MAVERICKS WIN THEIR FIRST GAME OF THE SEASON

Auto Parade and Show To Be Great Attraction

SIXTEEN MAKES OF CARS TO BE IN EXHIBITION

They Will Be Grouped About Courthouse Square and Will Present Interesting Array.

Such an automobile show as never before was seen in the Oil Belt is to be held in Eastland next Thursday afternoon, according to plans being made by the automobile dealers in Ranger, Cisco and Eastland. They met Saturday morning in Eastland and perfected plans.

It has been decided to rope off the entire square and assign four dealers to each side. This will permit about 60 feet front foot space for the exhibit of each dealer. Cars will be parked parallel to the sidewalk and each dealer will group together the same make of car. Assignments of space have been made as follows:

For the Auto Show. North side of square, Lamar to Seaman—Studebaker, Pontiac and Oakland, an open space not yet assigned and Oldsmobile.

East side, Main to Commerce—G. M. C. truck, Nash, Chrysler, and Ford.

South side, Seaman to Lamar—Buick, Chevrolet, Whippet and Reo.

West side, Commerce to Main—Graham truck, Durant, Hudson-Essex and Dodge.

All the dealers have brought in new cars especially for the auto show.

Line of Parade.

It has been decided that the automobile parade will enter on North Lamar street from Moss street, and the dealers will group their cars and other cars of the same make will form for the parade on the following streets: Durant cars, North Green St.

Escaping Convict Kills and Wounds Deputy Sheriffs

WOODVILLE, Texas, Sept. 22.—The surrounding country was being scoured by officers today for trace of Jim Johnson, 55, escaped Louisiana convict, who shortly after midnight last night killed Deputy Sheriff L. N. Walker and wounded Deputy Ben Walker in a gun battle.

The officers, with Sheriff H. B. Ogden, and Deputy Game Warden LaRoe had gone to Jackson's house near Spurgr, 12 miles southeast of here, to arrest him. As they approached, LaRoe called to Jackson to come out.

"All right, wait a minute," the man answered.

The Walkers, in the meantime, had gone to the rear of the house and within a minute after Jackson's answer a pistol shot rang out, District Attorney C. E. Smith said in telling of the gun battle.

LaRoe and Ogden rushed to the rear and saw the guns flash, but were not able to fire because they could not determine who was shooting in the darkness.

Jackson fired one shot from a pistol and then grabbed a shotgun, Smith said. Three pistol bullets aimed at L. N. Walker missed him, but a charge from the shotgun entered Walker's right side and he died an hour later.

Two Trainmen Die In Train Wreck

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 22.—Engineer C. J. Williams and Fireman Fred Smith of an Illinois Central passenger train were killed at Gowdy, Miss., near Jackson today and Conductor W. M. Martin and two colored waiters were slightly hurt, when the engine, dining car and two pullman coaches were derailed, according to information received by local officials of the railroad.

No passengers were said to have been hurt in the wreck, the details of which were lacking.

The engine turned over after leaving the rails but the diner and other cars remained upright.

CLUB WOMEN AT EASTLAND COUNTY FAIR

They Will Assist in Showing Cooking, Canning and Sewing Exhibits.

By MRS. W. K. JACKSON
As in the past, the clubwomen of Eastland have responded nobly to the call of the sponsors of the Eastland County Fair, which opens in Eastland next Thursday morning, and continues through three days, with entertainment each night of the fair.

A clever and picturesque arrangement for exhibits has been perfected by Miss Ruth Ramey, Eastland county home demonstration Agent, who has been engaged in many activities for weeks, correlating the cloth, textile cooking and canning output of rural community clubs, and adjusting them in such a shape that they might be a concrete exhibition in each classification and arranged to appear behind the big plate glass windows of the stores around the square.

Miss Ramey said that all intending to exhibit must look through the catalog and see if the articles they wish to enter are listed, for only such as are listed may be entered.

These catalogs may be found at the chamber of commerce and may be had upon application. No article will be accepted for exhibition after noon on Thursday, by which time everything must be in place.

Mrs. Earle Johnson, president of the Civic League, is chairman of the cloth, textile and canning exhibits.

Prizes will be awarded in cooking, canning and sewing departments and ribbons will also be awarded.

The canning exhibits will be shown in the long plate glass window of T. L. Fagg store, and will be hosted by Mmes. Jack Williamson, R. E. Sikes and W. E. Chaney.

The cloth and textile, and fancy work will be shown in the large window at Preslars and hostesses will be Mmes. W. E. Stalter, Luther Bean, E. C. Satterwhite and James Horton.

An adequate place is yet to be found for the cooking exhibits, which, on account of the cakes and pies, must be closed in by glass. This department will be hosted by Mmes. Grady Owen, Joseph M. Perkins, and I. J. Killough.

The exhibits around the square are expected to attract hundreds of visitors to Eastland, not only on account of the novelty of a fair arranged in this way, but also drawn by the various street attractions that will enliven the city.

A short time ago the Better Homes Committee had the cooperation of the merchants in arranging their show windows in special displays and also the Garden Week of the Civic League, held show windows in special exhibits through several seasons exhibits proved attractive to visitors.

AL TRYING TO WIN COLORADO FOR DEMOCRATS

Hopes To Widen Split of Republicans In That State By Stand On Water Power Issue.

Aboard Gov. Smith's train en route to Denver—Sept. 22.—Governor Al Smith invaded Colorado today for his discussion of waterpower, an issue he will emphasize strongly in his appeal for Western votes and on the more immediate mission of injecting renewed enthusiasm into Colorado Democrats by a personal appearance.

Colorado is one of the seven States in one of the two major waterpower projects pending before Congress and Democrats believe their prospects in the state are unusually good this year.

Their hopes are based on factional troubles among Republicans whose seriousness became apparent several weeks ago when Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, made a trip to the State, his home State, to smooth over the friction.

It is the New York governor's second visit to Denver. His other visit was 20 years ago when he attended the Democrat National convention in Denver in 1908. At that time Smith was a rising young member of the New York assembly.

Canadian Police Must Have Papers To Hold Prisoner

CALGARY, Canada, Sept. 22.—Chief of Police Dave Ritchie of Calgary, announced today that he will release Mrs. Louise Northcott in 24 hours unless he receives a warrant for her arrest.

Mrs. Northcott has been held here since Wednesday for Riverbank, Calif., police. Local police have received no papers to warrant her detention.

"We have held her three days and have received no instructions from anyone," Ritchie said. "We have no charge against her and unless some word is received within 24 hours, we will set her free. Our only information since we had a request from the Vancouver police to arrest the mother of Northcott we have had to obtain from newspaper accounts."

Loree Barred From Holding Office of Director of Katy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has revoked a previous order authorizing L. F. Loree, railway executive, to hold a position as director of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad company.

Rejection of Loree's directorship application was based on his holding at the same time directorship in the Kansas City Southern, a competing railroad.

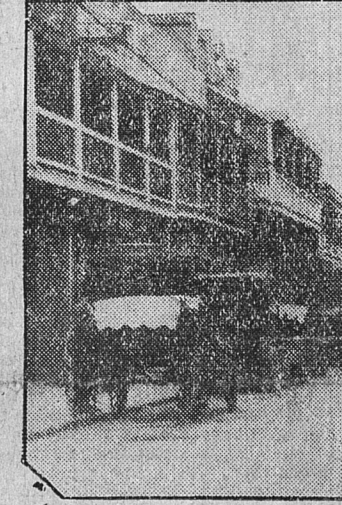

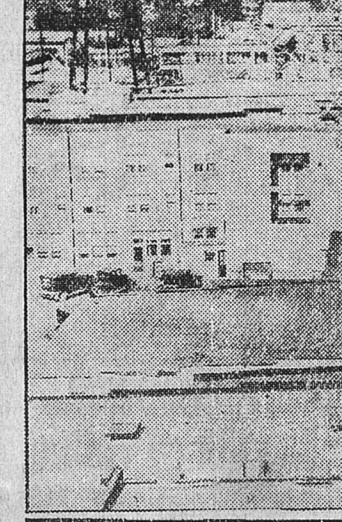

Acquisition by the Kansas City Southern of 250,000 shares of stock in the Katy was held by Loree's occupancy of a directorship on the latter road.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Removal of L. F. Loree from directorate of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad will not affect his intention to merge the Katy, Kansas City Southern, and the St. Louis, Southwestern, Loree said today.

