SAN ANTONIO UPHOLDS OLD SPANISH LAW

Edict of King Phillip II Is Affirmed by City Commission.

By United Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 6.—An edict issued by King Phillip II of Spain hundreds of years ago to the effect that the copula of San Fernando cathedral would be the geographic center of San Antonio has been affirmed by the city commission.

The ordinance passed by the city commission included the territorial enlargement of the city from 36 to 144 square miles, and increased its population 50,000. The ordinance was passed in pursuance of a city charter election last December which gave the city commission authority to take into San Antonio unincorporated suburbs as it saw fit. The ordinance will have to be passed twice again by the commission within the next 30 days before it becomes effective.

When the first plans of San Antonio were laid out by Jesuit Fathers, Texas was a Spanish possession, and King Phillip II decreed that the copula of the San Fernando cathedral would be the geographic center of the San Antonio that was to be. The historic cathedral, the Alamo and other Spanish Missions had already been erected at that time.

Alamo Heights and south San Antonio, incorporated villages, were not included in the several suburbs taken into the city. A fight between San Antonio and Alamo Heights appeared certain today for possession of Blue Bonnet Hills, a suburb already annexed by Alamo Heights. Mayor C. M. Chambers of San Antonio said Alamo Heights had no right to annex the suburb, and that it would be annexed by San Antonio in a short time.

Man, 74, Killed By Son, 42, Whom He Had Spanked

Quarrel Between the Two Starts When Father Accuses Son's Wife of Stealing Eggs.

By United Press
BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Aug. 6.—The curse of murder runs in the blood of the giant members of the Kent family has broken out again—this time over whether a 74-year old man has the right to spank a 42-year old son.

George Kent, 42, sat in the county jail at Newfane last night and confessed he killed his father who despite his extreme age was known as the strongest man in the village of Grafton.

It was the third murder in the family in 17 years and the second case of parricide. Llewellyn Kent, the father, died last night.

"He was always beating me up," the younger Kent said. "I was always afraid of him. He was ugly. The old man thought he could keep on hitting me just the same as he always did when I was a boy."

The quarrel between father and son started over the disappearance of a few eggs from the former's chicken coop. Llewellyn Kent charged his daughter-in-law with stealing the eggs. During the argument George Kent entered the farmhouse where they all lived.

Llewellyn Kent told his son to leave the farm and never come back, accordin to witnesses. George Kent said his father then attempted to beat him and that he ran into another room and got a .25 caliber pistol. They scuffled and witnesses said George fired three times, the first bullet going wild and the second and third striking Llewellyn in the head.

A brother of the dead man was killed in Wardsboro, Vt., a few years ago by his son, Fred Kent, who stabbed his father to death with a fish spear.

A son of Llewellyn Kent was hanged for the murder of Delia Condon, whom he chopped to death with a meat cleaver at Wallingford, Vt.

Kent, arraigned late last night, pleaded not guilty and waived examination and reading of the complaint. He was held without bail. Kent seemed unperturbed over the killing. Rather, jail officials said, he continued to express his resentment at his father's treatment of him.

Graf Zeppelin Will Encounter Numerous Perils

Round the World Flight Expected to Start Wednesday at Midnight.

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent.
LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 6.—Perils unknown even to such hardy adventurers as trans-Atlantic fliers await the Graf Zeppelin on its round-the-world flight, in the opinion of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible.

The long cruise is scheduled to start from here Wednesday at midnight and 60 men worked today at the job of refueling the great airship. They were filling her both with hydrogen, the lifting gas, and ethane, the fuel gas, and it was expected the work would not be finished before tomorrow evening.

Dr. Eckener believes the most formidable obstacle in the way of realization of his dream of an aerial circumnavigation of the world will be encountered in the silences over the Siberian Tundra wastes, between Friedrichshafen and Tokio.

Grave as the dangers of trans-oceanic passages are admitted to be, powerful radio stations sputter essential information from either shore. Scores of well wishing surface ships are ready to pick up, and if necessary re-transmit these weather observations to their aerial competitor. Upon the basis of this constant flow of data, navigation officers of the Graf Zeppelin chart their winding course. Word of the craft south of a storm center here, or speed up their motors to catch a favorable wind reported nearby.

Asia offers no radio protection to aerial navigators. There are not even adequate maps. For land marks, Eckener must utilize the great rivers which twist through the Russo-Asiatic plain. Word of chart always not have preceded him to the far places he must pass over. The Graf might be pot-shotted by an anxious villager unaware of its peaceful mission.

