Graf Zeppelin Prepares to Fly

BY UNITED PRESS
NAVAL AIR TATION, LAKE-
HURST, N. J., Aug. 7.—The Graf Zeppelin's motors awakened with a roar today in preliminary tests while naval aviators assembled weather data which will determine whether the dirigible may safely leave at midnight on an eastward cruise around the world.

The Maybach motors along under the ship's curved envelope roared mightily and appeared ready for their greatest test. Wireless interference garbled weather signals intended for this station, delaying formal announcement of the weather prospects.

Stray clouds moved slowly over the hangar and to the east were banked up but light in color.
There was not much wind.

Overnight fueling crews overcame difficulties and fully charged the Graf's ashame tanks, and there remained only a few tanks of hydrogen to be piped aboard today, naval officers said.

Passengers, freight, baggage and mail probably will be taken aboard after nightfall unless Dr.
Eckener decides to move his sailing time forward.

Crowds again descended on the hangar today to see the craft poised for the first commercial journey around the world by air.

COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O. SNOOK'S WIFE AND MOTHER WITNESSES

BY UNITED PRESS
COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O.,
Aug. 7.—After his wife and mother had come to the witness stand to defend him today, Dr.
James Howard Snook was called as his own witness to defend himself against charges of having murdered Theora Hix.

Dr. Snook was brought into the court room just at 9 o'clock from the county jail. He was well-groomed and looked in good spirits. He walked briskly across the room to his wife. He grasped her hand, stooped over and kissed her warmly. He then seated himself beside her, holding her hand for a few moments. Both were smiling.

Mrs. Helen Snook came into the court room five minutes before 9 o'clock accompanied by Defense Attorney Max Seyfert. She took a seat at the counsel table which had been occupied yesterday by her husband.

Both the wife and mother have declared their loyalty for the former university professor. The two women visited Snook in the county jail during the evening.

Dr. Snook needed a visit from his wife and mother to cheer him up after yesterday's events in the courtroom. For him it was probably the most difficult day to date and when court adjourned he was a glum, dejected figure.

Mrs. Snook, the wife, was a pathetic figure in white as she told how her husband had changed in the last three years and had become restless and silent.

The mother, a tall, slim, dignified woman of 73, told of his boy-hood so aggressively the court had to stop her. She stamped him a loving and considerate son.

He stood tall and erect with military bearing as he swore to flushed. His answers were spoken in a firm voice and were definite.

Mrs. Snook listened intently. The doctor's mother had wept on her five miles of irrigation flume had been destroyed early today by a raging forest fire in the Chehalis National forest.

While the blaze is less dangerous today, it is by no means under control according to F. H. Brundage, of the U. S. Forest service, who is at the scene of the fire, 70 miles from Wenatchee, Wash.

hundred thousand acres of valuable timber land in southeastern Oklahoma was a waste of smould-lowing a series of forest fires which have raged through three counties.

Approximately 200 men, under direction of C. O. Doster, district forester, were fighting the flames, cutting wide swaths through the timber in hope of confining the flames to areas already destroyed.

Doster predicted the fires would be under complete control today.
One million acres of land have been threatened by the flames, Doster said.

thrown into the Detroit river from the yacht Maxine early Saturday,

The findings of the agent's body substantiates in part the story told by John M. Heath, elevator construction engineer, that Sundland tumbled into the river during a scuffle on the deck of his yacht after Sundland had searched the

SNOOK'S WIFE AND MOTHER WITNESSES

ed and his work as a member of the faculty of Ohio State University. His manner smacked of the classroom.
After his wife and mother had come to the witness stand to defend him today, Dr. James Howard Snook was called as his own witness to defend himself against charges of having murdered Theo-ra Hix.

Q—When was the first time you met Theora Hix?
A—About two years ago. She came to the veterinary department as a stenographer.

He could not recall if he were formally introduced to her.

Mrs. Snook, just as this testimony began, quietly arose and almost unnoticed, slipped out of the room.

Q—What were Miss Hix's duties?
A—A stenographer for the department. She worked from 8 to 5 with an hour off at noon.

Q—When did you have a conversation with Miss Hix after first meeting her?
A—The first I recall was one day it was raining and I asked her to ride home.

Q—Did Miss Hix then know you were a married man?
A—I'm not sure she did.

Another girl accompanied him and Theora on the night in question. He had taken Miss Hix to Mack Hall, a girl's dormitory at the university, and the other girl to a street car, he said. After that, he testified, they had frequent conversations.

During the war, the doctor said,
the army required veterinary instruction to continue so he went on teaching at the university and in addition taught marksmanship to soldiers and took a course in aviation ground school.

Q—Did you ever go abroad?
A—In 1929 I was elected a member of the American Olympic team and took part in the revolver championship at Antwerp.

Q—How were the members of the team chosen?
A—By competition.

Mrs. Snook was now taking her eyes off her husband who was engaged in what might well be a battle for his life.

Q—Who won the 1920 Olympic championships?
A—The American team.

Q—What championships have you held?
A—The revolver and pistol national championships seven or eight times, both rapid and slow fire, and the National rifle association championship three or four times.

Q—Is this lady (pointing to Mrs.
Snook) your wife?
A—She is.

Q—Have you any children?
A—One girl.

Q—Were any other children born of this marriage?
A—Yes, a boy, who died.

When the morning recess had been reached Dr. Snook was making his fight alone. His wife and mother had left the courthouse and two of his three attorneys had quietly slipped out leaving May Seyfert, who conducted the examination, alone at the defense table.

After the recess the lawyers,
lawyer, returned.

