Boy Scouts Find Work At South Ward School

BOY PATROLS TO ASSIST IN SAFETY FIRST

Watch Seaman Street Discourage Speeding School Grounds and Younger Children At Crossing.

Boys attending the South school are to be enlisted to watch speeding along South street adjacent to the grounds and to aid the children when crossing. It is planned to be tried successfully a similar patrol to be put into operation at the highway where it is crossed by children attending at South Ward school going to their homes.

It was discussed Wednesday in the office of City Manager Tatum by Mr. Tatum, Superintendent of Schools R. E. E. Layton, principal of South Ward school, and a group of boys who promised to do their part.

Warning Signs
Warning signs reading "School" have been placed in the street north and south of the property line. It is believed a large majority of the long South Seaman street will obey the sign, but exists when any disobey sign is seen coming too fast, or failing to notice the sign in the street, the sign will be blown and the scout will note the number of the car and make report to City Manager Tatum and Chief Lawrence.

Aid At Crossing
Attention to this by the boys attending the school will be to assist the children in the street when going to and from school.

Boys attending the school will remain at the school until school opens at 8 o'clock. They will resume their regular school hours when some children go home to their homes again in the afternoon.

Bob Shuler Speaks Saturday Night In City Hall, Here

The Eastland County Anti-Alcohol Club announces that Dr. R. P. (Bob) Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, Los Angeles, California, will speak in the City Hall, Eastland, at eight o'clock Saturday night, October 13. A large crowd is expected, and loud speakers will be used. Dr. Shuler is one of the outstanding ministers in the Methodist church, and is a forceful and entertaining speaker. During his twelve years' residence in Texas Dr. Shuler was pastor of the First Methodist church, Temple; University Methodist church, Austin, and First Methodist church, Paris, and was ever found on the firing line fighting the open saloon and every other evil and vice. When he went to Los Angeles, about eight years ago, he took the pastorate there just vacated by Dr. C. C. Seelman, now president of S. M. U., Dallas.

NEW WELL IS BEING DRILLED ON HORN TRACT

Stiles, Davis and Others Will Develop 110-Acre Lease In Shallow Area Just East of Eastland.

Stiles, Davis and associates will develop 110 acres of land known as the J. W. (Jim) Horn tract, located four miles east of Eastland and which adjoins the Hoosier-Fox lease on which is a number of producing wells from the 1600 foot level. A well, which offsets two other wells, is being spudded in.

This company, the principle interests in which are controlled by W. A. Stiles and W. E. Davis of Eastland, has drilled eleven wells this year, four of which have been producers. They have great faith in the Horn lease, since it is so close to the Hoosier-Fox 40-acre lease, which sold some months ago for $105,000.

CHURCH OF GOD GROUP PLANS TO SEE EASTLAND

Board of Church Officers To Inspect Memorial University Site Friday.

Officials of the Board of Church Extension of the Church of God are to be in Eastland Friday, according to information received by Dr. J. T. Wilson, president of Warner Memorial University. They will be here for a day or two.

The Rev. E. F. Adcock, executive secretary of the board of church extension; the Rev. W. T. Wallace, pastor of the largest congregations in that city; C. O. Dodge and F. M. Higgins, will be in the party arriving in Eastland early Friday. They are on their way to South Texas, where they will investigate the home mission work among the Spanish people. The Church of God has a large Spanish work in and about San Antonio, and more work in that line is being considered at this time.

The Church Extension group will stop over in Eastland to look at the site of the Warner Memorial University and discuss the work to be done here. During their stay in Eastland they will be entertained by the Chamber of Commerce, which has arranged for a reception committee to meet them and show them over the city. Harry Brelsford, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Walter Hart, chairman of the reception committee, have charge of the program arrangements. A special meeting will be held in the Church of God Friday night, when one of the visitors will speak.

FIRE DRILLS IN THE SOUTH WARD SCHOOL

Fire Prevention Posters On Display In School Building. Fire Drills To Be Begun In High School.

Fire Prevention Week was formally observed today in the South Ward school, each room having a special program bearing on fire prevention.

The entire school has been organized for fire drills, which are to be conducted for two purposes: First, to train students and teachers to leave the building orderly and quickly in case of an emergency alarm; secondly, to teach self-control in case of emergencies in later life.

