

BY KATHLEEN
WHILE H.V. IS GONE

News from the Perkins at their summer home in Massachusetts, telling of an interesting 4th of July in the old town of Stow. The Minutemen in full uniform were in charge and the old church bell was rung at 2 p.m. as were others over the countryside. The long bell ropes were placed outside by the Colonial doorway and Eastland's own Mary George Perkins was one of the bell ringers as she was a descendant of one of the original 12 proprietors of the old town, a Shadrack Hapgood, who was later killed by Indians in the 1600's.

Revolutionary days are the featured ones in Stow as the town played a great part in the early days of the War; sending 80 men to drive the British back to Boston on April 19, 1775, and 49 men from Stow were in the Battle of Bunker Hill. It was also in Stow that the ammunition was stored and where the treasurer of the Colony had the money. The mother of Capt. Isaac Davis lived there. He died at the Old North Bridge in the early days of the Revolution, the Minuteman statue erected years later beside the old bridge is supposed to resemble him. Very appropriately the zip code of Stow is 1775.

Also visiting the Perkins was Diane Young of Eastland; she and Mary George helped Dorothy Perkins in her story telling groups and visited many historical sites including O Orchard House where the Alcotts lived. Happy wanderings girls but come home to Eastland, we need you too!

4H CAMP At Lake Cisco

The four-county 4-H camp will be held at Lake Cisco July 25-26 with registration now underway.

Cost of the camp is $4 and the money will be used to buy food for two days. Boys, ages 9-19 who are members of the 4-H Club, are eligible to attend the camp.

They may sign up with the agents in their county--Greg Gerngross at Baird, DeMarquis Gordon of Eastland, Floyd kee of Comanche and either Charles Fleet or Jim Fleming in Brownwood. Agents would like to have the boys registered by July 22.

Boys must furnish their eating utensils, baseball gloves, and personal items.

Last year between 75 and 100 boys from the four counties took advantage of the camp. The two-day program will be worked out next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wood and family of Imperial, Nebraska, are visiting Mrs. Floyd Wood and Mr. and Mrs. James Wood. Also visiting in the homes during the Fourth were Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Etheridge of Seguin, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Wood of Odessa, Mrs. David Willoughby and children of Eastland, Mrs. Roy Buchanan of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hendrick of Kokomo.

drawn does not have to be present to win.

Food and drinks will be available at the concession stand located at the arena each night of the rodeo.

Other events have been planned in conjunction with the rodeo. On Saturday, July 27, at 5:00 p.m. an "Oldtime Shoot Out" will be staged in downtown Gorman by the A.O. Easley Trucking Company. This will be followed by a parade through the business district and other areas of Gorman. The parade will form at Brogdon Field and will start at 5:30 p.m. Chairman of the parade is Dick Foster.

Following the Saturday night rodeo performance a dance will be held with a live western band presenting the music and entertainment.

Proceeds raised by the rodeo in the various events will help with the cost of the existing arena and to build permanent bleachers for spectators.

Your patronage will be greatly appreciated and you will help young people have the necessary facilities to perform and enjoy the recreation of rodeo.

What better way to spend part of July than this! Hurry and get your tickets! Come early for each performance. Enjoy the concession stand food and drinks! See youngsters competing in bullriding, calf roping, bronc riding, barrel racing, and many other exciting events!!

A Pillar In This Area

For 51 Years

We're building power plants that use different fuels so you'll continue having the electricity you need.

Natural gas is the major fuel we use in our generating plants, and will be for several years. Oil is used on a standby basis.
But new supplies of these fuels are extremely difficult to obtain and increasingly expensive. To reduce our dependence on them, we've begun using lignite coal. We now have one lignite plant in operation, and two others under construction.
We have adequate supplies of lignite for the operating life of these plants and for some additional planned units. Even so, we will need another dependable fuel source for the future. That's why we're planning to have a nuclear-fueled plant in operation by 1980.
The use of lignite and nuclear fuels is necessary to provide enough electricity in the years ahead. Supplies of these fuels are more abundant and neither is being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

But building plants that use these fuels is a difficult and expensive job. Lignite and nuclear plants cost much more to build than gas/oil plants. While this means electricity will have to cost more in the future, the cost will be less with lignite and nuclear fuels than it would be with natural gas and oil, even if adequate new supplies were available.
We're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

Shortage of moisture is a big concern of farmers and ranchers in Eastland County. Some dry land peanut growers have not been able to plant because of the dry conditions. Unless we get sufficient rain in the next week or two it will be too late to plant peanuts. It takes Spanish peanuts about 110 to 120 days to mature.

