Billy Edwards Regains Title

By UNITED PRESS
DALLAS, Sept. 5.—Billy Edwards, "chiropractic" headlock expert, last night regained the United States light-heavyweight wrestling title from Cleo Kaufman.

Kaufman won the first fall. In the second meeting Kaufman threw Edwards to the floor but before he could clamp on his hold, Edwards wheeled around on his back, planted his feet squarely in the chest of his opponent, and hurled him through the ropes into the audience for a perfect nose dive.

When fans lifted the champion back into the ring he was so weak that he could hardly stand on his feet. Edwards immediately applied his "chiropractic" headlock and went to work, but referee Wright pulled him away and awarded him the fall.

Kaufman was carried from the ring and when, after ten minutes, he was unable to return, Edwards was awarded the match.

Gold Crowns May Identify Woman

By UNITED PRESS
MORRIS, Ill., Sept. 5.—Two gold crowns in the mouth of a woman whose nude body was found in a sack beside the highway near here Sunday, may be the key to the solution of the "perfect crime" which detectives have reconstructed in a theory involving murder by non-traceable gas or poison and preservation of the victim's body for six weeks by refrigeration.

Four days after the body was found, detectives found themselves with only a dentist's chart and a partial identification as the only clues to the mysterious death.

The woman's body was partially identified by Richard Shea of Chicago as his wife, Lily, 45 who left him three months ago.

When viewed the body last night said it might be that of his wife. He could offer no explanation, however, how the woman came to her death.

Farm Bloc Claims Votes Enough to Wreck Tariff Bill

By UNITED PRESS
WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Claiming enough votes to wreck the Republican's $800,000,000 tariff bill, the bi-partisan senate farm bloc was unable to agree today on how to go about it, so the opening of their contest the measure probably will be delayed until Monday.

Leaders of the bloc on both the Democratic and Republican sides have about decided to drop the Thomas resolution which seeks to eliminate all the industrial increases in the bill, preserving only the higher rates for agriculture.

The absent author of the proposed resolution, Senator Thomas, Dem., Okla., has informed them he will not introduce it if some other means is found to accomplish the same end.

Senator Borah of Idaho in whose office the Republican bloc members are holding daily meetings, favors a motion to recommit the bill to senate finance committee with instructions to pare down the increases to agricultural and related products.

Democrats who are holding their own daily meetings in the offices of various party members have indicated they would like to have the motion come from the Republican side of the chamber.

George Clemenceau Gravely Ill Today

By UNITED PRESS
PARIS, Sept. 5.—The illness of George Clemenceau, French war premier and one of the authors of the treaty of Versailles, reached an alarming stage today and caused the physician attending him to summon to Vendee the eminent specialist, Doctor L. De Gennes, who attended Field Marshall Foch during the latter's last hours.

Clemenceau, now in his eighty-eighth year, has been suffering from poor health for several weeks. He was not considered gravely ill until a few days ago when pulmonary congestion developed. The physician attending him battled with the condition until today when he decided to bring doctor De Gennes to the bedside.

Crooked Officer Cause of Trouble Wounded Man Says

By UNITED PRESS
HOUSTON, Sept. 4.—Glenn Atwell Trousdale, 47, was near death today, having shot himself twice, after going out on the back steps of a downtown hotel in which he was staying.

He left a lengthy note to the hotel proprietor, explaining his action. The note gave his home as Winnemucca, Nev. This is simply a case of suicide brought on by a crooked district attorney (the note gave the attorney's name, but did not name the town) and a 'framer' (here a doctor's name was mentioned) and a man that wrecked my home, married my ex-wife and then attempted suicide. Then with the daughter, he laid it on me," the note said.

Another note said "Bury me in the clothes laid out on the chair, I'll do a better job than the who wrecked my home and ruined my life."

One bullet entered Trousdale's chin and came out near the eyes. Another plunged in below the hair line on the forehead. Hospital attendants say that death is certain.

