Divorces And Marriages Run Close Race Here

Divorces and marriage licenses have been running a close race in Eastland county since the first of the year, according to records compiled this morning from the records in the office of the county clerk and the civil dockets of the 88th and 91st district courts. During the seven months of 1930 there have been 109 marriage licenses issued by the county clerk and 68 divorce proceedings have been put on file in the two district courts, a total of 41 gain in marriages over divorces. The two courts are running about even in the matter of divorces, 35 being filed in the 88th district court and 32 being filed in the 91st. The first case filed on the civil docket in each court in 1930 was a divorce petition being filed in each court within the first few days of the new year. Several of the divorce cases have not as yet been heard by the courts as several of them were not called before the courts recently. The divorcee Mrs. Dina Schreiner, 55, gasping for breath in a bundle of rags on a bed. Pfeiffer, who is 78, and Joseph Shea, 37, sat nearby, silent, morose figures. Miss Schreiner was taken to the county hospital where she died early today, apparently a victim, Dr. S. O. Myerson said, of slow starvation. "She weighed only 38 pounds," Dr. Myerson said. "A woman of her height and age should weigh about 150 pounds."

Baby Mixup Is Settled By Parents

CHICAGO, July 25.—The Bamberger-Watkins baby mixup finally was straightened out today by the decision of the distracted parents to keep the babies a jury of experts advised them to trade. After the learned scientists concluded yesterday that the two families had the wrong babies, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger and Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins met secretly with family physicians last night. When the session was over the Bambergers and the Watkins went home relieved and happy with the infants they thought were mixed when the name "Bamberger" was added more than a week ago on adhesive tape stuck to the baby the Watkins had brought from the hospital. Both babies were born June 30 at the Englewood Hospital.

Thanks Citizens. Mrs. J. M. Mitchell, president of the Women's Club of Grapevine, has written a letter addressed to the citizens of Eastland thanking the people for the cooperation and help in making the short course trip possible for one boy and girl from that community.

McDonalds Return Home. W. H. McDonald and family, who have been in California on a vacation, returned to Eastland this morning. Mr. McDonald became ill after arriving in California and was taken to a hospital for several days. He is able to get about but is not very strong.

Young To Close Campaign Here Tonight At 9:00

Jim Young of Kaufman, candidate for the democratic nomination as governor of Texas, will speak tonight at 8:30 in the interest of his campaign. The speaking will be held on the south side of the courthouse. Young was one of the first of the many candidates to announce as a candidate for the governorship and has been making an active and vigorous campaign since the early stages of the race. Young has been campaigning in West Texas during the last weeks of the race and picked Eastland as a likely place to make his closing address. After speaking here he will return to his home in Kaufman where he will cast his vote and await the results of the election. In the closing speech of the campaign he will discuss the problems which confront the people of West Texas. He will also speak of the oil and gas situation of Texas and Eastland and will lay particular stress on the road bond issue.

Candidate For Lieut. Governor Campaigns Here

Friends of J. D. Parnell of Wichita county, candidate for the democratic nomination as lieutenant governor, are working in the hope that he may carry the county. The law limits the amount of money that the candidates for office may spend on a campaign and it has been impossible for Parnell to make a personal visit here to speak in the interest of his candidacy. For this reason he has been depending on his friends to do his campaigning for him in many sections of the state.

Without Food For Months, Woman Starves To Death

CHICAGO, July 25.—Two men, who police charge watched uninterestedly at the bedside of a woman relative while she slowly starved to death, were held today for examination at the psychopathic ward of the county hospital. Police broke through the door of Jacob Pfeiffer's home last night and found Miss Dina Schreiner, 55, gasping for breath in a bundle of rags on a bed. Pfeiffer, who is 78, and Joseph Shea, 37, sat nearby, silent, morose figures. Miss Schreiner was taken to the county hospital where she died early today, apparently a victim, Dr. S. O. Myerson said, of slow starvation. "She weighed only 38 pounds," Dr. Myerson said. "A woman of her height and age should weigh about 150 pounds."

Fliers Reach San Angelo Near Noon

SAN ANGELO, Tex., July 25.—Lee Gehlbach of Detroit, pace-setter in the All-America air derby, led the field of 12 entries into San Angelo on the leg from Houston at 11:16:35 a. m. today. Miss Schreiner was an aunt of Shea and sister-in-law of Pfeiffer. They admitted they had watched her die but said she refused to take food. She had been without food for months, they said. Pfeiffer was released several months ago from the asylum for the insane at Kankakee, police said.

