FIFTEEN DEATHS WHEN EXPLOSION WRECKS FACTORY

Blast Destroys Box Company Plant, Scores Injured In Fire Which Follows.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 8.—An explosion of celluloid destroyed the plant of a Lynn box company and wrecked nearby dwellings today. At least 15 persons were killed and a score of others injured.

The bodies of 10 men, two women and three children were taken from the ruins and removed to an undertaking parlor here. Police estimated 25 persons had been injured, seven of the severely.

Most of the victims were employees of the Proble Box Company plant. The three children were burned to death when the blast set fire to their nearby home. Their parents were among those reported dying at the hospital.

Most of the victims were burned beyond recognition and identification of the bodies was delayed. The cause of the explosion, the exact cause of which has not been determined, occurred without warning, sending sheets of flames through the small factory where a large number of men and women were working. Trapped in the building they were burned fatally before firemen or volunteer could reach them.

At least 8 of the dead were believed to have been among the 18 persons working in the factory. Many of the injured were occupants of houses which caught fire after the blast.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blaney and their 7 children appeared to have been hardest hit by the explosion. Mrs. Blaney and two of the children were believed among the dead. The father and three other children were in the hospital, all severely.

By United Press. LYNN, Mass., Nov. 8.—A cigarette in the hands of a fellow workman was blamed by employees of the Proble Box company today for the explosion which caused at least 15 deaths this morning.

Investigators were told that a worker in violation of factory rules was smoking a cigarette just prior to the blast.

Fifty Six Planes Will Participate In Airport Dedication, Legion Convention

RANGER, Nov. 8.—Fifty-six airplanes—the greatest number ever assembled in any city of Central West Texas—will be in Ranger for the two-day celebration, Nov. 10-11, of the opening of the airport. Many thousands of people from a wide territory are expected to be in Ranger to see the dozens of beautiful ships as they glide to earth—army bombers and scout planes, commercial ships, stunt planes, air mail planes—in short almost every variety of "ship" known to the air.

The planes will begin arriving Saturday morning and the dedication will be reached when the Fort Worth aerodrome consisting of 65,200 acres, arrives Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Other planes will include two army biplanes, ships of the 6th division, Texas National guard, from Houston (Ranger has an infantry company in the 36th); six army planes from San Antonio; six army planes from Galveston; a plane from Abilene; another from Midland; 10 commercial planes from Love Field, Dallas; six Alexander Eaglerock planes; a plane from the Spartan Manufacturing Company at Tulsa; several commercial planes from Meacham field, Fort Worth; a stunt plane; a Texas Air Transport plane which is used in the air mail service and greatest of all, the "palace of the air," the tri-motored, all-metal Ford plane, built at a cost of $50,000, and carrying 15 passengers and pilot.

Planes flying in formation, daring deeds far above the earth including the feats of "Shorty" Radack, famous stunt flyer and jumper, will be some of the thrilling scenes that will be viewed by the hosts of people. Radack will give a wing-walking exhibition, trapeze performing, swing of death and a parachute drop from a height of 2,000 feet. He will plunge downward 500 feet before opening the parachute. Radack will perform Saturday at 1:30 and Sunday at 2 o'clock. This and all the other features will be free.

At the same time that the airport dedication is in progress, Ranger will be the scene of the 47th district convention of the American Legion, Saturday and Sunday, when 500 legionnaires and their wives will attend. This convention will be especially significant as it marks the tenth anniversary of the end of the world war. For the legionnaires there will be a dance, stag spooker, free doughnuts and coffee served by Salvation Army ladies and on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock there will be a great Legion parade. The American Legion Armistice Day program at the Methodist church at 11 o'clock is open to the public.

Flowers from Clouds. The dedication ceremonies of the airport will be held Sunday morning at 9:30, with Dr. W. C. Palmer, former post commander, as master of ceremonies, with addresses by Mayor John Thurman and Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star Telegram. At 11 o'clock the Rev. H. B. Johnson will ask the throng to bare their heads in a minute of silent prayer for the world war dead, and an airplane will shower flowers from the sky.

The first plane to enter the big new hangar of steel will be the Pathfinder, leading the Fort Worth aerodrome. This ship is owned by the Texas-Pacific Coal & Oil Company, which drilled the first well in the history of Ranger. The planes in Ranger during the dedication will be provided free with Ranger-produced oil and gasoline—T-P's motor fuel and Chestnut & Smith's Naturaline, a super-aviation fuel made from natural gas. These companies are also providing the oil and gasoline without cost to the Fort Worth aerodrome on its entire journey.

The airport—115 acres—is a mile south of the business section of Ranger and is immediately south of Cooper school. It has a 2,500-foot runway north and south and a 3,000-foot runway east and west; 200 foot standard white-washed circle; 60x60 all-steel hangar with regulation wind cone on top of the hangar.

EASTLAND TO CLOSE MONDAY

All banks and business houses in Eastland, with the exceptions of cafes, drug stores and filling stations, will be closed Monday, November 12, in celebration of Armistice Day, which occurs on Sunday.

Miss Ann Hardin, secretary of the Retail Merchants Association, announced this morning that all business houses had agreed to close.

No program has been arranged for the day in Eastland. The chamber of commerce, with the aid of the Rotary and Lions clubs, will send cars and trucks to Cisco to join in a parade and celebration being staged in that city Monday.

A number will attend the airport dedication services and the final day of the 17th district convention of the American Legion, which is to be held in Ranger Sunday.

ALFRED E. SMITH IS JOB HUNTING

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Graduated from his 25-year school of politics, Gov. Alfred Smith started today on the course all graduates must take—that of looking for a job.

