LEGISLATIVE RELIEF FOR ROAD BOND COUNTIES

Gov. Ross S. Sterling will have a special session of the Texas legislature on his hands early in September. Now the main purpose of the legislative body will be to assume payment of county road bonds. This is all important. It will lift a crushing load from many counties and the sum total to be assumed is approximately $75,000,000. These county bonds were issued for state highway purposes. They are heavily taxed on the farms and the ranches and the homes of the people in town or country. It is equitable as well as honest that the load should be carried by the state highway gasoline tax funds. This is the plan of the governor: One cent of the gasoline tax would be put aside to pay off bonds which counties have voted for the construction and maintenance of state highway roads that were floated in the long ago by progressive taxpayers who wished to place their state first in a system of highways which promised in time to cover the state. This will be real relief for the counties of Texas. It will not be bunk relief or bunk promises never to be filled which have been scattered like the leaves from the trees in fall by proxy candidates and the proxy spellbinders on the road ever since the coming of early springtime.

Another proxy promissory plan will miscarry. It will be bludgeoned by the people as well as the lawmakers. It is the plan to divert $10,000,000 from the highway fund to the general revenue fund, in the face of the homestead amendment to the constitution which will be adopted by an overwhelming majority at the November election. This will afford relief in the sum of $3000 tax exemption on all homesteads. It will be real relief to thousands of home owners in city and country. It had the sweeping endorsement of Sterling and his administration, and that grand old warrior of 50 years on the firing line. Rep. F. C. Weinert, made the battle of his life in forcing submission of this amendment to the voters of Texas.

Millions will be appropriated for highway work at the coming meeting in September and a huge highway building program which includes the matching dollar for dollar of the federal aid item of $15,000,000 will furnish work at fair wages not only for the thousands now employed but for the thousands of idle citizens of Texas who are ready to tackle the jobs which will be offered. There are happy days coming. There are prosperous days coming. There are days coming when the army of the unemployed will be reduced to the minimum. These are the signs of the times the country over. Constitutional government has never been forced to trial in Texas. Proxy government has been given the acid test and after that test it was repudiated at the polls by the sovereign who are proud of the history of their commonwealth and the records which were made by men ever loyal to oath of office, the constitution, the laws of the land and the best interests of all the people.

SENATOR KEY PITTMAN HAMMERS THE HARD BOILED

Senator Key Pittman (d), of Nevada, is on the trail of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He is the champion of the states who claim their relief resources have been exhausted and private charities drained. This Nevada senator charges usurpation of authority and nullification of the clearing intent of congress in voting a $300,000,000 fund to relieve local and state unemployment distress. Mere certification of needs by governors are not accepted. State executives must prove their assertions. Furthermore, they must conform to the R. F. C. interpretation as to what constitutes "adequate measures of self help." Moreover, he said that the R. F. C. has announced as its settled policy to demand that "heavier state and local taxation be imposed and further appeals made to private charity before any of the Garner-Wagner funds are to be advanced to help relieve distress and destitution throughout the coming months." The Nevada senator asserted the R. F. C. is exceeding its authority in rebuffing governors' appeals and telling them "to go back home to convene special sessions of legislatures to raise taxation."

When a drouth swept the country in the not remote past, it was declared the policy of the republican administration to advance loans to drouth stricken farmers for the purpose of buying feed for their livestock and seeds for planting or replanting, but it was unconstitutional to loan the farmer pinched by drouth and other handicaps to borrow money from the government for the purpose of buying food to feed his wife and children.

It is all in the record.
Never in American history was a more inhuman and non-civilized policy outlined by any administration from George Washington down to Herbert Clark Hoover.