President Calls To Lead New Party

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22.—President Calles may continue actively in Mexican politics despite his insistence that he has retired permanently from the presidency, was reported today.

Enthusiastic fans and Eastland High football players attended the get-together dinner in the Connell Hotel Saturday night, nearly one hundred were there, about 30 players and the balance of them fans.

A splendid dinner was served following which Kenneth B. Tanner, president of the school board, acting as toastmaster, called for brief talks from Superintendent P. B. Bittle, Coach Joe Gibson, City Manager H. O. Tatum, Walter Cantrell, John Mouser, member of the school board; Jack Williamson, head of the Athletic Council, Marshall McCullough, whose son is on the Maverick team; R. L. Speer, principal of the high school; Miss Mone Harlin and Maverick Captain Joe King.

The football boys were assured that the whole city is staunchly behind them and they were encouraged to make up their minds to win, to play the game fairly, and to go to the end.

The evening wound up with three prizes given by the football players to their entertainers.

BOOTLEGGERS PAY POLICE TO BE PROTECTED

Graft Revealed In Philadelphia and Grand Jury Making Further Investigations.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—The number of police members involved in the bootlegging graft has been enlarged by the securing of a second detailed list of men paid for protection, District Attorney Monaghan has revealed.

The second list taken by county detectives elaborated the amount of money and the names of the officers paid. A previous list had been seized when county detectives, headed by Patrick McKewen, raided an alleged bootlegging headquarters. Further evidence of police graft was obtained late yesterday by the grand jury investigating the Philadelphia alcohol ring.

The records showed one policeman deposited more than $5,000 in a bank between May 3 and Sept. 4 and then withdrew it after several captains had been called before the investigating body. Another record showed that a policeman earning $5.50 a day had deposited between $25,000 and $27,000 in less than three years.

EASTLAND HI VICTOR OVER CROSS PLAINS

Score Six to 0. Game Played In Sea of Mud With Rain Falling Steadily.

Fighting in a sea of mud, the Eastland Mavericks put over a touchdown in the second quarter and thereby defeated the Cross Plains Buffalos Saturday, 6 to 0, in the opening game of the season.

A slow cold drizzle was falling when the game began and the same chill rain was still trickling down when the game ended. A minute or two after the struggle began, the ball was coated with mud and soon the players of both sides were mud-stained from head to foot.

The field was too soggy and slippery to permit of real running, and passing was almost out of the question—the ball was too slippery to throw, the footing was too treacherous for the receiver to get down the field and if he did succeed in reaching the desired point, the ball slid from his hands. Punting was difficult.

Scores Touchdown
Norton, youthful Eastland half back, scored the lone touchdown on the prettiest play of the day. After Eastland recovered a Cross Plains fumble, Norton—on a criss cross—went around right end and was clear of all the Buffalos except the safety man before the visitors realized what happened, and sidestepping the safety man, Norton, completed a 40-yard run for a touchdown. Cheatham's place kick was low. It was the first Eastland touchdown since the field was dedicated last year.

The first half was all "Eastland" Norton tackled the Buffalo punt receiver so hard he fumbled and McCullough, of the Mavericks, recovered. A pass, Connie Smith to Norton, was good for a first down but the Mavericks advance was stopped on the 15-yard line. After an Eastland punt, Cross Plains was forced to kick and the punt was blocked and recovered by the locals on the Buffalo 25-yard marker. Again, the Mavericks were stopped and the ball went to Cross Plains on downs. Cheatham of Eastland recovered a Buffalo fumble on the visitor's 25-yard line.

Visitors Strong
Early in the second quarter, the touchdown was scored. Soon after the third quarter got under way, Bennett, Buff quarter, broke loose off right tackle for 15 yards, for the only substantial gain of the day for the invaders. For much of that period, the ball was on the 50-yard line in Eastland's half of the gridiron but Cross Plains never got in threatening position at any stage of the game.

McCullough made two nice runs and Allen hit the line for a number of gains. A gain-sized shivered and chered. Starting lineup:
EASTLAND Cross Plains
Foster L. E. Carmichael
Mansengale L. T. Harlow
Taggart L. G. Maddox

Moser R. C. McDermott

Baptist College May Have To Close

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 22.—The $1,000,000 shortage in the fund of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board, may result in the closing of Jonesboro College here, President J. M. Malloy told the student body today.

The college is supported by the home mission board and, according to word from Atlanta, at least $15,000 must be raised locally at once if the college is to remain open.

At a meeting of the chamber of commerce and college officials it was decided to launch a drive for the money in order to keep the 500 students enrolled here.

OBSERVATIONS.

Unfair tactics in politics defeat their own purpose. For instance when Governor Smith went to Omaha, he was confronted by a "questionnaire" in the local newspapers. The questions were worded in such a way that it was thought if the governor answered them, he would lose votes and if he failed to answer them, he would be accused of lack of frankness. But he did answer them and in a clear, straight-forward manner. Did the men who addressed these questions to the democratic nominee address the same questions to the republican candidate? They did not—or if so, Hoover has not answered.

Did the Texas "dry" leader who sent questions to Governor Smith asking him if he drank and if so how much and how often, send like questions to Herbert Hoover? If the dry leader did, he failed to announce it. We would like to know why the Texan is not interested in finding out whether the statement credit to Hoover—that it is very difficult to become intoxicated on beer—was based upon hearsay.

To those who declare "Hoover was good enough for Woodrow Wilson and he's good enough for me," a reply is made by Josephus Daniels, who was secretary of the navy in President Wilson's cabinet. "Hoover has turned his back on Wilson," said Daniels. "Though Wilson gave Hoover his chance, without which nobody would ever have heard of Hoover in the political world or in public life, Mr. Hoover writes thousands of evasive sentences in his speech of acceptance and in subsequent addresses but does not dare mention the name of his great benefactor whom once he hailed as chief and leader."

The Independent ought to change its name. The name "independent" is meaningless when used to designate a republican campaign organ. It seeks to justify Coolidge's Nicaraguan policy by comparing it to the invasion of Mexico by Pershing when Woodrow Wilson was president. We never heard that any Nicaraguan Pancho Villa invaded the United States, raided a town and killed American citizens. A nation that would not resent such an outrage and violation of its territory as the Columbus, N. M., affair is lacking in manhood and courage.

We are indebted however to the Independent for some information which, as it is not favorable to the G. O. P., must have gotten into the magazine's columns through an oversight and doubtless the editorial assistant responsible is no longer connected with the publication. "Among those named by Herman Hubert Work of the republican national committee to certify Senator Charles Curtis of his nomination as vice president," says the Independent, "was A. M. Redmond, a negro. And A. M. Redmond, along with Perry W. Howard, his brother S. D. Redmond, relative and law partner of Howard, Ed L. Patton, negro republican leader at Jackson, Miss., J. Scott Hubbard, suspended white United States deputy marshal at Biloxi, J. C. Tannehill, former white deputy marshal at Sumnersville, Miss., and William Miller, postmaster at Wiggins, Miss., also white, were indicted by the Mississippi grand jury recently."

