Creating Stronger Community Spirit in Eastland

VARDAMAN HAS BUSY LAST DAY OF INSTITUTE

Addresses Club Women and Holds Conference in Afternoon. Sales Meeting Tonight.

SOME BELIEF VARDAMANISMS
There is no record of a city, town or community having been built by one man—it requires the united effort of many to build a city.

The greatest obstructionist in the community is not the man who will do nothing—but the one who will do nothing because he can't do exactly what HE wants to do.

The best way to handle the knocker, the hold-back is to go right ahead without him; let him see that he is not the all important thing in the community.

Every individual in the community should realize that the cornerstone of every institution is primarily business—without prosperity people can not have the institutions that make life worth while.

Developing a community is like winning a football game; there must be a goal, and there must be a team to reach the goal. There must be an objective.

Changing the program to conform to the wishes of a majority of the citizens attending the Greater Business and Community Institute, the luncheon scheduled for today was valued off this morning, and in place of it a conference of business men was held in the Connellee Hotel roof garden immediately after the address to the women. Mr. Vardaman spoke on "Creating Community Spirit" and made one of the most convincing of the addresses he has made here.

Women's Influence.
The special meeting for the club women in Eastland which includes all church and school workers, was held under the auspices of the Civic League. It was largely attended. Mr. Vardaman spoke on "Woman's Influence in Modern Business" and said in part:

We hear much about big business men these days. But it is not always understood that the biggest "business men" in the world, in one respect at least, is not a man at all—rather the women of the land are the very biggest element in modern business.

In a recent statement, Mr. Roger Babson, the great statistician, said that the average daily business of the retail stores of this country aggregate over $200,000,000. A stupendous sum. $1,200,000,000 per week—$62,000,000,000 per year.

Sixty-two billion dollars per year is a lot of business. And the interesting thing about it is the fact that 85% of this great volume of business is influenced either directly or indirectly by the women of the country.

According to the best statistics available 85% of the merchandise sold in the retail stores of this country is purchased by women. And a great deal of the business outside retail stores is influenced very largely by women. Comparatively few men, for instance, step into an automobile sales room and purchase an automobile without consulting a woman. Indeed, a great majority of the men of the country are directly influenced in the purchase of the clothes they wear by women.

Greatest Business?
It is interesting to note the attitude of various lines of business toward their own business in comparison with other lines.

Lumber dealers are inclined to think of their particular business as of the greatest importance because they build homes for people; insurance companies publish interesting figures showing that the insurance business is the greatest, because it protects the people in their homes; automobile dealers say their business is the greatest because in this day people must go somewhere, and they furnish the means for traveling in comfort; clothiers say their business is of the greatest importance because people must be dressed, and it is their business that people are properly then the grocer says his is surely the greatest because he feeds the

ROOMING HOUSE FIRE CLAIMS TWO VICTIMS

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 5.—Charged with passing hundreds of bogus gold United Certificates in widely scattered sections, six men are under arrest in Oklahoma, Texas and California as alleged members of a counterfeit ring working out of Hominy, Okla. Four men are held here, one in Los Angeles and one in Vernon, Texas, Carl W. Blair, secret service operative, revealed today.

At 6:45 a. m. eastern daylight time, Albert R. Jacobs of Philadelphia sped down the runway to the cheers of several thousand spectators and the race was on. The other planes followed at one minute intervals.

The first stop this morning will be at Harrisburg, Pa., where they rest for 30 minutes while the planes are fueled and inspected. At McKeesport they have a second 30 minute rest before proceeding on the last lap of their day's trek to Columbus, Ohio.

MIDDLETON, Penn., Sept. 5.—All of the 37 airplanes which left Roosevelt field this morning in the transcontinental air derby had been accounted for here shortly before noon today.

Dancer is Daintiest Dane

Edith, it's said, was the most beautiful girl in her country until a 50-week contract for $20,000 lured her across the Atlantic. She went on the stage at 11 and gained such popularity as a solo dancer that American managers began bidding for her aid in glorifying their productions.

CISCO BANDIT ESCAPES FROM PRISON FARM

Robert Hill Breaks From Jail Near Brazoria Labor Day and Is Recaptured Tuesday.

A few months ago, a young man—scarcely out of his teens—who had pleaded guilty to one of the most celebrated crimes in the history of the Southwest, heard sentence of life imprisonment pronounced on him and when given an opportunity by the court to make a statement, the youthful lawbreaker declared that he appreciated the interest that had been taken in him by many people and that he had determined to lead the right kind of life in prison, make no effort to escape and perhaps the governor years hence would open the prison gates for him.

That scene was in the 91st district courtroom in Eastland last spring. The prisoner was Robert Hill, driver of the Cisco bank bandit car. It was not until some weeks after sentence was imposed that he was taken to the penitentiary.

Apparently, however, his good intentions were speedily forgotten for on Labor Day he escaped from the Clements State farm near Brazoria. He was recaptured Tuesday night by posses of guards with bloodhounds. Hill was the first of the six fugitives to be caught. He was trailed to a negro church a few miles from the prison farm and, before the guards arrived, he had been bitten by the dogs—only slightly, however.

Two of the remaining five escaped men have been recaptured. The prisoners slipped away from a gang that was cutting wood. The attempt by Hill to regain his freedom does not come as a surprise to officers and newspapermen of this county, however.

Hill's conduct before leaving the Eastland county jail gave a hint of what might be expected. Before his trial, his mild demeanor, his willingness to discuss freely his part in the holdup, his pleasing appearance, a look of weakness and indecision that gave color to the belief that he had been led into the bold bank holdup by stronger minds and wills than his own—all aided in creating a measure of sympathy for him. His story on the witness stand of the death of his parents when he was a small boy and of his being placed in the state reform school, though he said he had broken no law—caused further sentiment that life imprisonment was the proper penalty for his guilt.

After the trial, Hill professed religion and asked to be baptized before being taken to the penitentiary. His request was not granted, however, as there is opportunity in prison for the inmates to be baptized. Toward the end of his stay in the county jail, however, Hill's demeanor changed. Whether the change was a reaction from the strain he had been under and the irksomeness of the cell or whether, as most believed, it was merely the revelation of his true character and the attitude he had previously shown was a sham, the fact remains that he grew violent, smashed out the glass in a window and cursed vociferously.

Whereupon the prediction was made that it would be well to keep an eye on him in prison. Which the latest developments have proved.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—Present indications point to a 1928 cotton crop of approximately 14,161,000 bales according to the annual estimate compiled from returns received by the Interstate Banking and Trust Company here from its correspondents and released for publication today. The figures compare with the government August 1 forecast of a production of 14,291,000 bales.

