CHURCH OF CHRIST DEMONSTRATION TOMORROW
On account of school having opened, making it impossible for the children to attend, outside events during school hours, the class in evangelism of Church of Christ has changed the demonstration of object studies in Biblical history from Thursday afternoon to Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the church.

A very interesting lesson will be given, the demonstration showing the Tribe of Israel wandering in the wilderness their modes of living, their make-shifts, and the trials through which they pushed steadily on.
The lecture, or lesson, will be given by Mrs. Tom Harrell. Assisting in the church and class room will be Mrs. J. Shelby Smith, Mrs. Anna Claig and the registrant, Mrs. Harry E. Woods. The public is cordially invited to attend. A special invitation is extended the children of Eastland to see and hear this new and unusual way of telling the dramatic story of the Bible.

SUSAN STEEL BIBLE CLASS IN SESSION

The Susan Steele Bible class, so named in honor of Mrs. Susan Steele, a noted pioneer of Eastland, held a delightful entertainment in the Susan Steele class room of the Methodist church yesterday afternoon, preceded by a short business session, conducted by Mrs. W. A. Cathey, their president, followed by an informal program, during the social hour.
At tea time the class adjourned to the lower assembly hall. A table had been lavishly prepared, centered with roses, about which covers were laid for Mother Susan Steele, Mrs. Mary Hughes, Mrs. Amy Gray, Mrs. Jonathan Jones, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. E. C. Satter, white, Mrs. J. B. Steele, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. T. M. Johnson, and Mrs. W. A. Cathey.
The delicious tea of fried chicken, tomato salad, cold slaw, pickles, chicken salad, sandwiches, iced tea, pie and coffee cake was the combination menu provided by the class members.

WEST WARD P. T. A. BEGINS ITS SESSIONS

The call to meet or as one might say, the preliminary session of the Parent-Teacher Association of the West Ward school, held yesterday afternoon, in the school, proved a cordial introduction to the regular sessions which open next Tuesday afternoon for the season 1928-29.
In response to the invitation of the association, there was a goodly attendance, twelve teachers being present, and twenty mothers or patrons of the school.
The meeting was a semi-social and business affair. President, Mrs. R. E. Sikes, the president, conducted the session, which opened with the Lord's prayer in unison.
The report of the treasurer was presented, showing $28.96 balance on hand.
A social feature was introduced in the piano number by Mrs. F. O. Hunter, "Hungarian Rhapsody" (Koeff), brilliantly interpreted by a fine musician, and readings by Miss Mary Sue Rumph, "Two Little Shadows," and Edgar A. Guest's skit, in verse, "Ma's Checkbook."
An interesting address was made by Principal Boles of the West Ward school. Mr. Boles dealt with six objectives in school and parent-teacher association work, and the connection between the school and public.
The West Ward school will have public music, free, taught to the fifth, sixth and seventh grades, in sight reading, and three art singing. This is a distinct departure in the system of Eastland, and the first instance of public school music in the sense that it is part of the curriculum of the school, just as it is in the public schools of a majority of cities.
Mrs. F. O. Hunter, who will direct the music of the school, and be in charge of the music studio, has had wide experience in the teaching of children, having had a private class in Arlington, Texas, for seven years prior to locating in Eastland about one year ago. Mrs. Hunter will re-organize the West Ward school's Girls Glee Club, and the boys Glee Club, opening these classes next Monday.

It is a source of much gratification to the friends of the West Ward school to know that public school music has been introduced in Eastland. There has long been an opening for work of this character in grade schools. A distinct advance was made last year in school music in Eastland in the organization of a juvenile, federated music club in the South Ward school, the pioneer effort toward a larger musical school outlook, the work of Mrs. L. R. Hogan.
The Parent-Teacher Association will resume regular meetings next Tuesday afternoon, at four o'clock. Public invited.

PLANS TO ISSUE ELKS BOOSTER EDITION
In connection with their "Minstrel Flashes," to be put on at the Comellee Theatre, October 18 and 19, the Elks will put out a monster Booster Edition, to which every organization in the city is requested to contribute an article concerning their activities, as it is intended that this mammoth edition will reflect the community spirit of Eastland.
Each is invited to contribute to this worthy undertaking, and send at earliest convenience to Mr. or Mrs. W. K. Jackson, the article or notes concerning the activity of the organization.
This is the usual yearly contribution, and all are invited to cooperate to make it one of the best contributions to community spirit.

