FATHER'S DAY OBSERVED HERE

Ohio University Professor Held for Girl's Murder

Coming In July

On July 16 an important state election will be held for voting on two proposed amendments to the constitution. One would increase the salary of the governor from $10,000 to $12,000. Another would change the constitution so as to increase the members of the supreme court from three to nine. These are amendments which should appeal to the qualified voters. Their should be no opposition to their adoption. There should be a large vote cast. Texas should move forward and the ballot is the thing on election day.

Court Orders County-Wide Tax Election

The commissioners court of Eastland county at a session held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon passed an order calling for a county-wide election July 16 to determine whether an additional road tax of 15 cents shall be levied for the purpose of developing lateral and cross roads.

July 16 Date Set for Voting On Additional 15 Cent Tax For Lateral Roads. Also Will Vote on Question of County Stock Law.

The county now levies a 15-cent road and bridge tax which is the limit which the commissioners court may fix under the constitution without submitting the matter to the voting population of the county.

At the same time the court passed an order calling for an election coincident with that of the road and bridge fund tax to determine whether a stock law would be put in force in the county. The same judges will conduct both elections.

The need of additional funds with which to carry on road work in the county has become more and more pressing with the tendency of rural schools to consolidate. It is pointed out that transportation of pupils in varying kinds of weather is essential to this consolidation and that the most of this transportation expense is covered by the improvement over present conditions is essential. Some of these roads will have travelled, county officials of the money is to be used on the highways with the exception of the cost of setting back on the right-of-way of highways. No. 1 will to some extent be covered therefrom.

Dr. James Snook Implicated In Hammer Slaying

Expert Pistol Shot Questioned In Connection With Death of 25-Year Old Co-Ed; Bloody Glove Found In Professor's Car.

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—Convicted that Dr. James H. Snook, veterinarian attached to the faculty of Ohio State University, knows something he has not divulged, police late today again questioned him in connection with the hammer murder of Theora Hix, 25-year old co-ed.

In another part of the city prison, where the examination was conducted, detectives also questioned Marion T. Meyers, 35, one of the university horticultural department, who is known to have been seen with Miss Hix on various occasions.

On Thursday night, when police believe Miss Hix was murdered, Dr. Snook said he went to his office at the university about 7:45 o'clock to clear up some work. After leaving there he related he went to a golf links to get his shooting glasses.

He said he first learned of Miss Hix's body being found when he read the newspapers late Thursday night.

Marion Meyer of the horticultural department of Ohio state university, who said he "kept company" with Miss Hix, voluntarily appeared before the investigating officers and recounted satisfactorily his movements previous to the crime.

Dr. Snook said he had known Miss Hix for the past several years and admitted financing part of her education at the university. He said he last saw her on Wednesday night near the university campus.

Asked when he had come to a hospital to have his injured hand dressed, Dr. Snook replied not until Friday night. He said he had been treating the injury himself for several days.

The one-time pistol champion was then interrogated on his relationship with the dead girl.

"My stenographer had quit and I was considering employing Miss Hix in my office this summer," he said.

Meyers told police he divided his time between Columbus, Wooster and Bono, Ohio, and that he saw Miss Hix at various times at Ohio state. Miss Hix was of the quiet, retiring type. She was a stenographer and often did stenographic work to help finance her studies.

In addition she was a switchboard operator and it was in connection with the latter that police first questioned Dr. Snook and Meyers.

A pair of gloves, one of them blood stained and a hairpin were found in Dr. Snook's blue coupe, the car in which the co-ed was said.

Elks Hold Flag Day Ceremonies In Concurrence

Four Lodges Join in Beautiful Services at White Way Park Last Night.

A beautiful flag day service of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks lodges of Eastland, Ranger, Breckenridge and Cisco, was held at White Way Park here Friday night, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The oration for the occasion was delivered by Judge T. B. Ridgell of Breckenridge. His subject was "The Elks, the Flag, and the Government."

The flag service, a beautiful ceremony, was conducted by Milburn McCarty, exalted ruler of the Eastland Elks lodge, a band and nine Boy Scouts. This service traced the history of the flags.

Other numbers on the program included a march by the Eastland Booster band; invocation by Rev. P. W. Walthall, pastor of the First Christian church of Eastland; song by Rev. Bruce C. Boney of Cisco; band selection, "The Star Spangled Banner"; reading, Miss Martha Guthrie of Breckenridge; response to the flag ceremony, J. V. Heister of Ranger; altar services; officers' song, "America."

BOYS FIND KIDNAPERS OF OFFICER

Take Bandits Who Captured W. B. Kinne, Idaho's Lieutenant Governor.

LEWISTON, Idaho, June 15.—Ward Alexander, 14, and Sam Bryant 16, were the heroes of their chums here today after their capture of the five "bad men" who kidnaped Lieut. Gov. W. B. Kinne and two men who came to his aid Wednesday.