There was no trace of disappointment about the governor as he started packing up this morning preparatory to returning to Albany where for four terms he has served the voters of New York State. He seemed as eager as almost any schoolboy to find his job.

What that job will be depends on "the boss," Mrs. Smith, who has followed in all these visits and glories that have led him from East Side, New York obscurity to becoming a candidate—although unsuccessful—for the nation's highest office.

BORGER — 21 more traffic signals installed on business streets of this city.

MARTIAL LAW IS NOT GRANTED TO HIDALGO COUNTY

Governor Moody Takes No Steps To Declare Military Rule In Border Town.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 8.—No steps to declare martial law in Hidalgo county are being contemplated at this time, attaches of the governor's office said this morning in reply to purported requests for military rule that are said to have been sent to Governor Moody last night.

The governor has not received the telegrams from Edinburg, requesting martial law, his secretary stated. The chief executive, feeling indisposed, will probably not come down to his office until later in the day. Considerable excitement was noticeable in Hidalgo county yesterday and last night when Ranger Captain Frank Hamer and two of his men carried the Mercedes ballot box to the Edinburg courthouse and locked it up for safe keeping.

Earlier reports from the valley said that the Mercedes ballot box had been stolen. Independent Republicans requested martial law. At a late hour last night all towns in the county were quit with no disorders. Estimates at this time show that all county administration officers have been re-elected. One group in the county recently asked for federal aid alleging "rotten conditions" in the county political machine.

COLVIN DENIES RUMOR OF SALE

C. H. Colvin, vocational agriculturist, and secretary of the chamber of commerce, today branded as false a rumor which states that the Bankhead Poultry Producers' Association had been sold and "no longer existed." Colvin stated the rumor was being circulated in a neighboring town.

The rumor, according to Colvin, started after announcement of the signing of a contract by officials of the association and a subsidiary of the Wilson Packing company. "Such a statement is not true," Colvin said.

YOUTH KILLED WHEN HE FLEES FROM OFFICERS

Two Girls and One Boy Companion Held On Numerous Charges.

By United Press. ST. GEORGE, Utah, Nov. 8.—Fatally wounded while fleeing from a posse of sheriff's officers, Gerry Wilson, 20, of Little Rock, Ark., died at midnight. His companions, Jack Williams of Little Rock, Gladys Brown, 20, and Violet Sutton, 21, both of Omaha, Nebraska, are held on charges of stealing gasoline, resisting arrest and stealing an auto.

The girls said they were hitchhiking to the Pacific coast from their homes and they were picked up by the men near Salt Lake City, Tuesday. At Paragonah, they stole enough gasoline to continue their trip. A posse pursued them and when they ran out of gasoline again, they stole a car, abandoning their own. More than 50 shots were exchanged before they were captured 12 miles north of here.

Mississippi Invites Smith To "Bosom of Democracy."

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 8.—The Mississippi Senate in extraordinary session was on record as approving a resolution requesting Gov. Al Smith to "move to the bosom of Democracy" and spend the remainder of his life.

The resolution was adopted late yesterday and read: "In recognition of the splendid service of the Hon. Al Smith as Governor of the Empire State of the Union and of his fight for Jeffersonian democracy, we hereby invite him to move to Mississippi, where red-blooded Democrats voted five to one for him for the presidency of the nation that he might live out his own career here in the bosom of the Democrats."

CHICAGO ELECTS INDICTED NEGRO AS CONGRESSMAN

Chicago has elected a negro—Oscar De Priest to succeed the late Martin Madden, chairman of the House appropriations committee—nearly complete returns from the First congressional district today showed.

De Priest is leading by nearly 3000 votes. Because of several indictments on charges of protecting vice here, the question has arisen whether De Priest will be seated when he seeks admittance to Congress.

De Priest is the first negro to be elected to Congress from a Northern State. He was the first negro to be alderman in Chicago and the first to be a Cook county commissioner.

14,133,000 BALES PREDICTION OF U. S. GOVERNMENT

Increase of 140,000 Bales Over Forecast Made a Month Ago. Texas More Favorable Than Anticipated.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The U. S. cotton crop was forecast at 14,133,000 bales, an increase of 140,000 bales, or about 1 per cent over the forecast of a month ago by the agricultural department.

The department announced the crop in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas is more favorable than anticipated a month ago due to good weather. The increase in these five states during the month was 355,000 bales.

Full effect of the Florida hurricane in Georgia and the Carolinas in September is now showing up on the outcome of the crop in those states, the department said. Yields there are not fulfilling earlier expectations and the forecast for these three states is about 190,000 less than was in prospect a month ago. For Texas, indicated yield per acre of lint cotton '140; indicated total production 5,150,000.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The government estimate of 14,133,000 bales was under estimates of traders here and on the re-opening of the cotton exchange, prices advanced 50 points or $2 a bale.

HOOVER BEATS GOVERNOR SMITH BY HEAVY COUNT

Over 6,000,000 Votes In the Lead. Electoral Vote Is 44 to 87.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Republican landslide of Tuesday showed the following results today as many States completed their counting of ballots: Herbert Hoover defeated Al Smith by more than 6,000,000 votes and by an electoral count of 44 to 87.

The popular vote tabulated at 1 p. m. by the United Press showed Hoover; 29,915,475; Smith 14,000,135.