The time has come when even rich people must weigh the value of a dollar. The busy housewife takes time nowadays to read carefully the advertising columns of her newspaper in order to find goods of quality at reasonable prices.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

THAT advertising speeds up success.
Truthful advertising is nourishment that the people can easily digest, and will pay any business concern that uses it persistently.
Competition is keener today than it has been in years and this makes it necessary for business concerns to pay greater attention to the work that advertising does.
Truthful, persistent advertising compels attention and always creates favorable impressions. It aids sales with its convenience, economy and effectiveness.
Advertising is vital to the success of every business. Persistent advertising indicates quality and value and creates confidence in the minds of the buying public.
Quality goods well advertised sell and keep on selling.
Advertising builds business and, by increasing volume, cuts down overhead--nothing strange about that. It is being done everywhere.
For high quality at sane prices, advertised goods are best.

DAILY WASHINGTON LETTER
BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON--If all the people who have muttered this year that they were going to vote for Norman Thomas actually would do so there would be a bad case of shakes and shivers in Wall Street next winter. The high-water mark of the Socialist candidate's popularity probably came around the time of the national conventions of the two major political factions, when everyone realized that here was another contest between the same old Republican and Democratic parties, which looked more alike than ever. Being forced to choose between Hoover and Roosevelt was another thing that seemed to irk a lot of people after it became apparent that Roosevelt wouldn't be blocked at Chicago. It is probable that both the major candidates were at about their lowest ebb in public esteem, insofar as concerns 1932. And it was then that you heard so many voters saying, grimly and as if they expected to shock their listeners rather badly: "I'm going to vote for Norman Thomas."

Changing Attitudes
IT'S a long time since a campaign year found so many citizens willing to take second glance at radical and experimental proposals in economics and politics, so Thomas gets more of a hearing. In the last three years many Democrats and Republicans have come to favor measures which were once sponsored almost alone by the Socialists. The Socialists, candidates and platforms, come smack out for what they want. They stand, among other things, for social ownership and management of life's necessities--land, natural resources and principal means of production and distribution, compulsory minimum wage laws, prohibition repeal, a five-billion-dollar public works bill, five-day week and sharp reduction in work hours, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and heavy taxes on incomes, inheritances and land not occupied by the owners.

May Get 2,000,000 Votes
OF course a lot of them won't do anything of the sort. Many Democrats who used to profess to despise Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt are getting over it. Hoover's position seems to have improved. Most voters are not of the type to vote for a man when they know he can't win. But Thomas is going to poll a large vote. Some conservative observers think he will get at least 2,000,000, which would be twice as many as any Socialist candidate in this country ever had before and seven times as many as Thomas polled in 1928. It was Eugene V. Debs, serving a term in the federal penitentiary for a war-time speech, who got a million votes in 1920. There are those who think the Socialist vote this year might be multiplied two or three times if it were not for the widely held theory that a ballot for Thomas is just "a vote thrown away."

State Hospitals Cared for Many

AUSTIN.--San Antonio state hospital cared for 2,591 patients in June, the largest number of inmates of any of the state's eleemosynary institutions, the state board of control reported this month. The highest average monthly salary paid in state eleemosynary institutions in June was $87.23, paid at the state juvenile training school. The lowest average monthly salary was $45.18 paid at the state tuberculosis sanatorium. The Terrell state hospital led in expenditures for supplies and maintenance for the month with a total of $28,837. Only $1,065 for supplies and maintenance was spent at the state colored orphan home, which had 88 inmates and a staff of 13 employees.

Marked Ballots

tics, I ask you to give this your sincere consideration. "JOHN HART, "For Tax Assessor." Joe H. Jones, criminal district attorney of Eastland county, has issued a statement concerning the distribution of marked ballots to the voters in which he quotes the statute which makes it an offense for anyone to use such a ballot. The statement by the district attorney reads in full as follows: "My attention has been called to a marked ballot that has been mailed to various persons in Eastland county. Article 242 of the penal code reads as follows: "Any judge, justice, or citizen to answer under oath before he secures an official ballot whether he has been furnished with any paper or ballot on which is marked the names of any one for whom he has agreed to vote, or for whom he has been requested to vote, or has such paper or marked ballot in his possession, and he shall not be furnished with an official ballot until he has delivered to the judge such marked paper or ballot, if he has one. Any person who gives, receives or secures or is interested in giving or receiving an official ballot or any paper marked, written or printed in his possession as a guide by which he could make out his ticket, shall be fined not less than $100 nor more than $500 and be confined in jail 30 days." "I do not know the author or authors of such ballots, but will exert every effort to bring to light, and prosecute vigorously the guilty party or parties. The purity of the ballot must be preserved." (Signed) JOE H. JONES, "District Attorney."