About 3,000 head of livestock sold at the Eastland Auction last Tuesday. This unusually large run was due in part to shortages of grass and water. Many stockmen are having to reduce herds.

According to James Dabney, Eastland weather observer, the total rain fall for 1974 is 8.99 inches. Many people in other parts of the county say they have not received that much. The average rainfall for Eastland County through June is 13.85 inches. Last year at this time we had gotten 17.43 inches of rain for the year.

Peanut butter, eggs, and chicken are now among the four cheapest sources of protein. They all rank just higher than non-fat dry milk solids. One year ago pinto beans, dry peas, and black-eye peas were the three cheapest sources of protein. In 1973 peanut butter while chicken was 10th and eggs in 12th place.

This information was furnished by Extension Poultry Marketing Specialists from Texas A&M.

According to recent agriculture statistics Eastland County was the 11th largest turkey producing county in 1973 with 284,000 head produced. This is a drop from 1972 when we ranked sixth in the state with 409,000 head of turkeys fed.

COLLEGE STATION--Buying more land is not always the best investment a farmer can make, according to an agricultural economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Instead, renting or leasing additional acres may be the answer to expanding production," says Dr. Wayne Hayenga.

Texas farm land prices increased about 9.5 percent a year from 1966 to 1972. Thus, many investors besides farmers have been attracted to land as a hedge against inflation.

"The inflation hedge is not the only factor for farmers to consider," notes Hayenga. "The farmer is usually interested in controlling more land to increase the size of his business and to generate more income. Higher grain prices and easy credit have induced farmers to buy more land."

Since competition for land has bid up prices well above the land's ability to show agricultural profit, a farmer may be better off to rent the land from a non-farm investor. This way, he can still use his scarce capital for other inputs which may improve the current rate of return.

"If a farmer is in a strong capital situation with an ample cash flow, land ownership can be highly desirable," notes the Texas A&M University specialist. "However, younger or less-established farmers should be very thorough and realistic with their planning before deciding to make a land purchase."

"Agricultural census figures show that average full-owner farmers have smaller farms and lower family farm incomes than part-owner farmers," Hayenga points out. "This seems to indicate that renting land for expansion is a good economic alternative, allowing larger farm businesses and more efficient production."

College Station Will Share 3 Year Grant

COLLEGE STATION--Scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station will share in a continuing three-year grant from the Rockefeller Foundation for research to develop cotton varieties that are resistant to insect attack.

Dr. Perry L. Adkisson, researcher and head of Texas A&M University's Entomology Department, is coordinator for the cooperative project that also involves universities in two other cotton producing states and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Cooperating in the research are scientists with Mississippi State University, the University of California at Davis, and the Agricultural Research Service.

Adkisson said the three-year grant is for $500,000, of which $97,000 annually will come to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the USDA's Entomology Research Center at Brownsville to continue cotton investigations.

Experiment Station scientists of A&M involved in the project include Dr. G.A. Niles of the Soil and Crop Sciences Department, Dr. Luther Bird of cottons, while Walker is conducting an entomological evaluation of these types, Adkisson emphasized.

USDA researchers are working on cottons resistant to bollworm and tobacco budworm, with particular emphasis on high gossypol types, the project director added.

"Sources of resistance in cotton to boll weevil, budworm and bollworm, fleahopper and lygus have been discovered in the research program. One commercial variety has already been released through the project in Mississippi that has a moderate level of resistance to lygus, fleahopper, bollworm and the budworm," Adkisson noted. "While the Mississippi variety is the first commercial insect resistant cotton ever to be released, we expect to have a continuing flow of these types of cotton. Bird and the A&M team will seek to incorporate the insect resistant characteristics into improved TAMCOT lines", Adkisson said.

