SMITH STARS IN THE FINAL FRAY

Passes Account for Victory Over Strong Stephenville Eleven, Season Ended For Mavericks.

The curtain fell Friday afternoon on Eastland's football season. The Mavericks brought the year to a close with a 12 to 0 victory over the Stephenville Yellow Jackets. It was the first time that Eastland has ever won from Stephenville which for a number of years ranked as one of the greatest football centers of this section.

Once more little Corrie Smith demonstrated that he is a sharp-shooter and it was two accurately-hurled passes by the Eastland quarterback that accounted for the touchdowns. In the first quarter, with the Mavericks 20 yards from the Yellow Jackets' goal, Smith shot the ball over the goal line to Norton who made a pretty catch though two Jackets were striving desperately to slap the ball down. And in the final quarter, with Eastland again 20 yards from the goal, Smith hurled a pass over the goal line to White who made a neat catch.

Defensively the entire Eastland eleven shone. While the Jackets made a few scattering first downs on running plays, the ball was never in Stephenville's possession in the Mavericks' half of the field until the third quarter when the Yellow Jackets once reached Eastland's 40-yard line and, in the last minute of the game, the visitors unleashed a passing attack which worked the ball to the 25-yard line or thereabouts as the pistol sounded.

It was a brave scrap that Stephenville put up and though Eastland made numerous gains and kept the Jackets on the defensive almost the entire battle, the Maverick offense lacked consistency. Doubtless the strain of the numerous conference games had to be followed by relaxing and the Eastland boys, enjoying the novelty of playing a team that did not out-premises. J. C. Patterson of Eastland and Ross R. Wolfe of Stephenville, have already done much work along this line.

Officials of the Brazos Valley association point out that since the state fair will be held next year, exhibitors should begin now saving pecans of both the improved and native varieties for the Dallas show.

An idea brought out in discussions at the Stephenville meeting was that different pecans, or rather, pecans adapted especially for that section, should be planted in the Western and Eastern portions of the state. A visit to the J. A. Brown nursery and pecan orchard of Stephenville and an examination of the records of pecan trees there, it is declared, proves that a tree selected especially for West Texas will produce more pecans than one not particularly adapted, and vice versa.

Ten year old trees of the Stewart pecan, an eastern variety, in the Brown orchard made an average yield this year of 19 pounds per tree, while some of these same varieties, too worked seven years ago with Burkett and Halbert pecans, which are western varieties, produced an average of 53 pounds per tree. A Stewart tree topworked with dormant Halbert buds in the summer of 1926 produced 15 1/2 pounds of pecans this year.

$15,000 FIRE
HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 24.—The Sam Houston Normal college cafeteria was destroyed by fire with a loss estimated at $15,000. Origin of the fire was unknown.

FORTIETH YEAR

Henry Miller, Grand Keeper of Records and Seals of the Knights of Pythias of Texas, will celebrate his 40th anniversary next Friday at his home at Weatherford.

In 1881 "Uncle Henry" moved to Weatherford and was initiated in Lone Star Lodge No. 4, Knights of Pythias, became a member of the Grand Lodge in 1887 and was elected Grand Keeper of Records and Seals in 1889 and has held that position continuously since that time.

AGED FATHER OF WALTER MURRAY DIES SATURDAY

Within a month, death has claimed both parents of Walter Murray, publisher of the Eastland Telegram and the Ranger Times.

His aged father, R. T. Murray of Gatesville, died early Saturday morning. Mrs. Murray passed away at the age of 76 on October 25.

R. T. Murray, 87 years old, was a veteran of the Civil War and a Texas pioneer. He was born in Jefferson, Mo., on July 8, 1841. He was a soldier in the Union Army for four years. He came to Texas in 1873.

The funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church in Gatesville.

The pioneer had been in declining health for a long period of time and the death of his life's companion last month doubtless shortened his span of life and he has gone to join her in the life eternal.

He is survived by six sons and three daughters—Lieut. Col. Will Murray of Long Island, N. Y.; Jno. Murray of Odessa; Jim Murray of Dalhart; Walter Murray of Ranger; Edward Murray of Indiana, and Clarence Murray of Gatesville; Mrs. C. E. Dodson of Fort Worth; Mrs. Curtis Leudermilk of Lamars, and Mrs. Fannie Brady of Amarillo.

CARNES HAS NEW CELL MATE
By United Press.
ATLANTA, Nov. 24.—Clinton S. Carnes, absconding head of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board, has a new cellmate.

He is John D. Walker, one-time head of a chain of 107 banks, who disappeared from Sparta, Ga., 13 years ago.

Walker was arrested in New York after a long search and will be tried in Savannah, under an embezzlement indictment returned years ago.

The 57-year old former banker, like Carnes, has been custodian of church funds. In the days of his prosperity, he was treasurer of the North Georgia Methodist conference mission board, president of the State Senate and president of the Georgia Bankers' association.

TAX OFFICE WILL BE OPENED NIGHTS

City manager H. O. Tatum authorized the statement that the office of the city tax collector at the Eastland City Hall will be open until 10:00 o'clock nights of November 29, 27, 28 and 30 for the convenience and accommodation of those desiring to pay city taxes and who have not had other opportunities to pay them.

Negro Is Victim of "Ax-Slayer" Hunt

By United Press.
OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 24.—Stanley Haley, a negro, was shot and killed here today in a running gun fight with police who were engaged in rounding up Omaha ax murderer suspects. A companion escaped.

Despite the fact that a man named Bird is held in the State penitentiary as a suspect, police continued the hunt for the murderer of the proposition that Bird might not be the killer.

Two officers, Patrolman Edwards and Chapman, were on duty in the negro district and were ordered to halt. Chapman called out that he was a policeman, whereupon the negroes opened fire and then started the motor and raced away. The officers followed and a running gun battle was staged.

A mile away, the car stopped and a negro leaped from it and disappeared. Haley was found dead at the steering wheel.

By United Press.
OMAHA, Nov. 24.—Another effort was to be made today to determine positively whether Jake Bird, Louisiana negro, is the Omaha hatchet murderer.

Bird, arrested yesterday and whisked to the penitentiary at Lincoln, by Sheriff McDonald and his deputies, is likely to be brought back today and again taken into the presence of Mrs. G. Harold Stribling, Mrs. C. E. Henry, wife of the owner of the hospital, and others who were in the room when Mrs. Stribling saw Bird, denied that a positive identification had been made.

The negro probably will be brought back here and, if Mrs. Stribling's condition warrants, she will see him again. Fingerprints found on a hatchet used in one of the three slayings will be compared with Bird's.

By United Press.
OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 24.—Still unconvinced that Jake Bird, held at the Nebraska penitentiary as a suspect, is the Omaha hatchet murderer, Inspector of Detectives Danbaun arrived here tonight from Lincoln where he spent several hours questioning Bird.

Danbaun brought back several photos of Bird taken at the prison, which were shown to Mrs. G. Harold Stribling, only person who is known to have seen the slayer.

