STOCK LAW IS PASSED; ROAD TAX IS DEFEATED

Highest Dam in the World
It is announced that the cost of the Boulder Dam project will touch the $165,000,000 mark "and the amount above the government's flat contribution of $15,000,000 for flat control is to be recouped over a period of 50 years from the sale of water and hydro electric power."

Bankhead Road To Be Widened

Highway Work to Be From Eastland to Palo Pinto County Line.

Contract for the dirt work and widening of culverts and bridges on the Bankhead highway from Eastland through Ranger and on to the Palo Pinto county line will be let on July 31 by the state highway department, said A. F. Taylor, county right-of-way representative, today.

"We are meeting with fine cooperation on the wider right-of-way," he added.

The Bankhead is to have a 100-foot right-of-way instead of 80 feet as at present. The pavement will be widened three feet and the dirt shoulder will be 10 feet wide on each side.

T-P Gives Land
The Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company was especially praised by Mr. Taylor. This company owns land bordering on the highway for nine miles and donated the additional land needed for this entire distance, which includes one mile of new route, as the "death curve" east of Thurber mountain is to be eliminated by a mile of new road.

Not only did the Tee Pee give the right-of-way but the company will move back its own fence, which means 18 miles of work.

Gladys Glad—to Keep on Dancing

Forty days will elapse before the amendment will go into effect after it is adopted officially, allowing the governor time to consider the appointments.

District Judge George Calhoun, of Austin, who has sat on the bench in Travis county for more than 20 years was urged for appointment to the supreme court by former governor C. B. Colquitt, now a member of the U. S. Board of mediation. In his recommendation Colquitt pointed out that Judge Calhoun has tried more important cases than any other judge in Texas.

Another possible appointee was Judge C. A. Leddy, of Dallas, now a member of the commission of appeals to the supreme court, which body will be automatically dissolved upon adoption of the amendment.

Richard Criz, of Taylor, another member of the commission of appeals, is also expected to be given a place in the enlarged body. Judge Criz is a personal friend of the governor and was an ardent supporter in past political campaigns.

Judge J. E. Hickman, Chief Justice of the 11th District Court of Civil Appeals, sitting at Eastland, was another possible appointee.

Recommendations are expected to pour into the Governor's office from now until the six places are filled. The three present members of the Supreme Court are Chief Justice C. M. Cureton, T. B. Greenwood and William Pierson.

The six additional justices to be named by the governor will serve until the next election, when two will be elected for two years, two for four years and two for six years.

Urge Hickman For New Court

Chief Justice Appeals Court Here Mentioned As Possible Appointee to Apparently Increased Supreme Court

Mention was made today of J. E. Hickman, chief justice of the 11th district court of civil appeals sitting here, as a possible appointee to the increased supreme court, if the proposed amendment was adopted by the voters yesterday, which was believed to be the case by returns today, although incomplete.

With the amendment to the Texas constitution providing for an increase in membership of the state supreme court from three to nine apparently passed by a substantial majority, interest today turned to the selection of the additional six judges to be appointed by Governor Dan Moody.

Forty days will elapse before the amendment will go into effect after it is adopted officially, allowing the governor time to consider the appointments.

Chicago Via Atlantic Is Goal of Polish Airmen

Chicago may have two air-minded visitors direct from Europe soon. The noted Polish aviators Kowalczyk (left) and Klisz are making final preparations to fly from Milan, Italy, to the mid-western American metropolis with only one stop en route—at Dublin, Ireland. Above you see the mammoth biplane Polonia in which they expect to make the eastward hop over the Atlantic. Nearly 50 persons grouped beneath the craft give a vivid impression of its tremendous wingspread. Of unusual design, the craft is the largest ever intended for a trans-oceanic flight. It is powered by two sets of tandem motors, and the upper wing is narrower than the main wing below.

China Replies To Ultimatum

MOSCOW, July 17.—War clouds which have hovered over Asia since the Chinese seizure of the Eastern Railway in Manchuria began to dissipate today with Nanking's eleventh hour reply to the three day ultimatum of the Soviet Union demanding an immediate conference for the settlement of the critical dispute.

Although the Chinese note was merely a preliminary reply, pending receipt in Nanking of the full text of the Soviet ultimatum, its tone was so conciliatory and friendly that danger of war seemed temporarily obviated.

