In Memory of Fallen War Heroes

In memory of the members of Michigan's famous "Polar Bear" regiment who met death in the frozen wastes of northern Russia during the World War, this unusual monument was dedicated Memorial Day at Detroit in connection with the burial of 48 soldiers whose bodies were brought back recently. Walter Dundon, center, president of the Polar Bear Association, in charge of the services, is shown with two other survivors of the regiment.

Love Says Young Is Tammany's Man

DALLAS, Tex., June 4.—Former Congressman Young was designated by Thomas B. Love as the Tammany candidate for governor of Texas in an address made by Love today before the Dallas County Women's Democratic Association. Love is running for the same office upon the endorsement of the anti-Smith Democrats of Texas.

Love declared that no candidate ought to be voted against because he supported Alfred E. Smith in 1928 and on the other hand, no candidate should be voted against because he did not support Smith.

"We are told that there is no Tammany in Texas and never was and never will be," Love said. "The truthful man that makes that statement is uninformed. There can be no surer sign of Tammany presence and methods and activity in a political campaign than the spectacle we now behold in Texas of the wets running a dry candidate for governor."

Love then declared that a Tammany mass meeting in Austin, Aug. 11, 1928, a former congressman, now running for governor, was elected and installed as John J. Raskob's field manager for Texas.

"During that campaign this distinguished ex-congressman made a great reputation with his crowd for the courage and vitriolic vehemence with which he assailed the ministers of Texas for their opposition to the operation of title insurance."

News From The State Capital

AUSTIN, Tex., June 4.—The State Supreme Court this morning announced that no business would be transacted at the morning session today but the hearing of a memorial for the late H. M. Garwood of Houston. This was taken to indicate that the court will sit again this afternoon. The court has pending before it the application of the state democratic executive committee for a rehearing of the Thos. B. Love mandamus decision.

The committee seeks either a reversal of the former ruling, that Love's name must go on the ticket or the right to exact a pledge "without mental reservation" that the candidates will support the nominees of the primary.

An appeal to Governor Dan Moody to save William (Dazger) Pruitt from the death chair was made by Pruitt's mother here today. Pruitt has been sentenced to die Friday morning as the slayer of William Mann of Dallas. The contention is made that no sufficient motive for the slaying was shown. A report upon the case has been filed with Governor Moody by the state board of pardon advisers. The nature of the report has not been disclosed.

Suit was filed in federal district court here today by attorneys for the New York Title Mortgage Company asking a permanent injunction restraining the state insurance commissioner from enforcing section 3 of the new state law regulating the operation of title insurance.

Sherman Rioters May Be Tried On Murder Charges

DALLAS, Tex., June 4.—Thirteen alleged inciters of the Sherman riot may have to face charges of murder in connection with their crime, it was intimated today, after a perusal of the penal code by county officials.

The defendants already are charged with inciting a riot and assault to murder. The charges grew out of the burning of the Grayson county courthouse and the burning to death of a negro accused of criminal assault on a white woman.

The penal code sets out that anyone guilty of arson, causing the death of a person is guilty of murder.

Eleven of the defendants transferred to Dallas from Sherman still were in the county jail, apparently unable to make bond. Two were released several days ago.

United Dry Goods Head Entertained

Henry Naham of El Paso, president of the United Dry Goods Company, with Mrs. Naham, were entertained by the employees of the company's stores at Eastland, Ranger and Breckenridge, last evening.

The place selected for the outing is 15 miles north of Eastland and centrally located between the three store locations. A wicker roast and games were enjoyed. There were about 30 present including H. Davis, manager of the local store.

Scout Executives Have Good Meet

The executive committee and the scout masters of the Oil Belt Council of Boy Scouts of America held a banquet in the lower assembly room of the First Methodist Church Tuesday night. Eastland Ranger and Breckenridge, last evening.

The dinner was served by six boy scouts, assisted by Miss Ruth Lane, who is the construction agent for Eastland county.

Rev. B. C. Boney of Cisco made a very interesting and instructive talk on the activities of the scout troops and the work that is being done by the members of the different troops in the Oil Belt Council.

Star Scout Kivie Wolf made a talk on the growth of the boy scout movement and showed a keen and concise knowledge of the history and growth of the Boy Scouts. His talk was well received and was appreciated by those present.

The encampment for the Oil Belt Council was discussed and the dates were set for the camp. It is to be held from July 16 to 25 inclusive. All scouts in the council are eligible. The fee for the ten day encampment is $10.00.