Trial of Sixteen In Officer's Death Gets Underway

By UNITED PRESS
CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 5.—A black-draped life size effigy of the late police chief, O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia was brought into the court room where 16 textile strikers are being tried for his murder today. Defense attorneys jumped to their feet shouting objections.

State attorneys ordered the model to enable Dr. H. R. Macconnell, Gastonia, the first state witness, to point out where the peace officer had been shot.

With selection of a jury completed after nine days in which 685 veniremen were questioned, the state of North Carolina began introduction of evidence today in the trial of 16 textile strikers arising from the shooting of chief of police O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia.

Foremost among witnesses the state expected to present today are the widow and dark-haired 21-year old daughter of Aderholt who were to be questioned about the last remarks made by Aderholt as he lay dying from wounds. State attorneys expect their testimony to refute reports that Aderholt requested no one be prosecuted for his death.

"I don't know why they shot me," Aderholt said, according to Solicitor Carpenter. "I always tried to do the right thing by them."

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Stocks broke abruptly near the close of the stock market today. Values melted as leading issues dropped point after point. Net losses ranged to 7 points in a long string of issues as the selling gathered momentum.

Everything on the board was affected. Radio corporation declared more than five points, General Motors, New York Central more than five, American Telephone and Telegraph more than 6, Bethlehem Steel 6, U. S. Steel more than 7 from the previous close.

Utilities and rails had been carried up late in the day in an attempt to bull the market, but they receded. Special issues also declined.

