

LESSON-SERMON GIVEN
"GOD'S WILL" was the lesson-sermon given in all Churches of Christ, Sunday, Aug. 14. The golden text was from Hebrews 10:38, 39: "Now the just shall live by faith; but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him. But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul."
 Passages from the Bible included Psalms 84:2: "My soul, when I awake, will praise thee, O Lord; and I will be glad in thy word."
 The service also included the reading of "Science and the Soul" by Mary Baker Eddy (1821-1917); "The evidence of the Holy Spirit, Soul, is palpable to the spiritual sense, and is not to be confused with the material sense, which cognize only that which is the opposite of Spirit."
 A town in Tennessee made a bathing suit for its inhabitants. We understand the blaze was visible for miles.

LOTTIE HERE TODAY
 MONA MORAN, receptionist in a Wall Street law office, is in love with BARRY TOWNSEND, rich and socially prominent, whom she met through "THEY SAID" REEL, her childhood sweetheart. Steve and Barry were just returned from South America where—largely by chance—Steve became associated with Barry in operating a diamond mine, once believed worthless but now valuable. Steve owns a huge diamond called "The Empress of Peru." Gangsters try to steal the stone but he outwits them. Steve has earned Mona's gratitude by befriending her errand boy, B.D., sending him to South America and giving him a job in the mine.
 Mona needs $500 for hospital treatments for her invalid father. Her employer agrees to loan her the money and then makes an amazing proposal. He tells Mona a wealthy client of the firm wishes to understand her immediately with the understanding she shall occupy her own apartment, have unlimited accounts and drive whatever she wishes for one year. At the end of that time she may become the man's wife in actuality or secure a divorce. She asks the man's name and is told it is Barry Townsend.
 Mona agrees. Her friend, LOTTIE, who is in a fashionable dress shop, helps her select her wedding costume.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIII
 THE Townsend limousine arrived at Lottie's apartment promptly at 10 o'clock. It remained there waiting until well after 11 because Mona and Lottie had set out at 9:30 to shop. On the list were shoes, hose, gloves, purse and even a cross-point handkerchief.
 Lottie's suit, donned with much twirling and twisting before the mirror, had been pronounced exactly right by Mona. Both girls agreed that it was far better than a new one, hastily selected and not fitted properly.
 Lottie selected a blouse to go with it. "You look simply adorable!" she told Mona as she tucked a stray lock carefully beneath the new blue hat.
 She surveyed Mona approvingly, then dropped to her knees and busied herself with the hem of the skirt. "You say they're opening accounts for you," she went on, rising and scowling at the refractory hem. "And you're not even going to live at Twilands. Wonder why?"
 "I'm to spend the year—or most of it except the hot months—at the town house," Mona repeated patiently.
 "Learning to be a lady I suppose! Using the right fork. Which sauce to order with the fish. Learning to be a credit to the Townsend family."
 "Well, I've a lot to learn," objected Mona.
 "And I do want to be a credit to them!"
 "What I mean is this," the other girl interrupted. "When you get back right after the ceremony you're going to find time heavy on your hands. No job, no house work. Just time to kill. Well, suppose we step out and buy your clothes together. Maybe I dress like a vamp myself but I know what the well-dressed young 63rd street wife should wear. That will take up part of your time. Of course I'll be busy as a bee myself but I can get off now and then."
 "Busy as which bee?" asked Mona, wrinkling her nose, her disturbing thoughts for a moment forgotten.
 LOTTIE was wriggling into the sleeves of her coat. "The one that hangs around the hive and doesn't work, maybe," she answered. "Still, that's not fair, Min. I did work every day this week."
 "And earned twice what they paid you," Mona said promptly.
 "Do you have everything?" Lottie paused at the door to ask. "Take a last look at this place, Miss Moran. Maybe Mrs. Townsend won't be able to get here often."
 "Don't be like that!" Mona's voice was distressed. "You know I'll always keep all my old friends."
 Lottie slammed the door shut, tried to make sure of the lock and tossed the key into her purse.
 It was a trim little bride whom Jackson, the chauffeur, saluted before he opened the door of the car with a low bow. Privately Jackson decided that the other young lady was decidedly attractive too. The chauffeur, thinking of his own happy but frowsy little wife back in the country, sighed.
 The car glided up Seventh avenue to the park. "I've got an ideal!" Lottie announced suddenly. Staying protests with a smoothly gloved hand, she leaned forward.
 "Jackson," she called through the window which she had opened, ignoring the speaking tube. "Has Mr. Saccarelli's yellow roadster been at Twilands lately? He's a friend of mine. I thought maybe I'd see him today."
 "The yellow roadster?" Jackson thought a moment. "Yes, miss. The yellow roadster was there yesterday. Not at the garage because Mr. Steve never bothers to drive to the garage. I saw the roadster last night parked by the hedge."
 Lottie surveyed Mona triumphantly. "Was it there this morning, Jack?"
 "Mechanically she slipped the thin chain of diamonds about her neck and fastened the clasp.
 "Gone!" Lottie repeated. "You mean Steve didn't want to stay for the wedding, Jimmy?"
 "Hardly, I think, Miss. You see—"
WHATSOEVER Lottie was to see could not be explained at the moment. Mr. Garretson entered the room and murmuring, the butler bowed himself out.
 "Ah, Miss Moran!" Mr. Garretson was saying. "And I'm glad to know you, Miss Carr. You both look very charming."
 "The gardener, sir, with the bouquet, Jimmy's voice came from the doorway.
 The old gardener, hat in hand, shuffled forward to present an offering of delicate pink roses. "I've made every bridal bouquet for Twilands in 30 years," he said.
 "It's beautiful. Thank you!"
 "And you, Miss, if I may say so, are beautiful too."
 Mr. Garretson turned to Mona approvingly. "The ceremony is to take place in the sick room," he said. "Townsend had a slight relapse last evening. Oh, nothing serious! But we thought it best not to allow him to rise. The doctor and nurse are there with the minister. Miss Lottie and I are to be the official witnesses."
 In silence they climbed the stairs. The staircase seemed interminable to Mona but they reached the top and moved down the dim, wide hall. Nearer and nearer to Barry's door. Which one would it be? Ah, here!
 "Everything's ready, sir," a nurse whispered. She moved aside as Mona, large-eyed, clutching the roses, followed Mr. Garretson's gesture and stepped within.
 If only they would give her one moment, just one, with him! "Mr. Townsend has been very ill," the nurse said softly.
 The sick man, lying back on his pillows, opened his eyes. It was not Barry. Mona understood it all in a flash! It was Barry's uncle—the tall, slender man who had been lunching with Mr. Garretson at the Savarin.
 The stern eyes, opening, held the girl's for a long moment. "Miss Moran?" he said. "Thank you for coming. I'm sorry my rascally nephew can't be here to witness our marriage. He insisted on sailing for South America last night."

The TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

THE Tinymites were fairly strong and so it didn't take them long to move the heavy boulder from the little monkey's tail.
 "Was when wee Scouty cried, 'Heave ho,' that they all pushed and made it go. Although the monkey was thankful, it began to sulk and wail.
 "His tail is hurt," kind Copy cried. "I'm going to hold it by my side and see if I can ease the pain." Then at the monkey he smiled.
 "Crawl right into my lap," he said. "I'll very gently hold your head. You needn't be afraid of me. I know that you're not wild."
 The monkey crawled along the ground and soon a very soft spot found. It seemed real pleased to nestle close, and Copy liked it, too.
 He rubbed the monkey's tail with ease, a kindly act that seemed to please. "It's funny," Scouty shouted, "what real kindness off will do."
 "Sing it to sleep," said Windy.
 "I will also let my voice ring high." "There is no use," said Copy, "he is sleeping sound right now."
 "We'd best start out, at any cost, and look for Duncy, who's still lost. Perhaps we'll have to climb some trees. The monkey will show us how."
 SO, in about an hour or so one of the Tinies shouted, "Oh, wake up, you lazy fellow. We are going to seek your aid."
 "A friend of ours is lost nearby. He may be in the trees, up high. You lead the way. We'll follow. We are not one bit afraid."
 The fellow eyed the Tiny crowd and started chattering real loud. Then it sprang up a tree trunk. Scouty shouted, "Here we go!" Six vines were hanging near the trees and so the bunch crawled up with ease. "Where will this take us?" Windy cried. "That's what I'd like to know."
 (The Tinies get a real surprise in the next story.)