Those present at the banquet are Rev. James T. Ross; Homer Felsford, president of the council; Guy Quind, executive; Joe Driskell and Horace Conley, all of Eastland; Rev. B. C. Boney, E. E. Lenon, H. D. Chislohm, H. A. Boyd and Fielding Lee, of Cisco; R. L. Fargle, L. A. Dunham, Dr. L. C. McKnight and Ross Elliott, of Breckenridge; Fetous Woods and Rev. Hollis of Carbon; R. P. Gettis and Walter Harwell of Ranger.

Gold Star Mother at Son's Grave

Alone among the shining white crosses, her knees bent before the plain marker that stands above the grave of her hero son, Mrs. Rosa Lorenz of Wisconsin is shown here at prayer in Suresnes Cemetery, near Paris. She was a member of the first contingent of Gold Star mothers to arrive in France. Note the wreath which she has placed at the foot of the cross. Her son, Joseph Lorenz, was a private in the 42nd Division.

Burglars Active Tuesday Night

Burglars were active in Eastland Tuesday night and two places were reported robbed when the proprietors opened their doors this morning.

The first place to report that burglars had been at work was the miniature golf course on West Main street. The thieves broke into the club house and secured a box of new golf balls, several clubs and about $5.00 in cash.

The other concern robbed was the Broadway Service Station between Ammerman and Oak streets on West Commerce. It had not been reported when the proprietors were alerted this morning how they entered the station though it was thought that the loss was slight.

Volunteer Firemen To Meet Tonight

Eastland volunteer firemen will meet tonight in regular session at the fire station. At this meeting the matter of sending delegates to the state firemen's convention, which meets next Tuesday in San Angelo, will be finally decided.

At a former meeting John Harrison and Jack Caffey were named as two of the three delegates the Eastland department will be entitled to. Another delegate is yet to be elected.

Escaped Convicts Caught. DALLAS, Tex., June 4.—Two escaped convicts were held in the city jail here today as the result of arrests made "on suspicion" by police.

The prisoners are F. P. Lewis, former Texas prison inmate who is now wanted by officials of the Louisiana State Penitentiary to complete a term he was serving there for robbery, and Wood Butler, who escaped from the Arkansas State Penitentiary last April while serving a term for murder.

Oddities in The News of Today

HOUSTON, Tex., June 4.—Lewis Wood, well-known elderly attorney came to a down-town crossing. He had been having trouble with his eyes, and as he wavered on the corner, they began playing tricks on him.

Someone touched him on the shoulder, and he supposed it was a friend. "I'm glad you came along," he said. "I was just looking for someone to help me across the street." "Sure I'll help you across," came the answer.

Wood took the proffered arm, and the two negotiated the traffic without mishap. After they had crossed, Wood shaded his eyes with his hand and took a good look at his benefactor. "He was an aged news vendor, a blind man."

Mt. Vesuvius Is Again In Action

NAPLES, Italy, June 4.—Mt. Vesuvius was active again today, deafening explosions and frequent eruptions of incandescent cinders frightening the countryside. The fiery display was visible over a wide radius through the night and during the early hours today.

Prof. Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvian Observatory, suggested immediate construction of breastworks to prevent the flow of lava out into "Hell Valley."

The "Valley" is a gorge often in the path of the lava stream as it flows to the southeast.

Four Deaths From Heat Are Reported. NEW YORK, June 4.—A temperature rise of 25 degrees in ten hours was blamed today for two deaths and the poisoning by spoiled food of more than a score of persons in New York.

Bishop Cannon Is Again Before Probe Committee

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., told the senate lobby committee today it was "none of the committee's business" to whom he gave the unaccounted-for $38,000. New York insurance executive, for use in the 1928 Anti-Smith campaign.

More defiant than during yesterday's hearing, the Methodist dry leader shook his crutch in excitement and cried "issue your subpoena" as he persisted in his refusal to answer questions relating to his activities during the campaign.

Senator Walsh, Dem., Mont., acting chairman in the absence of Senator Caraway, Dem., Ark., said privately he intended to lay the question of Cannon's refusal to answer before the committee for a decision.

Walsh and Senator Blaine, Rep., Wis., the only committee members present at the hearing, admitted their inability to proceed against the Bishop with three committee members absent. Although they plan to let the full committee decide later what would be done in the case, there was less indication today that the committee was serious of proceeding against him for contempt of the Senate.

"They are entitled to entire freedom in their political activity and this action seems to be intended as a threat to independent citizens against any repetition of the uprising of 1928."

"I call the committee's attention to the letter, which at the beginning of the hearing I requested to be placed in the record. This stated: 'If your committee desires any information concerning the work of our board, we shall be glad to appear before the committee and furnish such information.'"