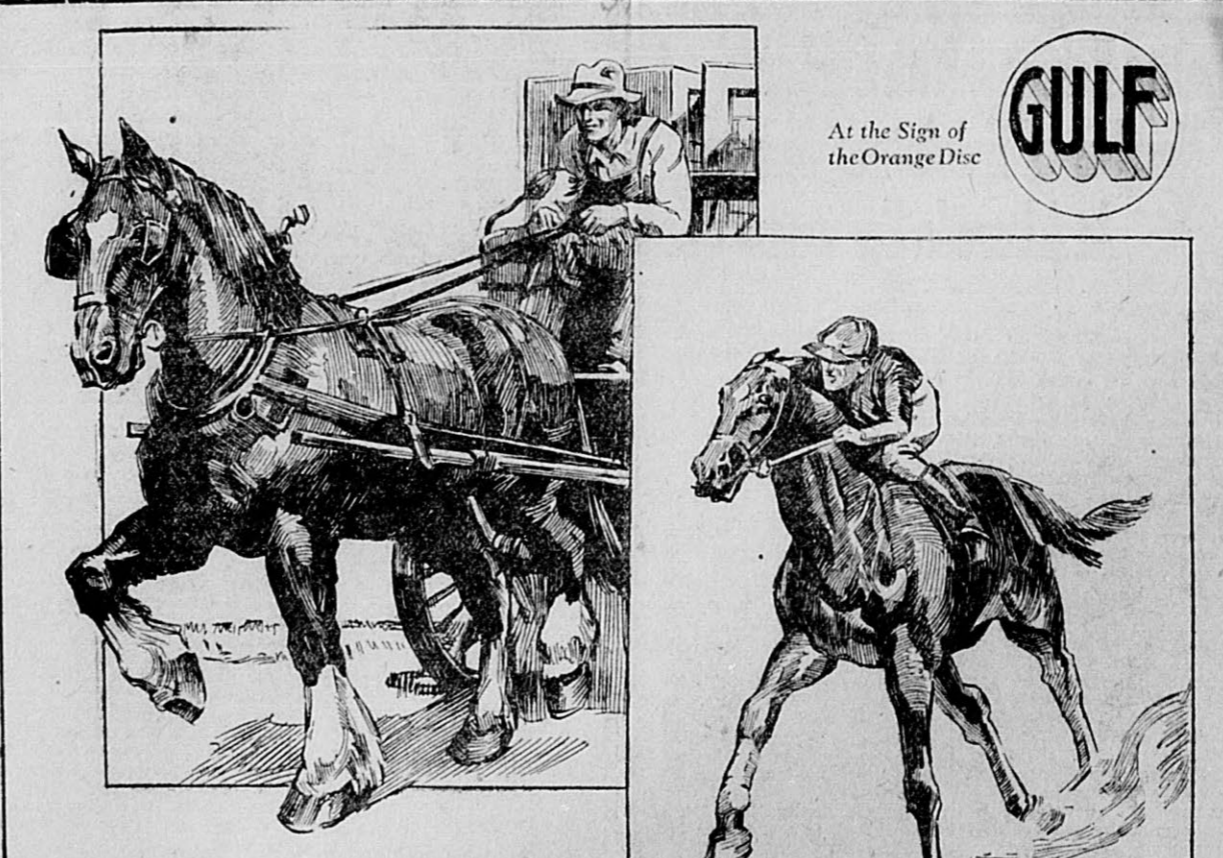

Widest losses were noted in principal issues like Westinghouse Electric, Dupont, General Electric, American Can, International Telephone and Telegraph and Montgomery Ward.

Bears had been gunning for an opening all day. A speech by Roger W. Babson, economist, predicted that the stock market was due to decline 60 to 80 points in the average, together with expectation of a record in brokerage loans to be reported after the close today, furnished the necessary ammunition.

Once the decline got under way the line of least resistance appeared downward. For a time stocks were thrown overboard with abandon. Then when values had melted several million dollars, support was provided and the break arrested.

NATURE seldom gives the maximum of two good qualities to any animal, plant, mineral or any natural oil. Most motor oils are made from crude oil that has a paraffine base or another crude oil with a naphthene base. Both these crude oils have qualities peculiar to themselves. The Innocent Cheat
RUTH & DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when the girls at the Spann boarding school tease her about being Miss Simplicity just to please her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT, who supplies her with ample funds and smart frocks which are brought from Paris for her by a woman friend whom Helen has never met.

The fact that he has never permitted her to meet any of her friends worries her, too. But she will not question his reason even though her roommate, SHALLIMAR MORRIS, taunts her about shrinking back when speaking one afternoon at the Ritz when she sees him there with a striking looking woman. Shallimar accused Helen of being in love with Brent; calls her a fool to give up smoking, dancing and parties for him; and ends by saying that "There's something wrong with the picture."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II

Brent leaned closer to Helen and the girl saw something in his eyes she had never found there before. A plea, an entreaty. Brent knew how to use the expressiveness of his features to serve his purpose, whatever it might be.

"Why," she faltered, "I..." Brent pressed his arm a little tighter, patting her shoulder. "I'm not going to question you about any of the promises you've made me," he said easily. "If you have any confessions to make, keep them for another time. All that matters about what you've done here at school is what it's made of you, Helen. Will it please you to know that I am satisfied?"

"Please me?" Helen's voice vibrated with astonishment. "Leno—you ask me that?"

The man smiled, content.

ANYBODY HOME HERE?

H'ELLO... WHAT'S THIS?

"But I haven't done anything you asked me not to do," the girl pouted. "I haven't smoked or sworn or taken a drink or listened to risque stories or..."

"I'm sure you haven't," Brent broke in. He was thoroughly convinced of her virtues. His magnetic hold on her, he knew, governed every act of her life.

But the very completeness of his hold troubled him. Could she be capable of such devotion to the ideals that he had fostered upon her without possessing, innately, a penchant for truth and purity? Was it entirely his wishes that swayed her?

Well, he'd gambled on blood. Diamond Page's daughter! The blood of an international crook in her veins. She couldn't get rid of that.

Against it Brent had stacked a course in culture, taking a chance that heredity would win over environment. It was important to him that it should.

And tonight he meant to take the first step in proving the result. "You've often expressed curiosity over my attitude toward you," he said to Helen now. "Well, it wasn't an idle wish to have you grow up as innocent as a modern girl can be."

