CAPTURE "BILLIE BOWLEGS" REPORTED WANTED HERE

By this time the Mexican combatants should be sufficiently exhausted to make the seam.—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

By United Press.

Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

Col. Sol is getting ready to buzz around and the lawmakers are getting ready to do some buzzing of their own account. Organization of the Senate was achieved with tribulation. Sen. Eugene Miller was elected by almost a five to one vote over Sen. Julian Greer. The latter placed in nomination Sen. Thomas B. Love. Before the ballots were counted Sen. Greer caught the eye of the presiding officer and declared that he was not a candidate, that he was ready to Miller and would cast his ballot for Miller. Regardless of this the Love candidate received the votes.

Sen. Miller comes from the weatherford district. Weatherford is his home, he is a product of the university, he was elected to the lower house while a student at the university and the voters of his district sent him to the state and then re-elected him. He is the place for an ambitious young man.

There was a fight over the rules committee, offered a resolution which was in the nature of a censure. Sen. Holbrook objected. Sen. Woodward objected. It was a merry-go-round of wits. Wirtz declared the resolution would be an important one expediting the business before the august body. All three gladiators who objected to the rule declared that its adoption would lead to the defeat of the three proposals submitted by the speaker.

The sparring was delicious, the change of compliments within bounds of good breeding, and finally the Wirtz resolution would have precedence to all appropriate bills after they had been sent to the Senate was sent to the committee on rules for revision and rejection by that very important committee.

Barron Hopes Only One Session Needed.

There was a well defined rumor before the organization that an important number of the Senators felt that the appropriation should come first and that the veto would be invited to address the upper house on the importance of early submission. Under Speaker Barron the session made an excellent start. There is no change in the personnel of the House. Now it's up to the Senators to tackle the prison law and concentration and the other of the major items submitted by proclamation and message. "The gentleman down" is the order of the hour in the lower house. Sen. Wirtz in defense of the changing of the date declared that the people called for the enactment of the appropriation bills and action on all the bills proposed outside of the special session. He saw no necessity for a second special session. Unless the signs are misleading a second special session is necessary.

The course "medicine mixers" for the campaign of 1932 will be in evidence. Colquitt's nomination is being before the Senate of the United States. It is said that Sen. Rice and those around him who believe that the bill should be given a boost. Regardless of all this, there is a pretty political tale afloat in the mouths of men to the effect that a year, Col. Creager and his associates agreed to stand "one all and all for one" in the matter of the disposal of federal lands. First that the Creager resolution would endorse the application proposed by the Hoover-

Luther Bean, local agent for the Magnolia Petroleum company, announced this morning that he has closed a deal for his company with the Oilbelt Motor company for two 25x100 foot lots on the corner of West Commerce and Green streets, and just west of the Oilbelt Motor company building, on which the Magnolia will build a modern brick filling station. A building permit for the station has been taken out, Mr. Bean stated.

Mr. Bean also stated that his company would repair and improve other filling stations they own in Eastland, one on East Main street, one on North Lamar street and one on South Seaman street, making them conform with the system of chain filling stations the company is establishing.

Work on the new Eastland station, Mr. Bean stated, would be started just as soon as attorneys for the Magnolia approved the title to the building sites.

Serving Warrant on Indictment, Foster Finds More Beer

Thursday when Sheriff Virge Foster and Deputy Sheriffs Steele Hill and Loss Woods started to Ranger to serve warrants on a man and a woman, who had been indicted by the Eastland county grand jury on charges of violating the liquor laws, the officers decided that they would take a search warrant along in case they decided to again search the premises, having only recently made a raid on them.

Upon their arrival at the place in question, the officers exhibited their search warrant and again searched the place, finding more than 100 bottles of alleged beer, which they confiscated, and the two face additional charges of liquor law violation. They were brought to Eastland and lodged in the county jail.

Blizzards Hit West States With Damage

One Man Freezes to Death; Motorists Isolated on Snow-Blocked Roads; Cheyenne in Darkness.

By United Press.

CHICAGO, April 26.—From the blizzard-swept far West to the flood-menaced Mississippi Valley, and into the southeast, man and machine battled today against nature.

While workmen strengthened dikes and levees along the swollen Mississippi river and repaired Chicago's sea walls against the beating waters of Lake Michigan, repairmen struggled to restore the chaos caused by Wednesday's cyclone when every home and store in this farm settlement was blown down.

Relief work was in charge of the Red Cross chapter of Palestine, the Howard Gardner Post of the American Legion and organized charities. Three relief tents had been set up from which workers distributed food, clothing and other supplies to the stricken citizens.

No new dead had been reported today from the hospitals at Palestine, although several were not expected to live. The death toll from the twister stood at seven, with many injured and nearly a half million dollars worth of property damage.

Elkhart citizens raised $1,000 toward relief work at a meeting lasting only thirty minutes and workmen in the Missouri Pacific shops at Palestine contributed a similar amount toward the fund. It was expected the fund would reach $15,000 soon. Contributions came from all sections of Texas.

MAN IS TAKEN TO SILVERTON

Sheriff N. R. Honea of Briscoe county arrived in Eastland Thursday afternoon to take Roy Dillard, wanted in that county on a forgery charge, to Silverton. The officer was accompanied by E. G. IS NABBED BY SLEUTHS IN DALLAS

Said to Have Broken Jail in Eastland—Has Package of Pennies in Car From Bank Reported Robbed.

DALLAS, Tex., April 26.—William Anderson Huckaby, known throughout the country as "Billie Bowlegs," and reputed to be an expert safe cracksman, was captured today by Capt. of Detectives Leonard Pack following receipt of a message from Yuma, Ariz. that he was wanted there on a felony warrant for safe burglary.

Huckaby was taken at the home of a relative here. He was traced to his lair through a letter addressed to him there which was intercepted by police.

When Pack and other officers walked into the house, Huckaby was asleep on a bed. With him was Myles Smith, also wanted at Yuma for a safe job. Huckaby came here to visit his mother who is ill, he said.

Police said Huckaby is wanted for jail breaks in San Angelo, Grand Forks, N. D., Eastland and several North Carolina cities.

Even Huntsville penitentiary in Texas failed to hold Huckaby, and he is still wanted there to serve out an unfinished sentence for safe robbery.

Ardmore, Ok., police want him for two safe jobs there and he is under suspicion of robbery of a Mexico, Mo., bank.

Asked if he would fight extradition, he said, "Hell, no."

