Yields Petroleum Big Developer

The petroleum industry is one of the greatest developers and promoters of the Southwest, in the opinion of E. P. Angus, vice-president of the Magnolia Petroleum Company.

No other industry has a larger roll, pays out more money in salaries, has a larger capital investment, spends more money for maintenance and repairs," he declared.

The idea of the importance of the petroleum industry to the Southwest may be deduced from the fact that the continent field, made up of Montana, Kansas, Arkansas, all Texas and Louisiana, except the Gulf Coast, produces about 80,000,000 42-gallon barrels of oil annually.

Race Flier Crashes to Death

LEVELAND, Aug. 31.—Death by had claimed its first victim in the 1929 national air races. Shortly after he had flown into the world's endurance record at 1:08 a. m. today, Thomas G. Clark Reid, Downey, Calif., flier crashed into a tree in Lorian, a few miles west of Cleveland and was killed.

Clark died at his home here Friday noon after an illness of long duration. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Frank Williams of Vernon and Mrs. William Short, Jr., of Fort Worth; two brothers, Luther Clark of Quanah and Sidney Clark of Arlie and a sister, Mrs. D. L. Painter of Galveston.

Born in Denton county, Clark started his career as a cowman while still a youngster. He migrated to New Mexico and out of his earnings as a cowboy saved enough to set himself up as a ranch owner. At one time he was owner of the A. J. Long ranch near Post and after selling it purchased a 10,000 acre ranch in Kent and Scurry counties.

Ike Dill, son of a Rising Star physician, was in the Graham sanitarium at Cisco Saturday near death from injuries sustained when a Chevrolet truck, which he was driving, collided with the rear end of a Dodge sedan driven by Mrs. Fred Moellendick of Humboldt, near Cisco.

The accident happened about 1 1/2 miles east of Cisco on the Bankhead highway at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Young Dill's truck was loaded with gasoline and turned over twice, landing in the ditch as he lost control of it after it had sideswiped the sedan.

Dill's left arm was broken in two or three places, his chest was injured and he was otherwise badly lacerated and bruised. He is not expected to live.

Dill is employed by the Magnolia Petroleum company. His father is attending him.

MacDonald's Visit Date Indefinite

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Secretary of State Stimson from his vacation retreat in New York today authorized Acting Secretary Johnson to say the date of Prime Minister MacDonald's naval reduction visit to the United States had not been fixed definitely.

Previously it has been stated the visit would probably be made during the early part of October.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Indications that J. Ramsay MacDonald, the British premier and President Hoover intended to meet for their disarmament discussion early in October, were strengthened today by a report that Dr. MacDonald had reserved passage for himself and his daughter Isabel on the steamer Berengaria, leaving for New York September 28.

The British prime minister and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes have had a series of conferences during which Mr. MacDonald appeared and set forth fully President Hoover's views on various aspects of the disarmament question.

Conference At Hague Concluded

By FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent
THE HAGUE, Aug. 31.—The political and financial conference of governments to liquidate the World War was concluded today amid the cheers of a huge crowd which collected to bid God speed to the delegates who have taken part in the most important conference in a decade.

By coincidence the successful conference was ended on the forty-ninth birthday of Queen Wilhelmina and the streets were ablaze with the flags of Holland and those of the nations represented at the negotiations. Bands stationed near the conference hall this afternoon played the national anthems of the various countries which had sent representatives here to settle the important problems arising from the world war.

The final plenary session was convened privately before noon today to adopt the reports of the various commissions and sub-commissions, but it was decided that there would be no collective signing as the findings were not considered final. No newspapermen were admitted.

The plenary session was preceded by a meeting of the financial committee. The French proposed that the Germans refrain from claiming liquidated property in allied countries. The Germans immediately rejected this proposal and a special committee was appointed to deal with this matter later.

Water Supply Of City Safe, Ample; 2 Tests Weekly

The fact that the year 1929 thus far has been exceptionally dry and hot with very little rainfall, has caused the city commission to give out authoritative information concerning the municipally owned water system of the city of Eastland.

Lake Ringling and Lake Eastland are the two main sources of water supply, the latter having been purchased by the city a few years ago from a private corporation.

There is now on this date sufficient water impounded in these two lakes to supply the city of Eastland with water for every purpose, even at the present summer rate of consumption, for the next twelve months even if no additional rainfall takes place in the meantime.

Quite extensive improvements have been made this year on the water systems. A new stand pipe has been purchased and installed in the city's tourist park the highest point in the city; the large standpipe formerly situated near the city hall is being removed to this new location and when this is completed, the two standpipes will have a capacity of over a million gallons of water and provide ample amount of water and pressure to take care of a city twice the present size.