When the alarm is given, the pupils rise and pass out without books, hats or wraps, walking rapidly but not running, talking or pushing. Room monitors, after lowering all windows in the room, follow their lines. Room captains take their stands at the doors of their respective rooms and, when all are out, close the doors and report the numbers of their rooms to the fire marshal.

The fire marshal takes position at the main exit with pad and pencil to check the building as it is cleared of students and reports of emptied rooms are made by the respective room captains. When the marshal has a complete check of the building by room numbers, the building is closed.

In the meantime the student body lined up in parallel lines facing the building and at least fifty feet distant awaiting further instructions. The lines are then inspected and the signal given for them to return to the building.

At least two fire drills are to be given each month, one of them obstructed by locking one door, and the other unobstructed. In a recent unobstructed drill the building, with only two exits, was cleared in the space of the first floor corridor in the South Ward school. An exhibit of fire prevention posters is on display. The exhibit is arranged according to grades, but all of them, from the work of the youngest to the work of the most advanced students, is most commendable. It is possible that the exhibit will be shown in one of the downtown show windows in the next day or two. In the very act of making these posters the students learn fire prevention principles.

School Superintendent R. D. Bittle said today that fire drills would be begun at once in the high school and would be conducted regularly every few weeks.

Compulsory School Law Truants To Be Taken Into School

Texas has a compulsory school law that requires all boys and girls of sound mentality, between the ages of seven and fourteen years, to attend school for at least one hundred days each school year. Every child over seven years of age who had not attained his first birthday on September first is amenable to this law. It is to be enforced after November first, according to School Superintendent R. D. Bittle. At that time truant officers will be named to round up all children within the compulsory school age who is not attending school. The law provides punishment for the parents or guardians of children kept out of school in violation of this law.

Prairie Fire In Nebraska Stopped

CLEARWATER, Neb., Oct. 11.—Two thousand farmers and business men beat out the last flames of one of the worst prairie fires in recent Nebraska history. The fire started last night during a 50-mile windstorm. It covered a 2-mile front and burned off thousands of acres of pasture land before old-fashioned fire fighting methods brought the blaze under control.

CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH WEEK

By MRS. E. C. SATTERWHITE.
We are observing childhood and youth week, and some one has asked, "Isn't every week childhood and youth week in America?" This is not a time set apart for entertainment, but a time in which parents, teachers and friends of children come together and counsel about the best ways to help children and youth to know the why and wherefore of the Sunday School and all religious worship. It is hoped that every teacher will visit the home of each pupil in her class and discover the background of the pupils; in other words, find out "how they get that way."

Bulldogs To Play Mavericks, Friday On Eastland Field

Eastland merchants will not be asked to close their places of business for the Maverick-Bulldog football game at the Eastland athletic field, Friday afternoon, but they are urged to permit as many of their employees as possible to go to see the game. Superintendent R. D. Bittle, of the Eastland public school, said this morning. "A large crowd will be out to see this game. Ranger is sending over a large pep squad and hundreds of Bulldog fans to 'root' for the Bulldogs and of course Eastland fans will be out in full force," Superintendent Bittle said. "Merchants and others who find it impossible to release their entire office forces for the game will doubtless be able to allow some of them to attend. The fact that such a large number of people will be at the game, business downtown will naturally be slow for two or three hours and the clerks might well be spared for this length of time," Mr. Bittle suggested. At 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at Maverick field, the Ranger Bulldogs will officially open the district games when they meet the light but swift Eastland Mavericks at Eastland.

Battered from the Breckenridge game last week, the Mavericks are ready to meet the invading eleven from the "city of flowing gold." Rumors saying that the game is scheduled for Saturday instead of Friday were being corrected today. Eastland officials announced this morning that the game would be called at 3:30 o'clock Friday.

CONVENTION OF LEGIONNAIRES CLOSSES TODAY

National Commander To Be Chosen. Louisville, Ky., To Be Meeting Place Next Year.

By United Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 11.—American Legion parties, tired and foot-weary after four days of boisterous celebration, will select a national commander at the closing session today of the convention and then depart for home. Not all of the Legionnaires will go home, however. Many of them will join tours of the Mexican border. Some of them will go on to Mexico City. Louisville, Ky., was selected as the city for the 1929 convention, with the promise that hotel rates and food prices would remain unchanged during the convention. This city of the Blue Grass region was accorded much applause and enough votes to win over Detroit and Miami.

Although San Antonio was turned completely over to the Legionnaires, leaders of the organization commended highly the excellent behavior of the doughboys.

