GARNER RESOLUTION DIES IN HOUSE Highway Injunction Suit Is Due on Tuesday

PEEPING THRU THE KNOTHOLE with BILL MAYES

W have lots of information of one kind or another that might be of interest but do not know just how it can be connected up, so we will just let it down in the order it comes to mind.

Saturday night we interviewed Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, team doctor for the Bulldogs, to find out a few things about how the members of a team came through the game. He told us of several things that the fans probably did not know.

In the first place the fans knew that the Bulldogs were playing under one serious handicap by having so few men available for the game while Cherry could keep throwing fresh men against them. In spite of this the team made a wonderful showing and looked like a real ball club. In the press box out-of-town scribes marveled at the strength of the team throughout the game, with fresh men continually available from their own bench. They would have pretty big heads today if they could have heard the praise from these scribes.

But Dr. Logsdon told us of a few of the injuries the Bulldogs had suffered and which were another handicap. Some wondered why Lyon was not doing the passing. He went into the game with a chipped bone in his elbow that made it almost impossible to pass. When the game got so far along that it looked like passing was absolutely necessary Lyon took chances on injuring his arm and passed, even against orders from the doctor.

Herbert Love, who played but part of the game, was clipped from behind in the Breckenridge game and was so hamstrung he could not play his position more than a few minutes at a time and then he was slowed up considerably. Besides that he was suffering from tonsillitis and probably should have been in bed.

J. L. Jones had an ingrowing toenail that had to be operated (We think "operated on" is more explanatory, but the doctors say different) and it was doubtful, even on the morning of the game, if he could put on his shoe. Aaron Anderson had a foot ailment caused by a large corn on the bottom of his foot that made every step painful. Two sets of water on the elbow, were some of the other handicaps, but even with these drawbacks he showed wonderful fighting spirit and the Sandies, themselves, said that it was by far the best team they had played in several years.

FERGUSON AND ALLRED NOT IN AGREEMENT

Delay Suggested Until High Court Can Give Decision.

AUSTIN, Dec. 5.—Former Governor James E. Ferguson and Attorney General James V. Allred, who locked horns over an attempt to end activities of the state-highway department by injunction, failed to reach an agreement on future court procedure in a conference here today.

Allred insisted that he will go ahead with his plans and announce ready for trial in 98th district court here tomorrow on Ferguson's application for a permanent injunction against the state highway commission.

A delay had been suggested until the "highest court" could pass upon the temporary injunction, appealed by Attorney General Allred to the Third Court of Civil Appeals here.

The appellate court has not yet ruled upon the appeal. Awards on $4,000,000 worth of road work are being held up, awaiting decision in the litigation.

BULLDOGS MAY PLAY LOBOES CHARITY GAME

Plans are under way in Eastland, Ranger and Cisco for a post-season football game between the Ranger Bulldogs and the Cisco Lobos, to be played in Eastland within the next two weeks, probably on the week before Christmas.

Plans for the game have tentatively been made by O. L. Duckett, worshipful master of the Eastland Lodge No. 467, A. F. & A. M., with the proceeds of the game going to charity, each town retaining the money received for tickets in the town and the receipts at the gate being divided three ways.

A letter has been written to Roy Henderson, director of the interscholastic league, asking if the game could be approved by the league and Mr. Henderson has ruled that the Lobos and Bulldogs could play after the end of the 1932 season. Another letter was written to Mr. Henderson today by R. F. Holloway, superintendent of the Ranger public schools, asking if the season was considered closed at the end of the conference schedule or if the two teams would have to wait until the completion of the state race before they could play. An early reply is expected and final plans will probably be made on receipt of the letter giving the ruling on the end of the football season.

Eastland was picked as the place for the game in order that the three towns could co-operate in holding the charity game. Cisco and Ranger furnishing the football teams and Eastland the field.

R. F. Holloway said today that he was in favor of the game as it would not only draw a good crowd, which would put money in the coffers of the Christmas funds of the three cities, but it would do much to create a feeling of good will between the Cisco, Ranger and Eastland high school teams for the coming football season.

No definite plans have been completed for the game, though school officials in Ranger stated today that they were confident that the contest could be arranged.

World Champion Steer

Largent, is shown behind him, shaking hands with Walter Higger, who came all the way from Scotland to see the show. Largest hails from Merkel, Texas.

VOTE IS FIVE SHORT OF 277 WETS NEEDED

Outright Repeal Killed For the Short Session of Congress.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The house today defeated the Garner resolution for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The house's action was believed to have definitely ended the possibility of congressional approval of prohibition repeal at the present short session.