The Democratic candidate carried only 8 states—Massachusetts, Rhode Island and the closely-grouped Southern States of Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Democratic state ticket led in New York continued to grow with Franklin D. Roosevelt's lead in the governorship estimated at 30,000 on basis of present returns. Gov. Smith, it appeared, had lost his home state to Hoover by close to 100,000. The heavy upstate Republican vote was more than the 400,000 and more plurality which the governor piled up in New York City.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
 Mrs. Thorne, Boston society divorcee, is the drawing card in a sensational case that has the town talking. Sybil has been divorced from Richard Thorne, whom she married secretly with whom she lived only a few weeks. She asks also for her child, Teddy, whom she has never seen—and the husband, philanthropist and banker, counters by filing suit for $100,000 against Craig Newhall, who has been charged with the charge, but the case is a tremendous story for the papers, and sets society on its feet.

Next morning there were more stories, and an entire page in the Boston Telegraph devoted to pictures. Sybil in a ball gown, Sybil at the Horse Show in a riding habit. . . . An old photograph of Craig from the Harvard Year Book. . . . Richard Eustis "especially posed for the Boston Morning Telegraph." . . . And a picture of Valerie, sweet and lovely in her wedding gown. . . . There were photographs of the "palatial home of the Thornes," and their summer place at Wianno.

"Oh my God!" groaned Tad. Valerie surveyed the heap of papers distastefully.

"I wouldn't look at them," she said, and pushed them away.

Then the Gazette's red headlines caught her eye.

"Crandon!" she cried. "Oh, Sib, look!"

Across the top in glaring headlines was meat for Gazette readers.

"Sybil Thorne Psycho Analyzed," screamed the crimson type. And below, in smaller letters,

"PRIMITIVE EGO MAKES TROUBLE FOR BOSTON GIRL"

"Science Explains Emotional Unrest Of Society Women"

"Claude Crandon Contributes Searching Analysis of Mental Conflict."

Then followed the story: "Claude Crandon, Boston's foremost psycho-analyst, interviewed last evening by a reporter for the Gazette, threw new light on the sensational Eustis divorce case. Dr. Crandon, well versed in psycho, discussed at length the so-called 'Primitive Ego' of Mrs. Richard Eustis, better known as Sybil Thorne. Mrs. Eustis, according to the doctor, is the victim of her own ego.

"In order to put the case plainly before the lay mid, Dr. Crandon has prepared the following statement exclusively for readers of the Gazette: . . .

Valerie held the paper in both her trembling hands, and read aloud in a high pitched voice, shrill words tumbled, one over another, from her horrified lips.

With an oath Tad clutched the paper from her shaking fingers.

"Here, let me see it. The old—my God, I'll kill him for this, Sybil! The obscene old trout! . . ."

Mrs. Thorne, before the great silver coffee service, covered like a frightened thing.

"Did he say," she quavered pitifully, "anything—anything—about—the—the—about Sybil's love life?"

Tad scanned the column.

"Love life—well, I'll be—He certainly did. Say, Ma, how much of this stuff did you spill?"

Tad turned furiously on his mother.

"Oh, Tad!" she faltered, and her little hands fluttered helplessly. "Oh, Sybil! Children, I'm so sorry. . . ."

Then the little hands were still. And the dim blue eye, veiled in tears, were glazed and dreadful looking.

"Tad! Mother's ill!"

Sybil flung her arms about her mother. "There, there, darling. It doesn't make a bit of difference. It's simply comical! Honestly, dear, I think it's funny. I don't mind a bit. . . . Tad, carry mother into the drawing room. . . . The big red chair, Tad. . . . And we'll give you a nice cup of good strong coffee, darling. . . . and you'll be all right in a minute."

Tad lifted her as though she were a child, and Valerie brought pillows and a foot stool, and when they had made her comfortable, they tried to make her laugh.

"Can't you see what a joke it is?" demanded Sybil. "The man never saw me in his life. He does not know a thing about me, really. Let me read it to you, dear. It's simply a serenade."

But Mrs. Thorne waved away the lurid sheet with her little fluttering, blue-veined hands.

"Oh, please," she begged, "please. That dreadful, dreadful man! what can I do?"

Tad stood on the hearth rug with his feet wide apart, and his hands plunged in his pockets.

"I guess, Ma," he predicted gloomily, "you'll have to take up church-going. Ministers are a good, safe lot—though they may be a bit dull. But these quacks—gosh, Ma, you'll simply have to lay off."

Valerie drew the purple afghan close about her mother-in-law's narrow shoulders.

"Poor Mother Thorne!" she whispered, and kissed the soft gray hair where the part lay pink and broad. "Tad's joking, dearest."

Sybil glanced at the watch on her wrist.

"Eight thirty!" she cried. "And court begins at nine. We'll have to hurry. Do you feel up to it, mother—or had you rather stay right here, and rest?"

"Up to it!" Mrs. Thorne put a hand on each arm of the big red chair. "My dear, I feel like a new woman. Do you know what I'm going to do?"

She raised herself to her feet and surveyed her children with quiet dignity.

"I'm going to sue that man. I don't know exactly how it can be done, but I'll see a lawyer today. There must be some law for the protection of a client or patient in confidential consultation. Maybe he is practicing illegally. There will be some way of getting at him. I'll sue him for $100,000—and attach everything he's got! He thinks I'm nothing but a neurotic, silly old woman. I'll show him, children!"

Laughing, they crowded about her to pat her shoulders and kiss her faded cheeks.

"Get my hat, Val," she commanded briskly. "It's up on my bed, dear. And hurry up or we'll all be late!"

Everybody, it seemed, was in court when they reached there. Dolly Weston rushed up and kissed Sybil effusively. The Moores came to shake hands—Jack and Mabel—quietly confident.

