"Guilty As Hell" Turns Its Murder Thrills to Laughs

A new sort of murder story, with a comedy turn is "Guilty As Hell," featuring Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen, and Richard Arlen, which opens Thursday at the Arcadia theatre in Ranger.

The picture, adapted from the successful stage play which ran for many months last season on Broadway, makes sport of the conventional murder thriller by never taking itself particularly seriously. It is excellent entertainment, for this reason alone, but the additional fact that the Lowe-McLaglen type of comedy graces it makes it even better.

The audience sees a murder committed as the picture opens, and then sees McLaglen and Lowe, cast as a detective and a reporter, respectively, trying to solve it. They bungle amusingly, but finally succeed, just in time to save Arlen, incriminated by circumstantial evidence, but guiltless from the gallows.

McLaglen and Lowe battle each other, but remain the firmest of friends, just as they did in "What Price Glory?" and "The Cockeyed World," and "Women of All Nations." They're one of the best comedy teams in pictures today, and in the new type of roles they handle in "Guilty As Hell" they're even better than in the past.

Arlen is excellent as the suspect, and Adrienne Ames, as the girl over whom McLaglen and Lowe battle, is just the sort you'd be willing to battle for yourself.

Mastodon's Tusk Found In Texas

By United Press. BRONTE, Tex. — Projecting from the bank of the Colorado River, three miles southeast of here, is a horn-shaped object geologists have identified as a mastodon's tusk.

The specimen is four and a half feet long, curved, and eight inches in diameter at the larger end. The relic of the Pleistocene Age has been covered with canvas pending a decision by San Angelo geologists whether to salvage the fossil.

for LOVE or MONEY

CELESTE sat down slowly. "Yes," she said at last, "I will tell you. Why not? Oh, it is nothing! I fell in love with him. Maybe you think I am young?" She drew herself up proudly. "I am sixteen! I met Barry when he went to Barbuda. Hunting. I was there with my father. Barry was there in his what-you-call? Motor sledge. Ah yes! He and another gentleman. A dark man. They came to Barbuda—" "Barbuda?" "Another island." There was a lilting note in the girl's voice. "Barbuda, where gentlemen go to hunt. Oh, a darling island, planted—is that correct?—with game. A beautiful place. The ancients who owned it used to breed fine slaves there. Only the loveliest of them remained. The others were sold. For generations the slaves from Barbuda excelled in beauty. They brought high prices.

THIEF RETURNS WATCH. By United Press. PROVIDENCE, R. I.—A thief who stole James Brown's watch became conscious-stricken a week later and left it on Brown's doorstep.

HERE--- AND THERE

Now that school is so soon to open, and children will be trudging away from home with their books under arms five days of every week, mothers are thinking of their interests and planning for their comfort to a far greater extent than she usually has time to indulge during the busy vacation season.

The time has long passed when children were taught to read, write and spell, by the memorizing system, and this is rather a sad thing in a way. Visual education seems to be the fad, and it is a fact that we have been with children, who could read their primer but could not repeat the alphabet correctly.

And multiplication tables seem to have had the same kind of fate. There was a time when a child could rattle off the multiplication table without a break or error, when called upon, any time or anywhere.

But that is not the case today, with but few exceptions. And spelling seems to be almost a lost art with many children.

They are quick enough to give the diacritical marks, and classifications, but just watch how many young girls and boys write their letters, take dictation on the machine, or do other secretarial work, with a dictionary in one hand, or at least nearby, and a pencil in the other.

It is a fact that nine out of 10 young people who apply for jobs of taking dictation, cannot spell correctly.

Now what is the reason for this? Certainly we have earnest and well trained teachers, and surely this condition can be through no fault of theirs.

And now we come to classroom teaching, by means of talking motion pictures, an innovation, introduced by the University of Chicago.

There is no doubt that there are large possibilities in the use of the motion picture for colleges, but visual education is not new. Go into any school, even in Eastland, and you will find the teacher has illustrated the subject in hand with blackboard drawings, designs and other means of picturizing the subject under study.

The advantage of the motion picture teaching would lie, in difficult and rare experiments that could be recorded in sound, as well as sight, and this one demonstration, shown in thousands of classrooms.

There is no doubt that the moving picture educational system is coming. It will be too expensive for the smaller towns for the next few years but, even then, special films may be secured or rented, for a timely lesson, which otherwise would cost far more if a trained scientist or teacher had to be brought to the town, for some particular lecture on any subject.

Board Meeting Called.
Mrs. J. C. Patterson, president of the Civic League of Eastland, has called a meeting of the board of officers for 9:30 a. m., Thursday in community clubhouse.

Each one is earnestly urged to be present, as important matters are to be discussed, and plans for the new year matured.

Social Affairs That Were Cancelled Account of Storm.
The Home Makers class picnic, announced for Tuesday evening in city park, was cancelled on account of the rain. Everything had been prepared for a delightful evening, and quite a disappointment was experienced as the picnic could not be held.

The Nettowep group meeting of Camp Fire Girls was called off, both on account of the storm and also, due to the girls being actively engaged in planning for their outing, upon which they are supposed to have embarked this morning.

The open meeting for Thursday Afternoon Study club members had a very slim attendance, as the storm broke just at the time the reception was held.

The Methodist church Sunday school class picnic outing, at Lake Trianon, Olden, was held within doors instead.

The picnic to have been given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Church of God, at power plant lake, was cancelled, and will be held later.