Helen did not hesitate with her answer. "I almost wish I could say yes," she told him, "because the more you know that even if I found it hard not to do the things that some of the other girls do I would still not do them, Leno, just because you asked me not to. But I can't say that. I'm afraid I rather like being what you call nice."

She smiled at him appealingly but his expression puzzled her. He seemed but little pleased.

"Even to giving up artificial beauty aids?" he pressed. "And not having aspirations for a career?" This time Helen answered with less earnestness.

"Well," she said "sometimes—when the other girls are planning their futures..."

"You find it a bit irksome to close your mind to the call of this new freedom?"

"It's very fascinating to think what you could do," Helen admitted.

"More fascinating than dedicating your life to me, letting me assume the responsibility for your future?"

There was a faint touch of reproach in his voice, a note Helen could not endure.

"Oh, don't think I ever forget how wonderful you've been, Leno. To take a baby girl and bring her up as though she were your own daughter..." She paused, then hurried on, "nor just to put her away and forget all about her..."

"I think you've been splendid!"

"I'm glad you didn't quite say as my own daughter, Helen," Brent remarked. "I've never felt paternal toward you. He drew her to him the slightest bit and Helen closed her eyes. But he did not kiss her."

"Then you won't fail me?" he asked after a moment of silence in which he weighed his new knowledge of her. Helen opened her eyes and turned her face to stare at him. "Fail you?" she repeated.

"Will you stick to me, no matter what I tell you, or ask of you?" Helen's answer came from a heart too devoid of guile to suspect him of an unworthy motive. "I'd do anything for you, Leno. You know that..."

Brent nodded. "I'll remind you of those words when I take you away from here," he assured her solemnly. "In the meantime, let's dine."

"And dance," Helen added, striving to overcome the gravity that somehow had come with his words. "It's heavenly to dance with you, Leno."

Brent helped her out of the car without replying. He feared her exuberance might turn to gushing; it never had but Helen, he knew, was fairly tingling with life, with the throbs and pulsations of youth standing on the threshold of adventure. He had long ago worn off the novelty of living and he had no intention of trying to renew the kick. It would be utter boredom to him to talk about thrills. Such as were left to him he preferred to live and not to discuss. He simply would not view the world through Helen's eyes.

She sighed a bit as they walked to the entrance of the inn. What a night! And what a companion! There wouldn't be a man present to compare with him. Tall, thin with the lean perfection of a greyhound, in superbly fitting dinner clothes, his hair just touched with gray at the temples, he made a strikingly distinguished figure.

Helen walked proudly before him as the captain led them to their favorite table.

"Good evening, Mr. Brent." The man's tone when he greeted them had barely escaped being obsequious. Helen always had the feeling of being in the company of someone of vast importance when she was with Leonard Brent. And had there been a royal family in America she was certain that Leno would have received as much attention as the crown prince.

"What's right for a night like this?" Brent asked when they were seated and a waiter hovered at his elbow. The captain had lingered to see to their comfort in person. Now he offered reasonable suggestions with evident anxiety to please. "Spanish melon? Consomme? A duckling, perhaps, with orange sauce, and an apple salad? Strawberry mousse, or patisserie Francaise?"

Brent left the choice of desserts to Helen, ordering none for himself. She chose in favor of the mousse.

Before their first course was brought the dance music burst out with a call that was irresistible to Helen.

"Please," she begged of Brent. He put down the fat Turkish cigar he was smoking and got to his feet. It was not a part of his campaign to deny her any pleasure which she could derive from his participation. Aside from kissing her. To feed her desire to be near him was one thing, to satisfy it quite another.

Leonard Brent was too wise to accept Helen's love for him for anything but what it was. He knew that some day some small thing, a word, a gesture, of his would end it, and she would know that she had romanticized him into her Prince Charming.