Snook sat stiffly in the witness chair, his hands on the arms of the chair and he hardly seemed to move except for an occasional nervous raising of his right hand to his temple. His voice was just a little thin and more than average high-pitched.

The questioning returned to his alleged intimacies with Miss Hix.
No hesitancy in his answers was apparent.

The intimacies, he said, occurred
"once or twice a week."

Q—What general topic of conversation were you discussing on the auto rides with her?
A—Miss Hix was a very genial companion and very well read. We discussed her affairs and school matters and such things in addition to such subjects.

Q—When did you meet Mr. Meyers? (Marion T. Meyers, said to have been another suitor of Miss Hix.)
A—I met was September 19 that I first talked with him. I had seen him in his car and with Miss Hix before that.

Q—What sort of an understanding did you reach with Miss Hix?
A—She said she wanted a companion and we talked of various phases of such things. We found both "very healthy and we both knew that such was not the case with all of the younger men around the college at that time.
Through several conversations we reached a sort of understanding.

Q—When were you first intimate with her?
A—About four weeks after I met

Four Suspects Held In Kansas City Fire Death

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 7.—Moving swiftly to the discovery of the men who perpetrated an arson outrage that cost three lives, Kansas City police today had four men under arrest. Three of them faced charges of first degree murder and the fourth, believed to be the inspiration of the crime, was to be arraigned on a similar charge later in the day when questioning was completed.
The four men are Arch D. Glover, bootlegger and alleged leader of an arson ring; Durwood M. Falley, owner of a drug store; John L. (Pat) Crowe, who posed as part-manager of the store; and D. L. Pigott, who acted as clerk under an assumed name.
All four were accused of plotting an incendiary fire which was designed to collect heavy insurance on a slightly stocked store, but which resulted in explosions that killed three firemen.
Glover, believed to have inspir-

He was booked as for investigation as a murder suspect. He admitted ownership of the drug store and said that Dailey had been employed as a dupe to operate the store as a sales outlet for alcohol. He admitted he had carried several containers into the drug store before the fire but denied they contained explosive fluid.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM'N POP

"Mr. Flynn, covering police court in Boston also refused to talk. Friends of the couple expect formal announcement of the engagement within a few days..."

After the reporters left, Molly had dressed leisurely, expecting a telephone call any moment from Jack. But her line was busy a great deal of the time. Mr. Wharton, her city editor in Boston, had called to congratulate her, and to say that he was forwarding a number of wires and special deliveries.

"I don't suppose you'll be coming back?" he surmised.

"Why, of course I will," she insisted, "if my job's still there. I know I've been away an awfully long time."

"Your job's here all right," he assured her. "But you'll have other irons in the fire now."

Her mail came up shortly, a great bundle of it, and presently she knew that Mr. Wharton was right.

A firm of book publishers wished to know if she would write a novel from the script of the play. They would guarantee the sale of 100,000 copies. A well-known typewriter firm wrote that they are sending her a typewriter, and requested her endorsement. Tobacco manufacturers solicited approval of their particular brand of cigars. There was a cold cream manufacturer who craved her sanction of his product.

The editor of a national magazine wondered if she would care to write an article entitled "A Career Versus Love." Several studios besought the favor of an invitation sitting.

But the greatest thrill of all came when she opened the letter from a man in charge of the New York branch of a celebrated moving picture firm. Mr. Sydney Dunsany wash his name, and he wanted to know if she would consent to be filmed for a talkie.

Molly rushed to the telephone. She could not wait any longer. She must share the thrills of her success with Jack. Probably he had tried to reach her, and found the line busy. Or maybe he thought she was still resting, and did not want to disturb her.

The telephone operator thought he had gone to lunch, but she would see. Molly waited impatiently.

"Oh, hello Jack. I was afraid I'd missed you. The roses were lovely. Thank you so much. I've been waiting and waiting for you to call. I should think you'd be just dying to take me to luncheon." She laughed excitedly. "A famous lady like me!" she cried.

"I didn't know a famous lady like you would want to go anywhere with a poor man like me."

"Oh, Jack, I'm simply famishing for the sight of you!"

"Isn't Mr. Flynn around?"

"No, he went back to Boston this morning. Why, Jack, what's the matter? You know I'd rather be with you than Red."

He laughed shortly.

"You're getting very modern aren't you, Molly?"

"What do you mean?" she demanded.

"Well, I suppose it's ultra-modern to announce your engagement to one fellow, and be seen dining with an old beau. Sort of proving your independence from the kick-off? Is that it?"

"Jack Wells, what are you talking about?"

"Oh, gosh, Molly, haven't you made a chump out of me long enough?"

"Jack!"

"I've just seen the afternoon papers," he told her.

"But I don't know what you're talking about, honey!"

"Then you didn't mean to let it out so soon?" he questioned.

"Your engagement to Flynn? Well somebody's spilled it. Better get the last editions, Molly, and treat yourself to the news."

"I know it, Molly," he acknowledged humbly. "But you don't understand how things are, girlie. Listen—I'm writing you now. I'll get it on the air mail. You'll have it first thing in the morning. Will you get those news hounds to lay off, till you've heard from me? It means a lot to me, dear."

"I don't know what you're talking about," she declared mystified. "But I'll deny the engagement over the radio, if it will make you feel any better."

"Don't do anything," he begged, "until you get my letter. I can't talk over the phone."

"All right," she promised.

There were reporters in the lobby, waiting for her. But she sailed by them frigidly.

"I've nothing to say," she announced coolly. "I was misquoted this morning and I shall not give any more interviews of a personal nature."