Work is now progressing on an additional settling basin which with the present settling basins, will provide a capacity of over a million gallons daily. Should it be necessary in the future to increase the water supply for the city, this could be done in a very economical manner by raising the dam and spillways on Lake Eastland about four feet. As this contingency was provided for in the original construction of the foundations of the dam and spillways, this additional work could be done at little expense and by this improvement the water supply could be doubled.

The citizens of Eastland are fortunate indeed to have such an ample supply of water for all purposes, and very fortunate in another respect, that is, in connection with the terms by which Lake Eastland was acquired, which permitted the payments on the purchase price to be made from the water works revenue.

Within a very few years this indebtedness will be retired and then the city can reduce the water rates or a large part of the city government expense can be paid for from this water system income with a corresponding decrease in taxation.

An analysis of the city water is made by the city chemist in Dallas twice each week during each month of the year and it has always been found to be free from any disease producing germs as well as free from disagreeable hardness and is fit for every human use.

Case Goes To Jury at 4:35 In Afternoon

Verdict is Returned After 20 Minutes' Deliberation; Mrs. J. C. Helms Collapses.

Within 20 minutes after having received the case, the jury found in the Henry Helms sanity case found Helms sane. This was the only issue in the case for the jury to decide.

The same large crowd of spectators that had been on hand each day of the hearing, was present in the courtroom when the verdict was announced. Mrs. J. C. Helms, mother of the accused, became hysterical and collapsed as she was being escorted from the courtroom after the verdict was announced. Another woman, a spectator, fainted as the jury's verdict was read.

Helms has no appeal in the courts from the jury's finding in the sanity hearing. His attorneys may file a motion for a new hearing. Judge Davenport before whom Helms had his sanity hearing, stated that if a motion for a new hearing was filed he would hear it.

Attorneys for Helms did not indicate whether they would file a motion for a new hearing. Helms is sentenced to die in the electric chair on Sept. 6, and as the time is drawing near, but little time for a hearing on a motion for a new trial is possible.

Registration of Wagon Trailers Is Questioned

AUSTIN, Aug. 31.—Whether a farm wagon hauled behind a tractor can be classed as a trailer subject to highway registration fee is being studied by assistant attorney general Jack Blalock.

Request for a ruling has come from San Patricio county where farmers assert the highway department is trying to collect such fees.

The wagons are used this way, the farmers say, for only a few weeks to haul cotton.

Election Ordered to Fill Vacancy Of Ernest C. Cox

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 31.—Gov. Dan Moody today ordered a special election to be held in the sixth representative district, of Texas, composed of Navarro and Hill counties, to elect a successor to Ernest C. Cox, who filed his resignation with the governor earlier this week. The special election will be held Oct. 22.

Whether Henry Helms, under conviction in connection with the "Santa Claus" robbery of the First National Bank of Cisco is to spend the rest of his earthly life as an inmate of an insane asylum or is to die in the electric chair sometime after midnight, Sept. 6, will be determined by a jury of his peers, who heard the evidence in Helms' sanity hearing, which began in Judge Geo. L. Davenport's 97th district court Wednesday morning and which was concluded Saturday morning at 11:05 o'clock.

Argument by counsel before the jury was completed near 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Testimony in the case was concluded Saturday morning. Both sides had rested late Friday, but the defense expected to put on additional testimony Saturday morning.

These witnesses, however, failed to show up and the defense closed Saturday morning testimony given by Howard J. Whitesides, who described Helms as an alienist and a student and lecturer on the mind. The state did not call this witness, who did not appear as an expert, and the permit to the test.

Whitesides said that Helms, his handwriting, his own met Helms insane.

Following the Whitesides' testimony, doctors members of the insane who were present, testified that Helms was sane.

Judge Davenport, in his charge to the jury, emphasized the fact that there is one and only one issue, that of whether Helms is sane or insane—for the jury to determine. Insanity, the court explained, was the ability of the defendant to know right from wrong.

In a sanity hearing of this nature the burden is on the defense to prove the defendant insane, which is different from criminal cases where the burden is on the state to prove the defendant guilty.

Whether Helms goes to the electric chair or to an insane asylum, he has perhaps established a world record for endurance as a singer, having sung almost continually for three weeks, according to testimony of witnesses in the case.

That Helms has been thinking of his wife and little children during the weeks since his death sentence was affirmed, in spite of letters, conchards, and language, that he and which were in evidence on the trial, such letter was state and another by Helms, the testimony sought to sell two of carried at the time bank robbery for $25,000. Captain Tom Hickman, who said that his wife and children.

have the money. Testimony showed that Helms had signed an order for the county attorney at Eastland to turn the guns over to Hickman and that Hickman deposited $25.00 with the jailer at Dallas to be given to Helms' wife when the guns were delivered to Hickman. Mrs. Helms, however, testified Saturday morning that she had not received the money. The evidence also showed that the guns had not been received by Captain Hickman. Whereabouts of the Helms' guns were not disclosed by witnesses in the case. Judge Frank Sparks, former county attorney of Eastland county, and who prosecuted Helms in his first trial at Eastland, stated Saturday morning that he understood that the First National Bank of Cisco had one of the guns taken off of Helms when he was captured at Graham following the robbery, and that he did not know where the others were.