There were times when he'd have liked to kiss her, but the desire was never overwhelming, and he warned himself repeatedly that a kiss can awaken loathing as well as love. Helen, he perceived, was just trying her wings, and taking the experience very much to heart.

But her present state was too well suited to his purpose to risk disturbing it by a moment's pleasure. So when she nestled in his arms while they danced he resisted an impulse to take her closer, to let her know that she stirred him.

Helen closed her eyes and dreamed of dancing upon an unending path. There wouldn't be any tomorrow of textbooks and classrooms. Nothing but this—motion that spun you out of yourself, set you floating in space—music that filled you with emotions you couldn't define. Strangely, and without knowing it, she forgot Leonard Brent.

Brent brought her back to earth with the remark that he was starting back to town early. Helen was instantly against it.

"Not without driving me to the falls!" she cried. "We haven't been there this year. And it's lovely now."

"Sorry," Brent answered abruptly. "I've someone to see on important business."

"Tonight?"

Brent frowned at her incredulous insistence. And suddenly Helen remembered the woman she had seen him with the previous Saturday.

"Oh," she exclaimed. "I won't let you go!"

Instantly, and with a darkening countenance, Brent came to halt on the dance floor. "Helen," he said with a seriousness that shocked her. "There is one thing you must never do."

Negro Shoots 2 After Quarrel

AUSTIN, Sept. 5.—A quarrel in a cotton field on the Johnson farm at Manor, near here, is said today to have precipitated the shooting of constable Paul Lovelace and Walter Berg, farmer, by George McCullough, negro, late yesterday.

The two men received charges of buckshot in the side, but neither was fatally wounded. The negro was held in the Travis county jail here today pending filing of charges.

Berg is said to have summoned Constable Lovelace to arrest the negro after an altercation in the cotton field. As the officer and Berg approached the negro fired a shotgun at them from close range, some of the shots striking each man.

The Abilene sports writer, despite the fact that Abilene was hit by graduations of backfield men, waxes enthusiastic. He thinks that Smokey Allen, a veteran, will star on offense and that Hohen Foster, a stubby lad who played in the spring, will prove very good. Clinton Murphy and Will Edwin Routh are the speed threats, we are told.

And the scribe says "E. G. Johnson is the outstanding recruit for the secondary. He is the one man in the picture to fill the shoes of Aultman Smith and, if he doesn't measure up to expectations, the said shoes of Aultman Smith may as well be junked. A hard charging youth of 170 pounds, Johnson is regarded already as a menace to opposing lines. He first drew the eyes of the coaches, however, by his punting. If there is a steady line before him, he will gain Abilene several yards in punt exchanges in the course of 10 games but he is dangerously slow in getting rid of the ball."

September Is Appreciation Month, Connelley

With an array of pictures lined up for the month of September, which is considered the greatest month's booking ever to be seen in Eastland, manager Wilman announces that all of September will be "appreciation month" in Eastland.

This, the first of an annual event over the Dent circuit, will bring to the Connelley theatre, the first and newest of the 1929-30 picture releases as a signal of appreciation to its patrons of the past theatrical year.

The entire production field was combed and screenings were made of scores of pictures of the new show world to select the pictures that combined the best to be found in the latest releases. These were then bought at the highest figure ever paid for pictures for this section of the country. Then began the task of dating these super releases to form a perfectly balanced program of entertainment.

More than a score of excellent pictures were bought for release in September over the circuit and where bookings do not permit of all of these being played during "appreciation month," the others will be released early in October.

The management of the Dent theatres in Eastland, being duly appreciative of the patronage accorded during the past 12 months, participates in this celebration in a very personal manner. To him was left the selection of the pictures which will be seen here during "appreciation month." That they are the finest in the new show world of 1929-30 produces, will be attested by those who see this fine group during the next few weeks.