DEL RIO, Sept. 5.—John Crosby, Jr., vouches for the appearance of his friend, Forest Whitehead, in court on a charge of murder. Today Crosby was in jail while Whitehead was at liberty.

Whitehead was released last Saturday night after he fatally injured John C. Kastner of San Antonio in a fight. Crosby vouches to authorities that Whitehead would appear in court at Villa Mexico, yesterday.

GRAND JURY IS INSTRUCTED TO MAKE INQUIRY

District Judge Elzo Been Charges Body To Make Full and Fair Probe of Alleged Misdeeds.

Instructing the grand jury of the 88th district court, which now is meeting daily and making diligent inquiry into alleged misdeeds, Judge Elzo Been included in his charge the entire penal code of Texas, but made special reference to matters he designated as needing special investigation. He urged that no indictment be made from envy, hatred, or malice or indictment be avoided for love, fear, favor or hope of reward.

The court named specially for investigation, the unlawful procuring or carrying of firearms, giving or accepting of bribes, violations of the election law, perjury, unlawful marriages and immorality, wife and child desertion, gaming and betting on elections, liquor law violations of all kinds, violations of the medical practice act, highway law violations, abortions and murder. The court said:

"Where there is sufficient evidence you should indict, and on the other hand where there is not sufficient evidence you should exonerate. Many people in this world possess very little of this world's goods, but do possess a good name, which is to be preferred to great riches, and you should be as jealous of that good name as you are the good name of society, and it is as much your duty to protect, defend and guard that good name as it is to bring the criminal to justice."

LAREDO, Sept. 5.—Joe Bradley, 22, and Pat Byler, 24, captured here today with nearly $5,000 in their possession, will be returned to San Antonio this afternoon to face charges of the robbery there late yesterday of the Texas State Bank and Trust Co.

Police announced that Bradley made a confession to participating in the robbery. Two bandits took a satchel containing $5,000 from the bank messenger. Byler denied participation in the robbery. He said he was paid $450 to drive Bradley here in a car.

Bradley and Byler were arrested for a traffic violation. When taken to police headquarters a large sum of money was discovered and Bradley's confession followed.

Bradley implicated Byler as his companion. He said the robbery was planned Labor day when he was intoxicated. He said a former employee of the bank had been working for his father in the ice business at San Antonio and knew of Treppierwein's duties as bank messenger. Byler said he was employed by the Pruitt Produce Co. at San Antonio.

SHORTAGE IN MISSION FUNDS IS APPARENT

Auditors Unable To Approximate Amount Until Treasurer's Books Are Checked.

By United Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 5.—An attempt to even approximate the amount of shortage in the Southern Baptist Home Mission board funds is at this time useless, auditors have informed officials of the church, it was learned today.

As checking up of the books of Clinton S. Carnes, missing board treasurer, continued, it was hoped to ascertain within a few weeks whether the shortage in funds was a matter of four, five or six figures. Until then members of the board said one guess is as good as another.

The assets of Carnes, including his expensive home here, his three autos and other holdings, have been placed by the family into the hands of the board until the amount of the shortage is definitely known.

Inasmuch as Carnes as treasurer had dealings with more than 100 banks in the 18 states where the denomination has churches, the problem before the auditor is magnified.

SILVER PREPARED. The governor has granted a reprieve to Silver, one of the two murderers who robbed and killed Roscoe Wilson.

Why? Because the board of pardons wants more time to investigate. Investigate what? Wilson is still dead; isn't he? The robbery was committed, wasn't it—and Silver admits he was one of the two who committed it.

It is urged on behalf of Silver that the fatal shot was fired by Stone, who was given a life sentence. Stone himself from his cell says that he fired the shot. But what would be more natural than for Stone to utter words that would save his pal's life—particularly when no further punishment can be given to him as he has already been tried and given a 99-year sentence? The fact that Stone now says that he fired the shot does not necessarily make it true.

Furthermore, the law says that two men who act together in the commission of an offense are equally guilty. Silver and Stone planned the robbery. They drove to the scene together. If Stone is the man who got out of the car, shot Wilson, grabbed the loot and jumped back into the car, then Silver was the man who drove the car that enabled a cold-blooded murderer to escape.

Silver says that no bloodshed was contemplated. Is it possible that they had made no plan as to what would be done if the victim resisted? Had they intended, if he offered any resistance, to flee in the car without using any force or violence themselves? And if Silver is telling the truth when he said that the killing was not part of the plan, why didn't he seize the first opportunity to give himself thereby showing his good faith?

The truth of the matter probably is that the two robbers, in planning the crime, did not discuss the taking of Wilson's life. They did not consider it would be necessary. They figured that he would hand over his satchel without a struggle.

There are too many holdups, too many hijacking killings in Texas. It is infrequent that a jury will bring in a verdict of death and when they do, colossal efforts are made to set their verdict at naught. Why have the death penalties anyway? Why have juries at all?—one is almost tempted to ask in view of the latest development.

Maudlin sentiment is being manifested. Strangers are sending flowers to the mother and wife of Silver. Certainly, every person sympathizes with them and laments the tragedy that has come into their lives. But how about the mother of Roscoe Wilson? Have any of these sentimentalists sent flowers to her?

Silver is a crook. He is an enemy of the law. He has been given a fair trial. He has been given months in which to prepare to meet his Maker.

Wilson was a splendid young man—a useful citizen. He was condemned to death without trial. He was hurled into eternity without an instant to set his soul in readiness to meet the Almighty. His father, heart-broken, went to his grave a short time later.

Turner, the class teacher, at the pastor's home. The committee includes Mrs. Grant Sanderford, chairman, with Mmes. W. A. Owen, W. J. Herrington, T. J. Pitts, and W. D. R. Owen.

The election will be held Sunday after next.

CLEAR UP TIDY SUM

Although over $100 was made in the booth sale of ice cream and pop conducted by the Hi School P. T. A. committee on Labor Day at City Park, a large per cent had to be disbursed in payment for their supplies. However, the committee, Mmes. H. L. Brammer, W. C. Baker, and R. J. Rains, reports that the sum of $40 will be made by the P. T. A. This sum will be used as a payment on the grand piano in high school auditorium. Thanks are extended R. L. Perkins and Higginbotham Lumber Co. for the booth.

LUNCHEON—Salmon salad, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, blueberry bread pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Shoulder of veal braised with vegetables, tomato and cucumber salad, apple sauce with ginger bread, milk, coffee.

Almost any kind of fruit can be used in place of blueberries. Large fruits, such as peaches or apples, must be cut in small pieces, but berries can be substituted and used in exactly the same fashion.

