A NEW WAY TO SAVE.

During the last year or so a new variety of the ever-popular game of bridge, contract bridge, has swept the country. In this game the bidder not only tries to take all the tricks he can; he contracts in advance to take them.

Now a writer in the current issue of the Magazine of Wall Street proposes a new plan for savings which he calls "contract bridge." It sounds like a good game for those of us who make out regular budgets but who somehow can't ever lay aside the right sums under the heading, "Savings."

The writer says that contract bridge has these three rules:

Contract with an outside party for a definite payment to be made regularly. Buying a home is an example; so is buying building and loan shares, buying bonds on long-term contract, etc.

The contract should be a long-term one; if it isn't, there is danger that the player will allow himself to quit when it expires.

Contract for a tangible form of saving—such as a home, which can be enjoyed while it is being bought.

The writer illustrates his point thus:

Early in married life he and his wife drew up a budget and tried to follow it. They found that they met all their bills regularly, but that they did not save any money for the future; and they concluded that this was because the money budgeted for savings always came last, and was generally shouldered out at the last minute by some unforeseen expenditure.

So they decided to compel themselves to save. They bought a house, on which the monthly payments were quite heavy. These payments always had to come first; and they discovered that when the payments had to be made they could be made without trouble. When the house was paid for they started buying bonds in the same way. When they had definitely contracted to pay $10 a month for a bond, for instance, they found they always paid it, whereas they usually failed when they merely agreed to lay aside $10 a month for a savings account.

The writer's suggestion sounds to us like a good hunch. Maybe it will point out the solution for some of us who can't seem to make our bank accounts grow the way they should.

CONSISTENCY.

Mr. Peek, who is leading the corn belt move to the democratic presidential nominee, does not care about the prosperity of the farmer except for the fact that Peek is head of a big plow company and wants the farmer to receive more for crops so more new plows can be sold.

This is the declaration of Senator Moses, one of the eastern campaign leaders of the G. O. P. Then the learned senator virtually concedes that the farmer is not any too prosperous and that the plow industry is not any too active. How do his admissions square with republican claims of boundless prosperity?

And, after all, what difference does it make whether Mr. Peek is interested in seeing the farmers prosper because he loves them or to help his own business? Any citizen knows that if the farmers are prosperous, it will aid the entire nation, himself included.

Run-Down, Nervous, Appetite Gone, Lady Shows Great Improvement After Using Cardui.

Waterloo, S. C.—"I took Cardui at intervals for three years, and have been in good health since last fall," says Mrs. Noble J. Hayes, who lives near here. "My improvement after taking a course of this medicine was really remarkable.

"I am much stronger and can accomplish so much more work now. My weight increased twenty pounds, and my color is fresh and good.

"For a long time I had been feeling poorly. Some days I dragged around the house and had not enough energy to do my housework.

"I worried a lot about myself. I did not seem like myself, and my nerves were all on edge. I did not sleep well, and my appetite left me.

"I found Cardui to be an excellent tonic. After I had taken a few weeks, I began to pick up and to gain in weight and strength.

"Now I am in fine health. I have recommended Cardui to many of my friends, and shall continue to do so.

For over 50 years, Cardui has been used with success and recommended by thousands of women for weakness and similar ailments. Try it for your troubles! At all drug stores. NC-102

Corn Breeding Is Explained In Talk At Short Course

COLLEGE STATION.—The plan of corn breeding work which the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is conducting at the main station farm and at four sub-stations is to self-pollinate a large number of strains of the most promising Texas varieties for about four or five generations. Dr. P. S. Mangelsdorf, agronomist of the Experiment Station, A. & M. College of Texas, explained in a talk on "Progress in Corn Breeding" before the crops and farm engineering section at the nineteenth annual Farmers Short Course in session here.

"Corn which is ordinarily pollinated by the wind can be self-pollinated by bagging the ear shoot and tassel and pollinating the silks from each plant with pollen from the same plant," the speaker went on to explain.

"This method constitutes a very intensive form of inbreeding, three times as close as brother and sister matings in animals. It results in the appearance of many abnormalities which can then be permanently eliminated from the stock. The strains become more uniform with each generation of inbreeding until after about the fifth generation the plans within any one strain are practically identical. After the strains have become uniform they are recombined by crossing two or more strains together. Vigor and yield are increased by this method while uniformity is retained. "This work is now in its second year in Texas. One of the most conspicuous features of this season's work has been the appearance of an unusually large number of inherited abnormalities such as albinos, yellow seedlings and dwarfs."