Mrs. West, garrulous and excited, put her arms about Sybil and pecked Mrs. Thorne. Groups of smartly-dressed women bowed when they passed. Girls with whom Sybil had gone to school reached over the backs of the courtroom benches to clasp her hand. Mrs. Grayson bowed serenely from across the room.

There were a great many strangers and a number of intimates. Most of their casual friends had the good breeding to stay away, but there were a number of women with whom Sybil had a bowing acquaintance.

They seemed engrossed with remote objects when Sybil glanced their way. Some of them craned to look out the windows. Others were absorbed in contemplation of the throngs that crowded through the corridors to the court room door, where a court officer in a blue uniform with brass buttons refused further admittance.

Reporters at the press table asked questions of one another eagerly:

"Who's that shaking hands with her now? Mrs. Grayson? Did you see the dame with the lognettes high-tailing her? Those are Vincent Club girls talking with her now. . . . Say, this looks like a mass meeting of the Four Hundred. . . . There's Newhall coming in. . . . This may hurt him politically. . . . That's her brother. . . . Well, they are all giving her the glad hand. . . . Oh, no, they're not. She's been getting a flock of icy stares. Plenty of snubs, I'd say. . . . Pretty tough, isn't it?"

Waiting. Waiting. What was the delay? Where was the defendant? The judge, stern in his black gown, frowned and fidgeted. That was a court officer he had beckoned to the bench. There was a whispered conversation.

The judge—like an old woman digging a handkerchief out of her pocket—fished in the folds of his robe. Glared belligerently at his watch. Restored it to his pocket and settled his heavy skirts modestly about him.

Where was Richard?

"Neither your husband nor his attorney are here. The judge may dismiss the case."

Commotion in the corridor. Excited whispers. Something had happened. One felt it in the air of that stuffy courtroom when the door swung open and a court officer, fumbling at his brass buttons, hurried to the judge's bench.

The judge leaped forward, cupping his ear with his hand. Nodded gravely and sat for a moment silently.

"Mr. Peterson."

"Mrs. Eustis, will you come here, please?"

 STOCKHOLM.—The flask is by no means a modern invention, it has been brought out in Sweden where an old walking stick, holding a container for liquids was recently discovered at Norberg in the province of Vestmanland.

The intricate cane, consisting of metal tube with rich ornamentations in silver, boasts not only of a beverage flask, but a mirror and a snuff box as well.

To prevent pilfering, the compartments are protected by intricate locks. The stick was made 50 years ago by a metal worker named Andersson for his personal use and is now in the possession of his son, Georg Andersson.

"It is hardly necessary to state that if these cruisers are not built the United States will have none for control duties, and the capital fleet will be lacking 10 cruisers considered necessary to its safety and efficiency," the committee reports asserted.

Conditions in Porto Rico Critical; Half Million Under Red Cross Care

Women of Porto Rico are working night and day in Red Cross work rooms making surgical dressings and garments for the homeless. Lower—Emergency hospitals dot the hurricane stricken section. This shows a patient arriving at one of the Cross hospitals. Upper right—All that is left of thousands of homes after the hurricane.

With all communication lines completely destroyed and many sections separated by mountains and other natural barriers, the world is now beginning to realize the scope of destruction—the still might of a half million suffering from a hurricane stricken Porto Rico.

Red Cross workers, traversing the island by automobile and in places on foot, are bringing stories of conditions among people such as the United States has never known—not even during disasters.

With their huts gone, their houses stripped, coffee trees uprooted, and sugar cane lying flat on the fields, the people are literally starving and dependent on the Red Cross for the bare necessities of life.

tel of roving bands up in the mountains during the early stages of relief, going from place to place in search of food. Living on tropical fruits blown down by the hurricane; sleeping on the ground with neither bedding nor shelter; drinking water wherever it was found, some of it pure, some polluted; and for medical aid for their sick and injured depending on a kindly Providence; are some of the conditions the relief organization has had to combat.

The disaster is so big and suffering so intense that transportation and other facilities of the island have been taxed to capacity in rushing to the interior only those things considered essential to life and health. Tons of food, thousands of tents, coats and blankets, truck loads of medical supplies, and caravans of clothing are moving daily from San Juan to other points to keep the situation under control.

With upwards of a hundred thousand families, comprising nearly a half million persons, dependent on it for their subsistence, the Red Cross is facing one of the largest tasks it has ever undertaken. The appreciation of Porto Rico for the prompt answer from the States to her call for help is evident everywhere.

Contributions to the Red Cross $5,000,000 disaster relief fund all went direct to the disaster sufferers in Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Florida, but officials of the organization explain that the Red Cross, in order to maintain the organization in a position to act as the great national disaster relief agency, depends entirely upon membership dues paid once a year at the time of the annual Roll Call. This year the Red Cross is seeking five million members.

waiting. Waiting. What was the delay? Where was the defendant? The judge, stern in his black gown, frowned and fidgeted. That was a court officer he had beckoned to the bench. There was a whispered conversation.

The judge—like an old woman digging a handkerchief out of her pocket—fished in the folds of his robe. Glared belligerently at his watch. Restored it to his pocket and settled his heavy skirts modestly about him.

Where was Richard?

"Neither your husband nor his attorney are here. The judge may dismiss the case."

Commotion in the corridor. Excited whispers. Something had happened. One felt it in the air of that stuffy courtroom when the door swung open and a court officer, fumbling at his brass buttons, hurried to the judge's bench.

The judge leaped forward, cupping his ear with his hand. Nodded gravely and sat for a moment silently.

"Mr. Peterson."

"Mrs. Eustis, will you come here, please?"