Mrs. L.D. Keith Hosts Homemakers

The Homemakers Sunday School Class met Wednesday morning July 10th in the home of Mrs. L. D. Keith.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Miles Awalt and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Laura Lou Trammell. Mrs. Haston Brewer reads the 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians and gave a beautiful prayer. Several members of the class gave short impressive talks on different subjects.

The meeting closed with a prayer, the Hostess and Co-

Hostess, Mrs. Keith's grand-daughter, Miss Brenda Thammes served cake, nuts and ice cream drink. Mrs. Winifred Young, the teacher of the class, Euie Lou Trammell, Mildren Brooks, Gladys Camron, Audy K Kimbell, Dorothy Awalt, Mrs. Mildred Brewer, Gertrude Richardson were present for the meeting.

Our next class meeting will be at the Lake on Aug. 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Pleasant have returned to their home in Longview after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tankersley and her grandmothers, Mrs. Mamie Tankersley of Eastland and Mrs. Grace Funk of Eastland Manor.

Mrs. James Zuspman visited her mother in Rockwall last week end. Her grandson Donnie Barrow returned home with her for a 2 week visit.

Sneakers Are Popular Footwear

COLLEGE STATION--Sneakers provide popular footwear for casual play and active sports, one expert says.

Talley's House Visitors Were Campbells

Mr. and Mrs. I.E. Talley's recent visitors were Mikie and Be Be Campbell. They live in Oklahoma City. They and Mrs. Earl Mullings, Mikie's mother, spent the 4th of July in the Talley home. They all enjoyed just being together, talking, watching TV, having a nice lunch and plenty of ice tea and cokes.

Mikie and Be Be have been attending college at O.C.L.A. in Chickasha, Okla. Mikie has received one degree and is working on his Master's degree. Be Be is working on her degree also.

Marilyn Brown, consumer education-clothing and textiles specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, emphasized the importance of choosing good quality sneakers--also known as tennis shoes or canvas shoes.

"This footwear should exhibit the same quality construction as other shoes the family buys. After all, it receives hard, sometimes constant wear."

"In addition, these shoes should be sturdy, comfortable and designed for good foot support."

The specialist discussed factors that indicate good quality sneakers.

- Firmly woven fabrics.
- Popular fabrics for uppers include canvas, denim, poplin, and corduroy--of cotton, nylon, polyester-cotton or nylon-cotton.
- Soles with nonslip treads.
- Foam cushioned innersoles or arch supports.

"These result in greater foot comfort and support", Miss Brown explained.

--Reinforcement at the heel and other areas of stress.

"The counter (heel) area should be reinforced with extra stiffening and stitching for shape-retention and better heel support. Also, back seams should be securely stitched and located squarely in the middle of the heel.

"Other areas of stress--such as eyelets and sides--should have extra fabric layers and stitching.

--Neat finishing.

"Choose sneakers with secure, even, straight stitching--without rough spots inside or out, wrinkles, bulky seams or gummy adhesives."

--Firm attachment of sole to upper.

"Select those with a single strip of rubber (called foxing) around the base of shoes, which tightly attaches the sole to upper."

--Toe guard.

"This piece of rubber covers the foxing and front portion of the upper fabric, protecting sneaker fronts from excessive wear--making it especially useful for children's shoes."

--Good fit.

"Always try on sneakers with the kind of socks that will be worn with them. Socks are essential to absorb perspiration", she added.

Sunday, July 14, 1974

--Washability.

"Since sneakers soil easily, they should be washable either by hand or by machine. Check labels or hang tags for this information."

Rules Of The Road For Boaters

AUSTIN—Although the road is a water one, boaters are faced with a set of "Rules of the Road" which are essential to boating safety as traffic laws are to drivers of automobiles, according to an article in the July issue of TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE Magazine.

The article, which is reprinted from the Texas Skipper's Course, makes the distinction between "privileged" boats and "burdened" boats.

Privileged boats have the right of way, while burdened boats have the burden of responsibility for taking whatever action is best to avoid a collision.

Rules of the road are just common sense. Action should be taken when it is clear that a potentially dangerous situation exists. The action should be clear and decisive and should be taken early enough to be noticed and understood by the other boat.