The note was transmitted to the Soviet foreign office by the Chinese charge d'affaires late last night, shortly before Russia's time limit, which expired at midnight, had expired. The Chinese government also instructed its charge d'affaires here that a full reply to the Soviet ultimatum will be forthcoming as soon as the full text of the ultimatum is available.

Two Graduates Of U. of T. On Frat Council

AUSTIN, July 17.—The University of Texas department of journalism is the only school of journalism which has two graduates on the National Council of Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary and professional fraternity for women in journalism.

Ruby A. Black, who was graduated from this University of Texas in 1921 and who is now a Washington correspondent for several newspapers was elected national president at the convention held in Columbus, Ohio, the last week in June, and Miss Gladys Whitley of Austin, who was graduated in 1928, was elected national secretary. Miss Whitley is assistant to Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs of Austin, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and handles publicity for her.

Theta Sigma Phi was organized twenty years ago at the University of Washington and now has 33 chapters in schools of journalism throughout the country and 18 alumna chapters consisting of women in journalism in 17 cities in the United States and in Honolulu, T. H. It has more than 3,000 members.

Simmons was charred almost beyond recognition.

He had come here three weeks ago from Indiana.

A leaky gas line caused the explosion.

His body will be sent to Baton Rouge, La., for burial.

Girl Bandit's Boy Friend To Plead Guilty

By BARRY J. HOLLOWAY
U. P. Staff Correspondent
TOPEKA, Kan., July 17.—She was a bold bandit three weeks ago when she staged a $14,000 payroll robbery, but today blonde headed girl, desperately frightened.

And because she is frightened Cecil Street, her lover, who planned the holdup, will plead guilty today to Vivian Scrapper, the blonde, but no longer bold, girl-bandit, will not have to go to jail alone.

When Vivian first was arrested in connection with the holdup of a Security Benefit association messenger, she took all of the blame on her own shoulders.

Cecil Street knew nothing about the robbery, she told officers, so convincingly they almost believed her. Meanwhile, suave Street seemed willing to let the girl he said he loved, go to jail alone.

Cecil and Vivian got together yesterday. Not that they had not been together since the girl was arrested last week, for Vivian's smile won officers consent for him to share her cell.

The pair talked things over. The boy who planned the robbery so they might go to Chicago and he might study engineering, became a man.

The couple went into court where Vivian pled guilty to the charge and hear herself given a light sentence in the women's industrial home at Lansing.

Then Cecil stood up. Vivian turned white.

"Judge," Street said, "I planned that robbery. I took the money from Vivian and hid it. I can't see her go to jail alone."

Vivian, who held a gun on a motorist and forced him to aid her escape after the robbery, fainted.

Pugilists Get Ready For Bout

Loughran to Defend Light Heavyweight Title; Champion Having Trouble With Weight.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, July 17.—With a long seige of training behind them and a world's championship fight ahead, Tommy Loughran, light heavyweight titleholder, and James J. Braddock, young Jersey City challenger, departed today for quiet training nokes for the scene of their 15-round battle at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

Pronounced in perfect physical condition by his handlers, Braddock left White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., confident of winning by a knockout before the tenth round.

On the eve of facing the most dangerous challenger in his reign as light heavyweight champion, Loughran left Hoosick Falls, N. Y., confronted with the difficult problem of making 175 pounds at 2 p. m., tomorrow.

A special diet has been necessary to keep Loughran below 180 pounds the past few days and total abstinence of liquids will be necessary during the next 24 hours to enable the champion to make the weight.

Mix and Hoxie May Meet For Stunt Contest

PONCA CITY, Okla., July 17.—Colonel Zach Miller, owner of the 101 Ranch Wild West show, has posted $10,000 to back his belief that Jack Hoxie, movie actor, can beat Tom Mix in a five cowboys stunt contest.

The two cowboy actors will meet in New York Nov. 3, and proceeds will go to a baby's milk fund if Mix accepts the challenge issued by Colonel Miller and Hoxie. Hoxie now is with the ranch show, while Mix is exhibiting his wares with Sells-Floto Circus.

War Clouds, Hovering Over Asia, Since Chinese Seizure Of Eastern Railway, Begin to Dissipate Today.

SHANGHAI, July 17.—China's last-minute reply to the Russian ultimatum demanded the Soviet government immediately release the Chinese Nationals who had been imprisoned since the dispute arose over the Chinese seizure of the Eastern Railway in Manchuria.

