FD Asks Power To Seize Ships

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for broad statutory authority to take over any "foreign-owned vessels lying idle in our ports."

This authority, he said in a message to the legislators, should be subject to the payment of just compensation.

Although the chief executive had asserted Tuesday that he would recommend legislation to permit the purchase or charter of 39 Danish vessels which have been taken into "protective custody" by the coast guard, the language of his message today was not limited to the Danish ships.

House Boosts O'Daniel For Senate Place

AUSTIN, April 10 (AP)—The Texas house of representatives today adopted a resolution requesting Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to resign and accept appointment as United States senator in succession to Morris Sheppard, who died yesterday.

The resolution, which declared the governor should make his services available to Texas and America in a national capacity "in this hour of national peril," also requested him to announce as a candidate for the senatorial election term ending in January, 1943.

It was adopted by a rising vote, which Rep. Dallas Blankenship of Dallas, who was presiding, first announced as "unanimous." On an objection, Blankenship ordered that the journal show merely "adoption."

Smitham Takes Dallas City Job

V. R. Smitham, 48, former Big Spring city manager, was selected Tuesday by the Dallas city council to serve as chief administrative officer for that city during the year City Manager James W. Aston will be on active military service.

He will give up his post as state director for the Farm Security Administration. Salary was set at $7,000 a year.

Smitham was the second city manager to serve in Big Spring under the form of government adopted here in 1926. He was succeeded in 1931 by E. V. Spence when he (Smitham) became city manager at Wichita Falls.

A graduate of Texas A.M. college, Smitham became a division engineer for the MK&T railroad and later went back for his masters degree before becoming Lufkin city manager. For the last five and a half years he has been state director for FSA.

He was named by the Dallas council upon recommendation of Aston, who had been seeking to interest Smitham in returning to the field of municipal affairs. Smitham will be acting city manager while Aston is in the army. He takes office May 1.

Shirley Robbins New Kiwanis President

Officially named today to fill out the year as president of Big Spring Kiwanis club was Shirley Robbins, vice president under Dr. Frank Boyle, who was recently called to army service. Rupert Phillips was elected to serve with Robbins as vice president.

Otto Peters, Cosden Petroleum Corp., was principal speaker, his subject being "Safety and First Aid."

Rupert Phillips announced that the club's Knit Hole Gang would function again this year. Membership in this group entitles the member to admission to all home baseball games.

Photographer Shows Stuff As Twins Appear In Baby Event

Double exposure flitters showed the photographer as twins appeared Thursday for the Personality Child contest being sponsored by the Herald and Kelsey Studio.

Identical twins, June Lorraine Lamar and Jane Angeline Lamar, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lamar, Jr., came all the way from Goldsmith for sittings. The niece of Lorraine Lamar, Big Spring teacher, presented, to put it mildly, a confusing situation but in the end identification was established—or was it?

Rehearsal for a week on what he was going to say to the photographer, Donald Gene Anderson, year and a half old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson, sprung it dramatically. In three words, it was—"Ha! Ha! Ha!"

Compromise In Ford-CIO Strike Made

DETROIT, April 10 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers (UAW) accepted today a three-point proposal for settlement of the Ford Motor company strike, which Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner laid before both sides in the controversy.

The president cited a provision of the merchant marine act of 1936 which authorizes him to requisition or purchase any American-owned vessels in time of national emergency or when the national defense makes it advisable. The section provides for a method of compensation.

"There does not appear," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "to be any comparable provision with respect to foreign-owned vessels lying idle in our ports."

"In view of the growing shortage of available tonnage suited to our national needs, I am satisfied, after consultation with the heads of the interested departments and agencies of the government, that we should have statutory authority to take over any such vessels as our needs may require, subject, of course, to the payment of just compensation."

"It is obvious that our ultimate defense will be rendered futile if the growing shortage of shipping facilities is not arrested."

Ships in American ports include two German and 28 Italian vessels which have been taken into custody on grounds of sabotage or attempted sabotage. Berlin and Rome have protested the seizures.

Informed persons predicted congress would grant the requested authority and that soon thereafter the president would use the acquired ships in some form helpful to the British.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference Tuesday this government had the right to declare the 30 axis ships forfeited to the United States but could not turn them over to the British under such a procedure. However, their addition to the United States merchant marine might permit the release of some American vessels.

Whether any steps were planned which might result in the purchase of the axis vessels, the message did not hint. But nowhere in it was there a reference to Denmark alone or to any specific country or its ships.

Yates Funeral Slated Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Yates, 71, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the Eberley chapel and burial will be in the Midland cemetery.

Mrs. Yates succumbed at 10:30 a. m. in a local hospital following a lengthy illness. Born in Dallas county on Feb. 8, 1870, she had been making her home with her sister, Mrs. Emma Davis at 2106 Main street for the past nine years.

She leaves one son, W. H. Yates, Big Spring; one daughter, Mrs. Leroy Manuel, Santa Fe, N. M.; two brothers, Henry Record, Monument, N. M., and Willie Felton, Coahoma; and two sisters, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Julia Stuart, Strawn.

Christian Science rites will be observed here before the body is taken to Midland. Pallbearers will be J. R. Phillips, J. L. Billings, Fred D. Barton, Brittle Cox and Ira McQuerry of Big Spring and Dr. Penberton of Midland.

Rev. Bowden pictured the darkness on earth during these hours of Christ's crucifixion as the darkness of despair, and pointed out that the light came again to the world as Jesus' death made possible the salvation of all souls.

The minister also portrayed Christ's suffering as real—his physical and mental anguish was on a human basis. Thus, Christ has the common touch, and is able to understand and sympathize with the frailties and weaknesses of mankind.

"His victory over this despair gives hope to those who have lost all hope," said Rev. Bowden. "His suffering constitutes the basis for hope. We are convinced by this scene on Calvary that Christ was real. He is real today, and His life is real. Our challenge is to rise in the name of Christ and to stand for those things for which He died. The world can conquer only by following Christ."

Michigan Governor Calls For Plan Of Settlement

DETROIT, April 10 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers (UAW) accepted today a three-point proposal for settlement of the Ford Motor company strike, which Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner laid before both sides in the controversy.

Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner of Michigan demanded today that the Ford Motor company and the CIO agree at once to a compromise plan for settling the strike at Ford's vast River Rouge plant.

Van Wagoner said he realized the proposal he was submitting as "practical and fair" did not satisfy either side but said it would serve interests of national defense, law and order. A primary point was the holding of an early election on collective bargaining.

At Washington, President Roosevelt acted to avert damaging restriction of steel production by calling in head of the United States Steel Corporation to discuss their differences with the CIO.

Governor Van Wagoner earlier today reported having a "fine talk" with Henry Ford and said he felt there was reason to believe the 8-day Rouge strike was near an end.

"All parties are aiming for a quick settlement of the strike with a singleness of purpose," the governor declared.