Speaker Garner announced the vote, which was only five votes short of the two-thirds majority necessary to have carried the resolution.

The vote on repeal was 271 to 144.

When the speaker, his face flushed, but with steady voice made his announcement, a brief cheer came from the house, however a great majority sat silent in their seats.

It was a crushing personal defeat to the new vice president, elect, who almost singlehandedly forced the repeal issue on a sullen and reluctant house.

Texas congressmen, voting for the repeal resolution included Briggs, Buchanan, Cross, Dies, Johnson, Jones, Kleberg, Lanham, Mansfield, Rayburn, Summers, Thomason and Williams. Blanton and Patman voted no.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Garner prohibition repeal resolution weathered its first test of house sentiment today as the democratic leadership mustered full strength for an immediate vote on the proposal.

By a vote of 245 to 121 the house decided to consider the repeal resolution. This came on a technical parliamentary move which, had it been defeated, would have automatically killed further consideration of the resolution.

The opening roll call showed 407 of the 436 members present. Other members appeared later, bringing the total present to 424. The repeals thus faced the necessity of getting 276 votes to acquire the necessary two-thirds majority for passage of the resolution.

Second Relief Check Ready For the County

The second check for $14,492 from the reconstruction finance corporation, through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was mailed Saturday, and will be received today for distribution by the regional unit to the various local units.

Papers have been received to fill out and filed covering the allowance to be available for the first quarter of 1933, which must be in the hands of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce not later than Dec. 11.

There will be a meeting of the county relief committee Thursday at 2 p. m. in the county courtroom at Eastland, when all matters pertaining to the above will be gone into and report submitted at once.

WOMAN DIES AS RESULT OF A GAS BLAST

TAYLOR, Texas, Dec. 5.—Miss Lydia Kevton, 27, died today of burns received in a gas explosion here last night in which one man was killed and two other persons painfully burned.

Louise Kleinmann, 50, of Dallas, owner of a store here, was killed outright by the explosion of the gas, which authorities said had been liberated in the room as a suicide attempt.

Mrs. A. Schwartzbehal, owner of the house, and Oscar Lau, were severely burned.

Lau and Miss Kevton traced an odor in the building to Kleinmann's room. When Lau struck a match to see why he could not insert a key in the door, the blast occurred.

Authorities found a 12-foot length of hose leading from a gas jet in Kleinmann's room to his bed.

Daughter of Sam Houston Is Dead

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Nettie Bringham of San Antonio, the only surviving daughter of General Sam Houston, died today in a local hospital from injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

The accident occurred late Saturday. The automobile in which she was riding left the highway and overturned. A defective tire, which exploded, was believed to be partially responsible for the accident.

Equalization Board of Ranger Completes Work on Renditions

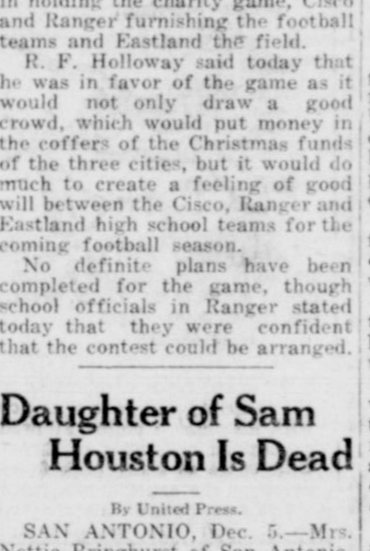

The board of equalization for the Ranger independent school district has completed its task of going over the tax renditions and has made its report to E. A. Ringold, tax assessor and collector.

The report shows that tax renditions have been raised $100,000 in the district, which means that $1,000 more will be available in taxes than during the past year.

Mr. Ringold said this morning that the companies and corporations which owe school taxes for the year 1932 are now paying their taxes, but that the local citizens, with a few exceptions, have not begun to pay their school taxes.

The merchants and citizens of the town have been co-operating with the school teachers, however, he stated, by taking their scrip on merchandise and purchases, though the scrip has not been converted into cash by any of the teachers. As all teachers are being paid on fourth of next month, they are managing to get by, he said, since they have been able to use their scrip on merchandise purchases.

Christmas Customs From FOREIGN LANDS

In Spain, before the family sets out for church on Christmas Eve, children place their shoes in rows on the balcony with straw and grain in them for the horses of the Three Kings, so that the steeds may not go hungry while the Magi are worshipping at the manger. Returning from church, the children find the Three Kings have left toys, candy and coins in the little shoes.