"That letter specifically restricted the information proposed to be given. It did not intimate any purpose to give information concerning the personal activities of anyone."

"While there are some matters connected with the Virginia Anti-Smith campaign, especially the Jameson contributions and expenditures concerning which I shall make a further statement to the press, yet as I see it, the issue involved in this matter of the assumption of the right of this committee to investigate my personal political activity, is vital to be compromised."

If this committee, appointed to investigate lobbying assumes the right to investigate my political activities, it is vital to be compromised."

Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls attorney, drafted by a group of Dallas Republicans as a candidate for governor, has announced that he will not be able to accept.

Mook-Texas, 11, Minnie Sibley Ready Top Pay

DALLAS, Tex., June 4.—Police today made their first important discovery in their search for the two bandits who last Saturday held up the Grand Avenue State Bank and escaped with $11,000 in cash and liberty bonds.

K. Weldon Miller, assistant cashier of the bank, identified a police dossier gallery photograph as one of the bandits after viewing several hundred photographs on file at police headquarters.

Police also received information that the man identified was somewhere in East Texas visiting relatives. Two detectives were assigned to the case and an arrest appeared imminent.

BISHOP CANNON—

activities as an individual in the Anti-Smith campaign, then it can assume the right to investigate the activities of every individual citizen who votes or works in any political campaign...

"I am pleased to note that my interpretation of the jurisdiction of the committee is confirmed by a statement contained in the press this morning by the chairman of the committee, Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway."

Walsh told Cannon the two members of the committee present did not accept Caraway's statement that the committee could not require answers because no subpoena had been issued.

"I think the whole country realizes I acted individually and not as Bishop," Cannon replied.

"Proceeding with the examination, Walsh produced a number of pamphlets 'The Honesty of Al Smith' and 'St. Peter Not the Founder of Romanism.'"

"The pamphlet, 'The Honesty of Al Smith,' was written by John Jay Chapman, while the other article was written by Franklin Ford, Cannon told the committee."

"One telegram from Crawford to Senator Thomas J. Heflin, August 30, 1928, stated: 'Bishop Cannon requests your frank and permission to print and circulate 100,000 copies of a book 'Prohibition Repeal Unthinkable, page 16782' congressional record. Senator Sheppard (Dem. of Texas) promised this book; now says it would be embarrassing and suggests help of another senator. You are wonderful work. Congratulations, Wire cord.'"

"At the opening of today's hearing, the committee, still lacking a quorum, proceeded with its questioning after Walsh had commented privately that he did not regard the absence of a subpoena as important. This had been referred to by Caraway in his statement at Little Rock."

"The Bishop asked permission to make a statement concerning his use of $303 of the funds of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service. This was used to call the Asheville, N. C., conference in 1928 to plan the campaign against Alfred E. Smith Democratic presidential candidate."

"Cannon's explanation, much the same as yesterday's, was that no money changed hands, that he was charged with that amount due the board and that he paid it by circulating a speech 'Prohibition Repeal Unthinkable.' The money for the payment was advanced by the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia and the explanation was so complicated Walsh finally dropped the subject, saying he could not understand it."

"The height of my lobby was reached for the first time during the war," Cannon said, referring to a letter of commendation sent to him by former President Wilson."

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., prohibition leader in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South persisted today in his refusal to divulge his anti-Smith activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The examiner, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Dem., Mont., noted that a quorum was not present, told Cannon the committee could not proceed at this time and terminated this line of inquiry.

Walsh warned the Bishop his refusal might be considered a penal offense. Cannon replied he realized that, but must insist on his rights as an American citizen.

The Bishop claimed the support of the absent chairman Caraway of the committee in his refusal to answer questions. He made a statement to the committee concluding: "I consider such an assumption of authority by any committee of the Senate or House as an intolerable infringement upon the rights of American citizens."

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Consul Maurice W. Atwater informed the State Department today in a telegram from Nogales, Sonora, that Charles Koehler, an American citizen, had been murdered June 2 by Mexican bandits at the Silver Plume mine, 25 miles south of

OUT OUR WAY

Cananea, Sonora. Atwater said the murderers were believed to have been formerly employed by Koehler at the mine. The State Department has no record of Koehler's American address. The dead man was about 50 years old.

So far only passive opposition to the split had been shown. It was evident, however, that discord of white-hot intensity would result should the attempt to divide the Lone Star domain assume more definite proportions.

Several persons, when asked regarding their opinion, referred to a correspondent to a portion of an impassioned address delivered by the late Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey:

"We could divide the land, but how could we divide the imperishable glory of the sacrifice at Alamo and at Goliad, and the victory at San Jacinto?"