The marked excellence of the new talking pictures at this time, insures the seeing and hearing of what is undoubtedly the greatest achievement of the world's largest studios and the most expert actors, authors, directors and technicians. Millions have been expended in the new product and now for the first time, natural color comes into its own. Many of the new seasonal releases are done either in part or all color. New processes have perfected the color picture to such an extent that the tones are subtler and more life-like than was thought possible to attain a few short years ago.

Voice reproduction difficulties of the past year have been overcome and today's talking picture is as nearly perfect as possible to attain. Through the newly developed methods of voice reproduction, stage plays are now presented in a much more entertaining manner than from the stage itself. Through the use of close-ups and voice radiation, it is now possible to see and hear equally well from any seat in the theatre auditorium, a development of which the stage was not capable.

The past year and a half, during which time the voice of the screen was being perfected, has seen remarkable progress and development. The season 1929-30 and particularly "appreciation month" will see the peak of talking picture excellence reached.

He Goes Flying With His Mama

Few children can boast that they've been for an airplane ride with mother as pilot, but Hays Haizlip, eight-year-old son of Mrs. May Haizlip of Tulsa, Okla., holds that distinction. 1 to 1 tie. In total games for the season Wichita Falls has won two more than her opponent in the Wichita Falls-Dallas meetings. Houston's winning streak was shattered at Beaumont when the Exporters took both games of their double header, 3 to 2 and 8 to 0. Waco and San Antonio divided a twin bill at Waco, the Cubs winning the first, 4 to 0, and the Indians winning the second, 8 to 4. In the first game Thorman beat struck out fifteen San Antonio players, to set a new record for the season. Fort Worth won the first game at Shreveport, 8 to 4, after staging an eighth inning rally that netted six runs. In the nightcap the teams battled to a scoreless draw.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

ASK the folks around Rockford, Ill., who is the greatest pitcher on the Chicago Cubs' staff and they will tell you Harold Gust Carlson. Charley Root, Guy Bush and Pece Malone are good, too, they will add. For the folks in Illinois are pen- nant crazy now that the Cubs at last seem to have corralled the National League flag. And the folks from Rockford will all be at the world series to root for their townsman, Harold Gust, to come through as the hero of the big games.

Six in a Row

Carlson has been a great help to Joe McCarthy in the Cubs' successful quest this year. Although his wins do not rival those of Bush, Root and Malone, he is putting on a fast finish. His last six victories have been successive and he has been beaten only twice this summer.

Carlson has been playing professional ball since 1912, and this promises to be his first world series. Starting out for Rockford in the old W.I. League, he was picked off by the Milwaukee American Association club in 1914. In 1917 he came up to the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates, where he stuck for seven years.

Pirates Shipped Him

At Pittsburgh, he continually gave promise of becoming a star pitcher. But somehow he never came any further than the promise, for the Pirates finally gave him up as a bad job and shipped him back to the Texas League.

Here he untracked himself, winning 30 games and losing 10. The desperate Phillies took a gamble and brought him back in 1924. Carlson starred ever since. In 1927 the Cubs, in rebuilding for a pennant, sent Tony Kaufmann and Jimmy Cooney to the Phils for the slim right-hander.

WHY WE DO IT Why We Want Thrills

By MEHRAN K. THOMPSON, Ph. D. Author of "The Spring of Human Action"

Why did Lindbergh capture the heart of the world? Why do you ride in the roller coaster and a score of other devices designed to scramble your insides and scare you out of a year's growth? Why do you read tales of hair-raising adventures and go to see dare-devil stunts? Why do you speed a highpowered car at the risk of your life when (better say "Because") you are riding for pleasure? Why are dangerous games and sports more attractive? Why does the nation go wild over a prize fight?

Thrills! We all want thrills. Without thrills life is a tame affair. We live for the thrilling moments of life; we endure the rest. We judge the value of an experience largely by the amount of "kick" we get out of it. Two young fellows of wealthy and cultured families confessed in court that they committed murder for a thrill.

