MOUSER TO HEAD LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Fame Is Fleeting
Chas. A. Lindbergh made his flight to Paris and the people of a Milwaukee suburb, home of the fashionables, changed the name of Pulaski park to Lindbergh park. Now it is Pulaski park again by order of a park board in response to a petition filed by leading citizens. Well, Pulaski wasn't a piker in his field of endeavor.

Battle On in Henry Ford's Town

Two hundred additional pro agents have been ordered by the big chiefs at Washington to reinforce prohibition and customs forces in the Detroit area. These additional agents were transferred from posts in every part of the United States. Detroit has more than a million souls. Henry Ford is the high card and the high king of Detroit and a vast territory. He has let the world know that prohibition is here to stay. That it isn't a noble experiment but a fixed institution to remain forever. If so, there must be a small minority in the city of Detroit in the throes of Sahara desert.

Term for Deserters

Conviction of wife desertion or child desertion in Texas calls for a term in the county jail in future. This law is of the 1923 vintage. Does it apply to the mother who deserts her child or the wife who deserts her husband? If not, why not? Woman has the ballot. Woman has all the rights that man enjoys. Why not all the penalties?

Take Testimony Pete McKenzie Sanity Hearing

SAN ANTONIO, June 26.—John M. (Pete) McKenzie, under sentence of death for the murder of Sam Street, chief of detectives here, faced another crucial moment today in his long fight to escape the electric chair.

Testimony at the hearing to determine whether McKenzie is sane or insane was started with James McKenzie, brother of the doomed man, scheduled as the first witness. The jury was completed late yesterday and will be sworn in by Judge W. W. McCrory at the commencement of the hearings this morning.

James McKenzie's testimony in his brother's behalf will deal with the early life of the condemned man in an attempt to show that a head injury suffered years ago contributed to his insanity. According to the brother, Pete McKenzie fell on a railroad track years ago at El Paso, striking his head against an iron post. The defense claims this brain injury prevented development of the brain cells which made him responsible for the defendant to distinguish between right and wrong.

Since his return here from the state penitentiary, the condemned man has been confined in a sanitarium where he has been under observation of defense and state psychiatrists. If the jury in the present hearing finds McKenzie sane, he will be returned to Huntsville execution on July 2.

Civil Liberties Union Aids E. V. Allen In Case

Wide Interest In Case of Man Sentenced to Die for Alleged Part In Carbon Bank Robbery.

DALLAS, June 26.—A "Yankee lady" was given credit today for the legal help being given E. V. Allen, condemned bank robber, in his fight to escape the electric chair.

"Seems like a little piece in a newspaper up in New England, telling about me getting the 'chair' for robbery attracted the lady's attention," Allen told a newspaper reporter today.

"The lady lives in Brookline, Mass.," Allen said. "She wrote me a letter and I answered it. One day she sent me a check for $10 telling me to buy some cigarettes and other things."

"Now, I'm not going to tell you her name but she's a Yankee lady and a fine one, too. No matter whether I escape the chair or no, she's sure been good to me and I'll always remember her."

Allen said that through her influence the American Civil Liberties Union of New York took a hand in his case and hired two lawyers to fight for his freedom in the court of criminal appeals.

He was convicted 18 months ago of robbery of the bank at Carbon, Eastland county, Texas.

DALLAS, June 26.—The case of E. V. Allen, convicted bank robber under the death penalty for robbery with firearms assumed a national aspect today when it was learned the American Civil Liberties Union of New York City had entered the case on the side of the defendant. The organization claims that death for robbery with firearms is an excessive punishment and has employed two local attorneys to fight the case in the appellate court.

Allen has been confined to the Dallas county jail for 18 months. He was convicted at Eastland in the spring of 1928 on a charge of robbery with firearms in the hold-up of a bank at Carbon, Eastland county, November 1927.

The American Civil Liberties Union takes the attitude that the death penalty should not be assessed in a case of robbery with firearms and point to records showing that Allen is one of the few in Texas history who drew the death penalty for the offense.

Practical agreement was reached on a rural school aid appropriation of $5,000 for two years. The senate adopted a committee compromise on this amount. The house also voted for it but lacked a quorum when the vote was taken.

Mrs. Carolyn Correllus has under construction at this time an 8-room brick veneer home on South Seaman street.