TEXARKANA, Tex., July 25.—Sherlock was about ready to give up his efforts to outfit counterfeiters here today. A federal secret service agent from Dallas, here to find out who raised a $1 bank note to the denomination and passed it on a merchant, received a spurious 50c piece in change after making purchases yesterday. Earlier this week his revolver and $15 were stolen from his room in a local hotel while he slept.

Fly Two Monoplanes In Quest of Endurance Mark

"From now until Labor Day"—that was the long stay in the clouds that four of these flyers hoped to beat when they took off in two Stinson monoplanes from Roosevelt Field, Long Island, in an effort to beat the endurance record held by the Hunter Brothers. Right to left are Jack Charlson and Tex Anding, pilots of the green-painted endurance plane; Robert Black and Louis Deichers, flyers of its red-painted twin ship; Capt. Philip Watson and John Sherman Donaldson, pilots of the refueling plane which will make contacts with the other crafts.

Candidates For Governor Close Long Campaign

In a final burst of oratory the seven active candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination brought their campaign to a close in widely separated sections of Texas today. The weather was warm and roads in excellent condition, thus affording farmers an opportunity to attend the last minute rallies. Tomorrow the candidates will return to their respective homes to await the outcome of the election. The Texas Election Bureau anticipates a vote of from 600,000 to 800,000 and it may be several days before the successful candidate is known. Although there are eleven candidates entered in the race for governor, only two will be chosen to compete in the run-off primary four weeks from Saturday. Since the campaign opened more than a month ago, the candidates have stumped every strategic portion of the state and interest in the outcome is unusually high. Ross S. Sterling, Houston capitalist, closed his campaign today with two speeches at Lufkin and Palestine. Both "Ma" and "Pa" Ferguson were on the stump in a last appeal to the voters to send "Ma" into the run-off. Farmer Jim spoke at Cameron and "Ma" at Temple. Senator Thomas B. Love brought his campaign to a close with an appearance before a home town audience in Dallas. Two addresses were on the program for Barry Miller, one of the champions of oil production in Texas, today at 2:30 having been in his tree on Gilmer street since last Friday morning at 5:30 o'clock. Benjamin Mackall completed his first week in the tree this morning and this afternoon had been up for 176 hours. He says that he is out for a real record before he comes down. Curtailment of Texas Production Is Being Sought. DALLAS, Tex., July 25.—Curtailment of oil production in Texas will be asked of the Railroad Commission when it meets next Wednesday, according to plans made today by the curtailment committee of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association, meeting at the Adolphus Hotel. A committee was appointed by Bob Penn, Dallas, chairman, to inquire of the Standard of Indiana, the Standard of New Jersey, and other large companies whether or not they would join the movement. Resolutions were adopted calling on producers to give serious thought to the situation and to assist in making plans for the curtailment.

Ross, who resigned as pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Eastland recently, and who has been absent from the city for several days, has returned and will preach at that church Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock. There will be no night service. The sermon Sunday and that of the following Sunday will conclude Mr. Ross' ministry in Eastland. Mr. Ross stated that his plans for the future were not complete. For the present he and his family will visit relatives in West Texas for a few days and then go to Ruidosa, N. M., where they have a summer cottage and spend the time up to Sept. 1.

Extra Edition Election Night

The Telegram will get the state election returns promptly Saturday night as they are compiled by the Texas Election Bureau, the only organization in the state making such reports. It will also carry returns from the County election. These returns will be gathered and compiled by its own staff at Eastland. Plans have been made to issue a SPECIAL EDITION of the Telegram at around 10:00 o'clock Saturday night, which will carry the returns from the County and State reported to that hour, and such other election news as is available. Election judges will confer a favor on us if they will give the Telegram the returns from their boxes as promptly as possible. Blanks, together with a letter making this request, has been sent each election judge in the County. The Telegram's telephone number is 500 and calls should be put in collect.

