Box Cars Form a Suburb In Alaska

By United Press
CORDOVA, Alaska—Here's a tip on how to start a town: Enterprising home-seekers have created a "suburban" district here—a community composed of box cars from an abandoned railroad. The cars, on a siding, have been fitted with modern plumbing and lighting.
It's a very cozy effect, occupants of the cars say.

Sparrow Upsets a Terrier With Dive Bombing Maneuvers

By United Press
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. E. P. Hindrichs can't figure it all out, but her wire-haired terrier is fighting a losing battle with a sparrow.
When the dog goes out of the house, the bird swoops down onto his back, gives the terrier a sharp peck on the tail, and then flies away again.
Several times a day for several weeks this has been going on, and each time the terrier has snapped at the bird and missed.

Wilson's Birthplace Restored

Woodrow Wilson was born in this house at Staunton, Va. When 10,000 people gather next month to dedicate the shrine restored by Woodrow Wilson Foundation, President Roosevelt will be the first guest.

NEW OPTIMISM SEEN AS VITAL FOR AMERICAS

By JAMES W. CAMPBELL
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Be an optimist, advises Russell F. Meyer of St. Louis, for you'll be a better American and you'll make America a better place in which to live.
Meyer doesn't mean to refuse blindly to face unpleasant facts. That's stupidity. What he means is this: Face any problem squarely, and instead of succumbing to the defeat of pessimistic fatalism, set out cheerfully and courageously to find the solution.
Meyer is secretary of Optimist International, which seeks to promote a philosophy of constructive optimism.
Optimism is an excellent weapon against un-Americanism, Meyer believes.
"It took optimism and courage of a high order on the part of pioneers who built this nation out of a wilderness and gave it the new kind of government which we call democracy," he said. "Today it still requires optimism and courage in meeting the new problems which have arisen in our generation. Optimists feel, however, that these problems can be solved when they are approached in a spirit of confidence and co-operation. It is our belief that two isms we must encourage in this country are Americanism and optimism."
The best way to combat the spread of un-American ideas among youth is to encourage them to earn an honest living and become useful citizens, Meyer said. He told how Optimists throughout the nation are making friends with needy or delinquent boys, providing them with wholesome recreation, employment opportunities and other advantages.
"In every city," he said, "there are boys lacking in some of the things that go to make up a normal healthy existence. Boys whose parents are negligent, separated or dead, boys whose poverty deprives them of education and recreation, boys who get their training from hardened and cynical criminal gangs of the neighborhood, can easily drift into criminal or unsocial activities."
"Streets grant no diplomas and give no degrees, but they educate with fatal precision.
"Instead of throwing the young offender into reformatories, optimists feel that a better solution to the problem is to make friends with the youngsters and help him get started on the right foot."

High School Senior Day Is Set By Hardin-Simmons

ABILENE, April 25.—Coronation of Kathleen Nunally, Anson senior, as university queen, will be a high point of the day's events as West Texas visitors through the Hardin-Simmons University campus here Saturday for the eighth annual High School Senior Day.

Invitations have gone out to graduating classes in 400 high schools, and estimates by university officials were that attendance will pass the 3000 mark, and perhaps set a record.

An open air spectacle will feature the Cowboy and Cowgirl bands, university musical and athletic organizations, and a novelty quadrille on horseback by riding school students, as a top attraction. G. B. Sandefur, H-S-U athletic manager, who is program chairman, said today.

A free barbecue will be served at noon for seniors and other visitors, with G. P. Jones, Maryneal rancher, in charge of preparations. Jones returned today from a fishing trip off Lower California, on which he caught five blue marlin, to begin planning for this event, and named Lance Sears, Maryneal; Guy Caldwell, Albany, and C. C. (Dean) Cowden, Abilene, as his lieutenants.

To climax spring drills, Coach Warren Woodson will present the Cowboy gridders, undefeated in their last 13 games, in an intrasquad game to conclude the afternoon activities.

Dorothy Thompson, first lady of journalism, newspaper columnist and radio commentator, will speak in the university auditorium at 8, on America's Responsibility in the Present Crisis, to climax the day.

More Sweets and Less Meats Slogan Of Mess Sergeant

By United Press
BEELEVILLE, Ill.—Mess Sgt. A. J. Bussel at nearby Scott Field, army communications school, has developed a new method to keep his patrons happy.
It's more sweets and less meat—and a resulting cut in the food bill.

