FORT WORTH, Sept. 4.—Arkansas' most distinguished citizen, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, got a taste of Texas speed during a brief stop in Fort Worth this morning. Arriving at the railway station 30 minutes late Robinson spent a busy 15 minutes shaking hands with hundreds of persons while his special car was being shunted to the westbound train.

Robinson was presented with a 100-pound Parker County watermelon, the gift of Federal Judge James C. Wilson.

RACING DRIVER CRASHES AND MEETS DEATH

BLAIR LEWIS SLIGHTLY HURT IN CAR CRASH

Is Unconscious For Several Hours, But No Bones Broken, and Speedy Recovery Forecast.

Blair Lewis, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lewis, escaped with only severe bruises when his automobile crashed about 8 o'clock Monday night on the Breckenridge highway, about eight miles from Eastland. He was driving a Buick coupe and rounded a curve in the road too fast, the car going over the embankment and diving into a ditch about 20 feet deep. It turned over several times. The young man was driving alone.

Lewis was taken from the car unconscious and hurried into Eastland, where he was attended by Dr. F. T. Isbell at the Payne & Carter sanitarium. He was unconscious most of the night, but appeared to be alright this morning. Dr. Isbell reported no bones broken and only a few superficial cuts. He said that severe bruises appeared to be the extent of the injuries and he expected the young man would be removed to his home this afternoon and be quite himself in a few days.

Blair Lewis is a sophomore in the University of Texas, and Dr. Isbell said he would probably be fully recovered before the university, about two weeks hence.

The car was badly wrecked.

RACING DRIVER CRASHES AND MEETS DEATH

Eddie Neva of San Antonio Killed in Cushing, Okla., Race Meet.

CUSHING, Okla., Sept. 4.—Eddie Neva, San Antonio, Texas, racing driver was killed when his speedster crashed through the fence at the Labor Day speedway race here. About 8,000 spectators saw the accident.

Neva was hurled 15 feet from his car, his skull was fractured and he died on the way to the hospital.

The accident occurred in the fifth lap of the race when Neva tried to pass a car driven by John Bolling of Tulsa, Okla. A rear wheel of Neva's car locked with a front wheel of Bolling's, but Bolling broke loose and finally won the sweepstakes.

Dr. Tanner Finds Summer Outing In Rockies Enjoyable

Dr. H. B. Tanner, who returned several days ago from a summer trip to Colorado and other Rocky Mountain states, said he had a very enjoyable trip and is looking forward to another outing of like character next year. He was accompanied by Mrs. Tanner, by their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Tanner, and the latter's daughter.

"Many of the mountain passes are steep and winding, but I drove through them like a veteran, said Dr. Tanner. "Much of the scenery is beautiful and the country apparently very wild, but the splendid roads show the hand of civilization."

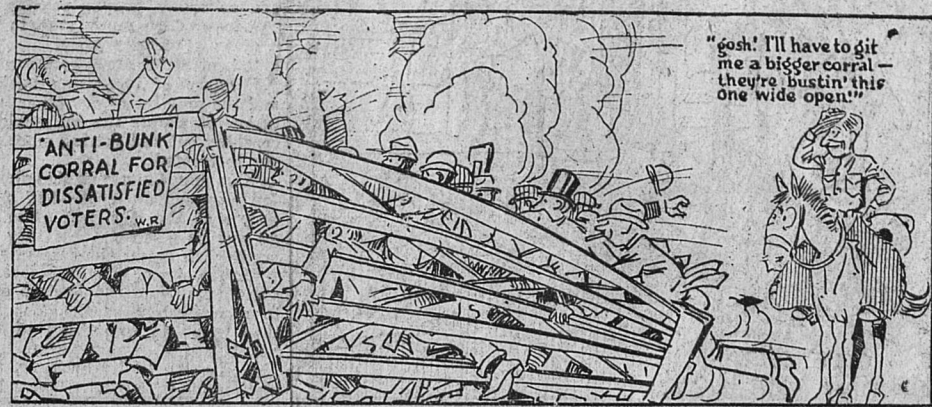

Dr. Tanner said they met Mr. and Mrs. Jep Little and their daughter, Miss Virginia, while in the mountains and they traveled together for a day or two.