As soon as the sanity hearing was completed Saturday morning Helms' father and mother and his wife, who have been in Eastland since the opening of the trial, hastened to obtain seats within the bar and near the attorneys, apparently eager to hear what the attorneys in the case had to say to the jury.

Plan Lower Rail Rates on Grain

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 31.—With the president's emergency rate on export grain expiring next month, western railroad lines are carrying out their plans to reduce rates after that date to compete with the surprise reduction obtained by the Kansas City Southern early this month.

All western lines are making requests before the interstate commerce commission for proportional reductions on rates both from Kansas City and from points on their lines.

The next result of the Southern's reduction will be to bring down all western rates on export grain to a new level of about 7 cents a 100 pounds lower than the old rate. The Southern has published a rate of 23 1-2 cents for 100 pounds on export wheat, which will become effective on October 1, the present emergency rate of 18 cents expiring September 30.

The Santa Fe, Missouri Pacific, Katy, Rock Island and Frisco have asked for a 7 cent reduction both from Kansas City and in the territory.

Katy announced today it had received permission from the Southern's 7-cent rate on Kansas City. It has received permission for a reduction effective September 1. The Missouri Pacific representative in Kansas City is asking for a reduction on all over its territory.

Stories of San Juan's Sinking Are Recounted

Adventure and Heroism Disclosed in Tragedy of Sea Off California Coast.

United Press Staff Correspondent SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Stories of horrible adventure which will be told and retold by survivors of the San Juan sinking Thursday night, were being recounted here today.

The terrible sadness of the accident was most frequently mentioned by those pulled from the oil-covered sea into lifeboats and rowed through the fog to the rescue ships, Munam and S. C. T. Dodd which rammed the San Juan.

"I heard a crash and hurried to the deck to see everybody running about madly and jumping overboard. The ship was settling already. The captain went down with her, and as far as I knew he was the last man to leave, and he never left. The last person to leave the old San Juan alive was Tullie, the chief officer. He turned to me and said: 'You damned fool, jump!'"

That was the tale of George Haines, steward. A story recounted by L. B. Hestley of Manila revealed some of the heroism displayed by the passengers. It was a tale of mother love.

"There was a lady with a little child, who kept asking for a life preserver for her baby," he said. "I went to get one for her, and when I returned with it she was gone."

The end of the tragedy occurred as the survivors walked slowly or were carried down the gangplank following their arrival from the scene of the wreck. A small piping voice was heard to scream: "Hello, grandma!"

Whereabouts of 'Arabia's King Maker' Unknown

United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON, Aug. 31.—Strict secrecy surrounded the present whereabouts of Lawrence of Arabia has led to the belief in certain quarters that the once "uncrowned king of the Arabs" has been dispatched on a state mission to Palestine to pacify the tribesmen who have risen against the Jews of the Holy Land.

This amazing character, known variously as Lawrence of Arabia, Col. T. E. Lawrence and Almirante Shaw, a soldier, scholar, explorer, adventurer, maker of kings, secret military agent and leader of revolutions had spent recent months puttering around the Catwater airfield, near Plymouth.

He has refused all the honors which the British government has attempted to heap upon him. He refused a knighthood and the highest decorations. He has refused various commissions and he preferred to remain a private in the British air force to the higher colonelcy from which he resigned.

It was said he was angry at the British government for the way in which the Arabs had been treated after the world war.

Of late, it was reported, before he disappeared from the airfield his movements had been secret. It was understood that he left Plymouth recently for an unknown destination. Efforts to get information about Lawrence of Arabia from government officials today proved futile.

Before leaving the airfield he was known merely as Almirante A. C. Shaw.

And as Almirante Shaw, the one-time king-maker kept the regular hours of a private in the army, made up his own bunk each morning and scrubbed his own floor.

It was hinted that when the trouble broke out in Palestine with bands of Arabs swooping down upon Jews, pillaging, murdering, burning, robbing and with other hordes of Arabs threatening to invade Palestine from Trans-Jordan, Syria and other Arabic countries the British government immediately recalled that it had a man in its aircraft service who might be able to solve the whole riddle.

Lawrence of Arabia probably was immediately thought of as the one man who could pacify the fury of the Arabs.

Was his resignation from the rank of colonel a poorly paid private a result of his own wish, or was it merely that he wished for the time being to retire from the public eye before continuing his work among his Arabs?

The silent Lawrence of Arabia never said. And no one else can answer. Even his own mother often has said that she never was able to fathom her son, who now is about forty years old and who when these days of gasoline and canned beef has had probably the most adventurous and colorful career of any man his age. Lawrence's friends often have pictured him as a disappointed man this Greek student who once was a research fellow at Oxford. Their theory was that Lawrence of Arabia often has been the pawn of his government in plays of which he did not approve.