Sergt. Bussel says that the soldiers are better pleased with more sweets and money can be saved for other needs. His balanced-diet meals, including the sweets and other necessities, run about 39½ cents per day per man compared to the standard army allotment of 40 cents.

Bussel said that if sweets were cut down, the soldiers began yelling for more meat.

So now it's chocolate cream pie, lemon pie, "home-made" cake, and plenty of puddings.

WAR THEATRE IS MOVING TO NEW SPHERES

Britain still clung to a foothold in Greece today, but interest is shifting from the dying phases of the Greek campaign to the opening of a new struggle for control of the whole Mediterranean and the critical battle of the North Atlantic.
German troops flanked the British rear guard at Thermopylae and the Germans are reported to be driving hard upon Athens, but the British command said that allied troops continued to fall back in good order, despite the Nazi pressure.

In the Battle of the North Atlantic—the sphere in which Britain may well win or lose the war—the United States is rapidly moving into a foremost position.

Statements of President Roosevelt and his cabinet lieutenants indicated that the answer to success of Germany's Balkan campaign might be employment of united sea power—in a manner not clearly specified—to guarantee the safe arrival of American war supplies to the democratic belligerents.

Indications that such action might be taken were given today by President Roosevelt. He said that the "United States neutrality patrol" might be extended as far and wide as necessary, even to the seven seas, for the protection of the Western hemisphere. The president said that he did not mean convoys.

It was indicated that the limits of the patrol would be pushed farther into the Atlantic, particularly beyond Greenland, where he said Axis forces might already be established.

The prospects of American sea aid heartened the British and brought denunciations from Axis spokesmen, who recalled Hitler's threat to sink any aid enroute to Great Britain.

In the more immediate theatre of the war in the Mediterranean, the British are preparing for big, new Nazi threats, extended both to the western and eastern ends of the inland sea.
At the western end the critical point is Gibraltar, and rumors of an assault upon the rock were rife in European capitals, as well as rumors of an attack upon the Dardanelles at the eastern end of the Mediterranean.

94 Youths On the Ft Worth NYA Are Given Employment

AUSTIN, Texas—Ninety-four young men previously assigned to the NYA Airport project set up at the Fort Worth Municipal Airport have obtained jobs in aircraft industries.

Through the cooperation of the Texas State Employment Service 21 of these youth have gone to work for the War Department at Hicks Field in Fort Worth, eleven for commercial airlines companies, 23 for private flying schools, four for the Civil Aeronautics Authority, eight for the Fort Worth Municipal Airport, two for the Wichita Falls Engineering School, nineteen for the Duncan Field Army Air Depot near San Antonio, two at the Corpus Christi Seaplane Base, and four for the Randolph Field Air Corps Flying School.

The seventy boys now assigned to the Fort Worth NYA Airport Project are receiving work experience in assisting government meteorologists in compiling weather data and weather reports; in helping radio technicians with radio communications; in aiding in the operation of the airport traffic control; in helping regular City employees in aircraft servicing and storage; and in assisting in the inspection of airplane motors and in making minor motor repairs.

Four hours each day the boys are engaged in actual production work for which they are paid by the NYA. Optional related information and training for the young men includes blueprint reading, meteorology, metallurgy, and airport organization in which each day another four hours may be spent. The teachers of these classes are provided by the Fort Worth Public Schools and by the State Department of Education.

My Home Town Contest Drawing Many Boys, Girls

MINERAL WELLS, Texas—The 'My Home Town' contest, always a big feature at West Texas chamber of commerce conventions, is "going fine," according to report by C. M. Caldwell of Abilene, conductor of the contest. The number of entries among high school boys and girls of West Texas had reached 42 as this week opened, it was announced. That was more than ever before at that stage.

However, said Judge Caldwell, "we are confidently expecting and should have more than 100 entries this year. The decentralization of the contest, holding the preliminaries in the ten WTCC districts, makes it more convenient for these young people to compete. We are not, this year, asking all entries to come and spend two or three days in the convention city. Only the ten finalists, the winner of each district competition, will come to Mineral Wells for the final competition for the Thomas Ethridge cup and scholarship in West Texas universities and colleges. Each of these finalists will receive a cash award."

District Contests:
Times for holding four of the ten district contests have been definitely set, as follows:
District 2, at Lubbock, Saturday, May 3, at 9:30 a. m. Texas Tech is the sponsor, Miss Ruth Pirtle in charge, and the contest will be held in Room 202, Tech Administration building. Two of the three judges have been selected. They are Miss Annah Jo Pendleton, speech professor, and John E. Harding, instructor in business administration.
District 6, Midland high school, Supt. W. W. Lackey in charge, set for Monday night, May 5, at 8 o'clock.
District 7, sponsored by the College of Mines at El Paso, Baxter Polk, librarian, in charge, set for Saturday, May 3, at 9 a. m.
District 10, at Stephenville, John Tarleton college sponsor and A. J. Spangler in charge, set for Saturday May 10, in the main auditorium, at 1:30 p. m.

Entries to Date
Caldwell's record of entries shows District 2, the South Plains territory, leading with eleven entries from—in order as received: Farwell, Levelland, Petersburg, Tahoka, Silvertown, Plainview, Ralls, Anton, Lubbock, Idalou and Post. District 3, centering on Wichita Falls, that contest to be held in the junior college in that city, was next with seven entries from Throckmorton, Graham, Olney, Electra, Quanah, Munday and Wichita Falls.

The other entries received to date were from Memphis, Clarendon, Amarillo, Nocona, Gainesville, Mineral Wells, Abilene, Snyder, Hamlin, Ranger, Breckenridge, Eastland, Andrews, Lamesa, Big Spring, Midland, Balmorea, Pecos, Del Rio, San Angelo, Stephenville, Meridian, Waco and Brownwood.

Salads Form a Subject for The H.D. Club Meetings

"Salads from your own frame garden" was the key phrase from the demonstrations conducted over the county by assistant county home demonstration agent, Alice Wheatley as she showed 4-H club girls how to use green and yellow vegetables.
Carrots were used as the yellow vegetables in salads because of its high nutritious value and its popularity with the girls. It was found that the majority of the girls preferred new carrots to cooked ones.
"A few spoons of grated carrots with some raisins and enough salad dressing to moisten makes a tasty, nutritious, and attractive salad when it is served on a lettuce leaf fresh from the garden," said Miss Wheatley.

Next month which is May, will be devoted to care of windows beginning with cleaning and then go into making and caring for curtains for the girls' bedroom.
Miss Wheatley will meet all clubs in the county next month by the original schedule beginning the first Monday and going on in the order that they come.

TRAINEES ARE WARNED ABOUT NEW 'SWINDLE'

Prospective trainees were warned today by General J. Watt Page, against subscribing to "deferment or exemption insurance."

"It has come to the attention of State Headquarters," General Page said, "that swindlers are operating in Texas, and particularly among the colored registrants, selling for a cash fee policies or papers which are purported to insure the registrant against military training, or to procure for him deferment of service under the Selective Service Act. It is reported that some of these racketeers are impersonating army officers, and in one instance investigation developed that a colored 'sergeant' was threatening hesitant victims with induction into the army on 'a moment's notice.'"

General Page pointed out that, with the exception of ministers and students of divinity, there is no such thing as an "exemption" under the Selective Service Act, and that local boards alone have the authority and responsibility for determining whether a registrant may be deferred from military training. He said:

"Registrants are classified according to their order numbers and when the time comes for classification of a registrant, his case will be given separate consideration by his local board in accordance with the provisions of the Selective Service Act and Regulations. There is no way by which exemption or deferment may be purchased for any price or consideration whatsoever."

Registrants are urged to report immediately any instance of this nature, together with all evidence collected, to his local board or to a United States attorney.

"The Selective Service Act is a Federal Law," General Page said, "and any violation of it is a federal offense and will be prosecuted by the United States Department of Justice."

Piano Ensemble To Feature Music Week At John Tarleton

Chas. W. Froh announces that the Division of Music and Fine Arts Department of John Tarleton College will assist in the celebration of Music Week in Stephenville by offering an evening of Piano Ensemble Music.

Students from Ranger taking part are: Gwendolyn Tunnell, Merle Jenkins, Frances Hatley and Mildred Balch, pupils of Elwood R. Priessing; also Elsie Hummel and Genie Lowe Bartrug, pupils of Chas. W. Froh.

During the evening all types of students from small children to advanced students will have part in the program. Groups of two pianos, six pianos, twelve pianos and climaxing the program 18 pianos with 36 performers. Another unusual feature, 18 teachers from as many different cities have been invited to send from one to six students to take part in the final group.

The ensemble will be staged in the Tarleton Auditorium. There the audience may have a full view of all performers. This unusual program should attract a large audience as many of the visiting teachers have reported that relatives and friends of those participating are inquiring about the date and making plans to attend.

The entire ensemble will be under the directorship of Donald Morton, a member of the Tarleton Music Faculty.

The date is May 8th, and the program scheduled to start at 8:00 o'clock. No admission will be charged, and the public is cordially invited.

Eastland Man Is Speaker at Church Session In Abilene

Joe J. Mickle, son of Mrs. J. J. Mickle, just recently returned from Japan where he has been a teacher since 1921, gave the featured address of the Northwest Texas Conference meeting of the Methodist women at St. Paul Methodist Church Thursday evening in Abilene.

He discussed conditions in the Orient which led to the recent withdrawal of all foreign mission workers, and at the morning session spoke of her work there.

Mickle formerly lived at Memphis, Texas. He is a graduate of Clarendon Junior College, Southern Methodist University and Columbia University, with majors in history and political science. His work in Japan has been as a layman, a teacher under the Methodist board of missions at Kwansai Gakuin University near Kobe.

Resignation Of a Cabinet Member Is Urged by a Senator

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia, called upon the senate today for resignation of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, and appointment of a "two fisted man with intestinal fortitude" as the new secretary of labor.

INDICATION OF U. S. SEA AID GIVEN TODAY

Roosevelt Says He Does Not Mean Convoys, But Does Not Divulge His New Aid Plans

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Roosevelt said today that the United States is taking action to counter attack Axis forces which may be in Greenland and indicated an extension of the naval patrol system might be employed to get war supplies to Great Britain.

The President did not reveal what action would be taken in Greenland, where the new defense pact gave this country the right to set up new bases. He was emphatic in defending the right of the country to extend the neutrality patrol wherever necessary to defend the safety and security of the Western hemisphere.

The patrol, he said, was extended to the seven seas if necessary and denied that he intended to set up a convoy system.

Last night the frank statements of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Secretary of State Cordell Hull that "this is our fight" appeared to confirm indications that the United States soon would extend naval activities in the Atlantic to insure delivery of war supplies to Great Britain.

Each Patrolman Is Costing State About $4,000 Per Annum

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—Sen. A. M. Alkin of Paris estimates that it costs $3,500 to $4,000 to keep a highway patrolman on the road. Their average salary is $2,000 (base pay for a private is $1,800 a year). In addition automobiles or motorcycles must be purchased and maintained and uniforms purchased. Each patrolman is furnished two uniforms a year, but he must pay for their upkeep.

The state has 234 uniformed men at present, including Director Homer Garrison, in addition to clerical employees of the department and garagemen. A bill before the legislature would increase the number of patrolmen in accordance with the income from the license fee law that is finally adopted. A 50-cent-a-year license, sponsors say, would provide for 200 more patrolmen.

The present force patrols only part of the state's 26,000 miles of designated road. They are assigned according to density of traffic and to hazards on the road. This year, crews usually checking motor vehicles for mechanical defects and testing drivers have been transferred to active patrol duty in areas where traffic has increased because of national defense projects.

Committee Hears of Profiteering Upon Army Cantonments

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The senate committee investigating national defense heard charges today that contractors for the army's cantonment program, in "many cases" had been receiving fees four times the size they had been receiving in private business.

Caterpillars On Fruit Trees Are Killed by Spray

County Agent Elmo V. Cook offers the following information on controlling caterpillars that are eating the leaves of fruit trees:

Leaf-eating caterpillars can be controlled on any plant by spraying the leaves of the plant with a mixture of arsenate of lead and water. The usual mixture is one pound of arsenate of lead and fifty gallons of water. When the water evaporates from the leaves the poison is left on them and any insect eating the leaves will get a killing dose of poison before it does much damage.

It is safe to spray arsenate of lead on trees that will have no ripe fruit for several weeks but apricots should not be sprayed now unless extreme care is taken in washing the fruits before eating them. It is safe to spray peaches, plums, apples, pecans and shade trees. Leafy vegetables such as lettuce, collards, cabbage and mustard should not be sprayed with arsenate of lead.

The committee set itself a crushing task—nothing less than to find out the answers to the questions everyone has been asking for 10 years: Why want amid plenty? What's wrong with our economic system?

Now, in 37 volumes, the report is made. It should be the greatest mine of information that exists on our economy.

Everybody is concerned about what will happen after the war emergency is over. Will it mean another depression worse than the last one? It is certainly possible unless the greatest possible foresight is used, beginning now. The recommendations of the TNEC are aimed, apparently, at this post-war period rather than at the period of the defense effort, which is no time to rock boats.

First, the committee is sold on free enterprise. It feels that the only way in which America will eventually be gotten back at peacetime work is by reopening the opportunities for new enterprise. Those avenues are now increasingly blocked on one hand by the increasing size of a few vast corporations, and by increasing government regulation.

Thus the committee suggests: subjecting national corporations to national charter and control; loosening the grip of patent rights; abolition of basing-point systems for calculating prices; repeal of the Miller-Tydings type of price-maintenance laws; government restriction of new mergers; legal and tax policies which will foster and protect new enterprises.

That is a bare hint of the line of thought that has come to the majority of the TNEC after hearing all this testimony. The crux of the matter is here: as long as American business continues to gravitate into larger and fewer units, an equal centralization and expansion of government is inevitable. As free enterprise is restricted, free government is endangered; political freedom is impossible without economic freedom.

When the present emergency is passed, it is clear that the United States is going to have to do some fast stepping. Every bit of light that can be thrown now on the best direction of those steps is a guarantee of future safety and progress.

Why is it that men who never know what they want in restaurants kick about the food served them at home?

Dr. Walton Tells of Unusual Mental College

President Walton related an interesting story in chapel Wednesday concerning a recent trip of his to Austin and some of the things he saw while there.

As an example, he told of a visit to a college for the improvement of mental cases among children. This was necessarily an unusual college in which the students are first given tests to determine their I.Q. and then are taught practical applied sciences. At the same time each student is given academic training as far as he or she can go.

"There the children are taught to weave," President Walton said, "and you would be surprised at the colorful and intricate patterns they are able to produce. They also make brooms which are apparently as good as any on the commercial market; and by cutting up old tires, they make mats. These mats are used at the Capitol building and it is quite likely that many governors of Texas have walked on the products of that department. The other goods produced in this school, including the brooms are shipped to other state institutions."

Mr. Walton said that apparently everyone he met about the campus was happy and that the authorities informed him that by the methods used in the school, several young people are occasionally able to return to society and a normal life.

SEWING CLUB NOTES

By our GES Reporter
Southeast wind, howling and banging, no sunshine to be seen, but cheerio, who cared? For inside in a cozy room sat four girls. Who? Why the sewing club, of course. Yes, the vast sum of four members, the cream of the crop (so Fern Allen said. Some people are so conceited). The said Fern Allen was sitting on the sofa. That scatter-brained jitterbug, Margaret Jo, was stitching up a dress, using the easy chair for a screen. Dorothy, being one of the few girls who can rate a job, was late. Well, she got in on the refreshment anyway, if not the gossip. Shirley May was trying her best to entertain the bunch by serving cold drinks, Ritz-cheese sandwiches and cookies.

Please show up next time, all of you. It's been so long since I really heard any news!

Dramatics Club Attends Shakespearean Festival

Members of "The Masquers," dramatic club of Ranger Junior College, and the sponsor, Mrs. Hunter, went to Abilene Friday evening, April 18, to attend the Comedy of Errors, produced by the McMurray College Theatre as part of the Shakespearean Festival. The Festival was held in Radford Memorial Auditorium and the following Shakespearean plays were produced April 15 through 19: Comedy of Errors, Romeo and Juliet, Twelfth Night, and Taming of the Shrew. Several famous guest artists and critics took part.

The Junior College group left immediately after four o'clock Friday, stopped on the way to Abilene for a picnic supper, and returned that night.

READING ROOMER

We have lost one of our most popular co-eds to the very fortunate young man, Ardell Kirk. The young lady is Miss Maulcia Faye Turner. Happy landing, you two. . . the Staff.

Invitations flew thick and fast for the few days that the Sophs thought they were going to have a hay-ride. Too bad it's planting season and the wagons are all in use.

The Sophs give the consolation to the Freshman that next year you will have some one to worry over a banquet for you. After all, we were Freshmen once ourselves.

PEN PORTRAITS

By Shirley May Berry
Each week there will appear in this column a Pen Portrait of a boy and a girl. Watch for your favorite.

J. D. LITTON

A tall, dark and handsome boy, hailing from Ranger, is J. D. A strange thing about J. D. is that he is a sophomore, but he is President of the Freshman Class. (How some people do get around!). And another strange thing about him is that he does not like fried chicken. However, he can hide away the baked Virginia ham, potato salad, and pineapple pie. He likes aviation, soft ball, swimming, skating, and dancing; and he told me to be sure to mention that he particularly likes pretty girls. His idea of a beautiful girl is one with blue-green eyes, dark hair, and a personality not too boisterous and not too quiet. He definitely does not like necking, hominy and knee-length socks. His hobby is collecting woman and five dollar bills. All assistance to this collection will be appreciated, he says.

KLASS CLOTHES

By Shirley May Berry
Spring has sprung, as the saying goes, but we already know that from the appearance of the co-eds these lovely days (if it does not rain tomorrow). For instance have you noticed that black and white silk print with the green scarf that Margaret Watt has blossomed out in?

Blue seems to be Sue Turner's favorite color, but why not, seeing how it brings out those gorgeous blue eyes? Speaking of blue, have you seen her blue chambray pinafore?

Costume jewelry is still the rage and to back my statement up, just look at Faye Norris' necklace of plaid balls.

Rita Mooney can really wear yellow, especially that yellow sweater.

Dorothy Byas is another one of those girls that seems to have a weakness for blue, especially blue silk prints with white circles. Gloria Jean Jones looked very nice Monday in a blue silk print.

SLIPPING SOCIALLY

By Shirley May Berry
All of you girls have been reading most of your lives about the one and only important subject, and that is "How to Hold Your Man." But have you ever been fortunate enough to find a lesson on "How to Lose Your Man?" (If you are fortunate enough to have one.) For the first time in history, here is a lesson on that subject to all of you girls who are drastically bored with it all. Follow these five simple rules carefully. They are guaranteed to give the best results:

1. When he arrives Saturday night, keep him waiting about twenty minutes while you finish dressing; and if you are already dressed, you may stay in your room and read that short story you have been intending to read but just haven't gotten around to. By the time this is over, he must be thoroughly bored by the conversation with your dad and the European situation.

2. Appear on the scene with your hair in curlers (explain to him that you want it to look nice for your date with Dick, or any boy who is his pet aversion). Do not have any make-up on, or have it plastered on thick and smeary. Also have a couple of blocks of double-bubble gum in your mouth. Be sure your slip shows at least two inches. (All these rules in Number 2 are splendid unless you are expecting to see your latest heartthrob by chance).

3. All the way to the show you may "back seat drive."

4. During the main feature do not forget to pop your gum and talk constantly, mostly about how good looking Robert Taylor and Clark Gable are; this will burn him up, especially if you spread the baby talk on thick.

5. After the show instead of or-

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock for Joe Earnest Nash, 36, who died Monday, April 21, at his home in Eastland, at the Church of Nazarene in Eastland with burial in the Wesley Chapel at Bluffdale, Texas. Rev. John W. Tucker, Cisco, and Rev. Albert S. Barcroft of Eastland conducted the services.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Pearl Nash, and parents, and one brother, Harry Ewart of Ranger, and two sisters, Mrs. Harry Petho of Galveston, Texas, and Mrs. C. Hazard of Ranger.

Just a token of remembrance, just to tell you that we care. For we, too, have known and loved him.

In your sorrow we shall share. Yes, in part we share your sorrow. For dear Ernest we have known, so the sorrow of his passing will not be for you alone.

He was honest, true and faithful, never fearing life of toil.

And when duty called for Ernest He would not from it recoil.

As the Saviour calls him yonder He would only have it so,

And we seem to hear him whisper "He has called and I must go."

program. It was then deemed necessary that the leaders work out a plan whereby the resources and energies of their organizations might be directed wisely in the aid of national defense. Officials in Washington were interviewed asking their counsel in working out a program for women's cooperation. Attention was at once directed to the problem of malnutrition which exists in an alarming degree in the nation. Thirty to fifty percent of the men called out by the selective service draft have been rejected on grounds of physical unfitness, officials stated, and it was estimated that 45,000,000 of the 130,000,000 people are undernourished. The alarming fact of this situation is that malnutrition exists in the home of the higher salaried as well as those with a low income. Therefore, the problem is not so much one of economic status as of education in the habits of eating the right kinds of foods. The Las Lealas Club, in their project to aid in National Defense, give here the foods needed for a safe diet, daily: one quart

SERIAL STORY

LOVE POWER

BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY: Carolyn admits overbearing Leana's conversation, but Bob prefers to forget it. Immediately they plan what is to be done with the remaining X-999. Carolyn suggests taking it west, hiding it in a cave. Meanwhile power lines from Boulder Dam can be tapped for the laboratorious. Strangely, a letter arrives for Bob. It is from Leana Sorni.

"TAKE A LOVE LETTER"

CHAPTER X
THE message which Bob held had been handwritten, and even the script gave hints of the writer's feelings.

"Robert, dear," the letter read, "I send this in desperation because I can write what I cannot say. Things have been so changed these past few days. You are utterly different. I hardly know you. But the worst is that you hardly know me any more, or you seem not to."

"Tell me, frankly, have I proved unsatisfactory to you in any way? For many months we have worked in harmony side by side, and while I hardly dared hope for such success as we have achieved, I know it to be far more significant than you realize. Don't you wish me with you any longer, Robert? Have I shown myself unworthy? Where have I failed? . . ."

There was more of it, in a pained outpouring. Bob read with increasing distress. Somehow on paper her plea affected him more than her spoken words had done. In truth, he had listened to her rather absentmindedly, but if Leana were this upset—

"Oh, Carolyn," he called abruptly. "I must move fast. The plane for the west leaves in barely two hours and—Look, can you take one more letter? . . . I had no idea she felt so keenly!"

The highly personal nature of the matter never dawned on him. Somebody had written him a letter, so in his mind it was logical for his confidential secretary to take a dictated reply.

"It's to Leana," he began. "Leana? You mean Leana Sorni? Isn't she here?"

"Yes, but I'd better write. She wrote me." Carolyn looked her surprise. "She is upset," Bob's voice showed infinite sympathy. "She is such a wonderful person, Carolyn. I have been most ungrateful. But she is sensitive and I don't wish to embarrass her in the slightest. Ready?" Carolyn was ready, so he began:

"My Dear Leana:
"Your note has shocked me. That you had to write it at all was enough to show me up. Please forgive me. . . Paragraph. "Of course"—underline that, please, Carolyn—"of course, you have proved satisfactory to me. More than satisfactory. You are still the outstanding woman you were when you came, even more so, in my estimation. Leana, it is just that I am an insufferable ingrate myself! I forget to show appreciation. I—"

"Look, Carolyn, I don't mean to be that way! A man just gets his confounded nose into something and forgets everything else, see what I mean? Now how can I tell her that? She is a delicate, sensitive—"

CAROLYN suddenly found herself in the role of father confessor. It was as if Bob felt he had to apologize not to Leana but to her. Moreover, it disturbed her greatly.

"You are not unkind, Bob," she said, gently. "You mustn't feel it so."
"But I do! Her letter shows what a heel I am. I—well—Leana," his voice resumed the dictation tone, "I humbly apologize for seeming inconsiderate of you, and I promise to be more careful hereafter. It is necessary for me to leave the city tonight on a business mission and when I return I—I will—"

"He paused, his face serious. . . "I will endeavor to make up for my shortcomings. I regard you as the one person in this world closest to me. I—"

"Did you say 'closest'?" Carolyn interrupted.

"I—yes, but you phrase it as seems best, Carolyn."

"I am not very good at words. But—all right, Leana, it is my one fervent hope that you and I can always be near each other. I pray that our companionship, so pleasantly and fruitfully started here, can endure through life. It will be—"

CAROLYN had looked up in consternation, so that he paused again. She hadn't meant to reveal her feelings but she suddenly blushed with a sense of guilt. Guilt and distress. He saw it, at least.

"Please," he begged, "you write it, Carolyn. You see what I'm trying to say! I'm never good at this sort of thing."

"I can try, Bob." She almost whispered it.
"You're priceless. I've simply got to square this with Leana. I have no idea how discourteous I have been to her. I know I always was tactless, but—Look here, Leana really is tops. Know what I mean? She is!"

He paused to consider that.

Carolyn said nothing. She was gazing at her fingertips.

To cover her feelings, she reached for the telephone directory.

"I'll call the airline's office for your reservation," she said flatly. "What city, Bob? Denver?"

"No. Somewhere in Arizona or Nevada. They have fewest people, wildest mountain lands. Say, Boulder Dam. You suggested that."

When the call was completed he tried again to resume dictation, but while his feelings were no less intent, words were even more elusive.

"Make it clear that I need her," he ordered, almost desperately. "You—need her? To, uh—"

"Yes! I was just thinking. I had no idea how much I relied on Leana. How invaluable she is. We have accomplished much. We must stay together always, for the good of science and of ourselves. We have a debt to humanity. Besides, Carolyn, she and I—Leana and I—"

He was stuck again, but in a moment Carolyn murmured, "Bob, are you confessing that you love Leana Sorni? Are you?"

HE turned slowly to her, face strained. For a long time he just stared in abysmal worry and confusion.

"Then he slowly nodded. "I—guess that's it," he rasped, barely above a whisper. "I hadn't thought . . . hadn't thought . . . you . . . that would seem . . . right." He was still nodding, looking off at nothing now. "Together . . . Months together here. We understand each other. We have been very close . . . The work, Carolyn, must continue. It must!"

"Carolyn, you have to help me! I will pay you any salary, any price! You are brilliant in your own right. You can do things I can't. You have understanding. You simply have to help me with Leana, help me win her, show me how to—make love as a considerate man should! Carolyn, I—You simply mustn't laugh at me—I need your help now more than—"

But his secretary had not laughed.

He stopped because she suddenly stood up, then ran back to her own office cubbyhole. He saw that she had given way to uncontrollable sobbing. Her sympathy—or what he thought was her sympathy for his position—touched him. He hadn't meant to upset his lovely young secretary. Plainly, Dr. Robert Hale berated himself in anger, he was a fool around women, not understanding them at all.

brought to the attention of physicians, usually occur in men and women who are far removed from the exertions of an assembly-line. The recruits for shattered nerves are generally from those who do not lead physically strenuous lives. Habit which tend to de-vitalize plus misdirected use of leisure time represent the background for the majority of physical and mental crack-ups. In many other cases, where the consequences are less pronounced, supreme vitality has surrendered to false conceptions of the value of high-pressure practices upon which nature frowns.

"This speed-up which results in habitually robbing one's self of the required amount of sleep each night, which demands the stimulation of the excessive use of stimulants of any kind, which involves whipping up the nerves by constant excitement, and which consequently refuses to recognize the reconstructive and health-building advantages of out-door exercises and relaxation, can and frequently does end in serious and sometimes in permanent physical trouble. It is a scientific fact that over living man's capacity is a definite predicate for high blood pressure and other ills of advanced life. That these effects of ill-advised living usually take time to assert themselves definitely, perhaps is one of the real reasons for many persons to continue half-blissfully on their merry way.

"Quite aside from the personal responsibility to one's self in the development and maintenance of maximum health, is the added obligation in these uncertain days to conserve physical resources for whatever may be ahead.

Speed-up In The Living Habits May Have Bad Effects

AUSTIN, Texas—"The term speed-up repeatedly is heard these days in connection with defense production. Under the present international pressure the speed with which defense units can be manufactured in this country is almost phenomenal. However, an acceleration in mass production of war and allied material is one thing, and the persistent high-speed-living indulged in by thousands is a different matter," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

"Hard work in itself is seldom harmful. The physical and mental breakdowns, which in ever increasing numbers are being caused by the speed-up in production, are the result of a lack of rest and relaxation. The physical and mental breakdowns, which in ever increasing numbers are being