But why? There must be a psychological and biological basis for so widespread and fundamental a drive to action. There is. Before the dawn of civilization our ancestors lived for many centuries under the most thrilling conditions, not knowing what moment an enemy, man or beast, might furnish excitement. To kill and to be killed were the chief occupation and pastime of every man.

We have inherited a nervous system which craves thrills because it is organized for that type of expression. The veneer of civilization with its safeguards and restrictions has increased rather than lessened the desire for thrilling experiences. If some pious reformer is shocked by our mad thirst for thrills, he will do well to look at himself. He would see that he is getting his quota of thrills by his very crusade against thrills. The difference is merely in the means of expression. No man can live without thrills. For every normal human being the thrilling experience is real life.

BEAUTIFUL WEDDING UNITES POPULAR YOUNG PEOPLE

Frank M. Woods, son of Judge and Mrs. Woods of San Antonio, and Miss Virginia Leonore Root, only child of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Root, were united in marriage at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the presence of a large number of intimate friends and relatives gathered in the Methodist church by invitation of the family of the bride.

Pews for the family were reserved and tied with satin ribbons. The beautiful ring ceremony was used by the presiding clergyman Rev. Shugert of Cisco. The church was very beautifully and artistically decorated with asters in rainbow colors against a background of plumy ferns. The altar rail was massed with the colorful blossoms intermingled with ferns terminating in tall pedestal baskets filled with immense bouquets of the chosen flowers and placed on each side of the pulpit which was massed in delicate blossoms. An inside screen of ferns and asters was built about the choir loft and formed a delicate wall or back ground for the pretty ceremony.

Prior to the wedding Miss Beard sang very charmingly "Oh Promise Me". Miss Geraldine Dabney was at the piano for the music and played Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the bride entered accompanied by her maid of honor Miss Forsythe and met the bridegroom and his best man Jno. McAliren of Breckenridge, at the altar. The attractive maid-of-honor was garbed in gray jacket suit with hat and shoes ensuited and carried a large bouquet of asters in rainbow colors. The bride wore her traveling suit of green tweed with blouse of egg-shell crepe and hip length coat. With this was worn brown shoes and hat. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. The groom and his best man were in conventional business suits of dark gray. The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her away in marriage. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Dabney as the processional.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served on the roof-garden of the Connellee Hotel, when the parents of the bride Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Root entertained the wedding party, of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woods, the bride and groom, the groom's parents, Judge and Mrs. Wood of San Antonio, and his aunt Mrs. Morgan of Fort Worth; Mr. C. M. Root, the uncle of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Andy Rhodes, her cousins; Miss Forsythe, the maid of honor; Miss Wilma Beard, Miss Geraldine Dabney; the groom's best-man, Mr. Melrian of Breckenridge, Mr. Mook of Fort Worth, Mr. Frank Zelfel, and Mr. A. L. Agate of Eastland.

The long dinner table had seven teen covers indicated by bride and groom place cards. An immense basket of flowers centered the table and smaller clusters of asters spaced the table's length. Baskets of flowers and ferns were placed in the corners and on the piano of the roof-garden. After the dinner, Miss Beard and Miss Dabney gave several musical numbers that were very charming.

The menu of fruit cocktail with iced olives and stuffed celery had second course of nut salad. The dinner plate of fried chicken included peas in timbales, potatoes hot rolls, and last course was frappe with whipped cream topping centered in brandied cherries. Ice minted tea was served through out the menu. A toast was offered by Mr. Root to the happy couple who left immediately after dinner in the groom's wedding gift, a Hudson car, for a motor trip to Monterey, Old Mexico. After a two weeks honeymoon they will be at home in San Antonio where they will go to housekeeping immediately. Mr. Wood is one of the successful young real estate men of that city where his family have lived several years.