Federal Mediator James F. Dewey announced, meanwhile, that direct conferences between company and union representatives have been discontinued for the present. The CIO United Automobile Workers Union demands a contract, wage increases for hourly workers, and substitution of uniformed press and strapping, ruddy-faced Robert Rice Reynolds, North Carolina democrat often at odds with President Roosevelt's foreign policies.

The death yesterday of veteran Senator Morris Sheppard, Texas democrat who had headed the committee for several years, left Reynolds as the ranking majority member with apparently undisputed claim to the chairmanship.

Reynolds, first elected to the senate in 1932, has opposed the administration on various foreign policy issues, but usually has gone along on domestic legislation. He voted against repeal of the arms embargo in 1939 and more recently opposed enactment of the British aid law.

On the other hand, he voted with the administration for enactment of the selective service law last fall and followed his opposition to the British aid bill by voting for the $7,000,000 appropriation sought by the president to implement the terms of that measure.

In a gesture of respect and tribute, the senate arranged to adjourn today immediately after meeting at noon. The Texas senator's body then was to lie in state in the senate chamber, with a military guard of honor, from 2 until 4 p. m.

Vice President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn planned to appoint 21 senators and 21 house members to accompany the body to Texas, leaving at 8:30 p. m. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon in Texarkana, Sheppard's home for 40 years.

AUSTIN, April 10 (AP)—The death of U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, dean of the national congress, cast a shadow over the Texas capital and the legislature today.

Within 10 days the governor, under the law, must call a special election to choose a successor who will serve until the expiration of the term next year, the election to be held within 60 to 90 days. O'Daniel also must name someone to serve in the interim.

Names most frequently heard in talk regarding Senator Sheppard's post were: O'Daniel himself, Attorney General Gerald C. Mann, Lieutenant Governor Coke Stevenson, Carr P. Collins of Dallas, Congressman Martin Dies of Orange, Mrs. Sheppard, J. M. West of Houston, E. B. Germany of Dallas, State Senator Jesse Martin of Fort Worth, former Governor Pat M. Neff, W. P. Hobby and Ross Sterling and various members of congress.

The governor has shed no light on his position.

Registration For Defense Work To Benefit Laborer

Those persons qualified to work in defense industries will be benefiting themselves if they register with the Texas State Employment Service, O. R. Rodden, Big Spring manager, said today.

"We are urging all persons qualified for various defense industries to register in order to help out Uncle Sam," said Rodden. "But at the same time these persons will be helping themselves, for there will be considerable need for many types of workers. Registering with TSES will mean a better job and more pay for many laborers."

In case there are any shipfitters in this area, they will find jobs waiting at the TSES office. Rodden this morning announced a call for men skilled in this craft. They would be assigned to work at Orange.

Also urged to register are machinists and mechanics. Local demand for stenographers and for cafe workers—both cooks and waiters—is continuing strong, Rodden said.

Reynolds Due For Sheppard's Place On Military Body

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—Chairmanship of the senate military committee, which plays an influential role in shaping national defense legislation, appeared likely today to pass into the hands of strapping, ruddy-faced Robert Rice Reynolds, North Carolina democrat often at odds with President Roosevelt's foreign policies.

Bowden Gives Easter Talk

Jesus exists in the human realm, and has everything in common with his people, said Rev. Robt. E. Bowden Thursday noon, as he delivered the invitation of a series of Easter sermons being conducted this week for all the city by local pastors. Rev. Bowden spoke another of Christ's utterances on the cross: "My God, My God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

Istanbul People Move To Safety

Fears of an imminent German attack on Turkey, neutral ally of Great Britain, were seen today in a Turkish government announcement that it had been "found advisable" to remove a considerable part of the population of Istanbul.

The announcement followed only a few hours after the Rome radio broadcast a report that Germany's ace diplomat, Franz von Papen, ambassador to Turkey, had reiterated "the assurance that Germany has no intention of attacking Turkey."

Istanbul lies on the European side of the strategic Bosphorus, link between the Dardanelles and the Black sea. It is less than 100 miles from German-occupied Bulgaria.

Nazi blitzkrieg forces have already slashed down through Thracian Greece alongside the Turkish frontier.

Greece's own struggle against the Germans took on a slightly brighter aspect as military quarters in Athens declared that her army remained intact "to deal a decisive blow at the German invader with allied support."

A German military spokesman in Berlin asserted that more than 80,000 Greeks had been captured in the sweep through Thrace and that the final number will be much greater.

The British radio said Balkan war news was reaching London in little more than a trickle, but that it seemed clear the Germans were still making headway.

Battalions of British flame-throwers, tanks and armored cars newly arrived from Africa were reported rushing north today from Piraeus, the port of Athens, for a decisive battle with Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg legions.

As the 6-day-old battle of the Balkans neared a showdown, unconfirmed rumors circulated in Budapest that Belgrade, the bomb-scarred capital of Yugoslavia, had been entered by Nazi troops.

Advices reaching Bern, Switzerland, one of the few remaining outlets of uncensored news in war-ridden Europe, said British transports and supply ships were bringing fresh reinforcements into southern Greece ports.

German press dispatches indicated the British expeditionary force—estimated at 300,000 men—was massed in the vicinity of Mount Olympus, 60 miles southwest of Salonika, near the Aegean sea coast.

Other reports said the British were completing a new defense line stretching across the Greek peninsula from a point south of Salonika to the Albanian port of himara, on the Adriatic sea.

The Budapest newspaper 5 Oral Ujsag (literally "5 o'clock News") said Nazi troops racing across Yugoslavia had established contact with Italian forces in Albania.

Countering an official Greek denial, Hitler's high command still insisted that Greece's "lost army" of the east—trapped by the Germans' lightning thrust down the Vardar river valley to Salonika—was capitulating.

Earlier in the day, committee members will confer with Blankenship, King Sides and Johnny Coffey on plans to enlist the power of all school children in the Clean Up, Fix Up campaign. US Assumes Protection Of Greenland

WASHINGTON, April 10 (AP)—The United States embraced Greenland within its hemisphere defense system today under an agreement permitting establishment of air bases and President Roosevelt said it was proposed to make sure the big island would remain a Danish colony.

The chief executive said in a formal statement that the present setup, which in effect brings Greenland under the protection of this government, "is a new proof of our continuing friendliness to Denmark."

An agreement to place the island within America's plans for cooperative defense of the western hemisphere was signed yesterday by the president and by the Danish minister, Hendrik De Kauffman, who, Mr. Roosevelt said, acted on behalf of the Danish king.

In handing the president's statement to reporters, presidential secretary Stephen Early said the agreement had been consummated and with a declaration signed by the 21 American republics at Havana.

Greenland, he said, has been placed in exactly the same category as any other Atlantic islands owned by non-American powers. The agreement, the secretary asserted, is in complete accordance with terms of the Monroe doctrine and with a declaration signed by the 21 American republics at Havana.

The commissioning ceremonies on the quarter-deck, attended by 1,500 specially-invited guests headed by Secretary of the Navy Knox, were held under war-time restrictions with special police, marines and sailors on guard.