Blueberry Bread Pudding

One quart berries, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 cup water, few grains salt, bread, butter. Wash and pick over berries. Combine with sugar, salt, cinnamon and water. Mix well and cook ten minutes. Cut several slices of bread and remove crusts. Spread with butter and cut in half inch cubes. Put a layer of hot berry mixture into a buttered mold. Fill with bread cubes. Press down until mold is half full and add more berry mixture. Fill again with buttered bread cubes and again press down. The mold should be ached full of bread saturated with the berry mixture. Place in the refrigerator to become cold and firm. Turn out of mold and cut in slices to serve. Serve with hard sauce.

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Sliced peaches, peaches with ready to serve cereal, cream, fish and potato hash, celery, Graham muffins, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Onions in cream on toast, ham and potato salad, rye bread, lemonade.

DINNER—Fish baked in tomato sauce, rice timbales, creamed peppers, green tomato pie, milk, coffee.

Matchlike strips of cold boiled ham vastly improve a potato salad. Finely chopped carrots and cauliflower hearts are also used uncooked to advantage.

Green Tomato Pie

One and one-half pounds green tomatoes, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup water, 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon cinnamon 1-2 cup seeded raisins, 1 baked pie shell.

When making dough for pie shell, make half as much extra as would be required as for an upper crust. About 1-1/3 cups flour will be needed.

Wash tomatoes and cut in slices. Make a syrup of water and sugar, add tomatoes, grated rind and juice of lemon and cinnamon. Cook until tomatoes are transparent but until raisins are plump. Turn into a baked pie shell, arrange strips of dough to make a lattice top, and bake until top is brown.

BYRANT THANKS FRIENDS

Addressing the Citizenship of Eastland county, George Bryant, Democratic nominee, today issued the following card of thanks:

"Now that the primaries are over and nominations approved, I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the confidence you have placed in me as evidenced by your vote in nominating me your Tax Assessor. I have striven for this confidence for four years, and success has at last crowned my efforts. But after all things are said and done, I believe that actions speak louder than words, and with this thought in mind I shall try in every way to prove myself worthy of your confidence by exerting myself in every effort to the betterment of your interests, remembering at all times that I am your servant and the Tax Assessor of all the people of our grand old country."

"I come to you unencumbered by a lot of election promises, and shall endeavor to select only such deputies as I deem necessary to safeguard your interests with courtesy, honesty and justice to all, and I respectfully request that you withhold judgment until such time as my conduct, ability and faithfulness prove that I am worthy of the trust imposed in me."

from Cisco were even more enthusiastic than the Labor Day gathering which heard the Senator at Dallas.

CISCO, Sept. 5.—The vice-presidential nominee made his second speech in Texas in Cisco Tuesday night. He explained that he was not in Texas because he felt that this State was in any danger of going Republican, but just to talk with Texans, in a spirit of pride, about the "matchless statesmanship, the super leadership and the unimpeachable personal and public life of our presidential nominee."

Meets Old Friends. Senator Robinson came to Cisco, a typical West Texas town whose population would not have imagined a month ago that the Democratic nominee for vice president would visit here, because there happened to live here Judge Eugene T. Lankford, native Arkansan and a life-long friend of the Robinsons, and of the Millers, with whom the Robinsons formed a union in the marriage of Robinson—a young lawyer—and a daughter of the Millers. Lankford an honored citizen of Cisco, in introducing the Senator, paid a remarkable tribute to him.

Tom Connally, Congressman from the Eleventh District, the Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, and the personal friend of Senator Robinson, rang the welkin of Democracy in a speech ringing with enthusiastic praise of the party of the South and severe in its arraignment of Republican misrule.

He was introduced by R. Q. Lee the next Congressman from this district, as "our own Tom Connally."

"Texas will give Joe Robinson and his running mate, Governor Al Smith, a tremendous majority in the November elections," Connally said.

Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier, Democratic national committeewoman from Texas, said she knew she spoke the sentiments of the women of Texas when "I say we shall have the greatest Democratic majority in history in November."

Senator Robinson's speech was frankly that of a Southerner talking to Southerners. He emphatically stated he had no fears of Texas Democratic majority, and then he discussed, in candor, the religious issue which has been injected into the campaign.

"My visit has brought the gratifying assurance that Texas will return an even greater Democratic majority than in any former year," he said.

DIZZY, NO APPETITE

Since Taking Black-Draught This Man Is Eager For His Meals and Feels Much Better.

Harrisburg, N. C.—Mr. M. F. Fink, of this place, says: "I must have been fully twenty-five years ago that I began taking Black-Draught regularly. It wasn't long after I married.

"I was in town one day, and while talking to a friend I stooped over to pick up something. When I straightened up, I felt dizzy. I spoke to him about this and how I had not felt like eating.

"My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night, another. In a few days I felt much better. I was hungry and the dizziness was gone.

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year."

Theodore's Black-Draught has been found to relieve sick headaches in thousands of cases that were due to constipation. Containing no mineral drugs, it acts gently, yet promptly. Try it. NC-133

THIS HAS HAPPENED Bertie Lou Ward marries Rod Bryer who had previously been engaged to Lila Marsh.

Trying to keep up socially with wealthy friends plunges the Bryers in debt and Rod becomes depressed.

She is called home to her sick mother and catches a train without seeing Rod. The separation adds to Lila's plotting, causes coldness to spring up between them.

Now go on With the Story CHAPTER XXXIII. A distinct pailor showed under Lila's makeup as she dropped the pendant and settled back in her chair.

A hush fell over the party. One by one the guests began to sense her attitude. She did not wish the pearls examined!

It was Rod who supplied it. He overturned a glass of wine. Lila was quick to grasp the lifeline he had thrown her.

She made as much of the incident as possible. But it did not save her. When the broken glass was removed and the slight commotion over, Cyrus very quietly requested that she let Monsieur Clavier have the pearls.

He was deeply puzzled over Lila's strange behavior but it was plain to him that their guests also were puzzled. And he knew these pearls were genuine.

Cyrus had heard of women who substituted imitations for their real gems but he did not believe that Lila had done that.

His expression, to Lila, appeared sphinxlike. She had never made such a great appeal to him as at that moment.

His features became blank in order not to risk showing his feelings, but he hoped that Lila would see in his calm composure a willingness to face the music.

Lila slowly drew the rope of pearls over her head and gave them to Monsieur Clavier.

Privately Monsieur agreed with her, and was mentally chiding himself for having created an awkward situation over a few small pearls.

But he was in it now, and he did not wish to say before Madam's husband and her guests that he had been more interested in the perfection with which the pearls matched her complexion than in the pearls themselves.

Still, his breeding would not permit him to express his true opinion of them, which was in accord with Lila's. Turning them over in his hand, scrutinizing them closely, he cast about in his mind for some genuine praise to bestow upon them.

