SOVIET RUSSIA CLAIMS SECOND PLACE

Soviet Russia is ranked by the Economic Review of the Soviet Union, published by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, second only to the United States in volume of industrial output and national income.

Maco Stewart, a widely known Texan, has been fed up on Russia. He issued a pamphlet not long since in which he said that Russia was the principal competitor of the United States in the lumber industry, the wheat industry, the oil industry, and the Lord knows how many more industries.

SPEAKER GARNER PUTS OVER BILLION DOLLAR BILL

Speaker Garner demonstrated his ability as a leader when the showdown came on the billion dollar revenue bill. It was a three weeks' battle and its outstanding feature was the revolt of the rough riders who voted the manufactures sales tax out of the bill prepared by the house ways and means committee.

Leading members of the New York stock exchange, in the wake of the passage of the billion dollar revenue measure, took prompt action toward organizing all their forces against the transfer tax on securities already approved by the house of representatives.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Amusing or deplorable as the fact may be, it appears that the elements in the Democratic party which most hate Tammany Hall may have to depend on Tammany to put over their candidate at the Chicago convention.

It is possible that Governor Roosevelt of New York can win a nomination without the 94 votes of New York state, which will be in the pocket of John F. Curry, the boss of Tammany. And it is possible that those 94 delegates will never be in the Roosevelt column.

But at this moment the indication is that the 94 delegates, although they will go to Chicago unopposed, will be found in the Roosevelt column on the first ballot. And, if they are found in the Roosevelt column on the first ballot, they probably will make all the difference in the world. At a time when every politician is wondering how many more or less than a majority Roosevelt can summon on the first two or three ballots, a solid, controlled block of 94 becomes of enormous importance!

Curry May Decide It

The Roosevelt forces may or may not need it for the big push, but I find it increasingly hard to see how the die-hard Roosevelt opponents can possibly stop the governor without it. The delegation will definitely be dominated by Curry, in a combination with bosses adjacent to the Tammany territory and in certain counties upstate. Curry's domination means that he can make it vote unanimously under the unit rule, which he has promised to do.

The purest facets of information say that Curry now figures on supporting Roosevelt. But, acting the part of a wise boss, he leaves himself free to act in accordance with possible developments by seeing to it that the delegates go unopposed.

Among present indications that the Roosevelt forces are not worrying about Mr. Curry is the fact that they are making no effort to disturb his plans. Originally they asserted confidently that New York's 94 votes would be in the Roosevelt column, under formal advance instructions.

Strength in West and South

The most eager feature of the situation is that the vast bulk of the Roosevelt strength is in the west and south, sections which have abhorred and fought Tammany for many decades, and that the backbone of the Roosevelt opposition is among powerful bosses of the east, with whom Tammany would normally be expected to be found allied.

Wet, graft-ridden eastern Tammany apparently is to run in harness with the dry, Progressive westerners and the dry conservative southerners on the band wagon of the wet, comparatively progressive eastern Roosevelt—probably over the bodies of the wet reactionary eastern politicians. That's about as close as one can come to expressing it.

He's No Pal of Al's

CURRY is no bosom friend of Al Smith and certainly is no party to any plan Al may have for being nominated this year. Nobody's fool, Curry sees neither the wisdom nor the necessity of going for Smith when everyone knows Smith will not be nominated.

Nor does Curry as yet see any nourishment in joining the other bosses who want to block Roosevelt. Roosevelt is not unpopular with the Tammany leaders. Some of them, at least, prefer him as governor to Smith. Al has great strength among the organization's rank and file and can cause trouble in any city or state election if he tries, but his only chance to line up the New York delegation to the convention was by a strong, open effort which he did not make.

Slight Chance for Break

CURRY'S idea seems to be that he will support Roosevelt at Chicago with those 94 votes unless the governor becomes unnecessarily hostile to Tammany. Roosevelt shows no signs of becoming unduly belligerent.

He fired a Tammany sheriff, but has refused, on what he and his followers consider good grounds, to remove certain other officials. Although he has refused to grab a flaming sword and utter a "clean up" Tammany, he has thus far handled the situation created by the Seabury investigation without alienating Tammany or his own Tammany-hating supporters.