Hides Four Bits; Goes to Hospital

HARRISBURG, Pa.--John Egresitz's anxiety to hide a 50-cent piece from a friend brought him to a hospital where an esophagoscope was needed to locate the hiding place and remove the coin. John and a friend were walking home, and it was a long distance. The friend asked John to lend him seven cents for car fare. "This is all I have, search me," John is quoted as replying while holding out three pennies in one hand and using the other hand to hide the half-dollar in his mouth. A few minutes later John was gasping and in pain. "Gosh, swallowed the half-dollar I stuck in my mouth," he exclaimed.

TROOP STUNTS

Troop No. 8 of Brownwood pulled what they called a "bear hunt" at their last meeting night. They persuaded Toots Gilliam, life guard at Lakewood, and Herman Britt, senior patrol leader, to act as bears and the rest of the troop were the hounds. The hounds had strings of yarn tied on their wrists and ankles, as did the bears, and the rest of the game was to see who could secure the greatest number of strings during a stated time.

Re-registration

Troop 17 of Breckenridge re-registered this week with the following troop officers: T. Barton Clay, scoutmaster; Joe Hulm and Gaines Shultz, assistant scoutmas-

Sleeping Sickness Toll Is Now 22

By United Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—Encephalitis lethargica—commonly known as "sleeping sickness"—caused the death of at least 22 persons in Pittsburgh in 1931, it was revealed here recently.

The prevalence of the comparatively rare, and apparently incurable, disease, was revealed by Dr. C. B. Maits, Pittsburgh director of health, after the 11-year search of a Pittsburgh man for a cure was disclosed.

The Pittsburgh resident, who does not wish his name revealed, has spent a fortune in an effort to find a cure for the disease with which his sister is afflicted. Although he has answers to his inquiries from all parts of the world, he has found no one with a cure. It has been estimated there are about 340 new cases of the disease in the United States each year. In 1921 the highest number of new cases reported in the United States in any one year was reached—1,822.

Some physicians believe there may be some relation between the ailment and influenza, because of the appearance and growth of the two together in many instances. Dr. Maits said he knew of "no cure at the present time for this disease."

MAYOR PUT IN STOCKS

Railway Progress Is Summarized

By United Press.

WASHINGTON.—Summarizing the tremendous strides in railroad building during the last 10 years, R. H. Ashton, president of the American Railway association, has given assurance that facilities would be utilized even more fully in the future to insure greater safety and efficiency of operation.

"The railroads of today," Ashton said in a public statement, "are no more like those of 30 years ago than the present automobile is like the early models of the horseless carriage period."

Ashton detailed the more important recent advances, which result in tremendous saving, as follows: 1. Development of a chemical treatment of water used in locomotive boilers to prevent corrosion. 2. Chemical treatment of crossings which trebles their life. 3. Improvement of locomotive combustion to a point where 137 tons of coal will transport 1,000 tons a mile where 197 tons were required in 1920.

Dude Ranch Helps Youth Get Degree

FORT DAVIS, Texas.—A dude ranch which Johnny Prude started as an experiment has put him within striking distance of a degree from Sul Ross State Teachers college and may develop into such a lucrative business he will ultimately devote all his time to it.

Prude enrolled in the school in 1920, but dropped out of school when he married. He taught rural schools in the winter and took summer courses from the teachers' college.

In 1930 he started his riding academy for Sul Ross students, a project which authorities endorsed. In two years the enrollment jumped to 40, and he has employed three college students to aid him.

GASOLINE IS LIKE MILK...

the fresher it is—the better it is!

GASOLINE won't "keep." The older it gets—the weaker it gets. And as staleness increases—power decreases.