Mrs. Stribling said the photos resembled the attacker but that she would not attempt positive identification until she saw Bird again. Bird probably will be taken back Monday and again viewed by Mrs. Stribling.

Fingerprints found on the blood-spattered walls of the Stribling home will be compared with prints taken at Lincoln tomorrow.

State Supervisor Inspects Departments
C. L. Davis, state supervisor of vocational agriculture, has just completed an inspection of the work being done in this line by the vocational Teachers in Eastland county. The work here, which is being done by H. C. Colvin, was passed favorably by Davis. In fact that about the only criticism Davis had to offer anywhere in the county was the lack of equipment at some points.

OKLAHOMA BOYS IN JAIL HERE

To Be Tried for Robbery of Olden Store. "Wanted to Get Back Home," Is Plea.

Charges were filed Friday against Elmer Morris, said to be 15 years of age, and Milo Judge, 18, in connection with the burglary of the B. Slay Confectionery and filling station at Olden, Thursday night.

The complaints were signed by E. S. (Cy) Bradford, deputy sheriff, and filed in Justice of the Peace Jim Steele's court.

The two boys who told officers here their homes are in Stillwater, Oklahoma, at the present time are confined in the Eastland County jail.

They are said to have told officers that they were trying to get back to Oklahoma and needed some gasoline and something to eat.

The car, it was said, which was found in their possession, had not been stolen, as previously thought.

The boys were frustrated in their attempt to rob the business, when Charles and Nathan Slay, caught one of the boys in the store and one at the gasoline pump.

As the two boys entered the store they found themselves face to face with a burglar who threw a pistol on them. Nathan had a flashlight that he shone in the hijacker's face. The latter told the brother that he had them both covered, and ordered Nathan to turn on the light, which he did. The other Slay boy stepped to one side. Suddenly Nathan switched the light on the rays falling full in the burglar's face. At the same instant the other boy struck the robber across the wrist with a broom and the pistol fell to the floor.

George Williams, who is employed at the confectionery, had followed the brothers into the shop and he seized the pistol from the floor.

Deputy sheriff Bradford and "Dug" Barton went to the scene of the attempted robbery and took the Judge boy in custody. The other boy had disappeared with the car.

Later, according to Barton, the two Slay boys found the Morris boy sitting in the car. The car had skidded into a ditch and stuck in the mud.

The two members of the sheriff department again went to Olden to arrest the second boy.

Saturday the youthful bandits were confined in the county jail with charges of burglary hanging over them, and possibly other charges pending.

FUTURE FARMERS ORGANIZED HERE

A local chapter of the Future Farmers of Texas, a national wide organization has been organized by C. H. Colvin, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Eastland schools. The organization has 30 members, composed of Eastland High school boys and boys from some of the rural schools of the Eastland territory. Local organizations have also been perfected at Gorman, Rising Star, Cisco and Ranger.

The program arranged for the Eastland chapter includes beautification of the school grounds, fatted and son banquet, clubbing together for the production of 5-000 broilers to be grown from baby chicks, brood sows for pig production dairying, growing of peanuts, grains, etc.

STATE STARTS SUIT AGAINST OIL COMPANY

AUSTIN, Nov. 24.—With the W. J. McDonald will case temporarily settled, the attorney general's department turned to the preparation of another suit involving millions—the State's action against Phillips Petroleum company and other land owners in Hutchinson county oil field.

McALLEN MAYOR NAMED IN SUIT

Mayor W. B. Freeland was named defendant in a suit brought by Lee Minner for recovery of $120,000 of public money.

The suit was brought in behalf of the McAllen municipal corporation according to the petition, and charged that the mayor expended funds of the city illegally when he purchased land for a right of way for the South Pacific line.

Commenting on the suit, Mayor Freeland said "The people are familiar with the deal and the parties responsible for the suit are friendly with the present county administration." He added that the suit was filed for the purpose of intimidating him because of his activities in behalf of the Independent candidates, who were defeated in the November 6 election by present officers.

THIS TRIO MADE A GRAND SLAM WITH NO HONORS

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Three bands were the only winners in a high stake bridge game here.

The losers—12 women—counted their losses today and the latest figure was $31,450 in jewelry and fur coats.

The third hand had just been played when the winners came on the scene with pistols.

The losers, guests of Mrs. Evelyn Grosby, for an afternoon of bridge were forced to nut their heads on the tables while the bandits stuffed pillow cases with fur coats and filled their pockets with diamonds.

Mrs. Horace Goldblatt saved a $4,000 diamond by putting it in the top of her stocking. That was the only move the bandits missed or "maybe they were polite," Mrs. Goldblatt said.

The bandits fled in an auto.

HAVE $20 ON US

Santa Claus—the jovial old boy—will make a non-stop flight down someone's chimney a few weeks before Christmas, provided someone wants the $20 in cash that is awaiting three prize winners of the Chimney contest in today's edition of the Telegram.

A full page advertisement, representing different Eastland business firms, appears in this paper today. Look it up. Study the rules of the contest. Work an hour or so, and maybe that pair of silk hose, or that cigarette lighter won't seem so hard.

Cash prizes will be given in the denominations of $10, $7 and $3, for first, second and third places, respectively. We reserve the right to give as many "honorable mentions" as we care to.

Look for the rules, look for the advertisements, look for the money that is forthcoming to the winner. Remember (please don't forget to remember) that correctness is essential; neatness and artistic handling are to be considered.

There is a chance to win $10 in an hour. Some men have lost less in a few minutes trying to fill a one way straight. Many a woman has won less after three hours of bridge.

The answers must be in the office by 12 o'clock Tuesday night.

GORMAN YOUTH IS RECOVERING

Jake Craddeek, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Craddeek, farmers living near Gorman, has been released from the sanitarium at Gorman where he was taken earlier in the week suffering from the effects of a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

MANY HOMELESS AFTER HEAVY STORM

Second Storm in Week Injures Hundreds. Many Ships in Distress.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Ten persons have been killed, hundreds are injured and many homeless in the second storm to strike England within a week.

Although the general storm has abated in England, cyclonic winds are reported from the English channel, the Normandy coast and parts of Germany. Many ships are in distress and have sent out calls. Lifeline crews along the south and east coasts are tremendously busy.

In the storm which visited England last week nearly 100 persons were killed but the present storm is considered even more violent.

West Ward Winner With Two "Stunts"

By Mrs. W. K. Jackson
The West Ward School's Rhythm Band won first place in the "Stunt Night" competition, sponsored by the Thursday Afternoon Study Club at the second annual presentation, Friday night at the high school auditorium.

Second place was won by the West Ward School's Glee Club. Honorable mention was given to the Delphian Chapter, which presented the "Dwarf dance."

Cash prizes of $10 and $5 were given for first and second places, respectively.

Judges were Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Desdemona, Mrs. J. J. Robinson, Rising Star, and Mrs. L. G. Dean, member of the faculty of the University of Oklahoma, Norman.