J. C. Hearn is completing a new 6-room residence in Sunset heights addition.

Haughland Claims New World Record

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 26. A new world record for continuous miles of flight was claimed by Owen Haughland and Thorwald Johnson as they passed the 76-hour mark at 9 a. m. today in their projected endurance record flight.

Sponsors of the flight declared the Minnesota flyers already had traveled more than 5,000 miles in their Miss Minneapolis, which has flown on a triangular course between the twin cities, Hastings and Northfield. The present previous mile record is said to be 3,200 miles.

Haughland and Johnson began their endurance record attempt at 5:32 a. m. Sunday. They have refueled the air several times each day.

Shown above is the bullet-riddled auto in which Henry Virkula, a confectioner, was slain by a charge of buckshot fired by Emmet White, a 24-year-old U. S. customs patrolman, on a dark road near International Falls, Minn. Virkula died at the wheel, the position of the car indicating that he was trying to stop after customs officers had hailed him, believing the auto contained liquor from Canada. His two small children on the back seat escaped danger because they were asleep and were lying down, the buckshot passing over them. Arrows indicate the bullet holes which are being pointed out to County Prosecutor David Hurlburt, left, by Sheriff Hugh Reidy. No liquor was found in the car by the officers, who say White was aiming at the tires. Virkula's widow and orphans are shown in the lower picture.

"I'm not on the water wagon," the advertisement states. "My two grandfathers took a drink or two in the war with England. Grandpa had a drink in our war with Mexico. I was more or less drunk in three different armies. I will still take a drink."

Although Hudson was the object of much "razing" he warned his friends that he was serious in his law enforcement edict.

Dalton and "Cattle Annie" Are Married

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 26. The atmosphere of the "old west" was routed completely here today when Jack Dalton, famous reformed "bad man" of the '90's was married in an airplane to "Cattle Annie" Burke, his sweetheart 33 years ago.

The ceremony was conducted at noon by Justice of the Peace C. L. Ritt while the plane, a cabin brougham of the latest type, soared 3,000 feet above Albuquerque.

Pilot William P. Custer and an Albuquerque newspaper man acted as witnesses.

The marriage was the culmination of a romance that began years ago when "Cattle Annie" carried food to Dalton, then a notorious outlaw, while he "hid out" from posse seeking him.

Arthur Schreiber Returns to America

NEW YORK, June 26.—Arthur Schreiber, the Portland, Me., boy who stowed away on the French trans-Atlantic plane Yellow Bird two weeks ago, returned to America on the Leviathan today. He was met at quarantine by his father, Thomas R. Schreiber, Portland, furrier, who seemed somewhat prouder of his son than the boy did of himself.

Young Schreiber was reluctant to talk of his venture. He said he wished nothing so much as to be alone with his mother, who remained at home in Portland, and denied that he felt himself a hero or that he ever had compared himself with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

DE PRIEST COMMENTS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 26.—Oscar De Priest, negro congressman from Illinois, considers the flurry of comment over the presence of his wife at a white house tea "just a lot of bunkum."

"It's stirred up by democrats who think they might get back the southern votes they lost last time in November," the negro told the United Press before addressing a large audience here last night.

"What if they do get them back? We (the republican party) can win without them. We always have," he went on.

In his speech, the second in eastern Tennessee in two days, De Priest urged negroes to "organize to protect and get your rights under the law."

H. B. TANNER IS ELECTED SECRETARY

Tanner to Succeed C. H. Colvin, Who Resigned. Mouser Takes the Place of Walter N. Hart, Who Also Resigned.

John M. Mouser has been elected by the board of directors of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce as president of that organization to succeed Walter N. Hart, whose resignation was tendered some weeks ago when Mr. Hart moved from Eastland to Seymour where he is employed by the same company with which he has been connected here for the past twelve years.

C. H. Colvin, who has been filling the position of secretary of the local chamber of commerce and teacher of vocational agriculture in the local public schools, has tendered his resignation as secretary of the chamber of commerce to become effective on or before July 15. The resignation is to be accepted, it is understood, and Dr. H. B. Tanner of Eastland is to be appointed secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Colvin has been with the local chamber of commerce about a year, coming here from Stephenville. He has made a splendid record as secretary of the chamber of commerce and an equally as good one as teacher of vocational agriculture, in which line he has specialized for a number of years.