MR. AND MRS. VAN GEEM HAVE FAMILY PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Van Geem, 811 West Commerce Street, resounded with laughter and greetings all day Wednesday, when all relatives from near and far who could respond to a sudden summons gathered in this hospitable home to welcome their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Shannon of Phoenix, Ariz., and their three children, J. Shannon, Tom Shannon, and Henry Shannon, who stopped for a day or so on their motor journey across country.

A long table was arranged for all the children present, and an even longer one for the grown-ups, presided over by Henry Van Geem Sr., at both the noon luncheon hour and the six o'clock dinner on Wednesday evening. Bouquets of bright garden blossoms, spaced the length of the festive board, set in delicious vegetable, and great trays of fried chicken.

CHURCH OF CHRIST DEMONSTRATION MEETING

The Thursday Demonstration class of the Church of Christ was attended by an audience of thirty-two children and some fifteen or twenty adults, deeply interested in the sketch of the Life of Joseph, presented by Mrs. Anna Craig, which was followed by the song service lead by Mrs. L. H. White, for the devotional period held in the church auditorium preceding the demonstration of Joseph Sold Into Bondage, displayed in the object room.

Hymns were "Blessed Assurance," and "Standing on the Promises." The base relief of the lesson was splendidly enacted and brought out all the salient points of this Biblical incident. The session closed with prayer by Mrs. Harry E. Wood. The membership contest still continues, and the new children registered yesterday included Doris Lawrence, Wanda Fehl, Marzell Wright, Wilda Fehl, James Dabney, Alva Hayes, Bruce Harris; Ellis Hastings, Orvil White, Francis Brook, Virginia Bell White, Junior Brock, Nathaniel Johnson and Snirley Johnson.

PYTHIAN SISTERS SESSION

The Pythian Temple had a very nice attendance, of twenty members, last evening to their regular session.

The principle feature of the business was the practice of the drill team and the election of two challenge bearers. Miss Allann Williams and Miss Irene Williams were chosen by ballot for these positions.

A pretty handkerchief shower was tendered Mrs. Fred Leonard, who will soon leave Eastland to the regret of her co-workers. Announcement was made that Mrs. John Williams, on Moss St., will be hostess to the next session of the Embroidery Club, Tuesday afternoon, and each one is requested to be present with their need-work. Ice cream was served at the close of the session by Mrs. R. L. Rollins, chairman of refreshments.

M. U. at Austin on Nov. 3, Baylor University at Waco on Nov. 10, Texas Christian University at Fort Worth, on Nov. 17, and A. & M. College at Austin on November 29. PICTURFONE TO FEATURE "TENDERLOIN" AT CONELLE

Once in a great while an exceptional motion picture draws capacity houses for a longer period than regular program runs and becomes the talk of the town. Manager Smith of the Conelle Theatre announces that whereas he has several real picture attractions in store for coming weeks, he has a truly exceptional something, not a motion picture, which will pack the theatre and be the talk of the town.

The new something is something new indeed, the Picturphone, for synchronizing within the theater the world's best music with the screen subjects by means of special records and amplification. With this instrument it is promised that a new interest and a new appreciation of movie entertainment will be realized, for perhaps the first time in Eastland a full program of motion picture entertainment will be offered with proper musical interpretation for each scene and sequence. Gone are the days of musical accompaniment of pictures in the Conelle Theatre; the new order of the day is synchronized musical interpretation—and with unlimited range of music and not solely that within the ken of the average musician.

The Picturphone interpretation will become effective Tuesday, August 7th. The feature picture with which the new music makes its debut is "Tenderloin"; in addition to which there will be several subjects, including Paramount News and a good comedy, and all of these will be presented in appropriate musical setting. It is destined to be a red letter day in the annals of the Conelle Theatre, according to Manager Smith.

CONGRESS WILL MISS BLACK, TOM BLANTON

Both Texans Noted In Capitol For Their Independent Spirit

WASHINGTON, August 2.—Defeat of Eugene Black of Clarksville, representative from the First District of Texas for fourteen years will remove from congress one of those known for his independence, a close student and a member highly regarded for his conservatism. These qualities have been responsible for his having to battle at the polls every two years to retain his seat in the house of representatives.

A year after Mr. Black came to congress, as successor of the late Horace Vaughn of Texarkana, he took a position that caused the oldtimers in the congressional atmosphere to contemplate him with interest. He was one of two democrats in the house to speak and vote against the Adamson law in 1916, presented by President Wilson as a means of preventing a nation-wide railroad strike. This legislation was referred to in the congressional debate as "the Government's surrender to the railroad brotherhoods."

A newspaper recently reviewing Mr. Black's legislative career said that he was more distinguished for the measure he stood against than those to which he has given support.