While bloodhounds, airplanes and hundreds of possemen searched in parts of three states, guarded highway junctions and bridges in an effort to apprehend the bandit gang, the lads stole upon three of the desperadoes sleeping in the bushes on the banks of the Potlatch creek, near Julietta.

The boys sneaked silently away. Then, when they were far enough so they were sure their footsteps would not be heard, they strained legs and lungs in a dash to notify officers of their discovery.

The heavily armed men were awakened and arrested without resistance although it had been feared blood would be shed when they came face to face with officers. The other two were captured close by.

Last Service Tonight For Baptist Meet

The revival which has been in progress at the Baptist church will close with today's services. It is expected that large audiences will hear Evangelist J. B. Rowan as he delivers the final message of the two-weeks' campaign. His morning sermon will be from the theme, "The Personification of Love." The evening message will be from the question, "Where Will You Spend Eternity?"

Preceding the evening service and beginning at 8 p. m., a brief baptismal service will be held.

The revival has been a successful one according to Pastor W. T. Turner, who announces that 45 new members have already been added to the church and many more are expected to join during the closing services.

ARRESTS MAN AS HE GOES TO BUY LICENSE

CENTER, June 15.—Entering the court house here to procure a marriage license, Joe Cobb, alias Joe Jackson, was conducted out by the sheriff. Cobb was taken to Woodville where he is alleged to have broken out a few months ago. He is charged with killing Constable L. N. Walker and shooting deputy Sheriff Walker of Tyler county.

Man From Tahoka Faces Charge Here

Sheriff Virgo Foster and Deputy Sheriff Steele Hill returned Saturday from Tahoka with J. W. Payne, who is charged by indictment with passing a forged instrument.

Payne was indicted by a district court grand jury here, charged with passing two worthless checks for a dollar each, the checks being drawn on the Continental State bank of Gorman, according to the indictment.

To Attend Lions Club Convention

Local Artist to Spend Summer in "Music Home"

(By Mrs. W. K. Jackson)

Some nineteen years ago a tiny girl of less than five years and her small sister of nearly the same age developed such a passion for music in their home concerts with their talented father, a violinist of no small ability, and their mother, a finished pianist, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Drago, that there was nothing left for the parents to do but put them immediately under outside instruction, and for which they left their home in Fairview, W. Va., for Charleston. Here, the sisters changed their roles and Wilda took the violin and Wanda the piano. Here their schooling for some was under Henri Schultz and Professor Mason later of the Mason School of Music of Charleston. From then on the sisters continued in their arts, leaving all competitors way in the distance until 1921 when they both entered Texas Woman's college of Fort Worth, where each of their four years of study was the superior polishing of a gem. They did splendid work under Carl Venth and Wilda received the Theo Presser prize for scholarship which as president of the Etude was given the most talented pupil. She entered the biennial contest of 1923

Anti-Boxing Law Opposed By Bill

AUSTIN, June 15.—Repeal of the state anti-boxing law as it now exists is proposed in a bill which was offered Friday in the house of representatives.

Such a topic has not been submitted to the legislature by Governor Moody. Recently he pointed out that he told legionnaires at a former session that he would veto a fight law if one were passed.

Programs Are Arranged For The Occasion

First Presbyterian and First Christian Pastors Will Speak On the Subject.

Father's Day will be observed in a number of the churches of Eastland today, with special services having been arranged for the First Presbyterian and First Christian churches.

The pastors of these churches will speak during the morning services on the subject of Father's Day. Referring to fatherhood and Father's Day, Rev. James J. Ross, pastor of the Presbyterian church, says:

"Fatherhood has been one of the most sublime things in life through all history. Fatherhood has had the privilege of setting the moral basis and upholding the ideals of true manhood. This is both a privilege and a responsibility. The social order of tomorrow is being typified by the qualities of the fatherhood and motherhood of this generation. Much has been said of the place of motherhood in society. Perhaps in our glorifying motherhood—which we should have done no less beautifully than we have—we may have failed to impress upon ourselves these sublime meanings of fatherhood."

Rev. P. W. Walthall, pastor of the First Christian church, will speak of Father's Day in his morning sermon.

Stowaway Finds Life In Spain Very Pleasant

COMILLAS, Spain, June 15.—The life of a stowaway on the coast of Spain has surpassed all the dreams of Schreiber. The only thing the youth could say was:

"I think I'm sittin' pretty."

While the aviator was tuning up the monoplane Yellow Bird this morning Schreiber spent his time kissing black-eyed beauties, sipping his autograph and eating breakfast. His only criticism of the Spaniards was that they spoke Spanish.

"Why don't they speak English? I haven't understood a word since I landed here. They'd be much more interesting if they spoke English."