A Special Ham For Easter

Ham as America wants it is a special kind of ham such as you can't get in most other countries, no matter how heavy your purse. But it costs no more than ordinary ham. This ham has all the rich smoky flavor which ham lovers demand, plus all the modern new mildness and tenderness. It has a name as long as your arm, but every word of it means a definite advantage to "she who cooks and he who eats." It is called "Wilson's Certified Tender Extra Mild Smoked Ham." The "tender" means no parboiling and quicker cooking. The "extra mild" means none of that over-salty taste. The "smoked" means a wonderfully rich flavor. And the "Wilson's Certified" signifies the special Secret Process that does it all.

Remember, all you have to do with this ham is to allow it to come to room temperature (69 degrees to 70 degrees F.). Then place it in an open pan or uncovered roaster in a moderate oven (325 degrees to 350 degrees F.) and roast 16 minutes to the pound. Remove ham from oven. Carefully remove the fat. With a sharp knife score the fat into diamonds. Pour over the ham your favorite "glaze." Some prefer a mixture of brown sugar, butter and bread crumbs. Others use syrup or honey. Still others use melted jellies or sweetened fruit juices. Whatever you use, turn the oven up to 400 degrees F. and return the ham to it for 20 minutes to get a lovely rich glaze. And here's how the easy-to-bake ham fits into your Easter menu:

EASTER DINNER
Fruit Cocktail
Cream of Mushroom Soup
Baked Ham glazed with pineapple juice and decorated with pineapple slices
Eggs (cut with vegetable cutter from carrots and potatoes) served in string bean nests
Spring vegetable salad
Raspberry Ice "Lamb" Cake Beverage

The first two courses of this dinner can be achieved with a can opener. The "Lamb" cake is not so difficult as it sounds. It does not even require a Lamb cake mold. Some one in your family will draw a kneeling lamb for you. Cut this out. Make two sheets of layer cake. Use the "lamb" as a pattern and cut out a lamb shape from each sheet of layer cake, exactly as you would cut out material with a paper pattern. Use your favorite boiled icing. After you have set the two layers of the cake together with icing and feed the cake on the outside, cover it thickly with grated coconut. The result is a frisky white woolly lamb cake that even the grown-ups will enjoy.

DR. F. W. HAMMER
states: "I had a terrible case of indigestion. After each meal I had a sour taste in my mouth, pains in my shoulder, gas pressure around my heart. It felt as though there was a big, solid lump in my stomach. My breath was bad. I was constipated, and because of kidney distress, my sleep was broken each night. I had spent large sums for relief, had bought almost every kind of medicine.
"Hoyt's Compound made me feel like a new man. There's no more indigestion, sour taste, bad breath, or constipation. The pains in my shoulder and around my heart are gone. Hoyt's has also relieved Mrs. Hammer of sour stomach. You can be safe in giving it a trial. It is honest medicine!"

HEART'S HAVE

Chapter One
"Two hearts!"

Julie Holt Emerson glanced down at her cards and sighed impatiently. In the last hour of bridge she had already learned that her partner, Mrs. Selby-Williams, would bid just for the fun of it—and yet she had to support her.

She regarded Mrs. Selby-Williams across the table, still sorting the cards, and sighed again with distaste. Why did diamonds always look vulgar on pudgy hands? She was glad her own hands—once called "the most expressive on the American stage"—had retained their slenderness.

She glanced toward Mrs. Marbury on her right. Mrs. Marbury, too, was plump, but her softness was the appealing kind, Julie thought. Even though it was an effort to smile when Mrs. Marbury said again, as usual:

"I think hearts is such a nice suit—sort of romantic. I just won't bid spades, although I probably could. But they're such ugly things..."

"Talking across the table!" The woman at Julie's left, thin and mousey-looking—"unimportant," Julie had immediately labeled her—was plainly irritated by this type of bridge. But she had arrived only that afternoon at the Ocean Park Hotel and would, Julie thought, leave the next day. She had already complained bitterly of the "cobble-stone beach," the impossible food and terrible service. By morning she would have enough complaints to justify breaking her reservation.

Privately, Julie Emerson agreed with everything she said. But she had chosen this hotel for the intangible benefits it could bring to herself and her protégé, Evangeline Prentice.

What did poor service matter, if you were served in the same room as Mrs. Theodore Marbury and her niece? Who cared about the beach, if on the bridge path, Eve might bump into an eligible young man? She had been in far more uncomfortable hotels, Julie thought sturdily, although not, she remembered with a shudder, at thirty dollars a night.

"Oh, Mrs. Marbury—did you see that little gold heart Eve has on her charm bracelet?" Julie felt the thin woman at her left squint impatiently and permitted her glance to rest on her just a moment. The woman smiled, and Julie went on, blushing rather broadly that the golden heart was the gift of a rejected suitor. She could do this thing to perfection, Julie was saying to herself with inward satisfaction. Not for nothing had she played dowagers on every stage in America.

But she knew when to call a halt and give the game a chance. With infinite tact, she led her partner away from hearts and into diamonds. Her bid gave the four women a chance to set her five hundred points and Julie told Mrs. Selby-Williams' heavy sarcasm with a good grace.

During the next hand, however, she managed to lead Mrs. Marbury on to talking about her niece. As she had hoped, the thin woman got up suddenly, and with a hastily murmured excuse, fled from the room. Julie laid down her cards with pleasure.

"I know you dislike three-handed bridge, and there doesn't seem to be anyone who isn't already playing," she said with satisfaction, as she glanced around the room. More bridge did not suit her purpose at the moment; she wanted to talk with Mrs. Marbury. "I believe you told us you wanted to get back to your room early," Julie added to Mrs. Selby-Williams.

That lady looked at her diamond-studded wrist watch with an exclamation of surprise.

"Why, it's much later than I thought. My husband said he wanted to have dinner early tonight, and perhaps I have time for just a short nap—" Her voice trailed away as she hoisted her plump body from the low bridge chair and ambled slowly out of the room.

First Success
Julie regarded her going with scornful eyes. Her own stage training had had its difficult moments, but at least she thought with sudden gratitude, she would learn how to enter and leave a room without waddling.

"We haven't seen much of your Eve," Mrs. Marbury looked at Julie with an expression that was suddenly shrewd.

timely lost her first feeling of strangeness. No one seemed to object to the little scene. The girls told her carelessly "not to mind Nell" and the men crowded up for their introductions until Nell was pushed into the background.

One slight earnest-looking young man whose hair was perpetually in his eyes, came up just as Eve began to look for Julie.

"I'm Hamilton Millard," he said casually. "My friends call me Ham. I hope you don't think we're just a bunch of roughnecks."

"Not at all," Eve managed, although her heart was thumping heavily. "Usually introductions are so dull, how do you think?"

"Good girl!" Ham caught Gina's hand as she walked by and said in a stage whisper: "If I don't propose some night—this is the reason why." He pointed a finger at Eve.

Gina's small face was unexpectedly serious. "I don't believe I'd mind," she said slowly. "I'm afraid I'm going to like her, Ham."