Under the Washington treaty both the unit tonnage and total tonnage of aircraft carriers was limited. At the present time the United States is 56,300 tons under treaty allowances, and since the carrier Langley is denoted in the treaty as experimental, the United States is entitled, if coalition warrants, to build 69,000 additional tons of aircraft carriers and to scrap the Langley.

The need for cruisers, as analyzed in committee reports, was as follows:

CHEVROLET

CONSTANT EXPANSION

—to serve Chevrolet owners better

SINCE January 1st more than a million new Chevrolets have been delivered to owners—making the Chevrolet Motor Company, for the second consecutive year, the world's largest builder of automobiles!

This outstanding achievement has been attained not only because of the quality and value of Chevrolet cars—but also because there has been a constant expansion of Chevrolet service facilities.

In order to bring these mammoth facilities of the Chevrolet factories to Chevrolet dealers and owners everywhere, there have been erected 26 huge parts warehouses in the principal centers of distribution. This expansion program is continually going on—for four great additional warehouses will be in operation by January first and seven more by the summer of 1929.

Into the service departments of all Chevrolet dealers, Chevrolet has brought special tools and shop equipment—designed under the supervision of Chevrolet engineers. This equipment definitely assures maximum speed and precision and the lowest possible cost in the performance of every Chevrolet service and repair operation—which are charged for on a flat rate basis.

Furthermore, all of these tremendous facilities have been made available to 15,000 authorized service stations manned by skilled mechanics, over 25,000 of whom have been factory trained to efficiently handle every repair operation on a Chevrolet car. In addition, there are over 4,000 other points where genuine Chevrolet parts may be obtained.

Uniformly efficient, uniformly reliable and within easy reach of everybody everywhere—this great service organization is maintaining at peak efficiency the fine performance for which Chevrolet cars have always been renowned.

We cordially invite you to come in and see how our service facilities reflect the influence of this great national service program.

"SCOURING WORMS"

In the parlance of the street corner, this beat us. The United States department of Agriculture, which knows its worms, scoured and otherwise, enlightens the world when its bulletin says, "To get the very best results from worms, for fishing purposes, it is desirable that they should go through a process known as scouring."

Of course, there are worms, and there are worms. There are earthworms, grub worms, red worms, big, little, and medium sized worms and now there is the "scoured worm."

The bulletin goes further. It tells how to scour worms. It is necessary to put the slimy creatures upon a bed of "sphagnum" moss. It does not say whether any other kind of moss will "scour" them. The moss should be kept in the bed of moss or "sphagnum" moss for three or four days, then they are transparent, tough, and like...

However, the bulletin adds, if they are kept longer, they should be given a diet of sweet milk at intervals, and the moss should be washed and wrung out in clean water every week or 10 days.

Now that is a discovery. Imagine a scoured worm, who had been resting on "sphagnum" moss for four days, and washed in sweet milk, being preferred by a goggle-eyed perch, or a Brazos River mud cat. We cannot help but wonder what would happen if butter-milk was used. Or the moss made out of excelsior.

Scoured worms for centented fish.

Cisco Planning On Large Crowd Armistice Day

CISCO, Nov. 8.—Preparations are under way for Cisco's Armistice Day Celebration on Monday, November 12th. It now looks as though this year's event will surpass any previous effort.

The day begins with a mile long parade at ten-thirty. The American Legion Post of Cisco together with Legionnaires from all over the Hill Belt will head the parade. Company 1 of the 142nd Infantry of Mough fully accoutered. Floats from Ranger, Eastland, Baird, Rising Star, Moran, Breckenridge and Mineral Wells have been promised. Decorated cars and floats will represent the business interests, the civic organizations and the schools and college of Cisco. Bands and percussion will add color to the occasion.

At three o'clock on Chestey Field, the Big Dam Lobos and the Ranger Bull Dogs tie up in the football classic of the Oil Belt. This will bring together two well matched teams, each fighting for the district championship. At Ninth Street and Avenue D the Eastland County Jersey show will be in progress. This will bring together the best Jersey growers in this part of Texas. This show is serving a real purpose in the wide-spread development of dairying now underway all over this territory. Entries to date assure the presence of the best blood lines of American Jerseys. No pains are being spared to make this holiday an outstanding event. The great news reels will have cameramen present while the metropolitan papers of Texas will cover the day's events.

Hymn, "Savior, Thy Dying Love." Voice solo, "Oh Love That Will Not Let Me Go," Mrs. Loventhal. Silent prayer was observed as the eight white clad figures knelt about the pulpit holding aloft their lighted candles. Prayer, Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite, leader. The Jubilee gift was made of a large sum of money. ROYAL NEIGHBORS OF AMERICA MEET The regular meeting of the Royal

Neighbors of America

Neighbors of America was held Tuesday night. There was only a small attendance, which is unusual for this organization. The Royal Neighbors Health Club will meet next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 in the home of Mrs. Trudie Mathena, on West Commerce Street. All Neighbors are urged to attend. The club offers a special free course and one of value. The organization expressed itself as very grateful to the public for their liberal patronage of the "tacky party," the proceeds of which paid all the debts of the Royal Neighbors, and left a tiny little sum in the treasury.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAY TOMORROW NIGHT

"Adam and Eve" will make their bow to the public, after these many years, in the High School auditorium at eight o'clock Friday night, when they will be presented under the auspices of the High School Parent-Teacher Association, which hope to realize enough from the patronage of this play to help them in making a worth while payment on the grand piano, which furnishes the stage in the auditorium of Eastland H. Two or three delightful selections will be given by the high school band, under direction of bandmaster Campbell, preceding the first act, and the smart little West Ward Rhythm Band will appear in a group of numbers between acts one and two. Between acts two and three several chorus numbers will be given by the South Ward Glee Club, and the last special number will be rendered by the high school band. This charming program was arranged by Mrs. Bert McGlamery. The play will be directed by Miss Mary Sue Rumph.