Lawrence has lived among Arabians for years. He made kings and unmade others. He organized the forces of the king of Hedjaz, who had revolted against the Sultan and seized Mecca. The story of how this Englishman, dressed in the flowing robes of an Arab, led the Arabs from one military success to another reads pretty much like the history of Napoleon during his first Italian campaign.

The Arabs heaped great honors upon him. They made him a prince and an Emir. Lawrence finally came back to England and became a private in the air force.

All that is known for present is that the British government's prestige in the near East is in danger and that Lawrence of Arabia is not at his post at the airfield. Maybe the two incidents can be connected.

British Troops Speed to Safed

British troops and planes were speeding toward Safed today to restore order after a serious outbreak in which nine Jews were slain by a band of Bedouins who descended upon the North Palestine town and set fire to the Jewish quarter.

More than a score were injured in this new Arab attack and late reports from Safed said the situation continued grave. The British reinforcements were expected to arrive in the town sometime today. The troops traveling in requisitioned motor vehicles.

An official communique issued by the British colonial office in London said it was reported a large force of Arabs had crossed from Syria into Palestine and continued to advance southward. British planes were sent to the north to check the advance.

Fighting between British troops and Moslems took place at several points in Palestine, but on the whole the country was quiet, with almost complete order restored in Jerusalem and other large centers.

Several demonstrations in sympathy with the Palestine Arabs were held at Damascus and Beirut, Syria. After a clash with the police the rioters were reported to have been dispersed. According to reports from Cairo the affair at Palestine had begun to react in Egypt, with minor clashes between Jews and Moslems.

British soldiers continued to raid Arab villages and to disarm the inhabitants. Several Arabs have been court martialed for carrying weapons and sentenced to imprisonment.

Church to Wage Crusade Against Immodest Dress

LISEUX, France, Aug. 31.—A world-wide crusade against immodesty in feminine attire is to be undertaken by the Catholic church, according to an announcement made here by Monsignor Emmanuel Celestin Suhard, bishop of Bayeux and Lisieux. Efforts to suppress immoral plays, improper films and pornographic books also will be made.

Bishop Suhard is planning this vigorous attack under the patronage of Sainte Therese de Lisieux. In his words, it is to be waged against the "pernicious and worldly ideas of our century and the degrading corruptive fashions of today."

The call to arms has already been made in "Les Annales de Sainte Therese de Lisieux," the official publication of this pilgrimage center.

"The corruption of morals," he declares, "is due to the immorality of feminine attire. The contagion is so universal that there is hardly any remedy except to influence the next generation."

In order to inculcate ideas of chastity and piety among the youths of the world, Bishop Suhard has conceived the formation of an international organization made up of Catholic children. It would have chapters in practically every country of the world and would be called "The Pious Union of the Protected Children of Saint Therese of the Infant Jesus."

The seat of the organization is to be at Lisieux. A primary requirement for membership will be strict observance of the rules of Christian modesty. Both sexes will be able to join, but the union will be particularly for girls. They will be pledged solemnly to follow decency in dress.

Edison Honored At Air Races

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, Cleveland, O., Aug. 31.—The man who put electricity to work and made the lighted air roads of the nation possible was honored today at the national air races.

It was "Edison day" but the "Wizard of Menlo Park" was unable to be present to receive the honor conferred on him for the research that contributed a part in man's effort to conquer the air.

Two of Edison's cronies, however, came to take his place—Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone. With Ford and Firestone added to the already long list of celebrities here, the air races continued to be the focusing point of the nation's air interest.

Aviation—past, present and future—is the sole topic. And the discussions, sometimes going into technicalities, are not confined to pilots and aviation company officials. John Public and his wife, fortified with knowledge gleaned from original research at the exposition and at the field, speak fluently of rudders, propellers, slotted wings, types of motors and ability of various pilots as they land their ships.

Machine age youngsters recognize the make and type of an airplane just as those of another age could spot their favorite brand of automobile a block away.

When strewed along our modern highways they are a thorn in the flesh to the motorists, causing a loss of time and provokes profanity to boot about the loss of it costs to repair punctures and ruined casings.

Present indications are, W. P. Stange, general superintendent of the livestock department of the West Texas Fair, to be held at Abilene September 23 to 28, already has twelve community exhibits and five county displays signed up for the big fair and that is not at all bad in comparison with former years. He expects to have at least double that number in the building when the show opens.

The poultry show at the West Texas Fair in Abilene, September 23 to 28, will be extra good. Frank Kirk, manager of that department, says. He thinks that the general quality of the fowls exhibited will be higher than ever before.

Husband Doesn't Complain Now
Improvement is Remarkable Taking Orgatone, Says Ranger Housewife.