Mrs. Root, the mother of the bride, was crowned in white crepe de chine with hat and shoes to match. Miss Dabney and Miss Beard were stunning in jacket suits of black and white.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Root, of this city and was one of the most popular girls in Eastland's younger set. She was a student of Austin University, the past two years following her graduation from high school of Eastland. A large circle of friends sent very beautiful gifts to the young couple and several attractive pre-nuptial affairs were centered Miss Root by relatives and friends.

The bride presented her maid of honor, Miss Forsythe, and Miss Beard and Miss Dabney each, a strand of handsome beads in the new art design. The groom's gift to his best-man was a handsome scarf pin.

After the dinner, the guests adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ardy Rhodes who entertained with two tables for bridge. Additional guests were Mr. and Mrs.

Trouble Maker in the Near East

He is pictured above preparing his own lunch in the desert. He now is reported to be advancing upon Palestine cities at the head of a large body of Druse tribesmen, taking advantage of recent Jew-Arab riots to instigate widespread Moslem uprising.

Argie Fehl, relatives of the bride and Mr. Alfred Crossley, Judge and Mrs. Wood, the parents of the groom, and Mrs. Morgan, dropped in for a short time. They were guests at the Connellee Hotel and left for their homes this morning.

Mrs. Rhodes had trays of bonbons on the bridge tables and a delicious iced punch was served at close of games.

Congratulations of a large circle of friends are extended Mr. and Mrs. Wood.

SHORT CUT CAUSING A HOT FIGHT

Palo Pinto County Road Bonds of $1,750,000 Up Sept. 24.

West Texas' hottest highway fight is looming in Palo Pinto county, where on Tuesday, Sept. 24, an election will be held on an issue of $1,750,000 in bonds, county-wide, of which $921,000 is for new construction. The balance of $829,000, is for the retirement of outstanding highway bonds in District No. 1, the Mineral Wells district says an account in the Abilene Reporter.

The fight is developing between the northern portion of the county, including Mineral Wells and Palo Pinto, the county seat, and a group of towns in the southern end, including Strawn, Mingue, Gordon and Santo, which oppose the Mineral Wells program of bond retirement and propose, for themselves, the construction of a hard-surface continuation of Highway 1 from Strawn to Millsap. The paved highway to Fort Worth now turns north at Strawn and runs through Mineral Wells and back to Millsap. The cutoff would follow the Texas & Pacific, not touching either Palo Pinto or Mineral Wells. The state highway department is favorable toward the proposed cutoff.

Proposed New Construction
Under the call for election issued by the commissioners court of Palo Pinto, the $921,000 would be spent on new construction as follows:

- Eight miles of hard-surfaced road on highway 25 from a point six miles north of Mineral Wells to the Jack county line;
 - Thirty miles of hard-surface road beginning as a point on highway 25 miles north of Mineral Wells and extending in a north and westerly direction through Grafado to the Young county line;
 - Twenty-eight miles of hard-surface road from Mineral Wells past Wharton mountain, crossing the Brazos river, thence southward through the town of Brazos to the Erath county line.
- The above roads to be of type sufficient to meet requirements for state and federal aid.
- Five roads of secondary type, probably of gravel, as follows:
- Twenty miles from Minguac east along the Texas & Pacific through Gordon, Santo and Brazos.
 - Ten miles from Gordon intersecting a gravel road running from the Bankhead highway across Dotson Prairie;

Eight miles from Santo north to intersect a gravel road running south from Palo Pinto one mile north of Lone Camp;

Two miles from Oran south to intersect the Mineral Wells-Young county road;

Six miles from Grafado to the Brazos river bridge to connect with a gravel road running to Palo Pinto;

Two bridges over the Brazos, just below Inspiration Point and near the town of Pickwick.

Mineral Wells is pushing the country-wide program on two grounds: first, that its completion, especially northward, is needed to guarantee the town's prestige as the commercial center of the county and as a tourist resort of first rank; second, that completion of a paved loop of the Bankhead in the southern portion of the county would leave off Mineral Wells entirely and be a bodyblow. That situation, says the Mineral Wells Index, "is alarming for Mineral