Flatwood Shallow Pool Producer In At 1270-Foot Depth

Harbin & Hefflin, Wednesday, drilled in a new well on the Coon lease four miles south of Eastland in the Flatwood shallow pool, where the pay is found at 1270 feet. This well is stated to be making approximately 20 barrels.

Subscriptions For Florida Relief Needed At Once

Only $300 has been asked by the Red Cross from Eastland county as its quota for the Florida relief fund. Several hundred lives were lost when wind and flood devastated a large section of that state, and the property loss mounted into the millions, making it necessary that relief be sent in from other states.

The response to the call in Eastland has been almost negligible, it is stated. Some money has been subscribed here and, with what has been collected in other cities of the county, about $150 has been raised. In a prosperous county having a population of more than 50,000 this is disheartening. Only 25 cents from six hundred persons would raise the quota. Many might easily give more. The money is needed right now.

The Eastland Telegram will receive and acknowledge contributions, and see to it they are forwarded promptly to the Red Cross, which is distributing the relief as fast as it can be collected. If any person reading this notice will take it as a personal appeal and send it something at once Eastland county's quota can be raised this week.

GRAF ZEPPELIN NOW ON WAY TO UNITED STATES

Was Headed Across Bay of Biscay Towards the Azores A Little Before Noon Today.

By United Press.
BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The Graf Zeppelin, with a storm reported over the Atlantic, continued on her way to the Bay of Biscay en route to the United States. The Graf reached Lyons, France, at 7:30 a. m. Eastern Standard time and was advised of the storm. At first the ship was reported to have decided to turn south toward Marseille, continuing to Gibraltar and passing westward to the south of the Azores.

A little later she changed her course and went westward to the coast of Bordeaux, apparently intending to cross the Bay of Biscay and continue to the original route via the Azores.

By United Press.
FRIEDERICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 11.—Through a misty dawn and with tail winds aiding her, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin today started on the long flight to the United States.

On the ground below, while a band played and thousands of spectators—many of whom had gathered as early as midnight—cheered as the silver-colored craft rose steadily at 7:51 a. m. and finally shot under way one minute later. The five 12-cylinder motors pulled the huge sky monster, the most luxurious air liner thus far constructed, at a speed of 80 kilometers an hour. It swung southward. The dirigible had almost disappeared when a turn was made and the craft swung back over Friedrichshafen. The crowd below cheered at the impressive sight while the passengers aboard, three of whom are Americans, dropped flowers on the hangars.

Then at 8:05 a. m. the Zeppelin again turned southward and at 8:08 a. m. it disappeared in the early morning mist.

By United Press.
BARCELONA, Spain, Oct. 11. The Graf flew over Barcelona at 6:49 p. m. which is 1:49 Eastern standard time today.

By United Press.
PARIS, France, Oct. 11.—A wireless message from Dr. Hugo Eckener picked up by a French station today informed German stations that the Graf Zeppelin intended to fly across Spain towards the Azores instead of taking the more southerly route via Gibraltar. The message said the zeppelin intended to fly across the Gulf of Lyons until south of the Pyrenees, then fly inland from Barcelona to the Atlantic coast, passing over Madrid and Lisbon.

TWO COUNTIES HOLDING JOINT SESSION HERE

Eastland and Stephens Counties Join Forces For First Time In Institute For Rural Teachers.

More than three hundred teachers from the rural schools of Stephens and Eastland counties registered Thursday morning at the opening session of the Eastland-Stephens Rural School Institute. The Eastland school, where the institute is meeting, was a busy scene Thursday, for classes were in progress while the institute was meeting. In order that the institute might go through Friday without any interruption and the best work be done, Superintendent K. D. Bittle announced that there would be no school classes Friday and the Eastland teachers will join in the institute classes.

The Rev. Frank E. Singleton, Methodist pastor, read the Scripture lesson Thursday morning, and the Rev. H. W. Wrye, Church of Christ pastor, gave the invocation. The welcoming address was given by Judge J. R. Stubblefield, taking the place of V. T. Seaberry, who was called out of town. Judge Stubblefield gave a cordial and eloquent welcome to the teachers in the rural schools and incidentally spoke in enthusiastic terms of the splendid work they are doing. The response to the welcome was given by F. H. Patterson of Paris. Dr. Roberts, president of the (Continued on Page 2).

