Baptist Church Building Contract Awarded

State Highway Body To Let County Road Pacts In Two Weeks

Maintenance Work On Highways No. 23 and 67 to Be Included In Award. Right of Way Widening Nearly Completed.

On December 17 and 18 the State Highway commission is scheduled to let maintenance contracts for work on Highway No. 23, Cisco to Rising Star via Romney, and on Highway No. 67, Eastland to Gorman via Carbon.

The letting of these contracts is a portion of the work to be done in Eastland county, much of which is now underway.

Under an agreement with the Highway commission Eastland county is securing, or has already secured, sufficient additional right of way on Highways 23 and 67 through the county, for widening the roads from 60 to 80 feet. While on Highway No. 1, known as the Bankhead, the right-of-way is being increased in width from 60 feet to 100 feet.

According to A. F. Taylor, who has charge of the work for the county, the fences have all been moved back, the right of way has been cleared and some of the grading done on Highway No. 23.

On Highway No. 67, between Eastland and Gorman, the fences have all been moved back and the right of way cleared. A small amount of grading has been done. On Highway No. 67 between Eastland and the Stephens county line, most of the fences have been moved back.

County Commissioner Burns is doing a great deal of work on the Eastland-Delemona highway. This is not at present a designated state highway. The work Mr. Burns is doing now is straightening the road and widening the right of way. All the work he is doing is being done according to specifications of the state highway commission and by engineers approved by the state engineers.

New Swabbing Rule Adopted

"Swabbing is prohibited, except for the purpose of starting the flow, testing or cleaning out a well, and such swabbing shall not continue for a longer period than ten days without permission from the railroad commission."

That is the latest rule regulating oil well swabbing adopted by the Railroad commission of Texas, according to Omar Burkett, deputy supervisor, Cisco.

It is adopted for general application in Texas in lieu of paragraph eight of rule 39, oil and gas circular.

TRAINMEN JAILED AFTER CRASH

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 6.—The engineer and fireman of a Chicago & Eastern Illinois suburban train were sent to jail today after their train had swept through a block signal and crashed into a Pennsylvania freight train, endangering the lives of scores of commuters. The police surgeon said Wm. Campbell of Williamsburg, Mich., who was at the control of the train, had been drinking. He was charged with criminal negligence. J. R. Couch of Danville, Ill., the fireman was booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

"Mosquito Party" Scheduled Landing Field Tomorrow

Further precipitation is expected before Friday afternoon. All clad citizens will work of clearing the municipal airport at 10 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Volvin, secretary of the commerce, announced that every man in need of the airport, who are not members of either of the organizations, come to the field and help with the work. "A record will be kept of those attending," Mouser declared, "and those who do not will be the first approached in case a drive for money is needed to complete the airport."

A $5 fine will be levied against each member of the Rotary or the Lions club, who fails to be on the field at 1:30 o'clock.

Mary Clips It

Everybody talked when Mary cut off her curls a few months ago. Now Mary seems to have voted the straight ticket for bobbed hair, for she has had her tresses clipped even closer, as this new photograph shows.

Alva Brown Given High Masonic Office

WACO, Dec. 6.—The highest elective office in Texas Freemasonry went to Alva Brown of Waco, who today was elected by acclamation to the office of grand senior warden of the grand lodge of Masons.

Election of Brown by acclamation was said to be an unusual occurrence as it is believed the first time in the history of Texas Freemasonry that this has happened.

Lonnie Erwin of San Antonio was elected to the committee on work. These are the only two elective offices in the grand lodge. Committee reports and installation of officers this afternoon will conclude the session of the grand lodge.

East Texas Grocer Missing From Home

MOUNT VERNON, Texas, Dec. 6.—Deep concern was felt here today for the safety of O. H. Lee, Mount Vernon grocer who has been missing since Tuesday night. At that time he closed his door and phoned his family that he would be late getting home. He said he was going to the home of a friend to sit up with a sick man. Wednesday morning he failed to open his store and investigation showed he had not visited the sick friend. Relatives fear he has been the victim of foul play and have organized searching parties to look for him.

Wealthy Farmer Is Shot To Death

LONGVIEW, Texas, Dec. 6.—The Killingsworth, wealthy cotton farmer living five miles north of here, was killed at the home of W. Page, 25, today. Page, a nephew of Killingsworth, who killed his own son a year ago, surrendered to Harrison county officials. No reason was known for the slaying.

FAMOUS ROYALTY SUIT IS IN TRIO

Writ of Error Granted In Suit Involving Several Thousands of Dollars.

Three civil suits which had their origin in Eastland county courts, were acted upon by the Supreme Court of Texas, according to its weekly report made Wednesday afternoon.

Probably the most important decision handed down, was that in which the judgment of the court of civil appeals was reversed, and that of the district court affirmed, in the suit of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, versus E. T. Connellee, Eastland.

The court held that where separate provision is made, in an oil and gas lease contract, for payment of a certain sum for gasoline manufactured from casinghead gas, the one-eight royalty provided for oil and gas production can not be enforced against such gasoline production.

The court decision held that the lease contract specifically recognized casing gas as a product distinct from the other oil and gas subject to one-eighth royalty, and that the contract clearly provided separate payment on the basis of this distinction.

The district court judgement denied Connellee and others their claim to one-eighth royalties on gasoline made from casing head gas produced on property which had been leased to the company. The contract provided that Connellee and his associates should receive $25 annually for the gasoline from each casinghead gas well. The judgement was reversed by the court of civil appeals.

Error Granted

An application for a writ of error was granted in the suit of J. H. Boadway and others versus F. W. Stone and others.

This suit, which originated in 1922, also involves several hundred thousand dollars, and was filed by Boadway and others, against F. W. Stone and Company, to collect one-thirty-sixth of the value of all oil and gas taken from a lease belonging to the plaintiffs, and against the Humble Oil and Refining Company and the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, to collect 1-32 of all oil and gas run from the lease.

Dismissed — An application for writ of error was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, in the suit of the Dixie Company versus G. O. Creswell, from this county.

When the suit was tried in the 91st, district court here, judgement was rendered in favor of The Dixie Company, which was composed of C. R. Starnes and G. A. Davison.

The plaintiff alleged that a contract to drill a well to a depth of 3,350 feet on a tract in Callahan county, was violated when the well was banded at 2,000 feet.

The jury in the case ruled that salt water was encountered at the latter depth, giving sufficient cause for ceasing to drill.

EXPLOSION FATAL TO FOUR

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—An explosion jarred the plant of Kill-All Disinfecting Company here today. At least four men were believed killed, six were injured and 16 were unaccounted for.

The one story building of the company and an adjoining building occupied by a junk company were both demolished.

The explosion was felt throughout the greater section of the East side. Many persons in the immediate vicinity were knocked down and windows in all buildings close by were shattered.