Mr. Colvin stated that his plans for the future had not sufficiently materialized to be announced at this time.

John Mouser is head of the Prairie Oil & Gas company's land department in Texas, and since his coming to Eastland, three or four years ago, has been very active in the civic affairs in the town and county and Eastland is indeed fortunate that he has consented to devote a portion of his time to the chamber of commerce work in the capacity of president.

Dr. Tanner, an Eastland resident for eight or ten years, is well qualified for the post of secretary of the chamber of commerce. He is public spirited, progressive and very active. He has always devoted much time to civic development work in Eastland and Eastland county.

Search for Lost Fliers Continues

MADRID, June 26.—Five European governments joined today in the elaborate search for the missing Spanish aviators.

In addition to the naval and aerial resources of Spain which have been marshaled for the hunt, Great Britain, Italy and Portugal have sent out fast destroyers to search the waters of the Atlantic between the coast of Portugal and the Azores, where the fliers were believed to have come down in their huge Dornier seaplane in an attempt to fly to the United States.

Today the French government ordered two of its destroyers to join in the search.

LONDON, June 26.—The captain of the British steamer Gredon informed the United Press by wireless from Gibraltar today that no wreckage of a seaplane had been sighted from his ship, as reported.

According to recent reports the Gredon was said to have sighted what was believed to have been the missing Spanish seaplane.

Reports from the British aircraft carrier Eagle, dispatched to the Azores to aid in the search for the aviators, stated that so far nothing had been sighted of the plane.

The scope of the search has been widened as the officials of the Spanish government continued to cling to the slender hope that Commander Ramon Franco and his three flight companions on the missing Dornier No. 16 would be found.

Where Gann Was Seated

Ambassador Sir Esme Howard of Great Britain gave his first dinner at the British embassy for Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the vice president of the United States. Mrs. Gann was seated on the right of the British ambassador.

Mrs. Gann was very happy. She was on the right of Sir Esme. It was a wet function. Sir Esme is not a dry. Those who enjoy his confidence say he is not going dry. Mr. Gann is a Kentuckian. Mr. Gann had a good place at a table somewhere on the fringe of the big table. Mr. Gann's attitude on the pro question is not known. He may be a wet dry; he may be a dry wet. He is a very poor copy maker. He never rushes into print. He never seeks reporters. He does not love the spotlight. He carries his load meekly and modestly and neither the stress of circumstances nor the pomp of power forces him to unlimber his tongue. He is a blue grass and not a corn flower product.

Life Term for Young

Two young hoodlums kidnaped a 17-year-old boy in the city of Chicago and beat him in an effort to extort money. They were sent to trial. They were convicted.

They were given life sentences in the penitentiary by Judge Frank Comerford, who told them if they had had previous criminal records he would have sentenced them to death in the electric chair.

These young malefactors are reminded that the insanity plea is very fetching.

They should profess deep contrition, they should repent and atone. And then they should appeal to the governor of Illinois to give them their liberty to labor as missionaries in the convict camps and prison pens of the country.

"Claude, I don't know how to run the land office that way," Commissioner Robison testified he replied. Commissioner Robison testified that the "law or no law" statement was made after Governor Moody had read the supreme court opinion in the land leasing law case at Robison's request and said Judge Batts also had doubts.

A resolution in circulation last night and this morning among members of the House of Representatives asks dropping of further investigation of charges against State Land Commissioner J. T. Robison on the ground that they are not sustained.

Rep. S. E. Barnett of Greenville said that a large number of members have signed the resolution. It may be offered today.

CLASH OVER "NEAR BEER"

DES MOINES, Ia., June 26.—Whether thirsty Iowans will continue to enjoy their near beer, or have to substitute some other drink for use with their alcohol "like" is to be decided in municipal court here today.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Because of her fine sense of honor, NAN CARROLL, secretary to JOHN CURTIS MORGAN, lawyer, decides to resign when she discovers she is in love with her employer. Morgan is deeply in love with his beautiful wife, IRIS. Nan lingers when she hears Morgan is to defend a supposed friend, BERT CRAWFORD. After Crawford's acquittal, he leaves town and Iris follows closely. She writes Morgan she will never return, but cleverly omits mention of Crawford, whom Morgan trusts. Nan saves the lawyer from despair by forcing him into his work. She acts as long-distance housekeeper for him for six months, winning the love of his little son, CURTIS, and bringing comfort to a man who ironically thinks only of another.