Preparations for his disposal will be made as soon as officers receive word from Yuma officials.

A package of pennies found in his car bore wrappers with the name of the Continental Bank & Supply company of Mexico, Mo.

Rev. Ross The New Pastor Of Presbyterians

Will Begin Pastorate First Monday in May at Eastland Church—Is Leaving Here—Active in Civic Undertakings.

Rev. Jas. T. Ross, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Hereford, has accepted a call from the local Presbyterian church to serve as its pastor and on the first Sunday in May will begin his work here.

Mrs. Ross and their three children, Mary Elizabeth, who will be a junior in high school next fall; James Theburn, who will enter high school; and John L., aged 10; will come to Eastland following the close of the public school in Hereford.

Rev. Ross is a native of West Texas, having been born at Thrifty, in Brown county, and reared in Coke county. He took his B. A. degree in Southern Methodist university and served in various pastorates in North and West Texas, since his entry into the ministry in 1909, some of which have been Grand Prairie, Mansfield, and Stephenville, from which latter place he went to Hereford in 1925.

His activity in the Hereford church and city has been of an extensive character, he having spoken and preached in some 26 school houses and churches in the county. He has organized Boy Scout work in a number of the rural communities around Hereford, and has held the chairmanship of the Court of Honor in that city. He has also been actively engaged in all phases of civic life.

The Eastland Church has been without a regular pastor since last fall, but despite the fact that there have been no regular Sunday preaching services, much progress has been made in the various church organizations. The choir is preparing for the beginning of the regular services, and Mrs. J. B. Leonard will assist in the organization, as well as the rendering of special music which will characterize the future services.

The local church extends to the new pastor a hearty welcome into this field of labor and its members feel confident that the mutual association of the pastor and church will work to the greatest good along the lines of religious and civic betterment.

The new pastor extends to the people of Eastland and especially to the members of his congregation, a hearty co-operation, assuring them that his best effort will be conscientiously extended for the good of the church, its causes and people and for the good of the community.

Rev. Mr. Ross will be formally accepted into the Abilene Presbytery at a special meeting to be held here on the 13th of May, and at which time he will be officially installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city.

Members of the eleemosynary committee left Austin early Friday morning to visit institutions at Carlsbad, Abilene, Gatesville and Gainesville. Their departure ended all possibility of maintaining a quorum which takes 100 members.

Drug stores, railroad stations, and private homes were used at Metter, Cochran and Exter, Ga., to succor the injured reported to number more than 200 in Georgia alone.

The twisters hit South Central Georgia late yesterday afternoon.

THE ALL-IMPORTANT SALESMAN.

Our present economic and industrial order is based on that much-discussed and widely-advertised American feature, mass production. This has brought an era of high wages and low prices, to be sure; yet there are not a few observers who fear that mass production is outstripping consumption at a rate that will eventually bring us to grief.

Charles F. Abbott, executive of the American Institute of Steel Construction, has some interesting remarks to make on that subject the other day when he addressed the Industrial Advertisers' association of Cleveland.

Admitting that these gloomy prognostications are to a certain extent justified, Mr. Abbott tackled the problem and indicated what he believes will be a solution to the difficulty.

The real trouble, in many cases, is not of itself excess capacity, but rather the inability to divert thinking and planning from questions of production to those that relate to the market and distribution of the finished product, he declared.

It is much easier to produce than to sell; easier to control costs than it is to obtain profits. Efficiency in plant production has reduced costs to the minimum, and therefore if relief is to be expected from many of the perplexing problems it must come from similar attention devoted to the market and distribution methods.

A leader in the steel industry has referred to a huge investment amounting to as much as $169,000,000, expended to modernize plants and reduce costs, only to find that all of the savings made possible by this huge investment were dissipated by inefficient selling and failure to maintain efficient marketing policies.

For instance: it has been clearly demonstrated that the consumption of fabricated structural steel could be increased to 5,000,000 tons annually by developing the present market and promoting new uses.

The same thing, no doubt, is true of many other basic industries. Evidently the golden age of the capable salesman is only beginning.

coming from out of the west with little warning. High windstorms occurred at several communities several hours later, taking additional toll.

Near Spartanburg, N. C., the tornadoes, for there apparently were a group of small twisters moved in the same direction in late afternoon.

Not until after midnight did the results of the storms begin to come in over the wires, many of which had been torn down by the blasts.

Reports from communities in the wake of the twister listed the dead and injured as follows:

Cochran, Ga., five dead; more than 100 injured, some seriously.

Chester, Ga., one dead; 20 injured.

Metter, Ga., and vicinity, 11 dead; 50 injured.

Antioch, Ga., two dead; ten injured.

Enoree, S. C., one dead, ten injured, four critically.

Dexter, Ga., and vicinity, four dead, 40 injured.

Pelzer, S. C., two negroes reported killed and 20 injured at Tucker school community west of Pelzer.

One person, John Eubanks, 70, a farmer, was killed and five others seriously injured when a farmhouse collapsed under the wind near Enoree, S. C. Ethel Daniels, 12, and R. B. Daniels were critically hurt. Others caught in the debris were Mrs. Lucy Prather, 50; Fred Rhodes, 30; and Roy Prather, 20.

Doctors and nurses from near the stricken areas moved in by motorcar and on foot when roads became impassable because of fallen trees, into the communities early today.

At Cochran, E. W. Hendrix, photographer, reported that many of the injured had broken legs and arms. He described the cyclone

AS APPEARING IN THE WEST shortly after 4 p. m., yesterday, a heavy cloud of dust.

Hendrix said it cut a 150-yard path across the outskirts of Cochran, a town of 2,500 population, destroyed houses in the negro section first.

"I could see chairs and tables go shooting into the air. Some were swept as high as 300 feet. One man, a carpenter, I don't know his name, had a splinter of wood driven clear through his neck. He's still alive though," Hendrix said over long distance telephone.

HAINES RESIGNS $10,000 PLACE

By United Press. AMARILLO, Tex., April 26.—With a chamber of commerce organized last night, a new board of city development to be chosen Tuesday, and 28 superfluous city employees cut from its payroll, Amarillo looked forward today to a new era. The re-organization of the board of city development was made necessary by the resignation yesterday of Col. Harve H. Haines as vice president and manager. Haines' resignation, made without any statement, followed the resignation of seven board directors April 15 and eight others since then. The new chamber of commerce directors may be made members of the board, according to a proposition facing the election Tuesday.