Secret Society is Cause of Furore in Childhood Circles

SALT LAKE CITY.—A diminutive shower of strange notes, bearing crude skulls and crossbones, has revealed to police the presence in Salt Lake City of a new organization, sacredly secret, and for a time in the throes of a membership drive.

Police investigation, carried on intensively by Detectives W. N. Brinton and F. C. Anderson, divulged the fact that the name of the secret monarch is no other than the "Royal Whooper Jamboryyyy," and that the organizers are Willa McRea, 13, and her brother, Will, 14, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McRea of the Isidor apartments.

Information concerning this embryonic secret order was made known to the police by Mrs. Henry Sinclair, No. 1920 Belmont avenue. Her two daughters, Cora, 12, and Mary, 10, and two playmates, Evelyn Street, 14, and Zelma Street, 9, were passing the Isidor apartments, when a piece of paper fell to the pavement. Youthful curiosity caused the quartet to examine the paper. It read:

"Go to the window over where it says ISIDOR apartments and shut your eyes and see what happens. We swear you will have nuthin hapen. Cum at Nine o'clock and receive further instructions. Be careful that you follow instructions or the Royal Whooper Jamboryyyy will get you. You are watched. Bewhere. If you are careful, we will let you in the deth club. Then the mysterious 'I' will initiate you."

A second note fell, before the frightened children could learn the origin of the first epistle:

"If you wish to become a member of this grate organization," it read, "cum to the side door around the corner from the grocery store. Cum alone. Precent this and you will be admitted. Do not tel yur parents or the police. Do not betray us or you will be marked forever as a coward."

It was signed "One of the Mysterious 'I's," and a generous quantity of ink had been used in recording the skull and crossbones—the secret symbol of the organization.

The four girls reported the information concerning the membership drive of Whooper Jamboryyyy's Death Club to Mrs. Sinclair and she in turn reported the matter to the police. Last night the police added their report, and, according to them, there is now one organization in Salt Lake City that has discontinued seeking members by air.

COURTHOUSE IN SUIT.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The municipal courthouse here, built on land donated by August Chouteau and Judge J. B. C. Lucas in 1825, may become the object of a $1,500,000 court action.

The ancient structure, which now houses the records of the world-famous "Dred Scott case" and which figured in Winston Churchill's "Crisis," is about to be abandoned for a new $4,000,000 structure.

Heirs of Chouteau and Judge Lucas indicated they planned to sue for recovery of the land, which was given to the city more than 100 years ago on the condition that it be forever retained as a courthouse site.

A legal opinion has been handed down by city authorities that separation of St. Louis from St. Louis county in 1876 automatically abrogated the perpetual condition of the gift.

FACTS CONCERNING THE RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE

(From Ranger Times)
By H. S. VON ROEDER, Dean.
There seems to be some misunderstanding concerning the standing of the Junior College of Ranger, due to unwarranted statements and malicious propaganda circulated by enemies of the school. Some of these misstatements of facts have been traced to a solicitor of students for a small neighboring college. Because of the circulation of such falsehoods, it seems that a true statement of facts concerning the junior college is due the public.

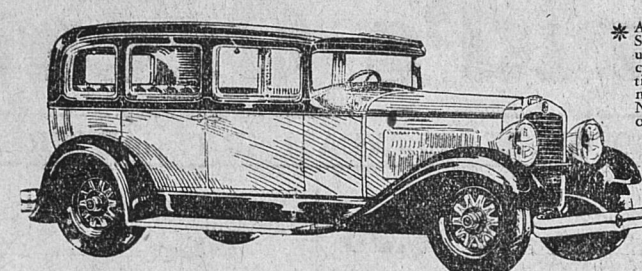

The Junior College of Ranger was voted a full-fledged member of the Texas Association of Colleges and Universities at its last regular meeting in April of 1928. This affiliation absolutely guarantees a student that any work done in this institution is acceptable at full value by all other members of the association, which includes all the teachers' colleges, T. C. U., S. M. U., Baylor, Rice, A. & M., and the University of Texas. The work in this institution was indeed highly commended and no adverse criticism whatever was offered by the executive committee of the association. There is a provision, however, which states that so long as a junior college does not enroll as many as 60 students during the year, students may be required to do a little additional work before being admitted to full advanced standing in a senior college, but in no case may they be required to do more than two-fifteenths of the total number of hours completed in the junior college or only about one extra course in the two years' work. A good student may easily do the extra work in the junior college itself and thus be admitted to full junior standing in the best of the colleges upon completion of the two years' work here. But, as a matter of fact, most colleges do not require students transferring from the Junior College of Ranger to do any extra work. As proof of this statement, attention is called to the fact that Prof. J. C. Bachman and Mrs. George F. Nelson, who took second-year French in the junior college last session, were given full credit at the University of Texas toward their degrees this summer. Likewise S. M. U., Texas Tech, and other leading colleges over the state have accepted work done here at full value this fall and many others have signified their willingness to do so.

Not only is the Junior College of Ranger a member of the Texas Association of Colleges and Universities, but it has also secured membership in the American Association of Junior Colleges, and it has, furthermore, been rated as a

THE WORLD HAS A NEW AND FINER MOTOR CAR

* Art Goebel won the Dole Race from San Francisco to Hawaii, then he hung up a new record for a Coast to Coast continuous flight, with a twin ignition, high compression, valve-in-head motor. And then he bought a new Nash "400," to get the same kind of performance from his motor car.

Special Six "400" Sedan $1345 f. o. b. factory fully equipped

It was a Twin-Ignition Motor that carried Lindbergh over the Atlantic, Goebel * over the Pacific, Byrd over the Pole!

In history-making flights Lindbergh, Byrd, Goebel* and a host of others have established dramatically and conclusively the superiority and reliability of twin ignition, high compression, valve-in-head motor performance.

And all three principles are combined in the great new Nash Twin Ignition Motor which powers every Nash "400" Special and Advanced Six model.

The Nash Twin Ignition Motor, with two ignition coils instead of one, two spark plugs (airplane type) to each cylinder instead of one, 360 speeds a second instead of 180, at top speed, burns the highly compressed gases more thoroughly and economically.

The result is more power from less gasoline, and ordinary gasoline at that. No special, high priced fuels are required for the Twin Ignition Motor.

Once you drive the great new Nash "400," you are certain never to be contented with the performance of older types of motors.

first class college by the state department of education. Elementary and high school certificates of the first class are granted to students of the Junior College of Ranger under the same conditions and upon completion of the same amount of work required of any other college in the state.

These are the bare facts concerning the standing of the Junior College of Ranger. People are urged to verify them and help to build in Ranger a high school and junior college second to none instead of knocking on your very best and most helpful institutions. Take advantage of the splendid opportunities of giving your boys and girls the very best of college training for the first two years, while keeping them at home and saving yourselves and Ranger thousands of dollars each year.

Serious Charge Has Been Filed

A "John Doe" warrant charging attempted criminal assault upon a 15-year-old Ranger girl was issued in Justice of the Peace J. N. McFadden's court this morning. Chief of Police Jim Ingram went to Fort Worth following the issuance of the warrant to investigate concerning a car. Ingram this morning in telling of the charge, said the alleged offense of attempted assault was committed Wednesday afternoon. The girl, a pretty high school student, told Ingram that she was walking to town from her home when the man offered her a ride.

According to the girl's story, she accepted the offer and the man drove to a secluded spot off the Caddo highway where he attempted to assault her.

She got out of the car, took the license number and walked back to Ranger. She described the car as being a "blue sedan." This morning Fort Worth officers informed Ingram that the car had been traced and the owner's identity learned.

The girl's description of the man did not, however, correspond with the owner of the automobile found in Fort Worth.