'Ride' Slayers Are Sought By Police

JERRY MALIN, sports scribe of Amarillo, said Saturday night that he had covered a lot of football games this year and that J. L. Jones was by far the outstanding fullback of the state and was an all-state man. He also said that John Bray and Kevin Britt were the best men in their positions he had seen in some time and should be all-state material. He said they were far above any he had seen this year, or last, and he saw the all-state ends and center in action last season.

Jerry said that, with the repeal of the eight semester rule, which would allow John Bray to play another year, there was little doubt that they would both make the all-state next year, even if they didn't this year. He said that Henry Standard, with 10 or 15 more pounds, would have been the best tackle in the state and as it was he was plenty good. He said that, though he had seen few Oil Belt teams in action he was pretty certain that Jones, Bray, Britt, Williams, Lyon and Standard would be on the all-district, which is some selection from one team.

JAP DESTROYER SINKS

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 5.—A 900-ton Japanese destroyer went down in a storm off Foo-Chow, with more than 50 missing, it was announced today. Fourteen were rescued.

Condemnation of Right of Way Is Sought by Attorney

Milburn McCarty went to Palo Pinto Friday with four petitions covering the condemnation of the only tracts of right-of-way not secured for highway 89 and the county judge appointed commissioners four men from in or around Graford in the northern part of Palo Pinto county, who have signified their acceptance.

They met this afternoon and qualified, by taking the customary oath, set date for hearing and issued notices to defendants, J. W. Conway et ux., Joe; J. G. Allen et ux., Flora B.; Cicero Smith Jr. et ux., Lynn Bonney, and Esther Smith Barnhart et vir., H. D.; and F. J. Kohlbau et al.

Ranger Woman Is Buried on Monday

Mrs. Sarah Jane Montgomery, 71, for the past 35 years a resident of Ranger, died at her home Sunday and was to be buried this afternoon at Evergreen cemetery, Rev. Gid J. Bryan, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Ranger, conducting the services.

As far as is known in Ranger she had no living relatives, but had a number of friends in Ranger, particularly among the old settlers, who have known her for many years.

50 Million Asked For Farm Relief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A bill, appropriating $50,000,000 for crop production loans during 1933, was prepared for introduction in the house today by Representative Warren, democrat, from North Carolina.

Letter Praises Bulldogs For Sportsmanship

The following letter, from O. D. Duckett of Eastland, written to R. F. Holloway of Ranger, is self-explanatory and needs no comment:

"Prof. R. F. Holloway, Ranger, Texas.—I want to congratulate you, the coach, the football team, pep squad and the citizens of Ranger for the fine sportsmanship displayed both on the field and off in your game with Amarillo. It is the talk of the district that there has never been a harder fought and at the same time as clean a game. The team to a man, though outnumbered and outweighed, played the game like real men to the very last and we are all proud of them."

PUT OUT GRASS FIRE

The Ranger fire department was called out to a grass fire in the Gholson addition this afternoon about 1:30.

The fire was put out without any damage being done to the surrounding property.

MARCHERS RUN PRIEST OUT OF CAPITOL CAMP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—"Hunger marchers" engaged in the first disorders of their invasion of Washington today as extra police congregated around the white house and the capitol to stop a possible rush of the 3,000 marchers here.

The marchers chased a priest from their camp and then threatened to kill a man they claimed was a "stool pigeon."

Police rescued the latter after the ragged crowd began to beat him. He refused to say who he was.

A Greek orthodox priest previously had entered the camp in the hope of getting some of the marchers to pray. They jeered and told him to "beat it." He walked slowly away, with tears in his eyes.

The marchers spent four cold and uncomfortable hours waiting for breakfast after they had risen from their pillows of shoes on the pavement. A truck finally arrived with apples, bread and coffee.

Police meantime locked the main entrance to the capitol building and subjected every visitor to the closest scrutiny. Officers redoubled their guard around the white house.

Each Lions club will bring one entertainment number.

The order of the program will be banquet; entertainment program; Judge Kuykendall presiding, and short business session following, to be held by various presidents and secretaries of clubs attending.

Legalized Beer Not To Stop Home Brewing and Sale

DALLAS, Dec. 6.—Legalization of 4 per cent beer would stop neither the making or sale of home brew, in the opinion of Lee R. Smith, United States commissioner who has handled hundreds of liquor law violation cases since prohibition.