"Mr. Durbin says your fiance's name is Wells," broke in one of the men. "Do you wish to deny the rumor of your engagement to Mr. Flynn?"

"I'll not deny anything," she said. "When you are engaged to Mr. Flynn?"

Molly colored angrily. She knew their methods so well.

"Please," she begged them. "We're all newspaper people. Can't you lay off a little while? I'll give you all the stories you want about the play. And maybe I can give you a romance story later. But not now. And please don't deny anything. Just kill it."

"Will you pose for some more pictures?" they clamored.

"If you'll promise to do as I ask," she bargained.

They went back to her room, and Molly put on various hats for them. She even changed to the green gown she had worn the night before.

"That's a lovely one you had on," remarked a girl. "I suppose you get all your frocks in Paris, Miss Burnham."

"I've never been to Paris, or anywhere," she declared. And then her eyes sparkling, she cried, "But I'm going!"

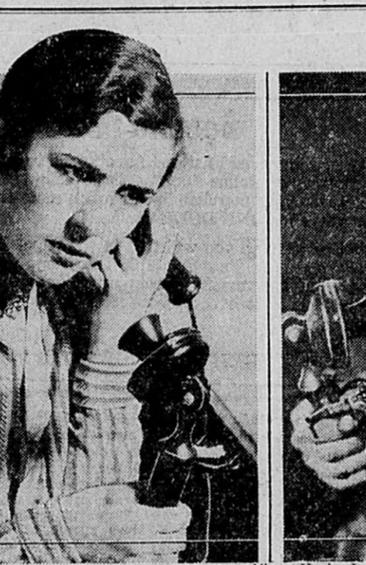

She'd run away, she decided impulsively, from everything. From Snodgrass and her mother. From Boston and Red. Yes—from New York even—and Jack.

"I'll have plenty of money," she was planning happily. "And I've been work so hard, I really need a rest. Besides, when I come back, they'll all be glad to see me—mother and Jack—and everybody."

And that afternoon she made reservations to sail for Naples on the Conte Biancamano.

The next day Red's letter came. And also a note from the dean at college, who advised her not to try to combine marriage with a career. The dean wondered politely if Miss Burnham would be kind enough to return for commencement, to speak to the graduating class.

There was a letter, too, from Rita, begging Molly to go to see her. Rita was ill, and worried. She hadn't been herself since the

"Oh, Red, it's terrible! They say we're engaged!"

"Yeah, I know. The office had a flash."

SAME OLD 'STUFF' IN A NEW PLACE

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 6.—S. T. Napper serving a five year robbery term in the penitentiary did not see why his incarceration should stand in the way of a "little deal" now and then.

Observing that his cellmate, Hugh Scurlock appeared discouraged over the prospect of serving a similar sentence, Napper generously offered to obtain a parole for the latter for the small sum of $5000. He was merely "taking the rap for a friend," he explained and really had great influence with the parole board.

The melancholy prisoner obtained the money from a brother. Napper went on a buying spree. Guards became suspicious of his sudden affluence and salvaged $300 of Scurlock's donation.

In his cell today Scurlock was even more gloomy.

CHINESE WAITER LITERAL IN SERVING INDIAN BRAVE

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 5.—When an Indian wants ham and eggs don't bring him noodles, even though he asks for noodles.

A Chinese waiter in a cafe here made that mistake and brought Joe Cloud Boy, whose wild ancestors are reputed to have ridden horses all over this part of the country, a platter of the Oriental and elongated vegetable.

The red man produced a shiny knife, put on his nastiest expression and menaced the yellow man. Officer Earl Brown entered the restaurant before violence was committed and escorted Joe Cloud Boy to the city jail where he was booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Couples Trade Helpmates In Clayton, N. M.

CLAYTON, N. M., Aug. 5.—A pair of wives and husbands traded helpmates—legally—here yesterday. They drove from Borger, Texas, in the same car to have the knot tied. And they returned to Borger in the same automobile after the minister had completed his work. Dr. R. M. Bentley, pastor of the Methodist church here, a strong opponent to divorce, who performed the double ceremony, today was busy explaining to his flock that he did not know the circumstances of the wedding. The four were divorced recently in Borger, where they had become friendly in the usual social contacts of a small town—bridge, games, automobile rides and parties. In the ceremony here A. W. Bennett, 62, married Mrs. Chavis Christmas, 22, while Bennett's former wife, Mrs. Anna D. Bennett, 35, married H. J. Christmas, 28.

Churchman Says Wet Press Seeks To Destroy Him

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Methodist dry leader, today made public a 20,000 word statement answering the recent charge that he hoarded food during the war, re-explaining the details of his loan to promote the Asheville conference of drys last summer, and quoting a denominational paper to the effect that the wet press is seeking to destroy him. Asserting he did borrow $4,000 to purchase 625 barrels of flour for Backstone college, of which he was president, shortly after the United States entered the war Cannon explained he disposed of it in 18 days after he had been assured protection against food profiteers would be given public institutions. Cannon reaffirmed a previous explanation of his expenditure of money belonging to the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service to send out announcements of the Asheville dry conference. These funds, he said, were bor-

A., while he himself preached to soldiers on the battle front. WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The Democratic party must repudiate and discard John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee, or lose permanently the dry Southern Democrats, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, said in a 20,000 word statement made public here today. The lengthy statement answered recent charges that he hoarded food during the world war and re-explained details of his personal loans to promote the Asheville conference of the anti-Smith Democrats last summer. Commenting on Chairman Raskob's speech at the recent banquet in Washington, Cannon said the former General Motors financial wizard "indulged in wild talk about a revolution in order to secure the enjoyment of life, liberty and in the pursuit of happiness. This, the churchman said, "was simply the use of somewhat different words to express frantic, undying opposition to prohibition. A clamorous demand for personal liberty and the outspoken, fixed determination that the wet Tammany semi-Republican, semi-Dem-

HARRY J. LEAHY

HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 5. (UP)—Harry J. Leahy was electrocuted Friday for the murder of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, Mathis. The current was turned on by prison guards at 12:45 a. m. and Leahy was pronounced dead five minutes later. The condemned man walked to the chair unsupported, seated himself without assistance and turned back the collar of his blue-striped prison shirt. As he was being strapped in, Assistant Night Warden Homer Knight asked Leahy whether he had anything to say. The answer was "No."