Boy Scouts Of Lubbock Work To Save Comrade

By United Press.
LUBBOCK, Oct. 11.—Working in relays members of the Lubbock Boy Scouts used respiratory methods and fanned the spark of life in the breast of Reno Livingston, 18-year-old football star, for seven hours yesterday and last night, only to lose their fight.

Young Livingston died shortly after midnight, following an injury received in football practice, at his home at Lockney, near here, Tuesday.

Paralysis of the respiratory center of his brain resulted in Livingston's death. Physicians said that artificial respiration was the only chance to save the youth and the scouts had prepared to keep a vigil at his bedside.

NORT BEDFORD, Conn., Oct. 11.—At least one man was killed and several were injured in an explosion at a dam under construction here today by the New Haven Water company.

Reports of the explosion were meager, as all telephone lines to the scene of the accident were disabled by the blast. First accounts said several persons had been injured.

FOR BETTER GOVERNMENT.

Yale university has received a gift of $350,000 to establish a foundation for the study of government.

The university, according to President James Rowland Angell, will begin at once to study "those phases of American government which are of chief practical importance to the citizen."

Now a study of government is a valuable thing to undertake, and Yale undoubtedly will do a work of great service.

The machinery of government—the constitution, organization and so on—may be good or bad, and a searching of it, such as Yale plans to make, will be a good thing.

For, after all, we in this country can accomplish anything we choose by our votes.

The city of Philadelphia, to take an example that has been in the papers a good deal lately, has been suffering from extremely bad government.

A BIG PROBLEM.

A bulletin from the National Safety council makes the pleasing prediction that automobiles in the United States will kill 8,000 persons during the last three months of the year.

It adds that if the rate to date continues, the year's auto death toll will be well above 24,000.

It is amazing, when you stop to think about it, that these figures do not stir us into a demand for instant action.

 my feet. Besides, Craig is too good for me. Rich is more my sort. Craig has me up on a pedestal.
 When I came toppling down,
 I'd break his heart. There aren't any pedestals in Richard's life. I couldn't disillusion him—he's not that kind."

"Oh, my dear, I think you are making a mistake." There were tears in Mabel's eyes.

"Mabel Blake, don't you know it's bad luck to cry on a wedding day!"

Sybil dabbed at her own eyes.
 "I'm going to wear my gray georgette. Those roses will be heavenly against it. Hurry up, like a good girl. I can't have a maid of honor with a red nose—please, Mab. That blue crepe de chine is lovely on you, and you can wear your precious pink hat to match
 our roses. Oh, such a swanky wedding!"

Sybil was tossing things about.
 "Not much of a trousseau. Five vests, eight step-ins and a dozen pair of stockings. Two negligees, one of them mussy. Three slips, with the hem out of one, and the shoulder straps off another. Six night dresses. Too bad I haven't a white one in the bunch. Brides are supposed to wear white, are aren't they? Oh, well. . . . Remember when Erid Swallow was married she had two dozen of everything. From vests to sheets.
 And her monogram on every blessed thing."

"Sybil, your mother will have a fit."

"I know it. Poor old dear! But think of all the trouble I'm saving her—money, too."

"What will Tad say?"

"Tad?—Oh, he always said I was crazy."

"And Valerie."

"The devil with Valerie."

"Oh, Sib—Sib dear. I wish you wouldn't. You'll be sorry. I know you will."

"I'll be sorry, whatever I do,
 Mab, and I've been miserable enough. God knows, to get a break somewhere. It's too late for post mortems now."

Mabel was crying softly. Wiping her eyes ineffectually.

"If she could only see herself!"
 thought Sybil impatiently. "Come on, Merry Sunshine," she coaxed.
 "Into your glad rags. You're holding up the party."

She preened into the little glass on her washstand, and remembered Valerie, exquisitely in satin, paraded before the long mirror in her dressing table. Two girls from Malam de Coen's arranging her veil, and fixing the sweep on her train.

"Not much like Val's wedding," she remarked. "That girl had a modiste and two maids to dress her up. Get on to your job, Mademoiselle Mabelle. Tie that knot in back, will you? Bows are such a darn nuisance."

"My dear, you can see right through this skirt! Where's your pink slip? Here—hook me up in back. Now then, how do I look?"

Man Is Thrown From Track In "Nick of Time"

By United Press.
EL PASO, Oct. 10.—Bruno Hernandez, of this city, today owes his life to Ralph Smoot, engine foreman for the Santa Fe.

Hernandez was sleeping, on the railroad track near the Santa Fe bridge. Police reports said that he was drunk. A switch engine was backing down upon him.