SIDE LIGHTS OF JUBILEE YEAR

Mrs. Mickle during the course of the program, made an interesting report of her son, who is a teacher in a Christian college, in Japan, near Kobe. Mrs. A. F. Taylor brought a message concerning Miss Lucy Morgan long a missionary in Brazil, her cousin, who has recently suffered the loss by death of her mother. Miss Morgan, it will be remembered, addressed the Federated Mission Study Club in Eastland, last year. Mrs. Josephine Smith, of Sipe Springs, the great aunt of Mrs. H. O. Satterwhite was an honored guest of the day. Luncheon was served at noon, for a long table, prettily adorned with linen covers and centered with bouquets of mums. An elaborate and delicious menu was enjoyed. Guests were: Mmes. Charles G. Norton, Charles C. Robey, and Messrs. E. C. Satterwhite, T. J. Haley, Grady Pipkin, J. A. Caton, B. E. McGlamery, C. C. NOW WE'LL HAVE MORE BOOKS

Book tag day in West Ward school, the first tag day of its kind in Eastland, was put over with vim and success Wednesday, by the eager young folk who proudly gave the "taggaree" a bright red ticket printed in black their proudly acclaimed school, the West Ward, in exchange for a coin. Encouragement and appreciation was generously bestowed by the public, though the coin contribution was not extensive, probably due to the difficulty the ladies experienced in finding the men "in" on the square, and also the chilly day. A subscription contest will be staged by the grades of West Ward school, a "good will" contest for the benefit of the school library, and held during national book week, which pens November 11. The sum of $41.73 was cleared on tag day. Of this, Ralph Mahon, Jr., collected the highest individual amount of over eight dollars. Children who put over the day, under direction of the school principal, Mr. Boles, included: Douglas Jones, R. L. Perkins, Ralph Mahon, Woodrow McIntosh, Theo. Lee Roper; Lura Mae Frost, Audrey Brawner, Dorothy Day, Connie Harris, Catherine Lankford, Juanita Buhl, Joe Eary Utz, Joe Wood and Blanche Pentecost.

ances of Mavericks to Sack San Angelo mp. When Game is Ordered Transferred of the Eastland to win another football year, took a noticeable setback, when it was announced that the game had been moved to Eastland.

It was understood that from a standpoint, the game had been almost a total loss. The San Angelo team like to have as many games as they can get, made a very offer to, Eastland officials.

It was offered $400, all of which was accepted, and the Mavericks will trek to Eastland Saturday to exchange for the second year.

The major game has been the Mavericks in Eastland. That was the battle at the opening of the season.

A handful of fans saw the aggregation beat the Lions for undoubted possession of the cellar.

Eastland-Cisco game will be at Cisco. The Mavericks at Bucaroos at Breckenridge and the Abilene Eagles at Abilene.

It has a little thing like a game from one town to another with a team's of winning a football game.

Eastland has a better record than any other team in the state. It is a certain "feeling" that is in hand with the football.

San Angelo had Cisco—at San Angelo they would not have done it. San Angelo would have won.

MUSTANGS AND AGGIES IN BIG GAME OF WEEK

Cadet Corp and 100-Piece Band of Aggies to Go to Dallas.

COLLEGE STATION.—Facing what promises to be one of their toughest assignments of the season in the game with the powerful Southern Methodist University Mustangs at Owenby stadium in Dallas next Saturday, the Texas Aggies are buckling down this week to the most serious grind of preparation yet called for by any game of the present schedule.

Because of the imposing record the Mustangs have made thus far, the Aggies will likely go into the game as the underdogs and fully cognizant of the uphill fight that will be necessary from the start of the game.

The ponies were favored last year to defeat the Aggies but the predictions of the dopsters were set at naught by the furious style of play the Aggies staged. That game was played at Kyle Field, however, a condition that always gives the Aggies added inspiration.

Next Saturday the conflict will be on foreign soil for the Aggies and that is expected to count to the advantage of the Mustangs.

All in all, the coming game promises to be one of the most colorful gridiron scenes of the season, both on the field and in the stands. The entire A. & M. cadet corps of 2600 khaki-clad students, accompanied by their 100-piece band, will make the journey to Dallas to give their support to the Maroon and White warriors.

Sports Matter

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Sports Writer

John J. McGraw's first move to strengthen the New York Giants for the 1929 National League race was to acquire outfielders, Fred Leach from the Philadelphia Phillies. Several other clubs were after Leach and the Giants had to part with outfielder Lefty O'Doul and a large sum of cash to get the Phillies' outfielder.

One of the seasons McGraw wanted Leach was that he was tired of shifting his outfielders against right and left handed pitchers and wanted a man for left field who could hit both varieties. Although a left handed hitter, Leach hits equally well against right and left handers.

Welch, who came to the Giants from the Braves in the Hornsby trade, was a much improved ball player during the last few months of the season and even though Roush has recovered from injuries which forced him out of the game last season he may not be able to beat Welch out of the center field berth.

Ott Improving
Always dangerous against right handed pitching, Ott is getting better against southpaws and the chances are that the Louisiana youngster will be seen regularly in right field next season.