Fish Stories Lead To Tragic Strife

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 4.—Clarence Hillegas, 32, is near death from a fractured skull he received when an exchange of fish stories turned into a bitter fight.

Hillegas went fishing with Richard Schantz. A rain storm drove them to shelter and they began to pass the time passing fish stories. A fight ensued, Hillegas said Schantz delight his kiss head with a clanking at Rod

Will Rogers Declares Against Notification

Will Rogers is unalterably opposed to notification ceremonies. In his weekly appeal for support as the candidate of the Anti-Bunk party, for which he was nominated in Life, the humorous weekly, by fifteen famous Americans, he says: "I think sometimes notifications are done too early and taken too seriously. Of course there is one thing about a notification and that is it is the last big public function that most political candidates will ever have."

It gives them a chance, however, to declare that they are for the party platform. Even Smith declared he was for the Democratic platform, which means that he is SOME Declarer.

And Herbert? Did you ever see a man become more thoroughly Republicanized in the last nine years than he has? Nine years ago he didn't know if he was a Republican, Democrat, Bull Moose, or an Elk, or Korian. He said he was just an American.

But Lord now after reading his acceptance speech, why the Republican Party has practically unaided performed the following miracles: "Stopped the war," "prevented another from starting," "rounded out the stomachs of the destitute," "lowered the taxes to a painless point," "put a radio on every plow," "brought General Motors stock to a point where the holders could even afford to be Democrats," "made a fisherman out of Coolidge," "almost captured Sardino," and "brought Prohibition up to the level of a Noble Experiment."

Then they went to Albany to spring the big surprise on Al and everything went fine. Even the weather was wet.

So as I say the summer has been practically taken up and ruined by nothing but notifications, so the Anti-Bunk Party comes out strong against Notifications.

Let the Candidates learn their fate on November 6th. Our Party thinks that if a man is in Public Life and he can't find out what is going on without a Committee telling him, why he has no business asking for the Public's support.

The old Anti-Bunk Party is the only party smart enough to know they was running without having to be told by a Senator. If we can't find out anything quicker than a Senator then we don't deserve to be a Candidate.

I am working now on my Cabinet, and my object is to find men for the Cabinet who won't think the positions lead to the White House.

Mission of Organized Labor In Community Development and Progress

Labor Day was delightfully celebrated in Eastland, Monday, the parade in the morning, the barbecue and picnic in the City Park together with games and contests proving enjoyable to the hundreds who participated, and the speeches of James Grisham, in the nature of a welcome; of Allen D. Dabney, on "Organized Labor" and of Ben R. Vardaman on "The New Labor Day" sparkling in a manner that not only set off the day as a noteworthy event, but gave it a charm all its own. Mr. Vardaman said in part: "Today is one of the great days in America—for it is the day more than any other when people stop to think of what others are doing, and it is always a splendid thing for people in their daily routine to consider the work and the welfare of others."

"Labor Day has had a tremendous influence in changing and broadening the mind of the public at large. We have an entirely different attitude regarding labor today, than we had a decade ago; much of the change has been caused by the open book, so to speak, of labor as it has been seen on Labor Day.

"It has been but a few years when Labor Day was an occasion for riots and other outbreaks; parades were interrupted, often broken up entirely, by those prejudiced against labor organizations. But today the attitude is entirely different; business in general recognize the importance of this day—churches recognize it as a tremendous influence for good and individuals of foresight and far-sight see in it far more than a mere holiday.

"Today Labor Day is a day of recreation, of sports and fellowship. Recreation when carefully spelled means re-creation; men and women who toil meet their fellows in their and other crafts, the spirit of fellowship is kindled anew—and always good is bound to come from these things."