Bishop Cannon summed up his comment on the Raskob speech by saying: "Southern Democrats are of necessity permanently out of the party."

Yancey and Williams Return to Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Lewis Yancey, a west side boy who "made good," is back home today, a conquering hero. With him has come Roger Q. Williams, his companion and fellow pilot on the flight to Spain and Rome. The two fliers, after battling a gale that turned their plane upside down over the Allegheny mountains, pulled in from Washington yesterday, just two minutes behind schedule. But they didn't come in their big Bellanca Pathfinder, which carried them from Old Orchard to Rome in two hops. The Pathfinder, damaged when unloaded, from a ship in New York, was out of service. Only three of the pilots in the 40 waiting escort planes recognized Yancey and Williams as they swooped down at Fort Airport in Lansing, Ill., in the J-5, personal plane of Giuseppe Bellanca, designer of the Pathfinder. And none among the 5,000 waiting spectators darted forward to greet the alighting pilots save an elderly woman. She was Mrs. Margaret Yancey, widowed mother of Lewis.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Pearl Sadler, 43, Dallas, died in Parkland hospital Tuesday as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident in Waxahatchie Monday.

Stores, Inc., which is a subsidiary of the Butler Brothers firm.

The new store will be located at 207 and 209 Main street, the store building formerly occupied by the Jamesons and west half the building occupied by the Baltimore Bargain store. This will give the new firm a frontage of 36 feet on Main street, and a depth of 140 feet, with a stock room in the rear of the building.

The lease contract is executed by L. R. Pearson of Ranger, as lessor, and Scott Stores, Inc., of Chicago, as lessee. Mr. Pearson left for Chicago last week, but he did not state the mission of his trip before leaving, and it was not known the new firm would open a store here until announced today.

Percentage Lease

The lease contract is an index of the value of Ranger rental property from the standpoint of big business, it is stated. The lease is what is known as a "percentage lease," and is one of the first of its kind filed in Eastland county. The contract runs for a definite period of 15 years, with a five-year option on the part of the lessee.

The Butler Brothers firm is one of the pioneers in the mercantile world, having celebrated its 50th anniversary last year. Butler Brothers are engaged exclusively in the wholesale business with stores in the larger cities, including Chicago and Dallas. Scott Stores, Inc., a subsidiary of Butler Brothers, is engaged in the retail business, and is establishing a chain of stores throughout the country. The new store will handle merchandise priced from 5c to $1.00.

It is understood the work of remodeling the store building will begin as soon as Mr. Pearson returns from Chicago.

Panhandle-Plains of Texas, Inc., will send exhibits to eighteen exhibitions and fairs in different States this fall in the purpose of showing outsiders just what Texas can do.

William A. Davis Now in Marines

RANGER, Texas, August 6.—An ambition to follow the fortunes of the soldiers of the sea has been realized by William A. Davis, of Ranger, who recently "signed up" with the U. S. Marines and was sent to San Diego, Cal., for a few weeks of intensive training.

Following this period of instruction he will be available for duty on a battleship or cruiser, will be assigned to foreign service, or will be stationed at one of the many posts along the Atlantic or Pacific seaboard. The duties of the Marines are so varied that Davis will probably travel thousands of miles, and have many odd and thrilling experiences before his four year period of service is completed.

Kipling named the Marines "soldiers and sailors too" because of the nature of their duties called for their employment on both land and sea. In recent years aviation has also been an important branch of this service, and many Marines qualify as plane pilots or mechanics.

Davis is 19 years old and has made his home with his mother, Mrs. Belle M. Bush, in Ranger, prior to beginning his adventurous career with the soldiers of the sea. He will not know definitely for some weeks whether he will serve on land or sea, be attached to the aviation branch, or be assigned one of the many special tasks that fall to the lot of the Marines.

2—MALE HELP WANTED

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NRA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—A Jute plant was moved recently from a town in Maine to a town in India and the factory force of $5-a-day white men was thrown out of work in favor of Indian workers who can be had for 20 cents a day. An American firm has established a hardware factory in Germany, employing 600 Germans and turning loose 600 Americans as it abandoned its original plant.

These are instances of a trend to establish American branch or independent factories abroad—an enormously growing migration of industry which is estimated already to have placed about 2000 such plants on foreign soil. Everybody's doing it and American workers, most of all, get it in the neck.

This movement has been studied and ably described by Theodore M. Knappen in an article in the latest issue of the Magazine of Wall Street, who seeks to answer a question of interest to manufacturers, investors, workers and others—What does it portend?

Many Advantages

The main reasons for establishing American factories abroad and thus in the heart of or much nearer the export markets are to get inside tariff walls, reduce transportation costs—eliminating oceanic freight entirely—reduce labor costs, get cheaper raw materials, get nearer to the foreign consumer and his good will and to ameliorate difficulties caused by patent laws and regulations.