The points counted by the judges in making the awards, included stage presence, originality, and the applause of the audience. The time limit placed upon each presentation was ten minutes.

The first presentation was that of the Rhythm Band, the winner of first place. The members of the organization were dressed in white trousers, and yellow lined flowing capes, and white caps.

Mrs. F. O. Hunter accompanied the band, assisted by Miss Fayz Bakken. Two numbers were given.

The Thursday Afternoon Club's "Stunt" followed. It was a clever skit, with the scene in the public library. Miss Celia Haas, librarian, was impersonated by Mrs. H. Sample, and others of the cast included Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, as "a literary critic" and Mmes. J. M. Ferrell, Grady Pipkin, and James Horton. Mrs. Horton is the author of the skit. The stunt was not in competition.

The South Ward School Girl's club, under the direction of Mrs. A. F. Taylor appeared in a pastoral song.

Making his first appearance, Fuzzy Furse, presented two song numbers, accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Furse.

The West Ward Glee Club, winner of second place, followed. Solos were given by Principal Boles of the school, and a dance by Florence Perkins. The members of the club dressed in gypsy costumes.

"Three Buckets of Blood," was the title of a burlesque presented by the Eastland Music Club. Mrs. V. T. Seaberry is the author of the skit. Assisting her in the presentation, were Mrs. John M. Mouser, and Mmes. Stanley Bird, A. G. Campbell, H. O. Satterwhite, J. E. Little and Miss Green.

Mrs. Nora Heffley Mahon gave two selections of original verse. The Rotary Club presented a Hal Boosh comedy, bearing an introduction its card.

The Delphians' "Dwarf Band" gave a song and dance program. The original presentation was formulated by Mrs. N. N. Rosequest, president. Those taking part were Mmes. Luther Bean, P. L. Parker, H. G. Owen, W. H. Madden, W. B. Fairbairn, W. C. Baker, A. J. Campbell, W. M. Hart, N. N. Rosequest, and Mrs. F. W. Cortis, pianist.

The number presented by the Elks Club, consisted of a dance by Miss Florence Perkins, dressed in the Elks' colors of purple and blue.

Pecan Growers Meet at Cisco in Spring

The next meeting of the Brazos Valley Pecan Growers' Association will be held in Cisco, the members of the association voted at the meeting of the organization in Stephenville Friday. The meeting will be in the spring, the exact date named by Cisco subject to approval of the officials of the association.

Among the members attending the meeting at Stephenville from Eastland county were: H. H. Harrell and E. H. Varnell, Charles, Herbert and Emery, Wendt, Pleasant Hill, W. H. L. V. Hughes, Rising Star; B. D. Dick Weeks, Ranger; and Agent J. C. Patterson of Eastland, Patterson is secretary of the association.

There was a total of 25 exhibits from Eastland county, but only two of these were awarded prizes. According to those attending Stephenville meet, interest in pecan educational, is growing rapidly, and by the increase in number of exhibits.

The association voted to ask the other pecan growers' associations to cooperate with the Brazos Valley association in raising pecans with which to stimulate the pecan industry. A fund was advocated for this purpose by the officials of the Fair of Texas at Dallas, a pecan department and to make a sum of money for the association hopes, by the other associations in the other funds with which to appropriate by the fair to at least the extent of amount to be used for

Near the close of the game, the Black and the Red machine demonstrated its skill however in unmistakable fashion. Starting well down in their own territory, the Mavericks in half a dozen plays had a touchdown. Smith made a run or two, Norton zig-zagged through the line, Allen ripped into the line, Smith hurried a through-the-line pass to McCullough for a pretty gain. Smith tossed a long pass to the galloping Cheatham, who had come back into the game, and then came Smith's pass to White for the score.

Lee, Stephenville, quarterback, was the outstanding performer of the vanquished. He made several side-stepping off tackle gains and returned kicks in good style. He also contributed a trick play. It was third down. Stephenville had the ball in its own end of the field. Several yards was needed for first down. Orthodox football called for punt. Lee was back on formation. He received the ball, faked dropping it and swung his foot to touch a short pass for a 10-yard gain. The play was well-executed.

Vernon Adams, the referee, turned in a well-orchestrated game as did all the officials. This scribe has seen so much poor work by officials in the district this season that it is almost news when a game is

The Retail Merchant's Association presented a stunt carrying out the policy of the organization. Ten standard bearers, with cards of Eastland merchants, were used. Mrs. Grady Pipkin, sang a parody on "My Bonnie Lies over the Ocean," with words by Mrs. Nora Heffley Mahon. Mrs. Loxie Dean Robinson, Rising Star, poet-laureate of the I. F. W. C. gave a group of four poems.

The Eastland high school students' burlesque of faculty members was the last stunt of the evening. The pep squad of the school, under the direction of Josephine Martin, captain, Ina Mae Coleman, Jim Golden, leaders, gave a few yells, while the judges were in session.

Mrs. Boles, was presented by the Civic League, in a song and dance number, in a clever announcement of the cook book the league has for sale.

Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, was master of ceremonies, and announced each number. Candy was sold by members of the high school pep squad, and of the Thursday Afternoon Club, under the direction of Mrs. H. O. Tatum. Mrs. B. B. Bickerstaff acted as stage manager, and Jim Golden and Robert Ferrell as property men.

Approximately $80 was cleared and placed in the public library maintenance fund.

For the past four years, this school has conducted a graded picture study course, which has been made a part of the art work, in South Ward, from the first grade through the seventh.

Six masterpieces are assigned each half grade. A child who has come from the primary department, and finished the seventh grade, has become acquainted with leading art sets and their most famous work.

In ball games, the school lost Thursday afternoon to Ranger in football, 13-7, on Eastland grounds.

The girls played ground ball, defeating West Ward on the latter's ground 12-10.

Tuesday afternoon, the girls basketball team lost to Olden High School Girls, 15-6 on the local courts.

ABILENE EAGLES BEAT CATS 25 - 0

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 24.—Abilene defeated San Angelo 25-0 here this afternoon before 2,500 spectators, one of whom was Paul Tyson, coach of Waco, which defeated Abilene for the state title last year.

It was the case of a good big team against a good little team with the inevitable result.

San Angelo ran and passed to Abilene's 3-yard line in the first few minutes of play, but lacked the punch to score. Shortly afterward McCamey, halfback, went out with an injury and Baker, Bobcat fullback, became a casualty before the close.

Phelps and Smith bore the brunt of the Abilene attack with Grimes and Massey outstanding on the San Angelo defense.

In the first quarter Phelps passed to Bentley for Eighteen yards and a touchdown and later Smith rammed across another Smith scored again in the second period on an end run and Kincaid intercepted a pass in the third quarter for the final score. All attempts at goal failed, but on the last one a San Angelo aside gave Abilene the extra point.