Ingram said this morning that he intended to find out, if possible, who had the car in this section of the county at that time.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21.—A war on loud mufflers which adorns many cars now, was declared by Corporation Judge Cullen Bailey when he announced that in the future, "all fines would come fast and heavy." "Almost all the new cars now being sold have long exhaust pipes with a butterfly cut-out arrangement on them which can be opened at the driver's will," Judge Bailey said. "They are becoming a nuisance and I intend to enforce the city ordinance in the future, though fines paid so far have not exceeded $5."

Police Chief Henry Lee then issued instructions to all patrolmen to "ticket" violators.

CHINESE LEADER
 SEEKS TO TRIM
 MARITAL COSTS

Extravagant Dots and Other Large Expenses Will Be Eliminated.

SHANGHAI.—A blow at high-priced marriages in China has been struck by the nationalist minister of the interior, Hsieh Tu-pi, who has issued instructions governing marriages by his civil commissioners throughout China.

The instructions of the minister were issued in response to a petition by the Dutch East Indies Chinese who claim that the communist roubles in South China, especially in Fukien, Kwangtung and Hunan, are due to the communist call for marriages without cost, which appeal strongly to the financially pressed youth.

Marriages in the southern provinces are extravagant affairs, parents looking to their daughters as if they were pieces of real estate, worth a certain amount on the marriage market but generally the parents ask dots of at least $300 to $400 for their daughters.

If the marriage efforts are successful, further expenses are incurred for the marriage ceremony expenses, wedding feasts and the services of the go-between which generally bring the cost up to $1,000. As a result of such expenses, it is no unusual thing nowadays to see a man of 30 or 40 years of age remaining single—a liserace in Chinese eyes.

The nationalist government now has decided that the parents of marriageable girls will not be permitted to receive more than $150 from the man who proposes, but if the girl as a widow the bargain money should not exceed $100.

The minister of the interior, in his notification, points out that buses occur in matrimonial practices in China, and he requests the assistance of the provincial authorities to help him to cheapen and facilitate marriages in the country.

NEGRO SEWING CIRCLE
 ENTERTAINS OLD FOLKS

The sewing circle of the Little Rock Baptist church, colored, of which Janie White is president, highly entertained the old people with a feast on last Thursday evening, in the home of Sarah Eason.

There were expressions of gratitude from each one present. Negro hymns were sung, and prayers of thanksgiving were offered. There were many visitors present and all seemed to enjoy the occasion. The circle and its members are encouraged in their work, and for membership the old people in such number.

Ten-Gallon Hats Rule at Western Season's Last Big Rodeo.

By BEN E. TITUS
 United Press Staff Correspondent
PENDLETON, Ore.,—Cries of "Let 'er buck"—"Yip, Yip Yip," rent the air; bucking rearing horses swept in and out between automobiles; most popular male attire consisted of ten-gallon Stetsons, lurid-colored shirts, high-heeled boots—the 19th annual Pendleton Round-up began today.

Cowboys and cowgirls, bulldozers, ropers, fancy riders, stage coach drivers, and Indians are here and for the next four days this will be the "cow capital" of the west.

The track and arena events were to start late today as were the contests for the Roosevelt trophy, awarded by the Police Gazette to the best all-around cowboy at the Cheyenne Frontier Days and Round-up. Bob Croby won it last year for the second time and is a favorite to repeat. Thirty-odd other qualifiers from Cheyenne were ready to start.

Mary Duncan, Fox film star, ruled the city and Happy Canyon as Queen of the Roundup. That honor was held last year by Mabel Strickland, world's champion cowgirl, who will defend her title again this year.

Two big cow outfits, the Charley Irwin and Eddie McCarty groups will provide many of the performers and horses, although the horses used in the bucking contests are all owned by the round-up association.

Some of these are veterans who are known as bad ones and killers. Some are new. Ten outlaws which have never been successfully "forked," have been brought from the ranges of the John Day country. The steers used in the roping and bulldogging contests are imported from Mexico.

The 10-gallon hat is supreme and the man without one, be he local or visitor, is conspicuous. Locally the hats have been worn regularly by the entire male population since Sept. 1. This is a custom established many years ago. Women, too, affect the cowgirl costumes and the rivalry for vivid colors is keen.

The Round-up, last big rodeo of the western season, will end Saturday night.

Why is it that a dentist, after gagging a man, always seems to have some important question to ask?

PIGEON IS THE CULPRIT

PHILADELPHIA.—Returning home from his vacation, Robert Ransford opened his front door and pushed on the light. Such a scene of destruction met his eyes, that he beat a hasty retreat and went to the nearest drug store to call the police.

Two officers answered the call for assistance post-haste. They cautiously opened the front door and found draperies avry, curtains torn to shreds and pictures and vases scattered over the floor.

The officers advanced with drawn guns and cautious steps to search the lower part of the house for the vandals which they were certain must be present. They found nothing but confused wreck and age.

Upstairs they found lamps overturned, bureau scarfs pulled off, and in the bath-room, bottles broken on the tiled floor.

In the back-room they discovered the culprit—a very tired and very hungry pigeon asleep on the bed post.

When it was assured that no valuables were missing, it was concluded that the bird had sought shelter in the fire place chimney and had been unable to find its way out again.

their nets and lines. Evidence gathered so far indicates that the principal food fishes are stay-at-home fellows, officials said today. Cod, haddock and mackerel tagged and released were recaptured in many cases only a few miles from the place of their first capture.

Mackerel tagged off the North Atlantic coast of the United States were found to be migrating to the New Jersey coast during the winter, and returning to the vicinity of Cape Cod in the spring. Codfish tagged near Shelbourne Nova Scotia, moved only a few score miles in a year, but haddock were found to have traveled about twice this distance, chiefly to the northwest.

Salmon Most Mysterious.
The tagging of salmon, the great sea-product of the Pacific coast and Alaska, has revealed part of the life-story of this most mysterious of fishes. The salmon spawn in the upper parts of fresh water rivers, and at the age of a year goes down-stream to the sea. It disappears into the ocean's depths for a period of two to five years. Where it stays no one knows. Salmon have never been caught far out in the ocean, but they must be there, for during the tages they have never been found near shore.

An ordinance regulating the time for the payment of all taxes levied for the support of the city, providing that no demand for such taxes shall be necessary in order to enforce collection; providing that said taxes shall be paid in cash; setting forth the time after which the taxes shall become delinquent; providing for payment of taxes in two equal annual installments, and providing that failure to pay the first installment shall cause the second installment to become immediately due and delinquent; providing for a penalty on delinquent taxes of ten per cent of the amount due plus one per cent per month or fraction thereof for each month said taxes shall remain delinquent and all costs and expenses of collection; providing that the entire amount of taxes for any current year may be paid at any time after October first of such year; providing that the holding of any portion hereof to be invalid shall not affect the validity of any other portion; and declaring an emergency and providing that this ordinance shall become effective from and after the date of its passage and publication as required by law.

WHEREAS, the constant increase in delinquent taxes due to the City of Eastland has become a matter of serious alarm, and WHEREAS, the non-payment of said taxes when due is in a large measure to the fact that under existing laws city taxes become due and payable at the same time the State, county and school taxes are due and payable, hereby making it difficult for the tax-payers of moderate means to pay all of the taxes rendered against their property at the same time, and it has been deemed highly advantageous and for the benefit of said tax-payers to change the time of payment for said city taxes and in addition thereto divide said taxes into two equal annual installments instead of making all of said taxes due at one time, and WHEREAS, upon the changing of the date of said payment there will be no occasion for the failure to pay said taxes when due, and as a special inducement it is the desire of the City Commission to increase the penalties heretofore existing against delinquent tax-payers,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF EASTLAND, TEXAS:

Section I.
Taxes, When Due.—All taxes for the support of the city under and by virtue of the charter and ordinances, as well as the state laws, shall hereafter become due and payable in two equal installments. The first installment shall be due and payable on the first day of October of each year, and the second installment shall become due and payable on the first day of April of the ensuing year following the year for which said taxes are levied.

it is made the duty of the tax-payer to attend at the office of the City Tax Collector and make payment of such taxes in cash as herein provided.