Kellogg Company To Add Another $250,000 Factory

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Aug. 15.—Immediate construction of a major addition to the Kellogg plants here to provide new manufacturing and other facilities as an expression of confidence in the future and to give further immediate employment was announced here today by W. K. Kellogg, founder and president of the Kellogg Company, world's largest manufacturers of ready-to-eat cereals.
 Including the new $250,000 plant, factory improvements and additions now under way at the Kellogg Company represent an investment of more than half a million dollars. The new plant will be designed by the well-known architect Albert Kahn, of Detroit, who also planned the Onn J. Kellogg School here.
 "We have implicit confidence in the soundness of this country and the return to prosperity," said Mr. Kellogg. "Our business is good now and we expect it to get better steadily. Therefore, in order to help the present situation and to prepare for the brighter future that is sure to come, we are starting work right now on the additions to our plant."
 "Our plans all through this period have been laid primarily to keep all of our people busy and to stimulate an active flow of our products through the trade by the expenditure of larger sum of money in newspaper advertising and sales promotion than ever before. The results have been very satisfactory and convince us that once the tide turns we will need a greater capacity than we have at present to take care of the business."
 "Significantly, the Kellogg Company is operating under a six-hour day system, with four shifts working daily. Put into effect approximately 20 months ago, the Kellogg shorter-day system has proven satisfactory for both the company and its employees, despite the fact that wage scales were adjusted at the same time so as to offset largely the reduction in the individual employees' working time.
 "Our company adopted the six-hour day in December, 1930, as an immediate means of increasing employment," explained Mr. Kellogg. "The plan has proven satisfactory to everyone. We were able to maintain and subsequently increase the number of our employees and they in turn have found many advantages in their increased leisure. At the same time, our operations now are upon a more efficient basis than ever before."

In the beauty pageant held recently by the Brownwood Lions club, in which the club awarded a prize for the most beautiful girl in each group presented by 16 different out of town Lions clubs, the prize to the Eastland group of girls, was awarded Geraldine Francis.

The statement in Friday's Eastland Telegram, that Maxine Francis, the sister of the winner, was awarded the prize was in error. The two names are so similar that the mistake was easily made. These young girls are the charming daughters of Mrs. Earl Francis, and the similarity between them does not stop at the names. They are sweet and charming, and it would be a case of "how happy I would be with either dear charmer."

County Demonstration Agent Calls Flatwoods Meeting.
Wednesday night of this week at 8 o'clock, there will be a called meeting held in the Flatwood church, to which all the community is invited, especially the rural clubs, as the purpose of the meeting is to select the committees for the Flatwood community fair.

The meeting is called by J. C. Patton, county demonstration agent, and Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, who announce the Flatwood community fair will be held Sept. 15, in Flatwood tabernacle.

Friendship Class Calls.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Maxey received the members of the Friendship class Friday night, who called informally to pay their respects to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gladden, house guests of the Maxeys, and who formerly lived in Eastland.

The assembly was held on the pretty lawn of the home, attractively arranged with chairs, tables, and pendant lights for the occasion.
A delicious picnic supper with everything imaginable good to eat was served at 8 o'clock.
The evening was an informal and delightful one, about 50 people of the Christian church calling.

Old times were renewed and old times discussed. Mr. Gladden was formerly the popular teacher of the Friendship class.

Family Dinner For Relatives.
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Braly had a lovely family dinner Sunday noon for visiting and local relatives, including Mr. and Mrs. Noble Gray of Wichita Falls, who spent Saturday and Sunday in the Braly home; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Beard of Dallas, the house guests of Mrs. May Harrison; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite, and Colin Gray, their son; Mrs. May Harrison.
The Braly's young son, Earl, was also present.

Mr. Beard is the niece of Mrs. Braly; Mr. Gray, her brother, and Mrs. May Harrison and Mrs. Satterwhite her sisters.

Eastland County Home Demonstration Council.
Ten clubs were represented at the Eastland county home demonstration council meeting held in regular session Saturday at 2 p. m., in 91st district court room, with 45 women present.

Mrs. Louis Brock, vice president in the absence of chairman, and minutes by secretary, Mrs. J. S. Turner, Flatwood club, approved, and old and new business disposed of, prefaced the program of reports of delegates, who attended the short course at College Station from July 25-29 inclusive.

These were but partial reports, as those unable to attend will present their reports later.
Mrs. Louis Pitcock of Ranger spoke on "Value of Co-Operation as Agencies," to help rural women, based on co-operation individually, and collectively in organizations.

Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent, spoke on the "Keynote of Short Course," was "Human relationship," that club meetings are valuable not only for demonstration work, but as recreation, which some of the women would not otherwise have, but should find time to attend the twice-a-month meetings.

The meeting closed with the songs, "Let Feet Be Careful," and "Sunbeams." In the sentence prayers by the children formed the dismissal.

Mrs. Lillian Neff, Eastland of Ranger, garden demonstrator for the Ranger club, presented high lights on "Live at Home," program, carried on in the state sub-irrigation a part of her talk, which West Texas uses so much at present, with great help in garden work.