Many Run-Offs Are Predicted In State Races

By GORDEN K. SHEARER. United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN, Tex., July 25.—A run-off will be necessary to select the Democratic nominee in all but two or three of the state offices, it appeared likely on the eve of tomorrow's first primary election. With eleven candidates battling for the Democratic nomination for governor it appeared more than likely that none will get enough present campaign votes to be nominated to have the majority required for nomination in the first primary. U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard seems reasonably sure of re-nomination in tomorrow's election. A second primary is indicated in the race for lieutenant governor, which has seven entrants, all of whom are confident of winning. Four candidates for state treasurer make it difficult for any one of them to get a majority in that race. There will be no run-off in the State comptroller's race for there are only two candidates, George Sheppard of Sweetwater and Arthur W. Mills of Waco. State school superintendent S. M. N. Marrs has no opponent for reelection. Great interest is being displayed in two hard fought races of the present campaign. Former Governor Pat M. Neff, appointed by Governor Dan Moody to the State railroad commission, and Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt, appointed by Governor Moody, both have opponents that seem to assure run-offs. Bobbitt has as one opponent James Alfred of Wichita Falls, who came within a few thousand votes of winning in 1926 when Claude Pollard was nominated; Cecil Storey of Vernon, long a member of the State legislature and Ernest Becker of Dallas. Neff has as his opponents State Senator Nat Patton of Crockett, State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher and H. O. Johnson of Houston. Hatcher first announced for governor but withdrew to run for railroad commissioner. Announcement of agricultural commissioner George B. Terrell that he would not be a candidate for another term resulted in many aspirants for the place. There are six candidates from which to make a selection in this race. There are three candidates for land commissioner as follows: J. H. Walker of Austin for many years chief clerk of the land office; G. E. Johnson of Plainview and Jockie W. Burks of Austin. Walker became land commissioner upon the death of the late Commissioner Robison and has a $800 a year salary—the chief clerkship paying more than the commissioner'ship. Chief Justice C. M. Cureton and Covey C. Thomas of Cotulla are alone in the race for the supreme court bench so that contest should be settled finally tomorrow. A similar situation assures a nomination tomorrow for the court of criminal appeals bench, with Justice O. S. Lattimore and James A. Stephens of Benjamin the only contestants. Closing rallies will be held tonight for most of the candidates.

Greater St. Louis Is Still In Air

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—Although a broken stabilizer caused brief anxiety yesterday, the endurance monoplane "Greater St. Louis," piloted by Forest O'Brien and Dale Jackson, swung into its fifth day aloft today. The stabilizer, guiding equipment of the plane, was repaired. Flying high over Lambert Municipal Flying Field, O'Brien and Jackson passed their 95th hour in the air at 6:11 a. m. C. S. T.

Ferguson Speaks To 10,000 People At Rally Here

Speaking to a crowd estimated at 10,000 people which overflowed the spacious courthouse lawn into the eight streets leading from the square for a distance of several blocks, former governor James E. Ferguson brought his wife's third campaign for governor to Eastland county last night. It was the first time during the present campaign for the democratic nomination the Fergusons have appeared in Eastland county. Ghent Sanderford, Eastland attorney, had charge of the meeting. V. L. Shurtliff of Breckenridge introduced the speaker, who was frequently cheered from his first appearance on the platform. Ferguson, speaking with his old time vigor, promised many state reforms, criticized his opponents, paying special attention to Ross Sterling. He also took many slaps at Governor Dan Moody. "This is the most eventful campaign in history," Ferguson said. "There are 10 men and one woman in this race for governor. It is the first time in history that all 10 of the men have admitted that a good woman will beat them. They then ought to display enough Southern chivalry to get out of the race." Ferguson told his audience of having received letters and telegrams, some of them after his arrival in Eastland for his speech last night, from all sections of the state telling him of the wonderful progress Mrs. Ferguson's campaign was making and assuring him that she would sweep the state. "I am the only man in the United States who cannot run for office nor hold office, but somehow or other I manage to keep these politicians busier than a cat on a hot rock," Ferguson said. Ferguson reviewed his wife's platform and told his audience how, when his wife was governor, he made the state penitentiary pay instead of losing money as it has been doing. Ferguson stated Mrs. Ferguson's opposition to the proposed promised to build 3,000 miles of $350,000,000 road bond issue and highways per year if Mrs. Ferguson is elected. He praised the asphalt roads, which he said were under fire when Moody filed the road suits a few years ago. He added that the highway commission, however, thinks so much of this type of road it has built 4,000 miles of it.