Since possibilities remain that Roosevelt will get into a fight with Mr. Curry and Tammany or that other anti-Roosevelt bosses will get to work on Mr. Curry successfully, Roosevelt probably will get the nomination—with important help from Mr. Curry.

Heaton said he ordered her to put down the gun and when she failed to do so he shot it from her hand. They said her husband appeared just as his wife was shot, returned to a back room for a shotgun and fired a charge of buckshot at Smith. Smith said he escaped by dropping behind a counter and then killed McGlothlin with a shot to the body.

During the disturbance Cox made his escape. Mrs. Cox came to Dallas to the hospital with the wounded woman. Deputy Administrator Cooper ordered the agents under arrest not to talk with newspapermen. Heaton, with another federal officer, was the subject of a federal grand jury investigation at Wichita Falls last fall when Kelly Hunt, charged in a liquor case, testified that he had entered into a bribe agreement with the two agents. The grand jury gave the agents a clean bill after an investigation and indicted Hunt on perjury charges.

OIL COMPANIES MEETING CRUDE PRICE ADVANCE

CHICAGO, April 9.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana today announced an advance of 15 cents a barrel in its crude oil prices in Kansas, Oklahoma and North and Central Texas, effective Monday, and warned that gasoline prices may have to be boosted to maintain the higher price for crude oil.

HOUSTON, April 9.—Advised that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana had announced a 15-cent per barrel price increase for crude oil in several mid-continent fields, W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil & Refining Company, a Standard subsidiary, today said Humble did not plan to follow suit.

Other than asserting Humble would adhere to its present price schedule, he would make no statement. PORT WORTH, April 9.—Collapse of the $1 crude oil price level in mid-continent area was predicted by Charles F. Roesser, president of the Texas Oil & Gas Conservation association, unless the Humble company agrees to demands to boost its prices.

"The situation will reach a climax by the middle of next week," Roesser predicted. "Either other companies will go down to Humble's prices of Humble will come up to theirs. Humble's prices always have been too low."

TULSA, Okla., April 9.—Carter Oil company, Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary, has not determined whether it will meet the 15-cent barrel oil price advance in the mid-continent area, the company advised the United Press today.

Says Silver Lining Can Be Seen in Depression Cloud

By HAROLD E. RAINVILLE, United Press Staff Correspondent. CHICAGO.—Carl D. Thompson, secretary of the Public Ownership League of America, believes there is a "silver lining" inside the depression clouds that overhang the business world.

Thompson believes the depression has provided the country a valuable lesson by proving that "the only hope of tax-burdened people lies in public ownership of utilities, gas, electric, transportation and power."

As proof that privately owned utilities have suffered, Thompson pointed to numerous applications by such concerns to state commissions for permission to raise rates.

"On the other hand," he said, "municipally owned utilities throughout the country not only are weathering the depression, but are actually, in many cases, carrying the additional burdens of unemployment and heavy taxes created or made necessary by unsettled conditions."

In 65 towns, Thompson said, taxes have been eliminated because of revenue from municipally owned utilities. Among these are Ponca City, Okla., population 16,136, and Chanute, Kan., population 9,829.

Individuals profit as much, correspondingly, as do towns and cities, from municipal ownership, Thompson said. From the citizen's standpoint, the first advantage is not in the total profits, but in the saving for himself, said the secretary.

One reason, he said, why municipally owned utilities can provide cheaper rates than those privately owned, is they are operated at cost, with no intention of making a profit. Also, cities can borrow money for less than private organizations.

Earth Tremors Felt In Texas

MEXIA, Texas, April 9.—Residents here and at surrounding towns were aroused at 4:13 a. m. today by an earth tremor which rattled windows and shook houses but apparently did no damage. Telephone operators at Teague, 15 miles east, and Wortham, 10 miles north, also felt the shock at the time.

Hayden Neal, prominent Ranger citizen, when approached by a Times reporter Saturday, stated emphatically he would not be a candidate for justice of the peace in the July primary.