The four "H" pantry, progress and steps that can be taken in this county in this work, during balance of this year, and the 1933 program, was discussed.

Eastland county home demonstration club women have been working on the four "H" pantry, for two years it was stated, the past year in connection with garden demonstration.

Mrs. D. G. Stinebaugh, Grapevine club, presented a fine report on bedroom improvement, in personal work to improve a room, this year. The attic was used and what was once a dark and small apartment, with little windows, admitting less light, was transformed into a seemingly much larger room, through use of yellow paint, which makes light, and was employed in painting an old bed, two chairs, with one upholstered. Two rugs were made, an old dresser remade into a vanity, and table for bed lamp; a desk and wash stand was made, three pictures framed. Entire improvements cost about $7. She stated the room is open to all who are interested in seeing the improvements made. The room reminds one of advertisements shown in magazines, of the improved attic, only it is a much more pleasant one.

Mrs. Stinebaugh concluded with a report on better beds and bedding, a lecture demonstration, given women at the short course, by a representative from Austin.

Miss Ruby Mae Harbin of Miller club reported outline of lecture, "Yourself?" delivered by Hon. Pat M. Neff.

Mrs. J. B. Bills of Flatwood club, presented a report outline of trip to and return from College Station.

Only about half of interesting and helpful things that were presented at the short course at A. & M. were given, and the balance will be presented by other delegates at later meetings.

Some of these reports will be heard at the county federation meeting in September, to be held, with the Bass Lake and Elm Home Demonstration clubs on the third Saturday of that month.

Arrangement was made at this meeting, that county federation meeting will be an all-day session, to which each one is asked to take a basket lunch. Program for meeting will consist of a report contest, with a prize for the best home demonstration club report, and a prize for the best report from town clubs.

The meeting will be on the order of district and state federation meetings, and will be directed by Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. J. Perkins, president, Eastland county federation.

Junior Auxiliary Baptist Church.
The Junior Missionary society of the Baptist church held their regular meeting Saturday morning in divisional groups, with general assembly conducted by L. J. Lambert Jr.

The song service was led by Miss Opal Hunt, and numbers presented, "Let the Word Come In," "I Shall Not Be Moved," "I Would Be True," and "The Coming of Jesus."

Routine business was transacted and the assembly was dismissed with prayer by Bonnie Kate Wood.

The intermediata program was devoted entirely to a Bible contest, based on biblical characters, taken alphabetically by opposing sides, with a certain each, and contest directed by Miss Hunt.

The Junior Girls' Auxiliary and Royal Ambassadors, received in direct missionary lessons through the stories told by Mrs. J. P. Truly, of Brazil, and of the transportation mule.

Missionary work in America was described and a story told, of "Richard and His Printing Press." This related the efforts of a boy who ranted Bible verses on his hand reed, and used them in connection with his association with boy laymates.

The Sunbeam division had session opened with Scripture verse reading by Frances Darby, followed by John Allison, Charles Lovelace, and Lillian Bishop, who presented verses concerning Jesus' love for children.

Mrs. T. J. Pitts, their director, related the history of the hymn, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old," which was written by Mrs. Jennima Luke of Tennessee.

The children sang the song at the conclusion of the story. Other stories were, Henrique and his Bible, and the second, A Brazilian Ray.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
SEA Service Writer

AS each vegetable comes into a season and becomes plentiful, its possibilities must be studied and carefully worked out if the homemaker receives full value and benefit from its possibilities. There are an abundant, varied and altogether satisfactory diet at low cost this time of year, if time and thought are spent in their preparation.

The cooking of vegetables in combinations is a worth-while way to save work and fuel. Mild flavored vegetables especially lend themselves to this sort of cookery. Combined with a strong flavored vegetable, the result is a pleasant and out-of-the-ordinary whole. Turnips and potatoes are a time-honored example of such a combination. Inexpensive vegetables combined with expensive ones frequently make it possible to economize without sacrificing palatability.

Summer squash is a splendid vegetable, but it is often criticized as tasteless because it is thoughtlessly prepared and served. It is especially good in combinations on account of its bland flavor. Combined with tomatoes and cheese it offers a well-flavored main dish of high food value.

Summer Varieties Good
There are several varieties of "summer" squash and they are good source of vitamins. Cynara or "patty pan," crook-neck and marrow all appear in market about the same time and are all deliciously flavored. These varieties, which are very fine-grained and tender, are seldom peeled and the seeds are not removed. It is at this stage of their development.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Orange juice, cereal, cream, eggs poached in milk on toast, milk, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Squash scalloped with tomatoes, pumpkin-nut, baked apple dumplings, milk, tea.

ment that they are rich sources of vitamins.

