Snook Murder Case Attorneys In Heated Tilt-Defense Rests

DALLAS, Aug. 12.—The defense rested its case at 2:35 this afternoon.

COURT ROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—The defense put the finishing touches on its case in the Snook-Hix murder trial today.

Attorneys defending Dr. James Howard Snook on charges of having murdered Theora Hix became witnesses and charged the prosecutor had prevented them having access to their client after his arrest. This led to bitter exchanges between John F. Seidel of the defense and prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr.

Medical evidence on methods of conducting autopsies led to expression from the stand of expert opinion that the autopsy could not reveal definitely the cause of death.

A bit of amusing relief was furnished when Ober Young, of the humane society, told how drugs allegedly used on Miss Hix had been administered to two dogs at the city pound to observe the effect. One, a brindled dog, became unsteady on its feet but the other, described as timid and uninterested in life, pricked up its ears and "became a real dog," Young said.

Identification of the victims was made difficult because of the mangled condition of the bodies. Ambulances from Forney brought 11 of the bodies to that town while one body was taken to Mesquite. One of the Badgett girls died at the Forney hospital without regaining consciousness.

DALLAS, Aug. 12.—A single grave in the little cemetery at Mesquite, 18 miles east of here, will close tomorrow over the bodies of all eight members of the Sherwood Badgett family who were killed Sunday evening when a Texas & Pacific train struck the truck which they were returning from a picnic outing.

Five other victims of the train and truck crash, all members of the Charles Henry family, also living near Mesquite, will be shipped to Oklahoma, their former home, for burial.

Texas & Pacific Train Kills 13

Grade Crossing Accident Near Dallas Takes Lives Of Seven Members of One Family.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 12.—Thirteen members of a picnic party returning home after a day spent at the Marsalis park zoo in Dallas were annihilated when the Sunshine Special, crack train of the Texas & Pacific railroad, struck a motor truck at a crossing three miles west of Forney, Tex., Dallas county, early Sunday evening.

The dead are members of two families residing on farms near the scene of the accident. Only one person, a 7-year old girl, survived the tragedy.

The dead are: Mrs. Iva Badgett, 55. Vera and Era Badgett, twins, 22.

Emma Badgett, 19. Texas Badgett, 16. Birdie Badgett, 9. Beulah Henry, 14. Emma Henry, 10. Billie Henry, 4.

Mary Lee Henry, 7 years old, only surviving member of the party, was brought to a Dallas hospital but her condition was said not to be dangerous. An inquest will be held at Mesquite this morning.

The Badgett and Henry families had planned an outing for the children for some time and when Sunday dawned bright and clear they packed the kiddies in the truck and started for the Marsalis zoo. All went well at the picnic.

The children saw the following lion the monkeys and the "begging bear." A picnic lunch brought the outing to a close late in the afternoon and the homeward journey was started.

It was not known which member of the party was driving but eyewitnesses said the truck stalled on the incline approaching the railway track, 18 miles east of Dallas. Then with a lurch the truck started forward again and the speeding train caught it at dead center, ripping it to bits and scattering the bodies in every direction.

The force of the collision tore the pilot from the locomotive but none of the train crew or passengers were injured. After some delay the train resumed its journey.

A horrible aspect of the accident was the fact that Sherwood Badgett, whose wife and seven children were killed in the crash, saw the collision from his barnyard a few hundred feet away. He was too badly stunned by the deaths of more than half the members of his large family to comment on the tragedy.

Identification of the victims was made difficult because of the mangled condition of the bodies. Ambulances from Forney brought 11 of the bodies to that town while one body was taken to Mesquite. One of the Badgett girls died at the Forney hospital without regaining consciousness.

Father Will Keep On Going for the 'Kids' Sake, Says

By EDMOND M. BARR
Special United Press Correspondence

MESQUITE, Tex., Aug. 12.—In the little frame "shot-gun" farmhouse of the Badgett family, a grief-stricken and home-crazed father sat in a half-made chair. On the floor in front of him lay a dozen or more kodak pictures.

Sherwood Badgett sat motionless, his eyes glued on the still figures in the pictures. He had seen the wreck from his front porch.