Rod was watching him with fascinated intentness, waiting for the denouement. He expected the Frenchman to show surprise, to become embarrassed. Instead, Monsieur Clavier returned the pearls to Lila with the remark that they were very well matched, indeed, and of a really good color.

"They're the iridescent pearls that are found in the Pacific, near Australia," he told Cyrus. "No others could be so suitable for Madam's fair skin."

Lila took them in a limp hand. She did not look at Rod, who sat with a rather foolish expression of amazement spreading over his countenance.

Cyrus alone thanked Monsieur Clavier for his opinion. Then the company burst into an excited chatter, that covered their relief over a threatening cloud dispelled. It was still evident, however, that their hostess was disturbed, but at least there was no further cause to dread the subtle sense of trouble that had hovered over them.

Lila did not turn her head toward Rod until the dinner was ended. In rising, while he stood to pull back her chair, she let her eyes meet his with great reluctance.

Rod contributed very little in conversation to the half-hour the men spent at the table over their black coffee after Lila had taken her women guests away.

When they went to the drawing room he was black-browed with suspicion. Lila was seated before the piano, half-heartedly trying a new jazz piece.

Bridge followed, but Rod was among those who did not care to play. Lila played indifferently, abstractedly, and Rod was not surprised, about an hour later, when she was "dummy," to see her rise and make some excuse for leaving the table.

Mayhew has notified the Eagle squad to report to the equipment room Monday morning at 9 o'clock to be issued uniforms and report dressed for practice at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

While Walter and Sellers, two all-state backs, among many other stars have graduated, Mayhew is assured of a large turnout Monday.

When the Eagles meet Anson Sept. 24, in the first game of the season, it looks as if the lineup will be as follows: Lusby, center; Barber and Baker, guards; Black and Shackelford, tackles; Smith and Captain Salkeld, ends; Kincaid, quarter; Phelps, half; Baldwin, half; Hannah, full. This lineup will give Mayhew a line that will average over 180 pounds, and a backfield that is shifty and with plenty of speed.

Other men that have showed up in the first place habits of restraint and moral conduct should be formed in early life.

wouldn't have found out that Bertie Lou doesn't care anything about you? That she was only interested in your future success with Cy? When you put a stop to her extravagance she found someone with money to spend on her, didn't she?"

Rod was white. "You mean you faked that theft to get me in a hole?" he asked.

"To make you think me a good friend," Lila explained, "to get you to thinking of me with gratitude. You've always loved me, Rod; if you hadn't started hating me simply because we couldn't afford to marry each other you'd never have imagined that you didn't love me. Do we have to be cheated out of happiness forever simply because you made a mistake like that? I've never stopped loving you," she added and moved forward again to throw herself into his arms.

"I know I tricked you," she went on as Rod sought to loosen her arms about his neck, "but that old bromide about love and war is as good today as it ever was.

"I wouldn't have taken any money from you, but I had to do something to start you caring for me again, and I did help you with Cyrus, you know."

She paused and looked beseechingly at him. "You do love me, don't you?" she pleaded and reached up quickly to put her lips to his.

ABILENE, Sept. 5.—The 1928 football season in the interscholastic league of Texas will be one of the hardest fought in many years, said Dewey A. Mayhew, coach of Abilene High school, who returned Friday night from Cornus Christi, where he attended D. K. Bible's coaching school.

STATESMAN WRITES TO S. S. CLASS

Senator Robinson Pens Inspiring Letter to Ranger Boys.

A message from Senator Joe T. Robinson, democratic nominee for the vice presidency of the United States, was read to members of "Our Heroes" Sunday school class of the First Methodist church by M. P. Peters, instructor. It follows:

"It is stated to me that the First Methodist church of Ranger has a somewhat original and distinctive feature, consisting of a class of boys varying from 14 to 18 years of age. I am advised that this class has expressed a desire for a message from me to be read during its next assembly. It gives me pleasure to send this statement:

"Referring to the subject, 'The Useful Man,' it is my opinion that the basis of all reputation and renown truly worthwhile is usefulness, which I define as helpfulness to others. Certain habits and traits of character are indispensable to the development of a useful career, using the term in the sense above referred to.

"In the first place habits of restraint and moral conduct should be formed in early life. Without these, occasional, if not frequent, moral lapses may be expected to occur, impairing the effectiveness of a person's efforts.

"Unselfishness is among the rarest but most valuable traits of the present day boy and girl. Selfishness is always an impediment, oftentimes a bar, to success according to true Christian standards.

"The cultivation of sympathy for the faults and wants of others is essential to the rounding out of my conception of what a boy or girl should be.

"The exercise of charity is of primary importance. The Pharisee did not pass with the crucifixion of the Savior. He is as prominent today as in any period of history. Giant Tomato of Glenn being in the Bulldog line-off. He is a servant of Satan and the world will recognize him as such in spite of his hypocrisy.

Walter King is a plumber of Lawrence, Kas., but you ought to see the tomatoes he's been growing. His vines are like trees, standing 15 to 20 feet high, and his tomatoes average two pounds each. Here he is with one that is eight inches in diameter and weighs three pounds.

"The spiritual is more important than the material. In this age, people are naturally inclined to think of those worldly things which are supposed to add to their comfort or influence. These things are helpful when not given a first place. Spirituality which cannot exist without faith—faith in God and in one's fellow man—is to be nurtured above all things.

"Any boy or girl who walks in the way pointed out above will stand out as representative of the highest type of American citizenship.

"My best wishes for the success and happiness of the members of the class."

The letter was written from the Hotel Arlington at Hot Springs, National Park, prior to Robinson's notification speech.

Washington Letter

By RODNEY DUTCHER. WASHINGTON.—The American helium center remains in Texas, but it has been removed from Fort Worth to Amarillo.

The government's new helium production plant is now being constructed just outside Amarillo and will soon be completed. The plant site covers more than 18 acres.

Here the helium will be separated from the natural helium-bearing gas piped down from the Amarillo company in a pipe-line now being constructed, to be used in the lighter than air ships of the Army and Navy, all of which are now lifted by helium.

Helium, it may be well to recall, is one of those rare inert gases which do not burn. It has no affinity with anything else and though some chemists believe they have made it combine with other things—such as platinum and bismuth—government scientists will not be convinced until after further investigation.

Helium has only 92 per cent of the lifting power of hydrogen, but the government long ago decided that this sacrifice in lifting power was more than compensated by the fact that hydrogen was dangerously inflammable.

The helium plant at Fort Worth is being abandoned only because the old Petrolia pool a hundred miles away, which has heretofore supplied it with helium, has begun to peter out. The pool was seven years old when the government first began to take helium from it.

The Bureau of Mines, which has supervised over the government helium projects, investigated various sources of helium, testing samples of natural gas from over a wide area. It found that by far the best source was at Amarillo.