"If suppose I'll have to go to jail when I get to France, because I have no passport. But after the ride through the storm I think I can stand jail, even a French one."

"All I hope is that they don't ship me back home before I've seen Paris. Assolant promised to show me things I never saw before. Lotfi says I can live at his hotel. Leveille says he thinks he can get me a temporary passport."

"So I guess I'm sittin' pretty."

PORTLAND, Me., June 15.—The Portland Evening News, in a copyrighted article today, said that Arthur Schreiber was permitted to stowaway aboard the Yellow Bird as compensation for assisting Pilot Jean Assolant with the latter's wedding plans.

The newspaper's article refuted the report that Schreiber flipped a coin with his chum, Alvin Cook, to decide which would be the stowaway, and quoted Penansky as saying the whole affair was carefully prearranged.

After assisting Assolant with his wedding, according to Samuel Penansky, Schreiber went to the French pilot and proposed stowing away on the Yellow Bird. Penansky is quoted as saying that Assolant was at first reluctant but finally acceded.

Otherwise the consent of guardian was necessary. Back in 1556 Henry II of France decreed you reach 24 in Austria and in Germany even women of middle age may not marry without parents' consent, unless they wish to risk losing their slice of the inheritance pie.

ANCIENTS BEAT TEXANS TO NEW MARRIAGE LAWS

WITH three days to think it over would Solomon have made his thousand mistakes? Modern Texans who march to marriage license bureaus after today and write down their intention to become henpecked may speculate on the matter.

Solomon was supposed to be wise. But his palace was a huge affair and he probably had trouble in getting roomers. Therefore he merely threw in a little loaf and some honorable intentions.

As far as being original with the new law, Texas "also ran." Europe started this fad several centuries ago. Sister-states also beat Texas in proving that there is lots of dust on the subject.

BRIGHTM YOUNG sneaked out West to dodge them. This husband of 56 wives would Savage or modern, the laws all had the same intent. Tests and rules were enacted to determine that prospective grooms were actually mature men, able to support a wife and physically fit. The new Texas law merely contains the gist of what has been handed down from past centuries.

When the dusky natives of a South American Indian tribe nodes assent, the ambitious young man's troubles have just begun. He must go into the forest and chop down trees until he has cleared space for a hut.

Snakes are punched into his flesh and if he yells he is not considered ready for marriage. Sometimes he is sewed up in a skin together with several hundred indisposed ants. In surely have cut loose with some naughty words had there been a law requiring three days' notice of intention. When he fell heir to an intention he usually acquired a wife—or so.

French laws up to 1907 prescribed 25 and 21 as legal ages.

this case the poor fellow may not even shiver. To do so loses him the queen.

AMONG some South African tribes the man must first slay a rhinoceros. A cheerful custom of South Asia head hunters prescribed that he must have at least one head to his credit.

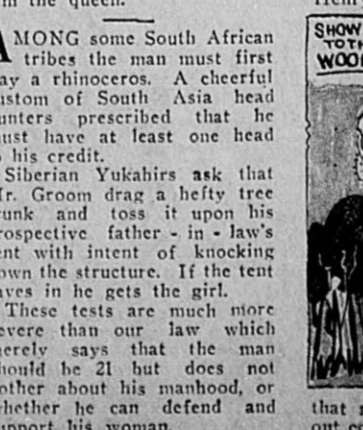

Siberian Yukahirs ask that Mr. Groom drag a hefty tree trunk and toss it upon his prospective father-in-law's tent with intent of knocking down the structure. If the tent caves in he gets the girl.

These tests are much more severe than our law which merely says that the man should be 21 but does not bother about his manhood, or whether he can defend and support his woman.

Otherwise the consent of guardian was necessary. Back in 1556 Henry II of France decreed you reach 24 in Austria and in Germany even women of middle age may not marry without parents' consent, unless they wish to risk losing their slice of the inheritance pie.

MRS R. Q. LEE IS REPORTED AS VERY ILL

CISCO, Texas, June 15.—Considerable concern is being felt in Cisco today since the receipt of a telegram by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee stating that Mrs. R. Q. Lee, mother of Edward and Quincy, and wife of Congressman Lee, of this city, is critically ill at Washington and that an operation would be necessary. The telegram requested the members of the family here to come immediately. A second telegram, however, advised them to wait for a letter which is on the way. Both telegrams were sent by Congressman Lee.