"Labor Today Has Vision" "Labor today has vision as never before; it looks upon the world with an open mind and an eye for construction, rather than with a selfish mind dominated by the thought of destruction. Every great structure we see is the vision of some one, some builder, who has been backed by the loyal hands of labor. Without the two combined we could have no progress. The dam thrown across the street—the great dam across the Mississippi at Keokuk, for instance, was first merely a vision of the brilliant young Civil Engineer, Robert E. Lee. Then later when other engineers came and viewed the same old aspect their visions that Rod did to blue prints. The (laborers) of the day, so conoday the

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 4.—Rockford's two flyers, Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, have been instructed to use their own judgment in the matter of salvaging their plane, the "Greater Rockford," which is stranded on the ice of Greenland.

The flyers radioed their backers from the headquarters of the University of Michigan expedition at Mount Evans advising them that they had left the plane on the ice. They asked whether they should attempt to salvage it.

"YELLOW BIRD" ESSAYS FLIGHT ACROSS OCEAN

Two Frenchmen Now Trying To Hop Over Atlantic From East To West.

LE BOURGET FELD, PARIS, France, Sept. 4.—A brilliantly painted monoplane, "The Yellow Bird" started from Le Bourget field this morning with Sergeants Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre at the controls, bound on a long distance flight.

The two had prepared for weeks for a direct flight to New York, but at the last minute said they had made no itinerary other than that they would fly to the Azores, while engineers who worked on the craft's flight official would be inscribed on the government records as Le Bourget to Dakar, Africa.

For several weeks the two had been preparing for a trans-Atlantic flight. They had mapped out a course that would lead direct to New York. They ordered their machine fueled for a 30-hour flight and carried provisions for the long over-water jump.

Monday they made an attempt at a takeoff. They had received word that trans-Atlantic weather was good and started from Le Bourget field. Their machine was too heavily loaded, however, and failed to rise from the long runway.

The plane has no radio set and all ships are asked to report passing of the craft and give any assistance necessary.

By United Press. LE BOURGET FELD, Paris, France, Sept. 4.—The "Yellow Bird" landed at Casablanca, Morocco, at 4:30 p. m. it was announced here today. The plane in which Sergeant Assolant and Lefevre started a long distance flight from here this morning was forced down by a leaky oil pipe, a message said.

By United Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Committees of the Brotherhood of Railway trainmen and the order of railway conductors met here today to consider a mediation proposal which may avert a threatened strike among 70,000 employees on 55 western railroads.

Although the majority of trainmen and conductors have voted for the strike, the walkout will not be called if the peace plans drawn up in Washington last week by representatives of the railroads, Brotherhoods and the federal board of mediation, should prove satisfactory to the brotherhood committees now in session here.

High officials of the two organizations said it may be two or three days before the committees could reach an agreement on the mediation proposal. Until then they are withholding the final result of the strike vote.

VARDAMAN HAS BIG AUDIENCE TO HEAR HIM

Will Make Two Addresses Tonight and Three Tomorrow. One At Special Meeting For the Women.

Increasing interest is being shown each day in the program of the Greater Business and Community Institute, which will be brought to a conclusion Wednesday. Ben R. Vardaman, editor, author and community building lecturer, had a busy time this morning, having many conferences by appointment with business men wishing counsel on personal problems.

At noon today, in the Connellie Hotel roof garden, Mr. Vardaman addressed a joint session of the Rotarians and the Lions, president over by Donald Kinnard, president of the Lions. He spoke on "Team Work in Meeting Today's Problems." Tonight at 7:45 o'clock Mr. Vardaman will address a sales meeting in the roof garden, and at 9 o'clock this evening he will speak at a joint meeting of business men and Bankhead Poultry Club, which will be held in the merc.

Wednesday FOR SALE red letter day ranches arranged for 512 Texas State Connellie H. 4, phone 398-R, man will address Community Spirit.

At 8 o'clock he will address a joint meeting of all the Women's Clubs and all other women wish to attend. It will be held in the Connellie roof garden and the subject will be "Women's Influence In Modern Business." At 8 o'clock Wednesday evening a sales meeting will be held in the roof garden when Mr. Vardaman will speak on "Suggestions in Salesmanship."