"Fun At Last
The rest of them evidently accepted Gina's pronouncement, and Eve found herself the center of a laughing group that dissolved and came together again with apparent lack of design. Yet she knew, even without glancing over her shoulder, that Nell Bowron was always near at hand. For the first time since she had come to the hotel—indeed, for the first time in many months—Eve began to enjoy herself.

"She forgot that she did not belong, that most of these young people—even Nell—were accepting her on face value. She entered into their running comment on the hotel and its lack of excitement, until a question from one of the girls brought her up short.

"Are you coming down to Spring Lake next month?" she inquired. "Don't stay at the hotel—we can put you up."

Eve caught her breath and hoped she did not look as startled as she felt.

"My aunt must return to New York," she said fumblingly. "We— we haven't made any plans beyond that."

Again Eve looked desperately for Julie, but she and Mrs. Marbury were sitting at ease in a corner, talking briskly and paying no attention to the others. Eve was hoping for escape when she felt Nell's hand on her arm. She glanced up gratefully.

"The moonlight's turned off—but there's a nice sunset out on the terrace," he said in a low tone. "Maybe we could make it do. What do you think?"

Eve nodded, and together they strolled to the long, open windows. Julie, happening to see them go, interrupted her hostess' often-repeated complaint about Mr. Rodman's lateness.

"Who is that with Eve?" she asked with a shade of concern. The man was too handsome to be true, she told herself.

"Mr. Marbury looked around, and looking them just as they stepped outside, said placidly: "Oh, that's Nell. Nell Bowron, you know. Nice boy. I knew his mother quite well on one time, but she's lived abroad now for the last five years. She married a count, I believe. Well—at last!"

that the taciturn boatman was all but forgotten. Brett could see two chimneys and part of a roof emerging from a line of dark trees—pines, he guessed. So fascinated was he by the rapidly unfolding panorama that he scarcely noticed when the chugging of the motor ceased.

"Well, you can get out here, I reckon," drawled the boatman, and Brett saw that they were near a sandy beach.

"I rather thought there would be a landing of some sort—a pier, you know..." Brett began.

"The boatman threw a rope over what struck Brett as a particularly handy spar protruding from the sand, and settled back on the seat. There seemed no choice, so Brett leaped ashore.

"Don't you want to run up to the house with me?" The man in the boat shook his head. Brett waited for some comment. When none was forthcoming, he started rather gingerly to cut across the woodland.

"You'd make better time along the shore," the boatman descended to grumble at him. "Keep a-goin' till you ketch sight of the house. That's a path."

Brett's search was more successful than sand. Brett found and it was not particularly easy walking. But there really was no hurry. He had hired the motor boat by the hour, and making the old racial wait seemed a nice thought just then.

He pushed on painstakingly until a curve in the shore line brought the house into view. Instantly Brett's professional impulses got the better of him. He stood still for a full minute, staring.

The house he saw was oddly arresting; it had the piquant quality of some faces, in which the features are not quite harmonious, but the general effect is striking.

He walked hurriedly on, and he faced the front entrance. The porch was a simple affair, with a low wall of brick, and roof, and the two wings which flanked the central building. He noticed, but gave only a passing thought to it, that just beyond this spot was a pier which the boatman could very well have used.

"It took money, and plenty of it, to build this shore way back in those days," he said aloud. "And the architect must have been insane!"

The main building was two, and a half stories high, and the wings on either side balanced each other, except for the two roofs. These were both steep, but otherwise had little in common. Each was a kind of half wall, the jutted out in front of it, from what was able to see of the land beyond, there were scarcely any trees at all.

Curious Reception
A complete silence hung over the scene—almost as tangible as the morning mist which still clung to the lowlands, but which Brett was behind. Then he realized for the first time that he was climbing upward quite a bit, and that the house stood at the crest of what had been originally a whole flight of terraces, almost like a flight of broad grassy steps.

But rains had washed them down and time itself had almost smoothed them flat into the hillside.

The front of the house was rounded outward in semi-circular effect, and there was an upper and a lower porch. Perfectly proportioned Corinthian pillars upheld the roof. The central building was crowned by a dome, which, Brett observed with some surprise, seemed entirely in keeping with the rest of the architecture.

"By the time he had reached the bottom of the highest terrace Brett had come to two decisions about the house: Mrs. Marbury would go into hysterics of delight at her first sight of it. That was decision number one. The second decision was: this was no place for a house-party. It was a state of disrepair. He must take a hasty look around and then hurry back to the village to head off Mrs. Marbury and the crowd before they got started.

"You don't have to get sore. I told you in a nice way, this is private property."

"That was your idea of a nice way, was it? Now suppose you tell me something else. A Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are supposed to be caretakers here. What are you doing on the premises?"

As he spoke, he took out of his pocket the letter of introduction which Mrs. Marbury had given him. The youth's shifty gaze caught the heavily engraved estate name in the corner. His manner became even more conciliatory.

"Gee, I thought you was just scooping around," he cried. "Come on in. The Jacksons are here all right. I just been visiting here. I'm their nephew, Ed Boyd's the name..."

Unwelcome
Brett followed him into a large hall, semi-circular in shape, like the great porch they had just left. It was, in fact, the other half of the circle, of which the porch comprised the first half. Brett observed Ed Boyd went in search of the caretakers.

Across the center of the bare floor, which had evidently not been swept—much less polished—for years, colored light fell in a geometrical pattern. Brett looked up to discover that it came from the dome and was caused by the sun shining through vari-colored panes of glass.

The second floor hallway, like the one in which he stood, was semi-circular too, obviously completing the half circle of the upper front porch. But this second story hall was cut away, so that only a narrow gallery, protected by a carved railing, led to the dome rose a story and a half above the second floor, giving an effect of vaulted height that was impressive.

"You wanted to see me?" A plump, pleasant-looking woman was coming heavily across the floor as she spoke.

"Mrs. Jackson," Brett waited for her nod. Then "I'm Brett Rodman. I have a letter here from the estate in charge of this house. It explains that I've come here in the interests of a client, who wants to buy a house—possibly this one."

He held out the letter. Mrs. Jackson put out her hand slowly, as if reluctant to take it. She drew the letter and the envelope and stared at it helplessly. "I'll have to get my glasses."

"It's just a short note. I'll read it to you if you like," he offered.

"Well—Mrs. Jackson gave it back to him, still with that perceptible slowness, like someone in a dream.

"Max," you'd best come in here, she added, and turned aside to a door whose dusty pediment Brett noted with satisfaction.

The next minute Brett stood in an enormous room, forgetful of the letter in his hand. The ceiling was lofty, the furniture was good though filthy, and a unique fireplace was set, oddly enough, in a kind of half wall, the jutted out into the room. He was so fascinated he forgot Mrs. Jackson, and when finally he turned to her he surprised a look of the utmost contempt and malevolence on her face. It unnerved him for the moment.