Much Interest Is Being Taken In Primary Election

Democratic Ticket and Laws Governing Primary Election. What has probably been one of the hottest campaigns for all state offices in the history of the state will come to a close tomorrow evening when the polls close. More interest has been manifested in the election than for many years and the number of active candidates for the nomination as governor make the race one of the most uncertain in years. Practically every candidate in every race has predicted that he will be in the second primary election and opinions have differed so much that the outcome of the election is extremely doubtful. In the county races the campaigning has been almost as intensive as in the state race. Predictions of victory are almost as numerous as the candidates and from all indications few of the candidates who have opposition will receive a majority in the first election. The election in Eastland will be held at the Justice of the Peace's office on the ground floor of the Eastland county courthouse. Those going to the voting box will have to enter from the west or east side of the courthouse. The polls will open at 7:00 o'clock in the morning and close promptly at 7:00 in the evening. Election judges are required by state law to give out unofficial totals of votes for each candidate as soon as the polls are closed and at least each two hours thereafter until the counting has been completed. For the information of the voters of Eastland and Eastland county, a sample ballot is being reproduced in today's issue of the Telegram, together with a portion of the primary election laws of the State of Texas. The following, taken from the election law will be of interest to the voters. The quotations are not given in full as space would not permit. Qualifications For Voting. The following classes of persons will not be allowed to vote in the State of Texas: Persons under the age of 21; idiots and lunatics; all paupers supported by the county; all persons convicted of any felony except those restored to full citizenship and right of suffrage, or pardoned; all soldiers, marines and seamen employed in the service of the U. S. Who May Vote. Every person subject to none of the foregoing disqualifications who shall have attained the age of 21 years, and who shall be a citizen of the United States, and who shall have resided in this state one year next preceding an election, and the last six months within the district or county in which he or she offers to vote, shall be deemed a qualified voter. Provided that any voter subject to pay a poll tax under the laws of the state of Texas shall have paid said tax before offering to vote at any election in this state and holds a receipt showing that said poll tax was paid before the first day of February next preceding such election, and if said voter is exempt from paying a poll tax. Poll Tax Exemptions. Persons over the age of 60; Indians are not taxed; insane persons; blind persons; deaf or dumb persons; persons who have lost a hand; persons who have lost a foot; and persons who are permanently disabled. Texan Who Wed 14 Times Tells How To Win Them

By NEA Service. EL PASO, Tex., July 25.—Take it from Bruce W. Steele, who has been divorced 13 times and is now on the verge of getting his papers for the 14th time—when a man really sets out to make a woman love him, there's nothing the woman can do about it except give in. "Women are all alike," says Steele. "I've had enough experience to know. Find their weakness and you have them." Steele is a plumber. He was first married—"Yes, Mary was the first one," he says—in 1911, and Mary divorced him a year later. Then the fun, or the trouble, began. He was traveling about the country as a boxer with a show. "We'd hit a town and I'd get a girl crazy over me and we'd be married," he explains. "Then I'd move on and she'd get a divorce. I married some of the show girls. After various marriages involving girls named Ruth, Goldie, Annie and Rose, Steele married one Fannie, in 1914, and stayed married until 1923. Then Fannie divorced him, charging infidelity, and he married someone else. He was divorced again and a year later he remarried Fannie, who divorced him once more after only a few months of married life. A year or so ago he and Fannie were married a third time, and now Fannie is suing once more. "Watch me bring her around," says Steele. "I'll bet she dismisses the suit. I can make any woman do what I want. If I want them to love me, they love me. If I want them to get a divorce, they get it. "A woman has long hair and short brows. Find her weakness and you have her. With some women it's music; with others, books, etc. Just find that weakness and play up to it and you've got 'em. I married Nellie twice and Fannie three times as an expert. I married Nellie twice and Fannie three times as an expert, to prove I could get them back. I'm out to beat King Solomon's record. Women who love me keep on loving me. The only reason they get a divorce is jealousy. Five of Steele's divorces have been granted in El Paso. Others have occurred in Dallas, Portland, Ore., Globe, Ariz., Seattle and Salt Lake City.

Keeping Tab On The State Candidates

RANGER, Tex., July 25.—Because of a vast potential voting power that lies west of a line drawn from Gainesville to Del Rio, Senator Clint Small was confident Thursday that he would enter the run-off in his race for governor. Once there, it makes no difference whether Ross Sterling or Jim Ferguson opposes him, Small asserted here and at Abilene yesterday.

"The one is loaded down with a bad record in the office of governor and the other with a bad record as chairman of the state highway commission," Small declared.

TEMPLE, Tex., July 25.—Earle B. Mayfield carried his campaign fire into the Ferguson stronghold here last night in making his address however, Mayfield tread but lightly on the toes of his rival candidates save Ross Sterling.

The Houston candidate was charged with the violation of an election law which would prevent the appearance of his name on second primary ballots should he secure the necessary majority of votes.

For the past week Mayfield has been charging that Sterling failed to file the name of his campaign manager with the secretary of state, as the law requires.

DALLAS, Tex., July 25.—State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher is making an intensive campaign in Tarrant county today, ending a whirlwind tour that carried him through Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Galveston, Houston, San Antonio and other cities farther northwest. Hatcher is seeking promotion to the state railroad commission by virtue of his services as treasurer.

BEAUMONT, Tex., July 25.—Warnings against "eleventh hour attacks" were expressed here Thursday night by Ross Sterling, Hatcher is seeking promotion to the state railroad commission by virtue of his services as treasurer.

"Tonight I expect the air to seethe and crackle with slander and falsehoods upon my character and integrity," he told his audience.

