NOTED TEXAS EDUCATOR DIED TODAY

WAS FIGURE IN FORMING TEXAS UNIV.

Dr. Oscar Henry Cooper Dies At His Home In Abilene.

ABILENE, Aug. 21.—Dr. Oscar Henry Cooper, head of the education department of Simmons College and author of the legislative bill which led to establishment of the University of Texas, died here at 10:10 a. m. today.

The noted educator had been in ill health for the past month and his sickness became suddenly serious over the week-end.

Dr. Cooper's wife, their three sons and only daughter were at the bedside when he died. The elder son, Oscar H. Cooper, Jr., arrived from New York City Saturday night and found his father unconscious. The other children, Dr. Stewart Cooper, Hubert Cooper and Mrs. Dan A. Gallagher, with their mother, have cared for the sick man during the month-long illness.

He was known as the "father of the public school system of Texas" because of his creative genius in establishing a sound educational system while state superintendent of education.

Dr. Cooper was president of two Texas institutions of higher learning, Baylor at Waco and Simmons of this city.

Dr. Cooper was born on a plantation near Carthage, Tenn., one November 22, 1852.

AIR DERBY RACERS NEAR TEXAS BORDER

YUMA, Ariz., Aug. 21.—John Hardy of Taft, California, inaugurated the second lap of the Cord air derby today when he took off for Tucson in his tiny monoplane.

Hardy's wheels left the runway at 8:33 a. m., MST. He was followed at three minute intervals by the slower of the 56 planes that were entered. Swifter planes were groomed for later take-offs.

Under the handicap system being used some of the fastest planes were "spotted" Hardy's small plane 60 or 70 miles in the 250-mile flight to Tucson.

From Tucson the race will be flown through El Paso and Lubbock, Texas, into Bartlesville, Okla., where the West-East group will be joined by the Atlantic flight wing, which started at Washington, D. C., yesterday. All planes then turn toward Cleveland, the finish.

Movie Employee Goes To Movies

FORT WORTH.—On his first night off in 20 years as a motion picture theatre employe, Harry Gould went to a movie and enjoyed it.

When the Palace theatre closed here recently, Gould, its manager, had his first free night in two decades of service as treasurer and manager of theatres here, in Dallas, and in Waco.

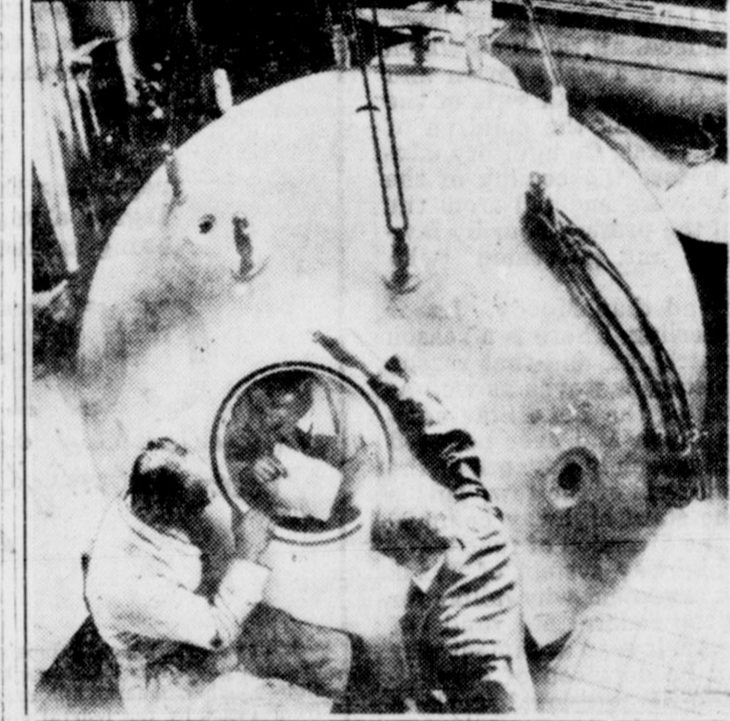

"That was the first picture I ever thoroughly enjoyed," Gould said. "I didn't have to worry about it."

Cotton Goods Sales Show An Upturn

AUSTIN.—Cotton goods sales by the 21 cotton mills reporting to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research made a sharp gain during July, probably as a result of the jump in unfilled orders during the previous month. Sales rose from 2,447,000 yards in June to 3,141,000 yards in July, the highest monthly total for any month since January.