A NEW FALL BOUQUETIERE is composed of black and pink berries, half and half, surrounded with shiny black leaves.

"Smack!" went the left fist of 9-months-old Marian Weber against Jack Dempsey's right cheek—and Jack just had to take it and say nothing!
Jack was making the rounds of a Philadelphia home for crippled children, and the youngsters got a great big kick out of his visit, you just bet.
Here's the "Manassa Mauler" helping Catherine Whitman mail a plate of ice cream, and telling her the while that he gets the next bite himself.

At the social hour of the publication will be borne by the Elks. The edition will be printed in purple ink, and will be a credit to the town and community.

Harrison Moves Grocery-Market To New Location

The John H. Harrison Grocery & Market, which, until now, has been located on West Main Street, two doors east of the postoffice, has moved into one of the new buildings just completed on the opposite side of the street near Crouch Plumbing company.
Moving into a new building, which was erected especially for this business, the management of the store has installed much new equipment and are now better prepared than ever before to give their customers prompt, courteous and efficient service.
This store enjoys a reputation of always handling the very best merchandise to be had in their line and this coupled with the service and the moderate prices charged has enabled the proprietors to build up a good business that is still growing steadily.
Mr. Harrison and his entire force of employees extend an invitation to the customers of the store and the public in general to visit them in their new location.

COSTLY BIRDS "COST" HIM

EL PASO, Sept. 20.—Francisco Rosales made the mistake of stealing "high toned" turkeys instead of the ordinary table variety and so he must spend two years in the penitentiary, the thirty-fourth district court has decided.
At ordinary "eating" prices the turkeys would be worth less than $50, witnesses testified. But these turkeys were pedigreed and were being raised for breeding purposes. The owner said that she had refused 50 cents a pound for them and would not have sold them for less than 75 cents a pound. The 50-cent price brought them to more than $50, making the crime

That one of the most unusual private collections of relics of the late Col. William F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody is housed at the Albany hotel, Denver, and Frank R. Dutton, one of the proprietors of the hotel, takes great pleasure in showing these to his friends and guests of the hotel.

Mr. Dutton has been invited to place his mementos with other collections; but this he has not done, preferring to retain his own private museum of Buffalo Bill mementos at the Albany hotel.

CHAPTER XLVII "Here's a letter from your caretaker," Bessie told Bertie Lou when the latter came into her room. "It was downstairs. I guess you'd better open it."

"What cause?" "Mine-and Mr. Brown's." "H'm. Say, don't you ever give Mr. Palmer a chance to bat? That could hit a home run with me any day."

"You won't fall down on this?" she asked Bessie doubtfully. Bessie bridled. "I'm a perfect liar," she boasted. "Yes, you've gone beautifully," Bertie Lou assured her. "But you aren't in sympathy with Mr. Brown. You might make him sus-

HYSTERICAL South Carolina Lady Then Tried Cardui and Says She Noticed Remarkable Improvement.

Anderson, S. C. - "I suffered a long long time, before I tried Cardui, and my only regret is that I did not know about it sooner," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 139 "E" Street, this city. "I was badly run down in health. My nerves went to pieces, and I had to go to bed. I was not able to do my house work for many months. I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild. "One day I was reading and I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it; so I began on a course of the 'Home Treatment'.

EXCLUSION ACT CONTINUES TO BOTHER JAPAN

New Ambassador Says He Believes Law Will Be Modified.

By MILES W. VAUGHN, United Press Staff Correspondent. TOKIO, Sept. 17.—Japan will leave it to America's sense of justice to modify the present American immigration law and put Japan upon a quota basis...

"We hope that in time what we know to be the deep-seated American sense of justice will prevail and the present immigration law excluding Japanese immigrants from the United States will change in a way which will make it acceptable to the Japanese people," Debuchi said.

As ambassador in Washington I will not of course agitate the question. I will be ready to explain the Japanese viewpoint any time I may be requested to do so, but I will not set about seeking these opportunities.

Japanese diplomats generally do not like to discuss the exclusion issue and Ambassador Debuchi is no exception to the rule. His remarks during a long interview granted the United Press correspondent in his rooms in the foreign office here were limited to the words in quotation above.

