and their friends all week.

and a special program will be held there August 19.

The government of Cuba, which won its independence through the heroism and success of the veterans, is represented by a special commission headed by General Francisco de Paula Valiente, who brought the felicitations of President Machado, of the Cuban Republic. The commission came here aboard the Cuban flagship "Cuba," which also brought a unit of veterans who served in the "Army of Liberation," a troop of Cuban cavalry and a naval band. Veterans of all wars, members of patriotic societies and descendants of those associated with the nation's early history have been invited to attend the Encampment and many of them are here to participate in the week's program.

The veterans began arriving here early today and registered at the First Regiment Armory. This afternoon the Encampment Officers, headed by Commander-in-Chief Fred W. Green, will be taken on a cruise around the port of Philadelphia.

Business sessions will open Monday morning at the Elks Auditorium. The first session will be presided over by Major General William G. Price, Jr., chairman of the Reception Committee. A patriotic rally will be held in Independence Hall Monday afternoon. President Hoover and Governor John S. Fisher have been invited to speak at the rally.

Numerous affairs have been arranged by the City of Philadelphia for entertainment of the visiting veterans and their friends.

Rich Peddler Keeps At Work In New Orleans

Paul Mariano Cashes In on Real Estate Holdings But Keeps Push Cart.

By UNITED PRESS
NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—
"That Paul Mariano, he is a good fellow, that one, but why does he work?"
So ask the housewives of the French quarter here, as a sturdy, beaming little man, his face seamed like a smith's apron, calls his wares from door to door.
For Paul Mariano, son of Italy, who is said to be worth $150,000,
daily trudges from door to door, trundling a wheelbarrow piled high with vegetables, and kindling wood salvaged from packing boxes.
A former dealer in olive oils, and once owner of a half dozen buildings in the Vieux Carre, Mariano recently sold all his holdings and invested the proceeds.
But like Eugenie Grandet, he works and saves, works on and saves.
Late at night, revelers emerging from night clubs and studio rendezvous see Paul, demoiisling old barrels and boxes for the wood he sells in small bundles.
Again, of mornings he makes his rounds with the eggs and vegetables gleaned from farmers, returning home with nearly empty market wagons. Buying cheaply, he sells cheaply, and Madame Creole, the great bargainer, waits his coming.
"He does not sell all of his wood," said a rooming house keeper with whom he once lived. "Many a poor family has a fire in winter only because Mariano gives wood to them."
Mariano's mother, too, was a picturesque figure of the Quarter.
After emigrating to New Orleans from Genoa with her husband and tiny Paul, she became the famous "Apple Mary" who sold apples to sailors along the levee.
Middle-aged Paul Mariano—he is the one—tiny but avvy, sagging trousers and faded jumpers, he bargains ably over a dime of okra.
A cheap room on Dauphine street, food, friendly gossip—Paul Mariano, successful merchant, probably will work the rest of his days.

Prince Adept At Painting

By UNITED PRESS
STOCKHOLM, Aug. 16.—A royal Swedish artist in the modernistic manner is Prince Sigvard, second oldest son of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf. Last year the young prince discontinued his studies at the University and enrolled as a student in the Royal Academy of Art in Stockholm.
His first paintings, which attracted much favorable comment, were exhibited at the annual show of the academy and now the versatile prince has entered upon the field of industrial art.
His initial venture was the decorating of a "functionalistic" piano of the new type manufactured by the Lundholm company in Stockholm.
This instrument has a disappearing keyboard and lends itself well to modernistic designs. Greatly pleased with the results, the firm has now asked him to decorate several more pianos. Aside from his facility with the brush,

Hot? How's This For Re-Leaf?

Quite an improvement over the fig leaf that Mother Eve wore in the Garden of Eden is this generous-sized elephant ear leaf from Hawaii. It makes a cool and attractive one-piece bathing suit for the modern Eve shown above, don't you think so?

Prince Sigvard has also shown a fine talent as an amateur actor and also writes verse.

Argue Capital Punishment In British House

Story Told of "Executed" Man Who Lived to Commit Murder Later.

By H. A. PETERS
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Aug. 15.—The case of a man who survived his own execution and lived to commit a murder afterwards, was described recently to a House of Commons committee considering a bill for abolition of capital punishment.
The witness was Sir Simon van der Aa, a Dutchman whose British title was conferred in recognition of his services as secretary of the International Prison Congress in London, 1925. He told of the case, which he said occurred in Italy at the end of the 18th century, and which the executioner aided the "executed" prisoner in order not to lose his job after he had hanged.
"It seems peculiar," Sir Simon said, "that in this case, the man was hanged, but not in a direct way. When the executioner came to take him off, he found the prisoner had lost his senses, but was alive. The executioner gave him money so that he might

To Preserve Soft Fruits—
Some soft fruits like berries keep in better shape if they are spread on a platter or large plate.