Large vessels can't stop quickly, change course or generally maneuver as well as small boats. Also, large vessels in harbors and rivers must stay within the channels. Consequently they have the right of way and the burden to avoid collisions is on the skipper of the small boat.

Sailboats under sail lack the means of control that may be required for, decisive and timely action. Therefore they have the right of way over a powered boat, except when passing, but not over large vessels in confined or narrow channels.

Since hand signals with lights are impractical on water, boaters must communicate with other boaters by using either a whistle or horn.

There are three types of situations between two approaching vessels that require horn or whistle signals to be given. These are: meeting, crossing and overtaking.

In meeting head-on or nearly so, just as in driving a car, stay to your right. One boat gives a single short blast; the other responds with the same signal, and each skipper knows what the other is going to do.

When two boats are well clear of each other, suddenly change course in order to pass on the other boat's left side would create a dangerous situation. So, two short blasts will inform the other skipper that you intend to keep to his right.

If, at any time, there is confusion about signals or intent, four short blasts is the danger signal—each boat must come to a stop until the situation is clarified.

A crossing situation is similar to meeting another car at an intersection that has no stop signs.

As ashore, the vehicle to the right is privileged—in fact, he must continue his course and speed. Inland rules do not require signals in this situation, but common sense should prevail. The boat on the right (privileged) should signal his intent to maintain his course and speed with one short horn blast. The burdened vessel should reply with a short blast signaling his intent to slow down and/or change course to pass astern of the other boat.

Finally, there are the overtaking situations. Normally, you'd pass the privileged vessel on the left, as you would in a car, and signal this intent with two short blasts.

If it is safe to pass, the privileged vessel will respond with two short blasts. Then the burdened boat passes, keeping well clear of the privileged boat.

If it is more reasonable to pass on the privileged boat's right, signal your intent with one short blast. A one-short-blast gives the go-ahead.

Should the privileged vessel consider it unsafe for you to pass as you proposed, it must replay with four short blasts (the danger signal). The burdened vessel must then remain in position and make no further attempt to pass until the privileged vessel answers a one-or-two-short-blast signal with one or two short blasts, respectively, or proposes a new signal.

When a boat is ready to leave a dock, slip or mooring, normally the boat is backed out in the regular traffic channel. Few boats maneuver well when going underway. The rules of the road require that you sound one long blast on the horn or whistle (eight to ten seconds) as soon as you clear the dock or slip.

This signal must also be sounded when approaching a blind bend in a river or channel. It would warn any boat approaching the bend from the other direction.

Once in sight of each other, normal rules of the road and maneuvering signals apply.

Questions and Answers

Q. I came home from the hospital last week, and my doctor told me he had arranged for me to get home health care. He said my Medicare hospital insurance would pay for 100 home health visits. Does this mean I get 100 days of care?

A. Not necessarily. Medicare does not count home health care in "days," because you may not need home health services every day. Home health care is counted in "visits." Each time you receive a home health service it counts as one visit. In your case, each time someone comes to your home to give you covered care counts as a visit. Twice in the same day counts as two visits.

Q. Since my husband is younger than I am, I decided to take social security benefits on my own work record when I was 62. Last month, my husband reached 65 and I started getting wife's payments on his record. I thought a wife got half of her husband's benefit, but my check is less than half. How come?

A. Generally, a wife gets half of the amount her husband gets at 65. Your check is reduced because you started getting benefits before 65. The reduced amount takes account of the longer period over which you'll get social security payments.

Q. When I decided to go back to work, I hired a woman to do housework for me. I know I have to make a report to social security, so I've been keeping a record of her wages and deducting social security contributions ever since she started in April. When is this report due?

A. If you have paid your housekeeper $50 or more in cash during the past calendar quarter—April through June—you must send the report of her wages and the social security contributions due on them to the Internal Revenue Service by July 31.

More Data Given On Equal Rights Proposal

Editor's Note: The following article was written by Mrs. Homer Don Parson of the Pioneer-Sabanna area regarding the Equal Rights Amendment for which ratification is being sought. This is the first in a series of stories Mrs. Parson plans to author. Members of the Texas Legislature may be addressed at the Capitol Station, Austin, Texas, for those who wish to write their respective representative and Senator.