This source, according to officials of the bureau, ought to provide enough helium for "quite a few years." Such supplies are very rare, however, and there is no promise that the helium in this country will last indefinitely.

Besides the Petrolia and Amarillo sources, there is only one other important one known in the United States. It has been found in natural gas in Canada, but in very small percentages.

The government helium project was begun in 1917 and two plants were opened in Fort Worth, with a pipe-line carrying the gas all the way.

The new structures at Amarillo will be substantial and adapted for future expansion at lowest possible cost, according to the Bureau of Mines. The more important parts of the equipment will be housed in steel framed buildings.

CHARRED WRECKAGE OF LINDY DEATH PLANE

In a Falcon-Curtiss biplane, which was owned and soon to be flown by Col. M. Merritt, manager of Curtiss Field, New York, and Edwin Remme, manager of Boston's Municipal Airport, the wreckage, pictured above, were sighted by air searchers in the vicinity of the crash near Abilene, Pa. The wreckage was recalled that Colonel Lindbergh's life had once been imperiled.

Whoofus Whiffletree's Woozy Wonderings

Sherman High—always represented by a strong eleven—has matched two games against powerful Oklahoma teams. The Bearcats will open the season with a game against Okmulgee on Sept. 21 and on Oct. 2 will meet the Madill team at the Red River Valley fair. Other games scheduled include: McKinney, Paris, Denton, Gainesville and Denison. Back in 1924, Sherman played a tie with the mighty Oak Cliff Leopards, who won the second game and went on to the state championship. Hume was the chief figure relied on this fall by S. M. U. Three seasons ago, we believe it was, Sherman had another powerful machine but was ruled out of the state race. "Pest" Welch was the stellar performer, ably aided by Caraway. Last season, Welch almost single-handedly enabled Sherman to defeat dear old Harvard and he is expected to gain recognition as one of the greatest backs in the land this season.

A negro fighter who is likened to the great Joe Gans has sprung into the limelight by knocking out Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, in the second round. Technically Jack Thompson did not win the water crown as he was forced by Dundee to weigh in at a pound above the official weight. However, Thompson will be regarded by the public as the champion. His natural fighting weight is well within the welter limit.

The welterweight division has been fortunate in regard to its recent champions. After Pete Lazo won the title, he went barnstorming and was knocked down in a no-decision fight by Clyde Hull in Texas. After Dundee won the title, he ran out of a match with Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat. And Dundee's action in compelling Thompson to come in above the welter poundage causes the public to feel scant sympathy for him in defeat.

The major league races are going at a will. Saturday morning, the Chicago Cubs had forged into second place by defeating Cincinnati. The Cubs were four and a half games behind the St. Louis Cardinals. Two games by the rear of Chicago is New York and the wild-stepping Pittsburgh Pirates are practically tied with the Giants. Cincinnati is back of the Pirates by half a game, which means the Reds are in fifth place, seven games out of first position.

In the American loop, the stampeding Athletics were thundering at the gate—only two games from top perch.

Spudders won their tenth straight Friday. The pace the winners of the second half have set has been astounding. Only a short time back they ran up a string of 18 victories before being halted.

STAR MAY BE LOST TO THE RANGER TEAM

Veteran of 1926 West Texas Champions May Be Out.

(From the Ranger Times) The axe of eligibility that has hung over the Ranger high school football teams for the last two years, again makes its appearance and singles out Alfred Glenn, scheduled for the quarterback's place this year.

Coach Esker Curtis announced this morning that Glenn's record was now up for question and was before Roy Henderson of the State Interscholastic league for settlement.

According to Curtis, Glenn stands a good chance of going out on the four year participation record. The blanks signed by Glenn show that he played in 1924, 1925 and 1926.

Last year Glenn was declared ineligible at the beginning of school. Despite this, however, he entered school in order that he might be eligible for this year's play. He went to school the nine months, passed the required work satisfactorily, and was thought to be eligible.

When the Ranger Bulldogs launched their attack against Central high school of Fort Worth, however, Glenn was in the fray. In addition to this, he played basketball and participated in spring training football games. With the three years participation record signed by himself in the Interscholastic league files at Austin, and last year's work against him, it is not thought by school officials that there is a possibility up this year.

Clare Seay, substitute quarterback of 1927, will in all probability be placed at quarter, should Glenn be declared ineligible. Final declaration on Glenn's eligibility will be made in a few days.

Was He the First. Digging back into the ancient files of the Washington and Lee Alumni magazine presents some printed evidence that it was George Sykes, pitcher for the Washington and Lee varsity nine in 1878 and now a dealer in manufacturers' supplies in Atlanta, who first used a curve ball in college baseball.

According to the ancient accounts of that day, Sykes introduced the curve ball against the University of Virginia and won his game 12 to 0. And the Virginians characterized the use of the curve ball as "the scurviest trick that was ever perpetrated in baseball."

The account of the game, published in the Southern Collegian of June 1, 188, as follows:

Lotta Whitewashing "Bullitt won the toss and the W. and L. team took the field. The first inning resulted in a whitewash for both sides. In the second inning Virginia went out in order. For W. and L. McElwee led off by sending the ball over the left field fence and scoring a home run. On Robinson and Sykes' bases hits and errors by the fielding nine one more run was made this inning. In the third inning W. and L. scored three more runs on Gains' and Bullitt's two-basers and singles by Davidson and McElwee. Fielding errors prevented either one of the runs being earned. Virginia went out in one, two, three order. In the fourth inning four runs were made by W. and L. and the fifth inning gave a zero to each nine. The sixth inning resulted in two runs for W. and L., who also made one in the seventh. The eighth inning was another white wash for both sides" . . . as was the ninth, making the final score 12 to 0. Resuming, the story went on:

Some Battery "The chief features of the game were Sykes' curves, which completely bewildered his opponents, and the catching of McElwee, who put out 16 and assisted twice, with but one error. The field play of both nines was far above the general average of amateurs.

"For the University of Virginia Forcher, Dulaney and McKennie did the best work and made some very difficult plays. On the side of W. and L. McCluer, Randall, Davidson and Sykes played without an error. The outfielders had nothing to do, so they were unable to show off except at the bat, where Gains took the lead with three two-base hits."

Hardy Survivors Among the survivors of that old game, in addition to Sykes, are W. B. McCluer, retired real estate operator, Chicago; Arch M. Robinson, retired capitalist, Louisville; W. M. McElwee, president of the People's National Bank, Lexington; J. F. Bullitt, attorney, Philadelphia; Dr. Edward Randall, Galveston, Texas.

Washington Letter

BY RODNEY DUTCHER WASHINGTON.—Proposals for a Nicaraguan canal to be started in the next few years probably are inspired more by military than by commercial motives.