Nan returns from taking her bar exams and Morgan tells her he is divorcing Iris. He stutters a proposal. They are quietly married a few months later. They stop by the office on the way to the train, where Morgan shows her his wedding present to her—a new office and partnership with him in business. They are prevented from going on their honeymoon by the arrival of DAVID BLACKHULL, accused of the murder of his wealthy father. Nan insists that Morgan take the case. She telephones the house, leaving orders for dinner, and goes out alone to unpack.

At dinner Curtis strikes misery in her heart by asking his father if he thinks Nan as beautiful as Iris. They are interrupted mercifully by a phone call from NINA BLACKHULL and Morgan leaves at once. Iris' ghost haunts the house. Nan heartily goes to her room, locking the bathroom door leading to Morgan's room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXII

Nan rose the next morning at 7 o'clock, after less than two hours of sleep—sleep so tormented with her dreams that she would have felt fresher if she had not closed her eyes. That locked bathroom door was on her conscience. What had he thought when he tried the door and found it locked?

How noisy the water was! It would wake him, and he needed all the sleep he could get. Nan knew he had not returned until after 11 the night before. Every nerve in her tense body had listened for his step on the stairs. Had he stayed so long with Nina Blackhull? Or had he walked the streets, thinking, regretting Iris screwing up his courage to go on with his marriage, repeating cynically, "AND I DARE SAY SHE WILL DO IT?"

"How—how did you get along with Nina Blackhull last night?" Nan asked, as she poured his first cup of coffee with hands that trembled betrayingly. "Oh—yes, Estelle, we're ready for the fruit. Then will you run upstairs and see if Curtis is up and dressed?"

John Curtis Morgan dug his spoon in his melon. "I believe my junior partner's hunch was correct," he smiled at her. "She's obviously a thoroughly selfish and vicious woman. A raving beauty, of course. Just the sort to turn the head of a youngster like David Blackhull. Without saying so pointblank, I let her understand pretty clearly that I knew the subject of the quarrel between her husband and her stepson the night of the murder. Thinking I knew the truth from David himself, and not from your amazing intuition, she spilled what will undoubtedly be her story on the witness stand— how he fell in love with her and annoyed her with his amorous attentions, until she was driven to complain to his father—"Then," Nan interrupted, "she will be a prosecution witness, of course."

"Naturally," Morgan agreed. "She was Morgan convicted. I told you she is utterly selfish and vicious. The district attorney will be wild when he knows how much she told me."

Nan grinned. One of her chief delights in life was seeing Morgan floundering in the courtroom. Then, "But what are you going to do? That poor boy—" "Luck was with me last night. As the butler was helping me with my overcoat she slipped a note into my hand. Says he and his niece who, it seems, is Mrs. Blackhull's maid, want a word with me when it can be arranged."

"Good!" Nan applauded. "They will have plenty to tell about that chauffeur, Bassett, or I'm a rotten guesser. . . . Here comes Curtis! Good morning, darling! Do I rate a kiss, or don't I?"

"Sure!" Curtis gasped, breathing as one who has run miles. His kiss was moist and very sweet—"Guessing smack full on the lips "Really why I'm late, Nan?" he panted, as he slipped into his chair. "Give up? Well, I had to take TWO baths!"

"Two baths?" Nan echoed. "Here's your glass of orange juice, darling. Sip it slowly—" "Sure! I had to take two baths, because on our Health Chart we gotta mark how many baths we take a week, and yesterday I got up so late I didn't have time to take my bath, and if you don't take seven baths a week you don't get on the Health Chart Honor Roll, so this morning I took two baths. I took one bath and dressed, and then I undressed and took another bath."

Nan threw back her head and laughed joyously but she could not blame John Curtis Morgan for taking a more orthodox view of his son's ingenuity. "I'm afraid you'll have to count it as only one bath, son. You don't want to cheat, I'm sure—" "The old Health Chart don't ask you WHEN you took the baths," Curtis sulked. "Anyway it was Estelle's fault. She didn't wake me early enough. Will you come wake me up every morning, Nan? WILL you, Nan?"