The "light ends" of gas—important "easy starting" elements—evaporate and a chemical change takes place—so that the longer gas is stored, the less power it gives. Too, stale gas is stickier—more apt to foul valves and carbureter. More apt to knock and thump.

The whole petroleum industry has long known these facts—has searched for a way to halt the deterioration of gasoline.

During the past several years, Gulf has worked on the problem—has finally developed a refining and distributing system that assures the motorist of getting FRESH, full-powered gasoline.

First, by giving you the best gasoline that can be made—by so refining this gas as to take out certain complex elements that cause rapid deterioration. Hence, Gulf gas stays FRESH longer.

Second, by getting this FRESH-MADE, FULL-POWERED gas to you in a hurry.

The whole vast Gulf organization has been geared up to handle gas almost as a dairy handles milk. Gulf has carefully located its huge refineries in many sections of the country, so that a stream of FRESH gas can be easily kept flowing into every one of the 45,000 Gulf filling stations. Gulf tank trucks speed FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day in the year.

You pay for power. Get it—all of it. Get FRESH-MADE GAS—delivered FRESH. Get Gulf. Use it exclusively. Your motor will be cleaner, quieter, faster.

WHEN Duncy and the monkey stopped before the jail, kind Duncy hopped right down and said, "I'll go inside and tell the judge we're here.

WHEN Duncy walked outside the jail he heard a loud and merry "Hail!" It quite surprised him when he saw the other Tintinimates there.

The monkey then said, "It's my turn to do a favor. You will learn that I'm appreciative. Come along, now. Follow me!"

The monkey race track's near at hand and we will see some races grand. They'll also be as funny as you ever hope to see.

AND that was right. The race track was an interesting place because the seats where all the monkeys sat were made of limbs of trees.

The monkey said, "The race is set to start. A thrill you're going to get. Now, make yourselves real comfortable and sit down, if you please."

A smile soon spread on Scouty's face. Said he, "Here comes the monkey race." And then a monkey dashed by with another on its back. The Tintinimates said, "My, what fun! That's how a monkey race is run. The little fellow wings unless he falls off to the track."

Finance Facing Big Problem of Cutting Budget

By SAMUEL DASHIELL, Press Staff Correspondent.

ARIS.—With the 1932 budget being probably $2 millions of dollars, Minister of Finance Louis Martin and Minister of Budget Manreze Palmade, formed the cabinet that measures will be studied during the month, which it is hoped will care of an anticipated $1 million franc deficit, but which may reduce the total expenditure.

The remarkable increase of the budget is shown by the following table:

5,191,643,085
47,932,538,415
41,816,364,169
35,246,493,925
36,984,177,670
36,272,419,200
33,137,180,618
37,338,389,202
39,541,443,921
42,444,348,769
45,366,130,593
50,398,167,193
50,640,609,352
41,097,501,752

The tabulation shows the sudden increase from the year 1925, obvious conclusion that the year for 1932 will reach $2 billion.

Minister of Finance Germain accordingly has suggested each minister bring to the cabinet his own project for reducing the expenditures.

Measures also will be made to new law voted in July, calling for a 5 per cent reduction in the salaries of civil and military personnel.

This is to be effected, according to the law, by a reduction in the salaries of employees. This 5 per cent must become effective immediately. It will have the effect of discounting the practice of the government of handing in exaggerated estimates for their departments.

Measures also will be made to overcome the probable $1 million deficit for 1932 are as follows: At least two million will be made up on the 5 per cent restrictions voted in July. The rest of the budget officials will present a report on which the cuts can be made so that the full year budget be eliminated and the budget balanced.

MONA MORAN, born on New York's East Side, married JOHN HARNETT TOWNSEND, millionaire. The strange marriage is approved by Mona's employer, also Townsend's lawyer, who tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her with the understanding that she will occupy her own apartment and have unlimited charge accounts for one year. At the end of that time she must decide whether to become Townsend's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.

Mona believes her bridegroom to be the young BARRY TOWNSEND whom she loves. Not until just before the ceremony does she learn the man is Barry's uncle, Young Barry, who is not friendly with his uncle, has returned to South America where he and STEVE SACCARILLI are partners in a diamond mine. Believing Young Barry lost to her, Mona goes through with the marriage. LOTTY TIE CARR, fashion model, is Mona's closest friend.