The profits of these enterprises return to American investors, but other countries gain through increased employment for their workmen, taxes and the increase of business due to purchases both by the factory and its workers.

On the face of it, their gains are our losses. The American Federation of Labor is studying the problem on behalf of labor, fearing a menace to the protection it has obtained under the immigration laws, which may be nullified if factories are moved to cheap foreign labor territory. The volume of American foreign trade and the development of industry at home are bound to be affected.

Establish Many Branches

Nearly all the great American corporations now have plants abroad—American Radiator, Bell Telephone, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak, International Harvester, National Cash Register, Otis Elevator, Radio Corporation, Standard Oil and the packing, automobile and tire companies are only a few. The tendency of American capital is to build its own industrial plants or buy control or outright ownership of existing plants abroad.

"The total amount of American money in stock and bonds of European manufacturing companies is between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000," Knappen says, "an amount already exceeded by the direct investment in American branch or controlled plants, which is put at over $500,000,000. The total American investment in Canadian manufacturing enterprises, mostly American owned or controlled, is $1,100,000,000. Latin America has another billion of American industrial money and the rest of the world $500,000,000. About $3,500,000,000 of American money abroad is thus competing, in some sense, with domestic investments."

ARTISTS' CITY SOON TO RISE OUTSIDE PARIS

By N. REYNOLDS PACKARD United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—The poor artists of Paris who have been driven out of their haunts in Montmartre and Montparnasse by rich American tourists are soon to have a Bohemia all to themselves.

The municipality of Paris has just announced that it is preparing to build an artists' city composed only of studios for painters and sculptors. The site of this colony is to be at Boulogne-sur-

Seine, on the outskirts of the city, far from the emporiums of night life.

Impoverished painters, who have not even been able to buy mineral water these days in the safes which their presence a few years ago made famous, will now be able to live with modern comforts. They will have the same conveniences as less artistic but wealthier people who are living in the most expensive apartment houses.

According to the city's plans an artist for 5,000 francs (about $200) a year can rent in this colony a roomy structure with a studio, two bed-rooms, a kitchenette and a tiled bath. This last luxury may prove too much for the Bohemians who have been accustomed these last year of poverty to a cheap pitcher or bucket to bathe in, bit by bit.

This project, which only awaits official sanction of the Ministry of Labor, is expected to bring together the scattered artists of Paris. Little by little they were forced to leave their studios in Montmartre and Montparnasse as the rents increased. The strange little places in which they lived and the quaint bars which they frequented soon drew hordes of tourists to them. Housing rents increased and drinks jumped in price.

Thus the sculptors and painters picked up their clay and brushes and went to cheaper quarters. Some went to the Porte d'Orleans, others to inexpensive villages along the Riviera and some went to work. Many seemed to have disappeared entirely and Bohemia thus came to its end.

The city of Paris then decided to come to the aid of the homeless artist through the Loucher housing law, by constructing studios with low rents at Boulogne-sur-Seine. The artists may again come together from their exile but there are those who think otherwise. They argue that bath-tubs and creative inspiration do not go together and that the artists may flee from such quarters de luxe.

SEEK PROTECTION FROM FRUIT FLY

By UNITED PRESS

LAREDO, Aug. 5.—Fearing invasion of the Mediterranean fruit fly into this section of Texas, more than 100 citrus fruit growers of the lower Rio Grande valley went into conference here today to de-vis ways and means of combating the pest.

They plan to ask congress for an appropriation of $1,000,000 to aid in the work of preventing the fly getting into South Texas. Invasion of the fly would result in millions of dollars damage to the citrus fruit industry, it was said.

Texas has 34 cities with population of more than 10,000 and is fifth among the States with an estimated population of $5,487,000.

Watching the Scoreboard.

Yesterday's hero: Fred Heimach of the New York Yankees, who prevented the American league race from becoming a runaway affair by shutting out the Washington Senators, 8 to 0. The American league champions lost the opening game of a double-header to the Nats, 13 to 9. Heimach, in the nightcap, allowed only three hits.

Two home runs by Jimmy Foxx enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to break even with the St. Louis Browns, thus maintaining their lead over the New York Yankees. The Browns won the first game 8 to 3, the Mackmen the second, 11 to 3.

The Cleveland Indians battled their way into a tie for third place in the American league race by beating the Detroit Tigers, 6 to 5.

Winning their second game of the season from the Chicago Cubs, the Brooklyn Robins chucked trouble into the pathway of the National league leaders. The Dodgers won, 5 to 4, before 59,999 people at Cubs park.

Bill Walker of the New York Giants pitched the McGrawmen to victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 3.

TEXAS LEAGUE

When George Connally blew up in the seventh inning, a three-run Dallas lead was overcome by a Cub rally, enabling Waco to win, 5 to 3. Thus the Cubs evened the series with the Steers.

Another rally was staged at Ft. Worth where the Catc scored four runs in the ninth to beat their visitors, the Houston Buffs, 10 to 9. It was Fo. Worth's second straight victory over the Buffaloes.

Bennett's home run with two on and Stapleton's triple with the bases full along with some excellent bat and field work enabled Wichita Falls to pile up a decisive victory over the visiting Beaumont Exporters. The score, 11 to 4.

Shreveport was the more successful in a free-hitting contest staged with the San Antonio Indians at Shreveport yesterday and won the game, 11 to 6.

One of Two Stolen Cars is Recovered

RANGER, Texas, August 7.—A gray Chevrolet car stolen from near the West Texas Clinic and Hospital Saturday night had not been recovered early today. The car belonged to A. F. Williams.