There is no indication that the Panama Canal is fast approaching its maximum carrying capacity. That time is likely not to come in the year 2000, if ever, although the matter is conjectural. The canal now handles about 45 per cent of its present minimum capacity. If and when a third set of locks is built, as was contemplated in the original plans for the ditch, it will be able to take care of more than four times as many ships as are now using it.

Tonnage passing through the canal has shown a steady growth in the last few years, but a saturation point may be reached easily within the next few years. One estimate has been made that the capacity of the canal as it is would not be reached until about 1960.

August Building Breaks All Marks in United States

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Continuing the rapid pace assumed early this summer, construction operations last month established a new record for August activities, according to statistics just compiled by the Associated General Contractors of America.

The total volume of construction registered for the first eight months of this year is more than 2 per cent greater than the figure recorded for the corresponding period of 1927.

Indications that no radical slackening of construction operations will take place during the weeks of the immediate future are being drawn from reports of record-breaking awards of contracts. The volume of contracts awarded during July was the greatest noted for that month in any year on record.

The total volume of contracts awarded during the first seven months of this year is 10 per cent greater than the total gained during the same period in 1927.

A scale which places the 1913 average at 100 as its basis shows the index number for the volume of construction actually under way during August to be 239. Index and if a third set of locks were constructed meanwhile that capacity would be doubled.

Officials of the canal who cite these facts do not understand the persistent agitation for a canal through Nicaragua.

The most seaworthy argument in favor of a second canal, however, is made from the standpoint of military strategy and the national defense. It is held that in event of war against the United States the canal might easily be put out of commission, with disastrous possibilities for our navy. Hence, wouldn't it be much safer to have a second canal to fall back on in an emergency?

It will doubtless occur to the reader that if the Panama Canal can be blown up or bottled up, the same thing might be done to any Nicaraguan canal. Nevertheless, the argument is that two canals are better than one and that in the unlikely event that an earthquake should some time destroy one, the other in all probability would be left intact.

It is not difficult to demonstrate that if, in war or peace, there is danger to the present canal, a second canal which would guarantee a canal in perpetuity, come what might, would be worth the cost. The cost of a Nicaraguan canal, incidentally, is estimated as high as a billion dollars.

HAILETTTSVILLE—$50,000 paving bonds and $35,000 sewer bonds will be voted on here September 7.

Training School For Motherhood Is Primary Purpose of Nursery School Now Conducted At the University of Texas

Special to The Telegram.
AUSTIN, Texas.—To provide a training school for motherhood is the primary purpose of the Nursery School at the University of Texas, according to Miss Bess Hefflin, associate professor of home economics and acting head of the department.

"Unlike the aim of most day nurseries, that of the Nursery School is not primarily to provide a place for the care of children," Miss Hefflin explained, "but is to furnish a school where the physical care and mental development of children from the age of four months to five years may be observed and engaged in by women students of the University under the direction of expert teachers and health and nutrition specialists."

The Nursery School comprises the laboratory for the Division of Child Care and Training in the department of home economics at the University. This division was established in the fall of 1926 with an appropriation of $10,000 granted by the Texas Public Health Association. The Nursery School was opened on January 17, 1927, and has operated continuously during the long season and summer session since then. The home for the Nursery School, a remodeled residence, ideally located and arranged, was furnished and equipped by the University.

Children Enrolled.
"From sixteen to eighteen children under five years of age are enrolled in the school," said Miss Hefflin. "They come from parents in all walks of life—clerks, students, teachers, merchants, salesmen, etc. While all the children taken in must be free from disease, there are always a few nutrition and behavior problem children who are studied and worked with by the students. Improvement in every case of this kind has been marked, and the gratitude of the parents has been unbounded."

"The students in the department of home economics are required to take a course in child care and training, and the Nursery School is used as a practical laboratory in all phases of the care of the child, from preparing milk formulae and bathing the infant to a study of feeding, behavior problems and all angles of mental development of the old children. Women students making a study of the psychology of the preschool child also have an opportunity of observing in the Nursery School."

"The effect of the training is far-reaching. Not only will these future mothers themselves, but in the interim between graduation and marriage, the joy of them will teach home economics in the high schools of the state and will pass this training on to hundreds of high school girls who will not go to college but will marry early and will profit by this preparatory training."

Research Laboratory.
"In addition to giving immediate training to students, the Nursery School should serve as a research laboratory in problems of health, physical care and mental training of children. Many state and out-of-state visitors who are interested in the Nursery School movement have studied the organization of the Nursery School at the University with the aim of improving their own day nurseries, health centers or preventorium in other sections. This school should be in a position to render a service in assisting with plans and policies of such organizations elsewhere."

While the Nursery School as a training laboratory for motherhood is comparatively new at the University and in the South, Miss Hefflin said, practically all of the leading universities of the East have such schools well established. There are nursery schools at Cornell, the University of Chicago, Columbia University, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Minnesota and other large universities, practically all of which are supported by grants from the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation.

"The funds for this experiment will be exhausted by January, 1929," Miss Hefflin went on, "but it is the opinion of all who are familiar with the work that it is entirely too valuable to be discontinued. The University Health Service and the educational psychology departments have given freely their services in this work, and various members of the home economics staff have worked untrudgingly on it."

On Waiting List.
A waiting list of 22 children for the coming year proclaims the high regard in which parents of Austin hold the Nursery School. Several of these are not even of Nursery School age, but have been enrolled by their parents in order that they may have a good chance of securing admittance when they reach the desired age.

"The children are examined by Miss Nell Freund, the Nursery School nurse, each morning when they are brought to the school by their parents," Miss Hefflin explained, and any child who has a communicable disease is not allowed to enter the school that day. Supervised free play under the direction of Miss Helen Streit, Nursery School teacher, constitutes the biggest part of the daily program. At 10.30 each morning, the children are given their orange juice and their oil. Shortly before noon, they are taken up-stairs for a twenty-minute rest period just before their noon-day meal, which is their heavy meal for the day.

"They lay and serve their own tables, with a student observer at each table to watch them and help them when it is necessary. All meals are planned by Dr. Jet Winters, nutrition specialist of the University department of home economics. Immediately after dinner, the children are undressed for their afternoon nap, which occupies them until 3 or 3:30 o'clock, when they are fed graham crackers and milk, then they are allowed to play until their parents call for them."

Sports Matter

BY STAN ERSKINE,
United Press Staff Correspondent
A feature of the National League race as the season goes into the final stretch is the on-rushing drive of the Pittsburgh Pirates to repeat as champions for 1928.

A big factor in this drive is the capable mound work of Remy Kremer, ace of the Pirate staff. His series of consecutive victories have aided the National League champions to maintain a winning average of around .700 since July 4.

All this for a player whom scouts termed "too old" for major league service.