With regard to China the ambassador said:

"For a quarter of a century I have been constantly in contact with Chinese affairs. I have served in the legation in Peking, I was in Korea before that country became a part of Japan. I was one of the commissioners in the settlement of the Shantung question and I was with our delegation at the Washington conference when it framed the document which now determines the general policy of the great nations with regard to the Chinese republic."

"And I can tell you sincerely that Japan has only the most friendly feeling for the Chinese people. A peaceful and prosperous China would be the greatest kind of a blessing for us, for our interest in China is in many ways largely economic—and a peaceful China means better markets. And we do not forget that much of the early culture upon which the Japanese empire was founded came to us via China. We owe China a profound debt of gratitude and we wish her well."

The two children of Ambassador Debuchi will attend American schools during their stay in America. The children are Masaru, a boy of 16, and Takako, a girl of 14. With Madame Debuchi they will travel in America with their father, the retiring vice minister for foreign affairs, when he leaves late this month to assume his duties in Washington.

"Both Mrs. Debuchi and myself intend to let the children live entirely as Americans while we are in the United States," the ambassador told the United Press in an interview. "We now are looking into the matter of what schools they will attend and their entrance requirements."

Both the children now are studying English, a language which the ambassador and his wife speak perfectly. The whole Debuchi family for long has been very popular with the diplomatic corps and foreign residents generally in Tokio.

Mme. Debuchi, slender and accomplished, is widely known as a gracious hostess and always is most attractive in Japanese costume which she usually wears in this country. It will be her first experience in the social life of Washington as she did not accompany Debuchi on his previous visits to the United States. The children also will see the United States for the first time.

TO STUDY LIGHTNING—EFFECTS ON MOUNTAIN. In a battle of tame lightning, electrical engineers are "digging in" on top a lonely Tennessee mountain for a campaign that may last six months or six years.

Lightning to date, experts say, has remained an unknown quantity and has hampered operation of long distance high power electrical lines.

The "battle of Chilhowee Mountain" where an average of 20 thunder storms occur each month, the engineers say will reveal characteristic lightning which scientists have sought for centuries. The camp will be located at Chota, Tenn. Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company engineers will make up the army.

All devices to be used are automatic. Oncoming thunder storms will give warning by ringing a bell, calling the engineers into action, and cameras will record any lightning within their range.

Owes Cultural Debt. Culturally, the ambassador said, Japan owes much to America, and she hopes and believes she has given and will continue to give the United States something in return. European civilization has come to Japan largely via America and American science always has played a leading part in the development of Japan.

GOVERNMENTAL REORGANIZING LONG PROPOSED

Efforts Thus Far Have Met Opposition in the Congress

WASHINGTON.—Re-organization of the federal government's structure, as proposed by both Hoover and Smith in their acceptance speeches, is an old story to Washington. As far back as 1912, President Taft submitted to congress suggestions for a reclassification of the executive departments and independent bureaus in the federal government.

Congress rejected Harding's plan and since then there has been no concerted effort to put into effect a comprehensive reorganization plan. As secretary of commerce, Hoover absorbed several bureaus from other departments, notably the bureau of mines and the patent office.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, which has been an outspoken advocate of reorganization, has now reconciled itself to a "progressive reorganization" and has given up any hope that a sweeping change can be pushed through congress all at once.

Outstanding features of the plan recommended to congress by President Harding and his cabinet, of which Hoover was a member, included: Co-ordination of the naval and military establishments under a single cabinet officer; transfer of all non-military functions from the war and navy departments to civilian departments; elimination of all non-fiscal functions from the treasury department; establishment of a department of education and welfare; changing the name of the postoffice department to the department of communications.

In addition, it was proposed to attach to the departments all independent bureaus except those of a quasi-judicial nature or which act as service agencies for all departments. Examples of overlapping functions and incongruities in the grouping of governmental agencies are numerous under the present organization. Services whose duties are similar are grouped among a number of departments where it is difficult for them to work in co-operation.

Reorganization, it is contended, would make possible great economies and increased efficiency in the government's activities. Critics of the present regime point out that the coast guard, for instance, could be administered better by the navy than the treasury, where it is now. Another anomaly is that the bureau of education of the interior departments is charged with caring for reindeer herds in Alaska.