MRS. HOMER DON PARSON
 The Equal Rights amendment according to Prof. Thomas Emerson who wrote a 114 page analysis of the 24 word ERA in the April 1971 "Yale Law Journal", sets forth 14 separate areas of law directly affected.

Briefly, these include related to military service; the draft when in use, combat duty, no privacy based on sex, no exception for married or pregnant women nor mothers, wed or unwed.

Oh yes, men, it may sound good to you, that women will be legally obligated to provide 50 percent of the family income but you must take over 50 percent of the household duties. That kind of takes a new light, huh? Imagine going to jail for not doing the dishes! The door that is open unless you "push" Austin to shut it.

The moral laws will be almost abolished. Statutory rape, seduction laws, prostitution, sodomy and adultery laws written with sex discriminating language will be obsolete.

All state laws governing family relationships will be invalidated. Men, your wife, pardon me—your "spouse" can wear any name she chooses. For that matter, so can your children. You will no longer legally be the head of your household. You can claim only 50 percent "headship" if you're man enough to keep that. It's not only the women who will be receiving a low blow—the men may be hit the hardest. Many grounds for divorce will be dissolved along with many alimony, child custody and support laws.

Senator Sam Erwin was correct when he said the implications of the ERA would "destroy the social structure on which America rests."

One of the worst things about the ERA is that powerful Section 2. Don't let anyone tell you that it is only common legal language amounts to nothing! As it is worded it will take absolutely all jurisdiction from the 50 separate state legislatures in ERA related matters and lay it in the lap of the Federal Government. When it is all said and done your rights that you've entrusted to Austin and your "man" there will all be decided by our "wise" U.S. Supreme Court. Is that what you want? Hey men! About your "man" in Austin and elsewhere. The backers of ERA are already demanding and starting to get 53 percent of everything in government, - business and private life. After all, women compose 53 percent of our population. I just wonder if 53 percent of the men in Austin who voted to ratify this amendment realized that they were "inviting" women (not ladies) to come in and push them out of their seats of power?

If you don't believe that Section 2 is all that loaded, stop and consider the other amendments that had a similar Section 2. For example these amendments: 15th black vote, 19th women's vote, 23rd electoral college vote for District of Columbia, 24th no poll tax, 26th 18 year old vote over-ride all the prior state laws in these matters. The men in Austin have voted away their own voice in ERA matters, but they can "change their minds" and revoke our ratification.

Many more amendments like this and there will cease to be a need for "men" in Austin because Washington will be doing everything except changing diapers!

Only an unenlightened mind or a Communist could want federal control for America!

Don't forget—write Austin today and demand action now!!

The above article was printed in the Cross Plains Review on May 8, 1974.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

By Michael A. Guido, Metter, Georgia

A California columnist asked her readers, "What would you do with your day, if you knew it was the last one for you on this earth?"

One wrote, "I would hurry to the Eye Bank, and donate my good eyes for a blind person to see."

Another answered, "I would try to crowd all the adventures I could into that day to make up for the years I have been tied down."

A third answered, "I would see that my heart was right with God." And he added, "Personally, I am glad I know Christ as my personal Saviour now. I would hate to wait for that until the last day."

While everyone has a date with death, not many know the day. One begged in Psalm 119:84, "How many are the days of Thy servant?" But no answer is recorded.

Whether a person has one day or many days he should see that his heart is right with God and he should do those things that glorify God and minister to man. The measure of a life is not in its duration, but its donation.

What would you do with this day, if you knew it was the last one for you on this earth? It may be.

A COLD IN THE SUMMER?

If you can't understand why you keep getting that summer cold, you may not have a cold at all. That bothersome runny nose may be a sign of hay fever, an allergy whose symptoms have long been confused with those of colds.

Subtle differences can tip you off. For example, if you're discharging a very watery fluid, and if the lining of your nose isn't intensely red, chances are your problem is hay fever. But if you've got that "stuffed up" feeling, your membranes are highly inflamed, and you're being plagued with a sore throat, fever, or sneezing to boot — yup, you've got it. A summer cold.