Police reported the groans of injured persons still within the debris could be heard even after ambulances had carried away a number of injured and several of the dead.

Cause of the explosion was undetermined.

The Broadway of America is 72 percent paved.

Says He Burned Elfrieda Knaak

James Kelly, 25, has "confessed" to military police at San Antonio, Texas, that he threw Elfrieda Knaak into the police station furnace at Lake Bluff, Ill., Oct. 31. Kelly, whose home is Lake Forrest, Ill., enlisted Nov. 15 in the photo section and deserted two days later, according to Colonel Charles Danforth, commandant of Selfridge Field. He was taken into custody when he walked up to a military policeman and declared he was A. W. O. L.

TWO YOUTHS ROB OKLA. BANK

SAPULPA, Okla., Dec. 6.—Two boys just out of high school who gave their names as Frank Eldridge and Dennis Williams were captured by a posse in a field near Kelleville less than two hours after they allegedly robbed the bank at Kelleville early today.

About $1,000 was found by H. H. Harvey, cashier of the robbed bank, near the place where the two boys were captured.

Eldridge and Williams were identified by Harvey as the two who held him up when he came to the bank shortly after 8 o'clock. They were in the building when Harvey entered.

The bandits forced Harvey to open the bank safe from which they took all the money except $10 which they apparently overlooked. Harvey was then locked in the vault.

Harvey called officers over a telephone in the bank vault and then freed himself. Together with the town marshal they headed a posse and traced the bandits and found Williams and Eldridge in a bushy area a mile and a half so of town.

The two boys exchanged shots with their pursuers and then surrendered. No one was injured.

By United Press. MANSFIELD, La., Dec. 6.—A gang believed the same which early Tuesday raided two banks at Junction City, Ark., and tied up the night watchman early today robbed the bank of Grandcane, La., near here of $960 in cash and valuables worth several thousand dollars more.

After successfully looting the bank the bandits escaped. Part of the loot was $5,000 in stamps, kept in the bank for safekeeping, mostly of one and two-cent denominations.

The bandits gained entrance to the bank vault by the use of acetylene torch and by battering a brick wall through with a crowbar. The only traces they left were shirt collars on the bank floor, and auto jacks on the street. Sheriff Clyde Williams is investigating.

EX-SERVICE MEN ARE INVITED TO RISING STAR

Ex-service men, whether members of the American Legion or not, are invited to attend a meeting of the Rising Star American Legion Post Friday night, December 7th, at the Boy Scout Hall.

At this meeting a banquet will be held and addresses will be made by C. A. Beesley of Mineral Wells, and by Troy Simpson, editor of the Ballinger Banner-Ledger.

CENTER — Arrangements completed for establishment of modern dairy here.

EXTENSION GIVEN EASTLAND BUS SERVICE

Frank Robason Given Permission To Place Another Car On Eastland-Waco Route.

Effective December 15, Frank Robason, who operates the Horned Frog Bus line, will put on another bus and extend his service. At this time a new schedule will be put into effect on the Robason and Black lines in and out of Eastland. When the new schedule goes into effect the service will extend from Eastland south to Waco, touching all intermediate points.

The schedule affecting Eastland, which will be effective December 15th is as follows:

South to Waco—Busses will leave Eastland at 8:30 a. m.; 1:25 p. m. and 4:25 p. m. The through fare from Eastland to Waco, with a transfer on direct connection at Dublin, will be $5.50.

Waco, North to Eastland—Busses will arrive in Eastland at 1:00 p. m., 5:20 p. m. and 9:00 p. m.

Eastland will benefit largely from this new schedule since it will give daily bus connections both ways with Carbon, Gorman, Desdemona, De Leon, Dublin and other points on the line between Eastland and Waco.

In addition to the new schedule to be put into effect by the Eastland-Waco line, the Creamer line, operating between Eastland and San Antonio, will change their schedule effective December 10th as follows: The bus will leave Eastland at 8:30 a. m. for San Antonio and returning from San Antonio will arrive at Eastland at 5:40 p. m., making one round trip daily.

"HOME BREAKER" FATALLY SHOT

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 6.—W. L. Shippey, a grocery warehouse clerk, shot and killed D. H. Davis, Atlanta auto dealer, in a downtown street here today.

The smoking pistol in his hand, Shippey turned to a friend and said, according to reports: "That's one man who will never break up another home." He then went to a police station and surrendered.

The Broadway of America has unexcelled camp and hotel facilities.

Attends King

As the condition of King George of England approached a crisis, his two physicians, Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn called a third doctor into consultation. He, pictured here, is Sir Humphrey Rolleston.

Salvation Army Charity Pots To Be Placed Here

The merry tinkle of the Salvation Army Lass' bell will be heard upon the streets of Eastland beginning tomorrow, and lasting until Christmas.

The Christmas "pots" which line streets all over the United States at the Yuletide time, will be placed here.

Each year the money derived from the pots is used in the charity work of the organization.

According to Captain H. C. Parham, all money raised here will be spent on Eastland charity cases.

WHIPPING CASE IS NEARING END

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 6.—The third trial of the school boy whipping case neared an end today with a $15,900 damage suit brought by James F. Chrisman, 11, against Miss Mary Hickman, teacher, expected to go to the jury this afternoon.

Witnesses for the defendant denied charges of the boy that he was permanently injured by a whipping Miss Hickman gave him when he refused to give the answer to the question of how many times four goes into 32.

BUILDING COST IS PLACED AT $50,000

Contract Given to Clarence Epperly, Fort Worth. New Structure To Be On Old Church Site.

The contract for the erection of a new Baptist church in Eastland has been awarded to Clarence Epperly of Fort Worth. Construction work is to begin just as soon as the old building can be moved to the rear of the lot, which will be done immediately, and is to be completed within six months.

The new building, which will be constructed of brick and concrete, will face 65 feet on East Plummer street and will run back 116 feet along South Lamar street. There will be a basement, in which there will be a modern heating and ventilating plant, kitchen, etc. Next above the basement will be a large auditorium and on the third floor will be class rooms, a large assembly room, pastor's study and departmental rooms for a modern, graded Sunday school of not less than 600 pupils. There will be two front entrances, one at each corner and a side entrance on Lamar street. The building will cost approximately $50,000. William C. Meadows, Fort Worth, is the architect and will supervise the construction of the entire building.

Just as soon as the old building, which will be used for a place of worship until the new building is ready for occupancy, can be moved from the lot, a public dirt breaking will be held. The exact date for this will be announced within a few days.

Rev. W. T. Turner is pastor of the church. The building committee is composed of Judge Ed S. Pritchard, A. M. Hearn and J. F. McWilliams. The finance committee is composed of W. D. R. Owen, Frank Lovett and C. L. Garrett.

KING'S CONDITION GROWING BETTER

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 6.—King George's general condition is improving slowly an official bulletin issued at Buckingham palace said today.