Smoot, on the step at the back of the engine, reached down and hurled Hernandez from the track. A heel on one of Hernandez's shoes was crushed and his coat was cut by the engine wheels. He received a scalp wound when Smoot threw him from the track.

Air Mail Sought For West Texas

EL PASO, Oct. 10.—A definite program to secure air mail service for the southwest on an all-year sunshine route was launched in El Paso, Oct. 6, at a conference of the Southwest Air Mail association. The tentative airway suggested will run from New York through Louisville, Memphis, Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso and San Diego and Los Angeles.

Representatives at the meeting were instructed to secure all necessary information for presentation to the postmaster general at once. In this information will be included from each city, the average weight and count of first-class mail for three days, during one week. A formal petition from the president of the chamber of commerce of each city a letter from each mayor and from each postmaster to the postmaster general, also will be included.

Airport facilities, willingness to provide for night flying when needed and meteorological reports, are to be emphasized in the president's letters. Copies of these letters are to be sent to congressmen who will be urged to call personally at the postoffice department.

The committee which has charge of securing information and data is composed of Arthur M. Lockhart, chairman, El Paso; John B. Lyman, vice president, San Diego; Chamber of Commerce; John Philip, Dallas postmaster; Frank

PLAN COUNTY POULTRY SHOW

Dates Not Yet Definite. Three Days in December.

Plans for the Eastland County Poultry Show, to be held in Ranger in December, are already in the formation, Ben Whitehouse, vocational agriculturist, announced this morning.

Although tentative dates have been selected the final dates for the three-day exhibition of poultry and poultry products, have not been arranged. The show will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, however. It is the plan of Whitehouse and his associates, in making plans for the winter display, to have the birds placed on exhibition in a large store house here.

The committee intends to solicit the aid of merchants in allowing them to make use of one or more of their show windows during the three days of the display. Hundreds of baby chickens are to be put on exhibition. The Bank-head poultry association will aid the fair with an exhibit. Numerous feed houses and poultry farms will have individual exhibitions.

The rural districts will be canvassed for the best fowls to be displayed in the show. The cooperation of Eastland, Cisco, Rising Star and Gorman has been pledged to Ranger for the occasion.

Awards will be made in the different varieties of fowls entered in the competition.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified cresote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs cresote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to cresote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the cresote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

WINE BECOMES BIG DOWRY FOR BORDEAUX GIRLS

Popularity of Chateau Yquem in American Aid to Marriage Market.

By United Press.
PARIS, Oct. 9.—There are half a dozen young girls in the Bordeaux district whose intrinsic worth must be based upon the weight of several thousand glasses of Chateau Yquem which have been set aside by their thoughtful parents as a part of their dowry.

Before the war, Chateau Yquem was always considered the "Cinderella" of sweet, white Bordeaux wine. It comes from a remarkable small area, twice blighted by disease and brought back to health only after the experts of a dozen nations had given their advice. For the masculine French taste, the wine was entirely too sweet, and only a tiny sip with the dessert, to toast one's lady's health, was sufficient.

When prohibition sent prices of French wines skyward, Chateau Yquem was instantly recognized as being essentially for an American clientele. Within six months not a bottle was to be found on the French market, and the two largest restaurant cellars in Paris which had boasted of never failing to comply with an order, were compelled to print a notice on their menus that Chateau Yquem was no longer in their stocks.

The war-time and pre-war stocks of the famous wine were sold at 50 to 60 francs per bottle—retail, and New York millionaires did not hesitate to double the price to have it bootlegged within a specified date to their own cellars. The original bottles and labels remained, but there are whispers in the French wine trade that there was considerable "softening" done by adding quantities of lower grade Bordeaux.

This year the entire harvest of the Chateau Yquem grapes was bought before they had even seen sunshine. There will be less than 100 "tonneaux," each containing 300 litres of the precious beverage and the price per bottle—wholesale—will considerably exceed 100 francs. By the time it reaches a connoisseur's table, this price certainly will be doubled.

In the Chateau Yquem zone there are only about 10 growers, and they have decided that in their "unseen harvest sales," they are to retain for their family use, not

WIVES COSTLY IN SIBERIA, SO THEFTS BEGIN

Buriats' Practice Continues Despite Government Decreases Against Stolen Maties.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Wives come high among the Buriats in Siberia who recently joined Mongols in destroying portions of the Chinese Eastern Railway, according to the National Geographic Society.