Germany's great wireless stations at Nauen will keep in touch with the Graf. But Nauen will have no means of predicting weather conditions ahead of the dirigible. Always ahead will be the curving horizon beckoning the craft forward to unknown danger. Eckener will sleep more soundly when that stretch is passed. To land without destroying the ship probably would be impossible. Bringing such a craft to earth is an operation requiring 10 men below for every man in the dirigible's crew.

The Pacific ocean apparently concerns Eckener but slightly. He will fly north of ship lanes, along the Aleutian Island group to the vicinity of Seattle, Wash., where he will turn south to his first American stop at Los Angeles. A new test awaits the Graf Zeppelin between Los Angeles and Lakehurst on the final lap during which the Rocky Mountain chain must be crossed in the vicinity of Tucson, Ariz. Valleys are more to a Zeppelin's liking. The atmosphere in which Rocky Mountain peaks thrust upward is light in comparison to that nearer sea level and the lifting power of the Graf's hydrogen bags will be reduced in proportion.

"Our route will depend on weather conditions," Eckener explained. "I would like to take the northern route through Siberia and down the coast of Sashalien to Tokio but we may have to follow the trans-Siberian railway."

That will be the most difficult part of our journey over Siberia to Japan.

Body of Lost Dry Agent Is Sought In Detroit River

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—John M. Heath, Detroit elevator engineer, will surrender to federal authorities here today to give his version of the presumed drowning in the Detroit river of federal prohibition agent George Sundland. Meanwhile search for Sundland's body was resumed.

Sundland, a former New York dry agent, disappeared early Saturday shortly after he and another officer attempted to seize the Maxine a cabin cruiser owned by Heath.

Late Monday, while a widespread search was being conducted for the missing agent, Max Finkleton, attorney for Heath, notified the district attorney's office here that Heath and Sundland fell into the river after a struggle which occurred when the agent, without identifying himself, attempted to arrest Heath and his wife, Maxine. Heath, through his attorney, declared that he swam back to his cabin cruiser and never saw Sundland again but believed he had gotten safely to shore.

Heath's story as told by his attorney conflicts with the report of Walter S. Petty, acting collector of customs. Petty's report was that while customs border patrol inspector Milton Larsen, Sundland's partner, went to telephone the patrol base for instructions, Sundland boarded the Maxine and was spirited away in the craft.

Millenium to Be Ushered In War God Mars has been a terror since the very beginning of recorded history.

That remarkable document known as the Kellogg-Briand treaty for renunciation of war was proclaimed July 24 by Pres. Herbert Hoover at a simple White House ceremony.

Speaking of the treaty the president said "it suggested a new step in international law, and represented a platform from which there is instant appeal to the public opinion of the world as to specific acts and deeds."

And then in conclusion the president added that "he would dare predict that the influence of the treaty for the renunciation of war will be felt in a large proportion of all future international acts."

He announced that the "laying down of three American cruisers would be suspended until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity with Great Britain that I expect to be reached."

Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald of the British empire on the other side of the Atlantic was in the picture at the same time that Pres. Hoover was proclaiming to the world the treaty for renunciation of war.

MacDonald announced a program of definite reductions in naval building, and a slow down of the current program of British naval construction.

Woodrow Wilson did not dream in vain. He did not plan in vain. He did not die broken hearted in vain. His dream of the outlawry or renunciation of war by the nations of the world would come to pass and that the blood and treasure sacrifices of the world war would make the universe safe for democracy.

Let us forget Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald is the leader of the socialist labor party of Great Britain. He is one of the world's outstanding statesmen. At the beginning of the world war he was a pacifist. He was hooted and hated by a vast majority of the people of Great Britain. His picture was turned to the wall.

Now he is the foremost advocate of lasting peace in all Europe and has announced his willingness to throw in the discard the naval mastery of the seven seas upheld by his empire for four centuries.

Tong Warfare Continues In Larger Cities

Tongmen's guns have killed five persons and wounded three others in four cities in the last two days, despite threats of U. S. Attorney Charles Tuttle in New York to deport national tong leaders and any other Chinese unable to prove their right in this country.

Chicago: One On Leong tongman dead; another dangerously wounded. Newark: One Chinese, kinsman of Hip Sing tongman, dead.