The Church of the Nazarene, W. F. M. S.
The Women's Foreign Missionary society met Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for an interesting lesson of faith.

After several songs were sung, Mrs. Greer led the opening prayer. Mrs. Anderson read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews. Other Scriptures were read and discussed also. It was a very appropriate lesson at this time.

As the revival starts Friday evening, Sept. 2, and we need faith to pray for the success of the revival. The meeting was dismissed with several voluntary prayers.

Those present were Misses L. C. Anderson, B. M. Bridges, Charles Covington, H. T. Stiffler, M. E. Greer.

Delightful Evening Picnic in Church.
The picnic party tendered by the officers of the Sunday school class of Methodist church, honoring those students in the class who are leaving soon for college, was held Tuesday night, in the Sunday school classroom of the Methodist church, instead of following their original plan of a trip to Lake Trianon, at Olden, and a picnic supper on the beach. The change of plan was due to the storm of Tuesday evening.

The honorees were Miss Beth Judkins, who leaves soon for Weatherford college; Miss Frances Harrell, who goes to Ranger Junior College; Miss Hazel Tilley, who will attend Tyler college, and Robert McGlamery, who will be a student at Weatherford college.
Others present were Misses Hazel Harrell, Doris Fields, Bernice Dulin, Doris Van Geem, Bernice Johnson, Ellen Francis, Eloise Ligon; Clyde Chaney, Ralph Mahon, Darrell Tully, all members of the department; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Newman, accompanied by Joyce and Edgar Newman; the superintendent of the department, Mrs. Iola Mitchell, and Mrs. B. E. McGlamery, who with Mr. Newman are teachers of the department.

Thursday Club Open House Tuesday Afternoon.
Members of the Thursday Afternoon Study club were received from 4 to 6 by the library committee for the club, Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, Mrs. M. C. Hayes and Mrs. B. M. Collier, in the community clubhouse, Tuesday afternoon, a little reception honoring Miss Joyce Johnson, who gave an interesting talk on the plan of the re-arrangement of the library, and a demonstration of its facilities and filing systems.

Miss Johnson has had charge of these improvements, which meet with the standards of the American Library association.

Her talk was interesting and greatly enjoyed, special credit being given to the groups of the Camp Fire Girls, the Talahi and Nettowep, who have worked hard all summer assisting Miss Johnson in stacking, filing and carrying books, arduous work that is greatly appreciated by the library committee and the Thursday club.

Delightful Contract Bridge Breakfast.
Mrs. Gayland Poe opened her pretty new home on South Seaman street to a group of friends Tuesday, entertaining with a beautifully arranged contract bridge breakfast, at 9 o'clock.

The small tables, linen covered, centered with bouquets of lovely flowers, were appointed for a three-course breakfast of fresh figs with cream, followed by the breakfast plate of fried chicken with baked pineapple, asparagus on toast, hot rolls, coffee, and last course of strawberry preserves.

The combination tally and place cards in floral designs, indicated Mrs. J. B. Leonard, who received as high score favor in contract, a Rosen handkerchief. Mrs. V. E. Chaney, Mrs. Milton Lawrence, Mrs. Donald L. Kinnaird, Mrs. Allen D. Dabney, Mrs. Charles Fagg, Mrs. E. Roy Townsend, Mrs. Frank Killough, Mrs. Jep F. Little, Miss Geraldine Dabney, and house guest, Mrs. Earl Thompson of Gladewater.

Informal.
Mrs. Bryan Brelsford was hostess Tuesday noon at the residence of Mrs. P. G. Russell, to the little card club of which she is a member, entertaining with luncheon, and contract bridge. Those attending were Mrs. Lloyd E. Edwards, a guest of the club, and members, Mrs. P. G. Russell, Mrs. Carl Angstadt, Mrs. James H. Cheatham Jr., Mrs. Theodore Ferguson, Mrs. Alex Clarke, and Mrs. Curtis A. Hertig.

House Guests Entertained With Pretty Bridge Party.
The J. L. Johnson home was opened to the young friends of the daughters of the house, Tuesday night, in honor of the house guests of the Misses Johnson, Miss Ruth Martin of Fort Worth, who spent from Monday to Wednesday with Miss Verno Johnson, and Miss Louise Wolfarth of Lubbock, who has been their guest a few days.

Favors for high score in the game were lovely net party handkerchiefs.
At close of a delightful evening, refreshments of frozen fruit and devils food cake were prettily served by Carolyn Cox and Joan Johnson, who assisted Mrs. J. L. Johnson throughout the evening.

Those present were Misses Wilma Board, Maurine Davenport, Loraine Taylor, Mona Pritchard, Mary Pearl Judkins, Ima Payne, Lucile Brogdon, Ira Payne and guest, Miss Inez Dick of Fort Worth; the Misses Verna, Joyce and Doris Johnson, and honorees, Miss Louise Wolfarth, and Miss Ruth Martin.

Teachers of Presbyterian Sunday School Meet.
The monthly meeting of the teachers of the Presbyterian Sunday school were resumed following the summer vacation, with that of Camp Fire Girls, the Talahi and Nettowep, who have worked hard all summer assisting Miss Johnson in stacking, filing and carrying books, arduous work that is greatly appreciated by the library committee and the Thursday club.

Chesterfield's Standard Demands That No Detail Be Overlooked

One of the most interesting machines in a Chesterfield factory is this almost human "making" machine, which stacks up 750 finished cigarettes a minute.