High School Girl Is Wanted By the Police

By United Press. BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 24.—A warrant was issued here today for the arrest of Miss Ruth Bolling, 19, attractive high school senior and daughter of a city official, in connection with the investigation of a series of robberies in which the loot totaled thousands of dollars.

The girl, daughter of City Chemist George E. Bolling, could not be located. Her father told police she had suffered a nervous breakdown and was confined to an institution. He agreed to produce her as soon as her condition warranted it.

Miss Bolling, who is charged with breaking, entering and larceny, in two counts, is the third Brockton high school student arrested in connection with the burglary investigation.

Withrop F. Shaw, 17, son of a professor at the Bridgewater State Normal School, and George Grinnell, 17, are now in jail in default of $3,000 bail. Both are charged with breaking, entering and larceny. Shaw in 15 counts and Grinnell in nine.

The arrests climaxed an inquiry which had been in progress for several weeks. Police stated that several other high school girls might be implicated.

BULLDOG-BUCK FRAY STANDS OUT

Can a team with crippled morale and crippled backfield, win a football game from a team with the best of morals, and a good backfield.

That question, along with a few more, will be decided at Lillard field, Ranger, Tuesday afternoon, when the Ranger Bulldogs meet the Breckenridge Buckaroos. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

The Bulldogs will be without the services of Lee Hammett, the punting, passing quarterback, who was on the receiving end of a pass that ushered him out of high school football, when he was declared ineligible last week.

The passing of Hammett, simply means, that the passing of the Bulldogs will be far below par. Coach Esker Curtis does not contend that he has a passer as good as Hammett. Nor a punter. He would like to boast of such material.

On the other hand, the Breckenridge boys would like to beat Ranger. They want to beat them on old terri firma, however, and not on the inside grounds.

From a football standpoint, it should be a good game. Either team might be picked as a winner.

Ranger's right to continue in the race for the district championship is at stake. Should Breckenridge pull a party, it will be all over for the Bulldogs.

The teams are well balanced. Breckenridge has been showing improvement in recent games. The Bulldogs have lost Hammett. It should be a good game.

a powerful body of Islamic priests, was too strong. Frock coats, boots, trousers and felt hats were practically enough for one generation of wild mountaineers. Some even consented to the shaving off of their beards, in spite of the injunction of the prophet. Seven hundred tribal headmen assembled in the capital in August, listened to their king prescribe the wonders of western civilization. They shook, instead of kissing, the royal hand; they sat on seats in the royal garden, instead of on the more comfortable ground; they tolerated the exhibition of pictures, in direct defiance of the Islamic law.

The tribemen had heard vaguely, of how Queen Souriya had discarded the purdah during her European visit. They knew that the queen and other ladies of her household had appeared unveiled at a banquet and reception in Kabul. They had heard, and listened well, but they listened more attentively to the words of the Mullahs.

Hostility in Rural Sections. King Amanullah listened, too, Deputations of up-country Mullahs warned him that the court should not set an example of laxity. The king, an ardent and conscientious reformer, pointed out that Afghan peasant women often discarded the purdah while working in the fields. This was done for convenience, without prejudice to the institution of the purdah, the Mullahs declared. After addressing the king they returned to their people. Disaffection spread quickly. Amanullah decided to proceed more slowly with his modernization campaign.

Hostility to the king's intended move was chiefly confined to the outlying districts, where it was interpreted as an attempt to deprive Moslems of the Islamic rights. It is true that the purdah is not even theoretically demanded by Islam, but custom and long practice have established the veil as a necessity.

One of Amanullah's first moves in westernization had to be rescinded immediately. It prohibited marriage before the ages of 18 for women, and 22 for men. Mountaineers who consented grudgingly to the top-hat and the razor would have none of this tampering with matrimonial customs. They cared very little more for the insistence on monogamy for all public officials.

The more advanced Afghans are in sympathy with the king's plans, and even the other elements have obeyed most of his decrees. But the power of the Mullahs can not be disregarded. In the meantime, the purdah remains a national institution.

SQUADRONS ORGANIZED. By United Press. DALLAS, Nov. 22.—Formation of five new squadrons of Aviation Cadets of America, four in Texas and one in Oklahoma, will be completed soon, according to an announcement by Vice-Commander Martin Weiss following an organization trip by Capt. W. H. Scott, national secretary.

The new squadrons and their adult commanders are: Waxahatchie, Rosa Smith; Sherman, Lieutenant G. S. Thompson; Fort Worth Y. M. C. A., C. J. Fairchild; Denison, R. M. Gray; Durant, Oka., E. Kimbrel and Amos Bass. Other squadrons in the process of formation also are Muskogee, Tulsa, and Oklahoma City, Okla., while negotiations for squadrons at San Antonio, Temple and Austin are being considered.

SCHUBERT WORK NOT PERFORMED FOR 44 YEARS

By United Press. CLEVELAND.—Cleveland will be the first American city in which the "Seventh Symphony," by Franz Schubert, will be presented, and when the Cleveland orchestra presents the work it will be the first time the "Seventh Symphony" has been performed since 1884.

The first presentation was made in 1883—in Europe—after John Francis Barnett, a comparatively obscure musician, had deciphered the original manuscript. The first performance, which was under Sir August Manns, was so successful that it was repeated the following year. There is no record of any subsequent performance.

The story of the "Seventh Symphony" is this: The manuscript passed after the death of the composer, to his brother, Ferdinand. He later made a present of it to Mendelssohn, who, like Schubert, died at an early age. His brother, Paul, inherited the manuscript and turned it over to Sir George Grove, who left it to the Royal College of Music, where it now is.

The original manuscript was merely a sketch, with many details of harmony, figuration and orchestration indicated in outline only or omitted entirely. The task of deciphering the work was left to Barnett, and the first presentation of the "Seventh Symphony" followed in 1883.

It was through Herbert F. Peyser, New York music critic, that the manuscript score and orchestra parts were made available for Nikolai Sokoloff, director of the Cleveland orchestra.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER. WASHINGTON.—The United States has four main fields of foreign policy: Europe, the Far East, the Panama Canal and its approaches and Latin America.

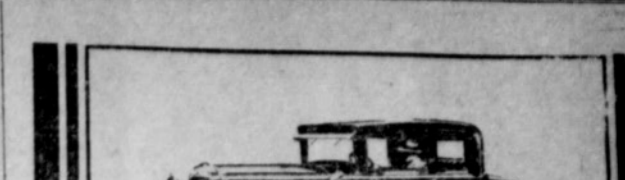

The Far Eastern policy has been the same for many years and is concerned with China and Japan. We want China to be strong, independent and friendly to us.

We don't want China divided into spheres of influence by European nations. We want to nourish every opportunity for American trade expansion in Asia.

Similarly our policy has been one of friendliness toward Japan. The theory is that we have most to gain by that and much to lose in any strong alliance between Japan and Britain. Japan has come to see that this is also her best bet, and meanwhile has gone ahead with her penetration of Manchuria unimpeded.