BONHAM, Tex., July 25.—Tammany's efforts to control the Texas Democratic party have not ceased Tom Love warned an audience here yesterday. Love declared he would never be willing to

WITH THE TEXAS LEAGUE

The Waco Cubs rested atop the Texas League today after a crushing victory over Wichita Falls last night. The Cubs scored 11 runs in the first inning and forced the Spudders out of the lead with a 13 to 8 decision.

Fort Worth, by virtue of a 10 to 3 win from the Beaumont Shippers, went to within one game of second place. Hugh Bachman held the Shippers to five hits.

The Dallas Steers eked out a 7 to 6 victory over Houston in a night game, gaining a tie for the lead of the second division with the Buffs. The victory placed the Steers within a game and a half of the first division.

Shreveport stepped above the 500 per cent mark with a 2 to 1, 10-inning win from San Antonio, in a matinee game. Turo, Sport spherical, held the Indians to five hits.

Major League

Hopes of the Washington Senators and New York Yankees to head the world champion Philadelphia Athletics in the American League pennant race received a rude setback during the current inter-sectional competition and Connie Mack's white elephants were regarded today as almost certain pennant winners.

The Athletics have shaken off the effect of early season handicaps and now head their league by five full games with the season nearing the two-third mark. They have won 10 out of 15 starts during the current western invasion.

Jimmy Fox's home run with a mate on base in the ninth gave Philadelphia an 8 to 6 victory over the fourth place Cleveland Indians yesterday.

Ted Lyons allowed Washington 13 hits but kept them well scattered and the Chicago White Sox downed the Senators, 10 to 4.

Babe Ruth's 36th home run of the season featured the New York Yankees 5 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The home run put Ruth 12 games ahead of his record making pace in 1927.

Boston defeated St. Louis, 8 to 5, to climb within one-half a game of the Browns in seventh place.

The National League race remained a virtual deadlock, with Brooklyn's lead being cut to one-half game when the Robins split a doubleheader with Cincinnati, while the Chicago Cubs were out-slugging Philadelphia.

Brilliant relief hurling by Ken Ash stopped the Robins, 4 to 3, in the first game. Brooklyn walked off with the second game, a six-inning affair, 9 to 6. Babe Phelps allowed the Reds only 3 hits.

Chicago pounded six Philadelphia pitchers for 17 hits and won an easy game from the Phillies, 19 to 15, despite the loser's seven run rally in the eighth.

Fred Lindstrom's home run in the first inning gave the New York Giants a 1 to 0 victory over Pittsburgh, the game being halted in the seventh because of rain. Carl Hubbell held the Pirates to one hit.

Two homers by Chick Hafey were wasted as Boston defeated St. Louis 5 to 4. Hafey made four hits in four times at bat, but Bob Smith allowed only four other hits.

(Junior) Coen. Grant's victory was in the nature of an upset, although the young Atlantan played steadily and methodically to take advantage of numerous errors by Coen.

MOM'N POP

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NRA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—The wheat situation has been shaping into such a major political issue that Democrats have revived their hopes of capturing the next House of Representatives. They think recent rates of low prices that Democrats will be elected here and there in agricultural districts to replace Republicans and that these gains, combined with those expected in the border states and industrial areas, may be just about enough Democratic congressmen to do the trick.

There are persistent reports here that the wheat farmers are not quite reconciled to the fact, admitted by the government, that they are getting for their wheat just about half what it cost them to produce it. No farmer has yet been able to figure out how he can make any money on that basis and despite his old reputation for being intractable in election years there has always been a theory that the son of the soil would revolt sooner or later.

But on the Other Hand Chances of a political upset, however, are diminished by the fact that the men elected to Congress by farmer votes have generally fought the farmer's battles here and in nearly all cases are able to point to their votes for the McNary-Haugen bill or the export debarment plan.

Many of those up for re-election are now beating the drum more loudly than ever for their down-trodden constituents. Senators Capper and Allen of Kansas, for instance, have been demanding that the government buy up a hundred million bushels of wheat in order to raise prices.

The administration is left in a very unenviable hole just as long as it stands to suffer when the farmers lose on their grain. There is no possible chance of camouflaging the change in wheat prices as employment figures are sometimes camouflaged. And any optimistic statements about the future trend of prices probably would be fatal.

Looking only to drastic curtailments of wheat acreage as the farmer's salvation, the administration can't say anything that would encourage more planting. In fact, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has told the farmers that price levels in the next few years would be lower than they have in the past and that the growers might as well face the fact.

The big drive to sell acreage reduction to the grain belt met with many outcries and there were violent disputes which found Chairman Legge of the Farm Board telling people to go to hell and being accused of calling the state of Kansas a "hog in the trough."