"Beer drinkers have developed such strong tastes for home brew, which contains from 8 to 20 per cent alcohol, that they will not be content with a malt drink of around 4 per cent," said the commissioner.

"If 4 per cent beer should be made legal in Dallas, I do not believe it would stop the making and sale of the stronger home brew product. Arrests for beer violations undoubtedly would drop considerably, but some people will scorn the weak legal beer and there will be a market for the more potent home brew."

With legal beer, homebrewing will become a much more hazardous undertaking, Smith said. The government then will be concerned with collecting the tax on beer and possibly will not hesitate to enter a home to obtain evidence of violation of the internal revenue laws.

Mrs. P. M. Pritchard Is Buried Sunday

Mrs. P. M. Pritchard, who formerly lived west of Ranger, died Saturday night in Walnut Springs, Texas, and was buried Sunday at necessity.

TORNEBY, Sweden.—A 1,000-year-old gold ring has been found in a field near here, on the Swedish island of Oland, in the Baltic sea. The ring is in good condition, in spite of its great age, and has been turned over to the government historical museum, in Stockholm, by its finder, a farmer by name of Karl Johansson.

Rancher Is Held In Wife's Death

MERCEDES, Texas, Dec. 5.—J. F. Hogan, South Texas rancher, was under murder charges here today following an inquest yesterday of his wife's exhumed body which revealed a skull fracture.

The 54-year-old woman's body was discovered in a shallow grave in a cactus bed on her husband's ranch. She had been missing two weeks. The search was started when the woman's children by another marriage became suspicious.

Officers believed the skull fracture had been caused by a blow from a heavy club. The woman's head, which had been covered with a flour sack, came off in disintegration.

Gas Suit May Not Be Set Until Fall

FORT WORTH.—Appeal of the Lone Star Gas company from a district court decision denying jurisdiction in a suit filed in this city's contest with the gas company over municipal ownership, probably will not be heard until next fall.

An overcrowded docket in the court of civil appeals here will delay action, according to Clerk Jim Scott.

Meanwhile, the city of Fort Worth is proceeding with its appraisal of the Lone Star's system here, preparatory to condemnation proceedings. The appraisal will be completed about Dec. 15, according to A. B. Vickery, city supervisor of public utilities.

3-YEAR-OLD BOY WANDERS.

Character and right living bring their reward and recognition anywhere and any place.

There is within our midst a small, slender, timid and retiring woman, who has quietly walked the paths of duty for all the years of her life...

Heroes and heroines in history have been lauded in poetry and song, great deeds of valor have had epics woven about them.

Yet that greatest deed of all, the giving up of a rosy future, the relinquishing of the call of love and the establishment of a personal home...

Miss Sallie was educated in Sulphur Springs, Hopkins county, Texas, at the Methodist college then located in that city.

Fate and fortune beckoned her to Eastland, her home for 27 years. Still her music teaching continued, and as well her active work in the Baptist Church...

In all the 27 years of her Eastland life, this unselfish woman, gave, during her more active years of her time and talent, to the interests of the Order of the Eastern Star...

These duties were not enough, in connection with the caring for her father, now very enfeebled, and the mothering of her young family...

Her interest in cultural things continued, and when the Alpha Delphian chapter was organized in Eastland, Miss Morris became an active member...

Scene in "Air Mail" Here Today

With Universal's spectacular picture, "Air Mail," closing its run at the Arcadia theatre today, but one day remains for theatre-goers to see the widely hailed classic of the government mail flyers and the dangers they face in the line of duty. "Air Mail," according to Manager Garner, is the first screen dramatization of the little publicized but intrepid men who wing their way "through wind, through rain, through sleet, through snow" to put through the mail. Adventurous, romantic, thrilling, the film is said to give an authentic insight into the colorful lives of the mail pilots. Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien, Russell Hopton and Slim Summerville are the flying quartet who provide the thrills of "Air Mail." Gloria Stuart and Lilian Bond are featured in the feminine leads with Leslie Fenton, William Daly, Frank Albertson and others in prominent support. Jord Ford directed.