The Panama Canal policy is primarily one of national defense. It was the driving motive in the canal's construction and that is our main concern in the Caribbean today. We demand order in Central American and Caribbean countries; we are determined to safeguard all approaches to the canal and we are thinking seriously of digging another canal through Nicaragua. These facts may not fully explain our last intervention in Nicaragua, but they were what actuated the government at the time.

It might also be said that there is a separate Mexican policy, but one so kaleidoscopic that it is hard to describe it. One day we get to worrying about Bolshewik propaganda and all of a sudden Mexico; next day we remember to worry about trade expansion and American loans and begin to worry again.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History - a Six in the price range of the four!

The Chevrolet Motor Company announces The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History . . . a Six in the price range of the four!

Spectacular as Chevrolet's achievements have been in the past . . . notable as its engineering triumphs have proved themselves to be—this remarkable new car dwarfs every previous Chevrolet accomplishment. Not only does it introduce into the low-priced field an entirely new measure of performance, comfort, beauty and style—but it is sold at prices so low as to alter every previous conception of motor car value.

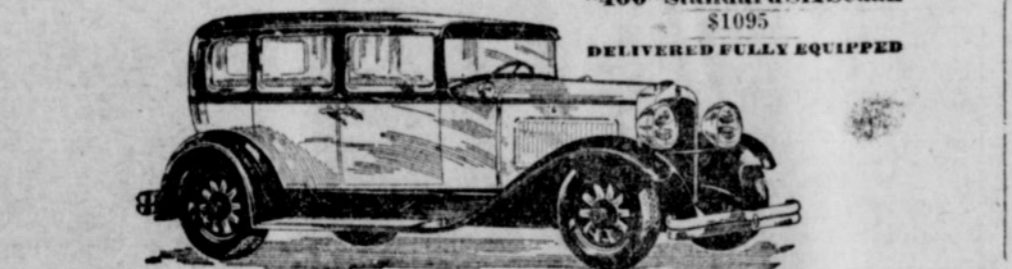

The new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine—developed from more than a hundred motors designed especially for this sensational car—stands out as an engineering masterpiece. With a power increase of approximately 32% over the previous Chevrolet motor, with sensationally greater speed and faster acceleration—it offers a type of performance that is literally astounding. And it affords an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

In appearance, this Outstanding Chevrolet is destined to become an automotive sensation—so smart, so stylish and so distinctively appointed that it rivals the costliest custom creations! The marvelous new Fisher bodies are longer, lower and roomier with adjustable driver's seat in all closed models—and reveal the matchless artistry of Fisher designers. With their modish new colors, their smart dual moldings and their distinctive concave pillars, they achieve a degree of original beauty that has seldom been equaled in motor car design. You are cordially invited to visit our showroom and secure complete detailed information about this sensational new car which will be ready for delivery beginning January 1st.

White House, Soon to Have New Tenant, Designed in 1792, by Irish Architect

By HARRY W. FRANTZ, Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON.—Uncle Sam's residential property on Pennsylvania avenue, soon to have a new president, was designed in 1792 by James Hoban, Irish architect of Dublin who then resided in Charleston, S. C.

Occupants of the white house with few exceptions have down to an undying immortality, but the name of its builder is chiefly to architects and historians, and is not chronicled in the best known encyclopedias. Little is written of his life, save that he was a successful architect of southern plantations.

It would challenge a statesman that the white house is the most generally admired building in the United States. Its classic Ionic design, its singular balance and grace, its rich but not gaudy ornamentation, and its peaceful environs have impressed countless tourists as well as distinguished architects from the world over.

It is a noteworthy fact that the architecture of the same general colonial type now is favored by the foreign service building commission for embassies and legations in various parts of the world.

Inspired by Duke's Palace.

The design for the white house is said to have been inspired by the palace of the Duke of Leinster at Dublin, with which Hoban was familiar. Although employing the classic Ionic order, Hoban made interesting adaptations, working in the American rose, and making an original architectural use of the number 13, after the number of colonies, a fact discovered by architectural students.

The white house, first known as the president's house, had its genesis in the earliest days of the republic. The plan for the federal city formulated by Major Peter Charles L'Enfant, included the president's house and capitol as principal features. Site for the residence was selected by President Washington and L'Enfant in 1791; according to contemporary description "upon a rising ground, not far from the banks of the Potomac, affording a fine water prospect, with a view of the capitol and some other material parts of the city."

In March, 1792, the commissioners of the federal city advertised offering "a premium of $500 or a medal of that value to the person who before the following July should produce to them the first approved plan, if adopted by them, for a president's house."

The premium was awarded to James Hoban, who elected to receive a gold medal of eight or ten guineas and the balance in money. A plan submitted by John Collins was considered to be second in merit, and he was given a consolation prize of $150.

School Teacher Beddy Says Game Ought to Stand

Here's what Beddichek of the Abilene Reporter writes:

"Don't Re-Play 'Em."

"In our humble opinion Hammett of Ranger should be excluded from future games played by Ranger, since the committee has ruled him ineligible once more (although it previously had ruled him eligible and there was always evidence supporting him as well as opposing him) but that, since Hammett was under official OK of the district committee he was officially eligible when he played against Abilene and Cisco and therefore those games should not either be forfeited or replayed. Glad Abilene wouldn't consider a forfeit from Ranger."

"Quick Changing."

"Ranger originally opened the Hammett investigation, the committee took it up, ruled him ineligible, then ruled him eligible, and then ineligible again."

"A Painter."

"The fact that the vote of the committee has changed three pointed to but one thing—games won and lost as the season progressed had something to do with the voting because Hammett had his evidence all along, as did those protesting his eligibility."

"Not Parallels."

"The Hamberlin case at San Angelo is not a parallel because there had never been a ruling on Hamberlin. If Hammett had played in a conference game before being originally declared ineligible then that game ought to have been forfeited but he did not. On the other hand, Hamberlin's case was not opened until after he had played against Cisco and Eastland and he was not playing with an official OK as was Hammett. The Ranger officials played Hammett in good faith backed by the one body empowered to say whether he was eligible."