The king passed a fair night and his temperature was lower this morning. The tense atmosphere which followed the feeling of pessimism last night was dispelled by the news from the sickroom this morning.

Fire Chief Favors World War Exhibit At Texas Library

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 6.—"Texas in the World War", an exhibit of all available material pertaining to the various activities of Texas during the World War, provided for by special appropriation by the University of Texas Board of Regents, is now housed in the University library, according to E. W. Kinkler, librarian.

Newspaper files and posters for the period were obtained for the collection from England, France, Germany, Mexico and other foreign countries. Collections were also made of war songs and music and of official war photographs. The notable collection was gathered by Dr. Milton R. Gutch, professor of history of the University.

A SYSTEM THAT IS AT FAULT.

Amid all the charges and counter-charges that have filled the air since the steamer Vestris went down...

Rosenberg is qualified to speak, he has spent years at sea, serving as a master himself before he came ashore and took to writing.

He holds Captain Carey largely responsible for the trouble. He acquiesces in the charge of cowardice, but blames him for failing to call help earlier.

The modern captain, says Riesenberg, has fallen from that high estate. His ship is loaded for him; if the cargo is placed improperly...

Thus, Riesenberg feels, it is the system that must be condemned in the Vestris' tragedy. The magnificent steamship of the old days is not so common nowadays.

Rosenberg's remarks are worthy of deep consideration. They are a caustic commentary on modern conditions in the shipping world.

HUMBLE SCIENTISTS.

The ordinary honey bee is now going to be an object of close study by distinguished scientists at Toronto.

It is known that the queen bee lives a good deal longer than the worker. The chief reason, apparently, is that she gets a different diet.

A scientist, when you stop to think about it, is a humble person. Who else would think of going to the bee for the secret of long life?

EXPERT WILL ATTEND SHOW

A poultry authority will attend the Old Belt Poultry show in Rangoon one of the three days that the exhibit is held.

Dr. C. Dunn of the veterinary department of A. & M. college, will be in Rangoon on Friday, Dec. 14.

Gift Order Service Will Be Available

The new Gift Order service of the Western Union Telegraph company will be available to the public for Christmas according to W. A. Seale, local manager for the company.

The Gift Order service was developed by the Western Union to solve the Yuletide problem, "What Shall I Buy?" "What Shall I Buy?"

With this service the person desiring to give or send a gift, merely wires the amount of money he wishes to spend, together with a message, which goes free, to the persons he wishes to give to the present to, and the recipient of the gift is allowed to consult his own wishes as to what the gift shall be, as he may purchase his own gift with the money sent him for the purpose.

ROBBER MURDERS AGED WOMAN

TOWANDA, Pa., Dec. 6 - Surrounded by a pile of her clothing which had been torn to shreds, the nude body of Mrs. Samuel Jones, 63, was found in her home near here.

The aged woman had been beaten to death sometime yesterday it was believed. Her head was battered severely and her body bore scars and deep bruises.

Police indicated they believed the murder had been committed by a religious fanatic or a degenerate robber. The body was found by neighbors who became suspicious when Mrs. Jones' auto was found abandoned in a road leading to her home.

The West Texas Utilities Company, within a few weeks, will open a modern cold storage plant at Cisco consisting of vaults enough for the storage of several carloads of foodstuffs.

The Crystal Ice and Cold Storage of Eastland also have a cold storage plant at Eastland where they have an abundance of storage room. The farmers of Eastland county, at small cost, may have the use of these vaults for the storage of surplus products which they desire to keep for better market conditions.

Kidnapped Gambler Is Given Freedom

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 6 - Ed Alvey, prominent Louisville bookmaker and gambler who has been missing Monday, returned to his home here today and told a story of being kidnapped and being held for ransom.

Alvey said he was forced into an auto at the point of a gun near his home Monday night. He was blindfolded with adhesive tape, he said.

"I don't know where they took me," Alvey said. "They changed autos once and we rode for more than an hour. Then we got out and they took me into a building. The 60 year old gambler said he was released at midnight last night, apparently when his abduction became frightened over publicity given his disappearance.

Alvey phoned a hotel here shortly after his release. He was in New Albany, Ind., at that time. The bookmaker said he did not pay any ransom altho the kidnapers were planning on "shaking him down," he said.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

PAUL GOES TO ROME
By Rev. H. W. Wrye
Acts 28:11-24, 30, 31.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation, to every one that believeth. Rom. 1:16.

INTRODUCTION

Some three years before the time of this lesson, while at Corinth, Paul wrote the Roman letter, and indicated his "heart's desire and prayer to God," that he might visit the church there and impart some spiritual gift to the members (Rom. 1:11; 15:30-32). Not long thereafter while in prison at Jerusalem, and in great distress and despondency, "the Lord stood by him, and said, 'Be of good cheer: for as thou hast testified concerning me at Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome.'" (Acts 23:11). In the providence of God he was saved from the Jerusalem mob by the protection of 470 soldiers, that delivered him to Felix, where he preached the gospel two years to Roman kings, closing his work as revealed in our last lesson, by almost converting King Agrippa to Christ and eternal salvation. Very soon after that, the apostle began the long voyage to Rome. The answer to his prayers, and the promise of God was about to be accomplished. The record of that stormy journey across the Mediterranean has been preserved eighteen hundred years to show that God will keep his promise, and how a man that sincerely believes with all his heart in Christ will undergo all kinds of hardships for Christ's sake.

Confers With The Jews

Felix, Festus and Agrippa, having pronounced Paul innocent, and the officers that accompanied him on that tempestuous voyage, was convinced that the rulers were right in their conclusion. Therefore, the apostle had privileges that allowed him to confer with the public on subjects that were very near and dear to his heart, viz: the gospel of Christ, and the salvation of men. He called for the chief Jews of the city, and explained why he was a prisoner. He addressed them as brethren, and thus set himself in a favorable light. Notwithstanding, the mortal sin Caesar bore a suspicious look to Jews, implying treachery to his own country, and Paul was careful to explain that he had no charge against his nation. Vengeance finds no place in the heart of a true Christian. Paul practiced what he preached (see Rom. 12:17-21). His appeal to Caesar was for protection against mob violence, for he "had done nothing against the people, on the customs of our fathers." He concluded with the declaration, "because of the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain." It was this loyalty to his ancestral faith that brought Paul bound from Jerusalem to Rome. The faith that freed his heart freed his hands, and this contradiction is sometimes wrought in our lives.

A Sect Everywhere Spoken Against

The Jews answered that they had received no letters or reports against him, but that they desired to hear him, saying: "for as concerning this sect, we know that everywhere it is spoken against." Christians were declared to be "the enemies of mankind," and they were charged with the most ridiculous things imaginable. Rome rang with rumors against Christians, and three years later when Nero, to shield himself, charged Christians with having set fire to the city, the infuriated populace saw Christians thrown to wild beasts in the arena and burned as torches in Nero's gardens with shouts of frenzied delights. "Everywhere spoken against" was thus the report that met Paul.