"There ain't nothing ever goes right with me. I been slaving my hands to a corn and working my life away trying to make them kids and her happy—trying to give them enough to eat—and that is what I get."

Badgett stooped, picked up a picture of his wife. The rays of an old kerosene lamp half illuminated his face. A cricket hopped across the floor.

"Lord help our kids, honey," he whispered. "Lord help 'em cause I can't go on with you gone."

The floor creaked. Badgett slowly lifted his eyes. A tiny boy, his dirty bare feet partly hidden by long overalls, toddled to the aged man. The tiny face, unmoved by the tragedy down the hill, looked puzzled.

"Pap, you ain't crying are you?" he asked.

"No, Sammy, it's hot and your old 'pappy' is just a sweatin'," the father answered, choking.

"But maybe I got to keep on going for them kids' sake," he whispered to the picture again.

Chicago Bandits Rob Theatre Safe

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Six amiably polite but determined bandits obtained between $4,000 and $5,000 from the safe of the State-Congress theater, downtown Mesquite house, early today after kidnaping the manager, Charles D. Peet.

The gunmen accosted Peet as he arrived at his south side apartment with Mrs. Peet and their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Rath.

The manager was forced to go to his office where he was bound to a chair alongside Ellsworth Adams, night building superintendent who was brought from a balcony. Peet's chair was pushed close to the safe and his right hand freed to manipulate the dial. The safe door opened on the second trial. The four men loaded currency and silver into a canvas sack.

Meanwhile at Peet's apartment, one robber had stripped two diamonds from Mrs. Peet's fingers. After closely examining them, he tossed the rings back into her lap, asserting he "couldn't use that stuff."

Husband Drops Gun As Pair Go To 'Chick' House

Pleasant Little Family Gathering Interrupted—Three Children Motherless.

Stark tragedy, like a bolt from the blue interrupted the course of a pleasant little family gathering in Cisco last night and today three small children are motherless and a husband is prostrate with grief. The victim of the tragedy was Mrs. Willie May Graves, 27, wife of Carl E. Graves whose home is in East Cisco, just north of the Bankhead highway. She was killed by a bullet from a .45 caliber pistol when it slipped from the hands of her husband and discharged upon striking the ground.

Death was instantaneous, the bullet entering the left temple and emerging just above the right eyebrow. A verdict of accidental homicide by the husband, Carl Graves, was returned this morning by Justice of the Peace J. H. McDonald who investigated.

According to the report of the tragedy as furnished the officers by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fenley, relatives of the Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Graves and their children and Mr. and Mrs. Fenley were seated in the cool at the rear of the house eating ice cream when a disturbance was heard in the chicken yard. Mr. Graves, who had been having considerable trouble with chicken thieves, said to his wife, "There are those chickens, again," and went into the house to get his gun and a flashlight.

Mrs. Graves met him at the door and took the flashlight, following him to the wire fence about the lot at the rear. It is about 50 feet from where the party had been sitting to this fence. Instead of going to the gate Mr. Graves climbed the fence which is about waist high. To have both hands free for climbing he placed the gun under an arm.

Mrs. Graves meanwhile stooped down and pushed the flashlight through the fence so that her husband might see. Just as Mr. Graves straddled the fence his arm slipped from under his arm, discharging with tragic result as it struck the ground.

Dr. M. C. Carlisle who was called to the scene examined the body. Justice of the Peace J. H. McDonald was also called for an examination. An ambulance from the Green Funeral home took the body to that establishment after the examination where it was prepared for burial and returned to the home.

Funeral services will take place at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the First Baptist church at Carbon, the former home of the deceased, conducted by Rev. C. D. O'Brien, assisted by the pastor of the Carbon church. Burial will take place at Carbon.

Before her marriage Mrs. Graves was Miss Willie May Barnett of Carbon. Her husband, who is prostrated by the tragedy, is an employee of the West Texas Utilities company here.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM'N POP

There goes Chick Gunn with that snappy little winner who's camping at their hut. I'd like to meet that wambi.

TRY AND DO IT, I'VE CALLED HIM A DOZEN TIMES AND IF YOU DROP IN TO SEE HIM HE MEETS YOU AT THE FRONT GATE AND THAT'S AS FAR AS YOU GET. SAY, LET'S BEAT IT AROUND THE BLOCK AND HEAD HIM OFF.