The O'Doul-Leach trade came as something of a surprise because of the popularity of O'Doul among the Giant players and fans. He came to the Giants last year in the draft from the Pacific Coast League where he led the league in almost every department in 1927. O'Doul (he pronounces it O'Dool) got off to a good start with the Giants but he fractured his ankle early in the season and was laid up for six weeks. When he returned to the game the injured ankle hampered his batting and he never lived up to his early promise. He, however, finished the season with a batting average of .318.

O'Doul started his career as a southpaw pitcher and once had a major league tryout with the New York Yankees, but gave up itching when he was sent back to the minor leagues and changed to the outfield and first base.

O'Doul leaves the Giants with a reputation as one of the most popular players ever to play on McGraw's team. He also had a great following among the left field fans.

Each to Aid Defense
But McGraw never lets sentiment stand in the way of improving his ball club and he figured that Leach would not only add punch but defensive strength to the Giants.

Leach is 28 and has played professional baseball for seven years. He began his career with the Waterloo club of the Missouri Valley League in 1922. He went to the Phillies in 1923 and was farmed out to Harrisburg in the New York Pennsylvania League in 1924. Returning to the Phillies in 1925, Leach won a regular berth in the Philadelphia outfield.

Leach's major league record shows that he has a batting average of .314 for the four years he has been with the Phillies. He batted .312 in 1925, .329 in 1926, .306 in 1927 and .305 the past season.

The Cisco Lobos, who have been picked by almost all the "experts" to win next Monday's "crucial game" against the Ranger Bulldogs, may not be such overwhelming favorites if it is true that Van Horn, star half-back, will be out of the game.

Information from Cisco is to the effect that Van Horn was injured so seriously in the game against Breckenridge almost two weeks ago that he has not even put on a uniform since then.

Now it so happens that Van Horn is the passer for Cisco. The Lobos' passing attack has looked none too brilliant at best and if the regular tosser is out of the lineup, the Big Dam team may have to rely chiefly upon running plays.

Stovall, a husky chap, would have had a fine chance to step into the breach Monday but he got hurt in practice and it appears at present that either Coats, Bedford or Cotton Phippen will get the call. Coats took Van Horn's place when the latter was injured at Breckenridge. Bedford is rather good as a runner and passer but lacks experience in critical games. Both men are light—Bedford weighing around 150 and Coats a little less. Phippen will be remembered for his long, accurate passes last season. He had the misfortune to get hurt months ago and is reported just now approaching full recovery. The long lay-off will do him no good.

If Van Horn does not have one of those miraculous recoveries that are so common in football, his absence will destroy the balance in Cisco's backfield. Kildean is the line plunger; Kellogg the punter; Little the runner, and Van Horn is almost a combination of all the others, for he throws the passes, dashes off tackle and sometimes goes through the line.

The remainder of the Lobo team is in excellent condition and the lineup against Ranger on the Cisco gridiron Nov. 12 will be the same that faced Breckenridge two weeks ago when the Buckaroos went down, 26 to 0. Meadows and King will probably be at ends; Slatton and Caldwell at tackles; Miller and Ray at guards, and Anthony at center.

Not only is the Ranger-Cisco game rated as the biggest game in the Oil Belt at this time—for both teams are undefeated—but it is the only game of the day, which will be largely observed as a holiday and a crowd of 8,000 is predicted.

LOBOES MAY BE WITHOUT VAN HORN IN RANGER-CISCO "CRUCIAL" GAME

HORNED FROGS ARE IN RACE

FORT WORTH.—"We are still in the conference race and are a long way from quitting," said Matty Bell in a lecture to his gridiron warriors. "We played a good hard game, but it looks like we just weren't supposed to win that one. We are not downhearted and will be hearing down until the last whistle on Thanksgiving day."

The Horned Frogs began strenuous work in preparation for their tilt with the Rice Owls on the latter's home field Saturday. The Rice team is of unknown strength, for while non-conference members have defeated the Owls several times, they succeeded in holding the powerful Texas Longhorns to a 13-6 score. It appears that they fight harder against a conference member. The Frogs are expecting a tough game and Bell is giving his men long and careful instructions.

While both Baylor and S. M. U. suffered the loss of some of their stars in the last game, the Frogs came through without an injury. Ivor Reid, crack guard, who was forced from the game with an injured shoulder, is fast rounding into shape and will be able to take the field against the Owls. "It was remarkable," said Bell, "that we came through such a tough game without serious injury."

The Gorman Panthers will strive to regain their footing in the race for the Class B district championship when they make a valiant stand on their home field against their old-time rivals, the DeLeon Bearcats. DeLeon has not lost a game while Gorman went down in a hard-fought struggle with Dublin, which has one of the strongest Class B teams in West Texas.

However the fact that Gorman has lost a game will only make the Panthers scrap harder, especially as they are facing their historic foe, the DeLeon eleven.

The game starts at 3:30 Friday at Gorman. A large crowd is forecast.

CISCO PLANS BIG PROGRAM NEXT MONDAY

Mile-Long Parade, Dairy Show and Football Are Features.

CISCO, Nov. 7.—Preparations are under way for Cisco's Armistice day celebration on Monday, Nov. 12. It now looks as though this year's event will surpass any previous effort.

The day begins with a mile-long parade at 10:30. The American Legion post of Cisco together with legionnaires from all over the oil belt will head the parade. Company 1 of the 142nd Infantry of Ranger will be in the line of March fully accoutered. Flots from Ranger, Eastland, Baird, Rising Star, Moran, Breckenridge and Mineral Wells have been promised. Decorated cars and floats will represent the business interests, the civic organizations and the schools and college of Cisco. Bands and pep squads will add color to the occasion.