In recent years, the price of wives has been so high that some of the more daring Buriats steal their mates from the parental home. Two years ago the Russian government issued stern decrees against wife-stealing.

"Thefts of wives is not a traditional custom among the Buriats," according to the National Geographic Society, which adds "Marriage among them usually is affected through an exchange of children arranged by their parents."

"When the parents of a young Buriat swain decide he should have a wife, they consult the pa-

Hooks and Slides

He Don't Mean Maybe
Discussing the marathon abil-ities of ball players at the feed box, Marx Roth, traveling secretary of the New York Yankees, was quoted recently as handling the champion-ship to Rip Collins, who once pitch-ed for the New Yorks, the Detroitis and who has been hauled back re-cently by the Browns.
"Collins was the champ of all the champions I ever have seen, and I did give him the title," Roth said. "But he didn't win the crown by eating that 12-buck breakfast you told about. He got the champion-ship by good serious and steady eating day in and day out.

"He had a little bit of strategy that became an art with him. He was so good at it that it required months to know he was doing it, and he was so clever we never caught him in the act."
"You know the ball club pays the fodder bill for the athletics when they are on the road, but the ap-petites of the warriors are curbed. They are allowed—on our club—to sign checks for not more than four bucks' worth of rations per-day. And in some cases, like Rip's, four bucks' worth of gro-ceries was a painful diet. But Rip beat the game.

Tough to Be Missing

"He knew every athlete on the club, of course. He would draw up a chair near the door to the din-ing room and count the eaters as they went in to put on the bag. Sometimes one of the boys, or may-be two, three, four or five of them would pass up a meal. Rip would make a note of the number and the names of all the missing feeders, and just as the last meal gong was about to sound he would charge into the mess hall and eat for all the missing men.
"If four of the heroes didn't feel like eating that particular meal, Rip would take care of it for them.

He would order the rations that belonged to the missing men, eat them and sign their checks. And if he got a shot at the first meal of the day and there was only one missing breakfast guest, the mes-sing one might find out later that his four bucks' allowance had been ex-hausted by the check for his breakfast.
"Yes, sir, that Collins boy could eat."

Loose With His Change

The Cleveland boys "all a story about a big pitcher who, just for clarity, will be called "Big Jim."
Jim was a tremendous eater when he didn't have to pay for it, and he always liked to go to Bos-ton, where American plan meals were served and where one particu-lar old waiter took a delight in bringing the ball players extra por-tions of the whole works.
The old waiter was a very fond of Big Jim, and he knew that a great big fellow had to have plenty of victuals to go on. He would al-ways bring Jim three or four or-ders of everything on the bill and when three slabs of pie and two pots of coffee had polished off the banquet he would ask:
"Anything else, Jim?"
And Jim would always tell him:
"Slip me a little half order of more pie."
And while the waiter was going for the little hunk of more pie Jim would take the air leaving nothing behind him as a gratuity.

Sports Matter

By United Press.
Following one of the greatest seasons in baseball's history, bat-ting supremacy for 1928 goes to Rigers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, in the National League and Heinie Manush, of the St. Louis Browns, in the American League.
Hornsby finished the season with an average of .387, the leading hit-ter in both leagues. Manush's un-official mark of .382 was barely sufficient to displace Goose Goslin of the Washington Senators, for the American League leadership. Goslin finished with an unofficial aver-age of .379. It is possible that of-ficial returns will put Goslin in the van. Paul Waner, leading hitter last year was second in the Na-tional League with an average of .370.
Neither Manush or Goslin came anywhere near the figure with which Harry Heilmann won the 1927 championship with a mark of .398. The Detroit star is at his best in odd seasons. His batting for 1928 fell off 74 points to .324.
Detroit fans grumbled all during the season over the trading of Ma-nush to the St. Louis Browns. They had a perfect right to do so. Al-though Rice who came to the Tig-ers in the deal, hit near the .300 mark, Lu Blue, another player in-volved in the trade batted much better than Sweeney, Blue's suc-cessor at first base for Detroit.