The warfare, according to those wise in the ways of tongs, arose through belief by Hip Sing that the larger and wealthier On Leong tong was proselyting its members.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Police forestalled today what they believe was an effort to murder Willie Lee, head of the On Leong tong, and a further outbreak of the tong war that was renewed over the weekend.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Less than two hours after United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had issued a warning to warring Tongsters here, another Chinese was shot to death last night.

That occurred shortly after the United States and Chinese governments had combined forces in an attempt to halt the Tong killings which have broken out in several cities in the last three days.

State Expected To Rest Today In Snook Case

By Morris De Haven Tracy United Press Staff Correspondent. COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6.—The questioning which led to the alleged confession of Dr. James Howard Snook, accused of the murder of Theora Hix, was described in court today.

Howard Lavelly, detective, described the questioning, admitted he was accompanied by "rough words" and by the use of a "stool pigeon." He had been called by the state to identify the hammer and knife with which Theora was killed.

Dr. Snook didn't listen to Lavelly's description of how he had found the hammer and knife. When they walked over and exhibited them to the jury, pointing out bloodstains, Dr. Snook had his back turned and was watching bullfight bandage a sore thumb.

On cross-examination the defense brought out admissions that Lavelly and others cursed Snook and called him "yellow dog," and "a rat," during the questioning which led to the purported confession of the professor.

A sidelight on police methods was given when Lavelly described how he placed a forger whom he "done a favor" in Snook's cell as a "stool pigeon."

The questioning, Lavelly said, lasted to 5 a. m., when Dr. Snook was taken back to jail. Snook, during part of the examination frequently whispered to Max Seyfert, cross examining counsel.

Lavelly revealed that he had arranged to have Charley Carrie, accused of forgery, to observe "Snook's reaction and see what he would tell."

Evidence by which the state expects to convict Dr. Snook of the murder of Theora Hix will be completed today, according to Prosecutor John J. Chester Jr., who said he had but one major witness to be examined.

It was state Secretary Stimson also suggested that the commission was to be empowered to find methods for the future administration of the disputed road to prevent a repetition of the trouble and that pending a complete settlement a foreign manager, from a county not directly interested, be appointed to take charge of the road and to be empowered with wide authority to safeguard the interests of all concerned.

The United Press correspondent was informed on excellent authority that such a move would not meet with the approval of Soviet officials, who would regard that sort of intervention as anti-Soviet in character.

Meanwhile it was reported from the East that Chinese authorities had made further attempts to negotiate with M. Melnikoff, Soviet representative in Manchuria, now on route to Moscow. The reports stated that Melnikoff refused to negotiate, informing the Chinese officials that he was not empowered to carry on negotiations. The reports of other negotiations along the frontier were officially denied.

Water Gifford, Wife Divorced

RENO, Nev., Aug. 6.—Testimony in the divorce of Florence Pitman Gifford from Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, was made public today, after Mrs. Gifford had been granted a decree behind closed doors. The complaint and testimony revealed Gifford was so wrapped up with the commercial success of the corporation of which he is head that he was unmindful of his wife and of his home. Mrs. Gifford further claimed that her husband's idea about society differed so from hers that they could not live together. Publicity was given to the charges after Judge George A. Bartlett, before whom the case was tried, held a conference with the attorneys and with newspaper representatives. Gifford was charged by his wife with being so deeply centered in his business career that married life was distasteful to him and he

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Molly Burnham, little ex-reporter from Boston, has become the pet and darling of Broadway because of her play. George Durbin, the famous theatrical producer, made her guest of honor at one of his smart and sophisticated parties. The evening was not a success for Molly, however. Her mother, disgusted with the play, refused to attend the party. And her father had to remain with his angry, fuming spouse. Jack Wells, Molly's sweetheart, was not there either. Jack spent the evening pacifying Molly's perturbed family.

After supper, Mr. Durbin sent out for the morning papers, to see what the critics had to say. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIII

The reviews were unanimously enthusiastic. The most critical of them opined that "there is more dramatic life in Molly Burnham's 'Death of Delphine Darrows' than in ninety-ninths of the so-called dramas of realism. It has the pungent odor of actuality. It has a pulse that gallops."

"Hard-boiled relief from all the sweetie-pie stuff in town," announced another. "A melodrama of blood and sex. Raw emotions and naked truth. It may offend your sensibilities, but it will give you a great kick."