Nan gave the promise and Curtis promptly forgot his resentment toward his father. "I'll have lunch with YOU today, won't I, Nan, won't I? I get out of school at 12. You'll wait for me, won't you, Nan?" "But I'll be at the office, Curtis. Nan protested, regretfully. "I'm awfully sorry—" "Aw, I thought you were going to be a regular mother," Curtis scowled. "My other mother didn't go to any old office—"

Nan's face flamed, but her husband spared her the necessity of answering. "It's this way, Curtis, old man," he said, making his voice both jolly and coaxing. "Nan's such a wonder that she can be a lawyer during the day and a fine mother all the rest of the time. I simply wouldn't do without her, son. She's my junior partner now, you know. Some day, I hope you'll be a junior partner, too, and then the firm will be Morgan, Morgan & Morgan—"

"Don't wanna be a lawyer. Wanna be an aviator," Curtis dashed his father's hopes sulkily. "Listen, Nan! Is Father still your boss, like he used to be before you married him?" "No," Nan smiled. "We're partners, now, why?" "Then can you come home early—REAL early—if you want to?" The black eyes were very wistful. "Of course I can, when I'm not too awfully busy at the office," Nan told him, a little huskily. It was sweet to be wanted so ardently.

Later, as they were traveling to the office in the handsome new sedan, Morgan said gravely, after a long silence: "I think the boy is right, Nan. He has almost as much right to you now as—as I have. Your new work should not keep you busy all day, since you won't be in the courtroom much in fact. I'd rather you left that part of the dirty work entirely up to me. The courtroom is no place for a girl, especially the criminal court. And with Miss O'Hara to do the stenographic work for both of us—" He hesitated, stole a sidelong glance at her to see how she was taking it.

Nan would not look at him. Her eyes gazed straight ahead. He answered in a long, low, slow, low voice: "I don't want to do my work—"

Virginia House Built In 1790 to Be Rebuilt ALEXANDRIA, Va. — "Colross," historically famous old residence here, built by Jonathan Swift in 1790 has just been purchased by John H. Mann of New York City, who plans to have it torn down and reconstructed in Princeton, N. J.

George Washington frequently referred to Swift in his memoirs. Later "Belle Aire" became the property of the prominent Mason family and more recently it was owned by the Smoots, one of whom now is mayor of Alexandria. "Colross" lately has been battered by wind storms and has deteriorated to such an extent that several patriotic societies have called attention to it.

M. L. DICKSON DEAD BY UNITED PRESS FORT WORTH, June 25.—M. L. Dickson, 54, prominent cotton broker of Arlington, died in a hospital here Tuesday morning from a shot which he fired into his own temple at 11:10 o'clock Monday night. Financial troubles were blamed for his act.

Value Cannot Be Expressed In Words Never Expected Well Day Again But Has Gained 45 Pounds on Two Bottles of Orgatone. Declared Clyde, Tex., Man.

"I tried for four long years to find a medicine or treatment that would overcome my troubles, but all my efforts failed completely until I commenced taking Orgatone," said John Ray, who is a resident of Clyde, Tex., while in Abilene, Tex., for another bottle of Orgatone.

"My general health just seemed to get down all at once," he continued, "and during these years it has been a hard struggle for me to keep on my feet. It was just a general all round breakdown, but my stomach seemed to give me more trouble than anything else. What food I ate would lie in my stomach undigested, and gas formed and I would blow up and suffer something awful. I lost so much in weight I looked like a skeleton for I only weighed about 70 pounds. For about a month I got so weak and thin that I wasn't able to leave the house. I tried several different kinds of medicines but gradually got worse all the time."

"This was my condition when I began taking Orgatone and if you could just see me now you would say it is a wonder, for I gained from 90 pounds to 125 pounds in less than two bottles of Orgatone. I can eat all I want and nothing bothered me at all. I am so much stronger and better that I look and feel like a different man. I think Orgatone is the best medicine on earth and it has done more for me than all the other medicines I have taken. I am in better health than I ever expected to be and a medicine that would do so much good for a man ought to be talked about and as long as I live I will boast Orgatone."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Eastland, exclusively by the Toombs & Richardson Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. (Adv.)