Visitor to Cisco Recalls "Cabbage" Incident of 1885

CISCO, Texas, June 15.—T. W. Dowda, 78, of near Atlanta, Ga., who has been visiting his son, W. T. Dowda, of near Cisco, for the past few weeks, will leave Sunday for Abilene, where he will spend a few days with his son, Dr. S. T. Dowda, of that city. This is Mr. Dowda's first visit to Cisco since 1885. He relates a very amusing story of his visit here in 1885. On one December night, a traveler, tired from an all day journey, left the train and sought refuge in the depot. It was about 11 o'clock, and everything was quiet and still. Looking around, the traveler's eyes caught sight of a cabbage. It later proved to be a cabbage from California and weighed 20 lbs. The traveler was so astounded by the size of the cabbage that he carried it back to the train and showed it to Mr. Dowda, who visited to this city in

"FOR GOD'S SAKE HELP US," IS PLEA

Minnesota Citizens Appeal to Hoover Concerning Acts of Customs Agents.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn., June 15.—"For God's sake help us," read an appeal to President Hoover by a group of professional and business men protesting the killing of Henry Virkula by Border Patrolman Emmett J. White. The plea was forwarded to the White House after a mass meeting in the city council chamber where the civic group, incensed over the slaying, aired its opinions and sought protection from the "unprecedented ambushes" it declared the community had been subjected to by customs agents. The message to President Hoover, signed by Hubbert, other public officials and many of International Falls' leading citizens, contended a "desperate situation" existed. "These agents," the message stated, "instead of confining their activities within the limits of their

Moody Takes Stand During Robison Case

Says He Conferred With Land Commissioner About Withdrawing Lands from Sale.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 15.—Gov. Moody testified this afternoon before the House of Representatives hearing into charges of misconduct that have been filed against Land Commissioner J. T. Robison.

Beginning with a conference in Gov. Moody's office last December attended by Robison, university regents, Pres. Benedict of the university, and Attorney General Pollard, Gov. Moody detailed the steps taken to prevent leasing of university lands supposed to contain oil before the legislature met Jan. 8, last.

The governor thought that satisfactory arrangements had been made to withdraw the land which had been advertised for sale Jan. 2. He had gone on a holiday hunting trip when he learned that the land had not been withdrawn. A conference was arranged with Land Commissioner Robison. Robison was near Laredo at the time so the governor and land commissioner met at Dilley, Tex. This is about half way between Austin and Laredo.

Gov. Moody says that Land Commissioner Robison agreed that he would withdraw all but land for which he had specific demand and that was estimated at not over 20,000 acres. It turned out to be 50,000 acres. Commissioner Robison insists that he never told the governor that it would be less than that acreage.

Robison said that he told the governor he did not think there would be over 20 "tracts," not "sections."

FARM BILL IS SIGNED BY HOOVER

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Pres. Hoover today signed the $500,000,000 administration farm relief bill. The new law, to become effective immediately, provides for creation of a federal farm board of nine members to work for the rehabilitation of American agriculture.

No export bounty or subsidy is provided, the controversial debenture feature having been filed by Congress after Pres. Hoover twice had expressed uncompromising opposition to the scheme.

Negro Haunts Now Attract Paris Society

Creoles and Sengalese Find Their Former Cabarets Pre-Empted

By PRINCESS ALI FAZIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS—Fifty the poor Creole, his Sengalese sweetheart and his cousin from the Ivory Coast since Paris has decided that it is smart to cultivate the bars and dancehalls which were built up heretofore on the patronage of the negro exiles in Paris.

Driven from his favorite haunts by the hordes of white folks who have decided that it must be the fashion to see him dance and sit at his table while he sips his rum, the French negro has had to create "speakeasies" dancehalls for himself and keep their location a dark secret.

Paris went rather silly over negro bands when jazz was imported years ago, but Paris has gone absolutely crazy over the negro atmosphere, the smokier the better. At the smartest parties, these nights, there are always negro guests invited to be the hit of the evening. Montmartre and Montparnasse are off the night programs of the smartest snobs, who would never dream of finishing up their early mornings elsewhere than at a negro cafe and dancehall.

Un Went the Prices

The result was to have been expected. The barker and dancehall matrons are only human after all and they had heard of the adage about making hay while the sun shines. In this case it was the electric light shining just at dawn which lit their hay, and they put up prices so high that the poor creole and his sweetheart could not afford to go any more.

Until the boom hit the rue Blomet scattering gold dust over the bars, you could dance all night for nothing, just so long as your glass on the cafe table never ran dry and providing, in the end, you greased the palm of the perch, the French jazz leader. The profits were made out of two-franc beer and one-franc coffees, and a larking Creole might even spend three francs for a glass of West Indies rum.

But all that is changed. The multiple ten was used rather generously on all common drinks and wine lists were printed. It would have caused a riot in the old days if anyone had popped a champagne cork, but now you don't get service if you fail to order the bubbling fluid.

They charge for dances, they charge for autographed photographs of negro belles, they charge for cigarettes about ten times the price set by the French tobacco monopoly, they charge for your hats coming and going and they charge you if you look too long without drinking.