There will be no horse races held on Sundays at the State Fair of Texas, Oct. 6 to 21, but five races each afternoon will be featured on each of the other 13 days of the fair.

The Southwestern Dairy Show, to be held in connection with the State Fair of Texas, October 6 to 21, is to be made a permanent feature for the encouragement of the dairying industry in Texas.

Ex-Kaiser's Use of Royal Phrases Denounced by Amsterdam Paper.

AMSTERDAM.—German visitors to the home of the ex-Kaiser at Doorn receive a card signed "by order of the All Highest," according to "De Telegraaf," in a spirited article condemning royalist intrigues. The article points out that Wilhelm Hohenzollern abdicated the throne and his rights ten years ago. It is absurd, it continues, for Wilhelm to continue to style himself "Emperor and King."

"The practice may be nothing more than harmless vanity, but it might become a serious situation at any time," the article warns while calling upon the Dutch government to see that Wilhelm does not misuse the hospitality extended to him.

The cards are issued when visitors sign the guest book. They bear the following inscription in handsome letters: "His Majesty the Emperor and King and Her Majesty the Empress and Queen convey their thanks for this devoted remembrance. Haus Doorn (followed by the date). On the order of the All Highest, (followed by the signature of the attendant)."

"His Majesty" is not a legal title in present-day republican Germany, "De Telegraaf" declares, while the Princess Hermine's behaviour is even more ridiculous because Wilhelm Hohenzollern was a private man when she married him. "Intrigues around dethroned royalties have often led into the maddest adventures in the past," De Telegraaf warns. Attention is called to the recent incident of Prince Carol's alleged attempt to regain the Rumanian throne by means of an intrigue hatched in England.

Bridges Busy With Fundamentals for the Opening Week

ABILENE.—The first week of training of the Simmons University Cowboys, which ended Saturday, found Coach Frank Bridges stressing fundamentals in both line and backfield play to such an extent as to indicate that the Simmons coach does not intend to have a poor tackling, faulty blocking and otherwise shaky machine with which to battle the T. C. U. Horned Frogs at Breckenridge on Oct. 6, in what will be the first big tussle of the Cowboys for the season.

Although each evening's session has ended with signal practice, the man emphasis has been placed on correct charging and running form, and it is clear that Coach Bridges is determined to get co-ordination in his team which will necessarily have many new faces in its line-up.

While Line Coach Charlie ("Potts") Anderson has been leading his linemen to one side and drilling them in air tight defense and good offense, Bridges has been training his backfield and line aspirants in running and passing form. This, together with dummy tackling and blocking, and signal practice, has constituted a greater part of the week's training. Scrimmage will be launched in earnest next week, and those who will get a regular place on the Simmons team will begin to emerge from the mass of 50 aspirants.

Lots of Competition. From the looks of some of the new material, however, it looks as if some of the veterans of last year's campaign will have to fight hard to hold their places regularly against the new competition. Twelve letter men are fighting for their berths. They are: Hyde and Walter, quarters; Sanders and Davenport, halves; Greg and Captain "Red" Moore, ends; Smith, Pearce and Ribble, tackles; and H. Daniel, C. Daniel and Jennings, guards. Some shifts may be made and some have already been made.

Haile Daniel, who has played guard for two years, has been shifted to end in an effort to fill the wide gap left by the graduation of Herring Bounds, all-conference end, known throughout the southwest for his spectacular playing. Much of the competition of the new men is centering around this end position. The other wing is filled adequately by Moore, dependable veteran of two campaigns.

So far, those who came highly recommended among the new men are looking true to form, but scrimmage and a game or two may begin to sift out some of these and show up those who have not yet been able to shine. But at present the following new men look good to hold positions on the team: Sims, quarter, Olympic player; Allen, Abilene, center; Go lightly, Marlin, center; Harvey De Leon, half, who may be shifted to the line; Britton, Abilene half; Tittle, Merkle, tackle; Gibbons, Texarkana, quarter; Marshall, Floydada, half; Culpepper, Cleburne, guard; Houghton, formerly of John Tarleton, Caddo, half; Bennett, Slaton, center or guard. Twenty-five other men are in there working, however, and all look promising as material to develop future teams for Simmons.

The Cowboys play their first game with Decatur Baptist College here on the twenty-second.