The Nanking government also asked adequate protection for all Chinese citizens in Russia. It insisted that its action in the Manchurian railway seizure was prompted by evidence of Soviet propaganda in that province and taken as a measure for maintenance of order.

The note asserted also that the Chinese government was sending Chu Zao-Yang, Chinese minister to Russia, to act in the capacity of Chinese plenipotentiary in the forthcoming negotiations.

China-Russian Conflict Doubled in Washington.
WASHINGTON, July 17.—The fact that it takes two to make a fight, and two inflamed peoples to make a war, is believed here to have eliminated possibility of an armed conflict over the Chinese Eastern railroad, one of the most explosive factors in far eastern economics and politics.

Russia's ultimatum was met by a pacific, if dilatory, attitude in China, and observers here believed the dispute would enter the stage of negotiations soon. Negotiations probably would consume months if China should refuse to grant the Soviet demands for restoration of half control of the road. A traffic blockade would be more effective, and infinitely less expensive, than warfare.

Russia, it was pointed out, could come close to bankrupting the Chinese Eastern by imposing a blockade at the Manchurian border. Doubt was expressed, however, that the Soviet government would go even this far.

San Marcos lets contract to United Gas company of San Antonio to build and operate gas distribution plant.

Moody Believed Appropriations Too Much; Calculation Error Is Pointed Out; Prospect of Fourth Called Session Ends.

AUSTIN, July 17.—Prospect of a fourth called session of the Texas legislature vanished today when Governor Moody was shown a $5,000,000 error in his calculation on state appropriations. The governor has been insisting that there should not be appropriations above the $45,259,000 recommended in the state budget by the board of control. It developed today that he thought this total included an appropriation for rural school aid. This appropriation of $5,000,000 is not a part of the board of control budget. Appropriations made by this session are $2,000,000 less than the board of control recommended for the purposes.

The governor said he will give the rest of the week to a study of the appropriation bills before deciding if any must be vetoed in toto or if he can strike out enough items to leave the bills standing.

The legislature marked time this morning waiting on necessary clerical work.

Incomplete returns at noon showed 14,533 for increasing the governor's salary and 7,263 against; 15,065 votes for increasing the members of the supreme court and 6,963 against.

Wears Pajamas On Street For Added Comfort

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., July 17.—Pajamas worn with snug fitting trunks or shorts are a sensible hot weather departure from heavy, sticky, hot summer attire. A man generally wears in the opinion of W. O. Saunders, editor of the Elizabeth City Independent who appeared here Sunday attired in pajamas.

"I wore light tan or conventional palm beach color set off with a necktie to match," Saunders said. "They looked respectable enough for street wear. It is nothing new with me. I frequently don pajamas over white rayon shirts, put on my house slippers, and lounge on my front porch or come to my office."

The Sabbath appearance of the editor in pajamas created little or no excitement here. "My, how cool you look," was one comment brought by his pajama apparel.

"I do not believe here in the South the wearing of pajamas of decent cut and texture in either plain or ornate patterns would be resented," Saunders declared, "and I believe everybody could be happier for the comfort and freedom they would afford."

"Instead of being condemned for his public appearance, the local editor has received scores of telephone messages from people asking him to repeat the performance as they were unable to see him Sunday."

"They actually talk as if I had put something over on them, and I may yet have to satisfy their curiosity by advertising the time and place of another public appearance in my modest nighties," Saunders said.

Preparing Zep For U.S. Flight

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, July 17.—The zeppelin works announced today that a several days test of the new motor of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin had been completed successfully and that the motors are being installed in the big airship. At the end of July the Graf Zeppelin will make a trial flight over Germany after which it will proceed to Lakehurst, N. J., and return to prepare for a trip around the world, starting in mid-August.

He expressed the belief that the association will be the only farming organization in South Texas to seek funds since it is one of the few operated entirely by farmers.

"Reigh Count's" Racing Over

CHICAGO, July 17.—Through the door of a box stall, Reigh Count looked across the rolling fields of Leona farms today—the fields in which from now on he will be privileged to scamper and prance and loaf and dream.

The king of the American turf was back home to stay. His racing days are over.

A little more than a year ago he was taken out of the stall and started for Louisville, Ky.—to make turf history. He made it. Few horses have written their names more definitely into racing records.

Reigh Count's work well done, from now on his only orders from Mrs. John D. Hertz, his owner, will be "have a good time."

SENTIMENT IN GOVERNMENT. The man who thinks that government is a cold, impersonal, un-sentimental institution should consider the topics mentioned in the letter from Congressman Lee, recently published in this newspaper.