WHY, WHAT'S THE MATTER, CHICK?

It seems like an awful imposition though, Molly.

"Oh, no," she declared warmly. "I want her like everything, Bob. It's wonderful of you to let me have her."

He threw up his hands helplessly.

"Good lord, Molly, I don't know what else I could do."

He was peering near-sightedly about the pier.

"It's awfully strange where Jack went. You see we came down together. I phoned him when I got in this morning. I came over on the midnight, and we had breakfast together. Then we phoned the pier, to see what time you were docking, and when they said 9:30, we came right down. Why, I was talking with him a minute before you called me. I suppose he'll be around soon. It's funny, though."

"To tell the truth," put in Red maliciously, "I think Wells saw me with my arm 'round Molly. I guess he's one of these jealous birds. Got sore and now he doesn't want to play."

"You can't blame him," defended Molly. "After coming all the way down here to meet his girl, he sees her shining up to a boob like you. Naturally he's got some pride."

She turned her back on Red indignantly.

"Don't high hat me," he advised her. "I've bought you a ticket to Boston. You'd better be polite."

"Why don't you telephone Jack?" suggested Bob. "Things aren't going any too well at the office, and he's low as the devil. I know he'd be glad to hear from you."

"If he's going to act like a spoiled baby, I'm not going to bother him," she declared.

But at the Grand Central, while the boys were at the ticket office, she slipped away to call him.

And, when she heard his voice, her heart began beating in terrific fashion, so that even her throat was throbbing. Jack had a nice deep voice, with a caressing sort of timbre.

"Hello," he said.

"Hello yourself," she said, trying to keep the quaver out of her voice. "What's the big idea? Bob said you were at the pier. Why didn't you speak to me?"

"You didn't look like you were expecting me," he told her.

"Well, I wasn't. I didn't expect Red either. He came on at quarter."

"Yeah? Well, he doesn't waste any time—I'll say that for him."

"Oh, Jack, what's the matter with you, dear? You're not hurt because Red had his arm around me, are you? I was feeling awfully faint. I'd been working so hard. I wrote all the way over, Jack. Another play, honey. I've sent it already to Mr. Durbin. And I hadn't had any breakfast at all. I was feeling rotten, really. Besides, Red doesn't think anything of things like that. I don't suppose he gave it a thought."

"Probably he wouldn't give kissing you a thought either?" Molly's manner cooled.

"Now see here, Jack Wells, if you're going to be unreasonable like that! Oh, what's the use of being hateful? I want so much to see you. I've missed you awfully. I felt dreadfully because you never wrote me. And didn't you write, Jack?"

"I've been pretty busy," he began.

"You're not in love with anyone else?" she demanded.

"You know better than that Molly."

"Then you glad I'm home?"

"Sure I am."

"Well that being that," she decreed gaily, "you may take me to luncheon."

"Gee, Molly, I'm sorry. I can't have an engagement—a business engagement. Maybe you've heard of Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton? She's the widow of that Five and Ten man—the chap that died last year, and

Three Regulars Are Left For Forward Wall This Season.

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—The success of the 1929 University of Texas football team hinges on the answer to two questions. Can Captain Gordy Brown's knee stand up to the strain of an eleven-game schedule, and can Bill James mould a strong forward wall out of the material which he will have when the practice season opens in September? If either of these questions is answered in the negative, prospects are gloomy, to say the least.

The powerful forward wall of the 1928 champions was wrecked by graduation leaving only three regulars, MacBurnett, Gordy Brown and Curtis Beauty, to report for the 1929 club, and Brown is likely to fall victim to that tricky knee at any time. Ox Emerson and Henry Mills, Mills lettering last season, are the other veterans returning for this fall's club. However, these four can not compare with Red Wray, Jack Cowley, Herb Tigner, Harry Phillips, Cotton Mobby and Ike Sewell of the 1928 club. To make matters worse, there were no outstanding linemen on the fresh squad, and Ox Blanton and Les Moody, the most promising, failed to make their grades.