At 3 o'clock on Chesley field, the Big Dam Lobes and the Ranger Bulldogs meet in the football classic of the oil belt. This will bring together two well matched teams, each fighting for the district championship.

At Ninth street and Avenue D, the Eastland County Jersey show will be in progress. This will bring together the best Jersey breeders in this part of Texas. This show is serving a real purpose in the wide-spread development of dairying now under way over this territory. Entries to date assure the presence of the best blood lines of American Jerseys.

No pains are being spared to make this holiday an outstanding event. The great news reels will have cameramen present while the metropolitan papers of Texas will cover the day's events.

MARSHAL FENG IN POWER BANS SILK UNIFORMS

PEKIN.—Marshal Feng Yushiang, probably the most powerful warlord in China today, has decided never again to wear the silk uniform and elaborate decorations which he used to fancy in days when he was much less powerful.

Pictures of Marshal Feng on two state occasions, one eight years ago and the other this year, show the contrast in his ideas, as well as appearance.

Today he wears the uniform of a common soldier in his army, of cheap laundered cotton, even on the most formal occasion. His dress uniforms, he declares, have been permanently discarded.

"China is today going through a revolution," Marshal Feng declares. "The revolution is not complete, whatever some optimists may say. The common people of China are miserable, with not enough to eat. So the leaders must live simply, giving all surplus funds to the poor."

Even Feng's enemies admit that he practices what he preaches, in this respect. He and his wife and family dress in cotton garments, eat very plain fare, and live in small houses with a couple of servants.

Feng rides in a truck, on the front seat with the driver while other warlords have limousines.

In spite of the fact that Marshal Feng compels his officers to live as simply as he does himself, it is agreed that he has a more loyal following than any other Chinese militarist. His chief subordinates have stayed with him in

After All That Jack Newark and that in the rush are Reports from scouts on the frontier indicate that there is something of a stampede after the post that Walter Johnson vacated in Newark and that in the rush are such distinguished baseball men as George Sisler, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Kid Gleason and some big minor league fellows.

The sudden interest that the big timers manifested in a minor league fellow.

Johnson, if he had not been disabled by a critical illness at the start of the season, would have been worth $20,000 to the Newark owner because he would have been a strong box office attraction as a pitcher.

It isn't likely, however, that any one of the candidates mentioned will be considered worth a half of twenty thousand.

Collins in Baltimore Eddie Collins doesn't seem to fit in the picture as the manager of a Newark club, but he might be in the International League next year as the pilot of the Baltimore club and a major on the staff of Col. Connie Mack.

The Baltimore club, it has been announced by the widow of the late Jack Dunn, is to be sold to the highest bidder and it is understood that Mack and the Philadelphia interests want to buy.

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croceote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs croceote is recognized by high medical agencies as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croceote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the croceote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

Charles G. Mullen, general manager of the Tampa (Fla.) Times, says: "That here in America we live better than any other people in the world, and much of the credit for this high standard of living goes to advertising."

Advertising makes mass production possible, and mass production brings efficiency and lowers costs. Thus, through the speeding up of industry under the stimulation of advertising, a day's labor in America produces more goods than anywhere else in the world, and a day's wages buys more.

Because it does create new desires, improve old habits, increase efficiency in industry and distribution, advertising is economically sound and will continue to grow in influence. And as it does develop greater power of appeal, it will further raise our standard of living by making necessities and luxuries cheaper as measured in a day's labor.

Another thought is that advertising is making possible better and more attractive newspapers and magazines, and in turn these are making us a well read and well informed people. Almost everyone reads now. Old prejudices are breaking down and we are attaining a new appreciation of the art of living.

Stability Marks October Market Texas Petroleum

AUSTIN, Texas.—Stability characterized the petroleum market in Texas during October, according to Bernard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas.

"For the past few months production and consumption have been pretty evenly balanced so that the statistical position of the industry has changed very little," Mr. Nichols said. "Each month the large output of crude is about offset by the heavy run to stills. Moreover, gasoline consumption is holding up better than usual for this season of the year."

"A total of 22,690,000 barrels of crude oil was produced in Texas in October, compared to 21,979,000 barrels in September and 19,215,000 barrels in October, 1925. Daily average flow decreased from 733,000 barrels in September to 729,000 barrels in October. The increase in total output for the month is due to the extra day in October."

"Field work was very active during the month 587 wells were completed, of which 351 were producers, compared to 391 completions in October last year, 196 being successful.

"Crude price changes were very small. A few of the lighter oils were reduced slightly, whereas some of the heavier grades were advanced 5-10 cents a barrel. Gasoline prices were reduced fractionally in line with seasonal influences. Stocks of crude continue rather large."

Red Cross Disaster Workers Fight Disease and Hunger in Porto Rico

All that is left of a rural school in Porto Rico

"SEND an additional hospital unit." "We need food." "We need nurses and doctors." Day in and day out these requests pour into the disaster relief headquarters at San Juan, Porto Rico, as the American Red Cross wages its fight against hunger and disease in the hurricane swept island.

More than 20,000 persons are ill with typhoid fever, influenza and malaria. Nearly 500,000 are homeless and destitute, without food or shelter except that provided by the relief organization. Sugar cane, banana trees, citrus groves, and pineapple plants, their chief source of food and livelihood, are gone. Medical authorities and the public health officials of the little island, known before the hurricane for its exquisite beauty, say there is grave danger of serious epidemics.

Working night and day, the Red Cross is sending a constant stream of supplies into the interior. Three hundred tons of food, a thousand tents, five thousand blankets, six thousand cots, a ton of medical supplies are no unusual one day distribution. The United States, even with its Mississippi Valley flood, has never seen a disaster in which