Old Timer Tells of the Wild and Woolly Days of the Old West

By United Press.
TAHOCA, Tex.—Buckskin Bowden, who lived at old Fort Griffin in the hair-raising West Texas years between 1868 and 1880, is back with tales of "Bad Nell" and other bygone figures after an absence of 50 years as a prospector in Colorado and Arizona.
His first entry of West Texas was as a runaway 19-year-old in an ox wagon. His return at 84, gray-bearded and stooped, was in an automobile with a family of cotton pickers. Buckskin's advice to youth is not to run away from home and to be honest.
His bachelor life has taken him to many wild places in the southwest but the wildest, he said, was Fort Griffin when "Bad Nell," woman outlaw, "Joker Jack," Nat Buckham and Tol Bowers, saloon keepers, held sway. The fort was young, the country wild and the times dangerous.
"There were fights every night and killings were pretty common in spite of the soldiers being there," Buckskin recalled. "The soldiers had to keep a heavy guard all the time to keep from getting their horses and supplies stolen. They were afraid to leave the fort except in groups of at least three or four."
"I read in the papers last year about some noted women outlaws—Calamity Jane, Poker Alice, Belle Starr and some others. I didn't know these ladies but I knew 'Bad Nell' and Fort Griffin better than any man, I reckon."
"Nell was an outlaw and a thief and a poker player, a good shot with a pistol and as good a horse as any man—and she played her game solitary. Otherwise she was a nice girl morally and had nothing to do with the hundred or more other tough women around the fort. I was her best friend, I guess and just a casual acquaintance at that."
When Nell came to Old Man Johnson's ranch near the fort in 1876, Bowden said, she dressed as a boy, went under the name of Neil, rode herd all day and bunked in the same room with four men for six months before anyone knew she was a woman.
It was Poker Jack who gave away her secret, when Buckskin and Nell went together to a Christmas celebration in Jack's saloon. She threatened melodramatically to "bore" Poker Jack if he breathed her name again or revealed her sex, but took him in to a cleaning at poker months later when she found he had talked.
Nell went later to Jacksboro and then to the Indian Territory with a man she had married several years before. Bowden "reformed" and worked on various ranches in Colorado and Arizona.
The French generally agree that the American building will be the most beautiful embassy in the city. In general design it fits with its neighbors, the Crillon hotel building, the ministry of navy and the St. Florian palace of Baroque of Rothschild, the only other structures on the great open square which is generally admitted to be the most beautiful place in the world.
The government building, designed by two American architects, Delano and Aldrich, of New York, now stands completed except of its interior finishing. The exterior is in French limestone and its three stories and flat sloping roof will carry the general line of the Rothschild mansion. This also goes for the other Eastland people who backed Ranger. Jails Are Called Schools for Crime
By United Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Prisons of the United States are nothing more than universities of crime in the opinion of Dr. P. Yessel, director of the 12 years' prison system at Rotterdam, Holland.
"He was recently retired from his official duties and is on a world tour, and has been inspecting prisons and prison camps in this country."
"It is not right, as they do it in this country, to put young men, first offenders, in with murderers, and seasoned criminals," he criticized.
"When the prisoners pass down the corridors of the jails of Holland, they wear masks. They wear masks when they meet in the chapel, when they gather to sing, or take exercises.
"The only contact they have is with men from reclassifying associations, who send notes to the prisoners to talk with the prisoners. Soon the prisoner responds to this kind of treatment. He is re-educated."
Prohibition and tariffs have helped fill America's prisons, Dr. Yessel, who Scheppe said. Prohibition creates crime and violation of the law, he said.
"Tariffs obstruct the international flow of goods. You sell more than you bring in. The gold comes to you. You expand, go up. Then you go down, down, down."
"And then you have unemployment and your jails are filled. Then you must build more of them. Some jails in your country are so overcrowded that two are put in one cell together. That is bad."

Eyes of France Hopefully Upon Roosevelt Era
By United Press.
PARIS.—No American president-elect has been watched so keenly, or will henceforth be subjected to such close observation in France as Franklin Roosevelt.
His family names are fortuitously familiar in French ears. The name Franklin is the family name of perhaps the first great American known in France. The name Roosevelt recalls a popular president, one loved even more on this side because of his ardent though unfulfilled hope of commanding his own troops by the side of the French in the World war.
Beyond the mere recollection of the name, the man Roosevelt commands interest here due mainly to his espousal of a liberal tariff program and his avowed antipathy to the prohibition regime.
The democratic majority in both house and senate is looked upon in Europe with anxious eyes by leaders attempting to put through programs in parliament where shifting political parties make tenure of office brief.
France feels she will soon know where she stands in the eyes of Washington, and the French press accordingly reflects a grateful view.
The natural sympathies France has for a man favoring the return of wine and beer are evident in most of the articles about the president-elect. Having lost many wine markets in Europe, France looks eagerly to a renewed and growing commerce in wines and liquors with the United States.
Although it was a democratic regime in the United States, under Wilson, which helped forge the League of Nations, France is not anticipating any sudden entry of the United States into the league, but it does feel more secure in the belief that Washington will give the league its constant and attentive collaboration.