An Appointment to Preach

The Jews appointed a day to hear what he had to say about this "sect" which he represented, and many came to his lodging. He explained to them that the law of Moses and the prophets were fulfilled in Christ. As to the prophets, their predictions were fulfilled in the person, preaching, miracles, passion, and death of Jesus Christ. Thus proving from the Scriptures that Jesus was the promised Messiah, and persuading them to believe in Him. In the earnestness of his zealous and benevolent soul, he spent the whole day; and though some were won over to the faith, yet "some believed not." What a sad record "and some believed not." Christ commissioned His apostles to "preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized, shall be saved; but he that believeth not, shall be damned." (Mark 16:16). The worst chasm among men is the moral difference in their character and conduct, and at the bottom of this lies a difference of practical belief; some believe the things that are spoken concerning God and Christ and salvation and some disbelieve. Paul answered them by quoting from Isaiah saying "Go unto this people, and say, 'Hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and will not perceive. For the heart of this people is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have closed; lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.'" Paul appealed to the Jews first, then he turned to the Gentiles, preaching in his own rented house for two years, and writing letters to the churches. He wrote Epistles to the Philippians, Ephesians, Colossians and to Philemon, Timothy and Titus. While in Rome he strengthened believers and many were added to the church. He made converts among the members of Caesar's household which stands for all that is pure and true and foremost Christian leader and teacher of the world.

Honor Would Not Allow Southerner to Touch the Gold

LEXINGTON, Va.—Five hundred gold dollars which the Yankees failed to get when they took Richmond, Congressman Henry St. George Tucker explained here today, founded the law library of Washington & Lee university in 1873.

To the few who have known the story, that Confederate gold is still a symbol of legal integrity. "At the close of the war, my father's family was in want," Mr. Tucker said. "But when, as attorney general of Virginia under the Confederate regime, my father received a share of the gold remaining in Virginia's treasury, divided among state officials to prevent its falling into unionist hands, he would not consider the money his and deposited it in a special account in Charlottesville. "There it lay eight years. After he had become professor of law at Washington and Lee and found no law books or funds to buy any, he placed this Confederate gold at the disposal of the school. He still believed that the federal government might have a claim upon it, and he gave it with the provision that should the union authorities demand it, the books should be sold. That moral condition still is valid."
Mr. Tucker's family, in the last days of the war, were experiencing very hard times, he said. They had only bacon and corn meal to eat. They had moved to Charlottesville where university officials provided them with a house formerly used by students. The morning of April 12, three days after the surrender at Appomattox—the morning the gold came—the congressman described in this way:

"On that morning I was reciting Latin to my father. We had gotten to 'bonus, bonus, bonus'; and my distinct recollection is that I was 'balled up' on the vocative. During the morning Confederate soldiers returning from Appomattox were constantly passing, sometimes in numbers, sometimes singly; oftentimes there were those among them who recognized my father and either came up to speak to him or made some demonstration."

"Finally a lone courier rode up and asked if Mr. Randolph Tucker was there. My father responded and went downstairs where my mother and sisters were, to meet this gentleman, and left me struggling with the vocative of bonus."
"In a short time I was distracted from my work by noisy demonstrations, loud laughing, screams of joy, until at last I left dear old bonus and went down to join the crowd."

Family Impoverished.
"I went down into the dining room. There on the plain pine table lay 25 $20 gold pieces. My father and mother were standing by and the girls were in raptures of delight, as numerous and varied suggestions of additions to their depleted wardrobes were successively made by each of them."

"An inquiry brought out the fact from my father that this young soldier, when Richmond fell on the third of April, had been given this $500 in gold by some official of the state, of the gold which remained in the treasury when Richmond fell. It had been safely and honestly delivered. Not one of us children had ever seen a $20 gold piece before. It was good for young eyes, and we all saw in it relief for our narrow wardrobes."

"In the midst of our joys we were brought to sorrow when my father, standing by the table said, 'My children, I am sorry to disappoint your hopes; it distresses me; but that is not my money and cannot be used by me.'
"We were living in poverty. The girls were from 15 years old down. Their dresses made them look like zebras. There were no new dresses during the war, but as the girls grew an inch or two each year a band of some sort, or any sort of material was added to the dress that its length might consist with the views of propriety which then existed in that belated society. Red, white, blue, purple, and yellow bands, two or three inches wide, followed each other in glorious succession. For the length of a dress for a 14-year-old girl was far too short for a girl of 15, 16 or 17."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By NEA Service
WASHINGTON—What and why is American prosperity, anyway?
Probably the best answer to that question comes in the annual report of the Department of Commerce, just issued. This report is a sort of cross-section of American industrial and commercial life. A study of it gives a new understanding of the nature of American prosperity and the way to maintain it.

One of the factors most emphasized in the report is the nation's steadily growing export trade. Since the United States has to buy many articles from foreign countries, the report says, it must export an equal or greater number of articles to those countries; otherwise it will be sending out more money than it takes in, and finance and industry will suffer.

WITHOUT imports of such commodities as silk, jute, sisal, manilla hemp, rubber, nickel, tin, coffee, cocoa, tropical fruits and nuts, wool, hides and skins, wood pulp and paper, the activity of American factories would be greatly restricted and the standards of living of consumers greatly lowered," says the report. "To pay for the large and increasing volume of imports... we must maintain a large and increasing export trade."

"Approximately one-eighth of the output of our farms and one-eighth of that of our factories is sold abroad. Two or three millions of our agricultural and industrial workers would be directly thrown out of employment were export trade cut off, and the displacement resulting indirectly from the shock to business would be much larger still."

"As a matter of fact, the task of finding foreign markets for American products has been met with a noteworthy measure of success. The total exports of the Suits, Mr. Tucker said, were filed against other officials of the state government who received money from the state treasury but no suit was filed against his father.

"Five hundred dollars is not much," he remarked, "but it furnished an example of integrity that a sum many times as great could not do. In a case of moral doubt, my father always made it a rule to give the other party the advantage."
Since that time, Congressman Tucker and his father have raised approximately a quarter of a million dollars for the support and endowment of Washington and Lee university.

LOTS OF FLOWERS.
DENTON, Texas.—Ten thousand pansies and as many tulips will bloom alternately on the campus of the College of Industrial Arts during the school year. The pansies will bloom throughout the winter months, and the tulips will be planted in the spring to blossom at that time.

Other beautification projects such as a sunken garden, a new pool and a fountain have been planned for the campus and will be built during the school year. Fred W. Westcott, director of the department of rural arts and chairman of the committee on campus beautification, has charge of the program.

SENATE SHOW TO OPEN FOR 3-MONTH RUN

Upper House Draws Crowds Daily—Gallery Fans Have Favorites.