The French negro, whether he comes from the West Indies possessions, the sunburned sands of

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM 'N POP

Senegal or the aromatic swamps of the banana country down in French Equatorial Africa, cannot afford more than five francs for a whole evening's entertainment, so the rue Blomet is forbidden territory to him.

Bouncers Kept Busy

If he does wander back in his favorite haunts, he is promptly bounced out by big bruisers of his own race and color. The atmosphere is given by a dozens hired hands, beautiful coffee-shouldered creoles or broad-shouldered Sengalese bucks who are part of the decorations and are making many pretty pennies by inviting the white men and women to dance.

The waiters wear diamonds and the patrons of the famous "Colonial Bar and Dancehall" in the rue Blomet, who used to ride a bicycle sports an American car of multiple cylinders. In another year the fad will be over and the Colonial Bar will be glad to get back its old trade, but for the moment the cash register plays a tune which sounds like the jingling of gold coins.

For themselves the colored exiles have opened up a sort of community bar and dancehall with a black bruiser at the door to keep smart Paris out.

ARABS ON TOP WITH 8 TO 1 WIN

Is Third Victory; P. O. Record Perfect With Two Wins.

For two innings the Baker defense held and the fans settled back to enjoy another good ball game. But two errors, two hits and one ball that nearly tripped Empire Watson were good for four runs. With Fairbairn setting back the Baker sluggers, this was sufficient to win. However, the Arabs added one in the fourth and two in the fifth for a total of eight runs.

The lone tally for the Bakers crossed the plate in the second inning. Harbin was safe when Harris dropped his fly in center field. Whitmore singled to right and Kenney let it roll on to the bleachers. Harbin went to third and Seth let it roll on to the bleachers. Whitmore to second. Kitchens struck out, but Richardson singled to center. Harbin scored but Whitmore was out trying to score from second.

The Arabs scored first in the second inning. Cheatham drew a base on balls, stole second and went to third on a passed ball behind the plate. Seth flew out to right field, Harbin taking the ball off the bleachers. Snyder popped out to third. Fairbairn singled to right, scoring Cheatham.

In the third, C. Henderson drove one to center that caromed off Empire Watson's shin. He stole second and went to third on a passed ball. C. Henderson scored and Whitney was safe when Wren fumbled. Harris flew out to second base. Amis got a grounder. Williams kicked his lifeline. Whatley scored. Seth singled to right, scoring Amis, Cheatham going to third, and scored on a passed ball.

In the fourth, Richardson lost Williams' throw in the sun and Watson was safe at second. C. Henderson flew out to center, Fairbairn going to third after the catch. Whatley scored. Watson with a single over the bleachers. Amis sent one over the bleachers. Harris singled behind first, filling the bases. Cheatham popped out to third. Cox forced Harris at second.

In the fifth, Ligon, batting for Snyder, struck out. Fairbairn was safe when Richardson fumbled. Fairbairn stole second. Watson singled to right, scoring Fairbairn. Watson took second on a throw in and went to third on a passed ball. C. Henderson flew out to left, Watson scoring after the catch.

soon as Nan Carroll switched the lights in the chamber had been shared by John Morgan and his wife, she why the deserted husband led from it to the sanctuaries small room which had been lent to male guests of the lawyer.

This room was of and for it had been created solely setting for Iris Morgan's ex-beauty.

had darlings chosen a color of amethyst and vivid green, almost the same blue as her remarkable eyes. shades of taffeta were coming in the window drapes, with gold gauze between, to fling into more flattering light. The top of the dressable, with its triple mirrors, crowded with scent bottles, and boxes, all of clear amethyst crystal. Nan wondered how could have left such treasure behind, but undoubtedly the woman had abandoned husband child for another man had died upon Bert Crawford to her newer, richer treasure, all as a newer, more thrilling than that which she was leaving.

"Aren't you back sooner than you expected? Of course we're awfully glad—" do you need any help, Miss Estelle, the maid, startled the interloper by calling softly the doorway.

was grateful. It was not to be alone with the ghost living woman. "Yes, thank Estelle. I haven't looked into closet yet, but if there is much to be done I shall need help—also a wardrobe trunk."

I told Pat O'Brien to bring up boxes from the basement." Estelle admitted. "It will take all trunks we can find to hold clothes. Here's Mrs. Morgan's dressing room, and I reckon there enough clothes here to stock a wardrobe."

an agreed with her silently she stepped into the large dressing room. Afternoon frocks, evening gowns, street costumes—suits, dresses and more dresses crowded the hanger-pole from end of the room to the other. wonder John Curtis Morgan had not been able to endure the he had shared with his wife! he stood here lonely and dejected, breathing in the perfume floated delicately from his garments, remembering her crushed the exquisite fabrics against his lips.