Proposal Texas Be Divided Is Being Discussed

By UNITED PRESS

DALLAS, Tex., June 4.—The intense patriotism which brought Texas into being has exhibited itself again in the general agitation following renewed proposals to subdivide the Lone Star State into five separate entities.

Memory of the sacrifice and heroism at the Alamo surges to the minds of Texans when arguments are made toward splitting up the state for which their ancestors fought so strenuously.

The increased legislative and political power which would result from such a division recks little against the sentiment and patriotism involved.

Rep. John N. Garner, minority leader in the House of Representatives, recently brought before congress a renewed proposal to subdivide the state. The question has appeared recurrently since 1845, when the vast area was admitted as a state with the provision it could divide itself later if desirable.

Foremost of the arguments for subdivision is that such action would provide the southwest with eight additional senators.

The plan would divide the state into five distinct parts, each of which would have a population of approximately 1,200,000 and an area of 53,000 square miles.

Garner argued that diversity of interests among the various sections of the huge state has already divided the area in feeling, making a political division desirable.

Many prominent Texans disagree with the congressman, however. Federal Judge William H. Atwell denied Texans would derive any benefits from the split.

"Instead of simplifying government, the proposal would only add to the complication," he said. "Politically, there would be no gain to either party. And if there were no gain, why suffer the loss of a great deal from a sentimental and patriotic standpoint?"

Records for date of June 4, 1930, listed as follows:

peared with his plane in a storm near Las Vegas, Nev., last January, was being investigated here today. Western Air Express officials at Los Angeles discredited his claims and Mrs. Mauri Graham at Los Angeles doubted his identity.

The man, employed as a garage mechanic here said he escaped death when he jumped in his parachute to safety as the plane went into a spin over the Utah line east of Las Vegas last January 9.

The mechanic said he walked to a Ute Indian reservation near St. George, Utah, where he spent two months in the Indians' care. He claimed a "relief plane" had picked him up at St. George and had returned him to Los Angeles. A wide hunt over the entire area at the time by the Western Air Express failed to find any conclusive trace of Graham. Mrs. Graham had had no communication with her husband since he disappeared.

The claimant has been here for two or three weeks. He appears to be about 30 years old, is six feet tall, weighs 175 pounds, is blond, reveals a deep scar on his cheek and a bullet scar on the left breast below the heart.

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—Officials of Western Air Express today branded false the story of an Elk City, Okla., mechanic who claimed to be Mauri Graham, aviator who disappeared in a Nevada snowstorm last January.

The mechanic told a strange tale of jumping from a plane when it went into a tail spin and two months later returning to Los Angeles to deliver 10 sacks of mail and visit his wife.

C. W. H. Smith, general traffic mail never had been returned and that no report ever had been received from Graham.

Smith expressed the belief that Graham and his plane were lost in some remote Nevada canyon—the result of a crackup or forced landing—and that he may never be found.

Mrs. Graham, also refusing to accept the story, declared she still believed her husband to be alive, although she admitted some doubt as to whether he had not communicated with her, unless he suffered some mental aberration.

Hoover's New White House Pet

NEW TONIC STOPS HAIR FROM TURNING GRAY OR FALLING OUT

Improves Condition of Scalp, Brings Gray Hair Back To Youthful Color ANYONE MAY USE IT AT HOME, COSTS LITTLE

"My hair seemed dead and continued to fall out and turn gray in spite of various preparations I used, until one happy day I learned about this wonderful Lea's Tonic," declared Mrs. W. S. McBride of Romulus, Mich.

After using Lea's Hair Tonic a short time my hair stopped falling out and gradually as by magic so gradual friends never noticed the change—why all those gray dead looking hairs were back to their natural color and my hair and scalp in perfect condition. Now I use it occasionally application to the scalp with the finger tips, keeps my hair splendid. Another thing I like is that it doesn't stain the scalp, the lining of your hats or the bed pillow like the other stuff I formerly used. Lea's certainly is wonderful and women who want to look younger and better should try it," continued this enthusiastic lady.

Many people not gray at all, use Lea's for Dandruff or itchy scalp but of course the most amazing results come to gray haired folks. You can see such a vast improvement, yet not even an expert notices one is using it. Beauty specialists charge fancy sums in larger cities for applying Lea's, but anyone may apply it at home just as well. Lea's sort of puts nature back on the job and of course the massaging of the tonic into the scalp with the finger tips brings the blood to the surface and stimulates the hair roots in a harmless, healthy, beneficial way. Many report their hair growing out thicker, even colored and beautiful. Certainly Lea's enhances a person's appearance wonderfully. If reader desires to test Lea's on a small spot of gray or dandruff, or give it the fair trial it deserves, the druggists have it, or send dollar bill check or stamps to Lea's Tonic Co., Brentwood, Md., for bottle by return mail. If desired just write for it—pay postman when it comes (twelve cents extra). This nationally known concern guarantees results will please and delight user after six weeks use or money back from them for your druggist without argument or question.