Chapter Five
DARK HINTS
Brett was sure Mrs. Jackson had been glaring viciously at him, her broad, wrinkled face set in an almost snakelike expression. Yet now she stood quietly, her hands folded over a blueingham work apron, her black dress and spotted collar and cuffs the perfect example of what a good housekeeper should wear.

Brett read her the short note and she listened without comment. He had an odd sense of embarrassment as he finished, as if he were ordering the woman out of her own house.

thing of a flourish. Ed Boyd was there, sullenly peeling potatoes. Nearby, apparently unoccupied, was a tall man so thin he was almost a skeleton. His prominent watery blue eyes seemed to bulge with astonishment as he turned them on his wife and Brett.

"My husband," Mrs. Jackson said shortly. "This man here—she jerked her head toward Brett—"has a letter from the estate; they're thinking to sell the house."

Mr. Jackson shook his head dolefully. "Won't nobody buy this house."

"Why not?" "Cause it's got a bad reputation, that's why," Jackson mouthed the words as though he enjoyed saying them. "Wouldn't nobody buy us ever stay here. No, alee—they won't buy this."

More Of Nell
During the days that followed Mrs. Marbury's tea, Eve quite forgot that she had ever hesitated about meeting Gina Goodell. Gina's undisguised admiration had won her over completely.

Secretly, Eve admitted to herself that she had been wrong. There was something to do with her change of heart. The morning after the tea, he had called and suggested a game of tennis. That afternoon, he had insisted that she and Julie drive over to a neighboring town for the local auction. It had seemed natural enough to have dinner with him that night and go dancing. After that, Eve had tried to call a halt. But she was never riding. Nell was on the bridge path; when she slipped out for a swim, Nell waved to her from the float.

"Are you dogging my footsteps?" she demanded one time as she swam out and joined him. The sun was warm and friendly, and she hoisted her head upon the smooth boards and stretched out. There were few others in the water at this time of the afternoon—which was the reason Eve had chosen to swim at the moment.

"We haven't had our moonlight yet," Nell reminded her. "I'm only hanging around until I see how you look under a full moon."

"And then?" "And then—Nell's voice was challenging—"I shall propose, of course."

Eve turned to laugh at him, but what she saw in his eyes made her change her mind. She slipped hastily back into the water.

"Hey—you!" he called. "Gina's having a party tonight. I promised I'd bring you. She's wanted one arm and continued her escape toward the shore. But that night, as usual, she was ready when Nell appeared.

Julie Has A Plan
The party to visit the house which Mrs. Marbury intended to buy, did not languish with the passing days, but continued, instead, to grow. Julie was not too busy since her plans were working out so well at the hotel. But Mrs. Marbury, pleased at Gina's continued interest, was almost as insistent as her niece on the affair.

"If Mrs. Marbury doesn't watch out, she'll have a problem on her hands," Julie predicted darkly. "Men like Brett Rodman often have a strange fascination for girls with Gina's money. She'd be much better off with Hamilton Millard. I tried to hint as much to Mrs. Marbury today, but I didn't get very far."

"He—Brett Rodman, I mean—is a strange person," Eve said dreamily. "He acted sort of—well, sulky, at the party, and even at brunch afterward. But I'm sure he could be nice if he tried."

Julie did not bother to disagree. Instead, she said: "If we really do go tomorrow, I'm checking out. We can engage another when we come back, or if we can't, it's a nice out."

"But we'll be gone only overnight," Eve protested. "Julie shook her head. 'Gina has a look in her eye that tells me overnight won't be enough. Anyway, it's my guess that even if we left the hotel, Nell Bowron would follow us to New York.'"

Local People Find Kin In Canadian Army

War and its strange meddling in the movements of mankind was brought to Big Spring today when John L. Mathews and his wife discovered that they both had a brother in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Mrs. Mathews' brother, Fred Fullerton of Taylor, left last week to join the Canadian fighting forces. He was assigned to a squadron and then found that there was another man from the southeast in the same outfit—his own sister's brother-in-law. Mathews' brother, Howard L., of Dallas, had been in the same type of training for two months but this was unknown to the Big Spring man until his wife received a letter from her brother.

Both of the Texans are young—Fullerton is 21, Mathews is 22. Both have had some flight training in Britain within six days—they're in the Eagle squadron. Right now, they are learning what must be done to carry out a job and come back for another one.

And so, here in Big Spring, 4800 miles from the scene of battle, a man and a woman will be waiting and praying—both so go the strange meddlings of war.

Mabel Robinson of Midland visited friends and family here Sunday.

city will be urged to cooperate in some way in a unified drive to remove fire and health hazards, do some spring planting, clean up alleys, lots and yards, refurbish property and do general repairs and repainting. Committee leaders are confident that city-wide response will mean a successful step in the way of civic beautification.

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club will be asked to contact all grocery, drug and other food handling stores to enlist their support in the clean-up. The clean-up of alleys will be under general direction of American Business club members, while Lions and Kiwanians will join in a drive to get vacant lots made more sightly. Members of the Rotary club will have charge of general publicity, including personal contacts, distribution of posters, etc.

The LULAC group here will be asked to supervise the campaign on the north side, and Boy Scouts will join in the work — a list of scouts probably being made available for add-job work.

The city's new garbage disposal program will be emphasized during the campaign, and cooperation of all householders in providing suitable containers to make the program effective will be urged.

A novelty planned for the week is a "painting contest" between teams representing the four service clubs. Club men will be provided paint and brushes, and will be allotted equal sections of the WPA Nursery school building on the west side. Professional painters will judge the contest, with speed and neatness the determining factors. The "paint contest" is set tentatively for 5 p. m. on Tuesday, April 22.

BOSTON, April 10. (AP) (USDA) Scattered sales were closed today on domestic wools in the Boston market. Sales comprised mostly fine French-coming territory wools in original bags at $1 to $1.02, scoured basis, and mixed-grade lots of three-eighths and quarter-blood bright fleeces at around 45 cents in the grease, delivered to eastern users. Fair amounts of Australian and South American wools of fine and half-blood grades were selling at steady prices compared with sales last week.

Big-Footed Ozark Lad Displays His Claim To Fame Here

Feet as big as the Ozark mountains from whence he comes will be shown by Buster Scott, 26, Snowball, Arkansas, here until Saturday, A. C. Emerson, said today. Buster, whose claim to fame is pedal extremities of enormous proportions, is to be at Mellinger's department store where those who shh! shh! their own big feet can gain consolation by seeing the Ozark product.

According to the ruler, Buster's feet measure 15 inches in length and eight inches in width, and it requires a size 42 shoe to cover them. He exhibited these marvels of something or other for Ripley at the New York world's fair, and Life magazine carried a picture of them.

None is more enthused about these feet that Emerson, who is a second cousin of Scott. "Why," he said, "he lived in mountains for more than 20 years before anybody heard of these — these big feet." And Emerson is making up for lost time in spreading the news about the phenomenon.

Big Spring Residents Welcome Reduction In City Water Rates

A thing many never believed would come to pass here has happened. The city basic water rate schedule has been given a 37 per cent reduction in excess brackets--or an consumption over 2,000 gallons.