But Estelle, as if she read Nan's thoughts, dispelled that picture. "Mr. Morgan hasn't been in here Friday morning. He slept the gentlemen's guest room Friday night, and had me move his things in there Saturday morn-

Above the rich, deep blue her brown eyes, wide as an excited child's, looked almost black, but her new-washed hair glistened like fine-spun copper.

"I do like my legs," she commented to herself with pardonable satisfaction as she paraded before the full length mirror in her closet door. "If only these super-sheer gun metal stockings didn't cost three whole dollars! And $15 for black antelope pumps! There ain't no justice!—Iris with her 21 pairs of shoes! Ah, well! Poor but honest! That's me!"

She was giving her flushed cheeks—"Don't need any rouge tonight!"—another careful dusting of rachel-tinted powder when Curtis hurried breathlessly into the room.

"Hey, Nana! Guess what! My FATHER'S come home! And I'm telling him all about school and Big Pat and Little Pat and everything! And he said, 'Where is that incredible girl? What's incredible, Nana? Are you incredible?'"

Nan gasped, then suddenly went down on her knees and swept Curtis into her arms, holding him close against her wildly beating heart. "Listen, Curtis! Stop panting! Tell me—was he angry when he called me 'that incredible girl?'"

"Why?" Curtis was plainly amazed. "Is incredible a curse word, Nana? He didn't say it like he was cursing. He—he said it like—like—the child groped for descriptive words beyond his vocabulary—like he could kiss you if you were there right then!"

"Oh!" Nan sprang to her feet, her face flaming. Of course Curtis didn't mean that as she would have liked him to mean it. He was merely trying to tell her that his father had looked tenderly at her and grateful, but—

"Let's go down, honey. Dinner must be ready, and Maude has something very special tonight. Guess what! . . . No, you'd never! It's—Hidden Treasure! I just hope there'll be one for your father, too!"

Curtis's wild speculations as to what "Hidden Treasure" might be carried them down to the living room and to where John Curtis Morgan stood before the brightly burning fire, his eyes—which were not merry at all—fixed on the life-size portrait of the wife who had so recently deserted him.

"Father, we've got Hidden Treasure for dinner, and Nana made up the recipe just for me, and—"

"Hello, Nan! Has this young hellion been blabbling like this ever since you came? If so, it's a good thing I hurried back to rescue you. You seem to be hearing an under the strain pretty well, though, I never saw you look so pretty!"

Was she glad then that she had dressed for dinner? But she wondered if he could see her heart pounding beneath the allegedly transparent velvet, as his two hands folded over the cold little hand she thrust out at him.

"Aren't you back sooner than you expected? Of course we're awfully glad—"

"The governor and I had our heart-to-heart talk about poor Brownlee last night, and around midnight he gave me his word that if Dr. Ashley's privately stated opinion corroborated his expert testimony on the witness stand, he would have the boy committed to the state hospital for the criminally insane. I'm glad—for his mother's sake. Personally, I think the poor boy would be better off dead, but I don't fancy the noise as a way to put him out of his misery—all things considered. . . . Hello! Here's Estelle, with the good news that dinner's ready. I'm famished. I hope we don't have to hunt for this Hidden Treasure of Nan's, Sonny-boy!"

"Hidden Treasure" proved to be something delightfully odorless in individual casseroles, something with a brown, crisp crust of crack-crums and cheese.

"There's an egg in a nest of spinach!" Curtis shouted, when he had lifted the crust with an impatient fork and disclosed a perfectly poached egg. "I don't like spinach. . . . Um-m-m! That's funny!" he marvelled, his black flying accusingly to Nan. "It tastes good!" He took another forkful of the spinach, which had been chopped into white cause. Then, "Say, Father! Taste this crust! Oh, boy!"

Morgan laughed until his pale, tired face was ruddy with color. "I called you 'that incredible girl' to Curtis, and he wanted to know what incredible meant," he said to Nan, and again his eyes had that look in them which Curtis had endeavored to describe. "Curtis, an incredible girl is one who can solve murder mysteries, make a lazy lawyer work like the very devil, bring order out of chaos in someone else's home, and make a finicky little brat like you eat spinach and like it."

"Uh-huh," Curtis agreed, sticking his fork into the golden yolk of Nan's "Hidden Treasure." "I want Nana to stay. So does Little Pat. He says she's a peach-er-ino!"

of my stomach, and it pained me terribly. I was very nervous and restless and at times would not get any sleep at all. I had a very bad case of constipation and took strong laxatives, or purgatives, all the time.

"While taking with a druggist about my condition, he recommended Oratone to me. I am now taking the third bottle, and feel simply great. After taking the first bottle I didn't have a sign of constipation. I have been improving right along, and now haven't an ache or pain. I have a good appetite, and eat anything now, and have no more pains or gas on my stomach. My food digests perfectly. I sleep fine every night, and wake up feeling refreshed and full of pep and energy. If anyone suffers as I did, I would advise them to try Oratone for it is sure a wonderful medicine."