Instead of mashing or frying summer squash, try steaming it and serving it with a white sauce to which cheese has been added. This dish is quite as desirable for children as for adults. Serve it with a crisp vegetable salad, brown bread and butter sandwiches and a fruit dessert.

A squash salad is unusual and surprisingly tasty. Boil or steam squash until tender. Drain if necessary and cool. Reject seeds and cut the firm part in neat cubes. Combine with shreds of sweet green pepper and serve with sliced tomatoes on a bed of lettuce.

Alternate layers of sautéed squash and tomatoes are seasoned with minced onion and celery, topped with grated cheese and baked in a moderate oven for 20 minutes to make an appetizing baked dish.

Miss Margaret Lyons, who for the past 10 days has been the popular house guest of Miss Florence Killingsworth, left yesterday for her home in Chicago. During her visit here she was honored with a number of informal affairs and acquired a large number of friends, particularly among the younger set of which her hostess is a prominent member.

Florence left this morning for Longview, where she will visit one week in the home of the McDonald sisters, formerly of Ranger. She was accompanied by Miss Pat McDonald, who has been visiting Ranger girl friends. Before her return home Miss Killingsworth will visit at Paris, where she will be the guest of her cousin, Miss Margaret Ann Killingsworth.

HOKY AND SLIDING

Henry L. Farrell

Where for Hornsby?
ROGERS HORNSBY expressed himself as hopeful of acquiring a playing-manager job in the major leagues before another season begins. Where will he go?

One guess is as good as another. Perhaps process of elimination would help toward a conclusion. There are four National League cities where he cannot light. There are St. Louis, New York, Boston and Chicago. Pittsburgh is not likely to dismiss George Gibson after he hauled the team to the top. The same goes for Philadelphia, a club Burt Shotton brought out of the cellar into the light of day.

Cincinnati Antagonistic
BROOKLYN already has signed Max Carey as manager for another year. That leaves only Cincinnati, where Dan Howley has been having one bad break after another for the last three years. But Cincinnati fans have ridden Hornsby for years, and it is doubtful if Sidney Weil would take a chance of antagonizing his dwindling clientele.

There has been a persistent rumor, however, that Dan Howley would not be the 1933 manager of the Reds.

American League Chances
IN what American League cities might Hornsby dwell? Not New York, where Joe McCarthy is strongly in favor. Not Detroit, where Lucky Harris has begun to get good results with the Tigers after two years of bad batting. He has been taken to the Hub team to know the ownership.

One thing is certain. Hornsby cannot be a pitcher. His days on the PITZ have been a failure. He has been a failure in the past. He has been a failure in the past. He has been a failure in the past.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS.—Fashions grow more restless every day. It is appalling how the same frock with a few subtle changes as to collar and cuffs, additional yoke or beltline, looks just as lovely on grandma as it does on 16-year-old Susie.

If, in the calm moments of our hurried lives, however, we sit down and go over this situation with an open mind we cannot but realize how logical it is, nor how it simplifies this thing called "style" which succeeds in getting us all into a bit of a frenzy.

Even the Big Dressmaker, over here—those who belong in that sacred circle of Haute Couture—have accepted this fact which, at first glance, would not seem practical from their point of view. Everything is being scaled down to a much more accurate foundation these days and what little money still exists can purchase better values than ever before.

PARIS.—Black moire, a red leather belt and an ornament of red and silver is the way Patou has of expressing Parisian chic.

He calls the ensemble "Diable," and he is right. It is informally formal, the skirt being neither long nor short, and a removable jacket making it dressy or plain with and without. The skirt is snug over the hips and flared to the hem where it is finished in deep scallops. The jacket is wee and winsome and a tiny scallop over each shoulder is all there is in the way of a sleeve.

Two two-inch tabs cross indifferently in front to draw it together near the throat.

Black over pink is a Vionnet version of the mode. This is very lovely for chignons and laees, especially for afternoon and evening when the affair is a continuous one. Vionnet uses satin on the blouse of one ensemble effecting an Etroch jacket. The full soft skirt falls in curved folds to the ankles and is entirely of black chiffon posed over a slip of double pink chignon.

A COYOTE'S INGRATITUDE
By United Press.
CRAWFORD, Neb.—H. L. Stoneking was kind enough to release a coyote caught in a fence. The coyote bit Stoneking's finger.