Production was held well within demand, only 2,485,000 yards being produced during the month. This total was about one-fourth below that for June and also for July a year ago, and was 656,000 yards under sales for the month. Unfilled orders topped 17 per cent from the high reached at the close of June to 3,265,000 at the end of July; forward bookings were about half what they were at the end of July a year ago.

CONQUERORS OF 'UPPER SKIES'

Believed to have soared to an altitude greater than any ever before attained by a living being, Professor August Piccard (left) and his assistant, Max Cosyns (right), are pictured above as they posed inside the gondola of the balloon which carried them more than ten miles into the stratosphere from Zurich, Switzerland. The 1750-pound metal gondola, seen below, has nine windows and was fastened to the balloon by eight cables. From the interior of this strange ball, high in the stratosphere, Professor Piccard, a Belgian scientist, made his studies of the cosmic ray and its effect on mankind.

R.F.C. LOANED 55 MILLION TO MANY FIRMS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, loaned or allotted $55,000,000 to more than 400 authorized borrowers during the last 10 days of July, its report, made public today revealed.

In making the first report pursuant to terms of the unemployment relief bill, South Trimble, clerk of the house, revealed a representative of President Hoover telephoned him last week protesting publication.

The corporation reported to Trimble that from July 21 to July 31, inclusive, it had authorized 437 loans, aggregating $45,057,556.10 and loan increases aggregating $1,653,500.

It made available $3,000,000 for purposes of relief in the states and allocated an additional $5,000,000 to the secretary of agriculture.

In making the report public, Trimble added a reply to Representative Treadway, republican, Mass., who had complained the clerk ordered data published, "to gain favor with Speaker Garner."

"Such a charge is ridiculous," Trimble said. "The law gives me no discretion in the matter. Speaker Garner has never attempted to influence me in the discharge of my duties."

The date forwarded is not state collateral on which loans were made. Loans under section 5 of the corporation act, July 21 to 31, inclusive: Brownwood, Texas, The Citizens National Bank, $32,500.

The invitation prize shoot held by Eastland Gun club, Aug. 14, was attended by 114 shooters from this part of Texas. The shoot was scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 14, but was rained out. RANGERS ARE RETURNING TO HOMES TODAY

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—State Rangers who swept into East Texas Sunday from the Rio Grande and other parts of the state, were returning to their home stations today, leaving East Texas law enforcement to Ranger Captain Tom Hickman and his North Texas company of 10 men.

Details of the mysterious movement of practically the entire state Ranger force into the oil field territory, was still guarded with silent fear.

It was unofficially reported here that after the Rangers had been sent into East Texas, protests lead Governor Sterling to countermand the order.

Captain Hickman's men were reported today to be carrying on an extensive fingerprinting campaign in East Texas in an effort to pick up known gangsters as possible participants in recent bank robberies and holdups.

The governor refused to elaborate on this statement. "You may say I just prefer not to send Rangers to East Texas at this time," he told the United Press.

Eastland high school's football prospects are especially bright this year, having six players who are more than six feet tall and whose weights are approximately 175 pounds.

Turkey Sellers Are Charged In Theft

Deputy Steele Hill was called to the outer edge of Eastland Saturday where it was said that some young men were trying to sell turkeys.

Hill found the turkeys with their feet tied and apparently hidden in the brush. The men who it was alleged were trying to sell the turkeys, couldn't satisfy Hill as to the proper ownership thereof.

Charges were filed in Justice Newman's court against Ed Putty and D. D. Hall who are said to reside near Carbon, charging them with the theft of 8 turkeys.

There is a lot of bunk in the speeches and writings of men and women who are figuring in this campaign. More than 40 years ago the brotherhoods and the labor organizations and the school teachers of Texas launched movements that made possible the labor laws and the public school aid laws of Texas. As governor, James Stephen Hogg lent his aid. His successor, Charles A. Culberson, was as loyal to labor and education as "The Great Commoner." Sayers and Lanham were friendly to labor and to education of all the children of all the people. Thomas M. Campbell had fought his way to the top. He gave aid and encouragement to the labor measures submitted by the spokesmen of organized labor, the rail brotherhoods and the champions of public education in Texas. Colquitt, who as a boy guided a plow behind a mule, was ever a loyal friend of labor and the cause of education.