As a member of the house banking and currency committee Mr. Black has had a part in formulating the changes in the country's fiscal system, and, particularly, the farm loan law, under which the land banks were better enabled to function, notably the rural credit legislation.

Mr. Black was born at Blossom, Lamar county, forty-nine years ago. He was educated in the Blossom public school and obtained his law degree at Cumberland University.

Blanton Well Known. Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene is another self-made Texan whose presence and voice will be missed in the halls of congress after March 4 next, due to his failure to achieve the senatorial nomination in the recent primary election. Washington newspapers paid considerable attention to the race Blanton made for the senate and have commented liberally upon his defeat. By his membership on the district committee in the house, which has to do with all of the legislation for the city of Washington and the District of Columbia, Blanton is almost as well-known here as in his Texas district.

Blanton always occupies the second seat from the center aisle in the second row on the democratic side of the house and has near the record for constant attendance. Few opportunities to speak on legislation have passed him during his twelve years as a member of the house. He has offered more objections to legislation and appropriations than any other man in either house of congress, and in that way has been responsible for killing millions of dollars in unauthorized appropriations. People who had special legislation to get through gave as much consideration to the one-man objection by Blanton as they did to the favor or disfavor of the house leaders. As the Washington Post recently said, after March 4 Blanton will be missed.

Blanton was born in Houston and is a graduate of the Texas University, other members of his class being Senator Sheppard, former Attorney General W. A. Keeling. In those days Blanton also worked for a relative who conducted a grocery store in Austin and has delivered groceries to some of the capital's oldest and best families. Blanton's ancestry reaches back to the Texas army in the War of Independence.

Rains Will Help West Texas Crops To Great Extent

STAMFORD.—The general rains which practically covered all of West Texas, from the whole North Plains as far south as Fort Stockton and El Paso, with the exception of a few isolated places, have come in time to save the cotton and crop prospects of the entire region, according to Exhibit-Agricultural Manager Whiteaker of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Ten days ago, Mr. Whiteaker states, the situation was discouraging, with early feet and cotton in distressed condition, and late planted crops needing additional moisture. The majority of West Texas farmers, however, knowing the consistent comeback of the West, went ahead with weeding their crops of vegetation and conserving what moisture they had, and, as a result, will reap bountifully. Those who did not cultivate cotton and feeds who did not conserve the little moisture available, now have vegetation to combat almost as large as their crops.

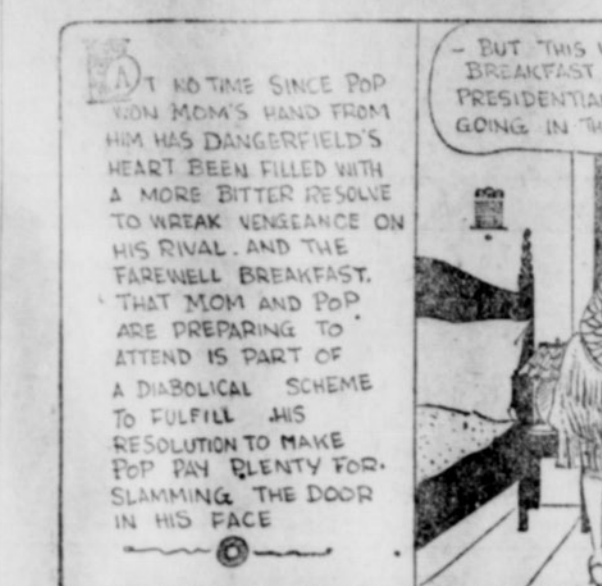

Today, early planted cotton over West Texas, and that planted late in the season, is in very promising condition; late planted feeds are looking fine, and Mr. Whiteaker states:

"With the cooler nights coming on, the cotton and feed outlook is such that a normal crop production for all West Texas is practi-

Man Gives a Lift To Hikers; a Sock To Jaw is Reward

ABILENE, Aug. 2.—Tom Hill just his bread upon the waters and 'came back with a sock in the jaw. Tom had a darkening eye last night, but was at peace with the world after an encounter with two knights of the highway whom he had befriended.

Traveling west on the Bankhead highway Saturday, Tom gave a lift to Carl Hestory and Brunson Lee of loader, Ark. At Eastland, Hill became separated from his passengers and continued his way home alone. Arriving home he discovered that the boys had left a small handbag and a valuable stringed instrument in the back of his car.

The hiking Arkansians had said they were California bound, so it seemed that there would be slight chance of finding them to return their property. Nevertheless, Hill made arrangements yesterday evening to advertise his discovery of their loss.