JIM WHITTINGTON CONNELLEE CELEBRATES TENTH BIRTHDAY

A dear dark eyed little lad, eagerly awaited the coming of his guests—tall girls, wee girls, small boys and bigger boys, all ages and sizes, at his "Aviation Club" house, on the spacious Connellee lawn, last evening, his friends, whom he had asked to his "birthday party" that really important event on this, his tenth anniversary.

With true hospitality the lad regaled his guests with iced delicious fruit punch. All the more inviting for the lovely roses and bright garden blooms wreathing the punch bowl table. Here, he was assisted by his guest, Edward Scott. Polly-pops were distributed and then games on the lawn began. Flags were everywhere. Jim felt his birthday and the coming 4th of July were about equally important. Flags waved from Jim's clever little Aviation Club house, from the big garden trees, and decorated the handsome balcony-porch of the C. U. Connellee home, set with rugs, easy chairs and a special place for Mr. Connellee in a corner, a big marble-topped table, massed in roses, was later aglow with the pretty lights from the tapers on the big white iced birthday cake, which was cut by the young host, and sent to the lawn to the happy youngsters, seated in a circle. Jo-jo balls were presented each one by Jim, and the souvenir was a popular feature of the party. Many beautiful, useful and nice birthday gifts were received by the laddie, who was assisted throughout the hours from 6 to 8 o'clock by his mother, Mrs. Connellee, and especially assisted at the Aviation Club by Mrs. Connellee.

Those present: Alice Jones, Alma Williamson, Anne Clark, Norma Vickers, Eloise Johnson, Frances Vickers, Jane Ferguson, Lucy Beall Smith, Elizabeth Harrell, Julia Beth Betts, Mary Jane Harrell, Edna Clarke, Eleanor Ferguson, James Dabney, Alex Clarke, Temple Ferguson, Bobby Dwyer, Billy Blake Woods, Frederick Clarke, Jimmy Hague, Bill Amyx, Gilbert Clarke, Bob Bohning, Edward Scott, Billy Bohning, Gates Brelsford, Edward Freyschlag, Thomas Dabney, Boyd Tanner, John Mackall, or Arthur, John M. Mouser, Jr., and Jim Whittington Connellee.

ONE WITH HIS CHILDREN, "ONE FOR ALL, AND ALL FOR ONE"

A Dumas' famous "Three Musketeers" quotation, would apply perfectly to "Uncle" Charlie Shepard and his happy lively family of eight girls and two boys, were they inclined to use it on stationary. But it also perfectly applies to their intimate, kind, affectionate life, from the two oldest daughters, now married and in their own homes, to the little girl of seven years whose birthday party from 7 to 11 p. m., Monday night, was as great a joy to her father, past his 60th year, but the youngest child in all that merry gathering of friends of his little girl, Florence. And the youngest Sheppard helped, too, in his way. Little tot of 17 months. Isn't it delightful that Uncle Charlie can look upon the shining upward climb of his life road, and know a little fellow will be keeping pace in years, growing to young manhood, and sheltering his father's lessening strength? It was a happy day when Uncle Charlie as he is now well known by friends led Ethel McClelland, of Mississippi, the niece of James McClelland, of Tulsa, La., to the marriage altar. She has been a faithful and devoted companion, and a splendid example of motherhood. Her uncle was president of the levee board of Louisiana for 40 years.

And Mr. Sheppard has been a proud and tender father to his fledglings. The eldest, now 24 years of age, is Mrs. James Milan of Cameron, and Eastland is fond of Charles Sheppard, for many reasons. For his devotion to his family, in these days of "no children. For his bravery, because, though a cripple, he is as active and works as hard as a man the third his age; for his keen zest in life, and original outlook, and many a person, when shooting between floes of the new county court house in the compact elevator, study Uncle Charlie and feel there is a story behind his quiet personality. And no one played harder, had a better time than did Florence's daddy, on her seventh birthday party, when 60 or 70 children were entertained with music, games and ice cream and cake at the family home, 509 West Main street. Many gifts were received by little Florence but none so big as her daddy's love.

SAFETY FUNDAMENTALS In the opinion of the head of the National Safety Council, the four fundamentals of accident prevention are a belief in safety, acceptance of the principle of personal responsibility by every citizen, an active, not a passive attitude toward the accident menace and leadership to eradicate it.