Mona's fiancé occasionally does Mona as her husband. He buys a huge diamond, called "The Empress of Peru," for her. Mona tries to soften her husband's bitterness toward his nephew. He tells her that if she will agree that their marriage shall be permanent he will "do the right thing by Barry."

Townsend, who has been ill, dies suddenly on Christmas night. By the terms of the will Mona receives the bulk of his estate with the stipulation that she will lose it if she remarries. Mona feels Barry is entitled to a share of the fortune but there is no legal way for her to receive this.

Now go on with the story CHAPTER XXXII

MR. GARRETSON spoke amiably. "As far as Barry is concerned there is nothing to be done. It isn't necessary. I don't think he would accept any of his uncle's money even if you could offer it. The mine, you say, is a going concern. Suppose this young Saccarelli does own more than half of it! Let Barry wait. At 30 he can buy back his share. Or he can return and enter the family business. There is always a place waiting for him."

"I'll see if lunch cannot be hurried," Mona said suddenly. "I understand, Mr. Garretson. Please! Let's talk of other things."

A servant answered her ring and intimated that luncheon would be served immediately.

Mona and the lawyer sat facing each other across the shining mahogany table. The girl made a lovely picture in the high-backed chair against which her bronzed hair glowed. Black was becoming. Mr. Garretson noted with satisfaction that it was a well selected gown she was wearing.

He did not blame young Barry for anything except not marrying her immediately. The boy, forsaking the usual impetuosity of youth, had delayed. There had been cruel misunderstandings all around. Ah well, possibly youth in itself was recompense. Mr. Garretson sighed.

As he left the Townsend house and walked briskly toward Fifth Avenue in the warm January sunshine, the lawyer said to himself, "She'll find some way to aid Barry!" He sighed for possibly the tenth time that day.

Left alone, Mona stood at the window and tapped the sill absently. She felt no keen loss as she would have had she and her husband seen more of one another. Only as she passed his suite on the way to her own did she realize that now she was mistress of this great house. It was hers alone.

In her sitting room she paused at the little French telephone, called Pilgrim's and asked for Lottie.

"Dine with me tonight!"

It was agreed without delay. Lottie had come to the telephone only a few moments before she was expected on the floor. She assured Mona that the rose taffeta she was wearing was "a knockout."

"You ought to buy it, Min," Lottie insisted.

"All right, I'll buy it for you."

Smiling, Mona replaced the instrument. It was pleasant to think that any time she wished she could make such gifts. There were so many things she could do for those who had long been deprived, who had never known much happiness. Her own family. The neighbors over on Third Avenue. Friends at the office. There were things she could do for everyone—except Barry!

Lottie arrived in a flurry of cold air, rosy cheeks and sweet-smelling furs. Mona had sent the car for her and Lottie was not without a sense of importance at the flutter she had caused among her co-workers as she entered the limousine.

"They probably think the chauffeur is my boy friend," she admitted ruefully. "There's just no impressing women who don't want to be impressed."

"How much are you making at Pilgrim's?" began Mona speculatively. Lottie guessed instantly that the question was not idle curiosity.

"How much?" she repeated, then broke into a smile. She had flung herself on the chaise longue and stretched her lithe young body out under the soft light restfully. "Oh, it's wonderful to have rich friends. How much am I getting? Oh, about half."

"Half what?" demanded Mona.

"Half what I tell the other girls. But as woman to woman, Mona, I'm getting $80 per. Not peradventure, either. Per week."

"You're worth $100," Mona decided reflectively.

Lottie shrugged. "Henri says there is a depression."

Mona considered slowly. "How would you like to work for me?" she asked. "As my companion. I'll give you $100 and your wardrobe."

"Don't you think I'm companion enough now?" demanded Lottie.