All down the line the records of the rail brotherhoods and the records of labor organizations and teachers' associations tell the story of those who were friendly to labor and assisted in the enactment of labor laws, school laws, textbook laws, rural aid laws—indeed, all the laws which bless and make possible a fair deal for a wage earner and a chance in the battle of life for the boys and girls of the wage earners and the farmers, including the children of tenant farmers under the skies of Texas. Compulsory education laws were enacted long before the coming of the present tribe of politicians. They were enacted from the day Hogg was inaugurated until the present hour by lawmakers who believed in progress and governors who marched with the times.

Labor never had a better friend than Moody. Labor never had a better friend than Sterling. There is a reason why the records should be kept straight, and that reason is it is the material from which history is woven as well as the markers of chief magistrates of the Lone Star commonwealth who had the human touch and ever believed that the rights of man ever should march in advance of the power of money or the special interests of the few. This is one important argument why the state highway commission should not be dismantled by the diversion of funds.

It is an argument why the highway system of Texas should not be destroyed. It is an argument why dollar for dollar should be matched with the federal aid fund of $15,000,000 in the coming two years. It is an argument why thousands of workers should not be deprived of employment at fair wages and thousands of additional workers who are idle should not be kept without jobs to gratify the whims or the caprice of the plans of any proxy politician who is a candidate for office or the proxycrats who are in his confidence.

Organized labor has largely fought its own battles. Organized teachers who are the champions of rural education, as well as higher education, have fought their battles. They should continue to fight them. They know the road, they know the men who were their friends when they needed friends, and while they are about it they should remember that what was known as the Open Port Law was not unrooted or repealed by lawmakers or governors. It was tossed in the ditch by the high court of criminal appeals which declared it to be unconstitutional because it provided for armed guards by corporations to be commissioned by the state and paid their wage by the employing corporation. It is well for wage workers or wage earners, indeed for all wealth makers in country and town, to best consult their own interests and their own liberties by ever remaining steadfast to constitution and laws of their commonwealth.

ANOTHER TEXAS MILL TO BE REOPENED

Kay Kimble of Fort Worth has made a purchase of the Sherman oil mill property which has been shut down for months. He will resume operation soon, providing employment at the start for about 50 men, and a corn mill will be operated in connection with the oil mill. There are hundreds of little industrial items of like nature carried by the newspapers or their weekly co-workers which demonstrate that men of action and men of vision are on the firing line. All point to a resumption of industrial activities and a busy fall and winter for the people of the southwest. On primary election day, for the settlement of the finals of the July primary, it is for the free born and state loving voters of Texas to do their part to prevent that which would be more than a calamity to toilers under Texas skies if the unexpected should happen.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE, Shawnee, Oklahoma

Complaint cannot be made that we seek to draw lessons from the past. It is neither true caution nor true conservatism to accept the doctrine that history repeats itself and that he explanation of every problem is to be found by directly applying the wisdom of previous generations. At the same time there is wisdom to be gained from situations in history, even though largely of negative nature, if sufficient allowance be made for changed conditions and differences in mass psychology.

It may be said that a country cannot in these days be kept contented by sentiment alone. It is no longer a sufficient privilege to be able to live as the subject of a great monarch or as the citizen of a great country. Materialism has indeed made great strides and has somehow identified itself with social reform. Pomp and circumstance and the ideology of personal loyalty have naturally been affected by new notions as to the world's goods and the way in which they should be distributed.

Perhaps in the whole widely dismaying range of political philosophies at the moment the only really foolish people are those who have jumped to the conclusion that even drastic economic and social reform is necessarily incompatible with personal rulership. It may just be that man's material ideas change very much and his emotional requirements very little.

What we need in this country is more sincere, able, energetic men as our lawmakers—men who are not content to follow, but men who will lead.

Was Federal Aid Ever Denied Texas?

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS
DISTRICT NO. 5
January 3, 1927.

CONFIDENTIAL

Mr. Eugene T. Smith, Chairman,
State Highway Commission,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Mr. Smith:

Upon instructions received from the Chief, Bureau of Public Roads, I must advise you that approval on all Federal Aid Projects in Texas which are not now under actual contract is hereby withdrawn. The Chief of Bureau advises me that this has become necessary due to the financial situation and our withdrawal of these projects will be effective until it has been satisfactorily shown that contractors on Federal Aid Projects are receiving all payments due them promptly and further that funds are available and will be available, free from other obligations, to do the necessary reconditioning of completed Federal Aid Projects and the maintenance of projects already completed. Further than this, we are restrained from approving any additional contracts until it has been shown that funds are available for the proposed new contracts.