In 1915 the name of Remy Kremer was listed among the twenty pitching recruits at the Giants' training camp in Marlin, Texas. Kremer was from California and was homesick for his native state. After suffering a sunstroke and broken in health he was shipped back to the Pacific Coast.

Then in 1925 his work against the Washington Senators in the world series established him as one of the outstanding pitchers in the national pastime. Only a game man would have been able to make the brilliant up-hill fight which characterized Kremer's career in baseball. He may be too old but at 31 he is among the youngest in baseball in point of effectiveness and pitching skill. Last season he was ranked third among National League pitchers.

Eight Years in Oakland.
Barney Dreyfuss threw Kremer into the breach to save a world's championship in 1925. Back in 1915 his second year in professional baseball the Giants signed Kremer from Sacramento only to let him go back without pitching a big league game. In 1916 he signed with Oakland and for eight years he toiled in that city without a single major league scout giving him any consideration.

Kremer tells the story of his ascent to the big leagues. "Eight years I pitched in Oakland. I thought I was doomed to the minors forever. I won and won. Scouts came and went away. Then finally when I had given up hope of another major trial there came along old Joe Devine a fellow I had known all my life and he insisted upon Pittsburgh giving me a trial. After all the years I had my chance and I grabbed it and held on tight."

Bested Senators.
The sixth game of the world series in 1925 saw Kremer rise to pitching heights worthy of the greatest mound stars in baseball's history. The Senators had won three games and the Pirates two. Kremer had lost the third game of the series in a wintry win in Washington. He faced Bucky Harris' fighting team in that decisive game with a sore arm. For the first two innings he was hit hard, but after that his arm warmed up and he held the American League's hitters helpless for the rest of the game. It was a masterly performance the veteran minor leaguer

Prince of Wales To Marry Her?

Back Home With Hoover

Memories of barefoot boyhood days came thronging back into the mind of Herbert Hoover, republican presidential nominee, when he visited old friends and familiar scenes in his home town of West Branch, Ia. At the top Mrs. Hoover (left) is talking to Mrs. Jennie Seclars, present occupant of the house where Hoover was born, while Mr. Hoover is conversing with Mrs. Mollie Carran, his old school teacher to whom he paid tribute in his radio address. Below to the left, Allan Hoover, in the doorway and his father are leaving the old home after a breakfast of ham and eggs. In the picture at the right Hoover is examining an ear of corn in one of the fields near the village, and talking things over with Newt Butler, who was a boyhood chum. Newt now operates a soda water place in West Branch and is famous as the town's only democrat.

turned in that day to give the Pirates their chance to get into and win the seventh game and the world's championship.

Last season when the Pirates lined up against the Yankees in the first game of the world series in Pittsburgh, Kremer threw the mound assignment. The Pirates showed more scoring skill in this game than in any other. Kremer allowed five hits in five innings, errors paying the way for a 5 to 4 win for the Yankees.

Kremer has an impressive pitching record during his service in the National League. He won eighteen and lost ten in 1924, won fourteen and lost eight in 1925, won twenty and lost six in 1926 and won nineteen and lost eight in 1927. This season promises to be one of the best in his career.

SHOE-TOSSING IS VERBOTEN

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The time-honored custom of playfully tossing old shoes at the groom, tying tin cans and other noise-producing articles on the rear of automobiles used by bridal parties, and blowing of horns by cars in a bridal procession, will be cause for arrest hereafter.

The Buffalo health department classifies such acts as those of "morons, diabolical, and threatening the health of the sick and nervous."

Throwing old shoes at the groom is said to be fraught with danger—a blow on the head often resulting in a fatal injury.

TOUGH LOOKING "VILLAIN" HAS GENTLE WAYS

Hollywood's "Bad Man" In Pictures Is Educated, Kindly and Highly Regarded.

By GEORGE H. BEAEL,
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD.—Here is Hollywood's greatest paradox.

Louis Wolheim, often credited with being the toughest looking man in pictures and always cast in hard guy roles, is one of the most interesting and intelligent characters in the colony.

A conversation with Wolheim is a liberal education, in itself. He has an amazing control of the English language and he mixes words of unpronounceable dimensions with an even more choice selection of slang.

He gets dash into most any discussion but he excels in belaboring Hollywood executives who entertain opinions on the silent drama contrary to his own.

Wolheim sounds like a practiced alienist when he rolls off the various mental deficiencies of these executives. He usually ends a particularly difficult English construction with a volley of the best underworld jargon of the day.

His precise English came through his education and his subsequent service as an instructor at Cornell University. His underworld dialect was picked up by contact with gangsters who have played with him in pictures.

Obviously well-read he discusses all subjects with ease but after the Hollywood executive his favorite topic is the rum-runner and the gun-fighter.

He believes that Hollywood may be partially to blame for Southern California's rum war, now grown to proportions to rival that of Chicago.

"A great number of gang pictures are being produced now," he says, "and these naturally place a premium on the hard boy type."

"The modern gunman is a vain creature and he likes to see his face in pictures. Too, he dislikes the idea of any tea-eating actor putting on a high neck jersey and a black eye and pretending to be what he ain't."

"When the trade is brisk, Southern California is a fertile rum-running field and the Mexican border a good one in case of trouble. When trade is poor there is Hollywood and the flickers."

Much to the delight of the proprietors, Wolheim recently visited the Johanna Smith, Southern California's noted gambling boat.

After a bad evening at the craps, roulette, poker and chuch-a-luck tables, the actor admitted he never had seen a place where gambling was so little a matter of chance.

"You might call that gambling," he said, "but I call it giving money away."

A Waterspout in the China Sea

A rare sight for the crew of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh was this, and a narrow escape for them. For the phenomenon caught by the camera's eye is a waterspout, or sea-cyclone, that passed within 500 yards of the ship when she lay at the mouth of the Yangtze-Kiang river in China recently. The twister, speeding along the sea, was of such force that it drew a stream of water through its vortex. Had it reached the ship serious damage would have resulted.

Do You Know

That one of the best ways to build a city is for the citizens to unite in building up home institutions?

That a campaign of education to teach the importance of the home city should be put upon many cities?

That too many people make their living in a city and spend most all they make in some other city?

That outside concerns pay no taxes in your city; all they do is take away and put nothing back.

That people who have pride in the home city and want to see it progress, who want to see their city kept out of the rut, who want to help instead of hinder, have the proper spirit. They buy at home!

That the home city should be in the minds of every citizen and the business of the home city should rank first, if it does not, then the people who forget it are not worthy to live in the city and be supported by it.

Good citizens have the interest of the home city at heart and they appreciate the blessings their city offers; they are engaging with others to make the home city bigger and better.

The very greatest business in the world, however, is the business of running the home. That is very largely woman's job.