CHAPTER XL

Natalie's lips stiffly framed the inevitable question. "Do what, Alan?"

He answered with a sneer: "Yes, I suppose I may expect you to try and bluff it out."

His laughing brown eyes were now like dark agate, glistening coldly at her.

"I am not bluffing, Alan," she said simply; "you will have to tell me what you mean."

Alan laughed, shortly, contemptuously. "Going to see it through along that line, are you? Innocence accused. Very well, then, let's bring it out in the open and see what comes of it. I mean why did you change the name of the stock in that letter?"

Natalie stared at him, uncomprehendingly. "Had he been even a little less inflamed with anger, he could have judged her expression with enough accuracy to know she was not simulating it. As it was, he thought she had made up her mind to carry her bluff to the end and he reacted by becoming more infuriated."

"Why don't you deny it?" he demanded fiercely, as her gaze remained upon his face, unchanging, fascinated.

Natalie merely shook her head. She was beginning to be afraid of him.

"What kind of woman are you, anyway?" he raved. "Jealous! Jealous! Jealous! Beastly jealous! And you had to pick on a woman who has never done you a bit of harm. A woman who is sick, the sole support of a kid whose father died to make the country safe for people like you—so you can cheat and rob his widow."

His wild words beat on her ears like blows, and the hollow, bitter laughter that followed them was like an echo of some faraway sound. His denunciation numbed her with its shocking violence.

Could this be Alan torturing her so? She scarcely could think. Alan's eyes were black—she had never seen them black before. And that red light—oh, perhaps they were bloodshot. He must be ill! Something dreadful was the matter with him.

"Letter? Letter? Why was he talking about a letter? The word, tormenting her brain, escaped from her lips in a weak utterance."

"That's right, Bernadine's letter," Alan thrust at her. "Come on, tell me, why did you do it?"

He advanced toward her, his lips twisting in his passion of temper. Natalie shrank back from him, visibly frightened.

"You deserve it," he snarled.

THE STATE OF TEXAS COUNTY OF EASTLAND.

To Those Indebted To Or Holding Claims Against the Estate of Mrs. Jennie C. Pye, Deceased:

The undersigned having been duly appointed independent executor of the Estate of Mrs. Jennie C. Pye, deceased, late of Eastland County, Texas, by the County Court of Eastland County, Texas, during a regular term thereof on, to-wit: 13th day of May 1930, hereby notifies all persons indebted to said estate to come forward and make settlement, and those having claims against said estate to present them to her within the time prescribed by law, at her residence in Cameron, Milam County, Texas, where she receives her mail.

Witness my hand, this 13th day of May, A. D., 1930.

Juanita Stafford Lyon.

Independent executrix of the estate of Mrs. Jennie C. Pye, deceased.

May 14, 21, 28, June 4.

"I ought to choke you, but I've got to save my hands for cleaner work. I've got to work, do you understand, and make up for your mischief."

His bloodshot eyes bored threateningly into her own feverish ones, but his half-raised hands drooped to his sides.

Natalie's face, aside from her burning eyes, seemed dead. It was white and set, her lips frozen against any words that might have come to them. But there was nothing she wanted to say—and yet a thousand thoughts were on parade in her agonized mind.

"You haven't any defense, have you?" he taunted her. "Not a thing to say. Well, you're wise to keep quiet. God, I couldn't stand to hear you deny it! I've had enough of your saintliness that covers the cheapest kind of soul. But if you think you've a chance to hide under silence, just listen. I know what you did, all right."

"You came into my office when I was out and got hold of Mrs. Lamont's letter. It gave you your chance. You saw what you could do, but here's where you made your big mistake. You thought you would cause her to lose a pretty penny, but you're wrong. Instead, you've damned near ruined it."

He swept his arms in a circle to indicate the room. "All this," he said savagely. "Background! That's what you call it. But to me it's earnings. Oh, yes, I could always make money, you know that—it was never hard for me to make money. But what's become of it? We've saved precious little. And now, now I've got to make good what you tried to steal from Bernadine. You know what that means, don't you?"

Natalie continued to stare strickenly at his ferociously contorted mouth and reddened eyes. Her attitude drove him frantic.