Section III.
Delinquent Taxes Defined.—The first installment of taxes required to be paid for the current year shall become delinquent on the first day of December of said year, and the second installment of said taxes shall become delinquent on the first day of June of the succeeding year; provided, that should any tax-payer permit the first installment of his taxes to become delinquent, as herein provided then and in that event the second installment shall also immediately become due and delinquent, and the penalty hereinafter prescribed shall attach to the entire amount of taxes due for the year.

Section IV.
Penalties.—Should any tax-payer permit his taxes to become delinquent as herein provided and against him and become a part of said taxes, which penalty shall be as follows: Ten per cent of the amount then due, plus a further penalty at the rate of one per cent per month or portion thereof for each month thereafter on the amount due. And in addition to the penalties above prescribed said delinquent tax-payer shall be subject to the payment of all costs and expenses that may be incurred in the advertising of said delinquent property and the collection of said taxes through any of the methods prescribed by the charter or any of the city ordinances or statutory laws of the State of Texas.

Section V.
Option of Tax Payer to Pay all Taxes October First.—Nothing herein shall prevent the payment by any tax-payer of the entire amount of taxes due for the current year at any time after the first day of October of said year.

dinance shall be cumulative with all previous ordinances, except in so far as such previous ordinances and laws or sections thereof shall be in direct conflict with this ordinance, and as to such portions, sections or ordinances which shall be in direct conflict same are hereby repealed in so far as such conflict exists.

Section VII.
Unconstitutional Clause.—Should any section or part of a section of this ordinance be declared invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction, such decision or judgment shall not affect the remaining sections or parts of sections, but the remaining portions, parts or sections shall continue to be in full force and effect.

Section VIII.
Ten days publication as required by law.

Section IX.
When Effective.—This ordinance shall become effective from and after the date of its passage and Emergency—The facts as set forth in the preamble to this ordinance being such as to create an emergency to the extent that the rule requiring ordinances to be read at three separate and several meetings of the City Commission should be suspended; such rule is hereby suspended, and this ordinance is passed on its third and final reading and final passage, and the same shall be in full force and exist from its passage and publication as required by the City charter and its ordinances.

Passed by unanimous vote on September 10th, 1928.
I, E. W. Craig, Clerk of the City of Eastland, Texas, hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy

CHEMISTS AID IN 50 BILLION DOLLAR TRADE

Find New Markets and Uses For Products Damaged by Sudden Change

WASHINGTON.—Fifty billion dollars invested in a far-flung chain of chemical factories in the United States constitute Big Business—the biggest enterprise in the Nation. In the industry, sunlight, water, and carbon dioxide are the principal raw materials. Operations of plant and animal life are the chemical processes, and the stimulation and control of these processes are the problems of owners, investors and operators. Factory output includes finished and semi-finished products and raw material for yet other industries. The products are essential—grains, fruits, vegetables, cotton, sugar, poultry, milk, wool, hides, and other necessities. Each farm is a chemical factory.

This is a chemist's approach to the farm problem. The chemist is Dr. C. A. Browne, chief of Chemical and Technological Research, United States Department of Agriculture. Farms and farm property, he points out, represent approximately one-fifth of the tangible national wealth and pay about one-fifth the taxes. One-fifth, also, of the chemists listed in "American Men of Science" are engaged in work of an agricultural-chemical nature. "The proportion should be larger," Doctor Browne says. "There is need for wider application of chemistry to agriculture, and the problems awaiting solution are complex. In comparison with the infinitely varied and complex processes of plant and animal chemistry, the operations of an industrial-chemical factory, such as the manufacture of sulfuric acid or sodium carbonate, are relatively simple."

Acknowledging the important contributions of technical chemistry to agriculture, Doctor Browne says: "We have only to reflect upon our incomplete knowledge of the chemistry of cellulose, lignin, starch, proteins, vitamins and other constituents of crops and animals, or of some of the common processes of plant and animal life, such as photosynthesis or the production of milk in the lacteal gland, to realize the immense uncovered distance the science has yet to travel."

DEFINES CHEMISTRY
Doctor Browne defines agricultural chemistry as "that branch of chemical science which treats of the composition of soils, crops and farm animals and of the mutual chemical relations of these in so far as they concern the production of the means of human subsistence and welfare. The definition is comprehensive, for it includes not only much chemistry, but touches also on mineralogy, mycology, and other correlated sciences."

When chemists first turned attention to agriculture the importance of the scientific contribution was soon recognized. Many of the earliest directors of agricultural experiment stations were chosen because they were chemists. Chemical science had almost a monopoly of agricultural research. This no longer seems to be true, says Doctor Browne. Actually, however, chemistry has broadened its field and divided into specialties. Much of what was one under the name of chemistry is now known as agronomy, horticulture, plant physiology, or animal nutrition. Close analysis reveals these specialties as studies largely of chemical relations.

Not long ago Doctor Browne circulated a questionnaire among agricultural chemists asking their opinions as to the 12 most important contributions which chemical research has made to the prosperity of the Nation. Replies indicated substantial agreement on five services, and others had considerable support. The five included the work leading up to the passage of the Federal Food and Drugs Act; the development of accurate studies of the values of various foods for specific purposes in maintaining health and vigor, which were made possible by use of the respiration calorimeter; studies of the chemical composition, properties, and nutritive values of various crops as guides to proper feeding and diet; and the experimental use of lime to correct the sterility of acid soils.

Other developments, highly regarded by the chemists, and some of them more familiar to nontechnical readers are: Tests of fertilizers for farm crops; studies of vitamins; reclamation of alkali soils; development of the cane and beet-sugar industries; work on utilization of wastes and by-products of agriculture; investigation and development of insecticides, fungicides, serums, etc., and the investigations of the chemistry of soils.

Vitamins Studied
At present the most active subject of agricultural chemical research in the United States is that of vitamins. The Department of Agriculture is active, as are no less than 23 States and numerous educational institutions. "Agricultural chemistry," says Doctor Browne "has not advanced to the point where it can foretell the yield of a crop by a simple analysis of the soil, but it can make predictions of considerable importance and value. For example, it could have prevented the waste of money, a few years ago, in an agricultural enterprise, capitalized at $25,000,000, which operated in San Domingo and was doomed to failure from the first because the subsoil was so impregnated with salt that irrigation brought the salt to the surface and ruined the crop."

One of the most important immediate problems of agricultural chemistry, in Doctor Browne's opinion is the prevention of soil erosion although this may seem primarily a task for the agricultural engineer. The chemist can aid in maintenance of a reserve of organic matter in the soil which in turn holds water and checks erosion. One chemical aid may be found in the development of methods by which straw and wastes can be converted rapidly into products of equal value to barnyard manure. English chemists have been developing a bacterial method of accomplishing this.

Farmers will save millions of dollars through the development of concentrated fertilizers which obviate expense for bagging and for transportation of "fillers" for fertilizers. A third promising avenue is found in the use of fertilizers to improve the composition as well as the quantity of crops. Department of agriculture chemists find that sodium nitrate applied to wheat when it is heading effects an increase in the protein content and, with favorable prices for sodium nitrate and a fair differential for added protein when wheat is marketed, the practice may prove economically profitable.