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON. — The "best show" in Washington has opened here for a three month run. It is the senate of the seventieth congress, scheduled to perform daily, except Sunday, from now until March 4. The house opened simultaneously but lacks the "show" elements of the upper body. "Washingtonians know that the senate at certain times is the best show in town—far better than any movie," Senator Moses of New Hampshire told his colleagues at their last session.

His statement about the merits of senatorial entertainment followed an anti-Catholic speech by Senator Hefflin of Alabama, during which the galleries had been crowded and noisy, and it seemed an accurate analysis of most gallery fans' attitude. To many irreverent persons who frequent the senate gallery, the "greatest legislative body in the world" is obviously a source of inexpensive entertainment. The same faces peer over the gallery rails day after day while sessions are in progress.

A few are the faces of lobbyists, there on business, but most of them are the unworried countenances of idlers having a good time. The regular gallery fans are retired politicians, wives of government officials, dowagers keeping busy and the sort of men, old and young, who in other cities would probably be spending their time in pool halls or corner drug stores.

Mrs. Longworth a Visitor. Among them are a few notables. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, wife of Speaker Longworth of the house and daughter of the late President Roosevelt, for example, rarely misses a senate debate. She can be seen almost any day in the section of the gallery reserved for senators' families and is one of the attractions regularly pointed out by capitol guides.

The narrow gallery surrounding the senate chamber is divided into sections—one for the personal use of senators, one for their friends, where admission can be gained only by presenting a visitors' card, one for diplomats and another for the press. The remainder is thrown open to the public but a Quaker meeting house system is maintained. Unescorted ladies sit in one section, men without ladies in another and mixed parties in the rest. Tip-toeing attendants preside over each section.

All sections except that reserved for diplomats are ordinarily well filled. As there are strict gallery divisions, so are there strict rules of conduct, applicable to all. A spectator may not place his elbows on the railing, talk with his neighbor, hiss or applaud, or spit on the floor. All these rules, however, are frequently violated. Inflammatory orations often call forth thunderous applause despite vigorous "shushing" by harrassed attendants.

Fans Sometimes Ousted. Occasionally a gallery fan is expelled for persistent violation of the anti-applause rule and "cranks" who dare to heckle a senator are promptly ejected. It is not uncommon for one of the latter class of spectators to rise in his seat and address a question or remark to some senator on the floor below him.

Sometimes the presiding officer, usually Vice President Dawes, is forced to shout for "order in the galleries." A few senators make a practice of talking to their public in the galleries rather than their colleagues on the floor. Hefflin, who seldom has a large audience on the floor, habitually talks to the large crowds his speeches attract to the galleries.

"You Romanists up there in the gallery keep quiet," he shouted on one occasion at the last session when Senator Robinson of Arkansas was applauded when he undertook to rebuke Hefflin for talking religion. Hefflin often addresses his remarks to the press gallery, the occupants of which he calls "pon pushers" and other complimentary names.

Cupidors Beside Statues of Great. By United Press. AUSTIN, Dec. 4.—Although it is not on record that General Robert E. Lee, Jefferson Davis, Albert Sidney Johnson, John H. Reagan, James Stephen Hogg and Woodrow Wilson were tobacco chewers, convenient spittoons stand by their bronze figures in the state capitol rotunda. The janitors have placed none by the marble bust of former Governor Miriam Ferguson which also stands in the capitol lobby. So far the statues have not been observed to expirate but the spittoons give evidence that others do.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hazard of Ranger were visitors in the L. B. Bourland home on Thanksgiving day.

D. J. Kelly of the United States was the first sprinter to run the century in 9 6-10 seconds, accomplishing the feat on June 23, 1906. The mark has been equalled seven times, five times by Charley Paddock and once each by H. P. Drew and Cyril Coafee, the Canadian.

Paddock was clocked in 9 5-10 at Los Angeles May 15, 1926, but the International Amateur Athletic Federation rejected the application for a world's record.

Wykoff and Williams are two of the fastest sprinters ever developed. Both are young and either of them may crack 9 6-10 seconds in the century before they hang up their spiked shoes.

That Amsterdam Race. Williams beat Wykoff in the 100 metres at Amsterdam, but many track followers believe the decision will be reversed the next time they step on a cinder path and await the "hark" of the starter's gun.

Wykoff finished fourth in the 100 metres at Amsterdam, and Williams won the race in 10 4-5 seconds, slower time than the California boy made in winning the final in the Olympic try-outs at Cambridge.

Something was wrong with Wykoff. He was off his feed. The speed he flashed at Cambridge was not in evidence at Amsterdam. It will be interesting to watch the careers of these two boys on the cinder path as it is inevitable that they will meet many more times before they retire.

The next meeting may take place at the National outdoor track and field championships at Denver, Colo., July 3, 4, and 5, 1929, if the plans of J. L. Bingham, University of Denver Athletic Director, materialize.

Both Wykoff and Williams will be invited to the meet and a special 100 yard race between them may be arranged as part of the program, or they may meet in the scheduled 100 yard.

Bracey Watched. Another young sprinter who will be watched closely is Claude O. Bracey, the Texas Express, who like Wykoff, showed more speed at Cambridge than he did at Amsterdam. Bracey is from Rice Institute Houston, Texas.

At least two veteran sprinters hope to run the century under 9 6-10 before they quit the track. They are Robert McAllister, the flying cop, and De Hart Hubbard, the negro sprinter and broad jumper.

Sports Matter

By George Kirksey United Press Sports Writer.

The world's record of 9 6-10 seconds for the 100-yard dash has stood for 22 years, but the outdoor season of 1929 may see a tenth of a second clipped off the mark if Percy Williams, the Olympic 100 and 200 meter champion, and Frank Wykoff, Glendale, Calif. schoolboy sensation, get together on a lightning fast track.

D. J. Kelly of the United States was the first sprinter to run the century in 9 6-10 seconds, accomplishing the feat on June 23, 1906. The mark has been equalled seven times, five times by Charley Paddock and once each by H. P. Drew and Cyril Coafee, the Canadian.

Paddock was clocked in 9 5-10 at Los Angeles May 15, 1926, but the International Amateur Athletic Federation rejected the application for a world's record.

Wykoff and Williams are two of the fastest sprinters ever developed. Both are young and either of them may crack 9 6-10 seconds in the century before they hang up their spiked shoes.

That Amsterdam Race. Williams beat Wykoff in the 100 metres at Amsterdam, but many track followers believe the decision will be reversed the next time they step on a cinder path and await the "hark" of the starter's gun.

Wykoff finished fourth in the 100 metres at Amsterdam, and Williams won the race in 10 4-5 seconds, slower time than the California boy made in winning the final in the Olympic try-outs at Cambridge.