Sixty-five years ago, two great hosts were in deadly conflict—one seeking to establish a new government for the southern states, the other striving to maintain the union unbroken.

In the world war, mothers and wives sent their heroes forth to fight for America. Not all of those brave lads came back.

No, those men do not sleep in foreign soil. Their sacrifice makes the little spot where they rest forever a part of America.

It is not much perhaps. Nothing could be, in the shadow of such profound and irremediable loss.

Rep. Coltrin, who offered the bill, lives at Mathis, Tex., which was the home of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, whom Leahy was convicted of slaying.

The bill which passed the house will limit the right to file an application for a sanity hearing for a convicted murderer to a licensed physician or to a jailer or prison warden.

Before recessing yesterday until 2 o'clock this afternoon, the house passed finally a bill withdrawing unsurveyed public land from market. The senate concurred in an amendment which leaves 1,500,000 acres of land on the market for Sept. 1. This land previously sold and forfeited back to the state.

The house has still pending two bills passed by the senate. One of these permits school districts to engage in mutual fire insurance.

As the years rolled by Rubel found other and more lucrative work to do, until he became the head of the Rubel Coal and Ice company, which finally merged properties valued at $50,000,000.

Now, Samuel Rubel has gone back to his first love, ice cream. He has sold his coal company for $70,000,000 to Burns Bros., coal dealers and has changed his firm's name to "Rubel's Ice and Ice Cream Manufacturing corporation."

ENDLESS NON-STOP FLIGHT IS ENVISIONED AS POSSIBILITY

By United Press.
 WASHINGTON—Non-stop flying through the air at a speed of thousands of miles an hour is envisioned by an imaginative scientist here.
 Professor Bynum, working in the Institute of Communications, says that he has developed a device whereby fuel for an airplane can be extracted from the air—that there is no need to land for fuel.
 The catch in theory is that this fueling is possible only where the air is extremely rich with oxygen above the earth. This would involve the necessity of a device for "sucking" the oxygen that high, and some arrangement to enable the aviators to live and breathe comfortably.
 These minor difficulties being overcome, the professor then sees two interesting possibilities:
 First: the air resistance being negligible, enormous speed could be developed, perhaps several thousand miles an hour. At this rate a plane could go round and round the world many times in a month (although it is not quite clear what good that would do).
 Second: at the extremely high altitudes the hydrogen and oxygen in the thin air is available in proportions that will enable the making of oxy-hydrogen gas, which in turn could be used as a substitute for gasoline.
 A compressor would be needed to reduce the gas to the required density, after which the gas would run the engine, the engine in turn run the compressor—in other words an endless chain which would mean flying without stop as long as desired.

The SHINING TALENT

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MOLLY BURNHAM, graduating from college, inherits $10,000. And it seems destined to bring her nothing but misery. In the first place, Molly is desperately in love with JACK WELLS, a handsome boy without any money. Jack loves her, but flatly declines to marry her until he can take care of her.

They quarrel when she offers him her inheritance. They spend a miserable evening, bickering over money. And Molly, in tears, announces that she is going to get a job, and live her own life. Her newly acquired fortune will make it possible for her to take an apartment and live comfortably while she looks for work.

She says that she had rather do that than return to the mean little parairie town where she lives.

He was filled with shame and humiliation. Taking the ring, he dropped it overboard.

for having his sweetheart run around, accusing a lot of bums. Asking fool questions. Getting herself insulted. What in blazes are you going to say to people?"

"It had been a long day, and a nerve-racking day, and suddenly Molly began to cry. "Oh, Jack! It's awful to quarrel this way. I love you so, it simply breaks my heart."

"Oh, Molly—Molly sweetheart! I'm jealous, that's all. I don't want you working with a lot of men. You're such a little thing. Molly, we'll take a boat on the pond in the Public Gardens. And listen, darling, the more I think about it... Well, gosh, I haven't any right to ask you to sit around and wait for me. If I was any darn good, you wouldn't have to anyhow."

It was lovely on the pond. The moon hid behind the clouds. And the dark was soft and sweet, and fragrant with the moist odor of flowers that bloom in the starlight.

"And you honestly don't mind if I go to work?" she asked him. "Not a bit," he lied gallantly. "I want you to."