The president is standing by the Farm Board and the Farm Board is standing by the president, although it might be said more accurately that they are leaning vigorously against each other as they survey the situation after operating the big new farm relief policy for a year. Mr. Hoover's attitude is that the board was created by Congress and given a lot of money and that inasmuch as the responsibility is the board's, he should keep hands off. It wouldn't do any good to fire Legge, as some people have demanded, and Hoover knows it.

After Fatal New Jersey Train Wreck

NEA New York Bureau

Two cars were sent hurtling down a 30-foot embankment while another, as shown above at the left, was left hanging precariously on the edge of a retaining wall, in the fatal wreck of a Philadelphia-to-New York Pennsylvania railroad train at South Elizabeth, N. J. With one dead and 50 injured, several investigations were opened in an effort to fix responsibility for the accident. Three motorists whose car rolled upon the tracks and caused the derailment were jailed.

many a day; but he controlled himself. "I shall try to make you change your mind. I shall live for that!" "You'll waste your time," she said. "You'd much better forget all about me. I'm sailing for Sweden next week. I shall be away all the rest of the summer. I'm planning to live abroad a good deal." "I shall follow you." "Well, I don't advise you to." "I shan't be able to help myself, Judy!" Her name came groaningly from his lips. It was an appeal. Even now he could not understand; but dismissal and he had to go. She followed him to the door and watched him go along the corridor. His great bulk hung forward; he shambled, bowed at the shoulders. She thought he looked like a mountain about to tumble down. She was not quite sure that there was not a scrap of pity for him in her heart. She went back to the couch and sat down, her hands hanging spiritlessly beside her. She had been false to what she had meant to do. She had meant to marry Gideon—for Chummy's sake. She had meant to prove to Alan Steyne once and for all that she was worthless and ready to sell herself for gold. That would have done the trick, she knew. Steyne would have loathed and despised her, and would have turned to Chummy. But she couldn't bring herself to do it when it came to the point. She was a coward—that was the truth. Her triumph was a failure after all. With a tremendous sigh she went and tidied her hair, changed her hat, put on a light wrap, and went downstairs, asking the hall porter to call her a cab. She was due at one of the smaller concert halls at six o'clock. Gregor Gossewitz was coming there to a room that they had hired. He was bringing a friend to play over to her certain parts of the "Suite Ecossaise" that he had composed for her. He had not been satisfied with the finale the last time, and she was to dance it in Stockholm at an early date. He could not play it himself, because of his broken wrist—which, however, was doing as well as could be expected. As she drove to the hall, her depression spread itself over the wonderful Scottish ballad music of the young master, and she wished he had never written it for her. Through her closed lids she saw that gray-closet scene of mountain and fir trees, and the brawling streams, with the pale sun illuminating it. But for the ingratitude of it, she would have decided then and there not to give that dance. She felt all of a sudden that it would be unlucky that it would bring evil in its train. By the time she reached her destination, she dreaded the beautiful "Suite Ecossaise" as those given to superstition dread the evil eye. As it happened, the "Suite Ecossaise" set the seal on Judy's career. The northern countries went mad about it. There was something in that interpretation of hers, much elaborated since she had first danced it in "Impromptu" in Bruce Gideon's music room, that aroused a species of nervous enthusiasm in the beholders. (To Be Continued)