AIR-LIFT IN SEMINOLE POOL STUDIED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A Little River. A final report, covering in detail the engineering problems that apply to the production and conservation of petroleum and natural gas in the entire Seminole area, will be issued by the bureau of mines at a later date. The Seminole pool is located in the northwest central part of Seminole county. The center of the pool is approximately one mile east of the city of Seminole, from which the pool derives its name. The pool is four miles long and has a maximum of 1 9-10 miles. Early drilling in the Seminole field dates back to 1923 when the W. B. Pine, Henry No. 1 well in section 22 was abandoned at a depth of 3,685 feet after losing the hole. The first well to secure commercial production from the Wilcox sand, the big pay sand of the pool, was Flixco No. 1 of the Independent Oil & Gas company, and R. F. Garland in section 26. Completion of this well in July, 1926, started intensive operations, and production by November exceeded transportation and storage facilities. The rate of production increased so rapidly that the operators, fearing a waste of oil, agreed on a 30-day curtailment program which prohibited pipe lines and allowed only direct offsets to be drilled into the sand. The curtailment program allowed pipe lines and storage construction to gain such a lead that afterwards this capacity was never seriously threatened by production from the Seminole pool. Production, however, continued to increase, and on Feb. 22, 1927, the pool reached its peak production of 265,000 barrels. The bringing in of the Earlsboro pool and the Bowlegs pool further complicated conditions at Seminole, and several price reductions followed in rapid succession. Further curtailment was proposed, and the program was extended to include the entire Seminole area. Production, however, continued to increase because of the increased rate of recovery resulting from the application of the air-gas lift. Only direct offsets were allowed to be drilled into the sands; new discoveries were pinched to 100 barrels daily; and shooting was allowed only in wells which were offset by wells that had been shot. During the latter period, the Seminole pool, although declining in production, was also affected by the production program which had been applied to all fields in the Seminole area.

reservoir pressure had decreased, this method became less efficient and other methods were applied to increase the efficiency of flow from the well. The general effects of the lift on oil and gas production and reservoir pressure have been largely due to the intense application of the first method. The value of the air-gas lift depends upon the purpose for which it is applied. The primary purpose in applying the lift in the Seminole pool, was to increase daily production, and its success in that respect is unquestionable. The increased rate of production, however, contributed largely to economic depression throughout the industry. The rate of production, then, would seem to be an economic question rather than an engineering problem imposed by the use of the lift. The reduced price of crude oil more than offset any gain derived from increased production. The lift as applied in the Seminole pool has not been an economic success. Although the increased rate of production has been unwarranted, the method by which it was increased, lift application, has demonstrated a better means of regulating the pressure on the productive sand. The results indicate that, with proper application of the lift, an increase in ultimate production would be obtained over that of the normal methods—natural flow and pumping. Operators are striving to improve production methods for the purpose of increasing ultimate recovery. Effective control of reservoir pressures will accomplish this purpose. Effective pressure control is indicated by gas-oil ratios. These were lower than in other methods of production during the early stages and slightly higher during later stages of lift application. The slow rate of water encroachment in certain highly productive areas where the lift was used is indicative of effective pressure control. Pressure regulation will accomplish two very important results in production problems: It will utilize, to the fullest extent, the energy contained within the reservoir gas; and it will retard the rate of water encroachment.

Advantages of Lift. The gas lift is not a cure for all production evils, but it has the following advantages: Regulates the rate of flow. Offers a means of pressure regulation. Conserves formation gas. Retards water encroachment. Increases ultimate production. Decreases the time of ultimate production. Decreases lifting costs. Offers a means for operation of deep wells where other methods fail. Increases the rate of recovery over other methods. In summarizing, it can be said that the gas lift has not been effectively operated in the Seminole pool.

DONNA—Central Power Company reduces residential commercial lighting costs. CENTER—25,000 hales of ginned in Shelby County as compared to 17,733 last year. WALL—New pavement this city and Tom Green line opened recently.

A dainty refreshment of perfection salad in tinted red, olive and nut bread sandwiches, sweet pickles, hoston drows, date bar and coffee with whipped cream, was served to

Out in Kansas, They Rejoice, Too
Enclosing a clipping telling of Buster Mills' great part in Oklahoma's victory over Kansas, Joe Eason, formerly of Ranger, writes to this newspaper from Independence, Kan.

"I had hoped to see Buster make that touchdown against K. U. but we were unable to get to Lawrence on account of the high water. We started early in the morning but had to come back when we reached one of these Kansas oceans which follow each drizzle."

"And now I ask you about the Ranger-Abilene dope. I feel sure that Cisco will fall before the Abilene boys, forcing Ranger and Abilene to play again, so again I ask you, 'Who will win and why?'"

UNITED SERVICES WEDNESDAY EVENING
The United Charities Thanksgiving Service will be held at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday evening in the Methodist Church, so the secretary of the association, Rev. H. M. Sell, announces.

No Litter when you re-roof this new way

There's a new way, a vastly better way, of re-roofing. By this plan, you don't tear off the old shingles, robbing your home of the insulating value it still retains. You save the cost of its removal. You avoid the dirt and dust and litter. Your lawn and shrubs are undamaged.

The "RED CEDAR METHOD"

means laying the new, durable Red Cedar Shingles right over the old roof. It's a practical plan—thousands have had their roofs renewed for a lifetime of service in this way.

All details of eaves and gable edges, of valleys and flashing have been worked out in such a way that there's nothing to show that you have the many advantages of this double protection.

Red Cedar Shingles are rot-proof, whether old or new, and lend themselves as no other roofing material in this class can to the method of re-roofing over the old roof. The air space between the two roofs, while hardly noticeable, is a safeguard against deterioration of either the old or new roof.

Fuel saving is amazing. Cold rooms become "comfy." Compendious letters have been received from many who have tried it.

An illustrated folder showing photos of the "RED CEDAR METHOD" gladly supplied you on request.

Bird Electrocuted And Town Is Dark

SWEETWATER, Nov. 22.-Even in this modern time of gasless buggies, gasless horses, etc., the inventions of man must occasionally bend to the furred and feathered animals that have not grown with the civilization. The other day for example, this city was thrown into chaos and all because of the feathered tribe.

The lights went out, elevators stopped, printing presses and other machinery powered by "juice" came to a standstill, and grumblers began to complain and inquire what the trouble was all about. The trouble was caused by a large hawk, which suffered swift punishment for interference with man's invention, however. The bird lighted on one of the high-tension wires of the power line near Eskota. He dropped his wings and inadvertently touched the other wire. There was a flash. The hawk was dead with one foot burned nearly off and two large holes burned in each wing. One of the wires was burned in two and the city was without current for about fifteen minutes.

MONKS RESTORING ABBEY With the rebuilding of the western front of the ancient Guckfast Abbey, near Ashburton, England, monks who have been doing the work say that in four years the edifice will be completely restored to its one-time beauty. It will also crown the life-work of the abbot, Don Anscar Voier, who helped rebuild the foundations, and 22 years ago was placed in charge of the work. At first only one monk was appointed to mix mortar for the solitary builder, but gradually more were added until now 60 monks, from France, Germany and Britain, are engaged. The cathedral dates back to the eighth century and was suppressed 800 years later, after which it gradually sank into decay.

CLEBURNE.-$32,500 in city construction reported during Oct. an increase of approximately $3,000 over September or August.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

MOM'N POP

Did He Hire a Man to Murder Him?

County of Cuyahoga Cleveland, Ohio. National Life 10,000. M.I. State Life 20,000. Malvern safe personal deposit box. Donor 1/8 of gross. Sister 1/8 ditto. Virginia 1/2. Petera 1/2. Nevins 500 to be paid from balance. Mrs. Prentiss - and balance after all obligations are cleared.