...atene has done my husband more good in just a few days than all the older medicines I have taken in eight years. Put me on this Orgatone, Ranger, of 400 St. Lawrence road, Ranger, Texas, had to say, a few days ago. Owen has been employed by the Smith Corp. for the past six years and is nearly eight years' son Mrs. Owen, "my husband has been suffering from indigestion and stomach was in such a condition he could scarcely keep up his work. Soon after eating his food, he would feel bloated and indigestion and keep on vomiting. He had smothering cough and sick dizziness. He was badly run down and was unable to get any sleep. He was weak and could not get any work out of him. He was often so dizzy he could not stand. He had to sit down or lie down or something to keep him from falling.

...only taken one bottle of Orgatone so far and the improvement he has made is surprising. I can already see a big improvement in his looks and he has gained strength and does not feel tired like he used to. His appetite is good now, and he can eat without suffering. He is entirely sane and his mind is clear. I have told number of my friends about it and several of them are now taking it on my recommendation. Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy. It is a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Eastland, Texas, by the Texas and Central Drug Stores, phones 345 and 346 (adv.)

Latin America Discards Ox carts For Airplanes

From ox cart to airplane in a single bound is a long leap ahead, but one which was successfully negotiated by residents of many sections along the 2100-mile air route from Los Angeles to Mexico City and Guatemala City with the inauguration on August 18, last, by Pickwick Latin American Airways of passenger service on the company's new tri-weekly air mail and express line linking the Pacific Coast with Latin America. Above is a scene from a colorful tableau enacted during the inaugural ceremonies at Grand Central Air Terminal, Glendale, on Sunday, August 18, illustrative of the transition from ox cart to airplane and participated in by the daughter of Governor Young of California and daughters of prominent Mexican and Guatemalan residents of Los Angeles. Below, flags of three nations fluttered from grandstand and rostrum and were borne by tableau participants. Left to right: Senorita Marta Paniagua, "Miss Guatemala," Senorita Berta Paniagua, "Miss Progress," Miss Barbara Young, eldest daughter of Gov. C. C. Young, and Senorita Mirianita Servin, "Miss Mexico."

...the amateur titleholder indicated to all and sundry that he holds the coveted Pebble Beach course in the hollow of his capable hand. How anyone is going to keep him from winning his fifth championship is more than can be foreseen at the present writing.

...In addition to the regular courses offered, they are also paying special attention to instrumental and vocal training. Registration days are announced as September 1, 2 and 3 being the same days on which visitors are welcome.

Bobby Makes 67 At Pebble Beach

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor.
PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Aug. 31.—There's a smile of satisfaction on Bobby Jones' face today. And if the 140 odd golfers who will seek his title next week aren't worried frowns, it's because they are concealing their feelings. For in the cool of Friday evening, when wisps of fog were beginning to drift in from Carmel Bay, the amateur champion nonchalantly completed a round of 67 over the Pebble Beach course, setting a well-kept unapproachable mark for the rest of the field to shoot at. National championships, of course, are not won in practice round, but considering the fact that Bobby's score is six strokes better than the record which existed before the boys gathered here it is bound to be a bit discouraging to the others. Shooting seven birdies on nine consecutive holes Friday afternoon

When We Say Service

We've had something to say about service in recent advertisements. Everybody in the tire business talks service these days but not everybody is clear on the meaning. Service means two things—a complete stock of new fresh dependable tires on hand all the time—we offer Goodyears. And secondly, making it easy and economical for you to get every last mile out of your tires. Therefore, we have a modern clean store located convenient for everyone. Drive-in service—lots of room—no fender scraping, no waiting. The latest equipment for tire repairing—any size, high pressure or balloon. A machine to check wheel alignment. Up-to-date wash and grease racks too—done while you wait if you wish. Anything you want—when you want it. And, oh yes—a service car in case of road trouble. A phone call brings you instant assistance. Hours 6:30 A. M. to 9:30 P. M., every day.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

MOLLY BURNHAM, whose suitors make her miserable, is experimenting with a trial engagement. BOB NEWTON, the man on approval, is making a highly satisfactory fiancé, but Molly does not really love him. She is considering marriage with him for two reasons. First, he is the father of a little girl whom she adores, and wants for her own. The second reason is JACK WELLS. Molly loves Jack with all her heart. But he has told her flatly that he will never marry her. Molly, you see, is rich and famous. And Jack is not. He declares that he could never bear to be known as Mister Molly Burnham.

Then one day RED FLYNN, who also loves Molly, telephones to say that Jack Wells is in town. Red is going to meet him that evening, and asks Molly if he shall bring him out to her flat. But Molly has a dinner engagement with Bob. She has promised to marry him, if the engagement proves a success. And she means to play the game, and abide by all the rules. She tells Red that she does not want to see Jack.