Every paper in New York had reviewed the play, and many of them had reference to it in their news sections. Molly's picture was in five papers, and the story of Dopey Dan and the shooting was told in all but one.

After the party, the Durbins took her in their car to her hotel. It was 3 o'clock, and Molly knew that she must be up early, to see her father and mother. But she felt that it would be a mistake to disturb her mother at that hour. She sent a boy for all the papers, in order that she might read again and again the words that were more precious to her than rubies or diamonds.

"I'll clip the most dignified ones, and give them to Mother," she decided, "and trust to luck that she doesn't see those that call a spade a spade—and worse."

She was about to step into the city tricks." Her father looked at her adoringly. "Don't you stay up any longer now," he scolded. "You're white as a sheet, and your eyes got big black circles round them. It's been a great night for you, Molly, and a proud day for us all. What you need now is a good night's sleep. Will you stay in bed in the morning, to please your old father?"

"I think it would be a pious notion," she agreed. "I am just about dead. I'll tell them at the desk that I don't want to be disturbed. The papers will be phoning in the morning. I'll be material for interviews for a few days. . . . What time are you and mother going, Dad?"

"There's a train at 2 o'clock," he declared. "Then I'll leave word that I'm not to be called until 11. Will you come to my room then, and we'll have breakfast together."

"I'll tell Mother," he promised. "Now you go to bed, Molly." They went up in the elevator together, and when they reached Molly's floor, her father kissed her. Awkwardly. Tenderly.

"Until morning, Dad," she said. But in the morning, when Molly woke, her father and mother were on their way home. They had left a note, saying that her mother was still unwell, and they thought it best to return to Snodgrass immediately. It was a polite, distant note, written in her mother's firm hand. They hoped she would come to see them soon. She would always be welcome. Might success crown all her efforts. "But a good name," reminded her mother sentimentally, "is rather to be chosen than great riches." And "he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent."

Under her mother's upright signature, there was a careless scrawl—"Lots of love—Dad."

"He knew last night that Mother was dragging him back to-day," decided Molly, "and he didn't want to upset me. Dear old Dad."

She wondered if he had always been so subservient to her mother's whims. She tried to imagine them when they were young, and manly in love. And she wondered if they had been deliberately withholding, one of the other. It seemed to her that any girl could have loved her father when he was young. He must have been so big and strong. And handsome too, in a wholesome, country way.

Then she visioned her mother, stiff in whalebone and steel. And she wondered that her father had not married, instead, some little, clinging girl.

"And if he had," she reflected, "it'd be nine-tenths another to one-tenth me."

Molly realized that it was from her mother she had inherited her tenacity of purpose, and her determination to succeed. From her darling, vacillating father she seemed to have inherited nothing at all.

The telephone interrupted her meditations. "It's after 11 o'clock, Miss Burnham, and there are a number of reporters waiting to see you."

"I'll be ready in 15 minutes," she said. "Tell them to come up then."

She kicked the newspapers in the closet. She wouldn't have anyone say of her that she was gloating over the reviews. There was someone knocking at the door already. A boy with flowers. She opened them hurriedly, poking among roses and orchids for cards. . . . Jack's card. In the fifth box she found it, tucked among the sweet, hard buds of crimson roses. "I love you always," it said. Not a thing about seeing her. "The ideal!" she fumed. "I'll phone him the minute the reporters go."

"You don't know?" "Well, I'm not sure," she parried, laughing at their amazement. "Who is it?" they demanded. "The chap who collaborated with you on the play? What's his name?" "Flynn?"

"Oh, goodness! Please don't drag Red into it." Now, Molly, being a newspaper woman, should have known better. The afternoon papers carried headlines. And it was really her own fault.

"Molly Burnham Engaged," they proclaimed. "Girl Playwright To Wed Newspaper Man"

"Romance of Boston Girl Reads Like Best Seller"

I simply can't understand these modern girls, the way they pass kisses around!

Why try to understand them? I'm for 'em!

You would be. I have a sneaking idea from the way you looked that you didn't mind that kiss a bit

WHAT KISSES TELL MOTHER

Keeping children well is easy when mother can read the early symptoms of childhood's ills.

If little ones are fretful, pale, languid, won't eat and want to be mothered; when they often get colds and sore throat and seem feverish, depend upon it the bowels are sluggish. You notice unpleasant breath when you kiss them—sure sign of constipation and a sour stomach.