With all these problems facing them, it is no wonder that Coaches Littlefield and James have decided to convert Fresh backfield men into linemen for the coming season. With the five veterans, Brown, Beauty, Burnett, Emerson and Mills, to start with, James will have to build from the bottom, experimenting until he finds a workable combination, and with the schedule as it is, experiments are apt to prove costly.

The wing positions are wide open, with Big 'Un Rose and Rut Vining being picked to take the posts left vacant by the passing on of Ford and Rhoads, the peer of conference ends last season, Frank Cheatham, Lester Peterson and Henry Easterling are all given a chance to break into the line-up at these positions. The Tyson brothers, Carl and Howard, may get a chance at the ends. Big 'Un Rose has yet to flash the form which made him one of the greatest high school stars in the state, and this, his last year, may see him come through.

The backfield isn't worrying the Texas Mentors in the least. With more backfield material on hands than they have had in several years, Karow and Littlefield will be faced with the task of naming their starting four. In the past, finding four to start was the hard task. Dexter Shelley heads the list, and then Pinky Higgins, Papp Perkins, Nona Reese, Eddie Beular and Claude Meadows complete the outstanding six candidates. In addition to these veterans, the fresh squad will send Andy Brown, Dutch Baumgarten, Bull Elkins, Snag Laughlin and Ug Hodges to the squad. Theron Wilbanks is another veteran who will report. One will never know how the Texas backfield will line up before the kick-off.

All in all, the problem facing the Texas Mentors for the present season is that of building a line to replace the one shot to pieces last June. A center, a guard and three tackles are the men who will be classed as veterans when practice gets under way. Tommie Birdwell, Walter Howell, Slaty Youngblood, Rachel and Underwood will all be on hand from the fresh squad.

Three Regulars Are Left For Forward Wall This Season.

AUSTIN, Aug. 11.—According to H. L. McGuire, assistant U. S. District attorney here, it is against the law to give a check for less than $1.

Few people know of the law, and it is never enforced, but nevertheless, there is such a law and it may be found in Section 293 of the U. S. code, McGuire points out.

Even the government itself frequently violates the law by giving refund checks for amounts of only a few cents.

Although Jimmy Walkup held the Spudgers scoreless until the seventh inning, they finally got to him to win for Wichita Falls in his one-day stand at Ft. Worth. Only one game was played.

SUNBEAM BAND HAS SPLENDID SHOWING

The Indian program of last week was concluded by the Sunbeam Band at their usual morning session Saturday, opened by Ione Simmons, the clever little president, and attended by 48 members. Several wirtle stories of Indian life and customs were told by Mrs. W. T. Turner, Sunbeam director, and made very realistic as the youngsters were ranged in circles, sitting about a "campfire" (contrived of electric lights shrouded in red papers) and with tepees made of brown paper, scattered about the glow. A hearty singing, ensemble, "Jesus Loves Little Children of the World," opened a program presented by the children: Winston Allison in "An American Indian's Own Interpretation of the 23rd Psalm"; reading, "God Gave Me a Little Light," by George Lancaster, and Campfire stories, told very interestingly by Doris Lawrence and Eleanor Simmons.

PRETTY LITTLE PARTY

Ruth Lobaugh entertained the young folk at the family home on South Seaman Saturday night, honoring two popular playmates whose parents formerly resided in Eastland, Thelma and Charles Hickman of Shreveport, La., children of the H. B. Hickmans. The hostess was assisted by Juanita Matthews, who led the out of door games. Victrola music provided for the dancing on the walks. At close of evening refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Those present were: Bessie Marlow, Agnes Odum, Barbara Ann Arnold, Louise Davis, Hazel Tiller, Gwendolyn Jones, Ruth Lobaugh, Juanita Matthews, Happy Hightower, Estes Burgamy, Wilson Ray Robinson of Strawn, W. Hart, Carl Garrett, S. A. Arthur, Rob Roy Sparr, Jack Grubbs, Johnnie Hatten, Ed Pritchard, and Jack Grable.

Mrs. Caton plans to sail for the U. S. A. on Sept. 10.

A SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Saturday evening Mrs. Tucker and her two daughters, Miss L. G. Tucker, celebrator 14th birthday. Countless lovely articles, all things dear to a young girl's heart.