Manush Led in 1927.
In 1925, Manush led the Ameri-can League in hitting, with an average of .377. Ty Cobb managed the Tigers that year and received considerable credit for Manush's development. Under Moriarty's direction last year, Manush played in 152 games and batted .299. In the belief no doubt that Manush had lost his skill at bat, he was traded to the Browns.
The value of his batting has shown in the standing of the Browns. Players capable of a .300 average are scarce on the club, and yet they finished in third place.
Hornsby, as manager of the Bos-ton Braves, has merely enjoyed an-other successful year. A natural hitter, the former manger of the world's enampions Cardinals, is al-ways among the leading hitters in the game. Last season with the Giants, Hornsby hit for .361, only to lose the leadership to young Paul Waner, who had an average of .370.

The trade that sent Hornsby to the Braves did not prove the nec-essary stimulus necessary to make a contender of the Boston team. The Braves, with the individual brilliancy of Hornsby, could do no better than seventh place, with record of fifty victories against one hundred and three defeats.

Goslin's Best Year
First class material was lacking and Hornsby was handicapped in his attempt to build up the club.
At the beginning of the season it was thought that the big bat of Hornsby would be sufficient to make a contender of a seventh place club. There was, too, a psy-chological factor in having a play-er of the Hornsby type in th line-up. But it was not to be. The Braves were a doleful lot.

Lee Allen (Goose) Goslin had his best year this season in 10 years of professional baseball. He is a consistent 340 hitter and only once since he began playing baseball for a livelihood has he fallen below the .300 mark. In 1921, his first year in the major leagues, Goslin hit .299 for the Senators. He has been in two world's series while serving under Bucky Harris, hit-ting for .344 against the New York Giants in 1924 and for .308 against the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925.

TWO WOMEN FIGHTING FOR RIVAL LEADERS

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz For Al Smith, Mrs. Wildebrandt Supporting Hoover.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER WASHINGTON—By the end of the campaign, Governor Alfred E. Smith is expected to be one of the world's most important authorities on the feminine sex. Herbert Hoover, too, is learning about women from politics. But Smith, who, incidentally, has a wife and daughters, has been receiving the more intensive education. Two women especially have been taking an important part in his political life. One has devoted years to building him up; the other has recently undertaken to tear him down. One is Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, the New York social worker, whose life's ambition is to make Smith president. The other is Mrs. Maebel Walker Wildebrandt, who for eight years has been an assistant attorney general and whose chief interest lately has been to destroy Smith politically.

Mrs. Moskowitz is older. She has had more, perhaps, than anyone else to do with the re-making of Al Smith. The two first met when Smith was vice-chairman of a legislative committee investigating sweat shop conditions such as existed before the horrible Triangle fire in New York. Up to that time Smith had little more than a capable Tammany politician. With the aid of Mrs. Moskowitz his eyes were opened to a host of social injustices.

This Jewish woman became in time his most trusted advisor concerning affairs of New York state. Under her inspiration, Smith became the champion of humanitarian legislation. Meanwhile, she developed an immense admiration for the character and ability of Al Smith. When Smith developed presidential aspirations she fostered and guided them.

One of Smith's biographers, Henry F. Pringle, has suggested that if Smith were elected Mrs. Moskowitz might become the first woman cabinet member. But Mrs. Moskowitz, obviously by her own wish, holds no public office. She is chairman of publicity for the New York state Democratic organization and has taken an important part in the pre-convention and electoral campaigns. But she works quietly. One seldom finds her name in the newspapers. Mrs. Wildebrandt has had more publicity in the last few weeks than Mrs. Moskowitz has had in her whole life. She is not regarded as one of Hoover's closest advisers, and hence does not figure as a strategist like Mrs. Moskowitz. But she has set out to defeat Smith with all the courage and burning zeal with which the other woman has applied herself to the task of getting him elected. And both are able women.

Offer To Sell Complimentary Ticket Tells Clearly the How, Why and Wherefore.

The old world, in its rush, has overlooked a financial expert; yea, a wizard at the game.

Recently when George W. Miller's "101 Show" came to Cisco, and Miller hunted his old friend, Joseph M. Weaver, and presented Mrs. Weaver with a bunch of complimentary tickets to the exhibition.

One of these tickets was given to one Charley Anthony, Eastland dusky, who works for Mr. Weaver. A few days ago the following letter, self explanatory, was received by Mr. Miller from Anthony:

"You know me, Mr. George, because I am Joe Weaver's nigger man Charley. Mrs. Weaver gave me a ticket to 101 ranch show and, Mr. George, I didn't use the ticket cause a boy friend from here saw the show in Fort Worth and told me the show was no good sept lots of horses and elephants, and I never did like elephants. And I used to work in a livery stable. Did you ever work in a livery stable, Mr. George? If you did you knup how plumb tired a boy can get of horses.