It is my understanding that your Commission will meet Monday, January 10th, and at that time I will be very glad to discuss this and other matters with you. I need not add that this matter is considered confidential in this office.

We have advised our Mr. Everett by telephone regarding this matter and requested that he inform you accordingly; also, asking that he advise you that this letter is being mailed today.

James E. Ferguson, campaigning for election of "two governors," has sought to raise a question whether federal aid ever was withdrawn from Texas by the federal government, by simply stating at Coleman, so the Associated Press reports, that charges the "federal government had withdrawn highway aid during Mrs. Ferguson's administration were untrue."

Above is a letter from the files of A. R. Losh, district engineer for the U. S. government, which TELLS THE TRUTH.

Mustangs Have Better Material Than During 1391

DALLAS.—Southern Methodist university's nationally known Mustangs whose coast-to-coast gridiron campaigns have brought fame and recognition to Southwestern conference football, face the 1932 season with even better material than that which last year enabled them to compile a record marred only by one defeat and one tie while winning their conference title and playing through a schedule against some of the country's strongest teams.

The Methodists appear certain to repeat as conference champions. If they do, it will be the first time any school has won the title in successive years.

Sixteen of last year's lettermen will return for another year under the Blue and Red, a wealth of experience perhaps unequalled by any other conference eleven. Coach Ray Morrison will be able to start a full team of lettermen with several others held on the sidelines as substitutes.

This group is composed of Kenneth Mills and Fritz Hawn, ends; Maurice Bray, Robert Smith, and John Burleson, tackles; James Riley, Sam Jackson, and Joe Prince, guards; Captain Howard Sprague, Emmett Jordan, L. J. Oliver, Kenneth Travis, Bert Baxter, Robert Walker, Truxton Shaw, and Homer Bass, backs. Besides these, there are several promising squadmen from last year who may break into the lineup.

As usual, the Mustangs have an ambitious schedule. This year, Syracuse and Nebraska universities will furnish the two featured intersectional contests. Syracuse also has a veteran squad returning, and the Fony passing attack which caused Pacific coast fans to call the Methodist an "aerial circus" will find a severe test. S. M. U. will play in Syracuse on Oct. 15.

Nebraska will come here on Dec. 3 under direction of Dana X. Bible, former Texas A. & M. college coach. Lateness of the Nebraska game is conceded an advantage for the Mustangs in their conference campaign. Too often in previous years S. M. U. has crippled her chances for the conference flag by scheduling such teams as Army, Navy, Notre Dame, and Nebraska, in early season. Last year, however, was the first time the Mustangs were able to get other than season openers with the large schools.

Six conference teams appear on the S. M. U. card this season follows: Sept. 24—North Texas Teachers at Lubbock, night game.

Oct. 1—Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Oct. 22—Centenary college, at Dallas.

Oct. 28—Texas university, at Austin.

Nov. 5—Texas A. & M. college, at Dallas (S. M. U. home-coming day).

Nov. 12—Arkansas university, at Dallas.

Nov. 19—Baylor university, at Waco.

Nov. 26—Texas Christian university, at Dallas.

Dec. 3—Nebraska university, at Dallas.

Big Spring Will Hold Golf Tourney
By United Press.
BIG SPRING, Texas.—The second annual invitational golf tournament of the Big Spring Country club will be played here on Sept. 3, 4 and 5, according to plans announced here by the tournament committee.

The tournament will begin with qualifying rounds on Sept. 3. Four rounds of match play to decide the championship are scheduled for the 4th and 5th.

The Country club links have been put in splendid condition, and a fair entry list is expected. Charles Quails of Post, who conquered Obie Bristow of Big Spring in the finals last year is expected to defend his title.

Other outstanding players of West Texas, whose entries are probable include: Bob Scott, Colorado; Pat Kelly, Bob Hervey, Texas; Ed Hennig, Sweetwater; C. L. Jackson, Midland; Morgan Neill, Odessa.

Forty players are expected to qualify from the Big Spring club.

Gaynor and Farrell Young Married Lovers in New Film

That the romantic troubles of young love during the first year are mostly fleeting is the dramatic thesis of the latest Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell comedy drama, "The First Year." Adapted from the Frank Craven stage play of the same name, it presents Janet and Charlie as two entirely understandable youngsters of the present day.

Director William K. Howard is said to have followed closely the unique camera methods and swift-paced dramatic technique that have marked his recent successes, notably "Transatlantic" and "The Trial of Vivienne Ware." As a result of this the Gaynor-Farrell team are said to contribute the crowning performance of their careers.