Give a little California Fig Syrup to purify the system and see how quickly it restores strength, appetite and joyous spirits. It acts without pain and gently cleanses the bowels of constipation, sours the digestion and keeps the little one sickly and backward.

If you suspect measles or some other children's disease, give a dose of California Fig Syrup without delay. The doctor will praise your foresight. California Fig Syrup is the finest laxative in the world for children. It suits them perfectly and they love its delicious taste. For a child who is habitually constipated there is no other remedy to equal California Fig Syrup for coaxing the bowels back to healthy regularity. If you have a child who is troublesome in this way try California Fig Syrup. Get a bottle today. All drug stores have it.

California Fig Syrup has been trusted by the world's mothers for over 30 years. That is why the word "California" should be emphasized when buying.

MONDAY CHURCH SOCIETY DAY ATTENDANCE AFFECTED BY WARM WEATHER

Monday was another one of those superlatively, fiercely hot days when one sought the shade of the electric fan or the cooling depths of the bath tub in preference to any kind of activity that involved getting out on the streets enroute to church or house. And it was therefore with surprise that the church societies reported a fair attendance and even in instances, a good attendance.

The Mission Society of the Christian church was hastened by Mrs. Fred Davenport, whose pleasing home was cooled by electric fans and many generous windows opened to the breeze. Pretty flowers graced the rooms, yellow gladiolus in the living room and colorful zenias in golden hues massed in the center of the prettily prepared punch table in the dining room, and also decorating buffet and service tables. The yellow tinted fruit punch was served from the attractive table spread in yellow glistening linen.

The program for the afternoon, based on "Heart of Man; Heart of God," was led by Mrs. J. H. Caton, with subjects covering the Missions of Japan led by Mrs. T. A. Bendy and Mrs. Galbraith. A delightful reading was given by Mrs. L. M. Smitham, and the program concluded with a dialogue, "Something for Jesus." An offering was taken and a lovely offertory hymn was sung.

The Missionary society will meet the first Monday in September at three p. m., with the president, Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, at her residence. There will be no meeting of the Aid society of the Christian church until September. Mrs. Davenport's delightful hospitality was enjoyed by Mrs. J. H. Caton, Mrs. M. L. Smitham, Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, Mrs. R. S. Wynne, Mrs. Henry Ferrell, Mrs. H. B. Meek, Mrs. T. J. Barton, Mrs. J. Galbraith, Mrs. Will Wood, Mrs. I. L. Gattis, Mrs. Carl Page, Mrs. T. A. Bendy and Mrs. Webster.

CLASS IN EVANGELISM, CHURCH OF CHRIST

A most interesting lesson, based on the seventh chapter of Matthew, was discussed by Mrs. E. D. Hurley, the teacher for the day of the women's class in evangelism of the Church of Christ. On account of the extremely hot day there was a very slim attendance but those who heard the lesson felt well repaid for their effort in attending.

The class will meet at 4 p. m., next week, with Mrs. C. D. Knight as lecturer. Place, in the church.

This Woman Says Her Improvement Has Been Wonderful

Cisco Housewife Gains Daily On Orgatone and Says Everybody In The House is Talking About How Much Better She Looks.

"I lost in health and strength until I became so run-down I almost hated to look at myself in the glass," said Mrs. C. E. Ross, 209 Ave. I, in a conversation with the Orgatone representative recently. Mrs. Ross has lived in Cisco, for the past six years and is well known.

"About a year ago," continued Mrs. Ross, "I commenced to have weak nervous spells, and one thing and another kept coming on until my suffering seemed more than I could bear. I got in such an extreme nervous, run down condition that it was almost impossible for me to sleep, and I would lie awake night after night and toss and roll until I thought I would go distracted. I lost my appetite entirely and I got so I didn't even want to look at anything to eat. At times I felt so weak I could hardly stay up and look after my housework. I went under treatment and took lots of medicines of different kinds, but got very little results and begun to think I would never get well."

"I began taking Orgatone because I read so many endorsements from people whom I knew wouldn't make a statement that wasn't true, and it has helped me more than I can find words to express it, it has strengthened me wonderfully and I can't speak too highly of it. My appetite is unusually good, I eat a hearty supper every night and often just before going to bed I eat a light lunch. I go to sleep now almost as soon as I touch the pillow and sleep soundly all night, and get up in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. My complexion is better, and I feel better in every way than I have since my troubles began, and I am recommending Orgatone to my friends who are suffering, because I feel so sure it will help them, too."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret remedy but a new scientific life treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs, manufactured by one of the world's greatest laboratories and sold in Eastland exclusively by the Toombs & Richardson Drug Co.—Adv.