Hen Mothers Three Kittens

These three kittens are perfectly at home with their foster-mother, Biddy Hen. They follow her around while she clucks contentedly, trying to make them pick up pieces of corn and a few rocks. She never scolds or fusses with the tummy babies. The odd family is owned by a Houston, Tex., farmer.

Opposition of Mayor Ernest O. Thompson to the "big payroll" was believed in the background of Haines' resignation. Haines came here from Houston two years ago at a salary of $8,000 the first year, $10,000 the second. In his campaign speeches, Thompson opposed maintenance of a board manager at a large salary. Thompson told the Rotary club yesterday 28 persons had been dropped from the city payroll because they had "nothing to do."

Theater Manager To Go to Dallas

Harold Smith, who for the past two years or more has been manager of the Comeliee Theatre, is resigning his position and going to Dallas within the next few days where he will engage in a different line of business. Mr. Smith will be State distributor for a line of talking picture machines, which is said to be one of the best machines of its kind on the market, and which is manufactured by a well known piano company in the east. His headquarters will be in Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have made many friends in Eastland who will regret very much that they are leaving, but will wish them the very best to be had in their new home. Grover Campbell, one of the proprietors of the Comeliee, will be in charge of the theatre for a time at least.

Selfishness Found Cause of Divorce

OWOSSO, Mich.—Selfishness is the basic cause of nine out of ten divorces in the United States, according to a committee of three members of the Shiawassee county Ministerial association who conducted a nation-wide survey of official marriage and divorce records. The committee's report sets forth that there were 1,200,694 marriages in the United States in 1927 and 192,037 divorces; an average of one divorce to every 6.2 marriages. In New York the ratio was 1 divorce to 21 marriages; Georgia, 1 to 13; Wisconsin 1 to 6.8; Indiana 1 to 4.1 and Michigan 1 to 3.4. Other highlights of the report show that: Twice as many women apply for divorce as men. Most divorce suits are filed by women who have been married two years. Men wait three years. Divorce actions have increased 300 per cent since 1887. The average duration of a marriage that ends in a divorce decrees is seven years. Restaurant waiters are increasing three times as fast as our families and restaurant owners four times as fast.

Changed Economics Woman's changed economic status has a great deal to do with the divorce situation.

There was a 60 per cent increase in bakery production from 1914 to 1925, while the population increased but 15 per cent. Of 335 children in the Michigan state public schools at Coldwater 24 per cent are divorce "orphans."

Wives as well as husbands will part with their children to obtain their freedom.

Among the "extreme and repeated cruelty" grounds cited in divorce complaints, the committee reports the following:

One man left his false teeth lying on the buffet.

One man picked his teeth with a penknife after meals.

One man snored in his wife's sensitive ear.

One man refused to wax his mustache.

One man wore spats to the mortification of his wife.

One man forgot the date of his mother-in-law's birthday.

As remedies the committee suggests "the revival of the old-fashioned religion where grace is pronounced at the table, the Bible read and prayer made in the regular, not an incident and the home, where church attendance abolition of ideas of companionate marriage."

For a soapy, sudsy bath—use Melo

Like to have plenty of suds when you're bathing? Then don't bathe in hard water—city water as it comes from the faucet. Soap combines with the hard water, and forms a dirt-ringing around the edge of the tub. That's scum. And that's certainly not pleasant. Hard water can be made soft. Just add Melo to the water and you have a very remarkable cleaner, with or without soap. Then watch the soap lather. Then watch the suds come! Then watch the scum go! Have you discovered how much more effective Melo makes soap get three cans today at your grocer's or the kitchen, the laundry and the bathroom.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMITAGE when he steals her fox fur from a thief.
Friendship grows until PAMELA JUDDSON, daughter of her employer, tries to lure him away from her. HUCK CON-NOR becomes infatuated with Pamela and she plays both men off. Her brother, HOWARD, is in love with Mildred, who tries to keep him from gambling with Huck's money.

When Stephen continues seeing Pamela, she cables her father to charge her. Harold tries to stop this but fails. Pamela continues poisoning Stephen's mind against Mildred and the latest dreary days in search of him. Then Pamela tries to break up Huck and when he objects she tells Stephen that is the only way she can get rid of Huck and pleads with him to consider the engagement.

Huck commands Harold to prevent Pamela's marriage to Stephen under fear of exposure concerning a forged check. Harold can't force Pamela to consent to marry Stephen. She plans to elope with him. He has one of his pals ask for a motor car by Stephen and they set a trap to steal it from him. He goes back to his job expecting to be discharged nothing is to be done until a full investigation.

Pamela insists on Stephen attending a dinner that night in her apartment.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVII

ply by shadowing the former.
What Short wanted was information that would prove beyond a doubt that Lefty was a suspicious character. This he got easily enough.

He learned that Lefty had a police record. Before becoming a runner he'd been in trouble over a stolen car. That was enough for Short.

Which was exactly what Duke Broggan and Huck Connor had had in mind when they polished off their plans for framing Stephen.

At this point in his handling of the case Short went home and to bed. But he did not go to sleep.
And while he thought over the circumstantial evidence against Stephen that interested him was the center of interest among a group of Pamela's friends. He'd almost forgotten his troubles.

But if he could not see the black cloud that was gathering over his head there was one who prayed fervently that harm would not befall him.

When Harold had gone to Mildred after his visit to Huck's room at the time Huck had avowed his intention of ruining Stephen, he was in a pitiable condition indeed.
His resistance was at a low ebb and the temptation to unburden himself to Mildred was almost overpowering. His knowledge of her love for Stephen alone held him back. He couldn't depend upon her to keep his secret. And even if he did not tell her that Huck had threatened Stephen he knew that she would not remain silent with Pamela in danger.

Harold had no mercy for himself in comparing his cowardice with Mildred's staunch spirit. But the matter of deciding what to do was not left to his cringing will.

Mildred saw at once that he was in an unusually anguished state of mind. She almost feared that he was verging on madness. His face was alternately flushed and pale and he couldn't hold his hands steadily enough to light a cigar.

He sat down, got up again, walked to the radio, tuned it in,
tuned it out, sat down again, got up.

Mildred couldn't stand it. She signaled Connie out of the room and then she told Harold to sit down, pointing to the big arm chair that was now back in the living room.

He sank into it with an audible groan and Mildred flew to his side. She put her hands on his shoulders in a comforting way and begged him to tell her what was wrong.