Genuine Oratone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific preparation, and is sold in Eastland exclusively by Toombs & Richardson Drug Co., under the personal direction of a special representative.—Adv.

KEEP POULTRY YARDS CLEAN

Care exercised in keeping poultry yards clean and in sanitary condition has a double function in keeping the flock clear of parasites that undermine the health and sap the vigor of the birds. The injury by mites, lice, fleas and other parasitic organisms is sometimes obvious, but it also happens that some insects and other small creatures are carriers or intermediate hosts of some of the internal parasites of poultry.

For example according to specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture, one variety of roundworm must develop for one stage of its life outside the poultry it affects. The roundworm lays its eggs within the chicken and they are eliminated in the droppings. They will not mature if picked up by a fowl. They do mature if a water flea picks up the eggs. Then if a hen takes in the water flea with her drinking water the roundworm parasite of the flea develops into a poultry parasite.

Many similar examples are known, and others are suspected. The grasshopper, for instance, has recently been shown to transmit at least one important parasite of domestic poultry.

Sanitation and cleanliness which prevents such insects from having access to the droppings may thus break a cycle through which infestation reaches the flock. The insects in themselves may not be harmful to poultry, but if they have had an opportunity to feed on contaminated droppings they may be the means of spreading these particular parasites.

OPERATING ECONOMY
AND REMARKABLY LOW PRICE MAKE WHIPPET EASY ON YOUR POCKETBOOK

THE new Superior Whippet Four carries on the original Whippet's unsurpassed reputation for low operating and service costs. Although its higher compression engine develops more than 20% added horsepower, with faster speed and pick-up, there is no increase in Whippet's consumption of gas and oil.

And the new Superior Whippet Six is even more economical than its predecessor. Its increase in compression ratio assures more value from gas used, and more miles per gallon.

Then consider the remarkably low prices of both the Whippet Four and the Whippet Six, and you realize why thousands of new owners are appreciating that in buying motor car value, their dollar goes further today than ever before.

MRS. BICKERSTAFF HAS BREEZY BUGGY BUSS
Mrs. B. B. Bickerstaff demonstrated the facts satisfactorily a few days ago that a lone woman, bare headed, without even a dog in the car, can drive in the moon light and a keep a driving for sixteen hours and eating up five hundred and 60 miles per without having to faint tank a whiskey cocktail or go to a garage.

When Vera McNew Bickerstaff decided she was home sick and wanted to see her mother and father she left her silent house and getting out her car started immediately for the O. McNew ranch in Mexico. These people are insured to shocks and were willing to be grateful to their daughter because they loved and because they were glad to see her.

DEMONSTRATION—CHURCH OF CHRIST
The demonstration of biblical scenes which obtained in the Sunday school circles of the Church of Christ last year and were just successes will be resumed with the demonstration to be given this morning (Sunday) at 10 o'clock at the church, when Mrs. J. R. Boggus will tell of the history of Judea and of her being taken captive. This story of conquest will be wrought on the demstration tables by means of the mountainous country, of the locale the rivers, the winding mountain roadways the forests, tents, army stations, citadels and the big cities all done in natural colors with trees on the cliffs, real water in the river bed and all the usual accurate work for which Rev. Wrye was highly commended in his preparation in this class of study last season.

These demonstrations are enjoyable and attended by nearly as many parents as children. An invitation is extended to all who are interested in this demonstration and those that will follow. Impulsive effort has been made by several individuals at various times to establish a demonstration such as this given by the Church of Christ but the efforts were not sufficiently united and did not last long. The Church of Christ, however, held these demonstrations every Saturday through several months last year and discontinued only when there were epidemics among children of diphtheria and scarlet fever and late the pressure of school work. Vacation is here now however and gives the church this mission-day opportunity.

Women who have demonstrated these biblical lectures and presented them with ease and interest include: Tom Harrell, Mrs. Harry Wood, Mrs. J. R. Boggus, Mrs. Annie Craig, Mrs. A. C. Craig, Mrs. E. D. Hurley, Mrs. L. Herring, and Rev. H. W. Wrye, the pastor.

The assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Brogdon, Mrs. Hughes, and Mrs. Killough, and guests will be received at 4 p. m. Mrs. J. R. Carlisle will prepare and lead the program and Mrs. E. C. Satter-white will assist.

These social meetings are extremely enjoyable affairs and have always been successful and well attended.
ROTARIANS ROTATE RUNNING RINES

And now let the keys whisper and say farewell to the former life and let it be a substantial, sober, steady comfort a support, and truly a graceful gesture evidenced by the Rotarian.