This matter opens two fields to consumers. Those who have wanted to use more water but held back due to price can now use 5,000 gallons at less cost than they once used 4,000 gallons. And so it goes on down the line. Another possibility is savings for those who will not increase their consumption even under a more attractive rate.

inclined to use more water, for the vast bulk of operating expenses are paid out of water and sewer revenues. If consumption did not increase, then the city's financial structure would stand in urgent need of readjustment.

Script Writers Wear Out On Drinking

"Double Scotch" is given this variation: The hero lays his money down, asks how many drinks it will buy, is told six. "Put 'em all in one glass," he orders. He staggers out a huge brandy-inhaler (comedy prop), and therefrom proceeds to get spifficated.

John G. Winant, Ambassador To England, Visited, Transacted Business In Big Spring

By RAY DAVIDSON
John G. Winant, the United States new ambassador to Great Britain, would be as much at home here as he would in London where he is now serving, for in former years he visited here frequently in looking after oil interests in the Howard-Glasscock pool.

Considerable business dealings with Winant and his partner, Arthur J. Coyle.
Coyle and Winant in the 1920's formed the Coyle-Concord Oil company and operated in the Mexico field during its development.
Then, in March, 1927, when limits of the Howard-Glasscock pool began to shape up, Coyle came to Big Spring to buy leases.
He contacted Piner, who showed him several tracts of land from the Dora Roberts ranch.

He agreed to purchase several leases, and in a few days wired money to Big Spring in payment.
Piner recalls this as a rather unusual procedure, since it was usually necessary only to mail a draft to the lease buyers' bank.
During the next three or four years, during which Coyle and Winant operated in the field, both visited Big Spring several times.
Winant visited in the Piner home on several occasions.

Williams Gets Approval Of Senate Group

Confirmation of Reuben Williams, former Big Spring resident, as state highway commissioner, was recommended Monday evening by the senate committee on governor's nominations.
Approval also was given by the committee to B. D. Battle, Longview, as state auditor to succeed Tom C. King, Dallas, whose appointment was rejected, and Edwin Leay, Longview, as member of the public safety commission.
Governor O'Daniel today withdrew Battle's nomination however.
Favorable action by the committee on the Williams appointment was considered an important development. Last week when the senate rejected his nomination as state life insurance commissioner, Gov. O'Daniel immediately nominated him for the highway commissioner's post.

Big Spring's two banks—the First National and State National—showed decidedly more strength than a year ago, a survey based on the call of the U.S. comptroller as of the close of business on April 4 showed Monday.
Only in cash were figures down, and here the decrease amounted to no more than $172,171.61. Deposits, loans and discounts and total resources were up pronouncedly.

Local Man Starts Fund For Aid Of Yugoslavia

Yugoslavia, latest of the small countries to be invaded, has won the sympathy and support of at least one local man who came forward Monday with a $10 contribution for relief purposes in that country.
In addition, he gave a like amount to the Greek Relief fund.
He preferred to remain anonymous, but said: "Any of us ought to be willing to give almost anything to those people. If I was younger and without a family, I expect I would go and try to help them."
A native of the Balkan area, he was primarily interested in the Yugoslavs. He wanted to give $10 to them. Informed that so far as The Herald knew there was no national fund for the Yugoslavs, he insisted on giving anyway.

"Well," he declared, "let's start a fund. Why not?"
So anyone else who feels the same way can make donations through The Herald, with assurance that every penny given will go to the proper organizations at the proper time. Already $50 has been sent to the National Greek Relief fund, and almost that much is ready to go.

Legislature Approves Act To Validate Knott School District

Validating of the Knott independent county-line school district has been accomplished in a bill which became law when Governor W. Lee O'Daniel sent it to the secretary of state without his signature.

Judge H. R. Debenport, who wrote the bill, said he had been advised of its enactment. It is written as a general law and is retroactive to validate all aspects of the district operation.
The measure, briefly, empowers county trustees of counties in which is a portion of a given county-line independent school district to alter boundaries of the districts to include territory from a contiguous common school district lying within the counties affected.
This covers the situation which existed between Garner and Ackery county-line districts, and the Soash common school district lying in the hollow of a horseshoe formed by the two other districts.
The difficulty arose when the north half of the Soash district voted to consolidate with Ackery and the south half with Knott. Later an injunction was filed, but subsequently dismissed. Still, validity of the district was questioned.
The bill, however, settles this point and provides that tax levies previously made by the district are legal, that trustees be qualified to function for the district with full power until successors be chosen, that bond status be unaffected.
Immediate result is to give Garner more than 100 square miles of territory, solving a troublesome transportation problem. Also, a few hundred of delinquent tax payments held up in other counties pending validation has been turned over to Knott.
County trustees of Dawson, Martin, Borden and Howard county participated in the division of the Soash district because Ackery lies in Dawson, Martin, and Borden, and Knott and Soash in Howard and Martin counties.

Frozen Food Locker Co-op To Organize

Plans for a frozen food locker cooperative to serve Howard county have been formulated by a subcommittee of the county's land use planning committee.

In session Thursday afternoon, the committee called a meeting for April 24 for drawing up of a charter and by-laws for the new cooperative and for filing of incorporation papers.

Intentions are for 30 agricultural producers of the county to serve as incorporators for the new enterprise, County Agent O. P. Griffin said today. He reported that 52 persons have been listed as ready to serve as incorporators and of this number at least 30 are expected to be present for the organization meeting.

The meeting will not be a mass-meeting to sell the public on the locker plant idea, Griffin pointed out, but will be for those persons already convinced of its feasibility, persons who are willing to become charter members.

Tentative plans of the cooperation association call for building of the first locker plant in Big Spring, with a later unit, if needed, to be constructed in Coahoma or Garner. Size of the plant here will depend on the amount of stock sold, but it will not be smaller than 300 lockers.

It is planned to incorporate for $12,000, with 200 shares of common stock selling for $30 per share and 200 shares of preferred stock going for the same price.

All stock will carry a guaranteed dividend of six per cent. Only agricultural producers will be allowed to buy common stock, but agricultural producers have been liberally defined as any person having a direct or indirect interest in production of crops, livestock or poultry. Those persons living in town but having interest in a farm or ranch, or owning a flock of chickens, will be eligible to buy common stock, as well as full-time farmers.

After incorporation, it is planned to employ a promoter to sell stock in the cooperative. It will work until all common stock—or enough to assure sufficient capital—has been sold.

No preferred stock will be sold until after sale of common stock is completed. No more preferred stock than common stock will be sold. Any person may buy preferred stock.

Operation plans have not been gone into as yet. However, it is planned that lockers will be rented to stockholders and non-stockholders alike. At the end of each year, earnings will be used first to pay dividends, then to build up a reserve to care for depreciation and repairs, and third to pay additional dividends.

The charter obtained by the cooperative will likely provide for cooperative marketing and buying by the organization. One use of this power would be to allow cooperative marketing of surplus meats produced by co-op members. For example, a farmer slaughtering a beef probably would not need all of it, and through the co-op could send half to some resident renting a locker in the plant.