Here is the strange will left by Don Prentiss, former $25,000-a-year motor company sales executive, which apparently bequeaths $500 to James T. Nevins, fellow prisoner who clubbed him to death in a Cleveland, O., jail cell above is Prentiss, below is Nevins.

CLEVELAND, O.-A murder that took place in the supposedly safe confines of a cell in the county jail here has given local police one of the most puzzling mysteries of recent years. There isn't any doubt about who committed it. But efforts to find out what lay back of the killing have led investigators into a tangled web of obscure motives and emotions that may leave them completely befogged.

Here are the objective facts: Don Prentiss, held for federal authorities on a Mann act charge, was locked in the jail awaiting transfer to Atlanta prison. The jail being overcrowded, another prisoner, also awaiting transfer to Atlanta, was put in the same cell. This prisoner was James T. Nevins. The other night Nevins wrenched loose from the wall of the cell a section of lead pipe and beat Prentiss to death with it. He explained that he had nothing against Prentiss; he had been so enraged against the federal judge who had sentenced him, however, that his rage had simply boiled over. The unlucky Prentiss had simply been the handiest vehicle.

Had $25,000-a-Year Job. This sounded weird enough. And then the police began to find out things. They found out, first, that Prentiss was until a few months ago a $25,000-a-year sales executive for a big automobile company at Lansing, Mich. He was married and had children and seemed a shining example of the ambitious, capable young business man. He was a member of country clubs and prominent socially. Then something went wrong. He took to drinking, eventually going off on a prolonged spree that carried him to Chicago, broke up his home and cost him his job. His employers bought his contract for $12,000 cash. He never returned to Lansing. Some weeks ago Prentiss came to Cleveland, accompanied by Virginia Palmer, a former nursemaid in his household. Cleveland police at that time were searching for a certain holdup man, and Prentiss fell into their net. He easily established his innocence, but admitted Virginia Palmer was not his wife, and the police turned him over to federal authorities. That was fact No. One. The next fact made the case more puzzling. In his cell, after his death, was found a scribbled will. In it Prentiss set forth that he had $30,000 in life insurance. The will directed that certain shares be paid to his children, to his sister, to his wife and to Miss Palmer - and added a bequest of $500 to Nevins. And it is that last item that has the police up a tree. Some of them believe that Prentiss, overcome with shame at his disgrace, wanted to die and leave his widow his modest fortune, and that he hired Nevins to kill him, lacking any handy means of committing suicide in his cell. That would explain the $500 bequest.

uncertain. Did Prentiss, overcome by remorse, take what he conceived to be the only honorable way out of his difficulty and hire Nevins to kill him? Or did Nevins see a chance to make a little money by clubbing his erstwhile to death, and forge the will after the murder to do so? The exact truth may never be known.

Appointments Will Be Made For Next Two Years by Dan

AUSTIN, Nov. 22.-Governor Dan Moody will soon face the problem of making his appointments. Although his first term has almost expired, the governor has not completed his first term appointments. Members of two of the prominent salaried boards have been permitted to hold over through practically his entire term.

These are Dr. H. H. Harrington, member of the State Board of Control and J. M. Pattillo, member of the Industrial Accident boards when his new term begins, the governor has not indicated. The most important post that will have to be filled by the new governor when his new term begins is a place on the highway commission. The term of W. R. Ely of Abilene expires. Judge Ely was appointed by governor Moody but his appointment was only for an unexpired term. It is not known whether he wishes reappointment. At one time he considered entering the race for congress when Congressman Tom Blanton announced for the senate. On the Board of Water Engineers, the term of A. H. Dunlap also expires.

Negro Saves 16 From Sea

One of the heroes in the sinking of the S. S. Vestris was Lionel L. Gorie, diminutive negro quarter-master, who took command of a lifeboat and dived overboard 16 times to rescue drowning persons from the boiling sea. He also dived overboard several times to retrieve lost masts. Here he is as he arrived at New York with other survivors on the S. S. American Shipper.

Two appointments on the Commission of Appeals becomes vacant One of these is held by Judge Luther Nickles, who at one time was considered a possible candidate for governor against Governor Moody. The other vacancy will be in the place now filled by Judge Ocie Speer. Terms of three regents of the University of Texas expire in January. They are Mrs. H. J. O'hair of Coleman, R. G. Storey of Dallas and Edward Howard of Wichita Falls. Expiring terms on the board of directors of A. & M. College are held by E. M. Law of Houston, Byrd E. White of Lancaster and Walter Lacy of Waco. The Texas Technological College board also has three members with expiring terms. They are John W. Carpenter of Dallas, F. E. Clarity of Fort Worth and Mrs. Frank M. Drane of Corsicana. Terms of M. A. Flowers of Lockhart and A. B. Mayhew of Uvalde expire on the board of regents of the State Teachers College. The College of Industrial Arts board will lose Mrs. Sallie Capps of Fort Worth and Mrs. Lee Joseph of Austin by expiration unless Governor Moody re-names them. Terms of Mrs. Mollie Wright Armstrong of Brownwood and Dr. W. G. Towle of Snyder expire on the State Optometry, also terms of Dr. J. M. Frazier and Dr. W. A. King of San Antonio on the State Health Board. Three places will have to be filled on the State Board of Dental Examiners by re-appointment or new persons, as the terms of Dr. A. W. Gould of Taylor, Dr. W. P. DeLafield of Dallas and Dr. W. T. Beard of San Antonio will expire. All terms expire on the board of medical examiners, veterinary examiners, nurse examiners and the state text book commission. Mills Certainly Totes the Mail In Oklahoma Victory

Buster Mills, former Ranger star, was the hero of last week's 7 to 0 victory of Oklahoma over Kansas. Oklahoma was "doped to lose by at least two touchdowns," according to press dispatches but "the invading Sooners launched a brilliant attack in the first minute of play that swept the Jayhawkers off their feet and resulted in a touchdown before the Mount Oread gridsters realized just what was going on." We are further informed by the dispatch "and from then until the end of the game, the battling Oklahomas outplayed and outfooted the K. U. eleven." And here's how the game was won: "Only two plays after the Jayhawkers had kicked off were needed to score the only touchdown of the game. Ward kicked off for Kansas and Mills made a pretty return of 26 yards to place the ball on his own 36-yard line. "On the first play, Kitchell,

RUTH DEWEY GROVES AUTHOR OF "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO" etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Jerry Ray decides that love is a delusion and makes up her mind to marry for money. She works in a store and denies herself petty luxuries in order to save for a vacation at Atlantic City in "the best hotel." But her money is stolen the night before her departure and she is stunned by the loss. Nothing remains but to go camping with her roommate, Myrtle, on the north shore of Long Island.

But their camp is wrecked the first evening when an airplane crashes into it. Wealthy young Alester Carstairs, from an adjoining estate, was taking a lesson from his pilot, Dan Harvey. They escape injury; also Myrtle. But Dan picks Jerry up unconscious from a blow on the head. He is holding her in his arms when she comes to. Then Alester sends him for the doctor and pays Myrtle for the damage done.