"I promise never to accept a bum," she vowed. And he kissed her laughing lips. "You know, honestly, dear, I think this is simply a golden opportunity. I've been so awfully hedged in all my life. Now, you see, I've a chance to learn about life, and love, and men."

"Hey!" Jack looked rather alarmed. "Lay off this life, and love and men stuff!"

She patted his arm lovingly. He smiled. From his pocket he drew the little white box that held the solitaire that sparkled so small and so brave. He was embarrassed, and trying to make light of a momentous occasion.

"What is it?" demanded Molly. "Oh, Jack, quick, let me see it! Oh, Jack, it's beautiful! It's lovely! Lovely!"

She slipped it on her finger and held up her hand and watched it sparkle. "Do you like it?" Honest?

But her lover was filled with shame and humiliation, and a sort of heart-breaking anger. He reached, and taking the ring, dropped it overboard.

"Oh!" Molly's startled cry broke on a sob. "Jack!"

"You didn't want it," he said. "But I DID! Oh, Jack, JACK!" She leaned over the side of the boat. "It's gone," she said, and her voice was flat and empty. "It was so white and shining... and now it's gone." She put her white fingers to her face.

"Yes," he answered dully. And he wondered if there was anything symbolic in her words. If their love, which was also white and shining, had also gone?

Molly was crying softly. "My poor dear little ring!" she sobbed. "I love it so much. And now I'll never see it again. It's down in all that awful mud! Way down at the bottom of the pond. And all that money thrown away! Oh, Jack, how COULD you?"

"That's nothing," he bragged. "Money isn't going to count with me much longer. I'll have enough of it to buy you any darn thing your little heart wants. By the way, darling, did you know I'm going to New York first thing in the morning?"

"Jack Wells! You're not either!"

"Yes, I am. I report for work Wednesday."

"And I'll be in Boston all alone."

"Oh, no!" he corrected her gently. "You'll have Rita and Bob and Ruth Woods and her husband. And there's your new job. You won't be lonely."

"But I want YOU!" she cried. "Never anybody but you."

Jack's mouth looked drawn. "You've made your choice," he reminded her. "You'd never be satisfied unless you'd found something to do. It's better, you said, than sitting around, hemming dish towels, and playing bridge."

"Have you packed yet?"

"No, it won't take long. Throw a few shirts in a bag. Only thing I have that's worth anything is my sweetheart's picture, and the beautiful cuff links and the cigaret lighter she gave me."

"I'll help you pack," she offered.

"What!" Jack pretended to be shocked.

"Don't be silly," she admonished. "Mrs. Maloney would be shocked to death. Gee, she might put you out!"

"It's exactly 10 minutes past 10," she said. "And I'm not a bit afraid of Mrs. Maloney. Come on. Start rowing."

"She'll have a fit," he predicted darkly.

"Maybe she won't be home."

"Oh, she'll be home all right. She's always home. She hasn't any place else to go."

Molly had never been to Jack's quarters before, and every girl is curious about the sort of a place a man lives in. Particularly when she loves that man.

"You wouldn't get a kick out of visiting MY room," observed Molly. "But I will out of seeing yours."

And she reflected that Jack knew so many little personal things about her that there would be nothing particularly revealing about her room. He knew more than a mere bedroom could ever tell him.

He knew, for instance, that she used violet toilet soap. And sweet pea perfume, and baby's alcum powder. He knew that her favorite color was orchid. And that she

 Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harris and their relatives are rejoicing over the advent of young Harris Jr., who greeted this world Saturday noon. The heir to the house of Harris started his career with nine pounds in weight. Dr. C. H. Mrs. Harris was the former Miss Lorraine Cox, the niece of Mrs. Carter.

YOUNG GIRLS THIRTEENTH BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED
 Miss Gwendolyn Jones entertained a number of young friends at the Jones residence on South Seaman honoring the thirteenth birthday of the honoree. to win 7 to 5, at Philadelphia. The homers were Klein's fourth and fifth in two days.

The Giants were helpless before the pitching of Sylvester Johnson and lost to St. Louis, at New York. The Cards scored two runs in the fourth on Johnson's home run and three in the sixth, evening the series with the Giants' at two-all.

Brooklyn took it on the nose twice, losing both ends of a twin bill to Cincinnati by scores of 5 to 3, and 7 to 2. Brooklyn sent two of its best hurlers, Vance and Morrison, to the mound in the two games but both were ineffective.