Martin 4-H Boys Finish Good Year

STANTON, April 7 (Sp)—Following the close of the stock show at Odessa last week, George Bond, Martin county agent, reports that Martin county 4-H boys participating in shows in Stanton, Big Spring, Amarillo, Fort Worth and Odessa turned in an excellent record of spring work.

Of the 25 calves sold by the club boys this spring, an average of $119.64 each was received. The boys received $3,349.97 from sales and $424 in prize money.

At the Odessa show, Russell S. dier won first place in the heavyweight class with his calf. Sadler's lightweight calf placed second in that class. Sadler's group of three calves won first, and the county's group of five did likewise.

County's Farm Families Make 115 Mattresses

A total of 115 mattresses have been completed thus far in the 1941 program of mattress making for farm families from surplus cotton, Lora Farnsworth, county home demonstration agent, said Tuesday.

Additional applications for mattresses that have received approval total 411. Miss Farnsworth will receive applications for mattresses until April 30, although she expects that a shortage of materials will probably allow approval of but few more.

Centers for making of the mattresses are now operating at Gay Hill and Coahoma. Another will be opened at Moore as soon as the long steel needles used in mattress-making are available.

Before the war started, all such things were secured from England. Now that imports are restricted, the extension service has been forced to make arrangements with an American manufacturer for the needles, so the supply is limited.

A center for making cotton comforts under the same program will probably be opened at Gay Hill next week, Miss Farnsworth said. Those eligible for comforts include all those who received mattresses, either in this year's program or last, at the rate of one comfort to each mattress.

The state bureau of weights and measures now has its portable measuring rack for tank trucks in Big Spring, the comptroller's office announced today.

The rack will remain through next week for check of trucks. It has been set-up at the highway department warehouse, but truckers wishing a check are requested to make appointments for the service. This may be done by telephone 587, the comptroller's office here.

It had been pointed out that it is to the truckers' own advantage to have his tank checked. Not only does an accurate check assure him that he is obeying weights and measures laws and that gasoline taxes are being paid correctly, but in many cases the measure is found to be incorrect to the truckers' disadvantage.

The state operates the rack free, but the trucker must pay the city in cents for use of the water used in checking. The check requires about 20 minutes after which the truck must be taken to a welding shop for welding of an indicator, then brought back to the rack for a re-check.

Operating the rack are Alfred Roming of Childress and Allen Howling of Pecos.

Liquor Agents Find Elaborate Boozie Caches At Colorado City

Charges of possession of liquor in a dry area for purposes of sale were lodged against one man after state liquor control board agents made story-book seizures of contraband liquor in two raids at Colorado City Thursday afternoon.

Charges were preferred Friday at Colorado City against Tom Morrison for possession, according to Billy McElroy, district supervisor for the state liquor control board. A similar count possibly would be filed against operator of an inn, he added.

Approximately two cases of whiskey, gin and wine were taken along with several cases of beer at a house, asserted McElroy, and a small quantity of beer at an inn.

Trick wall panels and heavy concrete slabs on rollers were discovered by board agents in uncovering the liquor caches, said the supervisor.

In one house, two secret panels were discovered in a cedar lined closet, but it was in compartment behind a medicine chest in a bathroom that the biggest quantity of liquor was found.

At the same place, six-foot concrete porch slabs were slid back on rollers to reveal vats of cold beer, McElroy said this probably explained why previous raids had failed to bear fruit, and yet cold beer sales would be resumed within a few minutes after the raids.

At another place near a tower adjacent to a tourist camp, agents uncovered a basement structure with a trick concrete slab. The massive piece was counterbalanced so that it could be lifted to reveal a secret compartment. However, nothing was found in it. It was at a nearby place that agents seized a small quantity of beer, McElroy said that agents had been working on the cases for two years without visible success.

Rural Workers Urged To Sign Up With TSES

Rural and small-town workers are urged to register with the nearest Texas state employment service office or with a traveling representative of the service to assure a complete listing of those persons available for labor in defense industries.

O. E. Rodman, manager of the Big Spring TSES office, calls attention of rural workers to the fact that there are part-time offices in smaller communities of this area where traveling representatives make regular calls.

These include Lamesa, where a TSES man is in the courthouse each Wednesday from 8 until 10:30 a. m. Borden and Glasscock county residents may call at the Big Spring office.

Farm workers are urged to register, as well as those in commercial and industrial lines. Registration with the employment service office puts the worker in line for any job for which he is qualified which may open up.

With more defense industries coming to Texas in the future, it is expected that heavy demands for labor will be made.

Forsan Reelects L. O. Shaw Trustee

FORSAN, April 8.—L. O. Shaw, incumbent, was re-elected here Saturday as a member of the board of trustees for the Forsan common school districts.

Others receiving votes were Jack Lamb, 17, and Jim Craig, 2. J. D. Gilmore, Otis Chalk, received 49 votes for county trustee from precinct No. 2.

80th Birthday Of Pioneer Mitchell County Woman Recalls Ranch Days

COLORADO CITY, April 7 (Sp)—His greatest stallion was Neptune, and a picture of the two, master and horse, hangs now in a favored place in Mrs. Conaway's bedroom. In the bumper year of 1915, Mrs. Conaway recalls, Mr. Conaway sold $10,000 worth of horses, buyers coming from as far away as Louisiana. Then came the drought years of 1916-18. Mr. Conaway shipped his cattle to the plains country, but he could find no place to send his horses. Over a hundred of his horses died during the drought.

Mr. Conaway, who was familiarly known as "Uncle P." died in 1926. Since that time Mrs. Conaway has been "boss" of the Lacy K. although she has made her home in Colorado City since 1915.

Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Conaway. Nine of them are still living, a daughter, Mrs. T. C. Hart, died of flu in 1918. The others are: Mrs. J. M. Byrd, of Westbrook, Mrs. P. P. Armstrong of Conaway, Mrs. Bertha Barber and Mrs. R. H. McIntosh of Abilene, Mrs. B. H. Meskimen and Mrs. Mattie Kennedy of Lubbock, Mrs. Witt Hines of Westbrook, Frank and Millard Conaway of near Westbrook.

Her birthday was Sunday. She was born Mattie Kilgough near what is now Hubbard Hill county, on April 6, 1861. She has lived in Mitchell county since 1890.

She came to Mitchell county with her husband, the late C. P. Conaway, who established the Lacy K. ranch in what later became known as the Conaway community, southwest of Colorado City. Mrs. Conaway often recalls that their first home on the Lacy K. was a 16-foot room built over a spoonful dugout. That room, many times added to and now located on a hill 300 yards west of its original site, is still ranch headquarters at the Lacy K.

In addition to being a cattleman, Mr. Conaway raised horses for both draft and saddle purposes.

Tank Truck Testing Rack Set Up Here

The state bureau of weights and measures now has its portable measuring rack for tank trucks in Big Spring, the comptroller's office announced today.