Scientists still haven't solved the mystery of the common cold. Since it can be caused by any number of viruses, no vaccine seems capable of curing it.

But one well-known physician, Dr. Morris Fishbein, offers some helpful hints on how to live most comfortably with a cold, and hasten its departure as best you can. He's put them all in an entertaining booklet called "Gesundheit!" written for the people who make Scotties facial tissues.

A few of Dr. Fishbein's suggestions:

1. Emphasize a well-balanced diet. It will keep you as physically fit — and keep your resistance up — as possible.
2. Sponge baths with water heated to body temperature will help circulation.
3. If breathing is difficult, inhaling steam will decongest membranes and dilate bronchial tubes. This may aid in coughing up the clogging mucus.
4. Drink lots of water — about eight glasses a day.

WONDERFUL WORLD of BOOKS

What do you do when you want to work and your toddler wants to play? When you're on a long trip, at a restaurant, or stuck on line? When you're both bored with the games you're playing?

The ideas that made Lillian and Godfrey Frankel's "What To Do With Your Preschooler" a classic more than two decades ago can come to your rescue today, because Sterling has just published a new edition of the book which is now called "ACTIVITIES TO LEARN BY" (3.95). The projects in this delightful collection range from arts and crafts to exploring nature, from dramatic, musical and party games, to different things to take to the sandbox - all of them possessing an eternal and universal appeal. The Frankels stress creativity and imagination, but most of the activities they describe also encourage development in manipulation and motor-coordination.

You don't need any special equipment or preparation - just ordinary things you have around the house. Setting up creative play can take less time than setting up your child at the TV set, and it's much more interesting for both of you!

Nursery and kindergarten teachers, parents - anyone who works or plays with children from age 2 to 5 - will find this storehouse of practical suggestions even more pertinent than when it all began 21 years ago, and Gunnar Dybwad, famous educator, said: "The authors show much appreciation of the parents' recognizing individual differences."

Boys and girls demonstrate sport karate techniques together in Russell Kozuki's new book "KARATE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE" just published by Sterling ($3.95). Sport karate, increasingly popular for participants and spectators, stops short of actual contact. You are not allowed to strike or kick your opponent, but in this contest of fighting skills, the first one to break the other's defense scores a point.

Instructor Kozuki, author of the highly acclaimed and popular "Junior Karate", shows the fundamental stances, control, and balance essential to the sport, and then he goes on to punching, striking, blocking, and kicking techniques, all in close-up action photos, with many variations. The book shows a sample basic sparring session, in which opponents perform an agreed-upon set of techniques together, and then explains how free-style sport karate matches are run and scored.

With its large type, simple language and photo-caption format, this handbook, like "Junior Karate", will prove a favorite among reluctant readers of both sexes, and among all prospective karateka.

While photographing the guppy for his new book, "THE GUPPY: Its Life Cycle" (Sterling, $5.95), the widely-known science writer Dr. William White, Jr., discovered several aspects of this tiny fish that were previously unreported. Fish experts have debated for many years whether or not guppy young are born alive after developing like higher animals and humans. But Dr.

White's incredible full-color magnified photographs clearly show a mother guppy giving birth to an egg with a baby inside, the tail breaking out of the membrane. As the egg emerges from the birth canal, it breaks and the new-born fish becomes free-swimming. The fully formed egg membrane floats to the bottom and the new-born swims off to hide.

This is only one of the discoveries Dr. White has made. The guppy is hard to examine because it is not much over an inch in length and it moves about very rapidly. In this newest addition to the "Colorful Nature Series", the author in lucid text also describes the anatomy of both the male and female guppy as in no other book in print. He explains the physiology and behavior of the guppy in direct but simple terms, and accompanies all of this with 56 unusual photographs - in full color - using the same modern methods of magnification as in human surgery.

Several years in research, Dr. White has studied the guppy in its natural environment, has kept hundreds of the small fishes, bred many generations, and performed at least a dozen Caesarian sections on the tiny mother fish to record the development of the young outside the body.

This colorful and fascinating handbook is an invaluable tank-side companion, which appeals to hobbyists and students as well as to nature lovers.