Miss Gaynor, as the charming, marriageable young daughter of an average American parent in an average American town, is said to combine her characteristic witfulness with a deep understanding of dramatic values. Charles Farrell is her lover again, but this time he marries her and starts an era of hilarious strife.

HORSE KILLS FOXES

MILLVILLE, Ia.—Showing an extreme dislike for foxes, a horse owned by Fritz Niehaus has killed two of the animals on the Niehaus farm this year. The horse took after a fox which was raiding a litter of young pigs and killed it. A few weeks later the horse came to the defense of chickens and killed another fox. Niehaus collected the bounty, kept the pelts.

THE DRY WASHER

The Newfangles (Mou' n' Pop)

By Cowan

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. CORLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, receives a stunning proposal of marriage. Her employer tells her a wealthy client wishes to marry her immediately with the understanding that for a year she shall occupy her own apartment, have unlimited charge accounts, do as she pleases. At the end of that time she is to decide whether to become the man's wife in actuality or secure a divorce.

MONA is to love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, who is the business partner of her old friend, STEVE SACCAHELLI. Barry and Steve operate a diamond mine in South America. Steve, born to poverty, has recently sold a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru."

Six months pass and MONA lurches with her husband. It is the first time she has gone anywhere with him. He tells her he has bought the diamond, "The Empress," for her. MONA, knowing the bitter feeling between uncle and nephew, is to bring about a better understanding but fails.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX

MONA raised startled eyes. "When you are gone?" she repeated. Her husband surveyed her gently. "My dear, do you believe for an instant that I think I shall live forever?" His tone was light but for all that MONA knew he was aware of that which had been concealed from him so carefully. He knew he had been given only a year to live.

For a moment neither spoke. Then the man said cheerfully, "Since life is short and time is fleeting there are several things I would like to do. The first is to see you as frequently as possible. I want to take you about, to show you off if you don't mind the phrase—to provide you with gifts. I want to meet your family, too. I'd like to feel that this rather abrupt move of mine has benefited them in some way. Of course," he added hastily, "I know you're getting everything for them you—Perhaps I can think of something more."

"You are so kind," replied MONA uncertainly. "But you haven't promised to do the one thing I want most. Will you arrange things for Barry?"

He glanced sharply toward her. "Change my will, you mean?" She nodded.

Townsend looked away. "One thing at a time, my dear," he said. It came into the girl's mind that not once had he ever called her "MONA." "One thing at a time," he repeated. "Today let's drop in to call on your family."

He moved forward to give the order to the chauffeur but MONA stopped him. "Maybe I'd better telephone first," she said, trying to hide her confusion. "You know it will be a great event for Mother."

"Why, of course. We'll telephone first." He spoke to the chauffeur then. "Jackson, will you stop at the next corner?"

MONA was to discover that her husband fitted in with the life of the Moran household beyond her most optimistic expectations. After that first visit when Ma had hurried into her new silk gown and, with a single sweep, cleared up "that trash of Kitty's" from the dining room table, when Dad had apologized for his lack of a shave and MONA herself had tried not to show her nervousness, the Townsends came often to the Third avenue flat.

It seemed strange, indeed, to MONA to learn that her husband, with his splendidly erect carriage and distinguished air, was really a little younger than her father. The two men had, it seemed, skated on the same park pond long years before.

Kitty admired her brother-in-law and told Isabel Flynn she was almost tempted to call him "John."

That was the name by which MONA addressed her husband in the presence of the family. With a little tact they had succeeded admirably in presenting a picture of completely happy married life. Even Ma's sharp eyes failed to detect any variance from the usual picture of domestic harmony.

Ma, in fact, was deeply impressed by MONA's "fine man." She would scurry about, serving the inevitable tea—in thin cups now, at MONA's gentle insistence—with delicate slices of lemon. Once the Townsends stayed to dinner and MONA was pleased and even touched to observe her husband's ease in the stuffy little dining room where the obviously "company dinner" of not and heavy foods was spread before him.

THEN came the "grand day" as Mrs. Moran expressed it when the family piled into the big car and was whisked away to Long Island for a shore dinner because Mr. Moran had, in a conversation with his son-in-law, mentioned his fondness for clams such as those served in the old days at City Island.

"Sure, and it makes no difference to the man because we aren't swells," Ma, struggling with her new hat slightly askew on her graying hair, had told Mrs. Callahan after the return from the revelry. "Everything you could think of, mind you, set before us. A whole bill for the waiter. And such style!"