"Now, Mr. George, here is what I wanted to write you about. I didn't use the ticket Mrs. Weaver gives me and a boy told me it is worth four or six bits, and I want to give it back to you and want you to send me the six bits, maybe four bits, and next Saturday when our club meets maybe I can run the six bits or four bits up to 20 or 50 dollars. Send me the money to Charley Anthony, Box 937, Eastland, Texas. Don't send it to Mr. Joe, cause I owe him a little account and he will keep it.

"God bless you, Mr. George. Come down to see us. Good bye, your friend Charley Anthony.

"Don't send the money to Mr. Joe; send it to me. Thank you, Mr. George. The ticket is with the letter."

According to a Ponca City, Oklahoma, newspaper, the "six bits or four bits" is coming this way.

Checkbook Charity Condemned at The Lutheran Meeting

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 10.—"Checkbook charity" was denounced today by Dr. Frederick H. Knobel, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, who presented his biennial report to the convention of that body at the Luther Memorial church here.

The belief that the churches of America are undergoing a very definite process of change was expressed by Dr. Knobel.

The past tendency, he said, has been toward developing their own membership through evangelistic efforts and educating their youth in church-supported institutions but the present trend is toward unselfish works of mercy in which the Christian takes thought first of all of his fellow beings.

"Christian love," he said, "is a very thorough thing. It marks a life which is not brooding over its own miseries and does not evade care for the distresses of others, but willingly permits itself to become full of other men's troubles."

"All stress is necessary upon the fact that this mercy goes the full length in service, in that it is ready personally to administer relief. It is not what has come commonly to be known as 'checkbook charity.' All distress possesses loneliness and bitterness. Only the personal touch will heal the loneliness. Only the personal love will heal the bitterness. No help is really being offered and no relief is really being accomplished unless somehow the personal element enters in."

Twelve hundred members of the United Lutheran church have assembled for the sixth biennial convention.

From the United States, Canada and India have come 550 accredited delegates, composed of both clergymen and laymen, who will represent the 1,400,000 members of the church.

The convention will last a little more than a week and in addition to reviewing growth during the past two years will adopt legislation government its policies for the forthcoming period.

One of the subjects likely to draw most attention is a report by the sub-committee on marriage and divorce of the committee on moral and social welfare. The committee will ask the United Lutheran church to sanction divorce on the ground of "malicious desertion" as well as adultery and to bar the guilty person from re-marrying.

Episcopal Bishop In An Appeal For Religious Liberty

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—A warning against "intrusion of politics and economics in the pulpits and on the platforms of the church," was uttered today by the Rt. Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, bishop of Chicago, in a sermon opening the forty-ninth triennial general convention of the Episcopal church.

Bishop Anderson made an impassioned plea for religious liberty, hailed the achievements of science as "the crowning glory of the twentieth century," and sharply rebuked secularism and intolerance with the scornful question: "Are men to be compelled by law to teach their children a special brand of religion?" In his closing passages he severely took his own church to task for not meeting the "vital problems of the age."

The convention sermon which is a triennial event in the Anglican communion marked the beginning of a fortnight's session of the supreme body of the Episcopal church in the United States. In the audience at the National cathedral at Mt. St. Alban were 125 bishops of the church from all parts of the world, 800 clerical and lay deputies and 500 delegates from the woman's auxiliary together with an audience of several thousand church members and visitors. Bishop Anderson's reference to politics in his sermon. Defining religion as an intensely personal thing as well as an intensely social thing, he said that "there is no sphere of human conduct, whether in society or business or politics, in which the follower of Christ can detach himself from his religion." The bishop then added: "You will not construe this as a plea for the intrusion of politics and economics in the pulpits and on the platforms of the church. The church has something more important to do. It is one thing, however, to bring party politics and economic theories into the range of church activity. It is a vastly different thing to bring the forces of religious conviction and experience into action in our social and political life. Party politics, pollute religion, but religion purifies politics."

"Whenever the church spends its energies on social and political reform, or undertakes to fight the world's political and social battles by using the world's weapons, or identifies itself with the world in the hope of producing a glorified human society by external pressure, the result will inevitably be a loss of morals. It is beginning at the wrong end. It is patching up the machinery of society which may work today and break down tomorrow, instead of reconstructing the motives of men."

"The church as such does not know political parties nor economic theories."