The Philadelphia Athletics maintained their 8-game lead in the American league by taking a tenning game at Cleveland 7 to 5. The A's took an early lead but Cleveland rallied to force the game into extra innings.

Dallas and San Antonio battled hard for the victory of their contest yesterday with San Antonio emerging he winner, 7 to 5. The defeat of Dallas placed the Steers at the bottom of the league two full games behind the next highest team, Houston.

THIS TIME HE'LL TRAVEL BY MOTOR CARAVAN

By BRUCE CATTON
 NEA Service Writer

MASSILLON, O.—Gen. Jacob S. Coker, who led a forlorn band of ragged job-seekers to Washington 35 years ago and marched straight into trouble, ridicule and a kind of folk-lore immortality, is about to go on the march again.

A new Coker's army is forming—for a 3,000-mile tour of the nation. It seeks the same distant frontier that the Massillon general sought 35 years ago—better times for the average man.

This group, however, will not string its ragged marchers along dusty pikes, footsore and stragglers.

It will travel in an automobile caravan, with a steam calloper to tootle a quickstep ahead, big red trucks to carry the audience—for this is to be a speaking tour—a luxurious foreign-built touring car as the general's own chariot, and two big sleeping car buses.

Direct to the Voters
 Coker is planning no descent on the white house or capitol, such as he attempted with his famous army of unemployed in 1894. He is going direct to the people of 12 congressional districts, scattered from Maine to Utah, to spread the gospel of his new plan to reduce unemployment, promote prosperity, secure good roads and wipe out the public debt.

His far-reaching scheme is comparatively simple.

Briefly, it would enable cities, counties or states—or the federal government itself—to get all the money needed without paying a cent of interest charges. And since, on many public jobs, the interest charges come to more than the cost of the jobs themselves, Coker figures that this would reduce taxes, provide much more money for necessary public works—thus, in turn, increasing employment and stimulating industry.

His Plan In Brief
 Here is what his plan provides: A city, let us say, wishes to put through an expensive street paving program. Instead of issuing long-term bonds, it would deposit with the U. S. Treasury non-interest-bearing 25-year bonds covering the amount of money needed. The Treasury, thereupon, would issue bank notes for that amount, and would deliver them at once to the city, retaining one per cent as the cost of printing, etc.

The city in turn would pay off the principal to the treasury, at 4 per cent a year. Thus, at the end of 25 years, its bonds, held by the Treasury, would be cancelled, and the bank notes spent by the city would be returned to the Treasury, and retired from circulation.

The amount of bonds that any city or other governmental unit might issue would be limited to one-half of the assessed valuation of its real property.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

SOMEWHERE in his baseball career, Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington Senators, must have walked under a ladder.

Or, maybe he carelessly tossed his hat on a hotel bed. Or perhaps he exchanged stares with a crossed-eyed colored boy in the full of the moon.

Anyhow if baseball's code of voodooism can be taken seriously, Old Joshua P. Jinx seems to have picked out Walter for the buggy ride.

Consider his fate since he has taken charge of the Nats. On paper this spring his team was picked to run one, two, three by the majority of dopsters. The Senators appeared a most classy ball club in pre-season games and stories of what the Washington pitchers were displaying in the Southland filled columns of sports page space. But soon after the season opened, Mr. Jinx started to do his stuff. Illness and injuries lit the team like a Kansas twister hit an up and coming wheat field. Even old Barney had to leave the bench for a hospital bunk. Ad Liska, the sensational newcomer, of whom much had been written and of whom so much was expected, flivvered after a nice start. Bump Hadley, who pitched as nice a brand of ball as most pitchers who were running up win columns, couldn't beat anybody.

Goose Goslin, last year's batting champion, acted like an Appalachian League recruit at the plate. Garland Braxton, who the year before led the American League pitchers in effectiveness, was off his stride due to illness and injuries. Firpo Marberry, whom ball players like as one of the best pitchers in the game, seemed destined to go back to his role of bull pen pitcher.

In short, the first division pick of the experts looked like the team the Red Sox would have to beat out for the cool hole championship. And to date there has been no striking reversal of form.

His stomach in such a bad condition that he could hardly digest anything. Gas in his stomach such awful of palpitation of the heart that could hardly stand it. He was tremely nervous, his breath short and he could not sleep. At the time he began to Orgatone his joints were so around and had not been around any kind of work for 30. But he is now feeling like a ferent person and acts like a 30 years younger. The rheumatism pains are leaving him and he get about now without the bit of trouble.