Nearly one hundred business men attended the luncheon at noon today, and heard an address on "Thrilled with the community building possibilities." Mr. Vardaman is a fluent and forceful talker and holds the interest of his hearers from first to last. He is an inspiring talker, who is able to present a vivid word picture and carries his auditors with him in visions of the future when building on the right foundation.

Speaking today on team work, Mr. Vardaman said in part: "The town situated as Eastland is, today occupies a strategic position and an exceedingly dangerous situation. "Strategic in that it is in center of a great community and has, therefore, a very great opportunity for development if its leadership is on the alert, and if there is a harmonious co-operative effort in the present territory."

"The town today that is not growing and expanding is in reality going back—for the whole population is increasing, and the general business of the country is increasing.

"In thinking of today's problems we should thoroughly appreciate the fact that the problems of today are entirely different to any problems of former days. There is no business man who can successfully conduct his business today on yesterday's plane—there is no church that can be successfully conducted as we carried on our church work yesterday, no school conducted as it was formerly conducted. Conditions in every field are changing—and changing rapidly.

"Mr. Edward Filene, of Boston, one of the great business men of this day recently said that he predicts the greatest change in the business of the smaller cities of the country within the next five years—that the business world has evolved. Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, predicts that change will come within ten years. Other eminent leaders sense the same tendency.

"The wise merchant today does not speak of 'my customers' in tone of ownership or proprietorship of the olden days. He knows that no merchant can lay claim to customers as his own—they

ELKS LABOR DAY DANCE A SUCCESS

About one hundred and seven couples tripped the light fantastic toe at the Elks Labor Day dance, which began just after midnight, and wound its way through the morning hours to the time when the old Sol peered at them so brightly that daylight was let in, electric lights put out and the dance ended.

Pretty favors of clauques, in bright hues, decorated with enameled kitchen heads, were distributed in the German figures, and brilliant hued paper caps used for other novel figures. The music by the "Rangers" was more than delightful. This was one of the most satisfactory and pleasing holiday dances that the Elks have sponsored.

city work together in their various activities they can go out and appeal to the public outside to support the business and other institutions of the city.

People Make Prosperity "It should always be remembered that the one thing upon which business and all other institutions in the community rest is the support of people. The one thing that makes property values is foot-steps. The more people there are passing a given point the greater is the value of that property. In Chicago recently a merchant purchased a piece of real estate at a figure a little more than $23,000 per front foot. What makes that property worth $23,000 per foot when property on the main street of Eastland can be purchased for so much less? Just the simple fact that there are so many thousands of foot-steps past that property every day.

"Another corner in Chicago—10x20 feet—rents for $16,000 annually. The man who pays the rent sells orange drinks at 10c per glass. How can he afford to pay such rent in a little business of this kind? Why, simply because there are so many people passing his corner—and so many stop to buy a glass of orange juice.

"Then, surely we can see the philosophy of increasing business and the prestige of our other institutions is simply the philosophy of reaching out and getting more people interested.

"One man can not do this alone—ten men can do it all—but if the people of the city will unite and go out as a great team they can accomplish tremendous results.

"In the city of Omaha, Nebraska, some years ago the leaders came to a realization of the fact that they must do something to turn the tide that was against them. The city was losing business, population and prestige. A great banquet was planned—the leaders in five business organizations came together to consider the situation; the result was the five hundred men at that dinner got together and went forth as a great team to push back the horizon of their city. They turned the tide, the city immediately began growing, teaching and expanding. Then they had a population of about 115,000, today they boast of 240,000—business of every kind has increased proportionately.

"In Columbus, Mass., in the year 1914 the business leaders—merchants, bankers, wholesalers, etc.—and the farmers got together to meet their problems. At that time there was one creamery in the state of Mississippi, but it was felt that the industry could and should be a special train was chartered and these business men, farmers and others interested went up through the great dairy section of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois. They learned much about the industry. Then they went home and organized to develop the industry. Within 10 years there were 25 creameries in the state—and in the city of Columbus alone the returns had aggregated over $30,000,000 dollars. Now the industry is being rapidly developed throughout the entire state.