Bob breaks his dinner engagement. Feeling very lonely and forsaken, Molly decides to see if she can reach Jack by phone. If Bob breaks his appointment with her, then surely she has the right to ask an old friend to call. She is crying with vexation and grief, when the bell rings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

It was Red Flynn, and he was alone. Characteristically, he wasted no time.

"Good Lord, Molly, what have you done now?"

"I don't know." She rubbed her eyes with the back of her hand.

"What are you crying for then?"

"Me? Oh—I don't know. I'm just—crying—that's all. What did I do?"

"Nobody's been up here yet?"

"She shook her head in bewilderment.

"No, nobody's been here. Where is Jack? How does he look? Do you think he loves me a bit, Red? Just the LITTLEST bit? What did he come to Boston for? ... For goodness sake, what's the matter? Can't you answer me?"

"One at a time," he begged.

"And you'd better leave Jack out for a while. He's at the Copley now. But he'll probably go back to New York, when he sees the morning papers. Sure, he loves you. He's cuckoo over you, that's

BUT THE SIGN BACK ON THE CURVE POINTS THIS WAY TO CLARK'S CORNERS

YEP, SHE LIES DEAD AHEAD JUST OVER THE BIG HILL

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

GOOD BYE, FRECKLES—TAKE CARE OF YOURSELF AND TELL YOUR DADDY. I'LL SEE HIM ONE OF THESE DAYS!

YES, I WILL—AND UNCLE HARRY, I WANT TO TELL YOU WHAT A WONDERFUL TIME WE'VE HAD!

NOW DON'T GET OFF THE TRAIN UNLESS THE CONDUCTOR SAYS YOU MAY

I DON'T ENJOY YOU RIDIN' ON ONE OF THESE TRAINS—IT'D CRAMP MY STYLE!

HERE COMES THE TRAIN—HERE IT COMES!

"Engaged?" repeated Molly stupidly. "Me—engaged?"

"Sure. You heard me the first time. Come on now, let's get this straight, Molly. Didn't you tell Newton you'd marry him?"

"Yes," she admitted. "I did—sort of."

"What do you mean—'sort of'?"

"Well, it was sort of a trial engagement, you see. We're trying it out, kind of. If Bob's nice for three months, then—if he still loves me—it's a secret, you see."

"Nobody knows about it?"

"Nobody knows about it! Say, the whole town knows about it. Newton's been drinking all day in one of those speakeasies on Stuart street, and talking his head off. It's a co-educational speakeasy. There were some show girls in there from 'Hello, Mike,' and naturally they spilled the beans. There are a flock of reporters out now, looking for Newton. He drifts away from the joint where he's been making speeches, and they haven't located him yet. It's a wonder they haven't been here to get a story from you."

"Oh, dear. Oh dear!"

"At the hell of a mess!" exploded Red irritably. "Imogene Starr says he showed her the diamond he has for you. Seems he's been carrying it around in his pocket. Maybe he's lost it by this time."

"What can I do, Red?"

"Deny the engagement. Say it's a darn lie. The gang will be out here pretty soon. I'll duck before they get here. Tell them there must be a mistake. That you and Newton are only friends—you know the gag. No romance at all. Say there's some unfortunate misunderstanding. Don't let them kid you into making any speeches. Just play dumb. If you say too much, you'll antagonize Newton. And you know what he is when he gets started."

"I'm awfully sorry, Red. It's pretty much my fault. Bob's wretched to drink. I'm not blaming myself for that. But I think it would be pretty sporting to deny the engagement. You see, we ARE engaged, only, of course, it's supposed to be a secret. I'd be letting Bob down pretty badly if I should call him a liar. It would be a rotten trick."

"Serve him right," insisted Red stubbornly. "Serve him darn good and right. What business has he shooting his head off about you to a lot of bums in a speakeasy?"

"Oh, all right. Have it your own way. Rita's a nice little kid. I haven't a thing against her. Go ahead, and get your ready-made family! Go ahead, and marry Newton."

"Jack doesn't know about it yet?" she interrupted.

"No. I left him, and went back to the office. Someone phoned in while I was there. They were digging up your pictures when I came out. And they've all the clippings out of the margin. They're going to do a great job on you. Well, I guess I'll be moseying along. Let your conscience be your guide, and watch your step, old thing."

"Tell me," she demanded. "Did Jack have anything special to say? Anything about me, I mean?"

"Not a thing. There's one guy that doesn't wear his heart on his sleeve."

"What did he say about Mrs. Bulwer-Eaton? Please tell me," she coaxed.

"Not now. Do you good to keep you guessing for a while. Besides, I've got to go. No sense letting the gang know I tipped you off."

"I suppose so. I usually do what you want me to, don't I?"

"Not always. I asked you to marry me once."

"But you didn't mean it!"