Until recently, Doctor Browne explains, agricultural chemists devote most of their attention to a few of the more obvious constituents of plants and animals, the fats, carbohydrates, proteins, and some dozen elementary compounds. They believed these were the essentials for plant and animal growth. Now they recognize that other substances are essential, even though they occur in minute quantities. For example, the absence of the necessary fourteen millionth of a gram of iodine in the daily diet may subject a person to the danger of goitre. Because of this newer knowledge, chemists are finding it necessary to introduce greater refinements in their methods of analysis. It has even been suggested that man may contain in his body every known chemical element.

Agricultural chemists are also assisting the farmer to prolong the life of many articles he buys, such as leather, wood, cloth, and metals used in tools, homes, clothing and utensils, and are teaching him to prevent the spoilage of goods he offers for sale. "The marketing of agricultural products," says Doctor Browne, "is becoming more and more a question of the application of chemistry to the demands of popular taste, to disposal of surplus, and to relief of shortage. The markets for particular varieties of fruits and vegetables are widened by chemical analysis used as tests in the breeding of new strains which are richer in sugars, starches, acids, or essential oils, and so better adapted to the demand."

Chemical tests determine when fruits are ready to pick. If a ripe orange has a green skin the chemist tells the grower to expose the fruit to ethylene gas which colors it without harming its food properties. Lemon oils produce valuable by-products. Chemists have devised methods of preventing dust explosions in agricultural and industrial processes. A changing style or the substitution of another product diminishes the market for a certain crop, it sometimes happens that chemical science can point to an alternate use and save the market or develop a new use of the product which will expand demand.

In all these activities of agricultural chemists, Doctor Browne emphasizes, the laboratory is as truly an adjunct of our chemical factory system of farms as are the industrial research laboratories of industry. Photosynthesis, which is the production of organic compounds through the intersection of sunlight, water, carbon dioxide, and other chemicals, probably with the aid of the green coloring matter of plants, is as definitely a chemical process as the manufacture of dyes from coal tar. The very fact that sunlight is essential in the process prevents concentration in ownership and management. This, in turn, has called for a somewhat different system in the employment of the technical advisers which the industry requires. However, there is no essential difference in the chemical and scientific methods employed by industrial and agricultural chemists, and when farming industries, such as the California fruit growers or the dairymen, have become sufficiently organized to make feasible the employment of agricultural chemists, they have, in fact, employed them to supplement the service of the publicity employed chemists. They have hired their advisers in the same way as have highly capitalized industries. Every state experiment station, all the laboratories of the Federal Department of Agriculture, and many educational institutions are providing laboratory service, for the big 50-billion dollar chemical plant represented by the farms of the United States.

Cashes His Cash in Cottage Grate and Nearly Loses

NEW YORK.—Samuel Cahán, artist and member of the Quarter-Century association of The World is by nature a wary man. Being possessed of about $170 in currency as his vacation stay in the Cahán summer cottage at Sound Beach, Conn., neared an end Tuesday, the artist became worried for fear a prowler might come across it during the afternoon while he was swimming, especially as his wife, Mrs. Flora Cahán, was visiting in the village, and the cottage usually remained unlocked.

So he wrapped a wallet containing the money in brown paper thrust it in the fireplace, complimented himself upon his ingenuity and promptly forgot about it. Yesterday morning there was a note of pride in Mrs. Cahán's voice as she awakened him. "Sam!" she called. "Get up! Don't you think I'm industrious? Isn't the cottage warm and comfortable?" "How come?" asked Cahán sleepily. "Oh, I made a nice fire in the fireplace," she explained. "I thought you would enjoy." "What?" yelled Cahán, leaping from bed and sprinting to the fireside. "Woman, that fire will cost me!" But a corner of the wallet was visible through the flames and Cahán gingerly fished it out. The bills were nearly half consumed. Officials of the Sound Beach Trust Company advised him to take the bills, together with the ashes, to the Federal Reserve bank in Manhattan. Cahán wrapped the remains of his bankroll in paper, inclosed the whole parcel in a hat box, cut short his vacation and took his precious burden to the Government institution yesterday. There the burned currency was accepted, but Cahán was told he must submit a sworn statement concerning the accident to the Redemption Division of the United States treasury department, together with an affidavit of character from a reputable friend.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON.—All is considered fair in politics, except by certain rare men who seldom get very far.

Both sides in a national campaign customarily and to an almost incredible degree act like a lot of dumb doras.

Consider the second point first. An experienced and practical politician just remarked to your correspondent that he had never seen so many "boners pulled" by both sides in a national campaign as in the last couple of months.

At 7:30 the presiding elder, Rev. C. O. Shugart will preach. There will be a special anthem by the choir.

Sunday School at 9:45. The school has held up remarkably well this summer and is passing former records.

Prayer service at 7:30 Wednesday night. Preparations are being made at the prayer service for a visitation campaign.

The Fifth Sunday is to be observed as Home-coming day with the church. A special program is being worked out and will be announced today.

"Our summer is over and we should take hold of the church work with renewed effort. The theme of the Sunday morning hour will be 'Christ in the Clouds of Life.' Will you not make a special effort to be present next Sunday.

There are three classes of Christians who respond to the call of service: First, row boat Christians, those who have to be pushed wherever they go; second, sailboat Christians, those who always go with every breeze that blows; and third, steamboat Christians, those who make up their mind where they ought to go and go there regardless of wind or weather.

They thought it was a very difficult question, and that in answering it either one way or the other he would be sure to offend one or the other party, and thus incur enmity.

Christ plainly and emphatically answered the query, and thus in turn put one to them, which silenced them, for no man was able to answer him a word; neither durst any man from that forth ask him any more questions.

Let us meditate on the two questions, namely: (1) Put by the Pharisees—Which is the great commandment in the law? (2) Put by Christ—What think you of Christ? Whose son is he?

country. Of course, the more subterranean the charges were the more vicious they became.

The candidates and the important national campaign managers of course, do not go into personalities. But from there, on down the line, the ethical plane of the campaign sinks lower and lower.

FRENCH AFTER SMUGGLERS IN TOBACCO LEAF

Runners Across Belgian Border Pile Up Huge Profits in Weed.

PARIS.—"Baccy-runners" are doing as thriving a business along the Belgian-French frontier as the bootleggers who operate between Canada and the United States.

The fact that there have been few arrests has convinced the border police that there is a highly organized band behind the smuggling. They are said to have scouts, who attract the attention of the gendarmes by their furtive movements and suddenly abandon their baggage and return speedily to Belgium.

In many cases rivers have been torched in the dead of night, the smugglers carrying their tobacco in waterproof sacks. Automobile wheels have been packed with the weed instead of pumped with air.

One old Belgian farmer used to weave twisted leaves into his horses' manes and tails. But the biggest profit was made just after the war when the French cannons returning from the Belgian battlefields were stuffed with the weed.

Community Builder" one of a series of Lone Star Gas advertisements that appear regularly in the Ranger Times received third prize in award in the National Better Copy contest conducted Public Utilities Advertising Association.

In notifying R. A. Crawford, vice president and general manager of Lone Star Gas company, of this award, the president of Public Utilities Advertising Association wrote Mr. Crawford in part as follows:

"I take this opportunity to congratulate you upon the uniformly excellent standard of advertising released by your company. The winners in this contest embracing respectively and separately the electric, gas and transportation fields were selected from some 3600 advertisements submitted by 158 public utility companies."

In the large handsome book of 500 representative public utility advertisements published by the association, five other Lone Star Gas advertisements are reproduced in preferred position in addition to the prize winning advertisement.

This national recognition of Lone Star Gas advertising carries with it recognition of the advantages possessed by this community and many other Southwestern communities served by natural gas through the Lone Star Gas company, and is most excellent publicity for this section of the country as well as for the gas company.