"One farmer could not do it—but the united effort of the farmers and the business men did accomplish most wonderful results.

"Throughout the country today we find many striking examples of development. But without exception where we find permanent development in our cities, towns and communities we find back of it all a united effort 'team work' upon the part of the leaders—and through the leaders an aroused public conscience.

"This meeting is under the auspices of your joint clubs—the Lions and Rotary Clubs—the tenets upon which these organizations have their tap roots in the

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM'N POP

LOVE FOR TWO RUTH DEWEY GROVES © 1928 By NEA Service Inc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Bertie Lou Ward marries Rod Bryer, who had previously been engaged to Lila Marsh. The latter amuses herself by telling their friends that she was Rod's first love, and continues to make life miserable for the bride until she meets a rich Mr. Loree and marries him. Then she asks Bertie Lou to forgive the past. Trying to keep up socially with wealthy friends plunges the Bryers in debt and Rod becomes depressed. Lila seizes her chance to persuade him to accept a higher salary from Loree. Shortly after, she asks Rod to put some jewels in the safe during her husband's absence. The jewels disappear, and Rod wants to notify the police but Lila insists that they keep the matter secret, pointing out that suspicion against him might spoil his career. Bertie Lou finds out that he has been seeing Lila secretly and is heartbroken. She is called home to her sick mother, and has to catch a train without seeing Rod. The separation, added to Lila's plotting, causes a coldness to spring up between them. Bertie Lou returns on the eve of their first anniversary to find Rod apparently indifferent. Each expects the other to make advances. Rod goes to the Lorees without her, and Bertie Lou goes out with Marco Palmer to retaliate. Coming home, Marco kisses her unexpectedly at the door and Rod sees it. He offers Bertie Lou a divorce and she counters with the same offer to him. They finally agree to make a go of it, but Rod cuts down on extravagance and Bertie Lou thinks he is spending the money on Lila, so she goes out more and more with Marco. Now Go on With the Story CHAPTER XXXII Bertie Lou had left her room door open. On the bed was the half-filled suitcase into which she was throwing silken garments and toilet articles indiscriminately. Rod was struck by her hasty carelessness. Bertie Lou had always been fastidiously neat. Now he saw with surprise that her room was disordered and untidy. He could not understand it. The rest of the apartment was as clean and orderly as ever. Bertie Lou could have told him of aching weariness and tired flesh that rebelled under the lash of a prideful spirit; of nooping on floors at 3 hours, when her head ached painfully; of how her fingers trembled over the keys. She could have told him of a complete lack of strength to carry her industry into her own room. The rest of the day she felt guilty. Next it was the dresser that was left undisturbed. Presently only the places that showed were swept and dusted. And, finally, any hour of the day or night would have found the foot of the bed and the two chairs decorated with a garment or two. Bertie Lou used her room almost exclusively for changing her clothes. Now and then she snatched a few fitful hours of sleep—just barely enough to keep her going. Her splendid young constitution carried her through, though anyone who loved her would have been pained to see the hollow cheeks and the feverish restlessness of her eyes. They seemed fair to glitter. She looked up and saw Rod's face bent questioning upon her.

Gridiron Thrills

CISCO vs. ABILENE, 1924

By BOYCE HOUSE.

Inasmuch as the "modern era" of football in the oil belt district dates from that historic September afternoon in 1924 when the Cisco Lobos shattered the Abilene tradition, a series of sketches on "gridiron thrills of the past" could not find a more appropriate starting point than the Lobo-Eagle battle of four years ago. Until that time, Abilene had been the monarch of all its surveyed in West Texas and its right there was none to dispute. Other teams of this region considered the Eagles a "super-team" that was invincible.

But Cisco's victory shifted the center of football interest to the oil belt proper—Eastland and Stephens counties—and it resulted in a season of the greatest crowds that the sport had ever witnessed in the district. Interest and attendance have steadily increased year by year, and the level of competition has become higher and higher.