Keep them in a cool place, lightly covered with cheesecloth or a wire in a refrigerator, they should be placed in the warmest place.

This season of the year is difficult for the keeping of left-overs.
The first precaution is to buy as little as possible and thus avoid the possibility of having leftovers. It's a good habit to use all left-overs promptly. Cooked vegetables that have been simply dressed with butter for the first meal can appear in a vegetable or combination salad or may be reheated in a cream sauce or "scallop." This changes the dish enough to make it acceptable at the very next meal. Vegetables or meats

Drouth Relief Plans Are Put On Foot At Meet

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—A vast relief organization was in the process of formation today to provide autumn and winter aid for nearly 27,000 drouth suffering farm families.
Speed was the farewell note sounded by President Hoover to the departing governors or representatives of 12 drouth stricken states who worked out with him the details of a national relief program at a White House conference last night.
Immediate action was promised by the state executives in naming the state and county committees which are to form the nucleus of the relief organization.
Each governor who considers a situation requiring emergency relief exists in his state is to appoint a chairman of a state drouth relief committee. Then will follow organization of a committee composed of a banker, Red Cross representative, state agricultural official, railway representatives and farmers.
The governors present at yesterday's conference indicated they would have the state committees ready early next week. Completion of the 250 or more county committees may take longer.
These committees, under the agreement made by Mr. Hoover ilies deprived of support through loss of crops. Other objectives are prevention of unnecessary sacrifice of livestock and protection of public health.

of state or national agencies.
2. Red Cross assistance.
3. Increasing employment.
4. Reduction of railway rates for Beyond this, no matters of pol-when U. S. Weather Bureau of-

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—There

High style and medium price

TURCO-JAP TREATY SEEN

TOKYO, Aug. 16.—A new Turco-Japanese treaty of commerce and navigation will be signed this month, it was understood at the Foreign Office.

The prospective treaty will be superior to the present Turco-Japanese agreement, signed July 31, 1929, and will place relations between the two powers on a permanent basis. The old treaty can be terminated on a six months notice, and always has been regarded as unsatisfactory by Japan.

The Foreign Office last month instructed H. Nebel, counselor of the Japanese Embassy in Istanbul (Constantinople) to negotiate the new agreement direct with the Foreign Office in Ankara. The new treaty will be effective for three years and is drawn up on a principle of equality preventing discriminatory tariff treatment by either signatory.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—This period of heat and drought, which makes city folks wretched, disheartens the farmers and maddens the beasts of the field, is also becoming a silly season in politics.

About the last thing anyone wants to worry about is politics, but politics is showing such a tendency to go haywire that it is impossible to ignore some of the aberrations.

The most astonishing development seems to be the revolt of southern Republican politicians against the official who in the past has always kept southern Republicans politicians politically alive.

Postmaster General Walter P. Brown is the big patronage boss of the big federal pie counter known as the Postoffice Department. Postoffice pie is to the southern Republican politician what marrow is to the marrow bean.

Yet Republicans from nine southern states have gathered at Savannah to make a protest against Brown, which only goes to show what a real heat wave can do for it.

Some of the same group insist that the south is ripe for further Republican victories, indicating that the heat affects some people worse than others.

Another "About Face"

Democrats in the south who voted for Hoover have been acting just as stupid as ever. Five thousand of them in North Carolina are reported to have signed a petition demanding nomination of Al Smith again in 1932 and the only hope for North Carolina seems to be to pray for snow.

Texas has suddenly taken a shine to Ma Ferguson together which is entirely inexplicable until you come to consider the weather. Jim Ferguson, Ma's husband, was such a bum governor that Texas impeached him several years ago. When he died, however, she vindicated Jim and Ma ran the state with Jim's help. State highway contracts, pardons to convicts and one thing and another were investigated during the Ma-Jim regime.

In the recent primary for governor, however, Ma ran 70,000 votes ahead of any candidate. She has a runoff primary ahead of her before it is definitely determined whether heated Texas will bring Ma back into the governor's chair once more so as to vindicate both Ma and Jim at the same time.

Doesn't any candidate has a chance in this weather. One in a southern state ran for senator on a platform which would have given a cow to every farmer in the state. He lost, it's true, by some fluke. But Alfalfa Bill Murray, who won the first Democratic gubernatorial primary in Oklahoma by a two to one majority, and is likely to be the next governor, promises to rent out the governor's mansion and live in a garage in the back yard in case he is elected.