LOBOS WIN FROM DE LEON, SCORE 48 TO 0

Bearcats Make Valiant Fight Against Heavier and More Experienced Team.

Playing the last half of the game in a cold drizzling rain, the Big Dam Lobos of the Cisco high school won a 48 to 0 victory over the De Leon Bearcats at Cisco Friday afternoon.

With only five letter men on the team and playing without guidance of Coach Compton, the Bearcats put up a valiant fight against the heavier and more experienced Lobos. Coach Compton was called to Dublin prior to the game on account of the illness of his mother.

The Bearcats held the Lobos scoreless in the third and part of the fourth quarters. The Lobos' regular backfield—Little, Eddleman, Kellogg and Van Horn—was on the sidelines at the time, however.

First Touchdown. "Chile" Little carried out an old Cisco custom when he took the ball in the second play of the game and sidestepped 60 yards for a touchdown. Kellogg kicked goal for the extra point.

Eddleman, Lobo fullback, counted the second touchdown when circled the Bearcats' left end 45 yards. A fumble by Nichols towards the close of the first quarter placed the ball on the De Leon 35-yard line. The Lobos were held for downs, however, and Nichols punted to the 50-yard line. Little returning the ball 25 yards. An end run by Little netted 11 yards and on a criss-cross play Little went over. Kellogg's try for the extra point failed.

At the beginning of the second quarter the ball was on the Bearcats' 12-yard line. Little on the first play circled left end for a touchdown and Kellogg booted the extra point from placement. Stovall accounted for the fifth Lobo touchdown near the end of the second quarter when he went over tackle. Kellogg kicked the extra point.

The Bearcats opened an aerial attack in the last minutes of the half, completing two for 15 yards to place the ball on the Lobos' 30-yard line. That was as close as the ball was brought by the Bearcats in the entire game.

Scoreless Quarter. Tightening up at the beginning of the second half, the Bearcats managed to hold a bunch of Big Dam substitutes scoreless. The Lobos' last year's backfield, however, was again tossed into the fray at the middle of the fourth frame and made two more touchdowns before the game was over. Eddleman crashed his way from the 31-yard line to take the ball over and Kellogg kicked goal for the extra point. A pass, Van Horn to Little netted 40 yards and a touchdown. Little made a sensational catch of the ball. Moreland, De Leon half, was the sensation of the game from a defensive standpoint. He seemed to be the only Bearcat who could successfully stem the drive of the Lobos. He downed Lobo backs nine times in succession. Sharp and Nichols also stood out for the Bearcats. Little, Anthony, Van Horn and Miller were the shining lights of the Lobos.

FOR WORTH—Forty-three embryo Frogs reported to Freshman Football Coach "Dutch" Meyer at Texas Christian University last week-end. From all over North and West Texas the new Frogs came, with only one reporting his home as being outside the Lone Star State.

The squad is one of the lightest to report in several years, and while there are a great many high school stars on the roster, most of them are backfield men and ends. Coaches Meyer and Raymond "Bear" Wolf are faced with the problem of building a line from light men.

Among the men reporting were Kenneth "Football" Moore, former Sunset High star of Dallas; Mark Boswell, Fort Worth, North Side High and North Texas Agricultural College lineman; Vance Woolwine and Haaries Greene, also North Side luminaries; Red Oliver, Pully High back; Standard Lambert, Temple; Charles Cooper, Ranger; J. W. Hinton and Gordon McMahon from Cleburne.

The first workouts of the Frogs consisted of limbering up exercises, with pass snatching and some kicking. Real work will begin this week with "Dutch" whipping his prospects into shape for the three games on the "frosh" schedule.

The roster at present includes: A. D. Weatherly, Pond; Kenneth Moore, Dallas; Hunter Hill, Lockheart; T. W. Carpenter, Waco; Ray McCullough, Bryan; Aubrey Elkins, Waco; Vance Woolwine, Fort Worth; Bark Boswell, Fort Worth;

J. W. Hinton, Cleburne; Gordon McMahon, Cleburne; Robert Polger, Dallas; Harlos Green, Fort Worth; Standard Lambert, Temple; Charles Cooper, Ranger; Richard Ragland, Handley; John Clark, Wolfe; Millard Higgins, Fort Worth; Jack Wetzel, Breckenridge; Hugh Boren, Snyder; Raymond Rutherford, Fort Worth; L. A. Doyle, Post; Lee Dorn, Colorado; Maax Hoffman, Dublin; Bill Veale, Breckenridge; E. R. Smith, Ralls; Leroy Collins, Olney; Letellier Caamp, Thorndale; C. I. Mitchell, Temple; Reeves Cothes, Seminole; R. L. Phillips, Ranger; Fred Whitaker, Carthage; Jack Williams, Longiew; Price Rumpb, Fort Worth; Ned Harris, Royce City; Oliver Morsy, Fort Worth; J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth; Skillet, Currouth, Fort Worth; Ollis Walker, Bethany, Neb.; Paul Snow, Winnsboro; Richard Oliver, Fort Worth; Earnest Ivey, Fort Worth; Hal Wright, Fort Worth, and John Lowe, Fort Worth.

The current season opens Friday, Sept. 21, with the Lions invading Rising Star. Following the Rising Star argument the Lions will be idle until Oct. 13, there being two open dates, Sept. 28 and Oct. 5. One of these dates may be filled soon, according to Coach Woodward.

CHAPTER XLVIII
Rod stepped into the tiny hall and then halted abruptly. For a few seconds he fancied he had entered the wrong house. That was absurd. This was Baker's place, all right. But what was going on? Who could be here?

"Why, Baker, of course," he told himself, though still puzzled. He'd never thought about the possibility of the man having a wife. This looked like a woman's work. But it was funny they hadn't waited until he was out of the house. Perhaps they wanted him to leave at once.

He was still in the hall when suddenly he was rooted to the spot by a greeting called out to him from the kitchen. Was this an hallucination?

"Rod, is that you?" the voice sounded, a bit shaky. "Come out and help me with the steak, will you?"

Rod moved on into the living room, feeling just as he should have felt—completely bewildered. This couldn't be! Now he knew he was the victim of his own mind. His brooding over the past had brought him to the verge of insanity.

That table. He stood staring at it, without answering the voice from the kitchen. Oh, he was still too sane for that! Of course there were no places laid for two, no gorgeous red roses, and a lace cloth.

Then he sniffed. "Oh, Lord," he groaned, "do I only imagine that heavenly smell?"

"Well, aren't you coming?" The voice from the kitchen was growing impatient—just like a wife's. For answer he moved over and touched the roses. Their feel was unmistakable. Did people imagine they felt things, too—things that weren't there? Rod had a touch of panic.

He drove out to the kitchen like a veritable madman. He would find out if he could see the owner of that voice! He could—then there was no doubt about it—he was ready for the straightjacket.

He saw her, standing before the kitchen table, fussing with a thick steak, and not trusting herself to look up at him. He lifted his arm and drew his coat sleeve across his eyes. Bertie Lou waited for him to say something. She heard only a half-suppressed sound of helpless misery that brought her head up with a jerk.

"Why, what's the matter with you?" she cried and rushed over as though she feared he was going to fall and she could save him. Her touch on his arm had a strange effect. What happened then was far from Bertie Lou's plans.

Rod simply took her and held her. Held her as a drowning man would hold to life. Bertie Lou could scarcely breathe. And she couldn't think at all. A humorous phrase came to her mind—"this is so sudden." It made her laugh. And the laugh, though it was barely audible for lack of strength behind it, was a sound of pure happiness. No, she was not thinking.