It was a brilliant throng that witnessed that great game in 1924 on the Fair Park field in Abilene. Five thousand people filled the stands—a record crowd for intradistrict games, up till that time. It was a battle that brought together teams filled with rivalry—Abilene, state champions of 1923, and Cisco, the only eleven to cross the Eagle goal line in that great season. It was the first official game of the 1924 season, and for each team. The victors would go on to at least a West Texas championship, and the vanquished would see all this before the game was over.

"The Big Parade." Fifty-five men in Abilene uniform jogging around in a line that completely enclosed the field. It was a wonderful piece of psychology that Coach Lee Jones had evolved. The parade of gridiron soldiers demonstrated, as could have no other spectacle, the story of the great reserve strength of Abilene High, proudly defending its hard-won state championship. The teams lined up. Cisco kicked off. On the first play from scrimmage, Compton, a swift-stepping Eagle halfback, swept around right end for 40 yards. Hearts of Cisco fans grew faint, but little Fields brought him down and averted a touchdown. Ernie Wilson, veteran Lobo end, tore off his helmet and flung it to the ground—for it was around his end that Compton had sped. And throughout the remainder of that grim game, the yellow, tousled hair of Wilson was like the plume of Navarre—in the thick of the battle. There were no more gallops around Wilson's zone. When that first spectacular sprint of Compton was halted, more than one Cisco fan thought "They're the state champions; our boys just can't hold them."

But the Abilene drive was stopped right then and there. Bryan, the big end, went back to punt. Cisco failed to advance the ball and punted in return. And the remainder of the half was the "irresistible force" and the "immovable object"—Abilene's brilliant backfield but not so brilliant line being counter-balanced by Cisco's mighty line but not so mighty backfield.

It was in the third quarter that the "break came." Cisco fumbled and Abilene recovered in the Lobo end of the field. Three plays failed to make headway and Bryan, if memory is correct, was called back. He kicked a beautiful field goal from placement and the count was Abilene 3, Cisco 0.

"Chigger" Gets It. Cisco now had to resort to a more aggressive game as befits a team that is behind when precious moments are flying. But they could not gain consistently and the exchanging of punts continued. It was Abilene's ball on their own 30-yard line. Bryan was called back to run with the ball.

"If Abilene had only played safe and kicked instead," was the wall of many a fan afterward. But probably it was sound football. Three points is not a safe lead. Furthermore, by retaining possession of the ball as long as possible, the Eagles would reduce the time that Cisco would have to carry the ball.

The pigskin was snapped to Bryan. The big fellow—who was the star of the game for Abilene—fumbled. Out of the blurred group of figures, there flashed a form clad in gold. It was "Chigger" Browne. Without slackening speed, the Cisco halfback scooped up the bounding ball and, with two men mowing down those who sought to clutch him, Chigger raced 25 yards for a touchdown. The kick failed and the score stood Cisco 6, Abilene 3.

Try 50 Passes. Then began the most determined aerial attack ever unleashed on a high school field. Little Chili Wells, quarterback, was throwing most of them. Stevens and Bryan were the targets most of the time. Huge Honk Irvin was crashing through the Abilene line and rushing the passer. They were desperate passes and most of them were grounded. Now a long hurl brought a roar, hope and fear intermingling, but it was too far for the receiver to reach. Now another was missed by inches. Now yet another was clasped but bounded to the ground. Occasionally one would be completed. But repeated failures forced a punt. Cisco, after trying straight plays, would kick back. Then the Eagles' passing began all over again. Tradition says that the last quarter was 42 minutes long—due to course to the time out for incomplete passes. Perhaps 50 passes were tried. Just enough were completed to keep Cisco fans in a cold chill of apprehension.

The timekeeper began to look at his watch. Then he started to fidget with his pistol. After what seemed like an hour, he drew the pistol from the scabbard. Another century seemed to elapse before he pulled the trigger. The game was over. And for three seasons thereafter, the football scepter was wielded by other hands than Abilene.