SEEK OLD CITY AND TREASURES BENEATH OCEAN

At the bottom of the Atlantic ocean, stretching westward from the Mediterranean and the northern part of Africa, lies, perhaps, the lost continent of Atlantis which, some think, once connected Africa with South America, writes Leslie Orear in a magazine. Within the near future, an undersea expedition is planned that should go far toward proving whether there existed, more than 50,000 years ago, a continent of rich and fabulous cities where dwelt the legendary race of Amazons, descendants of whom, it is believed, still may be found in the mountain fastnesses of the Sahara, and traces of whom have been found in Yucatan. Already there have been wrested from the sea the secrets of several ancient cities that were submerged by some unrecorded catastrophe, and what those discoveries have revealed inspired Count Byron Kahn de Prook, famed archaeologist, to organize, in collaboration with French and American institutions, this new expedition in search of the lost Atlantis. Associated with Count de Prook is Dr. H. Hartmann, whose new diving cylinder makes the success of this venture a probability. Despite the enormous pressure of 1,110 pounds a square inch, Doctor Hartmann's diving cylinder can descend as low as 2,500 feet under water with a crew of men—far deeper than man has ever dived before. The walls of the cylinder are made of cast iron, three inches thick, in which, at proper intervals are set observation windows more than half as thick. In this cylindrical compartment, suspended from the surface ship by a three-in steel cable, and in telephonic communication with the surface crew, will be two men, one observing whatever may be revealed in the light of specially designed neon lamps and the other operating a motion-picture camera. A supply of oxygen, released from two drums within the cylinder, will enable the observers to remain below water for three-quarters of an hour. And so, equipped as no undersea expedition ever before has been outfitted, this expedition of the Deep Sea Archaeological Research society will set out to find what? Sunken cities? Kings' palaces? Slaves' huts; the sea-drenched remains of the long lost life of a people who lived and loved and fought and hated centuries before the birth of Christ? Long, Long Ago But let Count de Prook tell it. "The ancient history of the Mediterranean tells us of cities that have been submerged, galleys that have sunk, and other treasures beneath the sea. And the legend of the lost continent is still the subject of the most interesting story. I long have thrilled at the thought that the legend of Atlantis might be an existing fact, of a submerged continent between the Americas and Africa, where ruins of a lost civilization may still be found with temples and houses covered with the sea growth of ages to be explored and excavated by the new diving apparatus of modern invention," said he in discussing his plans for the forthcoming expedition. But foremost in Count de Prook's mind lies the hope, which is really more than hope, that he will be able to prove that Africa and South America once were connected by land. The evidence of the skeletons points to the existence of prehistoric men of great intelligence and stature who originated in northern Africa and crossed into Europe over what the count believes were once great land bridges at Gibraltar, Tunis, Sicily, and other points, parts of which are now submerged. It has been found that detailed measurements of the skulls of Gauchi peoples of the Madeira islands compare exactly with those of present day Tauregs of the Sahara and with certain skulls found in tombs in Yucatan. How long before the dawn of history, did counterparts of the unusual Taureg find their way into Yucatan? Coincident with the subterranean exploration there will be a land expedition deep into the northern part of Africa to determine just to what extent human life moved through the Hoggar and Atlas mountains, where it is believed, the original home of the Atlante-

Family Menu

BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer
HUNDREDS of home-makers face the problem of serving wholesome and palatable meals as economically as possible. During the summer months, vegetables are plentiful and cheap. And more than this, they are essential to health. However, many men seem to have an and ingrained aversion to such plain homely vegetables as carrots and spinach. A little meat added to these vegetables makes them deliciously savory and popular. The small and taste of meat is appetizing, and for this reason, if no other, meat is worth a place on the menu. But too much is not a good thing; so if just enough can be used in combination with vegetables to make them liked, a happy medium is produced. If half a pound of meat can be made to serve four people and at the same time furnish a wholesome and adequate diet, economy would prompt most of us to give the half-pound dish a fair trial. A meat and vegetable hash is the simplest version of the combination dish. Chowders and timbales are also made and they are most attractive concoctions. Veal and carrot timbales, ham and spinach timbales, lamb and pea timbales—these are worthy of place on the company menu. A meat and vegetable hash makes ideal summer fare from the cook's standpoint. It takes care of two items on the menu in one dish and one process effecting a substantial saving in time, labor and dish washing.

Text: Judges 4:1-10.
And the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the Lord, when Ehud was dead.

And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan that reigned in Hazor; the captain of whose host was Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles.

And the children of Israel cried hundred chariots of iron; and unto the Lord: for he had nine twenty years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lappidoth, she judged Israel at that time.

And she dwelt under the palm tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Bethel in Mount Ephraim; and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment.

And she sent and called Barak the son of Abinoam out of Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the Lord God of Israel commanded, saying, Go and draw toward Mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Zebulun?

And I will draw unto thee, to the river Kishon, Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go; but if thou wilt not go with me then I will not go.

And she said, I will surely go with thee; notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be to thee honor; for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah arose, and went with Barak to Kedesh.

And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; and he went up with ten thousand men at his feet; and Deborah went up with him.

The International Light Sunday School Lesson for July 27, Woman's Influence in Community and National Affairs, Judges 4:1-10.

By W. E. GILROY, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.

We are apt to think of woman's active participation in public affairs as of relatively late date, coming to its climax only during the last few years. Perhaps, however, few things are more remarkable in history than the way in which, despite the general relegation of women to a place inferior to men, women have, none the less, achieved conspicuous leadership and rendered profound service.

Here in a crisis in the affairs of Israel, in a time of unsettlement, when Israel was surely in need of leadership, it is interesting to find the chief leadership entrusted to a woman. Deborah, we note, was also a married woman. Whatever her personal or home obligations may have been, they had become enlarged by the strength and richness of her character, for she was not only a leader in the civil life—a judge of Israel, but she was a prophetess. It was her prophetic vision and messages that had no doubt given her her pre-eminence in the nation.