"Something," she said frankly,
"has to be done for you, Harold.
If you refuse to let me help you I'm going to Mr. Dazel and have him cable your father."

Harold jerked up his head. "For God's sake, Mildred, don't do that," he screamed.

"Then tell me what Huck Connor is doing to you," Mildred bargained.

Harold sank his face in his hands again and Mildred waited. Her heart ached for him but she believed that a more level head than his was needed to fight Huck Connor.

With a painful gulp in his throat Harold looked up and spoke. "He's got something that I don't want dad to see," he said and his terror drove him to glance about at his simple surroundings in a quick way as if he feared that someone might be watching him. He revealed to Mildred more than any thing else the magnitude of his oppression.

"No one's listening," she said soothingly. "Won't you tell me more?"

Harold gripped her hands. "I'm afraid of him, Mildred," he whimpered, and a cold, sickening feeling crept over the girl.

"Why?" she whispered, and Harold's abject fear had communicated itself to her to such an extent that her voice came strained and unnatural.

"He can make me do anything," Harold told her wildly. "I'm a beastly coward, Mildred." His voice was growing louder now, showing his excitement. "You ought to kick me out in the gutter where I belong! I'm no good!
I won't even save my sister, and maybe it's just because you love him that I won't save Armitage either! I'm too rotten to know what's decent..."

"Stephen!" The name burst from Mildred's lips in a passionate cry. "Harold, what do you mean? What has Huck Connor to do with Stephen?"

She was shaking the boy's thin shoulders furiously, trying to make him speak, but Harold's crazed confession was at an end.
Mildred's reaction to the mention of Stephen's name had made realize that she would fight for Stephen at any cost.

Her fingers clutched painfully through his clothing; he heard her voice break. It was unbearable. He had to tell her something.

"Stop shaking me," he said, and tried to pull away.

"Then tell me; tell me about Stephen," Mildred pleaded.

"I will. Let me get my breath."

Mildred dropped her hands and waited. Harold did not look at her. "He's going to marry Pam,"
he said reluctantly.

For a moment there was a ghostly, taut silence. Then Mildred turned away with a choked sob.
Harold lifted his face, saw her at the door, in flight. He stood up and called to her but she did not answer.

Presently she sent Connie to ask him to excuse her. "She seems to have acute indigestion or something," Connie said, a bit peeved because she could not understand the drama that she sensed was being played in their flat.

Harold left immediately, which provoked Connie into going back to join Mildred and trying to make her talk.

Finally Mildred reached out for her sister's hand and clung to it in a way that silenced Connie.

But later, with Connie offering sympathy and comfort as best she could without words, Mildred told her about Stephen's engagement.

"And I love him, Connie," she added, a world of pain in the whispered words.

Connie said nothing, only pressured closer the arm she had thrown protectively about Mildred. But after a while her feelings got the better of her and she burst out angrily. "He'll get all that's coming to him with Pamela Juddson!
Marrying for money!"

"Connie, he wouldn't. He loves her."

"After knowing you? Don't make me laugh!"

Her words were small comfort to Mildred who lay awake all the night though regretting that she had not made Harold tell her what Huck Connor could do to Stephen.

"Tomorrow," she said herself at last. "I'll go to Huck Connor himself."

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON.—When Vice President Curtis moved out of his quarters in the senate office building and installed himself in the vice presidential quarters in the capitol, his old suite was promptly occupied by Senator George W.
Norris of Nebraska.

It happens that the late Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania had preceded Curtis in the occupancy of these rooms. Now Penrose and Curtis were about as conservative a pair as any ever found in Washington. And Norris, who is now installed in the offices they used, is the senate's leading progressive.
He also is a bone dry.

In this same office there is a little push button with considerable history. According to capitol employees, it once connected with what was known as the "gold room" in the basement. Whenever the colored man on guard in the "gold room" heard the buzzer ring he knew Senator Penrose wanted to serve some liquor, and accordingly lugged up the bottle. Presumably there was a code, the number of rings determining that what sort of stuff Penrose wanted.
Those, of course, were pre-prohibition days, and Penrose was no dry.

Today the button is frequently pushed by visitors—but nothing ever happens.

The Curtis offices are a positive sensation—not to say a riot. Nowhere in Washington, not even at the white house, has your correspondent seen anything as magnificent. As republican floor leader in the senate, Curtis was in a position to get whatever he wanted in the senate office building, which was plenty. He has taken over three immense rooms occupying the end of one wing, which have been described as "combining the gorgeousness of a sultan's palace with the color schemes of an Indian wickiup."

The mahogany furniture shines with newness. There's a huge American flag, one of those that flew over the capitol on inauguration day. The walls of the Curtis sanctum, largest of the three chambers, are covered with two or three dozen photographs, oil paintings and newspaper cartoons of Curtis himself. Various Indian relics are scattered here and there.
Curtis sits at a huge flat desk in a great and intricately carved chair elaborately inscribed in gilt letters with the Curtis name and title and the names of the donors.
The vice president's office, also contains three or four damed pretty girls. It is rapidly becoming one of the show places of the capitol.

The death of Prince Robinson, 70-year-old barber at the capitol, recalls the story of the time his razor washed the late Vice President Thomas R. Marshall.

It seems that Marshall and a senator in an adjoining chair were having some fun with the old colored man.

Marshall had made up a thrilling yarn about an alleged attempt by Henry Cabot Lodge and Boies Penrose to tunnel under the treasury and swipe a few million dollars. He had just reached the point where the stout Penrose was supposed to have been stuck in the narrow tunnel, with Lodge unable to budge him when Robinson nervous and excited, let the razor slip and the vice president began to bleed.

Marshall never finished the story.

$20,000 DOG BITE; DAMAGE SUITS POPULAR

"Sue them" seems to have become the slogan of the easy money experts, declared Homer R. Mitchell in the April issue of the Texas Commercial News. He relates various instances in which claims were filed in evidence of his assertion. A dog's bite cost its owner $20,000; a small factory was put into the hands of the receiver because of a verdict of $40,000; an elevator accident amounted to $86,000; a woman collected when she fell off the stool in a restaurant; and a suit of $15-000 was brought against a physician for an accident which was wholly unavoidable on his part.

Most of us, states Mr. Mitchell, can remember the time when a person who had an accident considered it his own misfortune. But not today! Times have changed. It has become the practice to sue for damages on the slightest pretext.
He points out the wisdom of protecting the financial integrity and the business future of a firm by securing adequate public liability insurance.