The Chevrolet coupe owned by Tom McLusky and which was also stolen Saturday night was found in a field about a mile southwest of Ranger, with all tires stripped from it.

COBNING, Mo., Aug. 6.—Creeping towards Corning from two sides, the Missouri river today still threatened to eat away the town.

PRISON BURNS A S CONVICTS RIOT

Burning of the Auburn, N. Y., prison in the spectacular matiny of 1700 convicts, who set fire to a half-dozen buildings in a sensational break for freedom, is strikingly portrayed in this NEA Service aerial photo. Firemen are shown on the high penitentiary walls, vainly fighting the blaze, while guards inside the prison quadrangle battled inmates who had armed themselves with guns and ammunition from the prison arsenal. Fire destroyed the furniture plant, the cane shop, the prison kitchen, the machine shop, the State shop and the fingerprinting office, with its Bertillon records. Two convicts were killed and four escaped.

MANY ARE HERE FOR SESSION

Forty-Five Attend Oil Belt Chiropractic Society Convention.

RANGER, Texas, August 6.—Forty-five members of the Oil Belt Chiropractic Society were present here yesterday for the convention at the Gholson Hotel.

Members were represented from as far west as Big Spring, as far south as Brownwood and Stephenville, as far north as Graham, Stamford and Munday. Abilene is the central city of the society.

The opening feature of the day was luncheon in the green room of the Gholson. Dr. H. A. Hoy of Cisco, president of the society, was master of ceremonies.

After luncheon, Dr. G. G. Bronson welcomed the members to Ranger. Judge J. D. Barker of Cisco addressed the society on the theme of loyalty to suffering humanity. Dr. H. C. Allison of Fort Worth spoke on the subject, "The Chiropractic Situation in Texas."

Dr. Fred Crowder of San Angelo addressed the gathering on the value of X-ray on chiropractic analysis of the human spine. He recently installed an Engeln X-ray machine in his offices in San Angelo. An Engeln machine is used by Dr. Bronson here.

Dr. Crowder spoke of the efficiency promoted by the use of the Engeln machine. The entertainment program was in charge of Mrs. Ben McClinton and daughter, Zelia Blanche, and Mrs. Stinton, all of Cisco.

Following the addresses and entertainment, a business session of the society was held. The next meeting of the organization will be held at the Hilton Hotel in Abilene Sunday and Monday, September 7 and 8.

he knows every door knob in the place. He polished them 27 years ago.

The huge German nobleman who by his good nature and sportsmanship won over even those he made prisoner, whose daring raids aboard an ancient wind-jammer have become a wartime epic, reveals in the current issue of World's Work magazine that even before the war he knew America better than most Americans.

It was all because he wanted to see Buffalo Bill, hero of American Wild West shows, Von Luckner relates. He had run away from home to go to sea as a boy of 13, but not before he had been thrilled by reading tales of the white-haired scout in Germany.

Long Journey on Foot
 Landing in San Francisco on an early voyage, he inquired where Buffalo Bill lived. When told the plainsman lived in Denver, he asked the way and a practical joker pointed to an east-bound railroad track. Von Luckner penitence, started out to walk to Denver—and did it, after five weeks!

"Sometimes a brakeman let me ride on a train, but mostly it was the ties," he says. "I was hungry, and hunger is a thing I never liked. Sometimes I worked for something to eat, sometimes I could steal some corn or a chicken."

But he got to Denver, intending "to ask Buffalo Bill if I could ride with him and hunt buffalo over the plains of Colorado." Then the heavy hand of iron clapped him in the face. He went to the home of Col. Cody where he was told that Buffalo Bill was with his Wild West show in Germany!

"There was nothing to do but get back to the sea, so I decided to take the ties for New York," he continues. "Only those Americans realize how great their country is who have walked across it on ties."

It took him five months to reach New York. Then unable to get a sea-going job, he finally found work polishing brass at the hotel.

"I was in contact with your best people," he says. "I saw them going by—your Morgans and Rockefellerers—when I was polishing brass. They were self-made men; an inspiration. Now I always stop there to look at my old door knobs and have a chat with my successors."

Invention Gives Airport Lights

MADRID, Aug. 6.—Automatic lighting of airports at night for planes landing unexpectedly has been made possible by an invention of Ricardo Susana, a Spanish engineer.

Susana's process is simple in the extreme. It can be carried out by any aviator anxious to come down in the dark air field he spotted, but where he would almost certainly wreck his plane if he tried to land without light. All he has to do is to drop from the air a Bengallight. Less than one minute later the aerodrome is fully illuminated.

A small instrument, no larger than a cigar-box is placed in one of the corners of the field. The Bengallight strikes the television cell of the instrument which is a lamp with two electrodes, communicating its changes of resistance to an incandescent relay that acts upon an electro-magnet. This electro-magnet closes the circuit of a stronger electro-magnet serving as power-relay, and opening the lighting system.

Numerous tests have been made in Spain to demonstrate the efficiency of the invention. In 12 seconds, a plane flying 600 feet above the ground has been able, shooting Bengallights with a pistol, to light a field reflector.

Also 600 feet up, by the same process, all the lamps of a factory have been lighted and the engines set to work in the factory.

Susana has found that his instrument cannot be put out of order by moon rays, lightning, or lateral rays coming from the ground.

He is now studying the application of his invention to road lighting for automobiles travelling at night. Instruments would be placed every mile and a half and struck by a side-light placed on the cars, thus lighting the road ahead during the time computed necessary for the automobile to cover the distance, and so on.