COMPRESS BURNS. By United Press. MARLIN, Texas, April 9.—Fire loss at the Exporters & Traders compress was estimated at $250,000 today. A blaze which started yesterday afternoon, destroyed the plant and 8,000 bales of cotton and damaged more. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

SOUND is produced by vibrations. If you sound a certain note near a piano, it will bring forth a sound of the same key from one of the piano strings. Objects, under a strain, are sensitive to a certain pitch. In this way a glass sometimes vibrates and falls to pieces at the sound of its own keynote.

Ranger Girl Is On Honor Roll At Baylor Univ.

New Mode of Wrestling Will Be On Elks' Card

J. B. Heister, matchmaker and promoter for the Elks athletic show, announced today that he was getting a good card lined up for the fights for Monday night, April 18.

Wheat Goes Up On Board of Trade

CHICAGO, April 9.—Wheat rose 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents higher on the Chicago board of trade today. The government report of a winter wheat shortage of 319,000,000 bushels was the principal factor.

Several good boxers have expressed a desire to get on "board" but to date have not been lined up for the bouts. An attempt was made to get Reno here to wrestle Bobby Novack, but he could not be secured until a later date. Tuffy Mcullen will be down to wrestle with Novack, however, and this should prove to be a wrestling match well worth seeing, Heister says.

W. H. Clarke Adds Equipment To His Auto Repair Shop

"Anticipating that many automobile owners will want to make their car last another year, we have been busy recently adding equipment to our shop which will make it possible for us to make this possible for a reasonable cost," said W. H. Clarke of the Clarke Radiator and Body Works of Ranger. He has just installed a power woodworking machine which is a combination band saw, ripper, planer and jointer and with which he can duplicate any wooden piece for any automobile body. Not only is woodwork damaged and broken in weeks, but frequently it rots out due to moisture getting to it, according to Clarke. He said there are few cars which have been driven regularly for a year or two but what have some of the woodwork rotten.

The shop also does radiator work, painting and top work, makes seat covers and has a power press for straightening axles and wheels.

The very hardy Iceland poppies, which are short lived perennials, scattered on the soil now, will make blooming plants this fall and bloom until hard freezes. They are fine cutting material.

The Newfangles (Mom 'n' Pop) By Cowan

EASTLAND CHURCHES

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER CHURCH. Mass at 10 a. m. This is the second Sunday after Easter and the Gospel read today is taken from St. John 10:11-16. Christ had given sight to a man born blind. John 9: This miracle, which caused a great sensation, had come to the ears of the Pharisees, who summoned the man to appear before them. When he attested the miracle, and defended Christ against their unjust accusations, they became so angry and enraged that they cursed him and expelled him as an apostate from the Jewish church. By this action the Pharisees showed themselves to be bad shepherds, who, instead of keeping the sheep together and protecting them, scatter and kill them. From this the divine Savior took occasion to bring before them the parable of the good shepherd which is the parable of this day's Gospel. Christ showed himself the good shepherd by laying down his life for his sheep--the whole human race. Let us appreciate this infinite love by following as far as we are able the teachings of Christ.

EASTLAND PERSONALS

Mrs. J. U. Johnson is improving rapidly following an operation several days ago at the Payne hospital. Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins had as visitors this week Mrs. Bertha Davis, Mrs. Emmett Eterbrook and Miss Adley Yeaton, cousins of Mrs. Perkins, of Worcester, Mass. They were returning to their home from a visit in California and will be remembered by friends as having visited here two years ago. Doc Sellers, publisher of the Rising Star Record was a visitor in Eastland Saturday.

The new South African annuals do well in a more gentle climate than their native land affords and can be tried safely. They are brilliant and beautiful.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS By Blosser

the CRUMMERS BY MADELL MELLONI

"I wanted to tell you something," Bob said. "You must know--you must have guessed before this--"