No longer is it safe to trust to luck in avoiding damage suits and entanglements, he advises, for only too often perfectly innocent individuals or business firms suffer the consequences.

three days—just couldn't do my housework. I was never hungry, but would force myself to eat and then my suffering would begin.
My stomach, chest and throat would burn, and there was a choking sensation that seemed to affect my heart. My shoulders pained me and while I was told it was rheumatism, I know now it was due to the upset condition of my whole system. I was badly constipated.

"I felt like life was not worth living. I spent lots of money on medicines and treatments, but nothing did me any good. My sons persuaded me to try the Sargon treatment, and it is the most wonderful medicine I ever took. By the time I had finished the first bottle I felt like a different woman. Sargon Soft Mass Pills are the grandest liver medicine I have ever used. They are not drastic like other pills, but they have certainly overcome my constipation.

"I now have more strength and energy than in years. The pain in my shoulders is gone, and I can now sleep and rest at night. I am hungry all the time, eat lots of things I could not eat before and never suffer with indigestion afterwards."

Raskob May Join
U. S. Rubber Co.

By United Press.—Wall Street
heard the rumor that John J. Raskob, who resigned from the chairmanship of General Motors company, will join the board of directors of the United States Rubber company.

Raskob, has been closely associ-

was stirring rock candy led her in the dining room of the Juddson Hotel. She ordered a for him and Stephen told the her to bring a regular size. Pa-kella filled it twice for him.

"Nervous?" she smiled at him as he sat at her own particular table had fresh cut flowers on it.
"Bad day," Stephen replied.
Pamela pouted. "You don't look as if you liked being engaged," she said childishly.
The remark irritated Stephen;
he made him impatient.
Pamela stepped out of charge. He preferred her as the little demon he knew she under her exterior of ange-lity. But the beauty made tolerant. And tonight she intended it with all the art that she could command from the beauty specialists.
She had slept until midday and all the early afternoon ther up, and then had come to give herself over to being a fairy princess for the evening.

Suddenly Stephen reached out touched her hand. "If I lose Pam," he said, "I'll never get it."

Pamela looked at him in astonishment. "Are you rattling a skel-et at me?" she asked. "You look suspiciously like a persola past."

Stephen did not smile. "Don't touch me," he said earnestly in a hole."

Pamela shrugged. "Well, what do you return lightly. "Dad get you out."

Stephen groaned. "He'll get you, you should say," he said sably. "You father will never you marry a man with no future."

"What is the trouble?" Pamela exclaimed impatiently. She beginning to feel bored.

Stephen told her all that had happened that day. "Is that what's our evening?" she cried angrily. "I thought it was being serious."

"I will be serious when old M. gives me the gate and where to go," Stephen don't be silly; you'll find an-position."

"That's only half the trouble," she persisted. "Can you, Pam, live on the money I'm able to?"

Pamela looked at him with melting eyes. "Of course, Steve, darling, she whispered tenderly. But was no more sincerity back words than real softness in heart. She hadn't, as a matter of fact, the barest idea of what on a small salary meant. But such matters could be adjusted, she and Stephen were not, she felt.

Stephen believed her; at least he believed that she would try to him halfway. His burden be-lighter, but he'd have sunk to helplessness if he'd known that the man who had furthered his departure from Palo Pinto was at that moment in Pamela's room, on a silent missionary errand.

That Carl Short was more convinced of his guilt had not been able to get in with Lefty Flint, but his did not occasion him any trouble. It only confirmed his believe that Stephen had warned the man was under suspicion.

Short wasn't worried over either. So long as Stephen

NEW YORK, April 26.—After having maintained a fairly steady tone all through the week in the face of favorable weather reports and considerable liquidation in May, the cotton market broke sharply in the latter part of the week on the heaviest liquidation the trade has witnessed in many months.

Selling was general and came principally from southern wire houses, the West and Wall Street. King sentiment was extremely reactionary on the break and there were no developments in either the weather reports or the news to scare the shorts to cover.

Liverpool cables were steady throughout, while Egyptian cables were for the most part lower.

The weekly weather report on Wednesday showing conditions favorable to cotton failed to upset the market and bullish sentiment was aroused by the prospect of unfavorable weather by the week-end. Weather reports thereafter, however, had little influence on values and the break which carried prices to the lowest levels since 1924 found a little support in price fixing May and a little short covering, but prices receded about 40 points from the high and the week.

APPEALS TO SAVE DOOMED ARE STRAIN

Governor Moody Has Had to Go Through Nerve-Wracking Situations Lately Due to Pleas of Relatives of Condemned.

By GORDON K. SHEARER.

AUSTIN, April 26.—The responsibility for an execution should not be put upon one man, says Mrs. Dan Moody.

The wife of the governor has had opportunity to learn just what a strain it is upon her husband.

An execution night is a sleepless night for Governor Moody. It is the hardest part of the governor's work.

Other governors have dreaded it as much as Governor Moody. Some of them have not accepted the responsibility as fully as he. One governor avoiding seeing relatives of men under death sentence.

Another hit upon the expedient of referring applications for commutation to the district judge who tried the case in which a defendant had been given the death penalty. "If the judge recommends a commutation, I will grant it; otherwise not," this governor would say. The result was that the applications were showered upon the judge instead of the governor.

District Judge George Calhoun of Austin cured the practice so far as he was concerned. To supplicants who came to him from that governor, Judge Calhoun announced a willingness to write the governor about the case. What he wrote in substance was: "I tried the case and exercised my responsibility as judge. It's up to you to exercise your responsibility as governor."

Of course the message was couched in more diplomatic terms but that was what it meant.

Heavy appeals to Governor Moody for clemency in the cases of Bob Silver and Robert F. Blake have made the matter a live issue at this time. Friends of the governor frankly advocate abolition of the plan by which final decisions of life or death is left to the governor. The trouble is that no remedy can be found without a constitutional amendment. The pardon power is vested in the governor by the constitution and it cannot be restricted by an act of the legislature.

A pardon board intervenes between the governor and an applicant for clemency but in death cases, relatives or friends of the condemned insist on personal appeal to the governor.