Something was wrong with Wykoff. He was off his feed. The McAllister tagged himself "the sprinter of destiny," at Amsterdam, but all his hopes of winning the 100 meter championship crashed when he pulled a tendon in the final heat and finished sixth. The New York policeman believed he was destined to win the race, and that fate played him a cruel trick when his muscles gave way on him. McAllister seems to improve with age, and he may be better next year than he was the past season, which was by far the best in his career.

Hubbard almost ran the 100 in 9 2-10 in a Western Conference meet several years ago. He slowed up the last 20 yards and yet finished in 9 6-10 seconds. Hubbard's greatest ambition is to run the century under the world's record before he retires.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and soothes the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THAT BEAT WACO PLAY RANGER TEAM

that beat Waco will play on Saturday, Dec. 8.

Tigers, whose thrilling victory over the Waco Tigers a week ago ended the long reign of the team in Texas, the greatest eleven in the state, the Ranger Bulldogs, defeated Cisco, 13-0 and Waco, 11-0, in a 19-19 tie.

They will bring together the most powerful teams and already the interest is great.

It is generally thought that they would win again this year and when Corsicana conquered Waco, it was the greatest upset in the history of the interscholastic league.

But Corsicana is not just McNutt—the team has many other brilliant players—Price, end, being one of the best in the State; Wareing, tackle, ranking with the powerful Leyendecker of Waco; Stamps, a fighting guard; Graves, fullback, accorded a place on the second all-district team; along with Jackson, guard and Young, center.

TECHNICIANS IN SOVIET DESERT SMALL TOWNS

Accordingly Cities Show 10,000 Unemployed Specialists Despite Shortage.

By EUGENE LYONS, United Press Staff Correspondent, MOSCOW.—The thousand technical specialists are listed among the unemployed by the soviet labor bureau at the same time that the country is struggling with the problem of insufficient technical personnel.

This apparent contradiction is explained by the circumstances that the unemployed specialists are in Moscow, Leningrad, Khar'kov and other large cities, while the unfilled jobs are in the coal fields of the Donetz basin, in the oil fields of the Caucasus and other even more unattractive provincial places.

The labor bureau in Leningrad alone lists 1,800 unemployed specialists; Moscow has at least as many and other cities show corresponding figures. The majority of these unemployed are young graduates of the technical schools, who apparently prefer privation in the city to a job and a regular salary in the province.

Three-quarters of the new graduates, a soviet newspaper points out, refuse to accept positions away from the cultural advantages of the urban centers. Higher wages and other inducements do little to overcome their distaste for life in the country.

Yep, a Mail Heifer—Airmail!

Hunters Catch Two Big Timber Wolves

CISCO, Dec. 5.—R. O. Sutton, Brad Spoon and John Leveridge caught two large grey timber wolves during an exciting chase Saturday night and Sunday morning near Cisco. The wolves, run down and killed by a pack of 14 dogs, were cornered under a house on a farm owned by C. H. Fee, Cisco banker, about four miles northeast of Cisco.

Mr. Sutton said Monday that he has caught approximately 20 such animals during the past year in the county. He has received $600 bounty for the kills. He believes that the offer of a substantial bounty upon the animals would cause hunters to take more interest in running them down and killing them with the result that more progress in exterminating the pest would be made than would be the case were government trappers brought in.

The great majority of wolves in Eastland county, he said, are of the species known as timber wolves. These animals are larger than the coyote and much more destructive than the latter.

The second bobcat caught near Cisco within the past few days was taken by Jim Borgs, on the lake road. The animal was captured with a steel trap and was of large size.

RULES TO BROWNS AT EDGE PARTIES

Draws Up Code for and Progressive Games.

AUL W. WHITE, Staff Correspondent, BRK.—With the praise and scolding of a lot of edge arguments a code for the American Auction game today handed down for the two forms of play that perhaps are more played than any other progressive.

The bridge, as you probably are not aware, is the kind wherein the players get accustomed to their whimsical conventions, someone says, "Oh, that game is a modified and usually you get a nice standing up and down."

It is that merciful in four people can rubbers and only in one life, thus minimizing and acrimony.

There has been rules to these games, means of progression and hostesses and guests insulted and things were in an awkward situation.

So Milton C. Work, Walter F. Wyman and Frank E. Bruehl, Minneapolis, decided to write down a "500" on the latter part of the year, that won't do any harm, it was unfair because side had more points than the winning pairs at the Mathematics.

Christmas Day to See Battle of Two All-Star Elevens

FOOT WORTH.—The cream of Texas football will take the field at the stadium of Texas Christian university Christmas day when the all-star team from the Southwestern conference meets the all-star team from other Texas colleges in the Shriner benefit tilt. Men who played their last game for their respective colleges on or near Thanksgiving will have a chance to again covart on a gridiron.

Coach Matty Bell of the T. C. U. Horned Frogs will guide the Southwestern entrants, while Frank Bridges, Simmons' coach and former Baylor mentor, will guide the all-Texas team. The Texas team will be made up of sentors from all colleges in the section, with Centenary, Texas Tech, T. I. A. A. and Texas conference furnishing their best men.

Bell will invite all the senior players whom he thinks qualified in the conference. S. M. U. will probably furnish several as well as Texas, A. & M., Arkansas, Rice, Baylor and T. C. U. Captain Jake Williams, all-conference selection, will undoubtedly play, as will Merlin Toier, Buzz Morgan, Fain Reynolds and other Frog stars.

Coach Bridges reports that many of the schools to whom he has sent invitations have already responded and that he will be able to put a first class team on the field. The teams will assemble at Fort Worth several days before the classic, in order that the men may practice together and learn signals.

One of the biggest crowds ever to fill the Frog stadium is expected to attend, with fans from all over the section gathering to witness the last tilt of the season. Proceeds of the game will go to the Shriner benefit fund.

The list of men eligible for competition on the side of the Southwestern conference include: Hume, Baucus, Trigg, Love, Saunders, Fincher, Knief, King, Baldwin, Toier, Williams, Eddleman, Morgan, Reynolds and a host of others who were outstanding in play this season. Only seniors will be allowed to participate.

In the all-Texas list will appear Allday and Hanna of Centenary, Walker of Texas Tech and many other stars.

Longhorn Glee Club Will Sing in Ranger

AUSTIN.—Variety will be the keynote of the program presented in Ranger Wednesday night, Dec. 12, by the men's glee club of the University of Texas.

With only the 26 men in attendance who will make the trip, the club has been rehearsing every night for the past two weeks in order to put the finishing touches on the program. Director Gilbert Schramm is well pleased with the results of this intensive practice and is confident that this program will please every audience on the tour.

In preparation of the program, every effort was made to assure even the most critical music lover that a well balanced and enter-taining program has been as-sembled.