"Why don't you say something?" he yelled at her, unmindful of the inconsistency he was showing.

Still she did not speak, though her head moved a little in a pitiful, sidewise motion and the numbness partially left her bloodless lips.

"So," he raved on, "because you fiendishly substituted a rotten stock for a good one in that letter, I've lost a small fortune."

A grin laugh burst from his dry lips. "It wasn't so clever, was it, forgetting that I have a sense of honor even if you haven't? But the work was damned clever, I'll grant you that!"

It seemed now to Natalie that she must speak, must stop him, even though she had to answer blindly. For she only partly understood the nature of the charge he was bringing against her.

"Don't, don't, don't," she cried imploringly. "Oh, Alan, you can't believe that I would touch one of your letters? Surely you can't believe that? Why, I didn't even see a letter!"

"Never mind the high-minded stuff," he snarled at her. "The time for that is past. It only makes what you've done more hideous. Look at you. White and gold and clean! You ought to be black, black, black! As black as hell! Oh, no, you wouldn't touch a letter that didn't belong to you. Look at your hands!"

His voice was stinging and sneering. "They're lovely, aren't they, your hands? Who'd ever think they could turn themselves to taking bread and butter out of a baby's mouth? Oh, no, no, you wouldn't touch a letter. You wouldn't erase the name Bernadine wrote and put in one that's a joke on the market, would you?"

"You didn't know that I'd fall for it because she got a tip from a man that even you know by his initials, did you? You haven't heard me mention him by them, have you?"

He broke off, breathless and panting.

Natalie's face was regaining its color under the smart of his burning eyes. She understood now. But not clearly. Her mind jumped to a false conclusion. Bernadine had done this, she believed. How she did not know—would need time to think it out. But Bernadine Lamont had done it. She had used her genius for evil to turn Alan into a blind fool, a mad, blind fool. He was Bernadine's now, heart, mind and soul.

"Oh, no, there must be some mistake," Bernadine cried. "Natalie is too lovely a woman to do anything like that. I know she is."

She saw at once that her remark was unfortunate. "That's just it," Alan declared. "That's what makes it so unforgivable. If I hadn't always thought her something to be worshipped, I could stand it better. But I'm glad it did it."

He looked at her with Oriental inscrutability. "No," she cried, "have you?"

She seemed to know his belief in Natalie's guilt was affecting him as it would affect her if she were to see her son, Bobby, committing some ugly act. She felt deeply sorry for him.

"Well, I have," he declared, breathing heavily. "I know who did it."

Bernadine uttered a little cry. "Oh, Alan, are you sure?" she asked pleadingly.

"It was Natalie," he answered, his voice as hard as steel.

"No, no, there must be some mistake," Bernadine cried. "Natalie is too lovely a woman to do anything like that. I know she is."

She saw at once that her remark was unfortunate. "That's just it," Alan declared. "That's what makes it so unforgivable. If I hadn't always thought her something to be worshipped, I could stand it better. But I'm glad it did it."

know her sight had left her, that she was literally blinded with pain.

"Good acting," he applauded. "Too bad to waste it on me alone. But you always were good at everything. Everything, that is, but matrimony. You've made a fine mess of that!"

Natalie reached her chair, and slipped limply into it. She did not see Alan go, but she heard him, dimly, as though the sound came from a world not her own.

Darkness descended upon her, engulfed her. Her body drooped over the arm of the chair. She was very still.

Alan went directly to Bernadine's house. She was at home. Dr. Wagnall had positively forbidden her to go to the club. She was both relieved and alarmed to see Alan.

"You look like . . . well, never mind," she greeted him with a smile. "I know. Like nobody's business," Alan finished for her. "And this time that's not just slang, Bernadine. Nobody's business is just what I'll get if this keeps up. I can't stand it!"

"No," Bernadine said soothingly, "I know you can't. But try to be funny, Alan. This has got into you too deep for that. But come and sit down and let me make you comfortable."

She was, herself, barely able to stand on her feet, but she made the effort for Alan's sake. She did not want him to guess that the financial blow she had just suffered had cost her much in physical strength as well.

"Have you any idea who did it?" Alan flung at her when she seated him in her living room.

She looked at him with Oriental inscrutability. "No," she cried, "have you?"

She seemed to know his belief in Natalie's guilt was affecting him as it would affect her if she were to see her son, Bobby, committing some ugly act. She felt deeply sorry for him.

found her out at last. She'll never fool me again."

Bernadine looked at his hard, set face and trembled for Natalie. She wished she could say something, do something, to palliate his wife's offense, but in her heart she too was convinced of Natalie's guilt.