Merry games sped an hour delightfully and refreshments were served of sandwiches, iced grape juice, ice cream and the white iced birthday cake, the gift of Mrs. Tucker. Miss L. G. entertained the girls afterward at the family home with a slumber party and a sunrise hike breakfast at the park Sunday morning, taken in time for school to attend the usual unday School hour.

'Worth Weight In Gold,' Says Breckenridge Woman

Didn't Think There Was a Medicine An Earth That Would Do Husband Good Orgatone Did.

"This medicine is worth its weight in gold and if the price was much more per bottle than it is, my husband would buy it just the same," said Mrs. Claude Johnson, who lives at 303 W. Sixth Street, Breckenridge, Texas.

"My husband had been suffering for five years with constipation, dizziness and pains across his back," she continued. "He was forced to take a purgative all the time and would get so dizzy he would nearly fall. I don't know what was the matter with him, but it must have been something like indigestion. He had been going down hill for several years and it seemed like nothing he would try did him any good. He had such severe pains across his back, too, and never could get a good night's rest, and just felt so bad when he got up every morning, he couldn't do a day's work, like he wanted to."

"We saw in the papers where Orgatone had helped lots of other people who described his trouble, and the first chance he had to get a bottle he started taking it. He had confidence in the medicine and thought it would help him, but had no idea it would help him so quick. He began to feel better right from the start. It takes hold quicker than any medicine I ever saw and seems to give you an appetite and make you feel good. I simply wouldn't take anything for what it has done for him and it would be hard for me to figure out in dollars and cents what it has been worth in my husband's case."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy, but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Eastland, exclusively by Texas and Corner Drug Store, phones 345 and 588.

often result in serious accidents. Had all parts of the apparatus and the feedpipes been fully accessible, emergency landings would have been avoided in most of these cases.

"Five forms a tragic chapter in the history of aviation. The majority of these fires have been due to gasoline leaking from tanks standing close to overheated motors."

Explaining how some, if not all, these drawbacks to safe flying have been overcome, the Dornier officials said:

"Aboard the airplane 'Do X' the pilot can devote all his attention solely to the task of piloting the craft. He need not be omnipotent or be a pilot, engineer, navigator and commander all in one. The technical work will be handled by an engineer, who will be assisted by a number of specialists. The commander will be just that; he will command the ship and the crew, determine the course to be followed and so forth. No one will be overworked. Each will be able to give his undivided attention to his special task."

Paris Accessible.
"Nor will the motors be overtaxed. They have sufficient surplus power to make it possible to reduce their power by 40 per cent immediately after the start. Herebefore airplanes have at most had only three or four motors; the 'Do X' has twelve, all independent of one another. Many times when one motor fails the airplane must make a forced landing or at least continue flying under greatly reduced power. Should one engine aboard the 'Do X' fail it would lose only one-twelfth of its motive power. The craft can continue flying with three or four motors out of commission."

"Up until now hidden parts on airplanes have been almost inaccessible. As for the 'Do X', provisions have been made to develop to the utmost facilities for repairing the motors and equipment. The possibility of making repair does not alone depend on accessibility, but also on the ability to disconnect damaged parts without interrupting the flight of the airplane."

"The danger of fire has been met by placing the fuel tanks as far as possible from the motors. They are located in the deepest section of the body of the ship

(the 12 engines are located on top.) This section is made up of specially constructed rooms."

Lindbergh Gives White House Auto Drivers Lesson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gave the White House chauffeurs a lesson in automobile driving today by leading the presidential procession over the 91-mile trail from the Rapidan fishing camp to the White House.

Lindbergh took the wheel of Herbert Hoover Jr.'s car as the party left the camp and outdistanced the other machines as soon as the procession passed off the mountain trail onto the hard roads. He arrived at the White House 25 minutes before the president and his party, covering the 91 miles in less than two and a half hours.

Mrs. Lindbergh and Herbert Hoover Jr. rode with him. President Hoover returned to his desk at 11 o'clock this morning after a quiet and restful weekend in his camp which was marked by an informal birthday celebration Saturday night in honor of his 55th birthday.

A score of gifts from friends and admirers throughout the country and hundreds of congratulatory telegrams and letters awaited the president at the White House.