Christmas brought a bewildering load of gifts to the Morane from the Townsends.

"You are so good!" MONA murmured as she moved about her sitting room one snowy mid-December afternoon, tying gifts with gay ribbons and cards and addressing Christmas cards. "Anybody who has money could order gifts for people but you select them! You even sit here helping tie them up."

Her voice faltered slightly. Yes, her husband was, as she had told Ma long before, a good man. There was only one thing that had failed to do and that was to make up his quarrel with Barry.

"All this is fun," Mr. Townsend replied. "I like it." He was seated by the fire and moved a froth of tissue and scarlet cord from the table as the maid brought in tea. It was cozy sitting there before the firelight with the snow falling outside the window.

"We have shoes, a dress, a cloak—well, nearly a whole outfit for Kitty," MONA went on, checking over her list and touching several packages as she spoke. "You pour tea, will you, Anna?" she said to the maid.

"Let's get her a purse and put some change in it," Mr. Townsend suggested. "I'll get tickets for a musical comedy, too, and she can take her gang."

"Her gang?" asked MONA, puzzled. "That's what she calls them," her husband responded, amused. "Miss Flynn, the Misses Gordon and several others."

MONA knew Isabel Flynn but "the Misses Gordon" were new to her. "I met quite a few of them en route to the movies that Sunday afternoon when I drove over to pick you up," he replied, accepting the tea cup the maid offered.

HE had met them indeed. Kitty, spying the big car, had literally swarmed aboard, introducing him to the other girls as her "brother John." "Brother John" thereupon had responded nobly. "The gang" had been taken inside and driven to the 86th street motion picture house.

Music, being most essential in a variety screen program, is most attractively presented in "The Voice of the Street Singer," which offers Arthur Tracy and Norman Brokenshire.

Lovers of sports and all who are thinking about vacationing in cooler climes will find "Sports Slants," Unit No. 4, most appropriate entertainment, as it shows international champions of skiing, sleighing and tobogganing, demonstrating these winter sports at Lake Placid and St. Moritz.

No screen program would be complete without a newsreel and Paramount News is Unit No. 5, bringing to the screen views of the latest world events, and rounds out the program.

Second Summer Bargain Show At the Arcadia

Theatregoers are due for another rare treat at the Arcadia theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday when the second summer bargain show will be presented at regular prices according to announcements made today by Manager W. S. Wald of Paschall-Texas theatres here.

The second summer bargain show is composed of five big units of screen entertainment that have been handpicked for their variety and amusement value. It might be said that it is a perfect screen show as it contains all the elements that go to make up such a program.

Unit No. 1, which leads the second summer bargain show, is Constance Bennett's latest picture "What Price Hollywood." It is heart touching drama that rips the veil from the world behind the screen and shows the joys and heartbreaks of the people who are responsible for our screen entertainment. Supportist Miss Bennett is a superlative cast that includes Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton and Gregory Ratoff.

The comedy element, furnished by Unit No. 2 is "Extra! Extra!"

Dutch Treat Party at Lyric

The Lyric theatre is a pleasant retreat these warm afternoons and evenings, for the women who are shopping, and who drop in to be cooled, by the ice chilled air, and enjoy a moment of rest, and is very popular with the young people in the evening, as well as grown-ups, who have been assembling in informal little parties throughout the summer, and attending the show in a bunch.

Saturday evening a little group of young people gathered at the home of Miss Cecil Seale and made up a regular Lyric theatre party, for the intriguing "Beauty and the Boss," which drew a crowded house both matinee and evening. The delectable men of David Manners, and the devastatingly charming attack on his affections by Mae Marsh, were thoroughly enjoyed.

Birthday Dinner Party

Mrs. J. Dick Deck arranged a delightful dinner party, the last of the week, honoring her husband's birthday.

The round table was set in a private room at Connell hotel, of which Mr. and Mrs. Deck are assistant managers.

Places at table indicated with attractive cards, covers for Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Doughtie, Mr. W. A. Deck, Mrs. Joan Deck Dackon of New York city, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Dick Deck.

A mound of roses and ferns centered the table, and later a birthday cake, topped with twinkling tapers, held the honor place.

After dinner the party was joined by C. B. Condit, and two tables of bridge completed the evening, a very delightful one.

The young people met at the Lovett residence at 7:30 p. m., and motored to their destination.