ROAD COURSE IS CHANGED.
By United Press.
ROCHESTER, N. H.—The Willey homestead, which has stood by the roadside between here and Union for more than 200 years, no longer stands there. But it's the road, not the homestead, which has moved. The newly completed cement highway does not follow the crooked route of the old stage-coach road which it supplants.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN
BY SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer
"THE proof of the pudding may be in the eating, but the pudding sauce is also a very important. While the sauce is secondary to the pudding, nevertheless it can do much to make or mar the dessert.
The pudding sauce must furnish any lack in the pudding itself and must emphasize the flavor of the pudding by contrast or delicacy of flavor. The rest of the menu has bearing upon it, too, since a meal made up of rich foods should not be followed by an over-rich pudding sauce.
A baked pudding with a tendency toward dryness should be served with a liquid sauce. There are many varieties of liquid sauce, all of varying degrees of richness. "Standard" cream is an excellent sauce of moderate richness that is suitable for puddings of produced flavor. A sauce thickened with cornstarch is good with a rich pudding. Sauces thickened with eggs are richer than those thickened with cornstarch or flour, and although the rule is not arbitrary, egg sauces usually are served with chilled desserts.
Hard sauce, that rich concoction made of creamed butter and sugar, is particularly good with hot puddings if they are not too rich of themselves.
Rich, sweet puddings are improved when they are served with a liquid fruit sauce. The contrasting flavor and lack of butter, cream and eggs in the sauce brings out the best in the pudding.
Whipped cream is a popular sauce for many puddings.
Flavoring should be added to hot sauces after they are thoroughly cooled and just before serving so that none of the taste is lost."

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Chilled tomato juice, cereal, cream, fried cornmeal mush with maple sirup, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Scalloped macaroni and oysters, hearts of celery, graham bread, lemon jelly cake, milk, tea.
DINNER: Baked liver, scalloped potatoes, buttered turnip onion and orange salad, steamed carrot pudding with foamy sauce, milk, coffee.

Foamy Sauce
Foamy sauce is good with steamed puddings.
One-half cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla.
Cream butter in top of double boiler over hot water. Gradually add sugar, beating constantly. Add egg yolks and beat over hot water until foamy. Remove from heat and beat in vanilla.

Sterling Sauce
Sterling sauce is another popular sauce for steamed puddings. It is lighter than hard sauce in texture, but is a rich sauce.
One-half cup butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons sherry or 1 teaspoon vanilla, 4 tablespoons milk.
Cream butter and gradually beat in sugar. Add milk and flavoring drop by drop, beating constantly to prevent separation. Keep cool until ready to serve.

New U. S. French Embassy Meets Nations Approval

By RALPH HEINZEN,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
PARIS.—The new $1,500,000 United States embassy and government building here now has been completely erected and the French editors and citizens, who voiced their fears that the building would spoil the harmony of Place de la Concorde agree that its erection has completed the balance of the eighteenth century designs of Gabriel.
The French generally agree that the American building will be the most beautiful embassy in the city. ## Scotch Pressing For Home Rule

By United Press.
LONDON.—Scotland, suffering more acutely from poverty and unemployment than any other part of the British Isles, is pressing its demand for home rule.
Led by the Duke of Montrose, the movement is sweeping the north with a momentum that soon threatens to make it one of the biggest domestic issues in Great Britain.
Since the Union of 1707, ending a period of bloody strife, Scotland and England have had a common parliament. Since then Scotland has watched her sister nations of the empire draw away from the mother country, one by one, to establish the National parliaments and take control of their own policies, foreign and domestic.
Two strong and influential parties have been formed to direct the fight for Scottish home rule. The one led by the Duke of Montrose aims at introducing a bill in the London parliament, granting the creation of a separate Scottish parliament, which would be the final authority on matters affecting Scotland.
The largest, however, is that known as the National Party of Scotland, founded four years ago "as the result of repeated failures of English-controlled parties to obtain any measure of self-government."
This organization demands a parliament which not only shall control Scottish affairs, but shall share with the English parliament the right to direct the whole British Empire. Representatives from each parliament would form a council to control all empire policies, and their decisions would be submitted to each parliament.
An effort now is being made to unite the National party and the "moderate" followers of the Duke of Montrose.