Alan moved, as though he were about to rise.

"Alan," Bernadine cried fervently, "what are you going to do?"

Raging Forest Fires Cause Of Loss Of Lives

WINNIPEG, Man., June 4.—Forest fires swept through new areas of timber land with renewed fury today as increasing winds removed the temporary check brought by light rains in the past 24 hours.

Five or more persons were believed killed, several farm settlements and small logging camps were burned and two towns were threatened with destruction.

Refugees who found their way to safety reported relatives and friends missing and it was feared the final death toll may be high. Many of the outlying residents told of narrow escapes from death when they remained too long in the danger zone, fighting the flames which destroyed their homes.

From Port Arthur, Ont., and Dymont, Ont., came reports that the flames crept up to the very borders of the towns. Every home in Dymont was evacuated and women and children were taken from Port Arthur, a town of 3,500 on the northwest shore of Lake Superior.

The little railroad settlement of Larson, Ont., 80 miles west of Port Arthur, was reported practically destroyed by forest fires that came upon it from three sides.

New fires were reported almost hourly and hundreds of rangers and volunteers fought to check the more serious blazes.

A rescue camp was established at Ignace for refugees from Port Arthur and Dymont.

Hundreds of deer, bears, wolves and other forest animals, driven out of the burning timber, broke through lines of fire fighters.

OIL NEWS

SHREVEPORT, La., June 4.—The new Holly oil field's third producer, coming in Tuesday to increase faith in the territory's prospects, was estimated good for 200 barrels of oil daily and was making 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas. It was the Standard Oil Company's Tracy No. 1, in De Soto parish near Mansfield. Pay was topped at 2,845 feet. Preparations were being made today to set six-inch casing.

CANTON, Tex., June 4.—Renewed interest in the Picken's Smith well nine miles southwest of Canton had been aroused today by the announcement that drilling was to be resumed. Operations were suspended at 3,708 feet and the hole plugged. Carl Short, who brought in the first well at Van, will be in charge of the work.

GARBO BREAKS ALL TALKING RECORDS IN "ANNA CHRISTIE"

Greta Garbo broke all long-distance talking records when she made her debut in "Anna Christie," her new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, which will come Thursday to the Lyric Theatre.

Her very first scene ran almost nine minutes long, using up most of the 1,000 feet of film which is the capacity load for camera magazines. Many of the subsequent scenes ran nearly the same length, the average being four minutes but the dramatic action demanding from six to eight minutes each.

Most talking picture scenes run only two or three minutes of continuous action and dialogue and Garbo, in making her entire picture on long "takes," established a new mark in the filming of sustained dialogue without "outs" to break up the readings of lines.

WITH THE TEXAS LEAGUE

By UNITED PRESS

Defeating Beaumont 10 to 5 while the Dallas Steers showed a complete reversal of form to beat the second-place Houston Buffs, 5 to 3, the Wichita Falls Spudders Tuesday lengthened their lead in the Texas League to three and one-half games.

By scoring five runs in the eighth and ninth innings, the Spudders drove out their 10 to 5 victory over the Exporters who were unable to bunt their 14 hits with men on bases after the first inning when they scored four runs.

George Murray, acquired recently from the Kansas City Blues, won for Dallas, 5 to 3, when he went in as a relief hurler in the eighth inning and retired the side after Houston had scored two runs of Tauscher. Tauscher had held the Buffs to two hits in the first seven innings.

Oscar Estrada, Shreveport southpaw, held San Antonio to four hits while his mates were pounding out enough to defeat the Indians, 8 to 1. Wheelan, Sport

AMONG THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Chicago Cubs, counted out of the National League pennant race because of the death of pitcher Hal Carlson and the loss of infielder Rogers Hornsby, are making a fight to retain their 1929 league championship.

Art Teachout, a rookie pitcher making his second start of the season, hurled the Cubs to a 15 to 2 win over Boston Tuesday.

The Philadelphia Athletics also proved they can win without the services of their star players, beating the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1. Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and Bishop were out of the game with injuries.

Bill Clark enabled the Brooklyn Robins to hold their three game lead in the National league, pitching and batting his team to a 6 to 5 win over Pittsburgh.

The St. Louis Cardinals nosed out Philadelphia, 11 to 10, for their first win in eight starts, and the Washington Senators snapped a 5 game losing streak by beating Detroit, 8 to 4.

Babe Ruth's 17th home run of the season helped the New York Yankees beat the Chicago White Sox, 13 to 7. The homer put Babe two days ahead of his 1928 schedule.