1. In a Garden, A. J. Boex; Oh My Beloved, Christoforo Gluck; The She, Gustave T. Heil, glee club.
2. —Life's Joys, Oley Speaks, John A. Guinn.
3. Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride, J. Lamont Galbreath; Venetian Love Song, Nevin-Humphreys; Morning, Speaks Waldwin, glee club.
4. For You Alone, Henry E. Geeth, Stanley Addington.
5. Selections by the Longhorn quartet, Turbeville, Guinn, Stub-biefield and Coleman.
6. Where My Caravan Has Rested, Herman Lohr, C. L. Turbeville Jr.
7. God Shall Wipe Away All Tears, Caro Roma; To Arms, J. H. Mauder, glee club.

LEAGUE SEEKS PUBLICITY FOR WAR MATERIAL

International Convention For Such Control Likely to Meet Hardship.

GENEVA, Dec. 5.—The League of Nations today began a final effort for launching an international convention for the control and publicity of both private and governmental production of war material.

Should today's effort fail it is probable the league will either abandon the effort entirely or at most merely incorporate into its general disarmament convention the few points on which agreement has been reached.

The task of bringing the private production of war material under control was imposed on the league by the covenant itself which regarded the unlimited production by such concerns as the Krupp and the Schneiders as one of the frequent causes of war.

From the start the United States, which has participated in the league's commission for the drafting of the convention, has taken the position that govern-mental as well as private production should also be brought under the control of the fullest publicity.

While for a time this attitude of the United States threatened to disrupt the commission, owing to the opposition of various European and Asiatic nations to control of governmental production, virtual agreement was finally won on this point.

BREAKFAST—Baked bananas, cereal, cream, crisp bacon, pota-toes hashed in cream, crisp toast, milk coffee.

LUNCHEON—Vegetable stew, rye bread, apple compote, milk tea.

DINNER—Baked halibut, egg sauce, shoestring potatoes, mashed turnips, head lettuce with French dressing, toasted cheese sandwiches, steamed cranberry pudding, milk, coffee.

The vegetable stew is improved by the addition of a cup of stock made from the bone of the leg of lamb suggested for the preceding dinner.

Small, square or triangular cheese sandwiches are toasted in a very hot oven and are served with the salad. Those little sandwiches add dignity to the plainest salad course and are worth keeping in mind for an "emergency."

Apple Compote

Five or six apples, 1½ cups granulated sugar, ¼ cup water, ½ cup blanched and shredded almonds, 1 lemon, ½ cup whip-pling cream, 2 tablespoons pow-dered sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Pare and core apples taking care not to break them. Dissolve 1 cup sugar in water and boil 5 minutes, until syrupy. Add grated rind and juice of lemon. Add ap-ples and cook until tender. The syrup must be dipped over the fruit and the apples turned fre-quently to cook evenly. Keep the fire low as rapid cooking will break the fruit. When apples are tender remove to serving dish or individual plates. Put remaining sugar into a small iron frying pan. Add almonds and cook over a low fire until sugar melts and turns a pale straw color. Pour this car-amel and nuts over tops of apples. Reduce the sirup in which the ap-ples were cooked and pour around apples. Chill and serve with cream whipped until firm and sweetened with powdered sugar and flavored with vanilla.

He Wasn't Goaled

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY, a team which may be nominated as the national champion when all the returns are in, has two of the greatest tackles a team ever en-joyed in Lassarman and Grant. And they are other things than foot-ball artists.

Grant is the intercollegiate, heavyweight champion boxer and therein lies an interesting story.

Lassarman was the 1926 cham-pion and he was so good that he was besieged by professional managers who saw him in a great prospect for the heavyweight championship.

With Lassarman as the ace of an ordinary team, New York U. en-tered a team in the national cham-pionship tournament, but Lassarman broke his leg during the foot-ball season and could not defend his title.

The New York management did not want to withdraw the team, but there was no one to substitute for Lassarman.

Grant then offered himself as a volunteer victim. He had never boxed in competition, but he was the biggest and fastest man in the school, excepting Lassarman and he went out for the team.

"I can take one on the chin for dear old New York," he said. "We don't want to pull the team out so let's go."

Grant trained for a few weeks with the boxing coach, went into the championship tournament and won the heavyweight title.

when a runner was tackled out of bounds.

It developed later, however, that Lassarman had not made the tackle out of bounds and was not hurt on that particular play. The players said that he was standing talking to them when he suddenly collapsed. He had been hurt earlier in the game and was play-ing through on his heart.

One Magnificent Game

LASSMAN played with such bril-liance in the Carnegie game that he will find a place on a number of All-America teams. It is too bad perhaps that a player can-not have his qualifications pre-sented on one great game. Early in the season Lassarman had to favor the leg that was broken last year and he had to work up slowly to his best form. There were, on the other hand, a number of tackles who distinguished them-selves in every game and who also had one big inspired afternoon. And there were other great tackles who played without the help that by Al had.

Peruvian Officials More Hopeful of Settling Tacna-Arica Row With Chile

LIMA—Arrival of the Peruvian and Chilean ambassadors at their new posts in Santiago, the conversation of United States Ambassador Moore in New York and Washington, and the imminent arrival of President-elect Hoover, has aroused general expectation here of definite and important developments in the Tacna-Arica question.

The genial personality and friendly public utterances of ex-President Emiliano Figueroa Larraín, first Chilean ambassador to Peru in 18 years, already have made him many friends in Lima, and intensified the more favorable atmosphere which has been slowly growing here since the renewal of relations. Speeches and interviews of Dr. Cesar Elguera the Peruvian ambassador to Chile, show that he also considers it one of his most important tasks to soothe the asperities of the last half century.

Although Ambassador Moore's visit to the United States was in the nature of a regular vacation, and was hastened by the effects of an injury to his left leg, he had several lengthy conversations with President Leguía before leaving, and the possible solution of the Tacna-Arica controversy between Peru and Chile is known to have been the chief subject of discussion.

The attitude of the Peruvian government hitherto has been to wait for any proposals which might be made by the Chilean ambassador as a basis for negotiations. It has been said on excellent authority that President Leguía will take an early opportunity in his expected conversations with Ambassador Figueroa Larraín to request the return to Peru of both Tacna and Arica. Whatever the reply to this, direct negotiations—the underlying purpose of the resumption of diplomatic relations—would then be under way.

Arbitration Expected. Settlement of the extremely delicate points involved, however, is not expected here without the intervention of the arbitrator. President Coolidge's continuing responsibility for finding a solution, through either his good offices or his position as arbitrator, was strongly emphasized by President Leguía in a recent United Press interview.

Naturally every detail of the discussion between the Chilean or Peruvian ambassador and the chancellor to which he is accredited will be submitted to the home governments, and the initiative of the respective ambassadors is consequently limited.