White Cloud Abandons The Only Show Given By "Real Redmen"

FALLS CITY, Neb.—An 80-year-old Indian chieftain has seen his last rodeo swing into progress with hundreds of Indians from eight tribes participating.

For nearly a score of years Chief White Cloud has conducted his annual "educational rodeo." He has taken pride in the claim that "his show" is the only one truly characterizing the Indians of America before the advent of white settlers.

But the old chief brought together his rodeo equipment for the last time this year. He doesn't know how long ago he passed the 80 mark, but he is satisfied he will not continue his enterprise another season.

Stimulated by White Cloud's announcement that he is through with the rodeo business, the affair this year was one of the old Indian's greatest. From Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska members of the various tribes assembled to take part in the last "true rodeo."

Hundreds of Indian warriors with their squaws and their papooses assembled to do their war paint, lose every possible vestige of civilization and take a whole-hearted part in the celebration of Chief White Cloud's retirement.

Washington Letter

By RODNEY DUTCHER. WASHINGTON.—One of the things that now seems pretty obvious in this presidential campaign is that the professionals are going to keep away from the many issue.

all right for the guerillas, and followers and the unspokesmen and the yell blue because the Democratic platform is a grand satchem of Hall, but the boys who official positions of publicity will find their discuss.

Recently there is something like a gentleman's agreement in effect, based on the theory that pots which live in black houses shouldn't call kettles black.

For the sad truth is that despite the unquestionable probity of the two presidential candidates and despite the undeniable noble sentiments expressed in both major party platforms, both tickets must depend very importantly on the support of political machines which, if they are not corrupt, are commonly supposed to be.

However firmly they may be convinced of the kickedness of Tammany, the Republican campaigners are faced by the painful fact that in recent years it has been getting all the publicity.

It is quite true that one cannot go many years back into Tammany history without being forced to call for oxygen tanks, but it is also true that Tammany in recent years has kept its face washed regardless of what anyone might suggest about its neck.

One hears some funny things about Tammany's habits in presidential years, about the late George Brennan's tactics in Chicago, about Tom Taggart in Indiana and about the Democrats in Boston, but it has remained for the Republican machines to prove themselves definitely as bad as painted.

All this, of course, does not indicate any downright iniquity on the part of the national political organizations, nor does it mean that the candidates are responsible for the nature of the support they have to have. But it does show why the Republicans probably will continue to go light on Tammany Hall and why the Democrats, in turn, will not go publicly poking into the sewers of its rivals.

Both candidates are no record against some of the worst features which figure in the strength of their own parties. Governor Al Smith, if he has not completely renovated Tammany, has at least been given credit for fearless measures which have wiped off considerable mud and strengthened its self-respect.

For many decades Tammany engaged in an unholy alliance with the New York saloons, but now Smith has come out most emphatically against a return of the saloon under condition.

Hoover, meanwhile, is reported to have decided to clean up the scandalous state of the Republican party in the south, which lives only on patronage—bought and sold—and is useful only to supply

Welsh Tankers Win Game From Arabs

LAST OF INDIAN RODEOS STAGED BY AGED CHIEF

White Cloud Abandons The Only Show Given By "Real Redmen"

FALLS CITY, Neb.—An 80-year-old Indian chieftain has seen his last rodeo swing into progress with hundreds of Indians from eight tribes participating.

For nearly a score of years Chief White Cloud has conducted his annual "educational rodeo." He has taken pride in the claim that "his show" is the only one truly characterizing the Indians of America before the advent of white settlers.

But the old chief brought together his rodeo equipment for the last time this year. He doesn't know how long ago he passed the 80 mark, but he is satisfied he will not continue his enterprise another season.

Stimulated by White Cloud's announcement that he is through with the rodeo business, the affair this year was one of the old Indian's greatest. From Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska members of the various tribes assembled to take part in the last "true rodeo."

Hundreds of Indian warriors with their squaws and their papooses assembled to do their war paint, lose every possible vestige of civilization and take a whole-hearted part in the celebration of Chief White Cloud's retirement.