"The other girl smiled. "What does it get you? You like good times, parties, men, admiration. I can't ask you to share that sort of good time with me. That's out of the question. I wouldn't want it any other way. But," her voice grew serious, "your friendship means a lot to me. I really need you. Why not give up your job and live with me?"

"I'd love to," Lottie said slowly. "There's the apartment, though, and Sallie."

"You can't just walk out on her, of course," Mona agreed. The days of trying to meet bills were not so far behind that she had forgotten ways and means. "Anyhow I don't want to ask you to give up your flat. You like it too much. Keep it and I'll see to the expense. Stay there any time you like, but work for me."

"Why, Mona, I'd love to!"

Mona sat in the easiest chair and leaned against it. "Then that's settled," she said cheerfully.

"Now here is my plan." She rose and pressed the bell. "I'll order dinner sent up. It's cozier. Listen, I want to close this house shortly. And you and I are going—"

She broke off as the maid appeared. Mona gave a brief order for the meal which she asked to have served before the fire.

"Twilands?" asked Lottie, a trifle dismayed.

Mona shook her head. "Twilands isn't mine. John left Twilands to Elizabeth and Barry."

"He did!" Lottie said scornfully. "So he did that much for Barry!"

"That, at any rate. And I'm going to do more." Briefly she outlined her conversation with Mr. Garretson earlier in the day.

"But what can you do for Barry, asked Lottie, puzzled. "If the money's all tied up this way?"

"That's why I'm engaging you to be my companion and secretary," Mona pointed out seriously. "You can think of a way!"

"Maybe," Lottie's tone was doubtful. "Listen, Mona, if my job depends on finding a way to ladle out $10,000,000 to Barry maybe I'd better not resign from Pilgrim's. I don't see how—"

"Don't be silly. I want you anyway. But I am hopeful!"

DINNER arrived and the girls drew easy chairs before the fire. The butler busied himself with gleaming silver and white linen. Then he left the two alone over their coffee.

"It's the life!" sighed Lottie. "I'll take you up on that offer, Mona."

When the servant appeared to remove the remains of dinner Mona asked him to bring in a newspaper. She searched it carefully in silence.

"Stock market?" asked Lottie, at ease on the chaise longue, her arms flung over her golden head.

"Shipping news," said Mona quietly as the servant closed the door. "It's to be a secret, Lottie."

"A secret?"

Mona, scanning the page, nodded. Then, her finger on a single item, she rose triumphantly. "The Mirandas sails a week from tomorrow, Lottie."

"I don't get you, darling. The Mirandas is for machinery, I thought."

"She carries passengers. How would you like to go to South America, Lottie, to see Steve?"

Lottie sat up straight, her blue eyes glistening, her hair ruffled from contact with the pillow.

"Mona Moran!" she cried. "I'm slipping! I've been your companion for 20 minutes and it's taken both of us all this while to think of that!"

CANDIDATE FOR

Railroad Commissioner

(4-Year Unexpired Term)

THOMPSON'S PLATFORM

The Railroad Commission regulates the railroads, trucks and busses, oil and gas business, and gas utilities. Because of the importance of these industries and the part the Commission plays in the development of our great natural resources, the office of Railroad Commissioner directly affects the economic welfare of each individual citizen.

I stand for a fair deal to all concerned, always keeping in mind that the people's interest should come first. Every side of all questions coming before the Commission will be given a fair hearing and a prompt decision.

The railroads are necessary. They should be given fair treatment. Trucks and busses are here to stay. They fill an important gap in our transportation system. They will not be discriminated against.

The oil and gas business has become so important in Texas that our general business now depends largely upon prosperity of this industry. It is the duty of the Commission to foster and conserve these natural resources for orderly development.

I stand for a fair rate in gas utilities—fair to producer and the commissioner; fair to the utility and fair to the public. I respectfully ask the support of the Democratic voters of Texas in the coming election.

To the Voters of Eastland County:

We the undersigned oil operators and business men engaged in associated lines of business in Stephens County heartily endorse the candidacy of Ernest O. Thompson for Railroad Commissioner of the State of Texas, and solicit your vote and co-operation in securing his election:
