Another good business will be the life insurance business. You see when it gets to where there is other places to get jobs besides selling life insurance, a good many of the present novitiates will go back to their own vocations and leave the field open for the experienced and seasoned death-bed story tellers.

This paragraph is propaganda for the gas company and all those not interested are hereby warned so they may skip same.

However, the temperature for month ending Dec. 20, 1931, was less than one degree warmer than the normal for the last 46 years according to the report from the government weather bureau stationed at Abilene.

A chart of the temperature shows that gas bills should be more this December than they were last December on account of the fact that there were more hours of lapsed time that the temperature was below 65 degrees.

DETROIT WON 1931 BATTLE WITH GANGS

DETROIT.—Detroit, reputedly the second city of the underworld, took its gangland "friends" for a "ride" during 1931.

The city double-crossed its three major gangs. Hard-boiled juries convicted 15 so-called important gangsters, breaking the power of the Purple, Sicilian, East Side and Downriver Sicilian "organizations."

Michigan began with the conviction of two defiant young Purples for the murder of a negro boy, slain when his curiosity led him to peek in on an alcohol cutting plant.

The Bernstein clan, all Purples and known in the underworld as "the Burns boys," vanished from their haunts to take up residence at Barquette branch prison.

SHOOT IT OUT WHEN OFFICERS CORNER THEM

Two Brothers End Notorious Careers Rather Than Face Chair. HOUSTON, Jan. 5.—Harry and Jennings Young, outlaw brothers from the Missouri Ozarks, ended their lives today when they stood face to face and shot each other in a house where an armed posse held them prisoners.

The two desperate fugitives who had killed six peace officers in a pitched battle near Springfield, Mo., died true to their bandit vow that they never would be taken alive.

The story of their death was told in the brief verdict of Justice Campbell K. Overstreet, coroner: "Harry and Jennings Young stood face to face and killed each other." "It was a suicide agreement, probably carried out as the officers heard the two call to them."

Just before officers rushed the house they heard a shout from within: "Come and get us. We're dead."

A moment later there was a round of shots. Officers entered the cottage. The room was full of tear gas. They groped their way to the bodies. Jennings was dead. Harry lived but a short time. Officers who attempted to question them received no information on the identity of those with him and Jennings in the barricaded house near Springfield, where the six officers were slain Saturday.

Escaping from the house where the officers were killed, the two brothers fled upstairs in a stolen car while officers took up the chase.

Abandoning their wrecked car at Streetman, Texas, the brothers came on to Houston, riding with passing motorists and hid for 24 hours before officers closed in on them.

As the officers surrounded the house a man ran down the alley and was arrested. It was found he had no connection with the outlaws and he was released.

The house in which they had taken refuge was one to which friends were believed to have directed them.

HIGHWAY BUILDING FOR THE NEW YEAR.

Texas Highways Magazine in its survey of highway building for 1932 says it is expected that during the new year there will be about $32,000,000 worth of new construction work placed under contract, which will be about $3,000,000 less than was placed under contract during this calendar year. Editor Shutzle lets it be known that this program would include some betterment construction from funds set aside for maintenance and that unless congress should appropriate some additional emergency aid, the amount of funds coming from the federal government will be about $5,000,000 less for 1932 than it was for 1931. Also he says a slight increase in state derived revenue from the gasoline tax and registration fees and a reduction in the needs for maintenance on account of the improvement of the condition of the state highways should increase the amount of state funds available for construction purposes. There will be somewhere around $10,000,000 worth of uncompleted contract work from 1931 running into 1932. There will be a balance of work placed under contract during the latter months of 1932 that will run over into 1933.

Bridge construction projects, and this he said would include grade crossing elimination structures, would form a good share of the 1932 construction program. A tentative program of the bridge department calls for placing approximately $3,000,000 of this class of new construction under way during the first six months of 1932.

Speaking of coal, he says that if there are no unfavorable reactions from the low prices bid during the latter part of 1931 the state can expect to get even more miles of the same class of construction work in 1932 than it did in 1931.

In recent years the state highway department of Texas has been net-working the commonwealth with model roads. This is to be continued throughout the new year. Texas continues to move onward and upward. Gone are the days of the old cattle trails and the ox cart period of civilization.

JAPAN MASTER OF MANCHURIA.

Japan is master of Manchuria. Japan is the fighting nation of the Orient. Japan has a vast surplus population. In the not distant past Japan took over Korea. Now Japan is the real ruler of the richest territory lying between the Chinese wall and Soviet Russia. Of course, the expected happened. Regardless of the protests of European countries and our own government, Japan seized the imperial prize and now the Chinese will have to fight to regain it.

Japan is said to have at least $1,250,000,000 invested in all China and probably two-thirds of it is in Manchuria projects. This wealth is invested in railways, in coal and iron mines, grain elevators, mercantile institutions, hotels, banks, and a variety of industrial commercial organizations. Total Japanese population in Manchuria is estimated at 500,000. There are nearly a million Koreans, many of whom are still Japanese subjects while the Chinese residents of Manchuria number about 28,000,000.

A fast traveler is this so-called Yankee nation of the Orient. First, the Japs whipped China in a bloody war. It was very much like a tiger going through a flock of sheep. Then Russia, the Russia of the Romanoffs, challenged Japan to mortal combat. What happened is ancient history. The Russian bear was practically driven out of Manchuria and the Japs emerged from the conflict of the sword having won a victory that astounded Christendom.

China has a population of 450,000,000. Japan a population of 65,000,000. There will be no peace in the Orient with Japs the master of Manchuria. There is a new China and the Chinese of today are not pacifists. They do not believe in turning the other cheek.

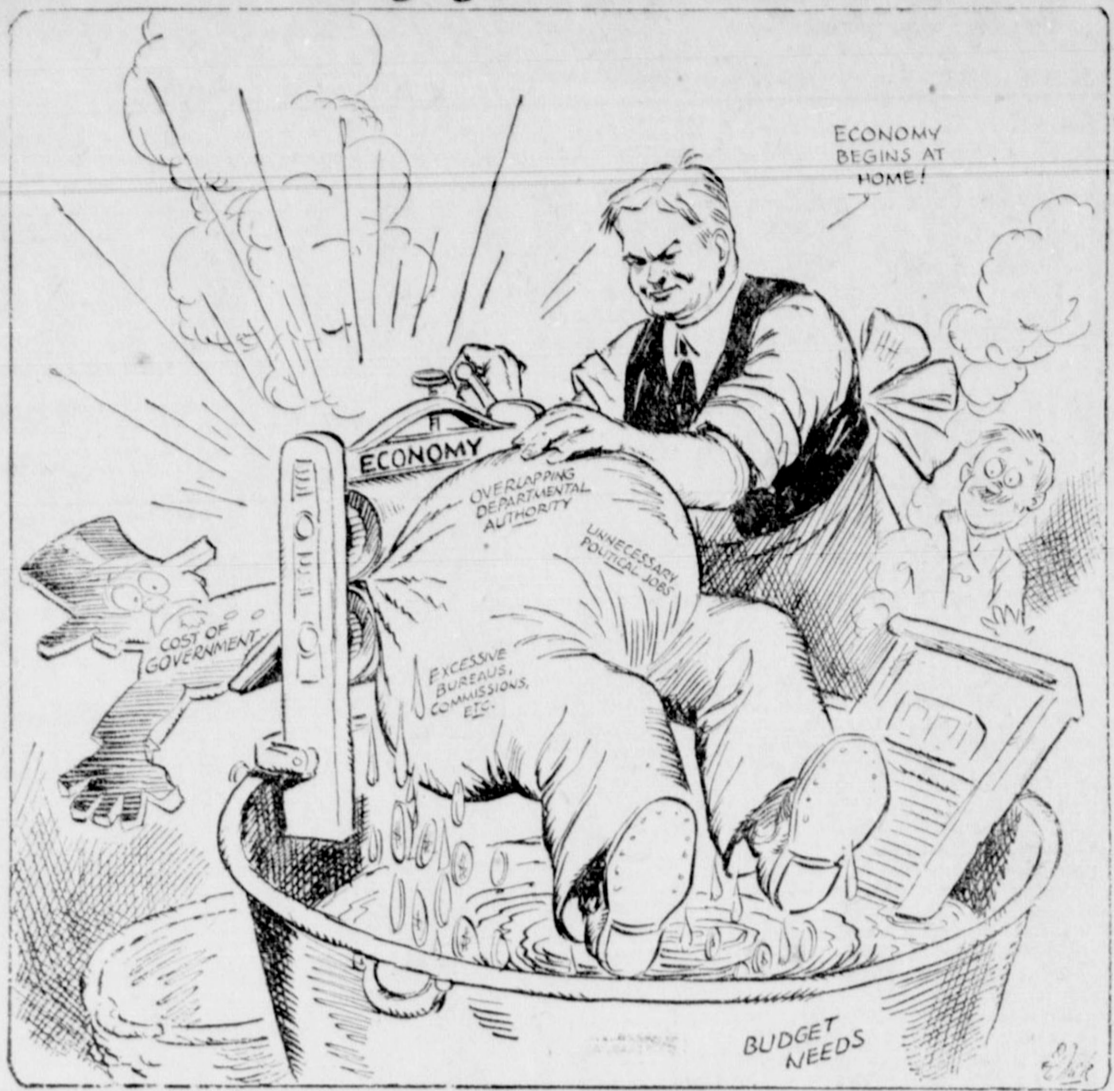

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold." Every case of tonsillitis began with "just a sore throat." It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

Wringing in the New Year!

BY RODNEY DUTCHER SEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Chicago got more out of the Republican National Committee here than the next Republican national convention. She seemed to get something resembling a certificate of respectability.

Awarding her the convention promptly and by an overwhelming vote, the men and women of the committee demonstrated plainly enough that they harbored no fears of principles or machines. Representatives of other contending cities made some mean comments on this phase of the fame of the metropolis which was once internationally known as the home of Al Capone.

Now there seems some possibility that Chicago may get the Democratic convention as well. There is no rule against having both major parties meet in the same town and when the Democrats followed the Republicans to Chicago in 1854 they nominated Grover Cleveland and won their first election victory since before the Civil War.

FEW men are held in higher, wider esteem by politicians and business men than Edward N. Hurley, the citizens' committee chairman who put Chicago over with the Republicans. Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, who accompanied him, is head of the city's famous "Secret Six" and is widely credited with causing the arrest and trial of Capone. Mayor Tony Cermak, who was also here, is another Chicagoan who has done much toward restoring his city's former prestige. He is even said to have cleaned up the police force which he inherited from Big Bill Thompson.

Randolph said, in response to wisecracks from supporters of Atlantic City, that Chicago no longer had a bad reputation and that a visitor there was as safe as he would be anywhere in the country. Besides its superior facilities and obvious geographical advantages, Chicago is at that time editor of the Ranger Times.

"What do you think about basketball?" we asked by way of starting a conversation. (As if anyone had to start a conversation with Boyce.)

"As little as possible," he answered in what is probably a record for short answers as far as he is concerned.

ABOUT THIS AND THAT

By W. H. MAYES JR.

Ranger and Abilene are leading the Oil Belt basketball hoop today but it may be a different story tomorrow for the two teams meet tonight at Abilene.

By winning from Elvasville Friday night by a score of 47 to 42, the Eagles remained in the lead with Ranger, who won from Albany by a score of 28 to 24. Other teams in the district have not engaged in basketball games to date but scheduled games tonight, Friday and Saturday will get the percentage column well filled.

The Buckaroos over Breckenridge way are having some trouble getting started, due to the fact that Coach Shotwell has refused to play men who cut classes and practice and then show up for the games. The best men are said to have been benched because they refuse to practice and the players who come out regularly are the ones who are seeing service this year, regardless of how well they can play the game. The Buckaroos, considered a strong team at the outset, is now rated as having little chance, if the practice is continued, and Coach Shotwell is quoted as being very determined on that point.

It is high time that the sanitary department of the city took this matter in hand and made adequate arrangements for having the trash dumped somewhere else than on

Citizens School Tax Committee in Meeting Tuesday

Members of the citizens school tax committee met in the office of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce today to discuss further plans for aiding in securing payment of delinquent and current taxes in order that the schools might be kept open for the full year.

Action on the calling of a mass meeting was postponed until next Tuesday in order that returns from the pledge cards mailed recently to all taxpayers might be checked. If enough pledges are received to assure the operation of the schools for the year the mass meeting will not be necessary.

A tentative date of Jan. 15 has been set for the meeting, which will be prior to the closing of the present semester.

EL PASO.—After long reflection, Dr. C. L. Sonnichsen, professor of English at the College of Mines, has arrived at the decision that co-educational schools are fine things—for girls.

"But they're not so good for men," he added.

He hinted that while a mixed student body gives a girl a chance to land a husband, it distracts a boy's mind from the serious business of acquiring an education.

Dr. Sonnichsen has maintained his bachelorhood after many years as student and teacher in co-ed institutions.

Lone Star Loop Is Formed By Texas Colleges

By United Press.
DALLAS—Formation of the Lone Star conference was viewed by followers as apparently the latest step in the Texas colleges to re-trench athletic competition.
Trinity University's season in the Texas conference was one of the other colleges under the aegis of the Lone Star organization, the upheaval was confined solely to the ranks of the many members of Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association.
For several seasons several T. I. A. A. members had sought to do something constructive in the way of reorganizing the conference. In 1930 the members, and there were 11, agreed to split the association into two divisions, eastern and western.
Abilene Christian college and McMurry college of Abilene; Daniel Baker college of Brownwood; West Texas Teachers college of Canyon; Sul Ross Teachers college of Alpine; made up the western division.
Sam Houston Teachers college of Huntsville; San Marcos Teachers college of San Marcos; East Texas Teachers college of Commerce; North Texas Teachers college of Denton; Stephen F. Austin Teachers college of Nacogdoches and the College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville were the eastern division members.
That order was followed during the 1931 grid season. It, apparently, failed to prove satisfactory. Sam Houston, San Marcos, East Texas, North Texas and Stephen F. Austin banded together to form the Lone Star conference. Trinity quit the Texas conference fold to join them.
Many Texas miles were bound up in the gigantic T. I. A. A. The southernmost member was at Kingsville, North, south, east, west and central Texas were represented by member schools. The T. I. A. A. record sheets today carry unshattered marks of athletes who performed for schools which now are powers in the Southwest conference.
The Lone Star conference, its members contend, is compact. It will permit the drawing of schedules through which all of its members may meet in athletic competition. That was next to impossible

THREE KINDS of LOVE
BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Ann, Cecily and Mary-Frances Fenwick live with their grandparents. The sisters have been orphaned since childhood. The grandparents—known as "Rosalie" and "Grand"—have long since lost their wealth and the household is supported by Ann's and Cecily's earnings. For this reason, Ann, 28, and Philip Ercroyd, young lawyer, are still postponing their marriage though they have been engaged for eight years.
Cecily, 22, is in love with Barry McKee, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name the wedding date because she cannot leave Ann with the financial responsibility of the home.
Mary-Frances, 15, and still in school, strikes up an acquaintance with Earl De Armount, stock company actor. She meets him secretly on several occasions.
Cecily tells Ann that Barry has proposed. Next morning he comes early to drive Cecily to her office. Again he urges Cecily to marry him at once.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIV
"No," Cecily said, "I don't like 'em revised."
"Yes, but you don't like my flights of fancy anyway, do you?" Barry asked.
"Love 'em. Lap 'em up and lick 'em lips. But I get so embarrassed I have to go flippant. Would you rather I didn't use a lip-stick?"
"Golly, no. Not if you like it. You know better than I do about feminine fixings, and it isn't my business, anyhow."
"Would you like it if I'd let my hair grow a little longer? These boyish jobs are clear out, you know."
"I would not," he said.
"I'd been thinking about letting it grow. It curls up when it's longer."
"Great! Sort of a shame to hide those flat like ears—but you'd know best about that."
"I've always wanted to wear earrings, but my family doesn't like them."
"Will you let me get you a pair for a present? What sort would you like?"
"Do you like earrings?"
"Eliminate them—at least I do on other girls. I suppose they'd be swell in your years, if you liked them."
She put back her head and laughed. "Dear, you aren't precisely difficult, are you?"
"But dumb. Very dumb. I came to meet you this morning—well, for every reason, of course; but chiefly to ask you a question. I haven't asked it yet. He paused, to sing softly, "I must be very wet, for I haven't asked it yet, dressed in my best suit of clothes." These are my best, you know. These aren't my others. These are my Sunday. What was I talking about?"
"Nothing," said Cecily wickedly.
"There you go. That's the trouble. You throw me off. The moment I look at you I get swacked with joy—I'd no idea that being in love would be like this. But the minute I get away from you I go cold sober. And I can't even remember what happened. Now I know that last night I asked you to marry me. I have that down for certain. And I know that you wouldn't say when. But you did say you would, didn't you, sweet? It kept me awake all night. I could not remember what I'd said when I asked you, and I could not remember any time when you'd said, 'Yes.' Still, I reasoned that it must have happened in some sort of order, and that you couldn't have refused me, or I wouldn't have been too happy to use the bean at all."
She thought for a minute. "Barry, dear, you think that I'm right about my appearance and all that—you think that I know best. Won't you think that I know best about my—well, my inner self, too? Won't you wait for a while before we begin to talk about marrying—a month or so, at least? Won't you do that, dear, because that is what I wish?"
He thought longer than a minute, much longer, before he answered: "I don't like it, Cecily, being put on probation—something of that sort. It would be black lace hat with the purple pendants beneath the brim was not to blame. Laurence Hope's poetry had been highly recommended to her by a toutsish person whom she held in esteem and called "Boy-o." She had taken the red volume from the shelves of the public library, had dipped into it, had decided— for one reason or another—that it was not for her, had risen hurriedly from the chair, and had left the book lying where she had pushed it away from her on the table.

It was frightful mischance, merely, that caused Mary-Frances to find the thing there. Again, for one reason or another, but probably because it rhymed so tidily straight through—"mine, wine, heights, nights, desire, fire, rest, breast," like that—and undoubtedly because it was silly and did not make sense to her, Mary-Frances decided that it was for her and had it charged out on her library card.
She chose a night in May, when the straight and cold of the neighborhood's pink roses, and a small new moon swam, smiling, on its back in the sky, to recite to Earl DeArmount—No matter. It is not worth quoting, and the (Continued on page 4)

Texas Farmers Begin Plans For Crop of Turkeys

By United Press.
CUERO, Tex.—For the average American, the holiday turkey has ended in soup and hash, but for the Texas producer of the festive bird, things have just started.
Now the producer already is laying plans to raise next year's crop of birds to grace well laden tables at Thanksgiving and the Christmas holidays in 1932. This great American bird may sink into oblivion for most people but for the producer he still is very important.
Farmers and commercial growers keep back from 3 1/2 to 4 million turkeys annually to use as breeders for next year's crop, from which they raise more than 20,000,000 turkeys a year. Texas as a leading turkey growing state, now is giving attention to these birds that have escaped the holiday axe.
Two marked trends have been recorded in the turkey industry during the past few years. One is the switch from individual to commercial hatching. This method provides for the turkey eggs being hatched in incubators or the young turkeys being bought after they are hatched.
The other trend is the large increase in production in the states of the northwest, notably the Dakotas and Montana. Other states which are large turkey producers are Missouri, Oklahoma, California, Kentucky and Virginia.
Turkey raisers in the territory around here and Brady, another large turkey dressing center, have had a good year comparatively. From this central section of Texas approximately 300 cars of the dressed birds have been marketed, representing in round figures $1,500,000. The entire crop of Texas will bring to the men raising the birds between four and five millions of dollars.
Another factor in the development of large-scale turkey production has been the discovery that blackhead, the disease which formerly made heavy inroads on turkey flocks, can be controlled by sanitation. This knowledge and the new procedure in hatching turkeys with incubators has made turkey-raising practical on a large scale.
In the old days, turkey hens were allowed to "steal their nests" in the weeds or woods and a month or so later emerge with a flock of young turkeys. Sometimes a turkey hen would be missing for several months but in the fall would appear with a flock of nearly grown turkeys.
The practice of letting a chicken hatch and raise the young turkeys is not advisable, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says. Chickens, although themselves resistant to the blackhead disease, may give it to young turkeys, who are very susceptible to it.
The Japanese government learned that several Japanese warships had mysteriously left for Manchurian waters. One of these days the Japanese government is going to find out a lot of its generals are doing something or other over there.

McMillan Urges Honors for Peary's Negro Assistant

By United Press.
CHICAGO.—Recognition for Matthew A. Henson, negro, the sole survivor in civilization of Peary's march to the North Pole is recommended by Donald B. McMillan, Arctic explorer.
"Any white man who had done what Henson has done," said McMillan, "would have been covered with medals. Twenty-three years ago he and Henson have received a degree from an eastern college. If it is race prejudice which has stood in the way of honoring Henson for his arctic work, I believe that any geographic society, by defying criticism, should honor Henson for his arctic work and honor on itself than upon the negro."
"Peary," he concluded, "took Henson with him and sent us back because Henson was the best man."

Texans Battle In Court Over Rich Oil Bearing Land

AUSTIN.—Title to 3,600 acres, on which is located the world's largest gusher in the Yates oil field, will be at stake in a lawsuit set for trial here Jan. 18. Total values are estimated between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000.
The disputed land was declared a vacancy by the state, which contended survey lines were not inclusive, and sold to Ira Yates for $1.50 per acre in 1920. With the discovery of vast mineral wealth, the state school fund has derived a large royalty from all production. The record gusher, which made 206,000 barrels daily when wide open, is situated on the disputed tract.
Heirs of the late R. B. Whiteside took up his fight to set aside a land commissioner's ruling that the land was a vacancy. The state rejoined with a suit here to quiet title.
Original tracts have been put up into leases. A total of 173 defendants now are named.

Fewer, Less Severe Colds With "Colds-Control" Plan

Discovery By Makers of Vicks VapoRub Makes Possible Better "Control-of-Colds" in the Home.
HIGH COSTS REDUCED
Relief from much of the burden imposed by colds is now available in every home. The Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" lessens the number, the severity and the duration of colds. It reduces the family's "Colds-Tax" in money, loss of time and health.
A New Vicks Discovery
This Plan has been perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub—made possible by Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea for "preventing" colds, this new Vicks formula is an ideal companion to VapoRub, the modern way of "treating" colds. Used together, they aid and supplement each other in the Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds," which follows:
1.—Before a Cold Starts
Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold, such as—
Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhalng smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when you are over-tired.
Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.
2.—After a Cold Starts
At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.
If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)
During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing" which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.
Trial Offer Guarantee.
Every druggist in the United States is offering Vicks Nose & Throat Drops and Vicks VapoRub on the following trial guarantee: Use together as directed in the Vicks Plan for better "Control-of-Colds." Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

Orchid That Eats Meat On Display At Golden Florist

Probably the strangest plant known throughout the world, the meat-eating orchid, is now on display at the Golden Florist in Ranger.

The plant has a cobra-like appearance with long fronds that extend up from the pot in which it is placed and end in a hooded head much like the famous cobra of India.

When the plant becomes hungry it lets one know by closing the two appendages that extend down from the hood. A small piece of meat, preferably beef, is placed in the mouth of the hooded head of the tallest frond and the meat is "swallowed" by the plant, going down the hollow stem to a place near the roots, where the meat is absorbed by a liquid substance and the plant obtains its substance. Within six hours the meat is "digested" and the two appendages open again. The plant is fed a piece of beef the size of a pea about once each four to six weeks.

During the summer months the plant lives on flies and other insects that are attracted to the mouth under the hooded head. These insects are trapped by a series of needle-like appendages that protrude downward in the throat of the plant, preventing them from getting away.

Many tales have been told of these plants being ferocious and attacking people, but this is not the case. They thrive on a diet of child had not the faintest idea what she was talking about. Earl's response is the only thing of importance connected with that particular evening.

"Oh, Earl," said he, and, "Aw, gee, hon! Aw, gee—I don't know as you ought to rave like that. Frankie sure suits you for a name. Frank—see? And yet so pure and innocent and all. I ain't worthy to touch the soles of your feet—see? On the square I ain't. And yet, something, you women like woman grown and other times like a little bitis—" he paused, fastidiously desirous for pertinency of diction—"cutie baby girlie, and I guess that's what's got me kind of going about you—see? And you feeling like you just said about me, and all, it seems kind of mean to go and leave you, specially since I got no prospects in sight elsewhere at present date."

The Stephen G. Sperry Players, after an unfortunate few weeks in the Hong Kong Moving Picture Theater, had been supplanted by the Crazy Crooning Combers, and "unable to make other satisfactory contracts, were resting indefinitely."

But for three breathless Friday nights Mary-Frances had gone with Ermintrude and Mr. and Mrs. Hill—needless to mention the elder Hill's ignorance of plot, design, or motive—and had sat with pounding heart and parted lips and watched Earl moving about among people who were in the highest of high society. He was debonair. He was dauntless with tea-colored decaunters; he opened doors for ladies who were going to night and country clubs; he rang for butlers; he did and said, in fact—if clumsily—all the things that the Reggies and Geoffs and Ferdies always do and say in Mrs. Mayfairing's morning room, or Captain Starkweather's library, Time the Present. And Mary-Frances had an obedient memory and an energetic imagination.

"Oh, Earl," she now protested, "I wouldn't come between you and your professional career—not for anything in the world. You'll just have to go. Duty calls you, and everything. But neither distance nor anything can part us, and we'll never, never forget; and, in time, we'll be reunited."