"Well, that's neither here nor there. Now I tell you what you'd better do. Send Rita out. There'll be reporters and photographers around, but I don't believe they'll bother the kid much. Have Marie take her to the park, as usual, and tell her to stay there long enough to make sure they're not being watched. Then, when the coast is clear, tell her to take a taxi to the South Station, and go directly to the waiting room."

"Leave the house a while later yourself. Dope out your own program. But contrive to throw them off the track some time between now and three o'clock. Get a taxi, and use your wits. There's an afternoon train for Lenox. All you have to do is to get to the station in time to pick up Marie and Rita, and make that train. If you'll do it, I'll wire ahead for rooms for you. What do you say?"

"I'll do it, Red, if you think it's the wisest thing. I'll do whatever you say."

"Atta girl. I'll make the reservation in the name of Mrs. William Blake. Don't take any bags. There is a crowd in front of your place now, I suppose? Well, don't excite their suspicions. You can have your stuff sent up later. Everything o. k.?"

"Fine!" she said. "You're a great little manager, Red."

She read the stories angrily, reflecting that any exploited romance seems silly and foolish.

The publicity, she knew, would make Bob wiser. But it was his own fault. It served him right. If only it wasn't a boomerang that came hurtling back to her and Rita!

And then there was Jack. Always, always Jack. She had not heard from him. And now it was nearly 10 o'clock.

An enterprising sleuth found Bob for the first afternoon editions. Before the papers were on the streets, Red telephoned to say that Bob was referring inquiries to Molly, and had announced that confirmation must come from her. The story would be out shortly. They were leading with it.

"It's strange he doesn't get in touch with me," she said.

"Maybe he's afraid to," suggested Red.

"I haven't heard a word from Jack either."

"No? You didn't expect to, did you? Well, I was talking to him myself a few minutes ago. I told him Newton was off his nut, and that you were darn near crazy. Now listen, Molly, and do as I tell you. Get out of town, until things quiet down a bit. Don't wait to hear from Jack. He's sort of up in the air himself. Talking with him won't help you a bit."

"Is he angry, Red?"

"Well, I don't know what you'd call it exactly. He isn't what I'd say was peaceful-feeling. You do what I tell you, Molly, and clear out for a while. Take Rita with you, and beat it. Will you?"

She hesitated.

"I hate to run away."

"Don't be silly. What's the sense of sticking around? You'll be getting in a jam with Newton first thing you know. You can't talk sense to a man when he's liquored up. Wait till he sobers off. Then give him the devil!"

"What good will that do?" she demanded.

"Search me. I only thought you might like to. It's a mess anyhow, and I can't see as anything you do is going to make much difference. If you marry him after this, you're a little fool."

"And if I don't, I lose Rita."

"And that's that," finished Red. "Well, what are you going to do about it? Will you leave town, like

WASHINGTON LETTER

RODNEY DUTCHER
 A Service Writer
 WASHINGTON.—This town used to be full of people who thought it couldn't ever be any more. The prevailing theory was that the Democratic party had gone wrong and that the issue was one of dispute between the Republicans.
 It is commonly believed that the Democratic senators had in their own states protection that any tariff Republicans cooked up would be opposed by as much of the country as possible. It was also an accepted supposition that the country at large would be roughly sold on protection of a new tariff bill, no matter what its scale of duties, would be hailed by hosannas from the Senate and public thanksgiving at the town pump.
 It was the limit of confidence that all these things were true, the rulers of the Representatives jammed a tariff bill with the slogan "sky was the limit" and no one noticed any further trouble. It was supposed the hard-Republican majority on the finance committee would make a general program of further already the bill has been time in a terrible jam and the finance committee's bill senate floor it probably will period of maceration. No one with the final outcome, but persons have had to resist views about the tariff in the first place, a swell fight opened.
 In the second place, the tariff is a party issue as it ever was in the Democratic national head- has been issuing unremit-ing daily blasts against the House bill and the Republicans of the finance committee for months. Most Democratic senators have sponsored biting and withering denunciations of the bill and Republican intentions in general. It actually looks as if the Democrats were more effectively united against the House bill or anything like it than they have been on any other issue in the last several years.

Newspapers Critical
 In the third place—and most important—the country is not in any receptive mood. By such means as the country is able to protest it has been squawking steadily and some time ago word came from the White House that a study of clippings showed nine out of ten newspapers actually critical.
 The effect of this popular disapproval of many of the proposed increases is plainly to be seen in the sweatings and writhings of Senators Smoot, Reed, Watson and other Republican leaders now wrestling with the bill.
The fight on the House provisions has come from many sources—from powerful corporations acting in self-interest and from the most altruistic sources at the same time. The Sugar Trust, made up principally of American interests operating in Cuba, led the fight on the House three-cent sugar rate, aided enthusiastically by the carbonated beverage bottlers, unselfish individuals and organizations defending the interests of the consumer.
Pruning Under Pressure
 Under this sort of combined pressure, Smoot, Reed, Watson and the others have at least partially caved in. Lately the boys have acquired cold feet on wool and have reduced the House bill rate on that by three cents a pound. They're pruning under pressure and trying to make this bill look just as sweet as possible under less circumstances.