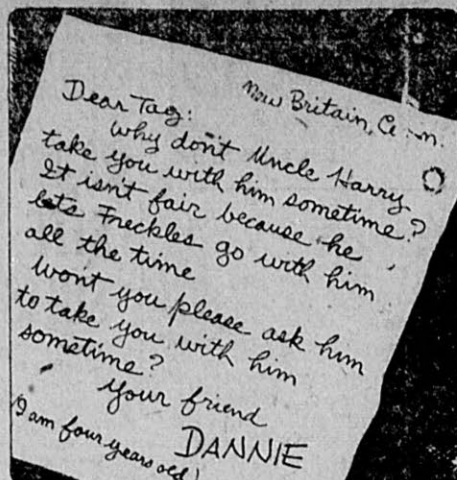

Abolition of capital punishment would be only way to relieve the governor of passing on life and death. It is doubtful if the legislature is ready to go that length.

Although not included in Governor Moody's call of the special session of the legislature, highway affairs promise again to be one of the hard fought issues. It is expected that the governor will specifically submit the topic of highway financing. Even if he should not do so, it could be taken up on his submitting any state revenue measures.

How far this rule stretches was illustrated by the extension of votes to women in Texas. Former Governor Hobby had been impertinent to submit women suffrage when he submitted the election matter. It was held that the whole subject of elections was open, including woman suffrage. So if the governor submits any financing, as he is almost bound to do, the highway problem comes up. It cannot, this time, include a road bond issue, for that can be acted upon only at a regular session.

The highway commission ought to be "sitting pretty" with the legislators. Almost co-incident with the opening of the legislative session they are letting contracts for more than $4,000,000 worth of work scattered well over the state.

Representative Leonard Tillotson has bills drawn calling for financing of highways by a four cent gasoline tax, all registration fees of taxes collected in connection with highway operation. He would give the highway department, also, all passenger car registration fees over $250,000 collected in any county. These funds with local aid and federal aid, he estimates, should provide $40,000,000 for this year and federal aid, he estimates, should provide $40,000,000 for this year and next year. He proposes a 20 per cent reduction in automobile registration fees to start with and larger reduction later.

Ray Holder and a number of others are contending for the 50 per cent reduction in registration fees for which they held out at the regular session.

Among the things being sought by the highway department is a new highway building. It now occupies the basement and one floor of the state office building.

Secretary of State Jane Y. McCallum will ask the governor to submit blue sky legislation. The bill proposed is a virtual duplicate of the Pennsylvania act. It was before the regular session but failed to get to final vote at the time.

RESIDENCE IS GUTTED BY FLAMES

CISCO, Texas, April 25.—Fire of an undetermined origin gutted a 6-room furnished residence owned by Mrs. Frances Williams, of Fort Worth, at 1113 West Seventh street late last night. As the time of the fire the building was not occupied. It had been occupied by H. H. Tompkins.

The alarm was given at 11 o'clock and the fire department succeeded in extinguishing the flames before the roof had been burned from the building and the inside gutted.

The loss was covered by insurance.

Polo Hats for Cyclists

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The heads of state troopers in Rhode Island's motorcycle police squad may soon be protected by helmets similar to those used by polo players. Experiments are now being conducted to determine whether the adoption of this unconventional headgear is feasible. Since the department was organized one trooper has been killed and two others have suffered serious concussions of the head by being hurled from motorcycles to the pavement. Authorities believe the polo helmets would offer needed protection.

AMARILLO GIRL IS ACCLAIMED GREAT ARTIST

AMARILLO, April 25.—Esther Johnson, gifted young pianist, has placed the name of Amarillo on the tablets of alle des concerts du conservatoire at Paris, that famous old hall of music where for the past hundred years musicians have been tested for their genius by the highest critics of the profession to be some lesser light or to be received and crowned with everlasting glory.

A hall where Chopin, Phillippe Grubert, Cesar and a long line of accepted musicians have made their bows before the critics, for only the great and gifted have been allowed to appear on its hallowed stage.

Europe is ringing with the praises of Esther Johnson, who recently made her debut in Paris, according to advices here. She has been studying with the Viennese virtuoso Emil Sauer. In a letter to her from the directors of L'Orchestre de la Societe, he said that "France felt honored that she had chosen Paris in which to make her formal debut."

The conservatory was filled with distinguished audience. Among those present were Count Delma de Heide, who is said to know more musicians in Europe than any other person; Arthur Shattuck the great American pianist and composer, M. Shepherd, famous organist and many others. The boxes were occupied by British, Dutch, Swedish and American embassies with the latter in the box of honor.

Great Applause.

From the first number until the last note was struck, the applause that followed each number was a wonderful demonstration of Miss Johnson's hold on her audience and her reception by the world's highest musical authorities. After the concert she received many letters of congratulations all over Europe. One letter stated "Paris has anointed you a great artist."

No one was more amazed than her own parents when, as a little girl of three, Esther Johnson climbed upon the piano seat and played a melody from an oratorio she had heard at one of the large churches in Chicago where her father was one of the first choral directors. To her father Esther Johnson owes her inherited talent as a musician, and to her stepfather, B. V. Blackwell of Amarillo her chance to climb to the heights accorded her. It was he who, with his money and encouragement, aided her in the attainment of her ideals.

Like many another musical artist who has gained distinction, Miss Johnson spent hours in daily practice to which she attributed her success; and while studying and practicing she cherished the ambition of making her debut in Paris. Finally her dream was realized and the joy of her fulfillment of that dream has come to her while she is still young, so that Europe has given her a crown of glory.

A large number of Americans were present at the concert, among them a group of young girls from Miss Hockaday's school of Dallas, who were on a college tour of Europe and happened to be in Paris at the time of the announcement of the concert. They were: Miss Roberta Miller, Miss Florence Cohen, Miss Martha Moore, Miss Mary Masher, Miss Flora May Wagner, all of Dallas; Miss Virginia Browder of Memphis, Miss Mary Jo Moore of Laredo,

UNABLE TO DO HOUSEWORK

"I was in Bed Nearly All Day Long and Was Getting Weaker. But Since Taking Orgatone I Do All My Housework," Says Abilene Woman.

"I was in bed nearly all day long, and was getting weaker every day, and now I'm able to do my own housework and feel better than I have in years and have taken about three bottles of Orgatone," said Mrs. G. T. Bright, of 126 Vine Street, Abilene, Texas. "For five years," continued Mrs. Bright, "I suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion in the acute form. I had a very weak stomach and everything I ate disagreed with me, and it just seemed to pull me down hill. I was also bothered with gall stones and kidney trouble, and this caused intense, severe pains in my back and sides. I was just in a general run down condition and have been down in health for several years. I got to where I was so weak, and didn't have any vitality or energy, that I wasn't able to do anything, and had to have someone to do my housework for me. I had about five operations but even this didn't do me any good, and I just had to go to bed most every day. I was very nervous and couldn't sleep at night.