"Seeing Double"

Illinois gazes pop-eyed at the unprecedented spectacle of a woman Republican candidate for the Senate running against a man with pink whiskers. To wit, Ruth Hanna McCormick and James Hamilton Lewis. The candidate with the pink whiskers demands a return of the days when a man could drink and see pink elephants instead of going blind and seeing nothing at all.

Dwellers on the burning prairies of Nebraska thought they were seeing double for awhile when two candidates named George W. Norris were found filed in the Republican senatorial race. The Nye campaign investigating committee is trying to find out whether it was the heat or something less excusable which persuaded Grocer George W. Norris of Broken Bow to mix things up by filing against Senator George W. Norris. Fortunately a supreme court judge who had the benefit of an electric fan kept Grocer Norris off the ballot.

You get away from this year's primaries and elections and you find out that presidential talk is centering on a former partner in the House of Morgan, Dwight W. Morrow. Ten years ago anyone who suggested such a thing would have been created up and sent away.

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., Aug. 16.—Winston Salem had an unusual rain last week. "This is the most perfect rain I have seen in 70 years," W. B. Taylor, veteran tobaccoist declared. He spoke of a three-day drizzle which brought seriously-needed water to damaged tobacco and corn crops. Taylor explained that a heavy rain would have caused severe damage.

How To Profit From Failure

Text: 1 Sam. 9:15-17, 25-27; 10:1-19; 11:1-4.

Now the LORD had told Samuel in his ear a day before Saul came, saying:
To-morrow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him to be captain over my people Israel, that he may save my people out of the hand of the Philistines: for I have looked upon my people, because their cry is come unto me.

And when Samuel saw Saul, the LORD said unto him, Behold, the man whom I sake to thee of this same shall reign over my people.

And when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul upon the top of the house.

And they arose early: and it came to pass about the spring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, saying, Up, that I may send thee away. And Saul arose and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad.

And as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the servant pass on before us, (and he passed on,) but stand thou still a while that I may shew thee the word of God.

Then Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, and kissed him, and said, Is it not because the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over his inheritance?

And the evil spirit from the LORD was upon Saul as he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand: and David played with his hand.

And Saul sought to smite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he slipped away out of Saul's presence, and he smote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and escaped that night.

Saul also sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning: and Michal David's wife told him, saying, If thou save not thy life to-night, to-morrow thou shalt be slain.

Now the Philistines fought against Israel: and the men of Israel fled from before the Philistines, and fell down slain in mount Gilboa.

And the Philistines followed hard upon Saul and upon his sons; and the Philistines slew Jonathan, and Abinadob, and Melchishua, Saul's sons.

And the battle went sore against Saul, and the archers hit him; and he was sore wounded of the archers.

Then said Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy sword, and thrust me through therewith; lest these uncircumcised come and thrust me through, and abuse me. But his armour-bearer would not, for he was sore afraid. Therefore Saul took a sword, and fell upon it.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 17. How to Profit From Failure. 1 Sam. 9:15-17, 25-27; 10:1-19; 11:1-4.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist.

The association of the title of this lesson with Saul, the first king of Israel, reminds us that Saul did not profit from his own failure. Unfortunately that is true of many people. They can see the faults and the failures in the lives of other people, but when it comes to their own experiences there seems to be some strange inability to profit by the own errors.

Personal experience ought to be linked up with the experiences of others, and it is doubtful whether one can ever quite profit from the experiences of others until he attains a certain power of seeing his own life with detachment and learns to avoid again the pitfalls into which he has himself fallen.

Nature Was Kind to Him

Saul came first to our attention as a man of great promise. Nature had given him a great physique so that he towered head and shoulders above all in Israel—an endowment not to be slighted in a day when kingship was still associated with physical prowess and strength. With this, also, nature had given him a due sense of modesty. When the lot in the choice of the king fell upon him he could not be found, but had hidden himself "among the stuff."

The beginning of his rule, also, was auspicious, for when Samuel set him forth before the people as their king the record is that they shouted, "Long live the king." Even in the matter of wisdom and good judgment, Saul seems to have shown very good natural endowment, for when in the midst of this popular acclaim certain disgruntled individuals, described as sons of Belial, murmured and protested against his rule, Saul held perhaps seriously thought of, but bearing a possible implication upon which the imagination seized.

When David with his smooth stone killed Goliath, and the thoughtless women sang in praise of the youth, "Saul has slain his thousands, but David his tens of thousands," it was the sort of thing to lodge in the mind and soul of any man who allows himself to be turned from the contemplation of his task and of his duty to the thought of his personal interest and his personal rewards.

The only security against the overwhelming of this character by circumstance is the giving of character a place above circumstance. When a man is devoted to truth and righteousness and to his dutiful task more than to himself and the praise or blame of rewards that may come to him, he is not only finding the supreme way of life but he is finding the happiest and surest way.