That "Reduced" Feeling

fumbles, is to lose possession of the ball at the point where the defensive side recovers.
 "It is believed that this rule will cause a more daring attack as a team taking chances does not suffer as heavily as under the old rule when a fumbled ball might be scooped up by the defending side and carried to a touchdown.
 "Another rule change is that the ball, after a touchdown, is put in play on the two-yard line instead of the three-yard line, in the try for the extra point. Being a yard closer to the goal, more attempts probably will be made to plunge the ball over and that will add action."

RULE CHANGES ARE DISCUSSED BY COACH WARD

BANGER, Texas, August 31.—Tricky Ward, former end and tackle of the T. C. U. Horned Frogs and for the past two seasons engaged in coaching in Ranger, is back from the Rockne-Warner coaching school at Dallas, ready for another season. He will assist Coach Esker Curtis in training the Ranger High school team, as he did last year.
 Ward remained at the coaching school until the lectures and demonstrations on line work were completed. He did not remain for the backfield work.
 Changes in the rules since last season were discussed at the school.
 Tricky says he does not think the fans will have any difficulty in following the game as the changes do not make any fundamental alteration or complicated re-adjustment.
 "The defending team, if it recovers a fumble, cannot run with

"AUNT LUCIA" THURSDAY AND FRIDAY EVENINGS

A delightful and clever story unfolds in "Aunt Lucia" play extravaganza which will be presented at the high school auditorium Thursday and Friday evenings of this week and in which the college boys and enemies all play roles in high light and hit the English language with emphasis in several instances. Splendid attractions will be given between curtains and an undertone of music provided by Miss Ruth Bailey, pianist for the evening. The proceeds from the plays of Thursday and Friday nights will be devoted to the work in care of the Booster class of the Methodist church. Miss Mildred Phillips of Kansas City, Mo., is coaching the play in which there will be presented 88 adults and 29 children.

Eastland has always been very generous to the amateur show and her confidence will be well placed in the coming production.

A novelty in Eastland dramatic affairs will be introduced as a baby pageant in which tots from three to eight years of age will pass in review as Miss Lucile Brogdon presents the special dramatic reading for this number.

Familiar names appear in the girls' chorus as this talent is no stranger to Eastland audiences.

MISS ELIZABETH GARRETT ENTERTAINS WITH COLORFUL DINNER

The lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Jinks Garrett was thrown open Thursday evening at 8 o'clock when the daughter of the house, Miss Elizabeth Garrett, entertained with a formal Mexican dinner, honoring the popular bride-to-be, Miss Virginia Root, whose marriage to Mr. Wood of San Antonio will take place this week, on date not yet announced.

The long dinner table, laid in heavy Mexican lace over rose silk, was centered with crepe myrtle in various shades of rose and dark red, rimmed with feathery ferns. Handsome silver candle sticks held rose bud tapers and places were marked by tricky bride and groom place cards in clever colors and bizarre effects. The menu of tiny ripe red tomatoes frozen, on paprika-dashed water cress, was followed by hot tamales, chili, all kinds of Mexican and Spanish breads and sandwiches with side dishes of tortillas and enchiladas salad on red crystal plates. Iced tea was served with Spanish gloves and last course was the frozen red heart of watermelon. The balance of evening was spent in informal visiting and bridge playing and a drive to Cisco where light refreshments were served. A clever touch for the dinner laid in the Spanish costumes with boleras and full striped skirts, worn by the two colored maids on duty in the dining room.

Guests were Miss Allene Williams, Miss Geraldine Dabney, Miss Marjorie Davison, Miss Daphne Grisham, Miss Edna Day, Miss Jane Angstadt, Miss Virginia Root, honoree, and Miss Elizabeth Garrett, hostess.

Tanner of Denton, and Mr. Bob Gray, of Eastland, the brother of Mrs. E. C. the beautiful ring ceremony.

The church was very beautifully decorated and the chancel rail and altar banked with flowers and ferns carrying out the rose and white effect. During the wait prior to the ceremony, Miss Mable Nabours sang very beautifully "I Love You Truly," with Mr. Blythe of Austin, at the piano. To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Miss Nabours, the bridal couple entered, unattended, and took their places before the pastor at the altar. The bride's costume was handsome in chiffon velvet in burgamy shades, worn with a smart hat, ensuiter. A shower bouquet of pink rosebuds completed the picturesque ensemble. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Nabours from 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. From a rose decked, lace covered table, a three tiered wedding cake iced in pink rosebuds was cut by the bride, and served later with iced punch, to the throng of guests attending.