The doctor finds Jerry not seriously injured, but desires to make a fuller examination at his office next day. Both men offer to drive her there and Jerry accepts Alester because of his money, although her heart dictates Dan. She is amazed when he hands her a hundred-dollar bill next day to pay the doctor's fee.

Now go on with the story:
CHAPTER V
She must not argue with Alester Carstairs about money, Jerry told herself.

"She must be nonchalant—certainly he wouldn't admire humbleness, and it was but fair that he should bear the expense to which he had put her. She could return what was left of the hundred dollars after the doctor was paid."

She flashed a sunny smile at him. "Lucky for you I didn't break an arm," she said.

He regarded her gravely. "I'm glad you didn't, of course," he replied, "but I'd be happy to assume any liability I might incur with you."

Jerry was slightly confused by his remark, and her confusion annoyed her. He hadn't done anything to cause her to do a double meaning "too eagerly." Such girls as she, those who scorned small change, usually wanted something worth while, he believed. He liked costly things himself—even expensive playmates.

"I'm not to have any excitement for a while," Jerry said, and laughed softly.

Excitement! Why, not 48 hours back the bottom fell out of her world and it had been a tragedy. And now she knew that it had dropped her right into an entirely new universe, a universe that hitherto had been only a dream to her.

"In that case I'll have to see that you're kept quiet," Alester assured her promptly. "Can't go back to camp. Dan's taking the plane over to the hangar, I think. No room to take it off where it is."

Jerry wished he hadn't mentioned Dan. For the moment he was out of her mind. She'd been getting a tremendous kick out of spinning along on a work day in a car that would have drawn a crowd even if it had been parked on Fifth Avenue.

Thought of Dan dispelled some of her thrill. She didn't want him to think that she had refused his offer to bring her to Dr. Beldens' simply because Alester could account for more gold—but that was precisely why she had refused him!

Jerry felt decidedly uncomfortable. "We'll drive out to Port Jefferson and drop in for tea at the Rolling Stone inn on our way back," Alester was saying. The prospect of a drive appealed to Jerry—perhaps a sense of motion and constantly changing scenes would help her to think as she wanted to think.

This was more than she'd ever expected out of life—and her enjoyment of it was clouded because of a man with dark blue-gray eyes and magnetism in his touch. It seemed cruel to Jerry that the realization of more than her wildest dreams would be so marred. She told herself that she was beginning to dislike Dan Harvey.

There had been days when she worked in the humid, breathless atmosphere of Fane's on which she'd been tempted to gambol with her soul at stake for a drive like this.

The sweeping wooded hills, the sudden descents upon little harbor villages, the landscaped grounds of beautiful estates, the luxury and speed of the high-powered motor car—all were exquisitely new to Jerry. They seemed to release a weltering of emotion, to cause her to feel as if she were fairly soaring over the earth.

And yet her elation was dimmed by a troubled conscience—she felt

Jerry thought he must be deeply interested in her to want to know so much about her.

she had been ungrateful to one who had been tender toward her. At Port Jefferson they turned back, inland, and drove far beyond the speed limit on their way to the inn. Jerry thought of many coal black steeds charging furiously ahead of them. This man-made thing under the hood held power equal to nearly a hundred horses' strength, Alester had told her.

Influenced by Alester's importance and the knowledge that she was near some of the finest estates in the world, Jerry was prepared to find the Rolling Stone Inn a palatial place.

She was both surprised and put at ease when Alester turned the nose of his car in at the approach to what looked like a private home such as they had passed by the dozen. A shingle on the house bore the name, else Jerry would not have been certain that they were at their destination.

Alester parked the car on a pebbled space and helped Jerry out. She saw, on closer inspection, that the place was more impressive than she had thought at first. There was a fountain and a more or less formal garden and as they approached the entrance the door swung open for them and a burly colored man in uniform greeted Alester familiarly.

Jerry surmised that he must be a frequent visitor here. And for an instant she felt that the door-man regarded her in what might have been surprise or confusion or alarm. She could not decide which.

They were shown to a pleasantly placed table on a screened porch. Jerry noted that it had a more luxuriant centerpiece than the other tables. It seemed, in a way she could not define, to be a special table. The waiter hadn't exactly shown them to it, but when he led the way to that end of the porch Alester had indicated that they would sit there.

Again it seemed to Jerry that she inspired something like consternation when the waiter glanced at her. She became self-conscious. Her dress, of course! She knew that she wasn't dressed as the girls of Alester's acquaintance dressed.

On why had she been too indifferent about camping to care what she wore! All these pretty, dainty things in her suitcase! She must get them tonight when she went to town with Myrtle and George. She wondered what time it was and how long it required to have tea in the Rolling Stone Inn. She hoped they would wait for her if she were late.

There seemed to be no hurry about bringing their refreshments. Indeed, Alester did not bother to give an order. Jerry expected him to ask what she liked, but he didn't do that either.

They talked. He's been asking her questions all afternoon. Jerry thought he must be deeply interested in her to want to know so much about her.

Where did she come from? What did she do? Where did her family live? Presently, when she was wishing that he would talk of something else, a waiter appeared with a tray and Jerry found a tall glass filled with amber fluid and tinkling ice set before her. It looked like tea. There was also a plate of tiny paper-thin sandwiches. Jerry regarded them greedily. She had eaten little at lunch. But Alester ignored them, not even suggesting that she have one.

She looked around for sugar for her tea. There was none.

resident, but it leaves the conservative Frenchman of the old school somewhat aghast. Used to 16 courses lasting half the evening and with wine for every dish, the sight appals him of people maybe drinking port before dinner or putting water in their Napoleon brandy—crimes in French eyes—and ending up with corn on the cob!

It has, however, been left to Jacques Maurene, noted French writer, to plumb to the depths the full "degradation" of the cuisine in Paris. After making a tour of investigation of the city's restaurants, he reveals what he believes to be the worst calamity of all—that vegetarian restaurants are growing with "inquieting rapidity."

"Think of it," he writes; "think of these restaurant-proprietors; if the price of meat mounts to prohibitive prices they don't care; if fish fetch their weight in gold they remain unperturbed; what matter to them if grease is unprocureable?"

Most of these restaurants, Maurene found to be "dry." Even smoking was prohibited. He ordered his meal and was given grated beets, corn corquets and mineral water.

Afterwards he went around the corner and ordered a chateaubriand and a couple of liters of wine and discussed the decline of cooking with another gourmet victimized by these modern times.

Predicted the Day Of His Own Death

KOPRIVNICA, Yugoslavia. — Herr Ujeak, a peasant here, predicted the exact day of his death. Last Christmas Ujeak suddenly stood up at a family reunion banquet and declared that on Oct. 4, 1928, he would die.

In preparation for the event the peasant put all of his affairs in order. Even his coffin he ordered and caused to be delivered late in September.

None of his family or his friends took his prediction seriously. Even when he bade them a final farewell as they went into the harvest fields on the day of his death they laughed at him.