Wesley Ferrell won his eighth victory of the season, pitching the Cleveland Indians to an 8 to 3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Larry Benton proved ineffective against his old teammates and the New York Giants walloped the Cincinnati Reds, 9 to 1.

The following statistics, compiled by the United Press, include games of June 3, 1930.

Player and Club	Pct.
Herman, Robins	.425
Rice, Senators	.402
Hogan, Giants	.402
O'Doul, Phillies	.398
P. Waner, Pirates	.395

Wilson, Cubs	16
Berger, Braves	14
Klein, Phillies	13
Herman, Robins	13

Yesterday's Hero
Art Teachout, Chicago Cubs pitched his team to a 15 to 2 win over Boston Teachout, making his second Major League start, allowed only 7 hits and made two hits himself, driving in two runs.

Fort Worth won the series opener, 8 to 5. Jimmy Walkup, Cat pitcher, not only held the Cubs to eight scattered hits but hit a home run with two men on bases in the fourth inning and accounted for two more runs when he singled in the sixth.

Waco Citizen 79, Endorses New Konjola

"Too Bad I Did Not Hear Of Konjola Long Ago," Says This Happy Man

"Too bad I did not hear of Konjola long ago; it could have saved me much suffering. My stomach was the cause of my trouble," said Mr. J. A. Kin, 122 Oriental road, Waco. "Everything I ate caused pain, gas and bloating. My whole system was run down, my vitality was low and I was gradually losing my strength. I had no ambition and was worn out all the time.

"So many medicines had failed me that I had about lost hope. Then came Konjola. After taking four bottles my appetite increased. I found I could eat anything without a trace of indigestion in any form, and my whole system has taken on new life. I have plenty of ambition to do my work, and I will always recommend Konjola as a real medicine."

Konjola is not a "Cure-all"—there is no such thing, but when taken for from six to eight weeks will produce amazing results. The countless thousands of endorsements of Konjola have proven that it makes good in even the most stubborn cases.

Konjola is sold in Eastland Texas at Toombs and Richardson Drug Store.—Adv.

Sharkey To Fight For Glory Not For Money, He Claims

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 4.—Glory, not money, is the big incentive behind Jack Sharkey's drive to win the heavyweight championship when he meets Max Schmeling of Germany at Yankee Stadium a week from tomorrow night.

"It's not the money I'm going to get out of the match that is making me work and toil to get in shape, but the prospects of winning the title and keeping it in America."

From the first Sharkey has stressed the fact that the title must be for the heavyweight title, and to help insure this stipulation the Bostonian accepted a cut from 27 1/2 to 25 per cent in his guarantee.

The official contracts were signed on Monday, and they stipulated that the winner would be declared heavyweight champion.

Sharkey is the first fighter to battle for the championship, without needing the money.

Sharkey has collected $800,600 in six years of boxing and he has invested it wisely. He could retire from the ring tomorrow and live comfortably on the earnings from his savings.

"I want that title," Sharkey repeated. "The reason I consented to fight Phil Scott was to clear the path for this title match."

COW FIGHTER MEETS DEATH

Spanish Bull Fighters Sometimes Tackle Cows in Arena

By UNITED PRESS
MADRID, June 4.—At Sanlucar de Barrameda, Andalusia, some cows on the ranch of don Hermengildo Diez were being vaccinated, when a bull-fighting fan, Jose Rodan Bernaldez, 28 years old, decided to stage an impromptu "cow-fight." His first attempt to give a pass to a cow was his last, for he was hit square in the chest and died a few minutes later.

Bull-fighters in the winter and spring often participate in cow-fights at various ranches. Technically, there is no reason why cows could not be used for a formal fiesta—it is a question of taste and tradition that determines that the toreros shall risk their lives in the ring only against bulls. When they do risk their lives against cows, it is done more-or-less in private.

Roads Make Farm Profits Profitable farming is dependent upon good highway transportation. The better the roads the more profitable the farming. This is the conclusion reached by a survey recently conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station of Cornell University.

More and better farm-to-market roads enable American farmers to transport their products quickly and cheaply.

In the state of New York it was disclosed that farmers living on paved roads drove their trucks 725 miles more a year, on the average than those living on dirt roads. Further while but one half if farmers on dirt roads own a third of the farmers paved roads have the same.

Several states are in a campaign to provide trucks will all-wheel drive. Thousands of miles of main highways have which are of little benefit to farmers until feeder roads connecting them with trucks.

Such feeder roads are valuable to town and city who would gain business now kept away by roads. They would also relieve main highways and reduce main highway congestion. Such roads are if agriculture is to keep the march of progress.