Junior Leaguers in Annual Meet

National officers of the Association of Junior Leagues of America made big plans for the annual conference of their organization at Toronto, Canada, Dec. 4 and 5. Above are (1) Mrs. Foskell Brown of Nashville, Tenn., national president; (2) Mrs. Charles S. Brown, Jr. of New York, chairman of the National Arts and Interests division; (3) Mrs. J. R. Sheldon, Jr. of New York, national secretary; (4) Miss Forsyth Patterson, New York, field secretary.

stage is to ascertain from each party to the negotiations what it would accept as a final settlement. It is generally believed in Lima that President Leguía in his conferences with Ambassador Moore has already indicated—"unofficially"—what the Peruvian government would accept. Moore's conversations with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg will cover this ground, or at least his impressions of what solution would be considered by the Peruvian government.

The last Kellogg proposal, made in 1926, was for the sale of the disputed provinces to Bolivia. This Chile accepted, but Peru refused. Sentiment here does not appear to have changed at all in this respect, and high Peruvian officials have recently expressed themselves as strongly opposed to considering Bolivia at all in the negotiations with Chile.

Peruvian sovereignty over, or at least internationalization, of the famous Morro at Arica, where one of the most famous battles of the war of the Pacific was held, is another point on which Peruvian officials opinion is authoritatively said to be "unalterable."

There are indications that Peru would consent to a division of the provinces. Tacna to go to Peru and Arica to Chile, should such a proposition be made. In that case, however, officials indicate that Peru would ask possession of the city and port of Arica, basing it on the grounds that there is no other port for Tacna. They do not pretend to foresee what reaction such a proposal would meet in Santiago.

Press More Favorable. Press reaction to the renewal of relations, at first ranging from unenthusiastic to unfavorable, has been considerably warmer since the start of the ambassadors to their new posts. Suggestions are not lacking, however, that the road of the negotiations will be a rocky one. Statements by Chilean officials that "mutual sacrifices" would be required, for example, aroused a section of the Lima press to declare that "Peru had made all the sacrifice to date."

There is an element here which believes the Tacna-Arica problem insoluble; that Chile will never make the concessions which Peru will ask as the basis of a reconciliation. These voices are in the minority, however, and from all indications the general public of Peru look with relief and hope on the efforts about to be made to end a 50-year quarrel.

Buried Treasure Hunt Failure on Southern Shores

BLOXI, Miss.—A few months ago some one found several Peruvian coins near the Edgewater Golf hotel here. Learning that the coins were stamped with the date 1830, owners of property in the vicinity of where the coins were found immediately started discussing the possibility that the famous "Cocos Island treasure" might be buried in that neighborhood. Real estate agents who formerly had been welcome callers, were shooed away and "for sale" signs came down over night.

Soon the metallic mineral finding apparatus was brought into play. Naturally enough as the bearer of the "treasure locator" crossed the spot where the coins were found, the indicator pointed downward and the conservative excitement turned to an "oil boom" enthusiasm.

Finally the "diggers" were called into the area. Picks, shovels and less antiquated implements dug, dug and then dug some more. Everything was in readiness for the care and distribution of the "treasure" which was expected to be found at a considerable depth as much of the space on which the search was being made had long since been "filled in" to make the land higher for building purposes.

The excavation work was carried on with a vim that can be acquired only by treasure hunters. "Klank, klank!" resounded the shovels of the weary workmen as they grated against the "treasure." "At last," lamented a toil-worn "digger."

Two iron gates were the reward. Reports that the gates were those of the Chinese treasury were not authentic.

The Cocos treasure, much written about, had its real or mythical birth in South America when a renegade English sailor and his crew were reported to have offered asylum to fleeing Chilean refugees and then robbed them of their worldly goods.

The valuables were reported to have been buried in one of the Central American islands and later transferred to the Mississippi coast.

The search "will be continued" was the last word from the scene of the hunt.

OIL PRODUCTION COURSE AT TEXAS

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 5 — Although enrollment in the courses in petroleum production at the University of Texas, offered for the first time this year, is rather light, it is considered that the work is a very valuable addition to the curriculum of the College of Engineering, according to F. J. Plummer, geologist in the Bureau of Economic Geology, who is in charge of the work.

"The University is one of the very few schools in the United States which offer a study of the petroleum production situation," Mr. Plummer said. "The work consists of a comprehensive survey of petroleum production and deals particularly with the problem of efficiency in production and with the conservation of crude petroleum." Among the topics we intend to discuss are the water problem in the oil field and the problem of increasing efficiency in the methods of taking petroleum from the oil producing sands and of separating it from foreign materials. We shall also take up a study of oil field fires and of casing problems.

A three-year course is now being offered in petroleum production. Mr. Plummer said. A fourth year's work will be given when there is a demand for it, and a degree will be conferred on those who complete the prescribed work.

Mr. Plummer has had fifteen years of practical experience in the field of petroleum production and has visited almost all the important oil fields in the world. He worked for two years in the fields of Sicilia and Northern Germany, and previous to joining the staff of the University Bureau of Economic Geology, was consulting engineer for a large American oil company.

he asked for lodging, saying he "had no place to go and had reached the point where he didn't care what happened to him; that if there was not a change in his luck soon he would do better or worse." Gustafson decided that the best place for him was the training camp, so he locked him up and tilted vagrancy charges against him. He will have plenty to keep him busy while he is in training and not have to bother about his condition.

China Ruling Party In Vast Minority

By D. C. BESS, United Press Staff Correspondent. PEKIN.—An indication of the proportion of people who have an actual share in the government of China under the Kuomintang (nationalist party) is given by official figures stating that there are 1,812 members of the Kuomintang in Pekin.

The population of Pekin is placed roughly at 800,000, so that about one person in 400 has a share in the activities of the party which rules China. It is probable that this proportion is greater in Pekin than in many other parts of the country, so that perhaps one person in 500 throughout China owes allegiance to the Kuomintang.

The Nanking leaders have decided to retain the title of "The Republic of China," but this is merely an euphemism. China is ruled by a party autocracy, the central executive committee elects all the important government officials, and this central committee in turn is elected by the annual session of the Kuomintang.

Northern Chinese complain that they have difficulty in gaining admission to the party. Several of them have told this correspondent that the Kuomintang is a "southern party." But in time it may be supposed that this feeling will pass. The Kuomintang appears to be acting wisely in restricting membership carefully to those persons who can pass examinations in government, revealing some fitness for politics. They are apparently seeking to set up an aristocracy which will rule China until the people are able to rule themselves.

Only 10 per cent of the Kuomintang members in Pekin are women. Sixty per cent of them are students, and this proportion probably extends to other parts of the country. Twenty per cent hold civil or military positions, so that the party has found jobs for one-fifth of its members in the former capital.

HOME OF POETRY.

PARIS.—Architect's plans for the construction of a "home of poetry" in Paris have been submitted to the city council.

The plans together with a program for operating the establishment are inspired by the will of the poet, Emile Blémond, who left funds for putting his scheme into effect.