The demonstration will be given next Thursday, 4 p. m., and will be conducted by Mrs. Tom Harrell. There was a report of several cases of sickness among the members and those attending this meeting adjourned to call on these cases.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF METHODIST CHURCH HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Woman's Missionary of the Methodist church was represented by five officers at the meeting of the society yesterday afternoon. The session was conducted by Vice President Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite as the president, Mrs. Luther Bean is out of the city. A devotional was conducted by the chairman who used the 2nd chapter of Revelations. There was no lesson as this was a business session. A program for the social meeting on the third Monday was partially arranged and hostesses for the session will be announced later. It was stated there will be no meeting next Monday. Those present: Mrs. S. P. Ramph, Mrs. Fred L. Drago, Mrs. Frank Crowell, Mrs. W. H. Mullins and Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY IN REGULAR SESSION

All things considered there was a fair attendance at the Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church which met in the parlors of the church at 3:30 p. m., yesterday. Vases of flowers gave a welcoming note to the session, which was conducted by the president, Mrs. M. C. Hayes. Following the opening hymn, "Have Thy Own Way, Lord," the Scripture lesson with love as theme was presented by Mrs. C. M. Harden. A delightful letter of appreciation for the many courtesies received by Mrs. W. C. Baker was read and appreciated. Mrs. Baker is now a Breckenridge resident and also prominent there in the Presbyterian church work of that city.

A contest will be started this week in the Auxiliary on "Stewardship," with Mrs. C. J. Sparks as general chairman. The Auxiliary will be divided into two sides with a captain each and some interesting team work will be expected.

Preparation was started for the entertaining in the Eastland homes, of fifteen young people, this including boys and girls from Reynolds Home in Dallas who will be in Eastland next Monday night and will present a concert in the Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock. The homes of the church members will be opened to these children. Mrs. J. W. Thomas is chairman of concert and Rev. Jas. Ross is assistant chairman and in charge of the hospitality.

There is no price for admission and the public is cordially invited to this concert.

Those present: Mrs. J. H. Ashley, Mrs. George E. Cross, Mrs. C. M. Harden, Mrs. M. C. Hayes, Mrs. C. B. Hubbard, Mrs. C. J. Sparks, Mrs. John Ross, Miss Elizabeth Ross, and Mrs. Winston of Shreveport, La., guest of Mrs. Ashley; Rev. John Ross and Mrs. J. W. Thomas.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be held at 3:30 p. m., in the church the first Monday in September.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS, WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY, BAPTIST CHURCH

The annual election of the official board of the Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church was held yesterday afternoon and officers elected were: President, Mrs. Frank Lovett. Recording secretary, Mrs. Jess Seibert.

Corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. W. B. White.

These officers go into effect at the September meeting as well as the four vice-presidents. Circle one electing the first vice president and so on down the line.

The nominating committee reported as Mrs. Elzo Been, Mrs. A. M. Hearn, Mrs. A. J. Campbell. The society will meet for Bible study next Monday and the Monday following the circles will hold their regular session and election.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Clyde Garrett, president, who led the devotional the fifteenth Psalm. An inspection of the new kitchen of the handsome new Baptist church was in order and great appreciation expressed over the attractive china, white with green rim, with which the presses are furnished.

The supply so far, paid for, will serve one hundred and twenty people, and includes plates, cups, pie plates and glasses. The effect of the new china ware is very pleasing as the presses and woodwork of the cuisine are painted white and green.

Those present: Mrs. Clyde L. Garrett, Mrs. Elzo Been, Mrs. J. B. Overton, Mrs. G. W. Dakan, Mrs. P. L. Parker, Mrs. John Mayes, Mrs. Nora Andrews, Mrs. J. F. Williams, Mrs. Tindall, Mrs. T. J. Pitts.

JOLLY LITTLE PEAN SUPPER

A bunch of the younger set had a "glee-orious" time Monday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lankford when Misses Catherine Lankford and Jo Woods entertained several little friends with a delicious "pean supper" at eight o'clock. The table centered in flowers, was spaced with plates of spicy smelling brown beans, the real onion, pickles, delicious hot corn bread and butter, coffee and fruit. After supper, games were played on the lawn, and later music was given by the house hostess, Catherine Lankford. The party included Myrl Self, Clara Miller, Zone Self, Evelyn Miller, Peggy Woods, Jo Woods, Catherine Nabors, Richard Rouble, Earl Hickman, Miss Barbara Ann Arnold, Miss Louise Davis and Miss Gwendoline Jones for dinner at her residence, Saturday evening.