MRS. GEORGE CROSS EN-TERTAINS GRAND OFFICERS
Mrs. George Cross was a charming hostess yesterday entertaining with 1 o'clock luncheon at her attractive home Friday, the grand officers of the Order of the Eastern Star who have been in Eastland off and on for the past three days and are the house guests of Mrs. W. Z. Outward. The Cross residence was gorgeously decorated with bouquets of gladioli in yellow and white tins and big, luscious yellow tea roses sent their fragrance from their flower willd stands in the dining room.

Small tables were arranged for the luncheon in the color motif of yellow and white and table covers were white linen embroidered and each table centered in a crystal chandelier. Battered place cards were in the chosen colors of yellow and white. The delicious menu opened with appetit then pineapple salad with wafers; minted tea with rose buds frozen in yellow shades. A corsage of sweet peas, further indicated each guests plates. The luncheon plate of fried chicken was composed with golden potatoes, yellow beans, parsley dressing on potatoes, bayard beets, hot rolls. Small favors at each place were laced in yellow covers with cream ribbons.

The honor guests were Mrs. Esterling, Worthy Grand Matron, from Del Rio. Mrs. Iva Burnett, Grand eximiners of Miami, Texas. Mrs. Maud Ripley, Deputy grand Matron, of district number two, Electra. Mrs. M. Z. Outward, deputy grand matron, district number two, Eastland.

LARGE ATTENDANCE GREETING BIBLE SCHOOL CLOSING ENTERTAINMENT
Friday evening the Presbyterian church was crowded to the doors with an appreciated and interested audience gathered to hear the children in their pretty roles, to see them in their pantomimes and to visit the exhibits of their hand-craft throughout the last two weeks of study. The daily vacation bible school was a success as could be easily seen by the proud faces of the students and the admiring faces of the parents.

The rostrum was dressed with two large bouquets in tall vases ing address responded to by all the officers. Mrs. Beard was organist. A piano solo was presented by Mrs. A. F. Taylor. Delicious punch, iced with refined cubes and wafers were served from a table massed in flowers and fruits by Mrs. Yynne and Mrs. Fuller. There were over one hundred present and visitors from Cisco, and Ranger. Two candidates were initiated.

LAST RECITAL AGROUP VERY SUCCESSFUL

Scholarship and prizes awarded last night to the students of Mrs. Wilda Dragoo Caton on the occasion of the closing of her musical season, and the presentation made in the presence of an immense audience in assembly room of the Methodist church. Flowers were used in each window and the piano was softly candle light and the bouquets of flowers were placed in attractive places and background. Incoming guests were received by Miss Maxon of West Virginia and Miss Carter of Sweetwater. A scholarship was awarded Miss Edith Lindsley for first place in violin and was a year's scholarship under Mrs. Caton. Billie Satterwhite received second reward, a half year scholarship. Olivette Killough and Catherine Utts tied for first place in piano and each was awarded a half years study under Mrs. Caton.

Grace George, Elizabeth Anne Harrell, Mary Jane Harrell, Lucine Browner, Norma Hayes, Carolyn Cox, won special honor sole mention in violin and piano work and honorable mention was given Grace George who received the scholarship last year which debarred this year. Mrs. Caton and her sister Mrs. Wanda Dragoo Beall of San Angelo will conduct addition once a month for the benefit of many students who wish to work under the two artists in piano and violin and who have agreed to make a meeting place once a month for this purpose.

OIL BELT GOLF ASSOCIATION PRECKENRIDGE, THE JOUREN'S END
By Mrs. W. K. Jackson
Loftin Wycher didn't tell very much about the impending game on the Breckenridge links, today, but what he did admit shows a little to the uninitiate. The following towns are represented and local players on the grounds: Albany, Mineral Wells, Eastland players, include Dan Garrett, S. J. Barnett, Loftin Wycher, Joe Weaver, Theo Ferguson, John W. Thomas and Walter Clarke.

MISS VIRGINIA ROOT TENDERED PRETTY DINNER PARTY
Miss Virginia Root was honored of a delightful little dinner party at the Connellee hotel 8 o'clock Friday evening, given by her uncle, C. M. Root. The third flooring room was just right and the long table, laid on damask, held an oblong mound of lovely flowers, the rose sprays interlacing and running down the table center to the ends. Colorful place cards were also tallies in the rainbow shades, the fruit cocktail, in Aux Per bowls was followed by a frozen salad. The fried chicken plate had compose of all the good things usual to this plate, iced tea with lemon and mint was served and last course was a delicious fresh peach parfait. Three tables were arranged for the bride and high score favors of handwoven straw mules, satin lined, and a carton of cigarettes, were awarded Mrs. Andy Rhodes and Allen Key.

Present: Misses Ada Geraldine Dabney, Jane Virginia Root; Mr. and Mrs. Angstadt, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, Allen Key, Frank Bill Eason, C. M. Root, and Irlan McArron of ridge.