Before the advertisement could appear in print the travelers had found him. They leaped upon his car on a downtown street and promptly launched a physical attack. Hill counter-attacked, but before there were any casualties, police interfered.

Hill proved his honesty and good intentions with ease. The owners of the missing handbag and banjo proved their sportsmanship by paying for the drinks.

Radio Is Hurting Texas League This Year, Say Magnates

By BYRON RIDDLE United Press Staff Correspondent DALLAS, Aug. 1.—Tex Rickard, "exalted ruler of fightdom," may have fired the proverbial shot that is to be "heard around the world" when he declared there would be no more broadcasting of his championship fights.

All club owners in the Texas league are complaining that attendance is falling off at a terrific rate since the first of the season. Ways and means are being sought to bring the attendance back to par and thus insure the owners a fair return on their investments.

Even though it would be a severe blow to the stay-at-homes who have been accustomed to getting their dose of baseball over the family radio every afternoon instead of appearing at the local ball park, it appears to be the logical solution for the situation.

During the hottest weather of the summer, it admittedly takes considerable enthusiasm to get out of the lazy chair in front of the fan and fight the crowd at the park to cheer the home team. It is much easier to turn on the radio and with a little imagination get the same results. Radio announcers have their broadcastings down to fine points—so fine that one can hear the "pop boy" calling his wares.

The Texas League race will include several hard fought series before the end of the season. At the same time there will be some awfully hot weather. Raining from broadcasting the games will cause a lot of discomfort to some who are unable to get to the games. On the other hand there is a serious movement underway to increase the waning interest in baseball. Affairs have reached the point where drastic steps must be taken to preserve the national pastime from a slow death. Assuredly, broadcasting the games will not foster the movement.

The question now seems to be entirely up to the fans as to whether or not they want the national pastime to continue as it has in the past, and this writer will not be surprised in the least to see some erstwhile owner to start the ball rolling for a reversal of the decreasing spirit by the elimination of the radio in the routine of baseball.

Dallas Steers 10 days ago were being acclaimed as winners of the second half—by Dallas newspapers. Thursday's News has a headline across the top of the page that a shakeup is due and maybe a change in managers.

Philadelphia Athletics continue their winning streak. Did you notice that there are only two teams in the American league that have won half their games? The other six are below the .500 mark.

But speaking of races, did you notice how they stand in the second half in the Southern league? Birmingham at the top is three games ahead of Mobile in seventh place!

Speaking of the world's heavyweight champion who do you think he actually is? Jack Dempsey. Or, by saying a few words, the Manassas Mauler can become the champion again.

Anyway, you have to concede that the whole situation has got the public talking and arguing. And that's exactly what Tex Rickard wants.

Sports Matter

By HARRY FERGUSON United Press Staff Correspondent If you can't understand why the Brooklyn Dodgers are hovering so close to first division, consider their pitching staff.

Pitching has been carrying the Dodgers along in the face of some of the most weird fielding ever seen on a major league diamond. Harvey Hendrick, an outfielder, is playing third base.

Vance Winner Since 1922 Since 1922 Vance has been pitching winning ball for Brooklyn. In 1924 he was voted the most valuable player in the National League after he had won 28 games and lost 6.

On paper Dough McWeeny seems the best man on the staff. So far this year he has registered at a .667 rate. The Robins seem to hit harder for McWeeny than they do for any other pitcher.

Rockwell left his home at North Hero, Vt., at the age of 12 to become a sailor. In 1858, the captain, then pilot of the steamer Adirondack, saved 125 lives by quick thinking. One night a fire started in the boiler room. He rushed in and, realizing that the small stream of water from the pump would have little effect on the fire, turned the hose on the hot boiler which created enough steam to extinguish the flames.

CONNALLY HAS FINE SUPPORT FOR CAMPAIGN

Blanton and Owsley Forces To Back Falls County Statesman in Run-Off.

DALLAS.—The lines of battle are tightening for the August 25th, 1914 primary in the campaign for the United States Senate and the forces of Congressman Tom Connally are prepared to carry the fight into every precinct in Texas. Reports and messengers have come to Tom Connally headquarters throughout the week saying that supporters of the eliminated candidates are flocking to the Connally banner. In less than twenty-four hours after the polls had closed Congressman Thomas L. Blanton sent this telegram from his home at Abilene to Connally:

"Dear Tom you have made a gallant fight. Victory is yours. I congratulate you. Our unbroken friendship of thirty-three years is still intact. I am for you. Command me if you need my services. I hope that all my friends will support you."