The rack will remain through next week for check of trucks. It has been set-up at the highway department warehouse, but truckers wishing a check are requested to make appointments for the service. This may be done by telephone 587, the comptroller's office here.

It had been pointed out that it is to the truckers' own advantage to have his tank checked. Not only does an accurate check assure him that he is obeying weights and measures laws and that gasoline taxes are being paid correctly, but in many cases the measure is found to be incorrect to the truckers' disadvantage.

The state operates the rack free, but the trucker must pay the city in cents for use of the water used in checking. The check requires about 20 minutes after which the truck must be taken to a welding shop for welding of an indicator, then brought back to the rack for a re-check.

Operating the rack are Alfred Roming of Childress and Allen Howling of Pecos.

Appeals Rules Are Made More Liberal

Howard county selective service board has received notice from state headquarters that selective service rules regarding appeals are being liberalized.

"Congress recognized the fact that local boards are not infallible in their classification of men," the notice said, "and has provided that individual rights be protected.

Time limit for presidential appeals has been extended from five to 10 days. Formerly, presidential appeals were made only on the issue of dependency. Now, the state director can forward to the president any sort of appeal from the regular appeals board decisions.

Local boards are urged to explain fully to each draftee his appeal rights under the law.

Essements For Co-op Power Line Received

Nearly all essements have been secured for a 43-mile extension of the Cap Rock Electric Co-operative's lines in Midland county, O. B. Bryan, manager, said Tuesday.

E. P. Price of Lubbock, consulting engineer, is now drawing up detailed specifications of the line and preparing to stake out the project.

3 Trustees Reelected

In balloting so light it fell short of the 100-mark, Big Spring Independent school district voters Saturday returned three members of the school board to three-year terms in office.

They were C. W. Cunningham, president; Obie Bristow and Dr. M. H. Bennett, Cunningham and Bristow gathered 87 votes each and Dr. Bennett 86. W. R. Purser, election judge and a former board member, was recipient of one write-in vote.

Almost half of the voting occurred within the two hours immediately preceding the poll close.

The board members, all serving out their first terms, will be sworn in at the next meeting of the board.

Nowhere in the county district voters balloted on trustees in 18 common and two other independent school areas. In addition, R. N. Adams, Soash, and J. D. Gilmore, Otischalk, were up for re-election as members of the county board, but returns were not available immediately on any of these races.

STANTON, April 5 (Sp)—Three new members were elected to the Stanton independent school district board of trustees today, while two old members were defeated.

Named to the board were Guy Eland with 104 votes, G. W. Alsup with 95, and Edmond Morrow with 90. A. A. Wilson, president, and W. E. Currie, a member, who were candidates for reelection, were defeated. They received 25 and 48 votes, respectively. A. A. Chandler received 23 votes.

T. B. Stewart was elected county trustee from the Stanton precinct.

Safety Week To Be Observed Here April 28-May 3

Safety Week is to be observed in Big Spring April 28 to May 3, the Big Spring Safety council voted at its regular monthly meeting Monday evening.

Tentative plans call for a number of observances, including participation by Boy Scouts under the supervision of Stanley A. Mate, field executive, a parade on April 30, special window displays, special announcement at various organizations and institutions including churches.

For the parade, efforts will be made to enlist a bicycle brigade, led Roy Reeder, council president, along with the high school band and floats by various organizations.

Local Man Starts Fund For Aid Of Yugoslavia

Yugoslavia, latest of the small countries to be invaded, has won the sympathy and support of at least one local man who came forward Monday with a $10 contribution for relief purposes in that country.

In addition, he gave a like amount to the Greek Relief fund.

He preferred to remain anonymous, but said: "Any of us ought to be willing to give almost anything to those people. If I was younger and without a family, I expect I would go and try to help them."

A native of the Balkan area, he was primarily interested in the Yugoslavs. He wanted to give $10 to them. Informed that so far as The Herald knew there was no national fund for the Yugoslavs, he insisted on giving anyway.

THE RECORD... Facts That Concern You No. 26 of a Series

ARE YOU SEEING ONLY PART OF THE PICTURE?

The great majority of beer retail establishments are clean wholesome places. Yet it is the once-in-a-while exception—the anti-social, law-violating tavern that everybody notices.

Such undesirable retailers give beer a bad name it doesn't deserve. Furthermore, by arousing public indignation, retailing abuses endanger your right to enjoy good beer, the beverage of moderation. They also endanger the benefits that beer has brought to Texas—31,168 persons employed since re-legalization, an annual payroll of $22,076,182 and $2,173,968.64 taxes paid last year.

While it is the brewers' responsibility to brew good beer and the retailers' responsibility to sell it under wholesome conditions, nevertheless the brewing industry wants anti-social retailing eliminated entirely.

You can help us by (1) patronizing only the legal and reputable places where beer is sold and (2) by reporting any law violations you may observe to the duly constituted law enforcement authorities.

Moore Parent-Teacher Group Plans Goodwill Dinner Details

MOORE, April 10. (Spl.)—The Moore Parent-Teacher association is busy with plans to entertain business men of Big Spring and their guests among local men with a chicken dinner next Tuesday night.

The affair was postponed several weeks ago because of bad weather, but is now the chief topic of interest among residents of this community. Approximately 85 local men have indicated they will be present, and the same number is expected to attend from Big Spring.

The various committees arranging for the affair are comprised of:

Hostesses—Mrs. Verdie Phillips, Mrs. J. H. Sellers, Mrs. W. H. Ward, Mrs. J. Lusk and Mrs. Frank Cook.

Kitchen—Mrs. G. F. King, Mrs. O. D. Engle and Mrs. Henry Long.

Program—Arah Phillips.

The Big Spring chamber of commerce will supply a part of the program and the Moore community will contribute a part, including accordion numbers by Mrs. J. W. Payne of Ottoback, a duet by Ramona Fay and Billy Barber, and music by Doyle Turney and his orchestra.

Taking of the school census has been completed by M. L. Rowland, with a total of 58 scholars listed. This is a slight decrease from last year, but it is thought enough students will transfer into the district to again allow use of four teachers.

Only 16 votes were cast in the school trustee election. E. D. Hull was reelected to the post on the board which he has held the past two terms. Mack Thomas, J. H. Burchett and Jack Daniels held the election.

Mrs. J. C. Groff, who has been at Plainview for the past three weeks with her husband while he underwent and convalesced from major surgery, returned Monday to resume her teaching duties.

Eva Mae Shanks, who underwent an appendectomy several weeks ago is rapidly recovering and will be able to return to school in the near future.

Frank Goodman and Harold Leatherwood, who comprised stock judging team from the Garner vocational agriculture class, made a trip to Alpine last weekend to participate in a district meet. They were accompanied by H. R. Hadley, agriculture teacher.

Mrs. Sam Eason, Mrs. Mike Williamson and Mrs. Ella Nell of Big Spring were recent visitors in the W. H. Ward home.

Mrs. Ella Hammock and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hammock made a business trip to Roscoe over the weekend.