The Source of Her Power It is rather a stately picture that we have of her dwelling under the palm tree that had become associated with her name—a notable tree in the hill country of Ephraim, whither the children of Israel came to her for judgment.

The influence of good women has never been greater than when it has been exercised upon men, and Deborah's power seemed to lie largely in her capacity to inspire and guide others. She called Barak and gave him a military commission to go to Mount Tabor and take with him ten thousand men to fight Sisera, a captain of Jabin's army, who had nine hundred chariots of iron, and who for twenty years had "mightily oppressed the children of Israel."

Barak was not altogether ready for his task. He evidently feared the greatness of the power which Deborah was urging him to fight; but he had profound faith in Deborah, so much so that he declined to go without her; but he agreed to go if Deborah would accompany him.

Deborah did not depend merely upon womanly influence, she was a woman of decisive action. She announced her readiness to go with Barak, though she also rebuked his lack of manliness by reminding him that he should have no honor out of the encounter, as Sisera would fall through the hand of a woman.

The upshot of the whole matter need not be fully dwelt upon, Deborah's prediction fell true, and Sisera succumbed to assassination at the hand of Jael whose valor own faith and power of action stand out.

It was probably not the first time in history that woman's consecration to a great task had inspired new hope and action in those round about her, nor was it to be the last. One thinks of Deborah as a sort of matronly Joan of Arc, fired with zeal and spirit, conscious of a voice leading her forward and giving her strength.

As Moses stands as the great type of liberator and lawgiver, so Deborah has captured the human imagination as the striking figure of womanly leadership and judgment.

Whiteman Stars In King of Jazz

Paul Whiteman, who starred with his entire orchestra in Universal's spectacular "King of Jazz" which comes to Lyric Theater on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, was literally born with a violin in his hands.

His father, Wiberforce J. Whiteman, was director of musical education at the Denver, Col. schools for thirty years. His mother sang in oratorio and in the Denver chors. And when Paul was three years of age, his father gave him his first violin.

Paul was educated at the Denver City schools, and at seventeen became chief viola player in the Denver Symphony orchestra. Just then "ragtime" was beginning to become popular, and in 1915 Whiteman left his native Denver to go to San Francisco, where he secured a real chance at the Alexandria Hotel Los Angeles, then the favorite rendezvous of the movie stars.

After the Exposition, Paul got a job at Tati's then-famous restaurant as a jazz musician, but he was actually fired because they didn't consider him so "hot" those days. Nothing daunted, he recruited the nucleus of an orchestra of his own, and opened at Santa Barbara, California.

For quite a while Whiteman and his boys led a minstrel life, getting work where they could. Then through an old friend who had heard his music, he got his first real chance at the Alexandria Hotel Los Angeles, then the favorite rendezvous of the movie stars.

From that time forward Whiteman's name became the synonym for the best in jazz music. He went to the Ambassador, Atlantic City, and signed a contract with the Victor Phonograph Company to make phonograph records. Since that time he has made and sold vastly more records than any other recorder in the world.

Whiteman's orchestra next was

To the Voters of Eastland County: Due to the fact that I have been very busy in the office during this campaign, it has not been my privilege and pleasure to meet all the voters and personally solicit your support for County Judge, therefore, I take this method of assuring you that your vote on tomorrow will be greatly appreciated.

I am profoundly grateful that I have been permitted to make this race without an opponent and I do not claim any credit for that and would not have been so fortunate if I had no opponent on account of the efficient manner in which the affairs of the office have been handled, but do desire to assure you that it has been my honest endeavor to serve the county honestly and efficiently. True, I have many mistakes, many of them, but at all times I have felt that my official acts were for the best interest of Eastland county.

So grateful am I to the people of Eastland County for what they have done for me that I have not interested myself in other races in this county in even attempting to suggest whom you elect to any county office, feeling that I should be satisfied with the favors shown me.

Yours very truly, OLYDE L. GARRETT, Candidate for County Judge, (Pol. Adv.) Eastland County featured in the Ziegfeld Follies, and then the maestro of jazz made a triumphal European tour in which he took American music into the strongholds of classic music at Paris, London, Vienna, Rome. Returning to New York, he gave the first jazz symphony at the Aeolian Hall, on February 12, 1924.

It was another triumph for both Whiteman and for jazz. It definitely marked the popular supremacy of jazz music, and of Whiteman as its foremost exponent.

Since that time the conceded "monarch of melody" has been playing stage, concert, and night club engagements in the leading cities of the world. He came direct from New York to make "King of Jazz," the most spectacular revue ever filmed.