Later a letter received by Connally from Dallard W. George, Okla. lawyer who managed the campaign of Alvin Owsley, made this declaration:

"I did my best to place Alvin Owsley in the run-off. As we failed to secure a sufficient number of votes I am now supporting you. I believe you will make a splendid representation of the democracy of Texas in the United States Senate. I hope and believe that my friends throughout Texas will join me in supporting you."

Early in the week the victorious congressman gave out this formal statement of thanks and forecast of the campaign now beginning:

"To my friends throughout Texas, I want to express my deep gratitude for their unselfish and untiring efforts in my behalf. The results of Saturday's primary prove their loyalty and activity. They have achieved a great triumph. However the real fight lies before us.

"The lines of battle have not changed. From the beginning of this contest it has been a battle of the whole people who want a United States Senator who knows no master but the people and the public good against those interests that seek preference and privilege and stand for the rule of secret and selfish interests.

"Before last Sunday there were five of us enlisted in the fight. The total vote of the five candidates at this moment aggregate 577,538 to 156,018 for the opposition and my vote alone stands at 146,864, just 12,154 short of the total vote of the remaining candidates. This overwhelming vote of protest makes it clear that the people of Texas want a new Senator.

"I know that my friends will carry on and hold and advance the lines until August 25. The fight is on. The issues between Mr. Mayfield and myself are clear cut and sharp. Our political viewpoints differ widely. I stand for government in the open by and for the people. I am opposed to government by a few and for a few.

"Since Saturday a host of those who voted for other candidates have pledged me their enthusiastic support. To the Democrats of Texas I am thankful. I solicit their support in the coming primary. I shall devote my best energies and such ability as I may possess to their service."

National Party Is Needing Funds To Carry on Campaign

HOUSTON, Aug. 2.—John H. Kirby of this city, state finance director of the national democratic organization, today issued an appeal to all democrats to support the party with votes and cash. He invites contributions of any size.

Mr. Kirby was named state director of finance by Colonel Herbert Lehman, national director, several days ago, and shortly thereafter was honored by being made one of the five national vice chairmen of the finance committee.

Following is a copy of Mr. Kirby's appeal:

"To all Texans who love the democratic party and who stand ready to sustain its principles and support its actions:

"Obedient to an urge from Col. Herbert B. Lehman, director of finance of the democratic national committee, I am asking you to contribute as generously as you will to the campaign fund to be used for properly placing our cases and our leaders before the electorate of the United States.

"This is a time when the loyalty of every democrat to the great principles of his party and the faith of his government is being put to the test, and I trust that the number is small in this state that will prove recreant to duty by

Federal Program For Reclamation Very Extensive

WASHINGTON.—The largest construction program in its history is reported by the Bureau of Reclamation, all for irrigation projects in the West. Among them is a dam scheduled to be the highest in the world. It will rise 475 feet, taller by 43 feet than the Swiss dam now claiming the record.

The new title holder will be the Owyhee Dam on the Owyhee project, Oregon-Idaho, which is to cost $3,988,779. The contract was recently let. However, its supremacy may not be long-lived.

A still higher dam is envisaged in plans considered heretofore for the Colorado River dam at Boulder or Black Canyon. Its height has been calculated at 550 feet, which is virtually the same as that of the Washington Monument.

Ten per cent of the work on the Echo Dam of the Salt Lake basin project has been completed. Contracts there call for the expenditure of $5,612,067. The Stony Gorge Dam on the Orland project in California is nearing completion. It will cost $1,000,000.

More than a third of the concrete has been placed in the Gilson Storage Dam on the Sun River project in Montana, which will cost more than $1,500,000. Contracts totaling nearly $700,000 have been awarded in connection with the Kittitas division of the Yakima project in Washington and the Vale project in Oregon.

Football Training Season Will Open At Austin Sept. 10

AUSTIN.—Training season for football at the University of Texas will open on September 10, according to Wylie Glase, manager of men's athletics. With only six of last year's squad missing, all of whom were lost because of graduation, Coach Clyde Littlefield is expecting a good season. Mr. Littlefield is attending a coach's training school in the first of September.

Among the first string men of last year's squad who will be back are Jack Cowley, Ike Sewell, Tommy Hughes, Curtis Beatty, Bill Ford, "Big Un" Rose, "Dusky" Rhoads, Eddie Beuler, Harry Phillips, Gordy Brown, Jimmie Bayles, Steve ("Red") Wray, Herbert Tigner and Nono Rees. Newcomers from the freshman ranks will include Claude Meadows, Dexter Shelley, "Pink" Higgins, Gover Emerson and Nick Gatoura.