Music and games passed the afternoon very delightfully.

YONUG GIRLS ENJOY INFORMAL DINNER

Mrs. T. F. Gordon was a delightful hostess to Miss Thelma Hickman, Miss Barbara Ann Arnold, Miss Louise Davis and Miss Gwendoline Jones for dinner at her residence, Saturday evening. Music and games passed the afternoon very delightfully.

IN HONOR OF MISS FOY

Miss Bernice Foy, of Ft. Worth, a journalist connected with the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram, who arrived Sunday for a few days' stay with her sister, Mrs. Carl Springer, was, with her house hostess, the special guest of Mrs. Virgil T. Scaberry, Monday at 1 p. m., who entertained with luncheon at the Green Lantern tea room, the third guest being Mrs. Joe H. Jones, who, following luncheon, was hostess to the party for the matinee at the Cisco movie show.

Miss Foy is being delightfully complimented by friends of Mrs. Springer. Though she leaves Wednesday she will return for a later visit.

THE TOM HARRELLS' BOY INJURED IN PLAY: HIS BIRTHDAY TODAY

Tom Harrell, Jr., just two years old today, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrell, was seriously and painfully injured in a most unusual accident, that occurred Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock, at the family residence.

The boy's two older sisters were sitting on the floor playing "paper dolls" and one of the little girls had a pair of long, sharp scissors in her fingers—with which the dolls were being cut from fashion books. Wishing to show her dearly loved little brother a particularly lovely doll, the child ran across the room, where little Tom was quietly playing, to show him her treasure. The scissors were in her fingers. She slipped and stumbled against the boy, who lost his balance and fell, throwing the little girl off her feet. As she plunged head-first down, the scissors drove with fearful force into the shoulder of the boy, on top, in the shoulder joint, and went in as far as they could—to the bone.

Mrs. Harrell carried the injured child in desperate haste to Dr. Carter, who said the extent of the injury yet remained to be seen. There is danger, of course, if the scissors touched the bone. The child was resting easily at a late hour yesterday but had a restless night. However, this is his birthday and some little friends are going to help him eat ice cream and be happy over his second important anniversary.

PROMINENT NEWSPAPER WOMAN VISITS EASTLAND

Miss Bernice Foy of Ft. Worth, is a flying visitor here, spending from Sunday until tomorrow with her sister, Mrs. Carl Springer. She will leave for a few days but returns later to pick up her visit for a few days longer stay. Miss Foy was here a few years ago when but little more than a very young girl and has let the renewal of Eastland acquaintance slip, much to the disappointment of a large circle here.

A pleasant chat was held with Miss Foy last evening and in this, the experiences of the so-called "society editors" were referred to and an understanding spirit discovered. Miss Foy has been society editor for The Fort Worth Star-Telegram the past five years. She likes her work and, like other women of journalism, feels that the "woman's page" plays a larger part in the constructive life of the public and of morals than is generally credited to it. Miss Foy has a charming, low, smooth voice, talks plainly over the telephone, and shows her trained work in her approach and terminations. She is enjoying her Eastland visit which friends of her sister are filling with small informal pleasures suitable to this weather.

A home run in the first inning gave Waco a lead in yesterday's opening game of a series with the Dallas Steers, but another home run made by the Steers in the seventh, after they had already evened the score, won the game for Dallas. Joe Mellano hit the Cubs' homer with the first ball pitched in the game. The final score was 2 to 1.

Houston's three star pitchers, Reinhart, Ehem and Brown were given a lot of mistreatment yesterday at the hands of the Fort Worth Cats who bombarded their offerings ruthlessly and piled up a total of 14 runs to easily win from the Buffs, with 8. Foreman and Martin took the Buff mound after the three stars were driven from the box.

In a game that sported little interest Shreveport walked away from the San Antonio Indians with a score of 16 to 1. The Sports piled up their score of sixteen with only fifteen hits.

Sharp fielding and making by both teams featured yesterday's game between Dallas and Wichita Falls, the winning, 2 to 0.