But she had to breathe, and when she finally struggled out of Rod's embrace she remembered in a rush all that she had forgotten in this last moment.

And Rod remembered too. Bertie Lou belonged to Marco Palmer. And his eyes instantly became points of anguish of the soul so intense that Bertie Lou was compelled to look away from him.

"Why did you do that?" she said brokenly.

"Because I love you, Bertie Lou," Rod answered, his voice vibrant with emotion.

"Oh, but you don't!" she cried. "If you did you never could have believed what you told Lila."

"Lila?" Rod repeated dully.

"Yes." Bertie Lou faced him with her head high and her cheeks aflame. "Lila told me what you said at Marco Palmer's house. I went to her when I learned that she had been out here. Oh, Rod!" she hurried on in a rush, "how could you believe such a thing?"

Rod stared at her a moment in dumb questioning. Then: "My God, what a blind fool I've been," he exclaimed bitterly. "Bertie Lou, you will never forgive me, will you?"

Bertie Lou sank into a chair and buried her face on her arms. Rod came over and knelt beside her. "Listen to me, please," he begged. Bertie Lou did not raise her head. Neither did she draw away from the hand he put tentatively on her arm.

"I must have been mad," he went on, "but I have some excuse, Bertie Lou. I had been disillusioned, and I was sure you didn't love me. You went away in such an unaccountable fashion; you hardly wrote—just short, cool notes."

"I knew about you and Lila," Bertie Lou interrupted in muffled tones. "I found out before I went away."

"There wasn't anything to find out then," Rod said with painful honesty.

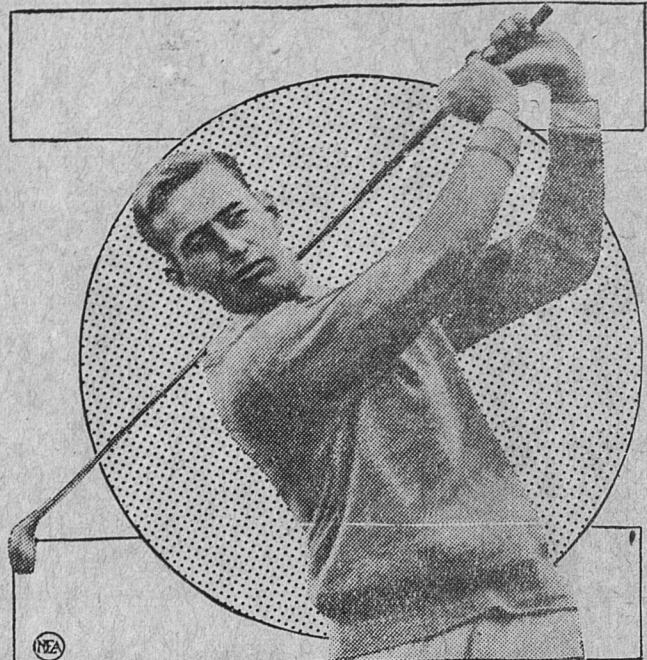

Now Bertie Lou raised her head. "You told me a lie," she charged him reproachfully. "I asked you why you were late and you said you had worked at the office, or something. And you had been to Lila's apartment!"

"Yes," Rod admitted. "I had, but I couldn't tell you why, Bertie Lou. I didn't want to worry you."

"And you were there when I called your office just after I got that telegram from home," Bertie Lou added. "I knew then that you were in love with Lila."

"No, don't say that!" Rod pleaded. "I won't lie to you again, ever, even for your own sake. Please believe me. I didn't care much for

Longest Hitter of Golf Links

Tall and wiry Phillips Finlay, the Harvard sophomore, amazed spectators at the national amateur meet by his terrific driving. He used a No. 4 iron for short holes as long as 255 yards and never took more than his drive and an approach shot to get on the green of the longest holes. But all that long driving didn't do him much good when he met the master, Bobby Jones, in a semi-final match and he was beaten, 13 to 12.

Lila then—except that I believed her a wonderful friend. Later I thought I did. But it has been you, Bertie Lou, first, last and always since I first loved you. And there was nothing with Lila that I can't tell you about."

Bertie Lou allowed him to take her hands. "Will you let me tell you why I lied to you?" he asked to break the silence in which she struggled for faith in him. She nodded.

Then Rod told her about the necklace and the bracelets. "She did that to cause trouble between us!" Bertie Lou cried at one point in the story. "Oh, Rod, if only you had told me why you had to save your money!"

"I couldn't when you came back from Wayville," he answered. "You had changed so. I mean I thought you had. I'm ashamed of it, Bertie Lou, but I didn't believe you would want to pay Lila the insurance money."

"I know. She had made you think I was a selfish little beast," Bertie Lou said.

"And you had a date the first night you were home," he reminded her.

"It surprised Marco more than it did you," Bertie Lou answered, smiling. "I never would have gone out with him if you hadn't told me you were having dinner with the Lorees."

And so they went on, bringing up their grievances, laying them, clearing away their misunderstandings and coming nearer to each other than they ever had been before.

Suddenly Rod remembered that Bertie Lou's presence in the Maker cottage was unexplained. "Tell me how you happen to be here," he urged her.

"It's where I should be," she boasted proudly. "Right in our own home!"

She enjoyed Rod's evident perplexity, but she did not keep him long in suspense. "I had this house built with the money you sent me," she told him. "Lila did us one good turn, even if she did not mean to. She forced us to save some money."

"But $2000 wouldn't build this house," Rod protested.

Bertie Lou put her hands on his shoulders and looked into his eyes. "Don't say it that way," she cautioned him. "It sounds as if you didn't believe me. And we must never doubt each other again. Or lie. One little lie led to all the trouble we had."

"But it began before that—the night of our wedding. I asked myself if you loved me. I should have believed that you wouldn't have married me if you didn't. And I should have kept on believing it."

Rod took her hands off his shoulders and pressed them to his lips. "A man never had a sweeter bride," he told her, "but a man's man, Bertie Lou. And that means that sometimes he's a fool. Only a wise woman can help him then. You were too proud and too good."

Bertie Lou smiled at him. "Well, try it again," she warned him, "and I'll fight for you like a fishwife."

"I think I'll stick to the hearth-side," Rod replied. "But I still would like to know how you financed this house. And that does not mean that I think you stole the money or anything like that, but just as a matter of curiosity."

"I bought it on terms, of course, silly. And it's half yours. You were the first person to answer my ad."

"With chicken feed in my pocket!

But I've got a position. I take possession of a cage on Monday. It's special work and there will be a lot of overtime, but it's with a big organization and now that I've something to work for besides bread and butter—"

"Thank goodness I've found a paying tenant for this house at last," Bertie Lou applauded. "You don't know how I've worried about the future payments."

Rod laughed. "You can sell the flowers and vegetables I've grown. A lot of your five dollars a week went for seed."

"Then you must have been living on crackers and cheese," Bertie Lou declared, jumping up. "And I've the loveliest dinner for you! But you will have to help me with the steak."

"I can cook it to the queen's taste," Rod assured her. Suddenly Bertie Lou paused over lifting the steak to the broiler.

"You said that the first time we cooked a meal in our own home," she reminded him.

"This is a new start, too," Rod replied solemnly. "And this time we will make a go of it, won't we, Bertie Lou?"

"Let's go right out after dinner and send telegrams to our parents," Bertie Lou suggested; "and I've got to telephone poor little Bessie Rogers. She will sit up for me I'm afraid. She never trusted you very much and I think she guessed that I was head over heels in love with my caretaker. And she may discover that I've brought a week-end bag. I expected you to leave tonight," she added naively.

Tell her that you've given me the job for life," Rod said. "I'm never going to stop taking care of you again."

"For five dollars a week?"

"For love of the only girl in the world!"