The One Safeguard
The things that poisoned and ruined Saul's life, unfortunately, have their hold on many lives though they are not always deep enough and strong enough to bring about the supreme disaster. The things that sent Saul to degradation and to death are, however, always destructive, and in the measure that they have place in our lives they defeat our highest purposes and career, our character and achievement.

There is none of us so good and so well disciplined that he cannot learn a useful lesson from the failure of Saul, the king.

St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church
August 17th, 1935. Mass at 10 a. m. This is the Tenth Sunday after Pentecost. The gospel is from St. Luke XVIII, 9-14. We see today in the temple at Jerusalem two men, a Pharisee and a Publican. Both are sinners, but with this great difference, that one acknowledges himself a sinner and the other does not. The Pharisee, full of pride and haughtiness, looks upon the good he does with God, but his sins he overlooks altogether. The publican is humble of heart, acknowledges his sinful state, and ardently desires to be freed from his sins. Full of contrition and sorrow he says: "O God be merciful to me a sinner. God is pleased with his humility and contrition and forgives his sins, whilst he dismisses the proud Pharisee without pardon. This man went down to his house justified rather than the other, which of us does not wish with the publican to be in grace with God and to be justified? Justification is one of the most necessary graces; without it no one can please God and be saved. But it is also a grace which is imparted to those who, like the publican, are truly humble and penitent. Let us act like the publican mentioned in today's gospel.

ted lines, with or without belts. There is no denying the appeal of double as well as single breasted treatments, in novel or the more usual effects, and also of the zig-zag and scalloped edges. Monotone linens have proved the general preference, yet as to color appears to be no general rule. Pastels and white have made strong claims to fame in costumes which introduce contrast either through the jacket or the blouse.

Recalling a regatta at which some striking and fresh effects were attained, special significance attaches to white for the jacket and shirt, and color for a printed or plain blouse. The combination of white skirt and blouse and navy jacket has also been outstanding, the dark blue set off to striking effect by white.

Washington Letter

WASHINGTON.—The way things look now, there will be a wet Democratic candidate for president in 1932 and he will be Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

Hardly anyone doubts that Roosevelt will be re-elected governor and if his health turns out to be all right most Democrats agree that he will be nominated by the next Democratic convention.

Roosevelt's strongest assets are his ability to retain the governorship as a Democrat and the fact that there is no one else in the party who shapes up as a strong available candidate.

Although Roosevelt has a nice personality and is well liked in the party, it is commonly agreed that he is not quite a statesman of the caliber of his predecessor, Governor Al Smith.

On the other hand, Roosevelt is a Protestant and he will not be under the serious religious handicap which is supposed to have cost Smith millions of votes in the 1928 election.

Has Many Advantages
He will have the benefit, assuming that the Republicans renominate Hoover or choose another dry, of such recrudescence of wet sentiment as there may be in the 1928-1932 period. Roosevelt will not be wringing wet, but he certainly will be "moist."

He can capitalize the unpopularity of the Hoover administration, assuming that it persists, and is not likely to have to contend with extravagant Republican prosperity claims such as damaged Smith two years ago.

Although there have lately been some odorous scandals involving Tammany judges in New York City, Roosevelt is not a Tammany product, as Smith was, and he has not been so closely identified with Tammany as to enable his opponents to damage him seriously by pointing to such scandals.

Thus many Democrats as they dream pleasant dreams of capturing the House in the fall elections and recall that whenever the House has gone Democratic in an off year the election of a Democratic president has followed.

Millions of Democrats are still dry and so are politicians who lead them. Some will gripe at the idea of following another wet candidate.

can hold the south. Silent on Wet Lately, Governor Hoover not appeared to be as spectacular. He has been usually silent as regards And he has done which might aid him in popular admiration. Perhaps this is Roosevelt's good to keep himself tagged as a wet during period of waiting. It will be able to get the cation campaign with word on the issue, the wet platform which Democrats are sure to

FOR A NEW FREEDOM

Modernize Your Kitchen With a Hotpoint Electric Range

Create new hours for yourself by installing a Hotpoint electric range in your kitchen. Give yourself the freedom that only a woman who has an electric range enjoys.

No invention for the kitchen has equalled the electric range as a time-saver. No type of cookery provides better meals. The Hotpoint automatic electric range is the answer to the modern woman's demand for a range which does not heat up her kitchen in the summer, requires the minimum of attention and produces uniformly good results.

During the rest of this month the Texas Electric Service Company is making a special offer on all Hotpoint electric ranges, including low cash payments. For only $8.50 cash, the balance payable $7.50 monthly with your electric bill, a Hotpoint electric range, model RA 34, will be installed in your kitchen.

See this range in our office and let us tell you more about this special offer during August. A liberal trade-in is allowed on your old range.
