CURBING THE UNDERWORLD

Every so often you see, as you glance at your paper, some such headline as "two die in bootleg ·war,' 'or "gang leader slain by rivals." And the natural thought for you to have it, 'well that's good riddance. Let the gangsters kill each other off. It saves the police the trouble.'

Unfortunately, however, that perfectly natural way of looking at it happens to be all wrong. If you don't believe it, ask Chicago.

Chicago's citizens acted on that assumption. They took it for granted that the fights, introgues, deals and rivalries of gangland were something that nobody except gangsters needed to worry about. They felt that the underworld was a region distinct from the ordinary, civilized city, and that what went on in it need not greatly concern ordinary, lawabiding folk.

And they learned they were mistaken. Chicago's underworld, left to itself, grew and prospered. It bombings as it pleased-and swift- Senior Local B. Y. P. to her before this shopping began. SHE was entirely truthful. She had always dressed well. Most of her salary as stenographer went for clothes. It was not her fault if Molly, thinking in the terms of a New York wardrobe, understood her to mean she'd had a great deal of money to spend.

Again Molly told herself that Bertle Lou's parents must have money. But she wondered why no one ever had mentioned the fact to her. She decided to be frank.

"You can pay anything you want to for clothes in New York, but if you're used to smart things you won't pay less anywhere else than here," she explained. "Tom isn't exactly a millionaire," she added explanatorily. "I don't patronize the most expensive shops.'

Bertie Lou thought perhaps she couldn't do better. And she did need a warmer coat to go apartment hunting. Molly was a little disappointed because she bought the brown check camel's hair instead of the coat with the red and black striped border. Next she bought a beige Vagabond felt that pleased the salesgirl to sell and grieved Molly, who preferred the tight hat with the ear feathers.

"Now let's go out and find an apartment, quick." Bertie Lou said, when they were on the street again. "I want to get settled so I can explore New York at my leisure."

"It will take weeks before you get your furniture," Mollie remind-

"Rod's arranged to have it sent special." Bertie Lou explained. "It ought to be here in a day or two after we send for it. And we need some new pieces, anyway. We can get those and sort of camp out until the furniture comes.

Some other counties are now threatening to follow Cameron and Val Verde counties in barring Love's name, though they put it on the ballot for the first primary. If his name is again certified it will probably be as a matter of policy. Many leaders believe that to exclude his name would only give him added strength.

Love supporters are arguing about the state capitol that it in the United States who wish to would be unfair to bar Love for threatening to bolt the national ticket when his opponent has bolted in the past. They assert that Barry Miller was for Geoerge E. B. Peddy for U. S. Senator. The entry of Brownwood into the Oil Belt district will necessitate a re-arrangement of schedules. The new member will be beneficial to the district because the membership was a little scant only six teams until Brownwood knocked at the door. Other districts have eight or ten memoers. It will also be a good thing for Brownwood. That city was too big to be in Class B football and, even if it ranked high, the fans could not become enthusiastic at triumphs over schools representing towns of 2,000 inhabitants. Uutimately, the Lions should be a strong team because they represent a city of 20,000.

But no one outside of anger thought they would be able to hold Cisco to less than four touchdowns. That was the season that the Loboes had Wilson, Irvin, Alsabrook, Couch and Grist—the greatest collection of Grist—the greatest collection of giants that had even been seen in West Texas. The Bulldogs startled the fans of the State by holding the Loboes to 7-0. And that was not the whole story for the Bulldogs outplayed the Ciscoans. A pass that was dropped over the goal line cost a chance to tie the score. An attempt at a field goal was missed by inches. The Cisco safety man nailed a pass receiver when it looked as though the Bulldog was loose. Five thousand fans saw the game. Quite a gain from the attendasce of the fifth that number were on hand.

PROTECTION OF WAR REFUGEES BEFORE LEAGUE

Many Derelicts Are Now Without Country or Juridical And Political Rights

GENEVA, Lug. 10-The launch ng of a Magta Charta for a million and half of war refugees scattered all over the world is one of the difficult tasks which the Sep-tember assembly of the League of Nations will have to solve.

Up to the present time the lea-que has confined its efforts largely to finding employment and placing on a self-supporting basis these derelicts of the Great War. The great bulk of them are Russians, Armenians and Syrians.

While there still remain about 250,000 for whom employment has not been found, the league now finds itself confronted with a new problem of juridical rights for where they have found employ-ment, consular protection, or even means of identification except the "Nansen passport" which has been granted under the auspices of the league.

THE WORLD HAS A NEW AND FINER MOTOR CARyon

Twin Ignition means Power, Speed, Economy

People who already have driven the new Twin-Ignition-motored Nash "400" have instantly realized its superiority in performance to cars with older types of motors.

In this new car, they discover more power and speed than they will ever care to use. They find a real thrill in the snap of Twin-Ignition traffic getaway.

Has Nash accomplished these remarkable results by building a larger motor -one with an enormous appetite for gasoline?

Or by building a high-compression motor that needs special, high-priced

The answer to both questions is, "No". Nash has developed new principles of high-compression motor construction which create more power, more speed, with ordinary gasoline, and less of it!

Today the Twin-Ignition, 12-spark. plug, high-compression motor powers all Nash "400" Advanced and Special Six models.

We'll let you drive a Twin-Ignitionmotored Nash "400", anytime.