The main advantage of road-lighting that way would be to reduce enormously the use of glaring lights that would no longer be necessary most of the time, saving the batteries and making night travelling in automobiles much more agreeable and safe.

VAST UNION OF PRESBYTERIANS CALLED URGENT

PEN MAR, Pa.—Immediate and unconditional reunion of all the branches of the Presbyterian Church was advocated here today by Dr. William Chalmers Covert, of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, in an address before thousands of his co-religionists at the annual Pen-Mar reunion.

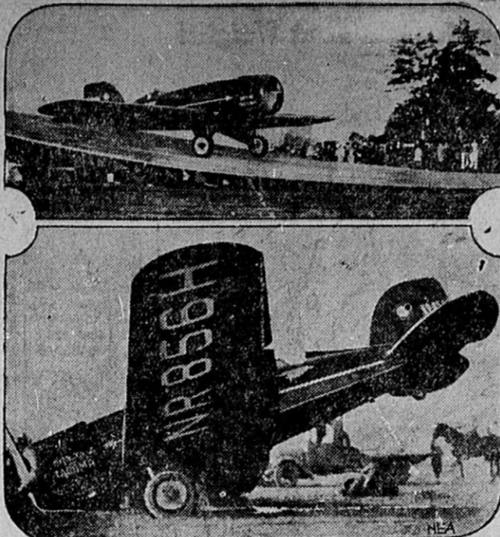

If achieved, the union of the 13 different factions into one organization with a total of more than 18,000 churches and nearly 3,000,000 members, might well lead to a united Protestantism in America in the opinion of many leading members of the denomination in attendance here.

"Every argument for reuniting the separated units of our great family has taken on new urgency today," Dr. Covert declared. "Every objection that has heretofore arisen to postpone and prevent this natural and inevitable oneness, has less weight with the thoughtful and devoted leaders in the church than at any time in a generation."

Dr. Covert touched on racial groupings in the church and said that conditions that "once justified or made congenial" the separate groupings of Presbyterians in the pioneer days have gone by because of the dilution of the old racial stocks and the universality and supremacy of the "real American breed of Presbyterians."

Civil War Strife Dead
"The differences that arose out of the sorrows and griefs of the battlefields of '61 to '65 have long since found their solution in the hearts of those comrades of the Blue and Gray. If those old fighters, now on their final march, have learned to walk together in the love of a common flag, so many Presbyterians, North and South, who are their sons and share all their pride and their loyalties, walk together under the bonnie blue flag of Presbyterianism. What they can do for their country, we can do for our Christ."

End of Proposed Flight to Japan

The start and the end of Lieutenant Harold Bromley's proposed non-stop flight from Tacoma, Wash., to Tokio, Japan, came almost simultaneously, as these two pictures show. Above Bromley is pictured in his bullet-like plane as he started down the runway on his take-off; below, the wrecked plane a moment later it had nosed over. Bromley, although injured, plans another try soon.

Doctrinal differences which heretofore have separated the various branches of the Presbyterian Church were characterized as "negligible" and "minor differences" by Dr. Covert.

"Peter, James, John and the other disciples found their way to Jesus over different pathways," he said. "Their approach was conditioned by their environment, their temperament, their personality, but all found their place as one man at His feet and before His cross, and in an act of sublime self-sacrifice in His program of service and salvation for a lost world. The eyes and minds and perceptive powers of those disciples may have been different but they saw and felt and loved, and rose to serve Him in time and eternity."

Dr. Covert declared the union of the various branches of Presbyterianism was a "paramount issue in the Kingdom of God and a supreme need in the nation."

In making his plea for Presbyterian unity under the name of "The Presbyterian Church of America," Dr. Covert declared that while the Roman theory of church government has its place and its right, "we recognize that over against a monarchical church government with its seat of supreme authority in a foreign land, there must be kept active, the simple, compact and representative form of church government so native to our democratic ideals."

Church Colleges Menaced
Increased cost of education and rising academic standards made necessary by modern accrediting agencies is threatening the life and work of the church colleges, Dr. Covert said.

"We are now facing the alternative of a purely secular education and a culture void of religious ideals, or the maintenance in more worthy fashion through co-operation and union of our church colleges affiliated with our Presbyterian and Reformed Churches," the speaker said.

Dr. Covert characterized as "the most destructive heresy at work today" modern behaviorism. "A spiritual basis for life and spiritual background for faith is not in the picture for our modern behaviorist," the speaker declared. "Here we face the most destructive heresy at work today. It nullifies both theology and religion and wipes out all moral sanctions. It de-spiritualizes life and leaves us hopeless and godless in a welter of physical sensations that we once thought were the fruits of love and hope and faith and other noble realities of the spiritual world."

"In the presence of this type of subtle and deadly negation of all that underlies our concepts of God and a spiritual world, the immaterial and minor distinctions that keep us fellow-Presbyterians apart and keep our total intellectual and moral powers decentralized, sink into utter insignificance. The ominous reality in our present-day American life of this rising peril of a paginated interpretation of life and a godless order of the universe ought to challenge the conscience of our divided forces and to compel our scattered marching units to close order, till, as in the old Roman legions, every soldier's shield overlapped and defended every other soldier. If it is fighting strength we need, union will bring it. If it is increased power of attack, the close order and integrated movement will bring it."

HOUSTON NEGRO BUILDS PLANES

Doesn't Know Much About 'Em But Is Hopeful

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 5.—Darius Green and his flying machine had nothing on Lloyd Womac, negro.

Lloyd has built his own plane. Equipped with a motorcycle motor, the small monoplane has an iron fuselage, bright colored wings with a 24-foot spread, and just barely enough room for the pilot. Womac admits he doesn't know much about flying but this is the second plane he has built.