Automobile accidents are the result of three causes—recklessness, incompetence or ignorance. There are few unpreventable accidents. The tremendous toll in lives taken each year is a shameful illustration of the failure of authorities and citizens to approach the problem from an intelligent angle.

Great industries, such as the railroads, have made amazing success in preventing accidents by study, education, and enforcement of working rules.

Legislative accident prevention measures such as compulsory liability insurance, begin at the wrong end of the problem by attempting to indemnify instead of prevent. The result has been a tremendous expense to the careful, without accident reduction.

Tests have shown that enforcement of modernized traffic codes will appreciably reduce accidents in a short time. Education of school children has borne fine results in the past few years. Good results follow public interest and cooperation.

Waco, late of Paris, France, who has won an enviable reputation by his handling of the coronation and pageants at the Texas Cotton Palace and the San Antonio Battle of Flowers.

Details of the pageant will be under direction of a committee of Gorman women. One of the unique features of the program will be a "Papoose Pageant," open to "Little Indians" of eight years or under. Gorman merchants will offer prizes to the best costumed boy, the best costumed girl, and the boy and girl coming from the longest distance to enter this, and the "finest" and "cutest" papoose, the only specification being that they appear in Indian costumes.

After the queen of the trail has been crowned, she will be seated on a throne by the lake, in a spot which forms a natural amphitheatre capable of accommodating 15,000 people, and the final events of day's program will be part of the entertainment which is staged before her and her Indian court.

This will include, in addition to the events named above, the finals of the old fiddlers' contest, and the presentation of prizes for the swimming and diving events and the baseball tournament.

Several teams have already been entered in the baseball tournament, and it may be necessary to hold an elimination contest prior to the fourth, leaving only four teams to play in the morning and one in the afternoon.

The finals between the quartettes and choruses will also be sung before the Indian court. During the afternoon, there will be addresses by notable speakers, including J. Thomas Davis, of

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero: Val Pleinich, Brooklyn catcher, whose home run with one on base tied the score and gave the Robins a chance to beat the Giants five straight. The score this time was 12 to 10.

The Boston Braves handed the Phillies their ninth successive defeat, 5 to 4, only to toss away the second game of a doubleheader, 8 to 6.

The Philadelphia Athletics won twice from the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1, and 8 to 2, increasing the Mackmen's lead in the American league pennant race to ten full games.

New York's scheduled game with Washington was rained out.

Walter Stewart of the St. Louis Browns blanked the Cleveland Indians 8 to 0, after the Ohioans had won the opener, 10 to 7.

GREAT 4TH IS PLANNED AT GORMAN

Indian Trail Pageant, Fireworks, Music, Baseball Fiddling Contest.

GORMAN, June 24.—Gorman's Fourth of July plans took on state-wide importance with the announcement Thursday that the widely advertised "Indian Trail Pageant" will be staged as the climax of the holiday celebration at Bass Lake.

Each town along the Indian Trail, the new designation of the Waco-Cisco highway, will send girls as Indian princesses, with their maids and escorts, to appear in an elaborate ceremony in the picturesque setting along the shores of the lake, where the natural beauty will be enhanced by Indian topees and totem poles.

The queen of the Indian Trail will be selected by popular vote from the princesses, after they have passed in review, and a program of fireworks, music and Indian dancing will conclude the evening.

Gorman business men and a committee of women began work on plans to entertain the visiting princesses and their escorts. The costume and stage setting was entrusted to Emil A. Robin, of

AVIATION'S GIFT TO MOTORISTS

ON the ground or in the air, TP-Oils keep the engine running smoothly. This new type of oil was originally developed for aviation. Endurance tests soon demonstrated its superiority for airplane engines, and there was an instant demand for an oil that would offer the motorist the same advantages.

This process has marked advantages over other methods. It preserves all the lubricating bodies of the crude oil just as they occur in nature. It eliminates the necessity for blending light and heavy oils to produce various grades, and it positively removes all the paraffine wax.

In terms of performance this means perfect lubrication at all times, smoother, more efficient operation for your engine, longer life, reduced repair bills, and more mileage at less cost per mile. It is wise economy to pay 45c a quart for TP-Oil.

Now you can purchase TP-AeroOils in grades adapted to automobile engines. These oils are produced from pure, paraffine-base crude by a process for which patents are pending.