BEGIN HERE TODAY SUSAN CAREY, who lives with her AUNT JESSIE on Chicago's west side, has an unpleasant experience when she applies for her first job. BOB DUNBAR, millionaire's son whom Susan had met at business school, courted her. She secured employment as secretary to ERNEST HEATH, prominent architect. BEN LAMP-MAN, a moody young admirer of Susan's, invites her to a studio party given by some Bohemian friends. Susan does not enjoy the party and wishes to see a man again. Weeks pass and the girl is lonely. JACK WARING, Ben's assistant and divorced, shows the girl attentions but she refuses his invitations. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER X ON the way home in the hard brightness of the street car Ben said, "That's the way to live. Like Sonya and Arnold. Free and easy." Susan stared at him. "You like that?" Ben moved impatiently. "Oh, I knew what you'd say. I know the apartment's kind of messy. But there's not tied down. They live their own lives and have a good time." Susan felt a hysterical impulse to laugh but she restrained herself. She had thought the whole crowd, the Strinskys and their unwashed friends (with the exception of that exotic blossom, Denise), dreadful people. She let her hand lie limply in Ben's warm one as he parted. "I can't ask you to come in," Susan said gently. "Aunt Jessie's gone to bed. Thank you for taking me to the party." Ben muttered, "Wanted you to meet the crowd. You'll like them better when you know them. They're real people." Susan withdrew her hand. "Good night, then," she said, avoiding his not, uncomfortable gaze. He called after her, "I'll phone you." Susan waved to him through the screen door, glad the tiresome evening was over. There was something almost frightening about Ben's intensity. Even when he had talked of the Strinskys' romance he had made it seem a personal matter. Those dreadful people! Their way of living might seem ideal to Ben Lampman but it certainly did not to Susan. She would not go there again! BUT as summer waxed and waned the girl almost regretted her decision. Chicago's Bohemia might not be the social background she desired but loneliness was hard to bear and the warm nights brought with them an aching sense of missing something. Rose Milton went to Sweetbrier Lake for two weeks and wrote back glowing accounts of her conquests. She sent snapshots of herself, the center of a merry mixed group. Susan, tossing sometimes on a hot and disordered bed, listening to the raucous music of the radio next door, would wonder about life. She was 19, not unattractive, intelligent. What promise was there ahead for her? Even if she held the job at Ernest Heath's (and it looked as if she might, with Miss O'Connell's convalescence lengthening out) what had she to look forward to? Next year she might get $22 a week. In five years she might even be making $35. Well, what then? She would stay on with Aunt Jessie in the cottage. She would be 25, she would be 30, 35. She would begin to wear eyeglasses and go to lectures in the evening with some workman friend. She would be one of the brave, ever-increasing army of unmarried women workers in the Loop district. They had their two weeks' vacation, their one presentable suit. They wore neat, sensible shoes and devoted themselves wholeheartedly to the concern for which they labored. Susan said to herself that it wouldn't be so bad if the average secretary could see herself getting ahead as a young man might, using the office as a stepping stone to higher places. The typical girl worker, however, poured her energy, her sympathy and her intelligence into the job and unless she met with exceptional luck or extraordinary favoritism she might work 10, 15, 20 years without any recognition beyond the weekly pay envelope whose sum remained discouragingly small. SHE was young, she was lonely, she was good. Sometimes during those warm, disturbing summer nights Susan wondered if it paid. She wondered if she might not, some day, answer the invitation in Jack Waring's eyes. She wondered if that seat in his sport roadster might not prove altogether too alluring some evening. Susan hoped not but she wondered. The telephone rang one morning when she was alone in the office. "Hello, Miss Carey?" The girl's heart, for no good reason, began to beat thickly and uncomfortably. "This is Bob Dunbar. Be an angel and have lunch with me. At one o'clock. How about the Blackstone?" Susan hung up the receiver with a gasp. The Blackstone, and she was wearing her old pink shantung! Well, her hat was new. It was a little rose pink straw she had picked up on a basement counter for $1.50. You would never have guessed the price. In a fever of excitement she waited for Pierson to come back to relieve her. With trembling fingers she pressed the small hat into place. If only she had known, if only she had guessed he was going to call her! She might have had a manœuvre. She might have worn her more sophisticated blue crepe. She might have done a thousand things! Dissatisfied, almost in tears, at last she picked up her hand bag and turned to go. Pierson's whining voice followed her. "Don't forget to be back by two, sharp. Mr. Heath has that categorical estimate he wants to draw up."