"That first one didn't look right so he started out to build a new one," one of his negro friends explained.

Womac's inquiries as to "Who wants a ride?" doesn't get many affirmative answers.

"Sho, it's gonna fly," he declared. "Ain't no reason why not. Got a good motor, spreadin' wings, everything it takes tuh make me go up and say howdy tuh de hawks an' de eagles."

IN HONOR OF BIRTHDAY OF HEAD OF FAMILY.

John Fehl had a surprise party arranged for the celebration of his birthday at the Fehl family home on South Seaman, Monday evening at 9 o'clock, when his wife had many members of his home circle, and a few others, waiting to welcome him upon his return from his office. The brightly lighted house beamed a happy birthday and a big, white iced birthday cake, set in a mound of roses, had the place of honor, on a side table.

Bridge the diversion, was arranged for four tables and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Artie Fehl, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jerrell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Peretti, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. O'Rourke, Mrs. W. Wahl, Fred Fehl and Mr. and Mrs. John Fehl. Favors for high scores, handsome thermos jugs, were awarded Mrs. Jarrell and Mr. O'Rourke and consolation, a gorgeous dinner kerchief, went to Mrs. O'Rourke.

Mr. Fehl was showered with handsome birthday gifts and remembrances, including an exhaustive array of cheerful ties, hose and other colorful attire. At close of a happy evening the hostess served a dainty plate of ice cream, cake and iced tea.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fehl and family of four boys and two girls, came to Eastland from Ohio eleven years ago, just as the oil boom was blaring—and Mr. Fehl went in to the oil game, with growing success. ## Dry Shooting Up To High Court

Use of firearms by prohibition agents in enforcing the dry laws will be affected materially by a decision of the United States circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati in the Roy V. Miller case. Miller, above, was convicted in federal court at Paducah, Ky., for firing upon an alleged violator of the law in 1925. Sentenced this year to serve two years in prison, he appealed the case. Miller is the first dry agent convicted in nine years of prohibition.

Up in the Air in Texas

Aviation is booming in Snyder, a town of 5,000 people which has an airport with a landing area of 3,000 acres, a hangar that will house six planes, an electric refueling pump, an administration office, plane supply room and a machine shop. A government license pilot is in charge of the field. A monoplane is used for commercial work, flying school and cross country hops.

Ten ships have already signed up to make the good-will trip from Fort Worth to Sweetwater, Aug. 10 and 11, for the opening of Sweetwater's new airport. Prizes of $15,000 will be awarded for various contests, races, and stunts scheduled for the two-day event. The tour which starts from Fort Worth will be made so that the planes will stop at Breckenridge and Stamford. The new Sweetwater field includes 260 acres and one hangar 118 by 100 feet in size. A $20,000 inn is adjacent to the field.

T. E. (Uncle Tom) Blair, a resident of Alvarado and pioneer resident of Johnson county is claiming the world's record for airplane flights for a man the age of 82 years. He has been aloft 63 times and delights in doing all the stunts known to the aviators. He is well known and a favorite among the fliers. He is hoping to get in one of the endurance flights or hop off on a voyage across the Atlantic.

The city commission of San Benito has closed an agreement with L. C. Elliott, airways extension superintendent of the U. S. department of commerce whereby land will be furnished near that city for an emergency landing field to be developed, equipped and maintained by the government.

Aviation has a large part in the thoughts of Ranger citizens for the present and the future. It is the intention of the Chamber of Commerce there to continue to improve the airport from time to time to keep pace with aviation, to work in behalf of the designation of Ranger as an air mail stop and to establish here in the near future an aviation training school.

The popularity that aviation is gaining at the present time may be seen in the fact that in one day 26 planes, with crews of 28 and carrying 34 passengers arrived and departed at Meacham field, Fort Worth.

A novel feature has been added to the already complete and thrilling program for the opening of the Sweetwater municipal airport, Aug. 10 and 11. Earl Aken, one of the foremost glider men in the country will make four daily glider flights. The glider is a motorless plane designed and built by Akin of Breckenridge, and is the only commercial glider in the state. It was the first glider to be registered by the department of commerce. He will attempt to make a new glider record on the 260-acre airport there.

E. G. (Swede) Hhenstrom, operations manager, has recently been made chief of the technical staff and put in charge of all flying activities of the various divisions of the Southern Air Transport, Inc., at Fort Worth.

Modern Author Not a Recluse

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—There may have been more truth than caricature in that old-fashioned picture of the writing man as a dreamy, long-haired individual hidden away from the world in a Bohemian attic, or digging from library shelves. But the man who creates the popular fiction of today is rarely, if ever, such a literary recluse. More likely he has a career spotted with soldiering, reporting, law practice, exploring or even taxi-driving. He lives his stories.

Arthur Bartlett Maurice who points out this change in status in the current issue of The Bookman, cites, as a vivid example, the career of Stewart Edward White, lumberjack, sailor, explorer, big game hunter and, incidentally, author of a score of best-sellers since 1901.

Mr. White might have led a more secluded life if he had joined the Marines. His first widely read novel, "The Blazed Trail," was written while in a Michigan lumber camp, written between four and six a. m. because his cabin mates objected when he sat up late of nights.

His "Lions In the Path," was mostly written in a hut 60 miles from the African equator, after one arm had been so badly chewed by a leopard that he could do nothing but write. "The Cabin" was written on the spot described in the book, in the highest and wildest Sierras. "Secret Harbor" was done between spells of fishing in Alaskan waters.