It is the greatest business, the greatest enterprise economically, educationally, religiously and patriotically. The vast amount of money spent every day in our business goes largely for things for the home—and our American Citizenship comes primarily from the home—that is where real fundamental patriotism is nurtured.

Economic Problems.

The women of the community are in position to render a tremendously valuable service in the local economic problem. Our towns are being over-run with agents, peddlers and solicitors of various kinds who come into the community and take business away with out hearing their just share of the BURDEN OF TAXATION. They do not help in the support of the community in any way. The merchandise they sell is no better than can be had at the local stores—they usually induce people to buy more than they would buy at the store; they do not support the church, the school nor the general society of the community. They do not help carry the burden of taxes to pave streets, build roads, maintain sanitary conditions nor any of these things in which the people are interested.

They go direct to the homes and deal very largely with the women of the community. Then it is largely woman's problem to meet this situation.

If the women of the city and community at large would simply get together and refuse to patronize the outside concerns, or their representatives, they could very readily abate what is usually looked upon by them as a nuisance. And, surely, they would be rendering a most valuable service to the community at large.

When the women, and the people in general of this town patronize outside concerns—through agents, peddlers, mail orders etc., they are simply robbing themselves. The people support their institutions—either they are compelled by the law to contribute, as in the case of supporting the schools, paving streets, etc., or they contribute voluntarily as in the support of the church and other worthy institutions.

Then it certainly follows that it is good common sense for the people to support the things of the community that make it possible for the people—themselves to enjoy the prosperity that makes these institutions possible.

The men and women of the community should get together and have a workable understanding. The business men should see to it that the people can get the things they want at the local stores at proper prices. Then the women should agree with the business men that they, in their homes, will not patronize the representatives of outside concerns.

POE FURNITURE CO.
J. N. (Jim POE, Prop.)
115 East Commerce Eastland

This is a simple way of meeting a problem that is becoming a real economic problem in this country. There is a powerful national organization of direct to consumer concerns—the purpose of which is to further the interest of these concerns against home town business concerns. They are working against local ordinances and other obstacles that may be thrown in their way to prevent their coming into the town and selling goods—without paying taxes.

But if the people—the men and women—of the town will get together in a friendly way they can meet this situation without an ordinance. The most powerful ordinance in the world is that of mutual understanding.

Boys and Girls At Home.

One of the very greatest responsibilities of the community at large is making it pleasant and profitable for the young men and young women of the town and community to remain at home. We burden ourselves to support our schools—build the finest school houses possible, employ the very best teachers, buy the most modern and up to date equipment to educate our boys and girls. Then, all too often, pay absolutely no attention to the matter of HOLDING them after they have finished in the schools. This is a tremendous economic waste—both for the community and for the boys and girls who have to go out in the world and start at the bottom in making a living.

It should always be remembered that the young men and young women as a rule do not just leave home. Rather they are kicked out through indifference or they are drawn away by the great economic magnet that offers them greater opportunity in making a living.

In the city of Davenport, Iowa when a boy or girl graduates from the high school they are presented with a letter from their chamber of commerce with their diploma. This letter tells them that a position is awaiting them there at home as soon as they are ready for it. Their boys and girls do not have to go away from home to get something to do; they are given an opportunity to make a living right there among the home folks.

The result is that their young men and young women are starting life farther up the ladder than they could possibly do away from home—the city is developing a greater prosperity. The world is hearing of this magnificent spirit, and people are going to that city with their business.

No one in the community can possibly have a greater influence upon the youth than that of the women in the home, in the schools and in the society.

So her influence in modern business is not only a tremendously powerful thing directly, but it is equally powerful indirectly.

Speaking at the afternoon conference on "Creating the Right Community Spirit," Mr. Vardaman said:

Spirit of People

The importance of "Spirit" among the people is recognized in every town and community today. People appreciate the fact as never before that the matter of developing the community and its institutions is a thing that must have the attention of the people—a few cannot accomplish all. A few can lead but, as in the day of Nehemiah, "the people must be together in the mind to work."

Then the all-important question is, how can the proper spirit—the co-operative spirit—be developed? The answer is, by doing something constructive seems to be in the air in every city, town and community throughout the country. Everywhere leaders are asking what to do, and how to go about arousing the people.

In answering the question it must be remembered that we are dealing with the human element. Then it follows that there must be:

First—Leadership. A leadership of foresight and farsight—a leadership of vision; a leadership of unselfish men and women who are willing to go forth and do—and then stand the criticism that may be hurled at them.

Second—An aroused public. The public—the people at large must have an interest if lasting results are to be attained.

Then the public at large must be made to realize that:

1.—The city or town as the community center is a necessity as an economic proposition. The farmer who happens to own land near the community center—the town proper has a more valuable property than the one living five or eight or ten miles away. It is always the cause that property values decrease or increase as the city is approached in accordance with the proximity to that center.

Property Values

It is often said that "foot steps" is the only thing that makes property values. The more people there are passing a given point—the more foot steps—the greater the value of that property. Then it follows that the more people we have interested in the town the more valuable all the adjacent property becomes.

2.—The people of the entire community should realize that the town as the community center affords the greatest possible educational, religious and social advantages. The best schools, churches and societies are always found where people unite in their efforts to have these things. The best teachers cannot be employed in the small isolated school simply because there are not enough people there to bear the burden. Neither can the small church have as great a choir or minister as the church that has more people to support its activities.

These things are of vital interest in prosperous business inside his town as well as outside—then, too, the people of the town are directly and vitally interested in the prosperity of the people outside.

A prosperous consuming public always makes good markets for the products of the farmer—and prosperous farmers, laborers, etc., make markets for manufactured products.

The laborer, the professional man, the minister, teacher, business man—all are interested in the development of all the community. Then surely all should co-operate. All should work together in the up-building of the institutions and industries of the entire community.

children—they like to play. Then let the people be brought together in their play as often as possible. People play at their picnics, carnivals, dances, fairs, etc.

2.—When people play together they unconsciously learn to think together—and people must think favorably before they will act favorably.

3.—Then when the people of the community think together they will act together—and not until then.

The great cities of the country have their problems of arousing the people, just as the smaller cities have. But they are accomplishing marvelous results. Vast sums of money are being spent in the great cities just to make it pleasant for people—parks and boulevards and amusement places are considered a part of the modern city life because they appeal to the great majority of people.

Then the leaders in the smaller cities should know that to appeal to their young manhood and young womanhood two cardinal principles should always be remembered—that is, that it must be made profitable and pleasant for people in the community is to enjoy the support of the people in general.

The four primary or basic elements of our civilization are: Business, Educational, Religious and general social institutions. As we elevate these four things we raise the standard of our civilization—our life in general—these things the people are interested in.