"Some of my neighbors, had been taking Orgatone and advised me to try it. They told me it was a very good medicine. I began taking it right away and it has sure proven a good medicine in my case. I feel better than I have in five long years, and am able to do my own housework. Everyday I take Orgatone, I seem to get better and stronger. I have more life and energy than I did and I am glad to tell others about it, as it has come more good for me than any other medicine or treatment. My husband also has been taking it and he says it is a wonderful medicine and will help anyone in need of a good restorative medicine. We are both glad to say a good word for Orgatone."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific life treatment and is sold in Eastland exclusively by Tombs & Richardson Drug Company who are direct laboratory agents.

GOLF GOAT GETTERS
 COPYRIGHT 1929 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

Did you ever look up from a short putt and notice the expression of your partner in a best ball match? Try it some time and you can get a line on the kind of a man you have picked for a playmate.

This week-minded bozo is worried to death—and he shows it. He knows it's one of those two-foot putts for the match, caddy fees and the refreshments. He is scared to death that you'll miss it—but glad you've got to putt it.

Two-man matches provide some of the best golf competition imaginable. They do more to promote better fellowship than any kind of competition. This style of competition puts the proper pressure on your game.

Be sure you are giving your partner the right kind of support; otherwise these two-man matches can be as disagreeable as they are popular if one member of the team gets to throwing clubs.

There is nothing quite as disagreeable as playing with a poor loser. The kind of a fellow who misses a shot and then starts throwing clubs, or the man who, when you miss a short putt or two, gets careless and takes the attitude of "Well, if I've got to do it all alone, what's the use?"

Develop into a popular, reliable partner who doesn't expect his partner to "carry him" and is willing to take the breaks as they come.

WINGO RING, local resident, was married to STRAW, of the C. Tetts, Range.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

Back to the front rank of the lightweights comes the hard-hitting Billy Wallace. His recent victory over Tommy Grogan in Detroit puts him neck and neck with Ray Miller in the chase for a chance to fight the champion, Sammy Mandell.

Over a year ago Billy stood in the same spot he enjoys today, but misfortune, in the shape of ring injuries, forced him down in the standing. The courage and determination Billy displayed in fighting back to his present position have won him as much popularity as has any fighter in the ring today.

Billy first attracted national attention with a knockout over Louis Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion, in the kid's first battle as a lightie. Then came more knockouts and wins over good men and finally the big money of Madison Square Garden.

Whipping Sid Texas, although the decision went against him, added to his fame.

Next a fight with Jimmy McLarin, who at that time was making his bid for the lightweight championship, and Billy started on the downward grade. Against McLarin, Billy broke his right hand and lost the decision.

A long layoff followed and when he returned to the wars, indifferent fights with mediocre opponents caused the word to go around that Wallace was through. But Billy fooled them. Slowly but surely he regained his old form. Knockout over Jackie Pilkington, Joe Medill and Mickey Chapin were steps on the comeback trail.

If the champion defends his title this summer, it's a good bet that Wallace will be in there with him.

HOKY AND SLIDES
 Henry L. Farrell

Pecked the Piano.
 Art Nehf, who is now pitching for the Chicago Cubs, had a father who was a professional organist. His father wanted him to study organ playing, but Art said he wanted to be an engineer. And he compromised by taking piano lessons.

He is, as might be expected, the best piano player in the major leagues. But, perhaps because of the paternal influence toward the more classical tunes, he never went in for jazz music.

And it was his refusal to sit down before the board and knock the edges off the ivory keys that brought upon him the reputation of being a high hat when he was pitching for the Giants.

Who Remembers the Tune?
 There were, at the particular time we are talking about, two less polished pitchers on the Giant ball club—Fred Toney and Phil Douglas, and they didn't waste any motions to let Nehf know that they didn't think so much of him and his elevated ways.

We happened to be in the company of Toney and Douglas one evening when they were saying that Nehf was no ball player and we wanted to know why.

"Why?" Douglas asked back with some attempt at surprise. "I'll tell you why. That guy says he can play the piano and he makes a lot of noise. But he don't know nothing about music. I and Fred asked him the other night to play 'In My Harem' and he said he never heard of it. He don't know nothin' about music when he never heard that piece."

Modest? Aw, Yeh!
 The Yankee ball players tell another story about their "Mouthy" Durocher, who is pleased to be called the freshest rookie in baseball.

When Durocher reported to the Yankee training camp this year he asked Miller Huggins what his job was.

Huggins told him to stick around a while and make himself handy and that he didn't have any job until his boss looked over Larry, the $125,000 boy from the Pacific coast.

"I'll be no water boy on this club," Durocher told the boss and he went out on the third base coaching line and "jockeyed" the life out of young Larry.

Shades of the Great.
 Before the club broke camp, Huggins called Durocher into his room and announced to him very seriously that he was to be the shortstop of the club. And Durocher took the door off the hinges to tell the gang.

"I'm playing shortstop on this ball club," he told all the veterans and the younger fellows. "And I'm going to show this league greater shortstopping than the damn league ever has seen. Let's go! Some pepper, you guys!"

Did You Know That—
 The special auditors of the baseball commissioner's office are investigating the books of the St. Louis Cardinals. And their chain store system may see a big snack soon—Sir Barton was the only horse that ever won the Preakness, the Kentucky derby and the Belmont stakes in a row. And he is now eating grass in the stud at the Audley farms in Virginia.

Fred Leach, the Giant outfielder, is super-sensitive. And some of the older ball players are wondering what he will do when McGraw gives him a ride.

Bill Wrigley says that he has spent two million dollars trying to get the pennant that his Cubs are going to win this year—Helen Wills, sailing for Europe, said she would rather be an artist—Good enough to draw a magazine cover when she was going to marry Mr. Moody—And Al Schacht said that Mr. Moody was going to change his name—And that he would be Mr. Wills for the rest of his days.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLUB HAS INTERESTING PROGRAM

The Thursday Afternoon club engaged in a busy session of hearing communications from district officers of T. F. W. C. and other officers of the club, and presided over by the president, Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins. The club voted an appreciation of Earl Gough of John Tarleton college and the local artists who assisted the recent club program with the club's communication to be sent Mr. Gough, to that effect. Formal thanks were voted Mrs. H. P. Brelsford Jr., for her handsome gift to Club House of two large stone urns and their arbor vitae trees, which have been placed at entrance to club house.

Mrs. Perkins announced Better Homes Week and that a Thursday club committee had cooperated by their work recently accomplished for library under chairmanship of Mrs. W. F. Staller, a member also, of Better Homes committee for Eastland. The annual observance of Music Week, May 5 to 11, was announced and an invitation extended on behalf of the Music Week committee, Mrs. W. K. Jackson, general chairman, Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, assistant chairman, that will be afforded through that week, of which "Original Entertainment" on Saturday night, May 11, in Community Club House an open event, will be the final feature.

The chair appointed a committee to place the dishes, formerly supplied the Country Club, in the Community Club House. These dishes have been loaned the Club House by those organizations that provided them for country Club.

The club voted to increase their former cash contribution to Club House repairs to $62.50, the amount the Club House Federation is paying per club.

The very delightful program, "Influence of the Dance on Music, Art, and Drama," was presented in an able paper concerning "Primitive and Ancient Dances," written and read by Mrs. John W. Turner, and an extensive story of the "Development of the Ballet and Pantomime," the interesting work of Mrs. L. V. Witcher. The latter subject was illustrated by a group of Mrs. W. L. Spencer's kindergarten children, who were dressed in frilly green paper costumes to represent leaves on trees, who presented a most delightful pantomime, "Dance of the Leaves," and encore, "Bo-Peep and Her Sheep," with piano accompaniment by Miss Melba Maxson. Personnel of group: Mary Jane Harrell, Lucy Beall Smith, Lorraine Wheeler, Melba Ruth Woods, Patsy Wiegand, Elizabeth Anne Sikes, Julia Parker, Virginia Nell Garrett, Geraldine Russell and Alma Williamson. The mothers of the children were special club guests.

The club meeting was a delightful one. The president's table was graced with a handsome bouquet of roses, in her honor.

Club members attending included: Mmes. Steele Johnston, Mullings, W. L. Spencer, Grady Phipkin, H. O. Tutum, Lavinia Witcher, Earle Johnson, James Horton, A. H. Johnson, John W. Turner, Carl Springer, C. G. Norton, Earle Connor, C. U. Connelley, Joseph M. Perkins.

EASTLAND COUNTY REST ROOM FORMALLY ACCEPTED BY COMMISSIONERS

Thursday morning the Rest Room for Eastland county was formally turned over by the committee representing the Eastland County Federation of Women's Clubs and the local Civic League committee who accepted and endorsed the work of the committees in selecting the furnishings of the Rest Room and careful and competent manner in which the county funds of $300 had been expended in equipment. The substantial outfitting include a handsome rug, a day bed and furnishings, overstuffed chairs, wrought iron benches with cushioned seats, oak settee, vanity, book cases, stands, a creche for infants and many thoughtful room furnishings, including window sash curtains, which Miss Ramey's class of Eastland county rural girls of last year, had made and presented in seeking the best investments for the Rest Room and the result is highly satisfactory.

Some years ago, the Civic League organized a Rest Room committee of which Mrs. G. W. Dakan was chairman for many terms; in fact, to within recent times. The Rest Room of six years ago was finally moved from the basement of the Texas State bank to the little brick office building vacated for Rest Room use, and the justice of the Civic League plan, that a place should be found where women and babies could retire when the mothers were summoned to court or came to town on buying trips. The usefulness of the room grew with the years. Though the furnishings were then meager, the room was kept clean and orderly by the Civic League committee in charge.

Then the new court house was built and an Eastland County Rest Room was pledged the Eastland County Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and the Civic League committee, which represented the local hospitality.

And so the Rest Room stands; open, fair and inviting. The result of years of patient work of altruistic plans, and often of personal gifts made at the expense of the private purse of Civic League bygone officers.

The committees who were at work Thursday morning, furnishing the last details of furnishing prior to formally presenting the completed Rest Room to the commissioners court, included Mrs. Philip Pettit of Cisco, county co-operation Eastland county T. F. W. C. and Mrs. W. E. Staller, Mrs. W. H. Davis of Desdemona, President Eastland county Texas Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. C. U. Connelley and Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, Eastland county committee; and Mrs. T. L. Fagg, Mrs. G. W. Dakan, Mrs. L. D. Hillyer and Mrs. Earle Johnson of Civic League; Mrs. Tom Harrell of Better Babies Bureau; and Miss Ruth Ramey, Eastland county Home Demonstration agent.

TWO OUTLETS TO MEXICO IN PROSPECT

BROWNWOOD, April 23.—Dallas and Fort Worth may have two outlets to Mexico if plans under way along state highway No. 10 and federal highway No. 67 are completed.

The state highway is a route from Denton to Fort Worth to Brownwood to Del Rio with all the north part paved and strips from Fort Worth to Brownwood in good condition.

The federal highway is one of the important southwestern traffic lines, coming down from Arkansas into Dallas with Dallas and Brownwood Chambers of commerce anxious that it be extended to Brownwood thence to Presidio. This proposed route would be the same as the state highway from a point near Fort Worth to this city.

All the territory between Brownwood and Fort Worth-Dallas would then have two outlets to the Mexican republic. That the plans will be carried out is seen in the action of three West Texas counties.

Churches

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH

April 28. Mass will be at 10 a. m., by Rev. P. Ruano. This is the fourth Sunday after Easter. The Gospel read in the mass today is taken from the Gospel of St. John, XVI 5-14. Christ said to His disciples: I go to him that sent me, and none of you asketh me. Whither goest thou? Christ does not find fault with His apostles for not asking Him. Whither goest thou but for becoming sorrowful as often as He spoke of His departure. Many Christians who in calamities and tribulations become sad and dejected deserve the same rebuke, whereas their faith tells them, "that to them that love God, all things work together unto good" (Romans VIII 28), and that sufferings and tribulations are very profitable to us by detaching our hearts from earthly things, by infusing into our souls a desire for the eternal goods, and by affording us an opportunity for the practice of various virtues and the increase of our merits for heaven. Being wanderers upon earth and not having a lasting city here, it is natural for us to ask ourselves the question: Whither goest thou? Whither do you go with the body? Into what grave into which neither money nor lands, neither honor nor reputation, neither joy nor pleasure will follow you, in which your body will fall into dust, hereafter rising again, either for eternal joy or eternal torments. Reflect seriously on this: Whither goest thou with thy soul? To judgment and thence either to heaven or hell. Both will last forever.

Rev. M. Collins.
